1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the city council or other legislative body of any city in this state to lease lands for a term not less than ninety-nine years, for the erection of school houses thereon, and to raise money for such purpose by a loan on the credit of the city to an amount not exceeding forty thousand dollars

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXI.

An act relating to street railways.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any street railway company which now uses the tracks of another street railway company as a part of its route to change the guage or width of its track to conform to the guage or width of the tracks of the company whose tracks it so uses as a port of its route.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXII.

A Further Supplement to the "Act respecting conveyances" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter the deputy county clerk in any county in this state be and he hereby is authorized, during his continuance in office, to perform all the duties and exercise all the powers belonging to the office of commissioner for taking the acknowledgment of proofs of deeds; and which deputy county clerk, upon taking any acknowledgment and proof by virtue of the powers conferred by this act shall affix to his signature the words "deputy county clerk."

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

Whereas, By reason of the change in the boundaries of school districts the school census taken in May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, is not a correct census of the number of children between the ages of five and eighteen years who were residents on the thirty-first day of May last of the several school districts in this state as they now exist; and whereas, it is necessary that the school census taken as aforesaid be revised and the children credited to the districts in which they reside; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the state superintendent of public instruction shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to cause the school census taken during the Month of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, to be revised and corrected in accordance with the rules adopted by the state board of education, as provided in the second section of this act, so that it shall be a correct statement of the number of children between the ages of five and eighteen years who were residents on the thirty-first day of May last of the several school districts in this state as said districts are constituted on the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the state board of education to adopt such rules, as in its judgment it may deem necessary as will secure a just and equitable revision of the school census taken in May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

3. And be it enacted, That all expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this act shall be paid out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, on the warrant of the comptroller, upon bills duly certified by the state superintendent of public instruction and approved by the state board of education.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting coroners" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter the jury of view and inquiry provided for in said act shall consist of six good and lawful men of the same county.

2. And be it enacted, That the said jurors shall receive a fee of one dollar each in each case and no more.

3. And be enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXV.

An Act concerning the making and collecting of assessments for benefits conferred by the construction of sewers and drains.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where in any city, or other municipality, sewers or drains have been or may be constructed, forming part of a general system of sewerage or drainage for such city, or other municipality, or part or parts thereof, it shall and may be lawful in assessing the benefits conferred by the construction of any main, trunk or intercepting sewer or drain, forming a part of such system, to assess such benefits not only upon the lands and real estate fronting or abutting on the line thereof, but also upon all the lands and real estate situate in and throughout the entire sewerage or drainage area or district in such city, or other municipality, and through which sewers or drains the whole or a part of the sewerage or drainage of such area or district, directly or indirectly, finds or will find an outlet.

2. And be it enacted, That the assessment upon all lands and real estate which at any time of making such assessment front or abut on, or are situate in the vicinity of the line of such main, trunk or intercepting sewer or drain, or any other sewer or drain already constructed, and connected directly or indirectly therewith, whereby a direct tapping or drainage benefit is or may be secured, shall be collectable at once, and that where such benefit is prospective only, depending upon the construction of any other and connecting sewer or drain not yet built, such assessment shall be collectable and bear interest only from the time when the assessment to be made for benefits conferred upon such lands and real estate, by the construction of such other sewer or drain along the line of which such lands and real estate front or abut, or are in the vicinity of, shall be confirmed and collectable.

3. And be it enacted, That in ascertaining and estimating the proportion of the cost of such main, trunk, or intercepting sewer or drain, which may be assessed upon lands and real estate not fronting or abutting upon the line or in the vicinity thereof, and having no immediate tapping or drainage benefit, the benefit conferred upon the lands or real estate so fronting or abutting thereon, or in the vicinity thereof, and having an immediate tapping or drainage benefit shall be first ascertained, and after deducting the amount therof from the entire cost, the balance or so much thereof as may be applied shall be assessed upon such other lands and real estate not having an immediate tapping or drainage benefit, but which shall be situate in such sewerage or drainage area, or district to the extent that the same is benefited by the construction of said main trunk, or intercepting sewer or drain, and to be benefited thereby when the sewer or drain in front of, or in the vicinity of such property, shall be constructed and connected therewith, and in which the said property may secure a direct tapping or drainage benefit.

4. And be it enacted, That in all cases of sewer or drain assessments made for benefits conferred by the construction of any lateral or connecting sewer or drain forming a part of the general system aforesaid, and upon the lands and real estate fronting or abutting on or in the vicinity of the line of such lateral or connecting sewer or drain, no assessment was made for benefits conferred by the construction of any main, trunk or intercepting sewer or drain, and through which such lateral or connecting sewer or drain has or will have an outlet for its sewerage or drainage, it shall and may be lawful to include in such assessment not only the cost or part of the cost of such lateral or connecting sewer or drain; but so much of the cost of the main trunk, or intercepting sewer or sewers, drain, or drains, with which the same is connected and through which it finds an outlet, as the said lands and real estate shall be peculiarly benefitted by the construction of said main, trunk, or intercepting sewers or drains, or any part thereof.

5. And be it enacted, That in all cases the benefit assessment so made shall be limited to and shall not exceed the peculiar and special benefit which each lot or parcel of land assessed has received or will receive, when lateral connections are made as aforesaid, and be made as near as may be in proportion to the benefits each shall be deemed to acquire.

6. And be it enacted, That if in any case different portions or sections of any trunk line sewer or drain are or may be constructed under different acts, requiring a different disposition of the moneys collected from benefit assessments, that, in every such case a separate assessment shall be made for each portion or section, in order that a lawful application may be made of the moneys derived from such assessment when received.

7. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the corporation attorney or counsel of such city or other municipality, to assist the board, commission or other body charged with the making of such assessments, by advice, preparation of reports, and otherwise in the discharge of their duties, when requested, and the city surveyor or engineering department of the city shall make all necessary surveys and maps required.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

An act respecting criminal courts in cities of the first class in this state, and providing for the increase of jurisdiction thereof and regulating the proceedings therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the criminal courts in any city of the first class in this state shall have jurisdiction to try and determine all cases of assault, simple assault and battery, petty larceny and any other offense, the penalty for which does not exceed a fine of one hundred dollars or imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or both, where such assault, simple assault and battery, petty larceny or other offense is committed within the corporate limits of the city in which such court is established, provided the person or persons charged with any such offense shall, in writing, waive indictment and trial by jury.

2. And be it enacted, that whenever judgment shall be rendered in such criminal court, upon conviction of any of the offenses specified in the first section of this act, such proceedings shall be had thereupon for the purpose of obtaining satisfaction of the fine and cost, or costs, adjudged, by writ or writs of fieri facias, or warrant or warrants in the nature of a capais ad satisfaciendum, in the like manner and to the same effect as in civil cases; but such execution or executions, warrant or warrants in the nature of a capias ad satisfaciendum, shall not have the effect to discharge the defendant or defendants from imprisonment, pursuant to the judgment of the court, until such judgment shall be satisfied.

3. And be it enacted, That the clerk of such court shall keep a record of all the cases tried in such court under the provisions of this act in a separate docket to be provided by the board of police commissioners of the city in which such court is established, which docket shall always be open to the inspection of any person lawfully entitled thereto, and all papers in every cause tried in such court under the provisions of this act shall be filed and remain in said court, and no record of conviction, other than the record in said docket, shall be necessary in any case; a transcript of such docket, certified by the clerk under the seal of the court, shall be received and taken in all courts and places as evidence of the matters therein contained and have the same probative force as the docket itself; the clerk shall furnish to any person requiring the same a transcript of the record from said docket in any cause upon the payment to him of a fee of fifty cents.

4. And be it enacted, That there shall be paid monthly by the city in which such court is established the following fees: to the judge of the court a fee of three dollars for trying each cause under the provisions of this act; to the clerk a fee of two dollars in each cause, which fees shall constitute, together with the fees of the witnesses on the part of the state, the costs of the trial; all fees and costs collected shall be paid by the clerk of such court to the comptroller or city treasurer as now provided by law, who shall keep a separate account thereof, and no fees shall be paid to said judge and clerk except from said moneys realized from fines and costs imposed and collected.

5. And be it enacted, That upon any conviction under this act the court may impose such penalty or penalties as may be provided by law for the offense of which the defendant shall be convicted.

6. And be it enacted, That any person waiving indictment and trial by jury as provided in the first section of this act, may be held to bail to appear for trial in said court at such time as may be fixed, and in default of such bail may be temporarily committed to the county jail of the county in which such court exists, and on the order of the judge making such commitment shall be brought before said court for trial.

7. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

An Act concerning the recording and plotting of conveyances of land and real estate situate in certain cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no register of deeds, county clerk or other officer whose duty it shall be to record deeds shall record any deed which conveys any property situate in any city of this state that now has or hereafter shall have atlas or block maps upon which shall be plotted the lots and subdivisions of lots of land and real estate situate in said city, unless it shall be duly certified thereon that the same has been presented at the office of the officer, officers or other department of such city having charge of such atlas or block maps for the purpose of recording or noting such changes as may have been made thereby in the property lines and ownership of the property therein described; provided, however, that such deeds shall be recorded even without such certificate being indorsed thereon in case the fee for plotting such deeds upon the city atlas or block map, together with a fee of twenty cents for the use of the register of deeds, county clerk or other officer whose duty it is to record the same, shall be paid to such officer, whereupon it shall be the duty of such officer within five days thereafter to present such deed or abstract thereof to the officer, officers or department in such city having charge of such plotting, together with the plotting fees aforesaid, for the purpose of having such changes in property lines or ownership duly plotted on such city atlas or block maps; and further provided, that this act shall not apply to the recording of any deed conveying land situate in any city where a contract exists between the municipal authorities of such city and the register of deeds, county clerk or other officer, whose duty it shall be to record deeds for the making of abstracts of such deeds for the purpose of having the land therein conveyed plotted upon the block or atlas maps of such city, but that such deeds shall be recorded as heretofore, anything to the contrary in this act notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 20, 1895.

CHAPTER XL.

An Act concerning the cremation of garbage and authorizing the acquisition of lands and the erection of crematories thereon, in the cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever, in the opinion of the common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body having charge of the streets of any city of this state, it shall be necessary to cremate the garbage and other refuse collected in such cities, it shall be lawful for such common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body to purchase, in the corporate name of the city, all necessary lands and real estate in such city to erect thereon a building or buildings, and equip the same with all appliances necessary and suitable for the cremation of such garbage and refuse matter.

2. And be it enacted, That to provide moneys necessary to pay for such lands and real estate, and the erection and equipment of such buildings, it shall be lawful for such common council, board of aldermen or other governing body having charge and control of the finances of such city, to issue bonds in the corporate name of the city, not exceeding the amount required to be paid for said lands and real estate and the erection and equipment of such buildings, pledging for the redemption thereof the faith of said city, under the seal of the city, signed in the manner prescribed by law, and and attested by the city clerk of such denominations as said common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body shall deem fit, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, and redeemable not more than twenty years from the date of issue, and to dispose of the same for the best price that can be obtained, but at not less than par value, and to provide for the redemption thereof and the payment of interest thereon by taxation.

3. And be it enacted, That if in the opinion of the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body having control of the streets of such city, it is more advantageous for such city to have such garbage and other refuse matter cremated by persons other than the city authorities, and at crematories not owned by the municipal corporation, it shall be lawful for such common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body to make a contract or contracts not exceeding the term of five years at a time, with any corporation or individual for the cremation of such garbage and other refuse matter, and it shall be the duty of such common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body having charge of the finances of such city, during the continuance of such contract or contracts, to annually raise by taxation the sum needed to defray the expense of such collection and cremation for the fiscal year then next ensuing.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general, special and local, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 20, 1895.

CHAPTER XLII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the establishment and government of a naval reserve of New Jersey," approved February twelfth, eighteen hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section nine of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That the naval reserve shall be commanded by a captain who shall be nominated by the governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate; the captain shall have power to appoint a staff to consist of an aide, a paymaster and a surgeon, each of the grade of lieutenant.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 20, 1895.

CHAPTER XLIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of courts of law," approved March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows;

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases in which a capias ad respondendum may issue against a defendant or defendants, in any action upon contract, the court or a judge thereof, or a supreme court commissioner, may, at the request of the plaintiff, upon filing the affidavits required as a foundation for an order for bail, by an order made for that purpose, award a writ or writs of attachment against the lands and tenements, goods and chattels, rights and credits, moneys and effects of the defendant or defendants in this state, whether such defendant or defendants, or either of them, be a resident of this state or not, and that such writ may be so awar-

Continued on Page 16.

CHAPTER CI.

An Act regulating the display of national flags or ensigns other than the American flag or ensigns on public buildings of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful to display the flag or emblem of any foreign country upon any state, county or municipal building; provided, however, that whenever a foreigner shall become the guest of the United States, the state, or any city, upon public proclamation by the governor or mayor of any such city, the flag of the country of which such public guest shall be a citizen may be displayed upon such public buildings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CII.

An Act to extend the time for building and putting in operation certain street railways incorporated under an act entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation of street railway companies and to regulate the same," approved April sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the time limited for the building and putting in operation of any street railway or any portion thereof authorized to be constructed under the act referred to in the title of this act shall expire during the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, such time shall be and the same is hereby extended for a further period of one year, and any moneys paid to the state treasurer as a guarantee of good faith under section three of said act shall not be forfeited to the use of the state until the expiration of said further period of one year; provided, however, that this act shall not apply unless money has actually been expended in the construction of said railway, or some portion thereof previous to the passage of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CIII.

An Amendment to an act entitled "An act to provide for the autonomy of certain cities in this state which have been created out of townships whose officers have continued to exercise their functions within the corporate limits of such cities," approved February twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section seven of the act entitled "An act to provide for the autonomy of certain cities in this state which have been created out of townships whose officers have continued to exercise their functions within the corporate limits in such cities," approved February twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, be and the same is hereby amended as follows:

7. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with or repugnant to this act, in so far as they are inconsistent with or repugnant hereto, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately; provided, however, that nothing in this act contained shall prevent or in any way interfere with the collection in such cities by the officers of said township of taxes heretofore assessed upon persons and property within the limits of such cities by said township assessor, but the payment of such taxes may be enforced in the same manner and to the same extent as if this act had not been passed; and provided further, that this act shall not be held to apply, and shall not apply, to any township having a population of less than six thousand or to any city situate in any such township.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CIV.

An Act to provide for the issue of temporary bonds or obligations in anticipation of the renewal of maturing bonds, under existing statutes, in cities of the second class of this state.

Whereas, In certain cities of the second class in this state their bonds fall due and become payable at various times during each year; and whereas, it is advantageous and advisable that such cities renew bonds so falling due at one time and not at frequent intervals, and in order that such cities may temporarily provide for such bonds until a renewal is made and had thereon; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the common council, board of finance or other governing body of any city of the second class in this state to issue from time to time its temporary bonds or obligations in anticipation of the renewal of bonds falling due said renewal of bonds to be made and had under and by virtue of existing statutes; and said temporary bonds or obligations shall run for a period not exceeding, with renewals, one year.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CV.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "An act to provide for the purchase of sites for the erection and equipment of armories in cities of the first and second class, and making appropriations therefor, and to provide for the taking of real estate for such sites by commission in case the same cannot be purchased by agreement," approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

Whereas, No appropriation has been made for the equipment and furnishing of the armories in Jersey City and Paterson, and by reason thereof they cannot be devoted to the uses and purposes for which they are intended; and whereas, it is impossible to raise, by voluntary subscription, the entire amounts necessary to properly equip and furnish said armories:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the sum of six thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the equipment and furnishing of the armory at Jersey City and the sum of six thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the equipment and furnishing of the armory at Paterson, the said sums, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the said purposes, to be disbursed by and under the direction of the state military board, and the said sums of money, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purposes aforesaid, to be paid by the state treasurer, out of any funds in his hands not otherwise appropriated, on the warrant of the comptroller, upon requisition of the state military board, approved by the governor.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CVI.

An Act fixing the time for holding elections for township officers and members of the boards of chosen freeholders in certain townships of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all townships in the counties of the second class in this state having a population not exceeding one hundred thousand inhabitants, the elections for township officers and members of the boards of chosen freeholders shall be held on the second Tuesday in the month of March.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CVII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all boroughs existing within the limits of any of the townships of this state incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement, shall hereafter be entirely separate and independent in all matters of local government from the townships out of which said boroughs have been created.

2. And be it enacted, That in all boroughs incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement the legal voters of said borough shall, at each annual election for borough officers, elect justices of the peace, constables, surveyors of the highway, pound keepers and overseers of the poor for such boroughs in accordance with existing statutes regulating the election and terms of office of such officers in townships.

3. And be it enacted, That the mayor of each and every borough incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement shall hereafter be elected to serve for the term of two years.

4. And be it enacted, That the legal voters of all boroughs incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement shall have the right, by vote, to designate annually, upon the ballots used in voting for borough officers, such amounts as may be deemed advisable for any and all legal purposes of a local nature in any way connected with said boroughs.

5. And be it enacted, That hereafter all boroughs incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement shall be entitled to one member of the board of chosen freeholders, provided the population exceeds twenty-five hundred, to be elected in accordance with the existing statutes now regulating the election and length of terms of members of said boards of chosen freeholders.

6. And be it enacted, That in case of the formation of any borough out of the part of any township in this state by virtue of the above act, any member of the township committee, overseer of the roads or township officer, residing within the limits of the borough, shall hold his said office and perform the duties thereof until the next general election to be held for the election of township officers, at which time some other person or persons residing in the remaining part of said township shall be elected in his place and stead, whether the term of his said office for which he was originally elected has expired or not.

7. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and they are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CVIII.

An Act respecting the townships in this state which have been or may hereafter be divided into wards.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter it shall not be lawful to form or create any borough out of any part of territory of any township in this state which now is or hereafter may be divided into wards.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CIX.

An Act to amend the act entitled "An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair," passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair," passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, shall be and is hereby amended by this act to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if the owners of a majority of the number of acres of any body or tract of marsh or swamp exposed by the overflow of the tide and capable of being laid dry and put in a proper state for improvement by one general bank or dam are desirous of improving the same, and the whole can not agree, such owners desirous of improving as aforesaid, after giving three weeks' previous notice to those who refuse or neglect to join in such improvement, by notice left at each of their places of abode or by advertising their intentions in three of the most public places in the neighborhood at least three weeks previous thereto, may apply to the court of common pleas of the county in which such marsh doth lie, or, in case a county line shall run through the marsh or swamp proposed to be improved as aforesaid, to the court of common pleas nearest thereto; on which application the members of such court, who are disinterested and unconnected with the parties, shall and they are hereby required to appoint by certificate, under their hands and seals, three or more judicious or disinterested men, well acquainted with banking and improving tide meadows, as commissioners; which commissioners, after giving notice of the time and place of meeting, shall view the premises and hear the parties, and if they then think proper, lay out the bank, dam, sluices, flood-gates or other works necessary for securing the marsh or swamp from the overflow of the tide in such place or places as may appear most safe and beneficial to the whole of the owners of the marsh or swamp intended to be secured from the overflow of the tide and make an actual survey thereof, describing the place of beginning, courses and distances and places where the sluice or sluices or flood-gates shall be laid, and where the bank or dam shall join the fast land; and also fix a name for the company and appoint the time and place of their first meeting and deliver a certificate of their proceedings signed by a majority of them to the clerk of the court from which they receive their appointment, which clerk shall forthwith record the said certificate in the road book kept in his office; provided always, that no navigable water shall be stopped by virtue of this act, the use of which navigation may, in the opinion of the majority of the men appointed as aforesaid, be of more than half the value to the inhabitants of the neighborhood that the improvement of the meadow would be to the owners thereof; and provided, also, that nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize the stopping out of any creek or river capable of navigation for shallops or flats that can carry eight cords of wood.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair,' passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight," which supplement was passed November twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair,' passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight," which supplement was passed November twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and six, shall be and is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the owners or possessors of more than one-half of any body of meadow who have subjected or shall subject themselves to the above-recited act, and in all cases where the commissioners have or may lay off to each owner or possessor their proportion of such bank, sluice, water works and water courses to uphold and maintain, to certify under their hands, to the clerk of the court of the county in which such meadow shall lie, that they have agreed to become subject to this supplement, which certificate it shall be the duty of such clerk to record in the road-book of such county, for which he shall receive the same fees per sheet as are allowed by law for the recording of deeds.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CXI.

An Act to amend the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair,' passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight," which supplement was passed January twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to enable the owners of tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair,' passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight," which supplement was passed January twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine, shall be and is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when any tract of marsh or swamp is exposed to the overflow of the tide and the same may admit of a division by one or more crossbanks into separate parts, it shall be lawful for the owners of more than one-half of any part of said marsh which may be justly separated from the rest by a crossbank, to apply to the court of common pleas of the county in which such marsh doth lie, as directed by the first section of the act to which this is a supplement; upon which said court is required to appoint three or more judicious and disinterested men, well acquainted with banking and improving tide meadows, as commissioners, who shall view the premises, hear the parties applicant and others interested; and if they think proper, lay out the crossbanks, sluices and flood-gates and works requisite for securing the marsh or swamp from the overflow of the tide in such place and places and direction as may appear reasonable and most safe and beneficial to the owners of such part of the marsh and swamp which is proposed to be secured from the overflow of the tide, subject to the like rules, regulations and proceedings as required by the act and supplements to which this is a further supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That section three of the said act be amended to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That whenever the owners and possessors of more than one-half of the marsh meadow ground and swamp lying within the bounds of any meadow bank company shall agree to a revaluation and assessment of the several lots and parcels of such marsh, swamp and meadow ground it shall and may be lawful for the owners and possessors of the same company at a special meeting to be held for such purpose, notice of which said meeting shall be given by the managers or clerk of the company, by putting up advertisements thereof in three or more public places near the premises, setting forth the time and place of meeting, to choose by ballot or otherwise, three or more indifferent and disinterested men to revalue all the marsh, swamp and meadow ground secured by the bank or dams from the overflow of the tide; and the managers of the said company are hereby required to make all subsequent duplicates and assessments agreeably to such revaluation.

3. And be it enacted, That section four of the said act be amended to read as follows:

4. And be it enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for the owners and possessors of any tract of marsh, swamp or meadow ground lying within the bounds of any meadow bank company, organized or to be organized under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, to cause the same to be subjected to the overflowing of the tide in such manner and for such time or times as the same company shall, at their annual meeting, direct and appoint; provided always, that the owners of more than one-half of such marsh, swamp or meadow ground shall vote or agree to such overflow.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CXII.

An Act to amend the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair,' passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight," which supplement was approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons to keep the same in good repair,' passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight," which supplement was approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, shall be and is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the owners and possessors of more than one-half of any body or tract of marsh or swamp in this state exposed to the overflow of tide, desiring to improve the same, and who have complied with or subjected themselves to the before recited act, may erect and construct across any stream of water that may flow through said land any bank, dam, sluice flood-gates or other work necessary to secure the same from the overflow of the tide; provided, that this act shall not apply to streams or creeks running to or through any village, town or city, or to any established wharf or landing.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CXIII.

An Act providing for the formation, establishment and government of towns.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the inhabitants of any town, village, borough or township which has, or hereafter may have, a population exceeding five thousand inhabitants, may become a body politic and corporate in fact and in law by the name and title of "the town of (specifying the name borne by such town, borough or township), in the county of (specifying the county in which the same is situated)," whenever at any special election called for that purpose, or at any town or charter meeting or election, at which the question of incorporating under this act is submitted, as hereinafter provided, it shall be so decided by a majority of the voters thereof voting at any such election.

2. And be it enacted, That the council, township committee or other governing body of any such town, borough or township, upon the petition, in writing, of at least fifty resident freeholders, may, by the votes of the majority of all the members thereof, adopt an ordinance for the holding of a special election in such town, borough or township for the purpose of deciding whether such town, borough or township shall become incorporated as a town under the provisions of this act, which ordinance shall prescribe the time and place or places of holding such special election and such other regulations respecting the same as may be deemed necessary and proper; provided, however, that instead of providing for a special election, such ordinance may provide for submitting the question of incorporating as a town under this act to the voters of such town, borough or township at the town or charter meeting or election to be held next thereafter.

3. And be it enacted, That if a special election be called notice of the same shall be given by advertisement published in the official newspaper or newspapers (if any) of such town, borough or township, and if there be none, in at least two newspapers published in the county and circulating in such town, borough or township, at least once in each week for two weeks successively, and by printed notices posted in at least one hundred conspicuous places therein, at least fifteen days next preceding the time appointed for such special election, which advertisements and notices shall specify and set forth the time, place or places and the object and purpose of holding such special election; and in case such ordinance provides for submitting the question of incorporating as a town under this act at a town or charter meeting or election, notice thereof shall be given by advertisement published in the official newspaper or newspapers of such town, borough or township (if any), and if there be none, in two newspapers published in the county and circulating in such town, borough or township, for two weeks successively, next preceding the day appointed by law for holding such election, at least once in each week, and by printed notices posted in at least one hundred conspicuous places therein at least fifteen days prior to the day appointed by law for holding such election, which advertisement and notices shall set forth that the question of incorporating as a town under the provisions of this act will be submitted at the next ensuing town or charter meeting or election.

4. And be it enacted, That any special election held under the provisions of this act shall be by ballot and shall be held and conducted under the general acts respecting elections, and the votes shall be canvassed and counted in the manner provided by law for canvassing and counting votes at town or local elections held in such town, borough or township; the ballots shall contain the words "for incorporation as a town under the act entitled 'An act providing for the formation and government of towns,'" or "against incorporation as a town under the act entitled 'An act providing for the formation and government of towns,'" and in case the question of incorporation as a town under this act shall be submitted at a town or charter meeting or election, the words "for incorporation as a town under the act entitled 'An act providing for the formation and government of towns,'" shall be printed on each ballot beneath the list of candidates thereon; if said words or proposition be marked off or defaced upon the ballot, it shall be counted as a vote against the same; if not marked off or defaced, the ballot shall be counted as a vote in favor thereof; if a majority of the votes so cast at any special town or charter meeting or election shall be in favor of incorporation as a town under this act, then within three days after the result of the election shall have been declared, a certificate of the result of such election signed by the chairman of the council, committee or governing body of such town, borough or township, and attested by the clerk thereof, together with certified copies of the petition, ordinance and statement of the board of canvassers or election of officers who canvassed the vote, and proof by affidavits that due notice of such election was given, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and from and after filing the same such town, borough or township shall be and it is hereby declared to be a body politic and corporate in fact, and in law by the name and title aforesaid, and by said name and title shall have perpetual succession, sue and be sued, prosecute and defend in all courts in this state, have a common seal and alter the same at pleasure, and purchase, hold and convey real and personal property for the use and benefit of the town.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the council, township committee or other governing body of each town, borough or township, which shall have voted as aforesaid for incorporation as a town under this act, to divide such town into not less than three wards; each ward shall consist of contiguous territory and each shall contain as nearly as possible an equal number of inhabitants; provided, however, that such division into wards shall be made at least one month before the first annual town election held under this act; and provided further, that where any town, borough or township shall have been divided into three or more wards before adopting this act such division shall continue, and such existing wards shall constitute the wards of the town as formed and incorporated under this act until changed by the council, and said council may change such division or create new or different wards at any time within one year after the declaration of the result of any official state or United States census.

6. And be it enacted, That the officers of any town, borough or township, which has voted as aforesaid for incorporation as a town under this act, who shall hold office at the time of filing the aforesaid certificate with the secretary of state, shall continue to hold their respective offices until the first day of May next succeeding the first annual town election held under this act, and shall in all things be subject to the provisions of this act in the same way as if they had been elected hereunder; and no surety of any such officer shall be discharged from liability on account of any change made in the duties of such officer by this act, unless within five days after this act becomes operative in such town, he shall, in writing, notify the council of his intention to withdraw from his suretyship, in which case he shall be discharged from liability from the time this act becomes operative in such town; and the council may require such officer to furnish new or additional sureties in place of the ones withdrawing as aforesaid; and if he fails or neglects so to do, the council may declare his office vacant, and may fill such vacancy in the manner hereinafter prescribed for the filling of vacancies.

7. And be it enacted, That the council or governing body of the town may fill by appointment all such offices herein provided for which did not exist in the town, borough or township of which it is the successor; and all such appointments to elective offices shall hold only until the first day of May next succeeding the first town election held under the provisions of this act, and all other such appointments shall hold only until the first day of June next thereafter.

8. And be it enacted, That any town which may be formed or incorporated under the provisions of this act shall take, hold, possess and enjoy and become absolutely vested with all the rights and property of the town, borough or township of which it is the successor, and shall be responsible for and liable to all contracts, debts and obligations of such town, borough or township.

9. And be it enacted, That the town and ward officers of the town shall be a town council, consisting of two councilmen from each ward and one councilman-at-large, a town clerk, a town collector, a town treasurer, a town attorney, an assessor, a recorder, a board of commissioners of appeal, consisting of one member from each ward, an overseer of the poor, one or more town surveyors, one or more poundkeepers, a board of education, consisting of three members from each ward, three commissioners of assessment, a chief of police and a chief engineer of the fire department, three constables in each ward and such number of justices of the peace as the town may be entitled to under the constitution and laws of this state, and for the purpose of electing justices of the peace, each town shall be considered a township, and in counties in which chosen freeholders are elected by townships and wards each ward of the town shall elect one chosen freeholder.

10. And be it enacted, That the councilmen from each ward and the councilman-at-large, town clerk, town collector, assessor, constables and members of the board of education shall be elected at an annual town election; the town treasurer, town attorney, recorder, commissioners of appeal, overseer of the poor, chief of police, town surveyors, and the commissioners of assessment and poundkeepers shall be appointed by the council in the manner and for the terms hereinafter provided; the chief of the fire department shall be elected in the manner and for the term hereinafter provided, by the active members of the fire department; the term of office of any officer elected or appointed not herein otherwise provided for, may be fixed by the council by ordinance; the council may in like manner appoint such other subordinate officers as may be deemed necessary, and fix their terms of office and compensation and define their duties.

11. And be it enacted, That the annual town election shall be held on the second Tuesday in April in each year, between the hours of seven o'clock in the morning and seven o'clock in the afternoon, at the place or places in each ward designated by the council, in the same manner and under the same regulations in all things as is prescribed by law for election of members of the general assembly of this state; notice of the time and place or places of such election and of the officers to be chosen shall be given by the town clerk at least two weeks before the day of election by publication in the official newspaper of the town, and if there be none, by publication in at least one newspaper published in the county in which the town is situated and generally circulating in the town; no person shall be permitted to vote at any such election unless he is an actual resident of the election district in which he offers his vote; immediately after the polls shall be closed at any such election the election officers of each district shall count the votes given for the several candidates, and certify under their hands the number given for each, and publicly announce the same; and within twenty-four hours thereafter they shall immediately deliver one such statement to the judge or inspector, who shall be delegated to attend the meeting of the board of town canvassers, and one to the town clerk and one to the county clerk, to be by them filed in their respective offices.

12. And be it enacted, That the person or persons receiving the greatest number of votes of those given in the town for any town officer and of those given in each ward, respectively, for any office in or from the ward, shall be declared to be elected.

13. And be it enacted, That the board of town canvassers shall consist of one judge or inspector of election from each election district in the town, who shall be appointed for that purpose by the other election officers (excluding the clerks) of such district; a majority of the board shall constitute a quorum, and the town clerk shall be the clerk of said board; the board shall meet on the Friday next after such election, at three o'clock in the afternoon, at the town hall, and shall choose one of their number to be chairman thereof; if the town clerk shall fail to attend, the board may appoint one of their own number to be clerk thereof; thereupon the members of the board shall produce the statements which shall have been delivered to them as aforesaid, and lay the same before the board, and from such statements the board shall proceed to ascertain the votes given at such election for the several officers voted for thereat; provided, however, that if for any reason, any member of such board shall fail to produce such statement, that then, on the request of the board, the town clerk shall produce and lay before the board the statement filed with him, and the same may be used with the like effect as if it had been produced by the member so failing to deliver his statement.

14. And be it enacted, That the said board of canvassers shall make a written statement of the number of votes given for the several officers to be elected for said town and the several wards thereof, the names of the persons for whom such votes were given and the number of votes given for each; that upon such statement said board shall proceed to determine and declare what person or persons have received the greatest number of votes for each of the officers mentioned in such statement; the statement and final declarations of the board shall be certified to by the presiding officer and the clerk and shall be filed with the town clerk and be by him recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose; and within two days after such canvass of the votes, the town clerk shall deliver to every person elected to any town or ward office a certificate thereof, under the seal of the town.

15. And be it enacted, That if at any such election there shall be a failure to fill any office, except that of councilman or member of the board of education, by reason of two or more persons having received an equal number of votes therefor, the town council then in office shall by ballot elect one of the persons so receiving an equal number of votes to fill such office until the next town election, when the unexpired portion of the term (if any) shall be filled by the electors of the town; and if there shall be a failure for like cause to fill the office of councilman or member of the board of education, a new election for such office or offices shall be immediately ordered by the town council.

16. And be it enacted, That except as herein otherwise provided, at the first town election held under this act one member of the council from each ward shall be elected for one year and one member for two years; and one member of the board of education shall be elected for one year, and one member for two years, and one member for three years; and the electors voting at such election shall designate on their ballots the terms for which the several candidates for said offices shall be elected; and thereafter annually, a member of the council shall be chosen from each ward for two years, and a member of the board of education for three years.

17. And be it enacted, That no person shall be eligible to any office under this act unless he shall have resided in the town for a period of at least one year, and no person shall be eligible to any ward office unless he shall be an actual resident of the ward; and no person shall be eligible to any office unless he is a citizen of the United States; provided however, that the town attorney and the town surveyors need not be residents of the town; and when any person except town attorney and town surveyors, elected or appointed to any town or ward office shall remove from the town or ward his office shall thereby become vacant.

18. And be it enacted, That in case a vacancy occurs by reason of the death, resignation, inability, disqualification, removal or refusal to serve of or by any town or ward officer, elected as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the town council to fill such vacancy by the appointment of a suitable and qualified elector to hold until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified, and the unexpired portion of the term (if any remain) shall be filled at the town election to be held next after such appointment; provided however, that in case any such vacancy shall occur in the board of education, said board of education may fill such vacancy by appointment until the next town election, when the vacancy shall be filled by the electors of the town; provided, that if at any town election there shall be a vacancy in any office to be filled at the same time an election for a full term of such office, the term for which each person shall be voted for shall be designated on each ballot cast therefor.

19. And be it enacted, That in case any such vacancy as aforesaid shall occur in any office which is filled by appointment or election by the town council, the said town council shall have power to fill such vacancy by the appointment of a suitable person to hold for the unexpired portion of the term of such office.

20. And be it enacted, That every person elected or appointed under this act to any office shall, within ten days after such election or appointment, take and subscribe before an officer qualified to administer oaths, an oath or affirmation, faithfully and impartially to execute the duties of his office according to the best of his ability and understanding, which oath or affirmation shall be filed in the town clerk's office, and if any person so elected or appointed shall fail so to qualify, then his office shall be deemed vacant, and may be filled in the manner hereinbefore provided.

21. And be it enacted, That the town clerk, town treasurer, town collector and such other officers as the town council may require, before they enter upon the duties of their office and within such time as the board of council may by ordinance prescribe, shall give bonds to the town in its corporate name in such sums and with such sureties as the board of council shall require and approve for the faithful performance of their duties, which bonds, when so given, shall bind the obligors therein named until the successor to the officers giving the same shall be actually inducted into office, and if any officer shall fail or neglect to give bonds in the sum or with the sureties or within the time required by such ordinance, the council may declare such office vacant, and such vacancy shall be filled in the manner hereinbefore provided.

22. And be it enacted, That the official terms of the several officers who shall be elected under this act shall commence on the first day of May next succeeding their election; and the term of any officer who shall be appointed by virtue of this act shall commence on the first day of June next succeeding his appointment, except in cases otherwise provided for in this act, and every officer shall hold his office during his official term and until his successor shall have been duly elected or appointed and shall have duly qualified.

23. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every officer in said town, within ten days after the expiration of his term of office or his removal therefrom to deliver to his successor in office, or to such person as the town council may appoint, all books, records, papers, vouchers and property of every kind in his possession or under his control, belonging to said town or appertaining to such office.

24. And be it enacted, That no officer of the town elected or appointed under this act shall hold any other office of profit or trust under this act, and any such officer who shall accept any other office under this act shall be deemed to thereby to vacate the office to which he was first elected or appointed.

25. And be it enacted, That the salaries and compensation to be paid to the town clerk, the town collector, the town treasurer, the town attorney, the recorder, the assessor, the chief of police and the members of the police force, the chief of the fire department, the overseer of the poor, the town surveyors, poundkeepers, commissioners of appeal, commissioners of assessment and members of the town council shall be fixed by ordinance of the town council; and the salary or compensation of any officer which has been fixed as aforesaid shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office, and all fees paid to any of said officers for any service required of him by this act, or by any ordinance or resolution of the town council, shall immediately after the receipt thereof be paid by such officer to the town treasurer for the use of the town, unless herein otherwise specially provided; provided, however, that such salaries shall not exceed the following sums per year, viz.: town clerk, one thousand dollars; members of the town council, five hundred dollars each; town treasurer, one thousand dollars; recorder, six hundred dollars; assessor, one thousand dollars.

26. And be it enacted, That all the officers of the town shall be governed by such general ordinances as the town council may from time to time adopt, not inconsistent with the provisions of this act and the laws of this state, and every officer may be removed from office for cause by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the council, but no such removal shall take place until the person sought to be removed shall have had an opportunity of being heard in his own defense; but the provisions of this section shall not apply to any member or officer of the board of education.

27. And be it enacted, That the town clerk shall hold office for the term of two years, and shall, in addition to the duties required of him by this act or any other law of this state, have charge of all the records, books and documents of the town, except when the town council shall otherwise direct; he shall keep a record of the proceedings of the council; he shall engross all ordinances in a book to be provided for that purpose, which book shall be deemed a public record of such ordinances, and each ordinance shall be signed in said book by the chairman of the council and said clerk; copies of all papers duly filed in the office of the town clerk and transcripts thereof and of the records and proceedings of the board of council and copies of the ordinances of said town, certified by the said clerk under the corporate seal of the town, shall be evidence in all courts and places; the town clerk shall pay over to the town treasurer, without delay, all moneys received by or paid to him for the use of the town; his office shall be at the town hall, and he shall keep the same open for the transaction of public business during such hours as the council shall by ordinance prescribe; it shall be lawful for him to charge and receive for his own use, at the rate of ten cents per folio, for copies of all official papers and records and for the return to any writ of certiorari made by him.

28. And be it enacted, That the town collector shall hold office for the term of two years, and it shall be his duty to receive and collect all moneys due to the town, whether for taxes, assessments, arrears of taxes or otherwise; the town council shall provide him with an office at the town hall, which he shall attend at such times as shall designated by council by ordinance; he shall enter, in suitable books to be provided for that purpose, by the council, any sums received by him for any purpose, and he shall specify in such entry the names of the persons by whom or on whose account the payments are made, the dates of payment and the purpose for which payment is made, and if any part of any payment is for interest or penalties, the amount thereof shall be separately stated; he shall at least once each week pay over all moneys collected by him for the town to the town treasurer, and shall take his receipt therefor; he shall furnish the council at least once in each week, and oftener if required, a statement of all moneys received and collected by him since his last preceding report was made, and he shall perform all such other duties appertaining to the said office as the council shall by ordinance prescribe; he shall make a full report annually on the first day of April, to the council, of all moneys received and disbursed by him, and he shall, whenever required, lay before the council for examination and audit, all books, papers and vouchers appertaining to his office.

29. And be it enacted, That the town treasurer shall hold office for two years; he shall receive, safely keep and disburse, under the direction of the council, all moneys belonging to or under the control of the town; he shall keep an accurate account of all receipts and payments in such manner as the council shall direct; no money shall be paid out of the treasury except on warrant signed by the chairman of the council and attested by the town clerk, excepting payments of state and county taxes, which the said treasurer is hereby required to make annually out of the first moneys received by him from the town collector and moneys paid into the town treasury for the redemption of property sold for taxes and assessments; and no warrant shall be drawn on the treasurer except in pursuance of an order or resolution of the council passed at a stated meeting and entered in their minutes; all such warrants shall be numbered and made payable to the order of the person entitled to receive the same, and shall specify for what purpose the amount therein mentioned is directed to be paid and the appropriation against which it is to be charged; it shall be the duty of the clerk before he delivers any warrant so drawn to enter into the margin of a book to be called "warrant book," opposite to said warrant, the number, date, amount of the same, the appropriation to which it is charged, the date of resolution or order authorizing it to be drawn, the purpose for which ordered and the name of the person or persons to whose order it is made payable, and to take his or their receipt in said book at the end of said marginal entry for said warrant; provided, however, that nothing in this section contained shall apply to the disbursement and payment of moneys raised or received for public school purposes.

30. And be it enacted, That the town treasurer shall receive, safely keep and disburse all moneys raised and received for public school purposes; he shall keep separate accounts thereof, and pay the same out only on warrant signed by the chairman and clerk of the board of education, and no warrant for any such purpose shall be drawn on the treasurer except in pursuance of an order or resolution passed at a stated meeting and entered in their minutes, and the provisions of the last preceding section of this act relative to warrants on the treasurer by the town council shall apply to the warrants of the board of education; and the said treasurer shall do and perform all acts and duties enjoined upon township collectors by the school laws of the state.

31. And be it enacted, That the treasurer at least once every month, and oftener if required, shall furnish the council with a statement of all moneys received and expended by him (including school moneys) since his last report, and he shall annually on the first day of April, make to the council a full report of all his receipts and expenditures, and he shall, whenever required, lay before the council, for examination and audit, all books, papers and vouchers appertaining to his office.

32. And be it enacted, That the recorder shall hold office for two years, and shall have jurisdiction and is hereby empowered, on oath, affirmation or affidavit made according to law, that any person or persons has or have been guilty of a violation of any of the ordinances of the town, to issue process either in the nature of a summons or warrant as to him may seem most advisable, against the person or persons so violating such ordinance, which process shall, when of the nature of a warrant, be returnable forthwith, and when in the nature of a summons be returnable in not less than three or more than five days; that such process shall state what ordinance the defendant or defendants named therein has or have violated, and what manner the same has been violated and then on return of such process, or at the time to which the recorder shall have adjourned the same, the said recorder shall proceed to hear testimony and to determine and give judgment in the matter without the filing of any pleadings, and the recorder shall, if judgment be rendered for the plaintiffs forthwith issue execution against the goods and chattels and against the body of the defendant or defendants; and the said recorder shall be further empowered to inflict fines not exceeding the sum of twenty dollars on such persons as shall be convicted before him of vagrancy, disorderly conduct, breach of the peace, or, in his discretion to order such persons to be committed to the county jail or workhouse for any period not exceeding thirty days; provided, that in all cases when the fine or penalty shall exceed ten dollars or where the punishment shall be imprisonment, there may be a trial jury, to be conducted as in cases now triable in courts for the trial of small causes; the recorder shall also have power to cause any person or persons who shall be found guilty of a violation of the ordinances of the town, and who may refuse or neglect to pay any penalty imposed to be committed to the county jail for any period not exceeding thirty days, and the recorder shall be present at the station house or other place provided for him by the town council, at such hours every day as the council shall designate; and the recorder shall have the same powers in criminal matters within the territorial limits of the town as are possessed and exercised by justices of the peace of this state.

33. And be it enacted, That any member of the council, during his term of office, and any policeman of said town, shall have the power on witnessing any breach of the peace or any violation of a town ordinance, to forthwith arrest and take into custody, without warrant, the offender or offenders, and to take said offender or offenders before the recorder of the town for a hearing.

34. And be it enacted, That every conviction for violating a town ordinance had before the recorder, either with or without a jury trial, may be reviewed by appeal to the court of common pleas of the county in the same manner and upon the same terms as appeals are or may be taken from courts for the trial of small causes, and in case the judgment appealed from shall be imprisonment the said recorder or any judge of the court of common pleas may admit to bail the party appealing during the pendency of his appeal; but no judgment for the violation of any ordinance shall be reversed for any imperfection, omission, defect in or lack of form, nor for any error except such as shall or may have prejudiced the defendant in maintaining his defense upon the merits.

35. And be it enacted, That the officers empowered to serve process issued by the recorder shall be, besides the constables elected or appointed within the town, the policemen of the town, and that said process shall be returned in the same manner, so far as circumstances may permit, as warrants in courts for the trial of small causes are returned, and the defendant or defendants named therein shall, if the recorder sees fit, to adjourn the hearing of the charge made and so orders, enter into recognizance, as near as may be, in the manner directed in the courts for the trial of small causes, in the amount of the penalty named in the process or in any proceedings brought for the recovery of the same, with such surety as may be approved by the recorder, unto the town, by its corporate name, for his or their appearance on the day to which said hearing may be adjourned, and in default of such appearance the said recognizance may be prosecuted and collected in the same manner as the same might have been if the said recognizance had been taken in a proceeding in courts for the trial of small causes.

36. And be it enacted, That the councilman-at-large, assessor and overseer of the poor shall each hold office for the term of two years, and the said assessor and overseer shall perform all the duties required of such officers by law in the several townships of this state and the ordinances of the town.

37. And be it enacted, That the town attorney shall be appointed by the council; he shall hold his office for the term of one year, and shall perform such duties as the council shall by ordinance prescribe.

38. And be it enacted, That the town surveyors shall be designated from time to time by the council, and they shall give bonds in such penalty and upon such condition, and shall receive such compensation for the service they may render as the council shall by ordinance prescribe.

39. And be it enacted, That the poundkeepers shall be appointed by the council, and shall hold their office for such term, and shall perform such duties in addition to the duties imposed upon them by any law of this state, as the council may by ordinance prescribe.

40. And be it enacted, That the members of the board of commissioners of appeals shall be appointed by the council and shall hold office for three years; they shall perform such duties as are now, or hereafter may be, by law enjoined upon commissioners of appeals in cases of taxation; and at the time of the first appointment of such board under this act, the term of office of each member shall be designated by the council; and thereafter all appointments to said board, except to fill vacancies, shall be for the term of three years.

41. And be it enacted, That the chief of the fire department shall be elected annually on the first Monday in May in each year, and shall hold his office for one year from the first day of June next ensuing his election; the active firemen of the department shall alone be qualified to vote at such election; the election shall be held and conducted under such rules and regulations as the council shall by ordinance prescribe.

42. And be it enacted, That the town council shall meet annually for organization on the first day of May unless that day should happen to be on Sunday, in which case they shall meet on the day preceding; the councilman-at-large shall be the chairman and shall preside at all meetings of the council; in his absence the council may elect one of their number as chairman for the time being; they shall appoint the time of meeting, determine and establish the rules of their own proceedings, and pass ordinances, by-laws and resolutions pertaining to the purposes and objects of the corporation and necessary and proper for carrying out of the provisions of this act.

43. And be it enacted, That the council shall, on the first day of April in each year, cause to be printed a full statement of all receipts and expenditures of every description for the year preceding, with all such further information as may be necessary for a full understanding of the financial concerns of the town, and that it shall be the duty of the town clerk to distribute such printed statements among the people of the town or to furnish a copy of such statement to every citizen applying for the same.

44. And be it enacted, That a majority of the council shall be a quorum for the transaction of business, but a smaller number may meet and adjourn from day to day; the council shall hold stated meetings at least twice in each month at the town hall, at such times as they may appoint, but the chairman or any two councilmen may call special meetings by written notice to each of the members, served personally or left at his usual place of abode at least twenty-four hours previous to the time appointed for such meeting, but no business other than that specified in the call shall be transacted at such special meeting, and no business by this act required to be done at a stated meeting of the council shall be done or performed at any such special meeting.

45. And be it enacted, That all contracts in which any councilman shall be interested, either directly or indirectly, or in which any councilman may be surety for the faithful performance thereof, shall be null and void, and no member of the council shall become security for any public officer elected or appointed under this act.

46. And be it enacted, That no ordinance or by-law shall be passed by the town council, unless the same shall have been introduced at a previous stated meeting, and shall be agreed to by a majority of the members of the council; and no ordinance shall take effect until five days after it shall have been published in the official newspaper of the town, and if there be none, in at least one newspaper published in the county and circulating in the town: provided, however, that no ordinance for opening, grading, flagging, curbing, paving or macadamizing any street, avenue or public place, or for the construction of any sewer, or for any street improvement, shall be passed or adopted unless it shall receive the votes of two-thirds of the members of the council.

47. And be it enacted, That the council may, by the title, "the council of the town of ——, in the county of ——," pass, adopt, alter, modify and repeal ordinances to take effect within the town for the following purposes:

To manage, regulate, protect and control the finances and property of the town; to make and adopt an assessment map or maps whereby to describe lands assessed for taxes or improvements; to ascertain and establish boundaries of all streets, highways, public lanes and alleys in the town; to regulate, clean and keep in repair the streets, highways, lanes and alleys in the town, and to prevent and remove all encroachments, obstructions and incumbrances in and upon all streets, highways, lanes and alleys, sewers, drains and water-courses; to prescribe the manner in which corporations or individuals shall exercise any privilege granted to them in the use of any street, highway or alley or in digging up any street, highway or alley for any purpose whatsoever; to direct and regulate the planting, rearing, trimming and preserving of ornamental shade trees in the streets, parks and public places of the town, and to authorize or prohibit the removal or destruction of such shade trees; to name and number the streets, houses and lots in the town; to provide for and enforce the removal of snow and ice from the sidewalks and gutters of streets, by the owners of land fronting thereon, and to provide that in case of neglect or refusal of or by the owner of any lot of land fronting on a public street or highway to remove snow or ice from the sidewalks and gutters in front of his lands, that the council may cause the same to be done at the expense of such owner, and that the cost and expense thereof, with interest thereon, shall be added to and shall form part of the taxes next to be levied and assessed upon such lands, and shall be and remain a lien upon such lands until paid; to regulate the use of streets, highways and public places by individuals, vehicles, railways and engines of every kind; to prevent and punish horse racing and immoderate driving or riding in any street, and to regulate the speed and running of locomotives, engines and railroad cars through the town; to regulate and control the passage through the streets and public places of buildings and other large structures; to prevent animals of all kinds from running at large in the streets or public places of the town, and for the impounding, sale or destruction of the same, and to regulate and prevent the driving of cattle or other animals in droves in or through any of the streets of the town; to prevent and prohibit any practice having a tendency to frighten animals or persons passing in the streets of the town; to regulate or prohibit all public performances and exhibitions for money; to prevent and suppress vice and immorality; to restrain or punish tramps, vagrants, mendicants and street beggars; to preserve the public peace; to prevent and quell riots, disturbances and disorderly assemblages; to restrain and suppress disorderly and gaming houses and houses of ill-fame; to establish and regulate one or more public pounds, and to provide for the sale of animals impounded, and to fix the fees to be paid persons impounding animals, and the redemption fees to be paid; to regulate and prevent and to provide for the destruction of dogs running at large; to regulate or prohibit swimming or bathing in the waters of or bounding the town; to regulate the removal or destruction of buildings that are liable to fall or that are dangerous to life; to regulate or prohibit the carrying on of manufactures dangerous in causing or promoting fire; to regulate or prohibit the manufacture, sale, keeping, storage or use of fire-works, gunpowder, camphene, kerosene, burning fluid, nitro-glycerine, dynamite or other inflammable or explosive materials; to raze and demolish any building or erection when necessary to prevent the extension of a conflagration, and to provide for the ascertainment and payment of just damages and compensation to owners of property destroyed in such cases; to regulate or prohibit the use of firearms and the carrying of weapons of any kind; to erect, provide, repair and control a town hall, police and station houses, fire engines and such other buildings as may be necessary; to regulate, license or prohibit inns, taverns and restaurants, and the sale or transfer of spirituous, vinous, malt or other strong or intoxicating liquors; provided, however, that no such license shall be granted to any person who is not a citizen of the United States; and to fix and prescribe the terms and conditions upon which licenses for such purposes shall be granted, and to provide for the revoking and annulling of licenses for violations of such conditions; provided, however, that all such conditions be printed on the license; and provided further, that no license shall be granted unless the applicant shall first pay to the town clerk such license fee as may be required by any general law of this state, and if there be no general law, such fee, not less than fifty dollars, as may be fixed by ordinance; and if the application is rejected the deposit shall be returned; to provide that the penalty for a second conviction within six months of a violation of any such ordinance shall be a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three months; to license and regulate cartmen, porters, hack, cab, omnibus, stage and truck owners and drivers, carriages and vehicles used for the transportation of passengers and merchandise, goods or articles of any kind, and to require the owners to mark vehicles in such manner as the council shall designate; and to license and regulate auctioneers, common criers, pawnbrokers, junkshop keepers, sweeps and scavengers, and to prohibit unlicensed persons from acting in such capacities; to license and regulate peddlers, hawkers and hucksters, and to require the payment of license fee of not exceeding five dollars in all cases, except as herein otherwise provided; and no license granted for any of the aforesaid purposes by any other authority shall be valid, except license granted by the governor to hawkers and peddlers; to fix the penalty where the same is not fixed or provided for by this act for the violation of any ordinance by this act authorized to be passed, which penalty shall be a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, and in case of non-payment thereof, imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days; to provide for, establish, regulate and control a fire department and to establish rules for the government thereof (whose members shall be exempt from military duty in time of peace, and from serving as jurors in courts for the trial of small causes), and to provide engines and other fire apparatus, and to designate the manner of appointing and removing members of the fire department; to provide for the government of the fire department and the care and repair of the engines and other fire apparatus, and for the purchasing of necessary supplies by a board of fire commissioners, consisting of five members, to be appointed by the council, who shall hold office for one year and who shall receive no salary; and to further provide for the payment of the lawful debts contracted or incurred by such commissioners.

48. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power by ordinance to regulate the use of the streets of the town by street railway companies; to require such companies to lay and confine their tracks according to such grades of the street as may from time to time be established by the council; to keep that portion of the street lying between the rails paved and in good repair, also to keep the street to the extent of eighteen inches beyond the rails in good repair and on a level with the rails; to keep their tracks free from snow and ice and compel the removal of the same from the streets, and to provide a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars for every violation of such ordinance.

49. And be it enacted, That in case the boundary line between any town formed under this act and any other municipality shall be one of the extreme lines of a street or road, such street or road being wholly within such town, it shall be lawful for the council of such town to pass ordinances regulating the use of such street or road by owners or occupants of property in such other municipality adjoining such street or road, and to provide penalties for the violation of such ordinance not exceeding ten dollars fine; and it shall be lawful for any constable or policeman of such town to execute any process issued by the recorder for the violation of any such ordinance within the territorial limits of such other adjoining municipality.

50. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power by ordinance to provide for, establish, regulate and control a day and night police, and to regulate and define the manner of their appointment and removal, their duties and compensation; provided, that such police force (excluding officers) shall not exceed more than one policeman to every eight hundred inhabitants; and provided further, that no policeman or police officer shall be removed except for neglect of duty, misbehavior, incompetency or inability to serve.

51. And be it enacted, That the council shall have full power to enact and pass such and so many other ordinances or by-laws for the peace, good government, order, welfare and convenience of the town as they may deem necessary, proper and expedient, not repugnant to this state or of the United States.

52. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to pass ordinances appropriating and providing for raising by taxation moneys for the following purposes:

I. For lighting the streets of the town;

II. For the support of the police department;

III. For the maintenance of the fire department;

IV. For regulating, cleaning and keeping in repair streets and highways;

V. For repairs to public buildings;

VI. For the relief of the poor;

VII. For water for the extinguishment of fires;

VIII. For the payment of interest upon the debt of the town and such part of the principal as shall from time to time become due and payable;

IX. For the sinking fund required to be raised;

X. For the general and incidental expenses of the town including the printing and publication of minutes of council, ordinances and such other matters required by law to be published;

XI. For the support of public schools; and no appropriation shall be made or ordered for any other purpose, except by a majority of the voters of the town voting at an annual town election.

53. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to provide for the lighting of the streets, avenues and public places of the town, in such places as they in their judgment may deem necessary.

54. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to provide for a supply of pure and wholesome water to the inhabitants and for extinguishment of fires, by contract, either with private corporations or with adjoining municipalities owning or controlling water works; and the council shall have power to fix and determine the terms and conditions upon which private companies may lay their mains or pipes in the streets of the town.

55. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to designate an official newspaper in which all advertisements and notices required by law to be published shall be published.

56. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to borrow money temporarily, in the name of the town, in anticipation of appropriated revenues not exceeding in amount one-half of such anticipated revenues.

57. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power at any time to direct a special election to fill any vacancy that may occur in their own body.

58. And be it enacted, That the council may require the owners or occupants of any parcel of land fronting on any improved street to keep the sidewalks, flagging, curbs and gutters in front of such land in good repair, and if in any case, after reasonable notice, such repairs be not done by such owner or occupant, the council may have the same done, and the expense thereof, with interest and costs, may be recovered by the council by suit in the name of the town against such owner as for so much money due for labor performed and material furnished by said town for such owner or occupant, at his request, or may be assessed as a tax on such lot, and shall be a lien thereon, and be collected as other taxes are collected.

59. And be it enacted, That the town council shall appoint three discreet persons, residents and freeholders of the town, to be commissioners of assessment and who shall hold their office for three years, except as hereinafter provided, the said commissioners shall make all assessments for improvements of every kind under this act; provided, that if any of the said commissioners shall be interested in the matter of any such assessments the council shall appoint some discreet and impartial freeholder or freeholders, resident in said town, to act in regard to such assessment in lieu of the commissioner or commissioners interested therein as aforesaid; and every report of assessments made by commissioners of assessment shall be accompanied by the oath or affirmation of each commissioner making the same that he is not interested, directly or indirectly, in the matter of the assessment, and that he has performed his duties in relation thereto honestly, faithfully and impartially, to the best of his ability, skill and understanding, which oath or affirmation the clerk of the said town is hereby authorized to administer; and the first commissioner appointed under this act shall determine among themselves by lot which of them shall serve for one, two and three years respectively, and thereafter annually one commissioner shall be appointed to serve for the full term of three years.

60. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power and they are hereby authorized by ordinance—

To lay out, open, straighten, widen and extend any street, avenue or highway, or any part or section thereof, and to take and appropriate for such purpose any necessary lands and real estate upon making compensation to the owners thereof as hereinafter provided; to provide for grading and altering the grade of streets and avenues in the town, and filling, macadamizing, guttering, curbing, bridging, planking, graveling, paving and repairing the same; to make and adopt a general plan of sewerage and drainage for such town or any section thereof, conformably to which all sewers and drains, receiving basins and all other appurtenances of public drainage shall be made; to provide for the building and constructing of public sewers and drains, and for taking land and real estate for building the same and for acquiring an outlet for sewers over and through lands in adjoining municipalities; provided, that the consent of such adjoining municipality and of such other municipality (if any) as may in any manner be affected by such outlet shall be to that end first obtained; provided, however, that no ordinance for any of such purposes shall be passed except in the manner hereinafter stated and unless it shall receive the votes of two-thirds of the members of the council; and provided further, that any such ordinance may be introduced and passed at the same stated meeting of the council.

61. And be it enacted, That streets or sections of streets shall be laid out, opened, straightened, extended, widened or otherwise changed as to their boundaries, in the following manner and not otherwise: a petition, in writing, signed by the owners of one-sixth of the property fronting on the improvement desired, shall be presented to the council, setting forth accurately the improvement desired, together with a deposit of such sum of money as the council shall direct, towards meeting the expense in case such improvement shall not be ordered, which sum, if the improvement shall finally be determined to be made, shall be returned to the petitioner or petitioners; and if such improvement shall not be determined to be made, said sum, less any expenses that may have been incurred, shall be returned as aforesaid; if the council shall favor the petition the same shall be referred to the commissioners of assessment and a town surveyor not interested in such improvement, who shall thereupon make a map of such improvement, showing the real estate to be taken therefor, and all the property, which in the judgment of the said commissioners, will be specially benefited thereby, designating each lot and parcel on said map by a letter or number; said commissioners shall also ascertain, so far as practicable, the names of the owners of said real estate to be taken and property to be benefited, and the interest of each of the owners of real estate to be taken, and when such names or estates are not known they shall so report; they shall also appraise the value of the interest of each known owner of real estate to be taken, and the damage to be done to such owner by taking the same; and where the estates in any plot of land are unknown, they shall appraise the value of or the damage done to the fee simple. said commissioners shall also estimate all other expenses likely, in their judgment, to attend the completion of the improvement; said commissioners shall also estimate the amount likely to be realized from the sale of any buildings or parts of buildings, required to be taken on account of said improvement; this probable net cost they shall then assess upon the land to be specially benefited, in proportion to the benefit to be received; thereupon they shall, under their hands make a report of the facts ascertained and of the appraisements, estimates, determinations and assessments made by them concerning said improvement, and shall file such report and their map with the clerk of the town; thereupon the said clerk shall cause a notice of the filing of said map and report to be printed in the official newspaper of the town, or, if there be none, a newspaper published in the county and circulating in the town, for the period of two weeks, which notice shall contain a general description of the improvement intended, of the land to be taken, and of the land to be assessed therefor, and shall state the time and place when and where the council will meet to hear and consider any objections to said report or to the improvement, which may be presented in writing; said clerk shall also, within said period, cause notices to the same effect to be posted at points not over three hundred feet apart along the whole line of said improvement, the time appointed for hearing such objections being not less than ten days after the expiration of said period of two weeks, and shall also, within the said period, serve a copy of such notice upon resident owners of real estate affected thereby, but the omission of the clerk to serve such notice shall not invalidate any of said proceedings; and all objections at such time and place, presented in writing, the council shall consider and adjudicate upon, and the awards or assessments made in said report may be corrected accordingly; a copy of which corrections signed by the chairman of the council shall be filed with the said clerk within twenty days after the expiration of said period of two weeks; if the said council shall then determine to make said improvement, notwithstanding any objections to the same, the said council shall confirm said awards, with the corrections, if any, and pass an ordinance ordering said improvement to be made and completed in such manner as said council may direct, under the supervision of said commissioners of assessments; provided, the said council shall not proceed to make any such improvement if the owners of the property subject to more than two thirds of the assessment for the improvement shall remonstrate against the same being made; the said council shall also pass a resolution directing the several sums awarded to be paid to the persons to whom the awards are made for real estate taken and damages sustained in making said improvement, and upon the passage of such resolution the fee simple of said real estate to be taken shall be vested in the town; provided, that where the commissioners shall have reported the name or estates of the owners of any plot as unknown, the said resolution shall direct the sum of the award on account of such plot to be paid to the owners thereof, when and as their interest may appear, and any such owner or person interested in said land may by bill in chancery, according to the practice of that court, have the said sum distributed or in whole or in part paid over to him, as law and justice may require; after the completion of said improvement the said commissioners shall ascertain and determine the actual net cost thereof, and shall assess, as hereinafter provided, such actual net cost upon the lands specially benefited in proportion to the benefit received.

62. And be it enacted, That whenever by the report and map of the said commissioners, corrected as aforesaid, it shall appear that an award has been made to any person for property taken or damage sustained, and that such person is also assessed for benefits received on account of the same improvement, then if the assessment equal or exceed the award, no payment shall be made on account of such award; and if the award exceed the assessment, only so much of the award as is in excess shall be paid, and the resolution of the council ordering the awards to be paid shall be framed accordingly; and when the amount to be assessed shall be finally determined, such amount shall be set off against the amount of the award unpaid; and if the amount of the award unpaid be in excess, the assessment shall be cancelled, and such excess only shall be paid to the person to whom the award is made; and if the amount of the assessment be in excess, the award unpaid shall be cancelled, and such excess only shall be a lien upon the property assessed; the rest of the award or assessment, as the case may be being also cancelled.

63. And be it enacted, That whenever any person who shall have presented objections as aforesaid, to an award, shall be dissatisfied with the determination of the council, thereupon such person may commence an action on contract against the said town in the circuit court of the county, or in the supreme court of this state (provided that the trial shall be had in the county in which such town is located), which action shall proceed in all things as if such town had, upon taking the real estate required for the said improvement, agreed in writing to pay therefor the value thereof and the damage done by taking the same, and if in said action the plaintiff shall recover more than the amount awarded as aforesaid he shall recover his taxable costs according to law; and if he shall not recover more than the amount awarded, then the defendant shall recover his taxable costs against the plaintiff, and shall be entitled to have them deducted from the amount recovered by the plaintiff, and execution shall issue only for the balance, the assessment (if any) against the plaintiff being also deducted from the amount of the judgment; provided, always, that no such action shall be brought by any person who may have received payment of the amount awarded, nor unless notice that such action shall be brought, be filed with the clerk of said council within sixty days after the confirmation of the award, nor unless such action be commenced within six months after such confirmation; provided further, that the judge of the said circuit court may, upon petition, for good cause shown, and upon such terms as he may direct, dispense with either or all of the provisions in the last proviso contained.

64. And be it enacted, That any street or section of a street may be graded, flagged, macadamized, paved, curbed, guttered or have a sidewalk of any material constructed thereon, or be otherwise improved, as hereinbefore provided, in the following manner, namely on the petition in writing to the council by the owners of one sixth of the lands fronting on the street or section of street proposed to be improved, or upon like petition of ten freeholders, the council shall, by resolution, direct the town clerk to advertise such application or petition and the notice hereinafter provided for, for at least two weeks, one in each week successively, in the official paper of the town, or if there be none, in one or more newspapers published in the county and circulating in the county and circulating in the town, and to post copies of the said petition and notice in five public places in the town designated by the council, at least ten days prior to the time fixed for the hearing of objections to such improvement; the clerk shall also publish and post as aforesaid, with the petition, a notice signed by him, stating that objections in writing to said proposed improvement shall be filed with him, and designating the time and place when and where the town council will meet to consider such objections, which time shall not be less than ten days after the date of the first publication of such petition and notice as aforesaid; and the said clerk shall also serve like notice on the owners of property residing along the street or section of streets so proposed to be improved, at least five days before the time designated in said notice; provided, however that no assessment shall be set aside or affected by reason of the failure of said clerk to serve such notice; and at or before the time named in such notice the said clerk shall file in his office affidavit showing that such petition and notice have been published and posted as herein required; at the time named in such notice the council shall proceed to consider such objections as shall have been presented, and if it appear that appear that the owners of two thirds of the land fronting on such proposed improvement have objected thereto, such improvement shall not be made and all costs and expenses incurred in such proceedings shall be paid by the petitioners, to secure which the council shall in all cases require a deposit of fifty dollars before receiving any petition; and the council may, in its discretion, determine not to make such improvement, in which case the deposit made by the petitioner or petitioners, less any expenses that may have been incurred, shall be returned to him or them; and the defeat of any ordinance for such improvement introduced before the council, shall be conclusive as to the determination of the council not to make such improvement; at any time after the time named in said notice for objections, the council may proceed to pass an ordinance for such improvement, and such ordinance shall be valid if it describes in general language the improvement required to be made and done, and it shall not be necessary to state therein any other matter or thing connected with said improvement; the town clerk shall publish and post such ordinance in the same manner and for the same time he is required to publish and post the petition for the improvement described therein; and he shall file in his office an affidavit showing that such ordinance has been duly published and posted; at any time after the passage of such ordinance the council may require the clerk to advertise for proposals for doing the work of and furnishing the materials necessary for such improvement, in the official paper of the town and in such other newspapers as shall be designated by the council, which proposals shall be presented in such form and manner and under such regulations as the council shall prescribe; upon the coming in of such proposals the council may enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidders on the terms of their proposals; provided, however, that the council may reject all bids if they deem it for the interest of the town so to do, in which case they shall again advertise for proposals and shall proceed in all things as if no proposals had been offered; and the council shall require the person or persons so entering into contract with the town to give bonds with ample free and security for the due performance thereof.

65. And be it enacted, That sewers may be built and constructed in any of the streets of the town under the control of the town authorities on the petition of owners of one-sixth of the lands adjoining the proposed route of the sewer; and the proceedings after receiving such petition, shall be in all respects the same as are hereinbefore set forth for flagging and grading of streets, and all the provisions of this act relating to flagging and grading of streets shall be applicable to proceedings for the construction of sewers, except as modified in and by this section.

66. And be it enacted, That the council may appoint an inspector over the work and materials on any sewer or street improvement and may fix his compensation; the amount of such compensation shall be included in and form part of the cost of the improvement.

67. And be it enacted, That before the council accept any work on any sewer or street improvement, or any final payment be made to the contractor, the council shall publish as aforesaid a notice stating when the council shall meet to receive and consider objections in writing to the work and materials done and used in such improvement, and if any such objections shall appear to be well founded, the council shall take such action thereon as in their judgment the interests of the town shall require.

68. And be it enacted, That where it shall be necessary in the construction of any public sewer to take or use private property for that purpose, the council shall have power to provide, in the ordinance for the building or constructing of any such sewer, for the taking of such private property as is necessary; for that purpose the damages and awards to be made for lands so taken shall be determined and made by the commissioners of assessment who shall report the same to the council, and thereafter the proceedings shall be the same in all respects as are hereinbefore provided for opening of streets.

69. And be it enacted, That where any town shall be so situated that it shall have no immediate outlet for sewage except through adjoining municipalities or by connections with sewers existing or contemplated to be built in adjoining municipalities, it shall be lawful for the town council of the town and the governing body of such adjoining municipality to enter into contract for the payment of a sum in gross by such town for the right to connect with any sewer or sewers in such adjoining municipality, and the amount of such contract price shall be included in the costs of making the sewer in and through such town which it is proposed so to connect with the sewer in the adjoining municipality, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter directed as if such contract price were a portion of the cost of wholly constructing the sewer within the territorial limits of the town.

70. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to issue improvement certificates, payable within one year or less with interest, to the amount of eighty per centum of the work done on any street, sewer or other public improvement when certified as correct by the engineer in charge of the work; and when the contract is fully completed and the work is accepted the town council may issue a certificate for an additional fifteen per centum of said work done, and in not less than three nor more than six months after the date of the acceptance of the work may issue a final certificate for the balance due, unless some errors or defects in the work shall have appeared, in which case the certificate shall be withheld until the defect or errors are rectified to the satisfaction of the council.

71. And be it enacted, That the cost and expense of widening, opening or extending any street, and after the completion thereof the whole cost of any street, sewer or other public improvement, shall be ascertained and determined by the commissioners of assessment, and such cost and expense shall, so far as the same can be, be assessed upon the lands and real estate specially benefited by the improvement, in proportion to the benefit received; and no lot or parcel of land shall be assessed more than it is so specially benefited; and if the total cost of any improvement shall exceed the aggregate assessable special benefits, the excess shall be borne and paid by the town at large; the commissioners shall file their report with the town clerk, which shall be accompanied by a map showing what lots and parcels of land are specially benefited by the improvement the amount assessed as special benefits upon each lot or parcel of land, and the names of the owners of the several lots and parcels of land assessed, so far as the commissioners can ascertain the same, and the amount, if any, of the excess of the cost of the improvement over the aggregate assessable special benefits; but no assessment shall be deemed defective by reason of any mistake in the names of the owners of lands assessed or omitting the said names or any of them; the clerk shall publish and post notices in the same way and manner hereinbefore prescribed for publishing and posting the petition for the improvement and its accompanying notice, stating that the map and report of the commissioners have been filed in his office, and that the council will consider any objections to such report, map and assessment presented in writing on or before a day named in such notice to be fixed by the town council, which day shall be at least ten days after the first publication of such notices; after considering such report, map and assessment, and such objections as may have been presented against the same, the said council may confirm the said report, map and assessment, or if deemed necessary may return the same to the commissioners for revision and correction, who shall return the same corrected and revised without unnecessary delay; and thereafter the council may, without further notice, confirm the said report, assessment and map.

72. And be it enacted, That no certiorari injunction or other writ or process shall be allowed or granted to set aside any ordinance for any improvement after the contract therefore shall have been awarded by the council of the town; and no certiorari, injunction or other writ or process shall be allowed or granted to set aside any assessment made for any sewer or street improvement of any kind after thirty days shall have elapsed from the date of the confirmation of such assessment by the council of such town.

73. And be it enacted, That the council shall have the power to issue bonds payable in not exceeding ten years, and bearing interest at not exceeding six per centum per annum, to raise moneys to pay for lands taken for opening or extending or widening streets, constructing roads or building sewers, or for the redemption of improvement certificates issued under this act, or to pay any judgment recovered against the town, and the council may likewise issue bonds to run not exceeding ten years, and bearing interest at not exceeding six per centum per annum, as above, to renew such part of the bonded debt of the municipality of which the town is the successor which may become due and payable, and for the payment of which no provisions shall have been made.

74. And be it enacted, That the fiscal year of the town shall commence on the first day of May in each year.

75. And be it enacted, That all moneys received on redemption of lands from sales for unpaid taxes, and for or on account of arrears of taxes, shall be apportioned to and among the several appropriations for which such taxes were raised, except that the costs of sale and redemption fee shall be paid into the incidental fund, and all moneys received on redemption of lands from sales for unpaid assessments shall be paid into the sinking fund, excepting costs of sales, shall be returned to the incidental fund; all unexpended balances remaining at the close of any fiscal year shall be appropriated or transferred or otherwise disposed of as the council in its judgment shall deem proper.

76. And be it enacted, That there shall be annually raised by taxation a sum sufficient to pay all interest accruing on the bonded debt during the fiscal year and also at least three and one-third per centum of the principal of such bonded debt, excluding therefrom bonds issued for street improvements, which shall be paid into the sinking fund.

77. And be it enacted, That all moneys received for licenses, and all other moneys received and not specifically appropriated, shall be paid into the incidental fund.

78. And be it enacted, That all taxes and assessments in such town shall bear interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum from the time the same became due and payable.

79. And be it enacted, That all taxes and all assessments heretofore or hereafter levied, assessed or made upon any lands, tenements or real estate, situate in such town, shall be and remain a lien thereon until paid notwithstanding any devise, descent, alienation, mortgage or other encumbrance thereof; and if the full amount of any such tax or assessment shall not be paid and satisfied within such time as shall be limited and appointed by the council for the payment thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the council to cause such lands, tenements or real estate to be sold at public auction for the shortest term for which any person will agree to take the same and pay such tax or assessment, or the balance due thereof remaining unpaid, with the interest thereon, and all costs, charges and expenses, and to execute under the common seal of said town a declaration of such sale, to be signed by the chairman of the council and the town clerk, and to deliver the same to the purchaser, and such purchaser, his executors, administrators or assigns shall, by virtue thereof, lawfully hold and enjoy the said lands, tenements or real estate for his and their own proper use against the owner or owners thereof, and all persons claiming under him or them, until said term shall be completed and ended; provided, the said council shall first have caused said sale to be advertised for at least two months in its official paper, or, if none, then at least in one public newspaper published in the county and circulating in such town, and also by advertisements put up in at least five public places in such town, which advertisement shall describe the said lands, tenements or real estate and specify the amount of assessment or tax and the recitals in such declaration of sale shall be evidence of the assessment advertising and sale; and provided, also, that the purchaser shall not be entitled to possession of lands so purchased until the period herein limited for redemption shall have expired; and provided, also, that the lands, tenements or real estate so sold may be redeemed by the owner, mortgagee, occupant or persons interested therein, or by any other persons, or in behalf of the owner, mortgagee or claimant of such lands, tenements or real estate, at any time within two years after the sale for either taxes or assessments, or for both, by paying to the treasurer of the town, for the use of said purchaser, the purchase money, together with any other sum paid for tax or assessment, which the said purchaser may have paid, chargeable on such lands, tenements or real estate and which he is hereby authorized to do, with interest thereon at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum, in addition thereto; and the certificate of the treasurer of the town, stating the payments, and showing what lands, tenements and real estate such payment is intended to redeem shall be evidence of such redemption; any mortgagee shall have power to redeem at any time until the expiration of the six months' notice therein specified; no mortgagee whose mortgage shall have been duly recorded before sale for any tax or assessment shall be affected by such sale until six months' notice, in writing, shall have been given to him, either personally, or if not to be found in said town, then such notice shall be deposited in the post office of said town, directed to him at his last known place of residence (or at the post office nearest thereto); but nothing therein contained shall be so construed as to impair the lien created by such tax, assessment or sale; and provided, the same term of time for which any lands, tenements or real estate so sold as aforesaid shall not commence, nor shall said purchaser or those claiming under him have a right of possession to said lands, tenements or real estate until the two years limited for the redemption of the same shall have expired, and the said purchaser or those claiming under him shall, at the expiration of the time limited in such declaration of the sale, quit and surrender the said lands, tenements or real estate in as good state and condition as when he entered thereon, natural wear and accidents excepted; provided, also, that the said sale may be adjourned or postponed from time to time, or suspended as the council or their committee, appointed to attend to said sale, may direct; and provided, that if, at any sale of lands, tenements or real estate, for assessment or taxes, the whole or any part thereof shall remain unsold for want of purchasers, then it shall be lawful for the said council or said committee to adjourn the sale not less than thirty days nor more than sixty days, twenty days notice at least, by publication for two weeks and posting, shall be given as aforesaid of the said adjourned sale; and if, at such adjourned sale, there shall be no purchasers for said lands tenements or real estate, or for any part thereof, then it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the said town to purchase the said lands, tenements or real estate for any term not exceeding one hundred years for the benefit of the town, subject to the same redemption as herein before provided for; provided also, that all moneys paid for the redemption of said lands, tenements or real estate as aforesaid, together with all taxes and assessments paid by any mortgagee or judgment creditor, shall be a lien upon said lands, tenements or real estate for the amount so paid, with interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum and such lien shall have precedence over all other liens on said lands, tenements or real estate; provided, further, that a complete record of all taxes and assessments shall be kept in the town clerk's office, which record shall contain the time when such assessment and taxes were laid the time when they were paid (and if the property has been sold therefor) the time of said sale and to whom sold, and if redeemed, when and by whom; it shall be the duty of the town clerk to enter in a book to be called "record of sales," a minute of all declarations of all sales, and to give certificates of search in relation to liens to any person or persons applying for the same, and to cancel such declarations when the property for which they were given shall be redeemed, on the certificate of the town treasurer of such redemption, and to file such certificate in the said clerk's office; it shall be the duty of the treasurer to make out two certificates of all property redeemed, one for the person redeeming and one to be filed in the said clerk's office; it shall be lawful for the council of said town to sell, assign and transfer any declaration of sale or any term in lands purchased for the benefit of said town as aforesaid, or any portion of a term, for such price as said council may think proper.

80 And be it enacted, That the assessor shall levy a tax upon every person who owns or has the care of any dog, male or female as follows: one dollar for each male dog, and three dollars for every female dog, in lieu of the state law, which tax shall be appropriated to the support of the school.

81. And be it enacted, That the assessor shall complete his assessment and present his books to the council for examination by the third Monday in September annually, and the council shall complete their examination of the same by the first Monday in October; immediately thereafter the collector shall give notice as required by section ten of the tax act, and within thirty days thereafter the collector shall make the demand and give the notice as required by section eleven of the tax act, and the day fixed by him for the payment thereof shall not be later than December twentieth.

82. And be it enacted, That all the property, real and personal, of the several school districts existing within the limits of any town, borough or township, before its incorporation under the provisions of this act, shall, upon such incorporation, become and be the property of such incorporated town, and shall be held in its corporate name, and the several obligations, contracts and debts of said previously existing school district shall be assumed by and shall become and be the obligations, contracts and debts of said incorporated town, and that the board of education shall possess and exercise all the powers and perform all the duties by law vested in or imposed upon the trustees of school districts; they shall organize annually by choosing a chairman and a clerk, and may establish schools and provide for their government, and shall keep all school property in good repair; they shall define and fix the duties and compensation of their clerk, who shall also perform all duties enjoined by law on district clerks; provided, that no property shall be bought or building erected by the said board unless a majority of the voters of the town voting at an annual town meeting shall have voted an appropriation for that purpose; in case any appropriation for the purchase of land and the erection of a school building shall be voted by the electors of the town at any town election, the council shall issue bonds in the corporate name of the town for the amount of such appropriation, in such denominations as they shall deem proper; such bonds shall be designated "school bonds," shall bear interest at not exceeding the rate of six per centum per annum, and shall not be sold for less than their par value; they shall be made payable in such manner that, at the expiration of three years, three-fifteenths thereof shall become due and payable and thereafter one fifteenth thereof shall become due and payable annually; the council shall provide for raising by taxation annually the interest thereon and one-fifteenth of the principal thereof; the proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be held by the town treasurer and shall be paid out by him on the warrants of the board of education; at any time after an appropriation is voted as aforesaid, the board of education may purchase the necessary land and enter into contract for the erection of a school building thereon, the title to which property shall be vested in the town by its corporate name.

83. And be it enacted, That all general laws and statutes of this state heretofore passed relating to incorporated towns shall be and they are hereby made applicable to any town formed or created under this act, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with or repugnant to the provisions of this act.

84. And be it enacted, That all proceedings for opening, widening, extending, grading, regulating and otherwise improving streets and avenues which may be pending and remain unfinished and incomplete at the time of incorporation under or adoption of this act by any town or township, shall be proceeded with and completed under the laws in force at the time such proceedings were commenced, and as if such town or township had not become incorporated under this act.

85. And be it enacted, That every town government heretofore established, formed under and in accordance with the provisions of the acts of the legislature of this state for the formation and government of towns, which has been in fact constituted, formed and organized substantially in the manner directed by this act, containing within its limits and jurisdiction the population herein required, whether the authority to form such government has been lawfully conferred or not, shall be deemed, held and taken to be a town government created under the provisions of this act; and each and every such government is hereby constituted and made a town government, as fully to all intents and purposes as if the proceedings for the formation of the same had been instituted and the said governments had been formed and established under the provisions of this act; each and every such town government is hereby perpetuated and continued, and authorized, without reorganization, or further proceeding, to assume and exercise all the powers, privileges and franchises herein and hereby conferred upon town governments organized under the provisions of this act; and that all officers heretofore appointed, chosen or elected in any such town government, shall continue in office until the expiration of the term or terms for which they were originally appointed or elected, with all the powers, and subject to all the duties and responsibilities that are conferred or imposed upon like officers appointed, elected or chosen, or to be appointed, elected or chosen in governments formed and organized under the provisions of this act; and that all laws, ordinances, acts and proceedings of every such government heretofore passed, had, done and taken shall have the same force, validity and effect as if they had been passed had, done and taken by governments formed and organized under and in pursuance of the authority of this act.

86. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 7, 1895.

CHAPTER CXIV.

An Act to authorize policemen to serve writs and other process in certain cases.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any of the cities of this state having but one constable elected according to law, the policemen appointed by the common council of said cities shall have all the powers of constables for the purpose of serving any summons, warrant, venire or other process issued by any justice of the peace or police justice in said city, except in the court for the trial of small causes, and a return by such officer signed as policeman shall be as good and sufficient in law as though signed by any constable.

2 And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 11, 1895.

CHAPTER CXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "A general act concerning taxes," approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all appeals to the state board of taxation shall be filed with said state board of taxation on or before the first day of April next following the assessment or levy of taxes appealed from.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts, special or general, inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately

Approved March 11, 1895.

CHAPTER CXVI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "A general act concerning taxes" approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where an appeal shall be made to the state board of taxation for the reduction of any assessment made by any assessor or taxing officer whose duty it is by law to make assessments for the purpose of taxation and a reduction of the assessments so appealed from, shall be made or ordered by the state board of taxation on such appeal, the party or corporation whose assessment has been so reduced by order of the said state board of taxation shall have thirty days from the date of the signing of the order by the state board of taxation reducing such assessment in which to pay the taxes so reduced or corrected, without any additional charge for interest or penalties on such amount adjusted or ordered by the said state board of taxation; and it shall be the duty of the collectors or persons whose duty it is by law to receive or collect the taxes in the various taxing districts of this state to receive and collect such amount of taxes so reduced by order of the state board of taxation, without any charge in addition for interest or penalties thereon.

2. And be it enacted, That in cases where the state board of taxation shall increase the assessment of any person or corporation, the person or corporation whose assessment has been increased by order of the state board of taxation shall have the like thirty days in which to pay the assessment so increased by order of the state board of taxation, without any additional charges for interest or penalties on such amount increased by the state board of taxation.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts, special or general, inconsistent with this act, are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 11 1895.

CHAPTER CXVII.

A supplement to an act entitled "A general act concerning taxes," approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That every assessor or board of tax commissioners in every taxing district of this state, whose duty it is, by law to make assessments, whether the same be a township, borough, village, city or other municipality, shall on or before the first day of November next ensuing the making of assessments for taxes in each year, transmit in writing, under oath or affirmation, to the office of the state board of taxation, at Trenton, a statement copied from the duplicate or assessment books of such taxing district in which the assessments of property for taxation for that year are contained the following facts:

First. The total amount or value of real estate assessed by such assessor or tax commissioners in such taxing district for that year.

Second. The total amount or value of personal property assessed by such assessor or tax commissioners in such taxing district for that year.

Third. The total amount or value of deductions for debts claimed and allowed, other than debts secured by mortgage, by such assessor or tax commissioners in such taxing district for that year.

Fourth. The total amount or value of exempt property assessed by such assessor or tax commissioners in such taxing district for that year, specifying particularly and by separate items—(a) the total amount or value of church property, (b) the total amount or value of property used for charitable purposes, (c) the total amount or value of school property owned by the taxing district, (d) the total amount or value of other school property. (e) the total amount or value of public property located in such taxing district other than school property, (f) the total amount or value of cemetery property or property used for graveyards, (g) the total amount or value of the exemptions claimed and allowed by such assessors or tax commissioners under the firemen's militia and veterans' acts, specifying the amount in each case, if any.

2. And be it enacted, That a failure of any assessor or board of tax commissioners, whose duty it is by law to make the assessments for taxes, to transmit such statement to the state board of taxation as is directed and required by this act, such assessor or board of tax commissioners shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be received by the state board of taxation in an action in any court of this state having jurisdiction of the same, such penalty to be used by the state board of taxation for procuring the facts required by this act, to be transmitted to the office of the state board of taxation.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts, special or general, inconsistent with this act, are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 11, 1895.

CHAPTER CXVIII.

An Act for the prevention of blindness in the state of New Jersey.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That should one or both eyes of an infant become inflamed, swollen or reddened, or show any unnatural discharge at any time within two weeks after its birth, and no legally qualified practitioner of medicine be in attendance upon the infant at the time, it shall be the duty of the midwife, nurse, attendant or relative having charge of such infant to report the fact in writing, within six hours, the local board of health of the city, township or other municipality in which the parents of the infant reside.

2. And be it enacted, That the said local board of health shall direct the parents or person having charge of such infant suffering from such inflammation, swelling, redness or unnatural discharge of the eyes to immediately place it in charge of a legally qualified practitioner of medicine, or in charge of the physician of the city, township or other municipality if unable to pay for medical services.

3. And be it enacted, That every local board of health in the state of New Jersey shall furnish a copy of this act to every legally qualified practitioner of medicine, and to each person who is known to act as a midwife or nurse, in the city, township or other municipality for which such board of health is appointed; and the secretary of state shall cause a sufficient number of copies of this act to be printed, and to supply the same to such officers for distribution.

4. And be it enacted, That any failure to comply with the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not to exceed two hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or both, upon conviction under prosecution proceedings to be brought by any local board of health.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect and be in force on the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Approved March 11, 1895.

CHAPTER CXX.

An Act to authorize grading, paving, curbing and repairing sidewalks in boroughs of this state incorporated under special charters, and to provide for the collection of the costs of the same.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever in any of the boroughs of this state, incorporated under special charters, sidewalks have been or shall be graded, paved, curbed or repaired, it shall be lawful for the governing body, when authorized by a majority of the votes cast at an election held for the purpose as herein provided, to expend such sum of money as may be authorized by such vote, not exceeding five per centum of the assessed value of the real estate of such borough as shown upon the county records the year when such authority is given or the year next preceding, for the purpose of paying the cost and expenses of grading, paving, curbing and repairing the sidewalks within such borough, either in whole or in part, in such manner as they may deem advisable, and to issue bonds therefor in the corporate name of such borough in the manner hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever in the judgment of the governing body of such borough it shall be deemed advisable to make any expenditure authorized by this act and to issue bonds therefor, the said governing body may order an election to determine whether bonds shall be issued to procure money or the payment of the cost and expenses of the proposed improvement, and shall designate the time and place for holding such election and appoint judges and inspectors thereof; which election may be at the time and place fixed by law for the election of municipal officers, or may be a special election called for the purpose; provided, that when a special election shall have been ordered under the provisions of this act, six calendar months must elapse before any order for another such special election shall be issued; the polls shall be open at least from three o'clock until eight o'clock in the afternoon; notice of said election and of the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, which amount shall not exceed five per centum of the assessed value of its real estate of such borough as shown upon the county records the year when such authority is given or the year next preceding, shall be given by advertisement, set up in at least ten public places in such borough for at least twenty days, and published for two successive weeks in three newspapers circulating therein; on the ballots issued at such election shall be printed or written "for the issue of bonds" or "against the issue of bonds," and the said election officers shall return to the governing body of such borough a true and correct statement in writing under their hands of the result of such election.

3. And be it enacted, That if at such election a majority of all the ballots cast shall be "for the issue of bonds," it shall then be lawful for the governing body of such borough to proceed with the improvement of the sidewalks, the work to be done by contract, and to incur an expense therefor not exceeding the amount mentioned in the notice of such election, and to issue coupon bonds of such borough for the purpose of providing funds to pay the cost and expenses of such improvements, such bonds to be issued from time to time as occasion may require, but not to exceed in the aggregate the amount mentioned in the notice of such election; the bonds may be made payable at times to be therein specified in a period of not more than ten years from issuing the same, and shall be so issued that a portion of the same shall be made payable in each year from the date of said bonds, and shall be disposed of in such manner as the governing body of such borough may determine, but in no case shall such bonds be issued or sold at less than the par value thereof.

4. And be it enacted, That in addition to means already provided either by law or ordinance for the collection of such cost and expenses from the owner or owners of the lot or lands in front of which such sidewalks have been graded, paved, curbed or repaired, it shall be lawful for the governing body of such borough to certify the cost thereof to the collector of taxes for said borough, with a description of the lot or lots of land in front of which the work was done, and the owner's name if it can be ascertained; the collector shall file a copy of said certificate in the office of the clerk of the county in which said borough is situate in the book of returns of unpaid taxes on real estate, and the amount of such cost, with expenses and lawful interest, shall be and remain a paramount lien on such lot or tract of land for the term of ten years from the date of such improvement, unless sooner paid or otherwise satisfied; the collector shall thereupon proceed to collect the same in such yearly or other installment as the borough shall direct, providing the installments do not extend beyond a period of ten years, but said collector shall make such collections in the manner in which unpaid taxes on real estate are now or may be by law collectable in such borough, unless otherwise directed by said borough.

5. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 11, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXI.

An Act to provide for the election of chosen freeholders in certain cities and incorporated towns in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be elected from cities of the third class and incorporated towns of this state, having a population of not less than eight thousand, which are not now but may hereafter be divided into wards, a chosen freeholder to represent each ward of such city or incorporated town in the board of chosen freeholders of the county in which such city or incorporated town is situated, whose term of office shall be the same as the other freeholders elected in said county; provided, however, that if a chosen freeholder now holds a seat in the board of chosen freeholders of the county from any such city or incorporated town to which this act applies, or from the township of which such city or incorporated town formed a part and from which it has been set off, and is a resident of such city or incorporated town, such freeholder shall remain in office until the expiration of the term for which he was elected, as the chosen freeholder from the ward in which he resides; and his successor shall be elected for a term ending at the same time that the term of office of the other chosen freeholders of such city or town shall terminate.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 13, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the collector of taxes of any borough formed under the act to which this is a supplement shall, when requested to do so at any time by the mayor and council of such borough, render to said mayor and council a true and full account of all moneys collected by him as such collector up to such time, and of all payments made by him out of said moneys, and for what purpose, and shall also when required by said mayor and council, pay over to any bank or banking institution designated by them all moneys then in his hands collected or received by him for borough purposes, in the corporate name of such borough subject to drafts thereon, to be signed by the said mayor, attested by the borough clerk and countersigned by said collector.

2. And be it enacted, That if any such collector shall not comply with any such requirement, demand or direction of such mayor and council as herein provided, then he shall forfeit and pay to such borough the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in a proper suit in any court of competent jurisdiction.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to protect trade marks and labels,' approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to protect trade marks and labels,' approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any person, or any association or union of workingmen has heretofore adopted or used or shall hereafter adopt or use any label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement for the purpose of designating, making known or distinguishing any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor, as having been made, man*ufactured, produced, prepared, packed or put on* sale by such person or association or union of workingmen, or by a member or members of such association or union, it shall be unlawful to counterfeit or imitate such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, or to use, sell, offer for sale or in any way utter or circulate any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement.

2 And be it enacted, That section two of said act be amended to read as follows:

2 And be it enacted, That whoever counterfeits or imitates any such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, or sells, offers for sale, or in any way utters or circulates any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, or knowingly uses any such counterfeit or imitation, or knowingly sells or disposes of, or keeps or has in his possession, with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor to which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached or affixed, or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is printed, painted, stamped or impressed, or knowingly sells or disposes of any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor contained in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, painted, stamped or impressed, or keeps or has in his possession with intent that the same shall be disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, painted, stamped or impressed, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

3. And be it enacted, That section three of said act be amended to read as follows:

3 And be it enacted, That every such person, association or union that has heretofore adopted or used, or shall hereafter adopt or use, any label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, as provided in section one of this act, may file the same for record in the office of the secretary of state by leaving two copies, counterparts or fac-similes thereof, with said secretary, and by filing therewith a sworn statement, specifying the name or names of the person, association or union on whose behalf such label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement shall be filed, the class of merchandise, and a particular description of the goods to which it has been or is intended to be appropriated; that the party so filing, or on whose behalf such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement shall be filed, has the right to the use of the same, and that no other person, firm, association, union or corporation has the right to use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, and that the fac-simile copies or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct; there shall be paid for such filing and recording a fee of one dollar; any person who shall, for himself or on behalf of any other person, association or union procure the filing of any label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement in the office of the secretary of state under the provisions of this act by making any false or fraudulent representations or declarations, verbally or in writing, or by any fraudulent means, shall be liable to pay any damages sustained in consequence of any such filing, to be recovered by or on behalf of the party injured thereby, in any court having jurisdiction, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court; said secretary shall deliver to such person, association or union so filing or causing to be filed any such label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, so many duly attested certificates of the recording of the same as such person, association or union may apply for, for each of which certificates said secretary shall receive a fee of one dollar; any such certificate of record shall in all suits and prosecutions under this act be sufficient proof of the adoption of such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement; said secretary of the state shall not record for any person, union or association any label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement that would reasonably be mistaken for any label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement theretofore filed by or on behalf of any other person, union or association.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

Continued from Page 15.

ded against the property of individuals, copartnerships, married women, joint stock associations, corporations, or any defendant or defendants in any action at law, and that the practice and procedure in relation to the issue, the levy and the return of the said writ or writs, and the execution thereof when improperly issued, shall be the same as in cases of attachment against non-resident debtors.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER XLIV

A Supplement to an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the formation of borough governments,' approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy eight," which supplement was approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, and is chapter one hundred and seventy-six of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the second section of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby repealed; provided, however, that the term of office of any freeholder heretofore elected under said act shall be extended to and terminate on the second Wednesday of May next.

2. And be it enacted, That at the annual elections for borough officers which are held on the same day that the annual township elections are held in the various townships of this state, the legal voters of any borough heretofore organized under and by virtue of the act to which this is a supplement, embracing within its territory parts of more than one township, shall be entitled to vote within such borough for a chosen freeholder for the township in which a majority of the legal voters of such borough shall reside at the time of the passage of this act, and the legal voters of any such borough hereafter organized under and by virtue of said act shall be entitled to vote therein for a chosen freeholder for the township in which a majority of such legal voters shall reside at the time of the incorporation of such borough.

3. And be it enacted, That if any dispute shall arise or doubt shall exist as to which township shall contain the residence of a majority of the legal voters of any such borough, it shall be lawful for the council of such borough or the township committee of any township interested to apply to the president judge of the court of common pleas of the county wherein such borough is situated, who shall proceed in a summary way, on such notice as he may direct, to ascertain in which township the greater part of the legal voters of such borough reside, and his adjudication in writing, duly filed in the office of the clerk of said county shall be final and conclusive evidence thereof.

4. And be it enacted, That the votes polled in such borough for freeholder shall be added to the votes polled in the township and canvassed in the same manner as the votes of the several election districts in townships now are or hereafter may be directed by law to be canvassed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER XLV

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the relief of creditors against absconding and absent debtors," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where an attachment shall hereafter be issued out of the supreme court or any circuit court or common pleas court of this state, and the sheriff or other officer to whom said writ has been issued shall have attached any personal property, such sheriff or other officer shall be entitled to receive a just and reasonable compensation for storage, watchman or any other expense necessary to secure the safe keeping of the property so attached, such compensation to be fixed by the court out of which said writ issued, or any judge thereof, to be paid out of the first moneys arising from the sale of such property.

2. And be it enacted, That in all cases where an attachment shall hereafter be issued out of the supreme court or any circuit or common pleas court of this state, the said suit shall not be discontinued until the compensation so as aforesaid fixed shall have been paid.

3. And be it enacted, That in all cases where an attachment shall hereafter be issued out of the supreme court, circuit court or any common pleas court of this state, and the same shall have been quashed or dismissed by said court or any judge thereof, that the compensation so due said sheriff or other officer shall be considered as a part of the taxed costs in said suit to be paid by the plaintiff.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER XLVI.

An Act to authorize borough commissions to order and regulate the construction of sidewalks, and to provide for the payment of the expenses of the same.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the incorporated borough commissions of this state shall have power, through their several legislative bodies, to pass an ordinance for the regulation, construction and repair of sidewalks and thereby to fix, and determine the method in which sidewalks in such borough commission shall be constructed, repaired and maintained from materials out of which the same shall be constructed; also to provide for the payment of the cost of such construction, repair and maintenance; provided, however, that the property owners may construct, at their own expense, sidewalks of any material that may be allowed by general ordinance of such borough.

2. And be it enacted, That any such borough commission may prescribe, by general ordinance, in what cases such sidewalks shall be constructed, repaired and maintained at the expense of the abutting land owners; whenever in any borough commission it shall hereafter become the duty of any owner of abutting lands, under the ordinance of a borough commission, to construct, alter or repair any sidewalk or section thereof, the authorities of such borough commission having charge of the street affairs of the borough commission may cause a notice in writing to be served upon the owner or occupant of said lands, requiring the specified work to said sidewalk to be done by said owner or occupant within a period of not less than twenty days from the date of service of such notice; whenever any lands are occupied, and the owner cannot be found within the borough commission, the same may be mailed, postage prepaid, to his or her post office address, if the same can be ascertained; in case such owner is a non-resident of the borough commission, and his or her post office address cannot be ascertained, then the notice may be inserted for four weeks, once a week, in some newspaper of such borough commission, or in some newspaper printed in the township wherein said borough commission is situate; in case the owner or occupant of said lands shall not comply with the requirements of such notice, it shall be lawful for the street department of the borough commission to cause the required work to be done and paid for out of the moneys of the borough commission to the credit of the street department; the cost of such work shall be certified by the person or persons having charge thereof to the person having charge of the collection of taxes and assessments in such borough commission; upon filing said certificate with the collector of taxes of said borough commission the amount of the cost of such work shall be and become a lien upon the said abutting lands in front of or on the side of which such work was done; and it shall and may be lawful for the authorities in such borough commission to place the assessments made against any property improved in the manner specified in this act in the annual tax bill rendered to the owner or owners of such property, and the same may be collected in the same manner and by the same officers as taxes are or may be collected in such borough commission; in addition thereto the borough commission may have an action upon contract to recover the said amount against the owner of said lands in any court having obtained jurisdiction thereof; the certified copy of the aforesaid certificate shall in such an action be prima facie evidence of the existence of a debt due from the said owner to the borough.

3. And be it enacted, That all moneys recovered or paid to the borough commission under the provisions of the last preceding section shall be credited to the account out of which the cost of the work was paid.

4. And be it enacted, that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER XLVII.

An Act to fix the time at which the term of office of township officers shall begin in counties of the first class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the term of office of all township and village officers who shall hereafter be elected in the several townships and villages in counties of the first class in this state shall begin on the Monday next after the annual town meeting or election at which such officers shall be chosen; and such officers shall continue in office until their successors shall be duly elected and qualified.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

An Act to provide for free lectures for workingmen and workingwomen.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the boards of education in cities of this state or other municipalities containing over ten thousand population according to the last census are hereby authorized and empowered to provide for the employment of lecturers on the natural sciences and kindred subjects in the public schools in any said city, or other municipality, in the evenings, for the benefit of working men and working women.

2. And be it enacted, That the said boards of education shall have power to purchase the books, stationery, charts and other things necessary and expedient to successfully conduct said lectures, which it shall have power to direct.

3. And be it enacted, That no admission fee shall be charged, and at least one school in each ward, or sub-division of each city or municipality, where practicable, shall be designated by the said board of education for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, and at least one lecture shall be delivered during each of the months of October, November, December, January, February, and March in each year, which shall be advertised in a daily or weekly paper published in said city or municipality at least ten days in advance of the delivery thereof.

4. And be it enacted, That the boards of education of any of the said cities or municipalities are hereby authorized to meet previous to the first day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, and provide the necessary appropriations for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER XLIX.

An Act to provide for the autonomy of certain cities in this state which have been created out of townships whose officers have continued to exercise their functions within the corporate limits of such cities.

Whereas, certain cities of this state have been heretofore created within the limits of the territory theretofore included within the boundaries of townships, and governed as such and notwithstanding the creation of cities the township committees and other officers of such townships have continued to assert and exercise their powers as the governing bodies and officers of such townships, in and over and within the limits of such cities, by the assessment and collection of taxes and otherwise, whereby great confusion has arisen in the government of said cities; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That from and after the passage of this act, no officer or officers of any township of this state from which any city has been heretofore created, the officers of which townships have continued to exercise their functions within the corporate limits of such city, shall perform any governmental act or exercise as an officer of such township any official function within or over any such city or the property or inhabitants thereof.

2. And be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, all taxes assessed or collected within the limits of such cities for any purpose shall be assessed and collected exclusively by the assessor or assessors, collector or collectors of such cities, who shall discharge the same duties and exercise the same powers conferred by law upon assessors and collectors of taxes in such cities; and such assessors of taxes of such cities shall be members of the board of assessors of the counties in which such cities may be situated.

3. And be it enacted, That in each of such cities, unless otherwise provided for by law, there shall be elected at the charter election so many overseers of the poor as are or may be authorized by law to be elected in each of the townships of the county in which such city is situated.

4. And be it enacted, That in each of such cities there shall be elected at the charter election so many freeholders as are or hereafter may be authorized by law to be elected in each of the townships of the county in which such city is situated.

5. And be it enacted, That in each of such cities, or in each of the wards thereof, there shall be elected at the next charter election and thereafter as their terms of office may expire, so many justices of the peace as are now authorized by the constitution; said justices shall hold office for the term now fixed by law for the justices of the peace elected in townships of this state, and shall have the same jurisdiction and powers as such justices; vacancies in said office shall be filled at the charter elections in the said city in the same manner as is now done in the case of vacancies in the offices of justices elected in townships.

6. And be it enacted, That the township committees of such townships and the finance committees of such cities (or committees in charge of the finances of such cities) shall meet within thirty days after the passage of this act, in the city halls of such cities or other place or places wherein the common councils of such cities now meet, and shall then and there proceed, by writing signed by a majority of the members of said committees present to allot and divide between such cities and townships all property real and personal, choses in action, moneys on hand, tax liens, or the right thereof, due or to become due, in proportion to the taxable property and ratables as assessed by the respective assessors within the limits of such cities and townships at the last assessment for taxing purposes made by the respective assessors in such cities and townships, and may adjourn said meetings from time to time, as a majority of those present may deem proper; and the inhabitants of the said respective cities and townships shall be liable to pay their just proportion of the debts, if any there may be; and a majority of the persons comprising said committees shall constitute a quorum, and may proceed to make the said division, and shall, within six months from the time of said first meeting, make their report in writing to the city clerks of such cities and to the township clerk of such townships, to be filed by such officers with the public records of the respective cities and townships; provided, that such award and determination of said committees shall be reviewable by certiorari by the supreme court at the instance of any freeholder within any of such cities or townships, and on the hearing of said certiorari the said court shall have power to determine and settle in a summary manner all of the questions brought up by the said writ, and shall have power to adopt such rules and proceedings as may enable it to carry into effect the true intent and meaning of this section.

7. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with or repugnant to this act, in so far as they are inconsistent with or repugnant hereto, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately; provided, however, that nothing in this act contained shall prevent or in any way interfere with the collection in such cities by the officers of said township of taxes heretofore assessed upon persons and property within the limits of such cities by said township assessor, but the payment of such taxes may be enforced in the same manner and to the same extent as if this act had not been passed.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER L.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

Whereas, By reason of the consolidation of the several school districts in a township into one school district, a large number of children are not now residents of the districts in which they formerly resided; and whereas, in many cases a school house in an adjoining district is more convenient of access to a large number of children than any school house in the district in which such children reside; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the boards of education of any two adjoining school districts may fix and determine the line between said districts in such manner as, in their judgment, may be for the best interests of the schools; the line thus determined shall be accurately described, and a copy thereof filed with the state and county superintendents and with the district clerks, and the property and children transferred from one district to the other shall become and be a part of the district to which they have been annexed; in case the boards of education of two adjoining districts are unable to agree, the county superintendent shall, when petitioned so to do, with the approval of the state superintendent, fix said line, and shall file a copy of the description thereof with the state superintendent and with the district clerk of each of the boards of education; provided, that when the districts are situated in adjoining counties, and the boards of education are unable to agree, the line between said districts shall be determined by the county superintendents of said counties, acting jointly; and provided, further, that any boundary determined and described as provided in this section shall remain and be the boundary line between said districts for a period of three years, but nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing the readjustment of said boundary at the expiration of the three years, and every three years thereafter.

2. And be it enacted, That the portion of any school district annexed to an adjoining district shall become and be a portion of the district to which it is annexed for all school purposes, and the property included in said section shall be deemed to be and be a part of the taxing district to which it is annexed for the assessing, levying and collecting of special school taxes, ordered to be raised for the current school expenses, text books, and supplies of the district to which said property has been annexed, but for no other purpose whatsoever; and whenever any special district tax shall be ordered raised for any of the purposes enumerated in this section in any school district the boundary line of which is not the same as the boundary of a taxing district, it shall be the duty of the district clerk to make out and sign a certificate thereof, under oath or affirmation, that the same is correct and true, and deliver the same to the assessors of the several taxing districts in which said school district is situated, and to the county superintendent; it shall be the duty of each of said assessors to assess on the inhabitants of that portion of the school districts residing within the limits of his taxing district, and on their estates and the taxable property therein, in the same manner as township taxes are assessed, such portion of said special tax as shall be found to be due from that portion of the school district assessed by him; and said moneys shall be assessed and collected; and it shall be the duty of the collector of each of said taxing districts to collect that portion of said taxes assessed upon the inhabitants and property of that portion of the school district in his taxing district, and to turn over to the collector or other custodian of the school moneys belonging to said school district, the amount of tax assessed in that portion of said school district situated in his taxing district, and the assessor and collector of the fractional portion of any school district shall receive five cents and no more for each name for assessing, levying and collecting such special district school tax; but when the property to be assessed for any special school tax is the same as the property assessed for other than school purposes, then and in that case the assessor and collector shall not receive any special compensation for assessing, levying and collecting said special school tax.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER LI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section thirty-four of an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, be and is amended so as to read as follows:

34. And be it enacted, That each board of education created under the provisions of this act shall organize within ten days after the annual election, by the election of one of its members as president and one of its members as district clerk, and shall have the power to fix the compensation of said clerk, and on its failure to organize, the county superintendent shall appoint such president and district clerk; in case the office of president or district clerk shall become vacant by reason of death, removal or otherwise, the board of education shall, within ten days after such vacancy occurs, appoint one of its members to fill such vacancy for the unexpired term and on its failure to fill said vacancy within the said ten days, the county superintendent shall appoint one of the members of said board to fill such vacancy for the unexpired term.

2. And be it enacted, That if in any township city, town, borough or other municipality, acting under the provisions of this act, which is not divided into wards, it shall be deemed for the best interest of the schools that the number of members constituting the board of education of said township, city, town, borough or other municipality, shall be reduced to a number less than nine, it shall be the duty of the district clerk, when directed by the board of education, to insert in the call for the annual school meeting a notice that it will be determined at said annual meeting whether the board of education shall consist of three, five or nine members, and if it be determined at said meeting to reduce the number of members of said board to either five or three, the members of said board shall continue in office for the terms for which they were severally elected, and their successors shall be elected in the manner following:

I. If it be determined that the board of education shall consist of five members, then and in that case no election for members of said board shall be held at said meeting; at the next annual school meeting there shall be elected two members of said board for the term of three years, and at the second annual school meeting held after the meeting at which it was decided to reduce the number of members of the board of education to five there shall be elected two members of the board of education for the term of three years, and one member of said board for the term of one year, and thereafter there shall be elected at each annual school meeting a member or members of said board in the place of those whose terms expire, who shall hold office for the term of three years.

II. If it be determined that the board of education shall consist of three members, then and in that case no election for members of the board of education shall be held until the expiration of the terms of office of all the members of said board then in office, and at the second annual school meeting held after the annual meeting at which it was decided to reduce the number of members of the board of education to three, there shall be elected three members of said board of education for one, two and three years respectively, and thereafter one member of said board shall be chosen at each annual school meeting, who shall hold office for the term of three years.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER LII.

An Act authorizing and concerning the imprisonment of persons fined for violating city ordinances and who shall refuse or neglect to pay any such fines.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where a conviction is had for the violation of any city ordinance, and a pecuniary penalty or fine has been imposed for such violation, if the person found guilty of such violation shall refuse or neglect to pay the amount of such penalty, together with all costs and charges incident thereto, the court, justice of the peace, police justice, or recorder rendering such judgment is hereby empowered to commit such person to the county jail or work house of the county in which such conviction shall be had, for any period not exceeding ninety days, and said court, justice of the peace, police justice or recorder is further empowered, upon proof made that such person so committed has paid said penalty, together with all costs and charges incident thereto, to order said person to be discharged from said commitment.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the keeper of the jail or work house of the proper county to receive and safely keep every person who shall have been committed pursuant to the foregoing section, for the time named in such commitment, unless sooner discharged by the order made as aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall go into effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LIII.

An Act respecting cities of the first class, and providing for the collection of personal taxes therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the receiver of taxes or other officer for the collection of personal taxes in cities of the first class in this state, within twenty days after the twentieth day of January in each year, to make out in books, which may be used as warrants, a list of names of delinquents in the payment of personal taxes for the previous year and deliver the same to the comptroller of such city.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the comptroller of such city, to whom such list of delinquents shall be returned as aforesaid, immediately upon the receipt thereof to administer to the receiver of taxes or other officer for the collection of taxes in such city returning the same, an oath that the moneys in said list mentioned have been duly demanded or due notice thereof given or left at the usual place of residence of each delinquent who can be found or who may reside in said city, and thereupon as comptroller to issue his warrant directed to the receiver of taxes or other officer for the collection of taxes in such city, containing a list of the names of the several persons and the sum due from each respectively, either in figures or in words at length, as the same shall have been returned to him as aforesaid, and shall thereby command the said collector to cause the said several sums, with interest thereon as aforesaid, and all lawful costs and fees, to be levied and made of the goods and chattels of the several persons named therein and the date the same are due respectively, by selling the same at public auction, giving at least four days' notice of the time and place of such sale by advertisement set up in five public places in such city, and in case the receiver of taxes or other officer for the collection of taxes in such city, to whom such warrant is directed cannot find sufficient goods and chattels of the said persons whereof the tax or taxes so due from them respectively, with all costs and fees can be made, then the said warrant shall further direct that the said receiver or collector of taxes shall take his or her body, if to be found in the county in which such city is located, and deliver the same to the sheriff of such county, or his jailer, to be kept in close and safe custody until payment be made of the said tax with costs; and the warrant of the said comptroller shall be of like force and effect as if the comptroller of such city were a justice of the peace duly authorized to make such warrant, and for the purposes of this act the comptrollers of the respective cities of the first class of this state shall have and possess all the powers of justices of the peace; it shall not, however, be necessary for such comptrollers to have or keep a docket or to enter the name of the delinquent taxpayers or copies of their warrants in any docket; and such comptrollers shall not be entitled to any fees for services performed under this act.

3. And be it enacted, That the said warrants shall be made returnable by the receiver of taxes, or other collecting officer thereof, on the first Monday of November next ensuing, at which date the said warrant shall be returned to said comptroller with a full statement of all the taxes collected by virtue of said warrant, and the said comptroller shall thereupon, under his hand and seal, extend said warrant for such time not less than one year as he shall by endorsement thereon determine, and shall have power thereafter to extend the said warrant from time to time as he shall by further indorsement thereon determine.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LIV.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting police departments of cities and regulating the tenure and terms of officers and men employed in said departments," approved March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all incorporated towns of over ten thousand inhabitants in counties of the first class of this state authorized by law to establish and maintain a regular day and night uniform police, no person shall be removed from office or employment in the police department of said towns, except for just cause, and then only in the manner prescribed in section five in the act to which this is a supplement, for the removal of officers in such departments.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 25, 1895.

CHAPTER LV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the cities of the second class of this state to fund their unfunded or floating indebtedness," approved May fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the title to said act approved May fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: An act to authorize the cities of this state to fund their unfunded or floating indebtedness.

2. And be it enacted, That section one of said act of which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any city of this state, by and through its board of aldermen, common council or its board of finance, in such cities where the latter board now has power to issue bonds, to issue bonds for the whole amount of the outstanding unfunded or floating indebtedness of the city, or such part thereof as they from time to time shall prescribe, and such indebtedness shall be and include all the temporary outstanding notes, scrip and other indebtedness other than bonds; that such bonds may be made payable as follows: ten per centum of each issue five years from the date thereof, and ten per centum each successive year thereafter, each such payment to be provided for in the annual tax levy when such payments are due, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, and be issued in such sums and of such denomination as the board of aldermen, common council or board of finance shall by ordinance determine; all of such bonds shall be signed by the mayor, countersigned by the comptroller, attested by the city clerk, and have the corporate seal of the city affixed, and shall have coupons attached for every half year's interest, until due, which coupons shall be numbered to correspond with the bond to which they shall be respectively attached, and a register of such numbers, the date of issuing and the time of payment shall be made by the comptroller or other officer directed by said board, in a book to be provided for that purpose; provided, however, that no bonds shall be issued under this act to an amount which, with the other outstanding bonds of any such city, shall exceed the amount of ten per centum of the gross valuation of taxable property of any such city for the present fiscal year, nor shall any bonds be issued pursuant to this act unless the same are issued within one year after the passage hereof.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LVI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act providing for the formation and government of towns," approved April twenty-fourth, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the town council of any town in this state that heretofore may have, or hereafter shall, become a body politic and corporate under and by authority of the act of April twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, entitled "An act providing for the formation and government of towns," upon the petition in writing of not less than fifty persons, who shall be citizens and voters of such town, from time to time to increase, by ordinance, the number of wards thereof, and to change the lines of such wards as may be now existing or that may be hereafter created; provided, however, that each ward will consist of contiguous territory and shall contain, as nearly as possible, an equal number of inhabitants.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LVII.

An Act to incorporate societies for the perpetuation of the history of the colony of New Jersey, and the other American colonies, and the memory of the men who assisted in the establishment and preservation of the said colonies.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any association of not less than fifteen male citizens of this state, united to perpetuate the colonial history of New Jersey from the period of its settlement to the commencement of hostilities at the battle of Lexington, April nineteenth, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, in the war of the revolution, and further to perpetuate the memory of the men who, in military, naval and civil positions of trust and responsibility, by their acts and counsel assist in the establishment, defense and preservation of the colony of New Jersey, and of the other American colonies, be and they are hereby authorized at any regular or special meeting of such associations called for that purpose to adopt a name by which it shall be known, and to elect by ballot such officers as may be deemed necessary, and to make and cause to be recorded in the office of the clerk of the county where such meeting and election shall have been held a certificate under the hands and seals of such officers setting forth the name and objects of such association and the names of the officers so elected, and after recording such certificate, as aforesaid, to file the same in the office of the secretary of state, whereupon such association shall be and become a body corporate in fact and in law.

2. And be it enacted, That there shall be paid to the county clerk recording such certificate the sum of two dollars and to the secretary of state the sum of five dollars as fees for recording and filing the same.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LVIII.

An Act to regulate and control private insane asylums, retreats and institutions for care or treatment of persons of unsound mind.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the state of New Jersey, That no person, association or corporation shall establish or keep an asylum, retreat or institution for the care, custody or treatment of the insane, or persons of unsound mind, for compensation or hire, without first obtaining a license therefor from the board of managers of the state hospitals; provided, that this section shall not apply to any state asylum or institution, or to any asylum or institution established or conducted by any county; and provided, also, that it shall not apply to cases where an insane person or person of unsound mind is detained and treated at his own house or that of some relative.

2. And be it enacted, That every application for such license shall be accompanied by plan of the premises proposed to be occupied, describing the capacities of the buildings for the uses intended, the extent and location of the grounds appurtenant thereto and the number of patients of either sex proposed to be received therein; and it shall not be lawful for "the board of managers of the state hospitals" to grant any such license without having first caused an examination by one of its number of the premises proposed to be licensed, and upon being satisfied by such examination that they are as described and are otherwise fit and suitable for the purpose for which they are designed to be used, shall grant such license.

3. And be it enacted, That "the board of managers of the state hospitals" may make proper rules for the management and conduct of all private institutions to which such license may be granted, and shall have power to revoke any such license upon being satisfied after investigation and hearing of the license that such rules have been violated.

4. And be it enacted, That said "the board of managers of the state hospitals" shall cause every such licensed institution to be visited by at least one of its number at least once in every year, and shall be entitled to receive twenty-five dollars each year from each institution so licensed, which sum shall be used to defray the expenses attendant upon examination and visitation of such licensed institution.

5. And be it enacted, That every person, association, corporation or institution licensed by "the board of managers of the state hospitals," under the provisions of this act, to keep an asylum, retreat or institution for the care, custody or treatment of the insane, or of persons of unsound mind, shall have the right and power, while such license remains in force and unrevoked, to receive and hold any patient or person who shall be delivered into the care, custody or charge of such licensed person, association, corporation or institution by virtue of any order or commitment of any judge or justice of any court of record of this state, or by virtue of the certificate of two respectable physicians under oath, setting forth the insanity or unsoundness of mind of such person, which certificate shall be dated within one month of the reception of such person and shall be accompanied by a request under the hand of the person by whose direction such patient is sent, stating the age and place of nativity, if known, the christian name and surname, place of residence, occupation of such patient, and the degree of relationship, or other circumstances of connection between the patient and person requesting his admission; and each person signing such request or certificate shall annex to his name his profession or occupation, and the place of his residence, unless these facts appear on the face of the document; and every such certificate and request shall be delivered to and lodged with the superintendent or manager of the licensee upon the reception of such patient and shall be forthwith copied and entered in a book to be kept by such licensee for the purpose, together with a minute of the date of the reception of such patient.

6. And be it enacted, That within five days after the reception of such patient the licensee shall mail to "the board of managers of the state hospitals," to the address of the secretary thereof, a copy of the order and commitment or request and certificate which accompanied such patient, and within the first week of each quarter such licensee shall report in writing, mailed to the said secretary, the name, residence and physical and mental condition of every patient then in the custody of the licensee, together with the date and cause of discharge or death of every patient who shall have been discharged or died since the last previous report, and shall keep an accurate record of all such matters.

7. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect July fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LIX

An Act to amend an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to increase the powers of township committees,' approved March eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty," which supplemental act was approved March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That subdivision number one of section one of said supplemental act be and the same is hereby amended so that henceforth said subdivision number one shall be and read as follows, to-wit:

1. To order and cause to be constructed any sewer or drain, whether open or covered, for the drainage of any street, highway or public place; to order or cause any street, highway or alley already laid out or which may hereafter be laid out, or any part or parts thereof to be straightened, extended, altered or widened, and to take and appropriate for any such purposes any lands and real estate, upon making compensation to the owner or owners thereof by the payment of damages.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895

CHAPTER LX.

An Act to repeal the first section of act entitled "An act to repeal an act entitled 'An act for the formation and government of boroughs,' approved March twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety," which first said act was passed February third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act to repeal an act entitled 'An act for the formation and government of boroughs,' approved March twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety," which repealing act was passed February third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LXI.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning the tenure of office of city assessors in cities of the third class," approved May seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the act entitled "An act concerning the tenure of office of city assessors in cities of the third class," approved May seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the term of office of the city assessor or other officer charged with the assessment of taxes in any city of the third class, hereafter elected, shall be three years.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LXII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act incorporating the inhabitants of townships, designating their powers and regulating their meetings," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all townships in this state where one or more of the members of the township committee, overseers of the roads or other township officers are now required by any general or special act to be selected and elected from each of certain road districts, described and laid out by metes and bounds in any such act, and the inhabitants of the whole or a portion of any such road districts have assumed and adopted a borough form of government, the township committee of such remaining portion of the township shall hereafter consist of such number of committeemen as the remaining described road districts shall be entitled to elect from their respective districts, according to such act, and in case a part of any such described road districts only remains, then the remaining portion of such road district shall be entitled to have and elect one member of the township committee, and the whole number of such committee shall consist of the members entitled to represent the whole of such remaining described road districts and parts thereof as aforesaid.

2. And be it enacted, That the provisions of the last aforesaid section shall also apply to the election of overseers of the roads from any such township.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts, whether general, special or private, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 26, 1895.

CHAPTER LXIII.

An act to enable the inhabitants of this state incorporated under any form of borough government, to annul their existing charters and to incorporate themselves under another form of borough government.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for the citizens being legal voters, residing within any borough in this state, to annul and make void the existing charter or act of incorporation by which they are governed and to adopt and take upon themselves another form of borough government with other or greater powers and privileges, in accordance with the general statutes of the state of New Jersey relating to borough governments now enacted or hereafter to be enacted, as is hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, That a petition shall be prepared and signed by not less than fifty of the legal voters, being freeholders in such borough, directed to the mayor and council or the commissioners or other governing body of such borough, stating their desire to change the charter or form of government of such borough by annulling and dissolving the former charter or act of incorporation, and assuming and taking upon themselves and the other inhabitants of the said borough another form of borough government in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey relating to borough governments, specifying particularly the general statutes of the said state under which they desire to be reincorporated, and further praying the said governing body to call for an election to be held by the legal voters of the said borough for the purpose of determining whether they will vote for such a change of government or not.

3. And be it enacted, That upon receiving such petition it shall be the duty of the governing body of the said borough to issue a public notice within ten days from its receipt, directed to the citizens and inhabitants of the said borough setting forth the substance of the said petition and notifying the said inhabitants that on a day to be therein named not less than thirty days after the date of such notice, there will be held an election to determine the question of a new incorporation as expressed in the said petition, which notice shall be printed and published in at least two public newspapers circulating in said borough, and also to be posted in not less than ten public places within the limits of said borough, which publication and notice shall be done by the clerk of the said borough, at the expense of the borough, and proof thereof shall be made and kept by the said clerk.

4. And be it enacted, That on the day so fixed for said election it shall be the duty of the officers of election, then in office for said borough or township, as the case may be, to hold such election in the usual form and under the laws relating to township and borough elections, wherein the legal voters residing within the said borough shall be allowed to vote on the said question of reincorporation by depositing in the ballot box ballots printed or written, with the words "for a new incorporation," or "against a new incorporation;" the polls shall open and close at the usual hours fixed by law for elections within this state; at the close of the polls for said election the judges and inspectors thereof shall open the ballot box and count off and record the number of ballots cast for and against reincorporation respectively; they shall then sign a certificate of the result and give one copy thereof to the clerk of the governing body of said borough and transmit another copy of said certificate to the clerk of the courts of the county wherein such borough is situated, which shall be duly filed and recorded in the said clerk's office.

5. And be it enacted, That if a majority of the votes so cast shall be against a new incorporation no further action shall be taken therein, and it shall not be lawful to hold any other election upon the question of a new incorporation for said borough within the period of two years from the said election first held; but if a majority of the votes polled at said election shall be for a new incorporation, then, from the time of filing said certificate in the office of the clerk of the county aforesaid, the inhabitants of said borough shall be a body corporate in fact and in law under the name, style and title of "the mayor and council of the borough of ———," as such name may be assumed by the said new corporation, and by said name shall have perpetual succession, sue and be sued, prosecute and defend in all courts of law and equity in this state, have a common seal and alter the same at pleasure, and purchase, hold and convey real and personal property for the use and benefit of said borough, and possess and use all the powers, rights, franchises, privileges and immunities over the territory and population embraced within the area of said borough limits as are set forth and contained in the act of the legislature of New Jersey, entitled "An act for the formation of Borough governments," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and the several supplements thereto now enacted, or which may be hereafter enacted.

6. And be it enacted, That if the result of the said election shall be in favor of a new incorporation, then within thirty days next after the filing of the certificate of the result of the election aforesaid in the office of the clerk of the county, and on the second Tuesday of April annually thereafter, the legal voters of said borough shall assemble at some convenient place in said borough, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, and those so assembled may by viva voce vote, proceed to elect a judge and two inspectors of election to conduct an election for the election of such officers of the borough as may be provided for by the act under which they may be incorporated, being residents and legal voters in said borough, who shall constitute the council of said borough; at the first election two councilmen shall be elected for one year, two for two years and two for three years, and two councilmen shall be elected annually thereafter to serve for three years; the mayor shall hold his office for one year; provided, that public notice of the time and place of the first election to be held under the above section shall be given by the clerk of the former borough by advertisement, set up at least ten days previous thereto in at least ten public places in said borough and published in a newspaper printed in said borough, if there be one, and if none, then in some newspaper circulating in said borough; the result of the said first election for mayor and councilmen shall be duly signed and certified by the officers conducting it, and one copy thereof be given to the persons elected and another filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the courts of the county.

7. And be it enacted, That all legal expenses incurred by the proceedings mentioned in this act shall be paid by the borough so changing its charter.

8. And be it enacted, That the commissioners or governing body of the original borough and all officers thereof, shall hold their offices and powers until the newly-elected mayor and council shall be qualified and take office; whereupon all the funds, property, rights and franchises of the former borough shall be transferred to and vested in the new borough and its legal officers, subject to all the debts, obligations and contracts existing at that time.

9. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved February 27, 1895.

CHAPTER LXVII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the further regulation of mutual fire insurance associations," approved February twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of the act to which this is a supplement, which reads as follows:

"2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the directors of any mutual fire assurance association, whether organized under any general or special law of this state, whenever they make an assessment to assess over and above the amount of the losses and liabilities unpaid at the time of making said assessment, any sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars," be amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the directors of any mutual fire assurance association, whether organized under any general or special law of this state, whenever they make an assessment to assess over and above the amount of the losses and liabilities existing and unpaid at the time of making said assessment, any sum which the directors in their discretion may determine; provided, that the assessment shall be made against each member in proportion to the amount of insurance upon which such member is liable to assessment by the rules and regulations of such association, not to exceed one per centum of the amount of insurance or in proportion to the original amount of his or their deposit note or notes, which are assessable according to the constitution and by-laws of the association making the assessment, and in the latter case does not exceed twenty per centum of said deposit note and the surplus, if any, collected upon said assessment, shall be placed in the treasury of said company and be used only for the payment of losses and expenses, according to the provisions of its said act of incorporation; and the same rights and remedies shall exist for the collection of such assessment as are given in and by the act of incorporation of the association making the same for the collection of the assessments therein provided for.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 27, 1895.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1895. No 17

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

THE WONDERFUL PARKS

They Conquer Every World They Play Against.

CHAMPIONS OF NEW JERSEY NOW.

Finish First in the Six-Men Team Contest of the State Tournament by Defeating the Montclair Club, with 24 Points to Spare.

The Park Club whisters continue to win victories at this great American and scientific game of cards. Having won, held and lost the National championship trophy, they again distinguished themselves Saturday afternoon by conquering the Montclair Whist Club and winning the six-men team championship of the New Jersey Whist League Tournament championship, and also the pair championship; they also stand tied with the Fanwood Club for the four-men team championship of the same league, and there is every probability that they will win, thus adding more glory and fame to their already widespread reputation. The game Saturday was played in the elegant club-house of their Montclair contestants, and was won by one point, the score being as follows:

PARK.		MONTCLAIR.
Lyman and Reed	8	VanVleck and Harrison	13
Rogers and Howell	6	Kloman and Mulford	11
McCutchen and Townsend	15	Fennery and Piper	4
	29		28

The pair champions are Townsend and McCutchen, who have won nine and lost one game, and Rogers and Howell are second, having won eight, lost one and tied one. Messrs. Townsend, McCutchen and Rogers have played in all games; Howell in all but one, when C. A. Reed took his place as Mr. Rogers's partner; others who have played more or less games are J. B. Drayton, J. M. Leonard, Benjamin A. Day, Charles Horne, Charles Lyman, George Dupee and Henry McGee.

The standing of the clubs who constituted the league, was as follows at the finish:

	WON.	LOST.
Park Club	8	2
Montclair	7	3
Newark	6	3
Fanwood	4	6
N. J. Ath. Club, Bergen Point	2	6
Elizabeth	1	6

On the total points of the tournament the Parks lead Montclair, who finished second, by 84.

The best two out of three games will decide the winner of the four-men team championship, the first game of which will be played in the clubhouse Wednesday evening. At that time the Park team will consist of McCutchen, Townsend, Reed and Rogers. The trophy of the six-men team is a permanent one, and the four men team a challengeable one. What the first-named will consist of has not yet been decided.

STRUCK A SNAG.

New Jersey Central Stops the Building of the Trolley Trunk Line.

Somerville, April 21.—The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company has run against a snag in laying its tracks between this place and Bound Brook, and, in consequence, no work has been done on the line for over a week.

About six weeks ago the company began putting down its track two miles from Bound Brook, and said that the road would be finished through to Raritan by April 15. The work progressed rapidly, and a week ago ties and rails were laid to a point one mile from here, near Finderne.

Then the work was stopped owing to the serving of a writ of certiorari on the trolley company by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, through its counsel, John L. Conover.

This writ, which calls for the review of the grant of right of way through the town by the Board of Commissioners, is returnable June 10, and, as it acts as a supersedeas, not a stroke of work can be done until a decision is given. In case the decision is adverse to the trolley company, then they will be without permission to go through the town, nor can they obtain such permission until the Legislature gives it to them.

—The Odd Ladies are preparing for an entertainment to be given May 8.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

RECTORY TEA.

Charming Event at the Home of S. P. Simpson.

A very successful "Rectory Tea" was given Saturday afternoon at the residence of Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of St. Stephen's Church. The house and tables were attractively decorated with tulips and hyacinths, the predominating colors being yellow, white and green. Twenty-five cents was received at the door, which entitled one to tea, chocolate and cake. There were many attractive tables laden with good things to eat and pretty things to buy.

At the cake table, Mrs. Beale presided assisted by Miss Loeser. Miss Woltmann poured chocolate, and Miss Anthony officiated at the tea table. They were assisted by Miss Finch and Miss Edson who acted as waitresses. Two fancy tables were taken charge of by Miss Georgiana Smith and Miss Margaret Simpson, assisted by Miss Edith Freeman and Miss Josephine Simmonds. The candy table was in charge of Miss Florence Beale.

There was present besides very many of St. Stephen's parish, a generous number from Grace Church, and the North Plainfield churches.

Among the many visitors during the afternoon were:

Mrs. William Palmer Smith, Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Miss Kathryn Reinhart, Mr. and Mrs. Constantine P. Reill, Mrs. VanBuren, Mrs. Vanderpool, Mr. and Mrs. Guion, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. T. Finch, Miss Finch, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lord, Carroll Lord, Mrs. Clay, Miss Kate Martine, Mrs. DeWitte C. Ivins, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Miss Winifred Sprague, Mr. Dupee, Mrs. West, Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis Brown, Mr. and Mr, Josiah P. Browne, Mrs Glenney, Mrs. Grey, Miss Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey W. Hyde, Miss Edith Clarke, Mr. and Mrs J. L. Anthony, Mrs. Truman, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Nina Morgan, Miss Vaughn and Mrs. Loeser.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS.

The Delay Seems to Be in Securing Proper Grounds.

The baseball enthusiasts about town are wondering whether or not there is to be any local team this season. The trouble seems to be in the difficulty of securing grounds at a reasonable rental. So far as the makeup of the team is concerned, the city and borough afford plenty of good material, the only lack seeming to be a catcher. There is no doubt that sufficient financial aid would be accorded to the club to fill this position if the team were organized. Plainfield has been without a good team too long, and any determined effort to put one in the field will meet with ready support from the admirers of this national game. The Y. M. C. A. athletes should hurry along their plan of providing this sport for the local kranks.

STREET SPRINKLING.

If the People Don't Want Dust, They Must Pay for Water.

The Press is astounded to learn that the merchants on Park avenue from Front street to Second street pay only $1.60 a week for street sprinkling. As a result of the meagre pay, threat is made to stop sprinkling. The benefits of the sprinkler are so apparent that it seems as though every storekeeper and householder in town would be willing to pay the small sum required, for the sake of having the dust nuisance abated.

Played to Small Money.

The Waite Comedy Company only played to $900 during their engagement in Music Hall last week. They left for Orange this morning, where they will appear this week, after which the company will disband. A number of the best people will then go to Poughkeepsie, where they will join company No. 1 and finish the season with a two-weeks engagement in that city—the home of Mr. Waite. Harry Woods and his wife, Carrie Louis, who played leading parts with the company here last week, then expect to purchase bicycles and ride from Poughkeepsie to Erie, Pa., where they make their home in the Summer. It is said that company No. 2 has not been a paying investment for Mr. Waite, though his old company, which gave such satisfaction here last season, has been doing a big business.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds, Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Plainfield Is Likely to Have a Club.

KING'S DAUGHTERS IN THE LEAD.

Miss Woolfolk of the New York College Settlement Enlightens the Plainfield Young Women on the Methods and Results of the Work.

A meeting of more than ordinary interest was held in the Crescent Avenue Church Monday afternoon under the auspices of the Ever-Ready Circle of King's Daughters, when Miss Woolfolk of the New York College Settlement gave a talk on working-girls clubs. The meeting was attended by about 40, and was presided over by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who very pleasantly introduced the young woman speaker. In doing so he spoke positively of the need of an organization like a working-girls club in Plainfield, and stated that the Ministers Association had lately been considering the needs and what could be done to remedy the state of affairs existing here. He considered that the organization of such a club as this would, to a great extent, solve this delicate question.

Miss Woolfolk made plain in her talk that she was thoroughly conversant with the workings and results of the clubs in New York and elsewhere and also seemed to be completely imbued with a love for the work. She spoke in an agreeable way of the happy effect the work has through the girls, for their own homes. The instruction aimed at is largely along the lines of home-making and good housekeeping.

Mrs. Kimball was then introduced by Dr. Lewis, and told of the desire of the Ever-Ready Circle to begin, in a small way, such a work in Plainfield. She spoke of the many cases which had come under her own observation, which showed how great is the need of a place where girls whose homes are no homes at all can find homelike rooms, good reading, pleasant entertainment, and, above all, a warm and friendly welcome. Such a place the Ever-Ready Circle desires to open, as soon as possible, and, after a short time, to form classes in sewing, cooking, drawing, etc. The Circle will be very glad to receive donations of furniture, good reading matter, and specially of money.

At the close of Mrs. Kimball's talk, tea was served, and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

OBITUARY.

Thomas Bagot.

The death occurred Saturday evening at his home, 119 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, after a brief illness, of Thomas Bagot, brother of Mrs. Sarah Bradshaw of 82 Duer street, North Plainfield. Decedent was in his 84th year, and one of the oldest citizens of Brooklyn. He lived for over half a century in the house where he died, which was one of the first houses built on the street.

"Uncle Thomas" as he was familiarly called by all who knew him, was of striking appearance, his snow-white hair and beard giving him a patriarchal presence.

He was one of the oldest members of Beecher's Plymouth Church, and a regular attendant at service there. A few weeks of each Summer he spent in Plainfield with his sister and other relatives, and his visits were greatly enjoyed, as he was a man none knew but to love and respect. By trade he was a glassblower, and was one of the pioneers in that business from England to this country, where he continued his work till failing eyesight forced him to retire.

The news of the death of "Uncle Thomas" awakens much regret in Plainfield, where he had many warm friends. Chief Engineer T. O. Doane, J. Hervey Doane, John H. Doane, Charles E. Doane, Mrs. A. L. Force, Mrs. S. P. Craig, and Mrs. T. S. Barrett, are among the relatives. Four daughters and two sons survive him.

Chief Engineer Doane, his son Thaddeus, Mrs. S. P. Craig, A. L. Force, and daughter Miss Lillian Force, attended the funeral services at his late home, 119 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, Tuesday evening.

The body looked natural and peaceful. The floral tributes were beautiful, and included palms, calla lilies, a large wreath of English violets and English ivy, and a magnificent representation of the gates ajar, with "At Rest" on the footpath.

The body was laid to rest beside decedent's late wife, in Greenwood.

—The exceptional popularity of Benjamin Kidd's much discussed book, Social Evolution, has made it advisable to have an extra copy in the Free Public Library in order to supply the demand.

—Carpenters are engaged in tearing out the front of Fred W. Hand's coal office on South avenue and replacing it with one of plate glass, which will be a decided improvement.

$22,765 STOLEN.

First National Bank Sharply Victimized.

THE MONEY TAKEN MONDAY NOON.

Only Two Employes Were in the Bank, and It Is Supposed that While They Were Occupied the Thief Slipped Into the Vault.

From The Press of April 24.

The daring theft of $22,765 from the vault of the First National Bank of Plainfield is today made public by the directors of that institution. It is characteristic of the integrity of the bank management that it takes the public into its confidence and openly acknowledges a loss which might easily have been kept a secret among the bank officials. The loss will in no way affect the stability of the bank, and the building improvements will proceed as planned.

The statement of the bank officials as furnished to The Press is as follows:

The Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Plainfield desire to make known to their stockholders and patrons that on Monday, April 22, 1895, between the hours of 12 o'clock and one o'clock noon, the bank was entered by thieves, and the sum of $22,765 in cash was stolen. The theft was not discovered until 6 p. m., when the cash was being counted.

The next morning at the regular meeting of the Board, on their being informed of the loss, they passed the following resolution:

> Whereas, It has come to the knowledge of this Board that on the 22d day of April, 1895, between the hours of 12 o'clock and one o'clock noon, the vault of the bank was entered by a sneak thief, and the sum of $22,765 abstracted therefrom; therefore be it
>
> Resolved, That the cashier be authorized to charge off the said sum of $22,765, for the time being, from the account of profit and loss.

The loss will not in any way interfere with the regular business of the Bank or affect the payment of its future dividends.

Signed,
CHAS. POTTER, President,
J. WESLEY JOHNSON, Director,
F. S. RUNYON, Cashier,
WM. M. STILLMAN, Director.

Cashier Frank S. Runyon told a Daily Press reporter that at noon Monday, the hour when the robbery is thought to have occurred, only two members of the bank staff were on duty. D. N. Runyon was busy at the cashier's window in front. Adelbert Vail was at one of the desks along the side of the passage which leads to the directors room at the rear. A stranger came in and held up a sheet of paper in front of Mr. Vail at the little grated wicket in the scratched-glass partition. On the paper was a list of memoranda of promissory notes in which the man said he was interested. Mr. Vail said he knew nothing about the notes, but the stranger kept him in conversation some minutes and then went out.

It is held by the bank officials that while Messrs. Runyon and Vail were busy the thief must have passed into the directors room and thence into the vault, or else have entered the vault by way of the rear hallway door, which, like the other doors, was unlocked.

Two packages of money were taken. One was of bills ranging from $1 to $1,000; and the other was of mutilated bills, of which the bank sends away about $4,000 each week for redemption.

As a rule, three men are on duty during the noon hour. Fred Haines generally waits till Albert Steiner returns from dinner, before he goes out. On Monday, however, Haines went before Steiner got back.

Since the robbery, it is remembered that for weeks past questions have been asked by strangers who were evidently familiarizing themselves with the local situation. On Monday, a short time before the supposed hour of the robbery, Fred Haines was called out to a wagon in front of the bank by a stranger who wore glasses and a black patch over his eye, and who said he wanted to see him about some business in Scotch Plains and would come again.

Bank Examiner Stone was present with the Board of Directors at their meeting concerning the matter, and on his advice Messrs. J. W. Johnson and Wm. M. Stillman reported the theft to New York detectives yesterday. The detectives said the game was an old one, and that the work was evidently performed by professionals of the highest rank. They gave no hope of ever recovering the money.

Cashier Runyon took the matter very much to heart, as during his 25 years connection with the bank it is the first time such an affair has occurred. The public will commend the bank's straightforward action in the unfortunate affair.

The capital stock of the bank is $200,000, and the surplus $65,000. The undivided profits March 11 were $57,[illegible].60.

It is to Plainfield's credit that she has an institution which can suffer such a severe loss and not be in any way affected by it. The First National Bank is too stanch and solid, and is too firmly established in popular confidence, to be at all embarrassed by the loss it has incurred.

HE YELLED WHOA.

BUT THE HORSE KICKED THE WAGON TO PIECES.

A Rahway Man Trades Equines at Westfield, and Then Comes to Plainfield, Where the Horse Makes Fun for Manning Avenue Residents.

A kicking horse made trouble for its owner and fun for the residents of Manning avenue at 11 Tuesday. The owner said he was from Rahway and had traded horses at Westfield early in the evening. The equine which he received went along all right until Manning avenue was reached. Here the animal began to kick in a ferocious manner, resulting in the breakage of one of the shafts. The horse was unhitched from the buggy and the broken portion repaired with a piece of tin and wire. The animal had no sooner been attached to the wagon than he commenced kicking worse than ever, which finally resulted in his getting tangled up in the wheels and falling in a heap to the ground.

During this time the owner and companion who was with him, had been vociferously yelling "whoa", and using various other epithets seeking to subdue the fractious beast, the noise of which had collected a crowd of men from nearby houses. After a great deal of trouble the horse was finally helped to his feet, and the wreck of a vehicle pulled to one side.

"If I had an axe", said the irate owner between breaths, "I'd kill the beast."

Mose Carey stood by and heard the remark. Mose is always accommodating, and rushed away. In a few minutes he came back, and edging up to the horse-owner, said:

"Here's an axe, sah."

The man grabbed the weapon and raised it as if to strike the horse. Just then Mose's pity was aroused and he grabbed the man's arm. Mose thought the joke was going too far. The blow did not strike and the horse kept right on kicking.

The man who had been with the horse owner said that his nerves were unstrung and he must have something to steady them. So he started for a drug store. He knew when he was well off, for he never came back.

The excited man finally decided to ride the horse to Rahway. He attempted to mount but the horse pranced so that it would have taken a circus rider to have done the act. And the man was no circus rider. So he thought to quiet the horse. To do this he struck him between the eyes with the butt of the whip. The horse seemed to be stunned and stood in a meekly way while the owner got on his back. Then the whip was plied by the rider and the pair left for Rahway at a two-minute gait.

The battered wagon was taken into C. P. Daly's barn and the crowd went back to bed.

STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY.

John Gordon Suffers a Stroke While at Work.

John Gordon, the janitor of Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's private school, corner of LaGrande avenue and Washington street, suffered a stroke of apoplexy yesterday afternoon in the cellar of Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman's house on LaGrande avenue. He had been working during the morning and early afternoon for Dr. Rodman, cutting kindling wood in the cellar. About 3 one of the servants noticed that the noise of cutting had ceased for some little time, and fearing that something was wrong she started down the stairs to investigate. As she reached the bottom the prostrate body of Gordon met her vision. Hurrying up stairs Dr. Rodman was notified, who went across the street and borrowed the horse and wagon of Carney Brothers, and took the insensible man to his home.

Dr. Murray was called and found him to be suffering from a severe stroke of apoplexy, and ordered his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital. Rev. Mr. Rodman then started out to find a conveyance, and after stopping at half a dozen different places finally secured one, and with a mattress an improvised stretcher was made. The still unconscious man was then taken to the hospital.

Gordon remained in an unconscious condition until shortly after 2 this morning, when he died. He leaves a wife.

—A determined effort is being made to enroll all local merchants into the membership of the Grocers Association, in order that all may have a more effectual protection against dead beats.

PLAINFIELD BAD GIRLS.

They Cause a Sunday Row in Peaceful Linden.

REVOLVERS DRAWN, SHOTS FIRED.

Constable Wersinger Made a Plucky Fight Against Young Toughs, But Was Overmastered, and His Female Prisoners Escaped.

Annie McDonald and Mollie Stevens, Plainfield young girls who have already become notorious in police circles, having figured in court cases repeatedly, were the cause of an exciting experience for Constable Wersinger of Elizabeth Sunday night.

Wersinger went to Linden with a warrant for the arrest of the girls, who had become frequenters of a house there, and who were charged with disorderly conduct.

He found the girls in the house, and had them in his custody and handcuffed together when he was attacked by Edward Ryan, Jr., and three others. A desperate struggle took place in the house, and the officer was roughly handled. When some of his assailants drew revolvers Wersinger retired.

During the struggle the girls escaped. They were taken in by other friends, and the handcuffs were severed. They subsequently left the village.

Wersinger went back to the house Sunday night with assistance, and had another unsuccessful struggle with his assailants. He fired at two of the men while they were running from the house, and it is believed that one of them, a brother of Edward Ryan, was wounded.

Monday evening Wersinger made the third visit to Linden, and was successful in surprising and arresting Edward Ryan, Jr., but not without another struggle in which other members of the family participated.

Ryan was taken to Elizabeth, and lodged in the custody of Warden Biore at the county jail on the charge of resisting an officer.

Ryan was arrested last Summer for disorderly conduct in Linden, and when admitted to bail he ran off. He has since been in the United States Army and it is alleged is a deserter, returning to Linden only a few days ago. He is twenty-four years of age.

Chief Grant of this city was notified, but has been unable to locate Molly, the tenderloin belle. It is thought that she and her pal, Annie McDonald, are now sojourning in the metropolis.

Union County Spring Conference.

The Spring conference of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union will be held May 10 in the First Baptist Church of Elizabeth. There will be afternoon and evening sessions. The afternoon meeting will be a Junior rally. The speaker will be Rev. A. W. Spooner, the State Superintendent of Junior Work. His theme will be "The Children in the Church at Work". The Junior Superintendents of Elizabeth met in the chapel of the East Baptist Church Monday night and arranged the preliminaries for the children's exercises. In the evening the conference will be for the Senior societies. The Union county and city unions will elect their officers, a parliament on good citizenship and temperance will be held, and an address by some noted speaker on the theme will be delivered.

The Notes Held Good.

The contract case of Rosenfield Brothers against Jacob Blimm was tried before Justice Newcorn yesterday afternoon, with a six-men jury as follows: J. O. Campbell, Calvin Neighbor, Charles J. Noel, Julian Scott, J. Linn Edsall and John Mortimer. The plaintiffs issued warehouse receipts to the defendant, for which he made notes but which he refused to pay, claiming that the receipts were valueless. The case was important in the fact that the validity of seven other notes was involved in the decision. After a number of witnesses had been sworn the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs. Harry C. Runyon appeared for Rosenfield Brothers, and George DeMeza for Mr. Blimm.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

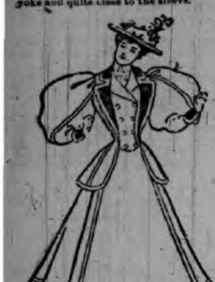
THE SUN'S FASHIONS.

NEW EFFECTS DEVISED IN EVER POPULAR BLACK AND WHITE.

Alpaca Coming Into Favor Again. Black Satins in Great Demand. Models of Bodices and Their Trimmings. Latest Disposition of the Persistent Box Plait.

The fashions, which are presumably the latest and most novel productions, are puzzling combinations of elegance, elaboration and expense. One or two inquiries as to the price of some coveted article of dress will leave no lingering doubts in the shopper's mind, and she soon comes to the conclusion that there is nothing really inexpensive but the things she does not want.

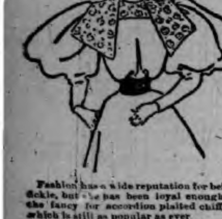
Black and white effects are to be as popular as ever this season, and black and white striped silks will be well represented among the summer gowns. But the stripes are narrow and closer together than they were last year. Black lace and black velvet ribbon are used to trim white muslin gowns, and one feature of this combination is an immense bow of black velvet ribbon on one side of the front of the bodice at the edge of the yoke and quite close to the sleeve.



Black satins are in great demand for both day and evening gowns, and the skirts are usually plain. If trimmed at all, according to Felix, they must have narrow lines of jet or bands of embroidery on the seams. To make this sort of trimming effective they must be cut umbrella shape, with many gores, and very full at the bottom.

While the sleeves of the modern gown are, perhaps, its most conspicuous figure, the bodice is the point where the trimmings flourish, and the variety of models with strikingly unusual combinations which are brought out for inspection are simply beyond enumeration.

The latest disposition of the persistent box plait, which so commonly adorns the bodice, places it on either side of the front, instead of in the middle, and a chemisette of lace or finely tucked muslin is shown between, and the fullness is drawn more closely in at the waist, leaving very little, if any, of the pouched effect in front. Very useful and dressy waists are made of dotted black net over changeable silks, with full puffed sleeves. They are striped up and down at intervals and have puffs with double ruffles of narrow cream white Valenciennes, with a tiny band of jet in the middle. The collar may be of black satin ribbon, like the belt, or of net over the colored silk, with a little ruffle of the cream edge standing up around the neck. A wide box plait of black satin, thickly embroidered with jet beads and sequins, is an effective trimming for the front of a waist.



Fashion has a wide reputation for being fickle, but she has been loyal enough to the fancy for accordion plaited chiffon, which is still as popular as ever.

Lace butterflies, thickly spangled with jet and in various sizes, are much used for dress trimmings. They are applied on satin skirts at regular distances, and nestle in the puffs of the sleeves with great effect. In small sizes they are very pretty on black satin capes, set on a little distance apart all over the satin, which is trimmed on the edge and at the neck with a ruche of pinked taffeta silk. Glittering trimmings of all kinds are a very important part of the dressy gowns, capes and hats.

There are no end of fashionable shapes among the spring jackets. They are cut both double and single breasted, with lapels very high, or very wide and very low, skirts full and fluted, or with the fullness pressed down in plaits like a man's coat, and one is just as good style as the other, providing the jacket is short. The first model is of biscuit colored cloth, made with odd wide revers of white cloth, striped with jet and showing the latest novelty in sleeves. Another model, called the Carmen, is made of the same cloth, with revers of open work cloth over ivory white satin.—N. Y. Sun.

The Era of Old Age.

Senator Morrill, of Vermont, who is eighty-five years of age, has announced that he will accept a re-election at the end of his present term. This incident will make frisky young folks of seventy-one or seventy-two, like John Sherman and Governor Morton, feel like they are still eligible to the right, and President, too.—Globe Democrat.

Not There On Business.

"Oh, doctor, how do you do? You look thrilling this evening."

"Thank you, but I'm not; I'm off duty, you know."

THE THOUGHTS OF ANIMALS.

A Dog That Plays a Euchre Hand for All It Is Worth.

That a dog possesses an intelligence capable of discriminating on the value of cards to such an extent as to bet in a rational and sensible manner is a hard pill to swallow unless washed down by the conclusive proof of a test experiment. Yet the pill has to be swallowed.

Those who saw that representative of the highest development of reason in the canine race, Miss Scotty, perform on the stage of one of the theatres last week, looked with wonder upon the feats this collie was able to accomplish; first accepting them as what they seemed to be, then deciding them too marvelous to be true and putting them down as clever tricks—stage tricks in which the dog merely followed the signal of her trainer or a confederate back of the scene, working as an automaton without reason or judgment except as to obeying the signal. This is but natural, as the conditions surrounding a performance on a stage invite fraud.

However, to a number of gentlemen who inquired from the dog's owner, Mr. Lewis, if the performance was really an exhibition of the dog's intelligence and reasoning power or merely a trick, Mr. Lewis responded by offering to give a private exhibition under test conditions, as the Spiritualists put it, to prove that the dog possessed the power of discrimination and reasoning developed to a wonderful degree. Accordingly a room was engaged and the dog began her work. She picked out the cards of a pack as they were called with but few mistakes. One of these mistakes was perhaps interesting as exhibiting the peculiar effect of a set idea taking hold of the mind. Miss Scotty got the idea early in the performance that the queen preceded the king in order of value, a most chivalrous notion to be sure, yet wrong. No matter how much Mr. Lewis objected she insisted upon picking the queens before the kings when selecting the cards according to their value.

Some other tricks were gone through, when two hands of cards were dealt, and Miss Scotty being given her hand was asked to play. When asked how much she would bet, she picked up the third card in the row, signifying she would go three. And she made her three tricks as well as any expert card player could have done. But this erroneous idea of the order of the cards still clung to her in playing her hand. She held the ace, king, and queen of trumps. She played the ace first; then the queen and the king. Of course they were all of the same value under these circumstances, but Mr. Lewis objected, saying: "Now, Scotty, you've played wrong. That's not the way you have been taught. Now, what comes after the ace?"

Scotty answering picked up the queen. Do what he would, he could not get the dog to change her idea in this regard. Not unlike some men who, although they have been taught better, insist that wrong is right to the end of their days.

Miss Scotty played cards with several of the gentlemen present and quite overpowered an inveterate card player who prided himself upon his knowledge and science in dealing with cards, by beating him two games without giving him the least show.

Mr. Lewis left the room after Miss Scotty became better acquainted with her spectators and allowed the dog to work at the command of one of the party. It was quite difficult to get the dog's attention away from the door where her master went out, but nevertheless she performed some tricks, selecting cards and numbers named, sufficient to remove all doubts as to the genuineness of her performance.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A JOHNNY REB'S WILD RIDE.

His Unmanageable Horse Took Him Through the Federal Ranks in Battle.

Some of the most amusing stories are those which have a serious side. An old Confederate soldier the other day told a story that is very laughable in these days of peace. It was after John Morgan was made a general that a company was formed of some of his old squadron who had just returned from Camp Chase, where for some time they had been imprisoned. The company had been formed by a man named Quirk, a reckless, daring fellow, and a stranger to fear. The company went by the name of Quirk's Scouts.

At this time the company was down in Middle Tennessee and was skirmishing around for a fight, when they suddenly came upon a regiment of Federal cavalry. In a short while the two bodies of soldiers were standing face to face, and the bullets were flying thick and fast through the air. The fight that followed was a desperate one, and each side seemed determined to stand its ground. Suddenly, as the fight was at its hottest, a horse was seen to dash out of the Confederate line and start in a direct line for the Yankee regiment. On the horse's back was a man named English, who was leaning back in his saddle and pulling with all his might in a futile effort to stop his frightened horse. The animal was yellow in color, and in running took long and clumsy jumps. The rider finally saw that he could not stop the animal and he made up his mind to make the best of his situation. He leaned forward in his saddle until his head almost touched his horse's neck and his hands clasped the bridle near the bit. Even the rider's ears seemed pinned back, so great was his effort to make himself as small as possible. His face was as pale as death. On went the animal toward the regiment, turning neither to the right nor left, and closer and closer did the rider keep to the animal's body.

The Yankees saw the horse with its rider making straight for them, and they were seized with consternation. Some of the soldiers ceased firing and looked excitedly at the half maddened animal flying toward them. In a short while he reached the regiment, but did not stop. The Federals almost fell upon each other in their efforts to get away from the horse's heels and a regular panic followed. The animal went plunging through the center of the regiment, foaming at the mouth and with head down. The horse and rider dashed on through the entire regiment, and the Yankees kept making way for them all down the line. Not a shot was fired until he had gotten out of range, and then nearly half of the regiment, who had managed to recover themselves from their astonishment, fired at a cloud of dust rising in the air, but the horse and rider were at a safe distance.

The horse made a complete circle, returning to the Confederate company in safety. When the rebels saw their comrade had returned without a scratch from such a dangerous ride, they almost forgot the fight before them, and there went up a great cheer.—Courier-Journal.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.
Royal Baking Powder Co., 106 Wall st., New York.

ANNUAL SOCIABLE.

Plainfield Talent to Appear in the Scotch Plains Musicale.

The annual sociable and musicale under the auspices of the Ladies Circle of the Scotch Plains Baptist Church, will be given Wednesday evening, April 24, at 8. The programme will be as follows:

Quartette — Overture, Freischutz, Weber, Mrs F A Pollock, Messrs Pollock, Petrie and Ferrer; Solo — Soprano, Angel's Serenade, Braga, Miss Alice H. Fine; Flute Obligato, Mr Pollock; Violin Solo—Cavatina, Carl Bohm, J Petrie; Solo — Tenor, Last Night, Kjerulf, Spencer P Smith; Quartette—My Ideal, Andrew Herman, Mrs F A Pollock, Messrs Pollock, Petrie and Ferrer; Solo—Contralto, My Little Love, Hawley, Mrs W S Force; Violoncello Solo—Simple Aveu, F Thome, Ferman Ferrer; Soprano Solo — Norwegian Song, Lodge, Miss Fine; Solo—Tenor, If I But Knew, Wilson G Smith, Mr Smith; Flute Solo—The Nightingale Serenade, W Popp, Mr Pollock; Solo—Contralto, Mission of a Rose, Cowen, Mrs Force; Quartette—Gesellschaft No 1, W Popp, Mrs Pollock, Messrs Pollock, Petrie and Ferrer.

Resolutions of Condolence.

The following resolutions were passed by a unanimous vote at a special meeting of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein:

Whereas, In His kind providence, our Heavenly Father transferred from this to the evergreen shore, a dear husband, father, friend, and active, esteemed member of our society; and

Whereas, We, the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, have lost by death in the person of Frederick Lang one of our first and most faithful members, who with loving heart and kind words so often whispered words of counsel, and with the echo still in our ears, be it

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and brotherly love; and

Resolved, That these resolutions be copied in full in our minutes, and sent for publication in our daily papers, and that a copy be handed to the bereaved family.

Herman Klinsman,
Eugene Hoersten,
F. Mosseller,
Committee.

Real Estate Transfer.

Lyman & Petrie have effected a sale of James McGee's property on Willow avenue to Woolston & Buckle. Mr. McGee gets a house on Westervelt avenue in the deal. James R. Joy, Mr. McGee's son-in-law, has taken a lease of the Willow avenue house, and Woolston & Buckle will build a fine house on part of the grounds now surrounding Mr. McGee's Willow avenue property.

Amateur Actors.

During the action of the farce which is to be presented for the benefit of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men next Friday evening, the following specialties will be introduced: Irish comicalities, William Westphal; German dialect stories and songs, Edward Wolf; vocal duet, Mrs. W. A. Westphal and Miss Maggie Page; banjo and vocal solo, Harry Dreier; banjo solo, William Force; burlesque on tragedy, William Newcorn.

Pythians Visit One Another.

Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, have accepted the invitation of Unity Lodge to conduct several initiations May 1. Crescent Division, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, have also accepted an invitation to work the third rank on two candidates for Goodwill Lodge of Scotch Plains, Thursday evening of next week.

Hurry It Up.

An active canvass will be made from now on for signers to the petition for the extension of Watchung avenue which will be presented to the Borough Council. Councilman Valiant is making a special effort to get the petition through as soon as possible.

—A dog that howls and barks all night long is making life miserable for residents of West Front street near Plainfield avenue. One man swears that the bones of the canine will soon be used for phosphate if he does not cease yelping and disturbing his neighbors.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ORANGE AND BLACK.

The Jersey Tiger Honored in Plainfield.

A PRINCETON CLUB ORGANIZED.

President Patton and Other Leading Lights Attend the Opening Dinner—Speeches, Toasts, and Election of Officers.

The Plainfield alumni of "Old Nassau" had a gay time last night as they gathered around the board in the Casino of the Union County Country Club, and dined, renewed acquaintances, regaled each other with the memories of their collegiate days, and listened to the toasts of the talented and bright minded men.

The occasion of the dinner was to assemble the Plainfield graduates of Princeton College, not merely to eat and make merry, but to form themselves into the Princeton Club, whose primal mission shall be the creating of a favorable sentiment among their younger friends as to the advantages which Princeton extends for accomplishment in the higher educational realm of the college world. This work was effected by the organization of the club with the following officers: President—W. R. Wilder; First Vice-president—Rowland Cox; Second Vice-president—E. W. Hedges; Secretary—Leonidas Dennis; Treasurer—Wilbur C. Fisk.

The Casino was arranged in an artistic and tasty manner for the occasion. A garden scene was run across the centre of the ball room, thus shutting off the stage part of it. On the sides were stage fences, surrounding and looming above which was a profuse display of potted plants and palms, while here and there among the foliage beautiful blossoms met the vision. Suspended at half angles on the sides of the wall and from a wire running over the garden scene the Princeton colors—orange and black—in the form of flags and banners hung as if to remind the diners of the fervor and enthusiasm with which they had protected the fame of old Nassau in sports and contests in their college days; and now they were here to perpetuate her glory and renown in the endeavor to send an influx of new and youthful blood to her halls.

The dinner table was arranged in the shape of a T. Along the centre of the table at alternate spaces were tiny candelabra, shedding a suffused glow of light through the orange-tinted shades, and between them potted plants lent an air of splendor to the scene of conviviality. Winding in and out among the candelabra, plants and tableware were two ribbons—orange and black. At the head of the table sat the older graduates, the younger ones ranging down the sides. Between the various courses the diners chatted and laughed and enjoyed a general renewing of acquaintance with one another. The menu was as follows:

Huitres.
Tortue Verte au Claire.
Cavier a la Princeton.
Filet de Sole, Daumont.
Pates de Ris Veau.
Filet Mignon, sauce Bearnaise.
Pommes Parisiennes,
Petits Pois Francais.
Punch en surprise.
Pluivier d'Ore,
Salad a la U. C. C. C.
Fromage de Camembert.
Glaces Fantaisies.
Petits Fours, Cafe noir.
Cigars. Apollinaris. Cigarettes.

The table was presided over by the newly-elected president, Mr. Wilder, who did the honors with much grace and informality, thus abrogating the conventional element that often attends such affairs.

On the menu the toasts were arranged as follows:

"Old Nassau"..............Dr. Francis L. Patton
"Let all with one accord rejoice
In praise of Old Nassau."
"Yale"......................S. St. John McCutchen
"The Yale News invites responses to the question, 'What is Yale's greatest need?' Life does not think at this moment of anything Yale needs more than a liberal share of defeat in various athletic competitions. Her renown as a winner of games and races is a little too complete."—Life.
"Harvard".............................E. C. Perkins
"What care though rival cities soar
Along the storm-bound coast:—
Penn's town, New York and Baltimore
If Boston knew the most?"
"The Novel of Today"......Robert Bridges, '79
"He's a damned literary fellow."
"The Ladies"...............Wm. T. Kaufman, '78
"The Lady or the Tiger."
"The Younger Alumni"...McCready Sykes, '94
"Brer Fox, he lay low."

It was 11 before the last course was finished, and after all had enjoyed a smoke and listened to the rendition of several up-to-date college songs by a Princeton quartette, President Wilder arose and in a facetious speech in which he humorously touched all the college fads and frivolities, introduced Dr. Francis L. Patton, president of the college. Dr. Patton said that he congratulated Princeton on the formation of an association that started under such bright auspices. The object of the association he did not consider to be for the glorification of the college, but to do a mission work among Jersey boys and send them to Princeton. The tenor of Princeton graduates was towards intellectual life. In fact almost the whole thought of Princeton is towards intellectuality. He said that by October 22, 1896, Princeton expected to be a university, though they have some university functions now.

Its greatest function is to contribute to the intellectual and moral forces of this great nation by making a high type and quality of citizenship, and these efforts were enough to merit the support of the intellectual forces of the country. He closed by saying that he expected great things from this club.

Mr. Wilder said that the time had now come to take up their foreign relations. According to the text on the toast card Yale must be scourged and rebuked in her conquests, and now he thought the proper time had come for such action. Therefore he would postpone Mr. McCutchen, and change the order of the programme by calling on Mr. Perkins of Harvard.

Mr. Perkins thought that in addition to the training one receives in college in an intellectual way, is that spirit of independence in thought in which he follows out his own ideas rather than those set down before him. The present spirit of political independence is an evidence of this. The gentlemen of Princeton had such a reputation for the old Puritanical spirit that he expected to be called upon to defend his college, for instance, the "brutal" sport of football which they play, but since he had come here among so many Princeton men, who presented such a front, his spirit of defiance seemed to have gone.

Robert Bridges, editor of Scribner's Magazine, responded to the toast of "The Novel of Today". When he was called up on the telephone a few days ago and invited to attend the dinner of the Princeton Club he asked as to the object. He was informed that it was to work up enthusiasm for Princeton, but when he arrived here he found the enthusiasm already worked up. Literature is a subject that concerns all colleges. Yale is a victor at football but Princeton is invincible in the literary field. The first article he ever wrote was turned over to Mr. Wilder, who was then in Princeton and the editor of a college paper. The tenor of that article was that Princeton needed more fiction. In latter years this seemed to be a fact. There are lots of different novels. There is the new woman novel, the sanitarium novel, the novel of scientific pessimists. The new woman was all right in some respects. It sought to take away some of man's responsibility in the management of affairs. That was a good tendency, for if a man knew that he could divide the responsibility he would seek a life partner so much the quicker. The writer of the scientific pessimist novel gains a smattering of knowledge from the Sunday papers and some other such channels and then he floods the literary field with scientific articles. But the kind that the Princeton is teaching is different, and is gained only by thorough study. Some say that the novel reflects life. This is not so, as evidenced in the works of Robert Louis Stevenson. Here was a man who had every incentive to write unhealthy literature, but it was of the most wholesome and heroic kind.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bridges toast S. St. John McCutchen made his toast on Yale. He remarked that he always thought that if Harvard ever got ahead of Yale, it would be through the intervention of Princeton. Now he could see through all this changing of programme by President Wilder. He advised the alumni that by the organization of a club they display lots of zeal, but they must go beyond the annual dinner to make it successful. In concluding he said that Yale cherished Princeton as friends, but as foes they braved them.

"The Ladies" was the delicate toast which William T. Kaufman responded to. He proposed that the diners drink to the health of the ladies. This was done amid the clinking of glasses and the benign smiles of the ladies who were in the gallery viewing the graduates. Ever since the days of Eve woman had shown her influence on man. She is the exponent of gracious hospitality. There is no ambition or achievement which one ever wants to attain but what is associated with mother or wife. He again proposed a toast to the ladies, after which the college cheer was given.

McCready Sykes had "The Younger Alumni" to respond to. He said the need of such a club as had been organized was apparent when it was realized that for a period of eighteen years only two students went from Plainfield to Princeton. It is the idea of the association to head off the young man from going to the other colleges, when such an admirable institution is so near at hand. The younger alumni impress on the world whatever has been impressed on them in college.

After the toasts had been finished the quartette sang several college songs and the alumni finally dispersed, feeling imbued with the good fellowship of the dinner and its attendant sociability.

Among those present at the dinner besides those already mentioned, were: The Drs Hedges, Dr Murray, Dr James Hayes, Rev W E Honeyman, Dr P W Brakeley, Albert Atterbury, Augustus and Jacob Van Deventer, H C and Max Munger, J P Murray, W T Kaufman, Wilbur C Fisk, J L Myers, R D Schoonmaker, O G Waring, and Hugh B Reed.

Trying to Break a Will.

The Elliott will case, of Dunellen, will come up before the Surrogate's Court at New Brunswick today. It is claimed by the children that Mrs. Elliott was of unsound mind when the will was made. The contestants are represented by George DeMeza of this city and the estate by Folley & Powell of New York and Alan Strong of New Brunswick.

Administrator Stillman.

On motion of Craig A. Marsh, counsel for the executor of Peter Wooden, William M. Stillman was yesterday appointed pendente lite. He will act in this capacity until the will case now pending is decided.

BRIAR PIPE GIVEN AWAY WITH EVERY ONE POUND bale OF DUKES MIXTURE for 35 cents
Every pipe stamped DUKES MIXTURE OF ATC
2 OZ. PACKAGES 5¢

Rates of Advertising

Space	Weeks 1	Weeks 2	Weeks 3	Months 1	Months 2	Months 3	Months 6	Months 12
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$4.00	$5.00	$9.50	$15.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.50	8.00	12.00	20.00
3 in.	2.50	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00
4 in.	3.00	3.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	16.00	20.00	32.00
5 in.	3.50	4.50	6.00	8.00	12.50	18.00	25.00	37.00
¼ col.	4.50	6.00	8.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00
½ col.	7.00	10.00	12.00	15.00	24.00	32.00	54.00	80.00
1 col.	12.00	16.00	20.00	25.00	35.00	50.00	85.00	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.
I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.
I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.
I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.
Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.
H EGGERDING,
121 Park Avenue.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
3 aply

I. R. WOOLSTON, J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

Unconquerable Will and Purpose Revealed.

COMMAND OF THE ARMY OF ITALY.

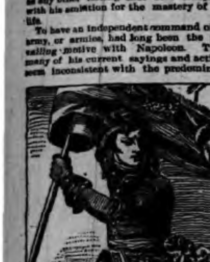
Begins His Career of Military Glory—Genius of the Great Soldier Displayed—Four Austrian Armies Beaten In Succession. A New Boundary For France.

[Copyright, 1895, by John Clark Ridpath.]

X.—FIRST CAMPAIGN OF ITALY.

Seven days before the marriage of Napoleon he was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Army of Italy. His star shone suddenly above the clouds. He tarried with Josephine until the 21st of March, when the honeymoon of the warrior—after twelve brief days of dallying young-husbandhood—broke suddenly; and he set out for the field of glory. His love-letters to Josephine indicate that his nature was deeply stirred by her influence, and that his affection for her was as strong as any other feeling that ever competed with his ambition for the mastery of his life.

To have an independent command of an army, or armies, had long been the prevailing motive with Napoleon. True, many of his current sayings and actions seem inconsistent with the predominant passion. Only a short time before departing on the first Italian campaign he wrote a letter to Bourrienne, then an emigrant at Sens, saying, "Seek out for me a small piece of land in your beautiful valley of the Yonne. I will purchase it as soon as I can get together the money. I wish to retire there; but recollect that I will have nothing to do with national property." Quite insincere and fitful! Indeed, General, "a small piece of land" is the last thing in this world that you wish for; and as to your "retiring" there, your retirement is fixed for another place—that far-off island to which you referred in the last clause of your school exercise at Autun. Your essay was headed "Possessions des Anglais;" and you finished thus: "Sainte Helene, petite isle." You will find it so!



NAPOLEON AT THE BATTLE OF ARCOLE.

The military glory of Napoleon properly begins with his first campaign into Italy. The States of that peninsula were about to be made the playthings of great ambitions. Whether the influence of Austria and the coalition should continue predominant from Piedmont to Venice was the question. The existing order in the Italian States and cities favored the Austrian power; but the popular party was in sympathy with Republican France. Bonaparte's mission into Italy was ostensibly for preoccupation and defense; but it meant, out of the nature of things, sharp war and speedy conquest.

Hardly had the campaign in Piedmont begun before the Directory in Paris would send out the veteran Kellerman to be second in command. This might be a compliment to a general-in-chief not yet twenty-seven; but not so to Bonaparte. He at once replied saying that it was indifferent to him (a thing most untrue) whether he should serve in Italy or somewhere else. All he wished—so ran his plaint—was a brief page in history awarded for service to his country. General Kellerman had more experience than he, and knew better how to make war; "but both together we shall make it badly. I will not willingly serve with a man who considers himself the first general in Europe." How strongly is here revealed the unconquerable will and self-sufficiency and purpose of Bonaparte to be all or nothing!

Let us scan the field. The coalition against France now embraced Austria, Bavaria, Piedmont, Naples, and England. The smaller States of Germany and Italy were also in the league. For the "protection" of Piedmont and indeed of all Italy, an army of about sixty thousand men, thoroughly equipped and supplied, and commanded by General Beaulieu, one of the ablest and most experienced in Europe, had been sent into Lombardy. Against this power Napoleon's Army of Italy was set, consisting of only thirty-five thousand new men, miserably destitute, and having enthusiasm for its principal resource. With this he must compete for the mastery of states and kingdoms.

But the Army of Italy had for a commander a military genius of so audacious a character as to rank its possessor with the two other prime warriors of human history. He had daring, military invention, the power of combination, the discovery of new expedients, sudden adaptation to unforeseen contingencies, courage, ambition, foresight, subtlety, and indeed every quality fit to make him what he was now about to become—the greatest commander of modern times.

At Montenotte, twenty-six miles west of Genoa, Napoleon fought his first field-battle. He attacked the Austrian division of D'Argenteau, and won a victory. Mark you, he fought with a division of the enemy! This was on the 12th of April, only twenty-two days after his departure from Paris. On the 14th he struck the Austrians and Sardinians at Millesimo, ten miles further on, and won another victory. On the next day he came on the enemy at Dego, and added a third. On the 21st, he reached Mondovi, forty-eight miles from Turin, and on the following day attacked and defeated the division of General Colli. In every engagement his blow was like that of a thunderbolt. The disciplined armies of his opponents broke before him.

An incident of these first wild days of battle and victory well illustrates the prevailing temper of the conqueror. His first passage with Colli was with pen rather than sword. Just after the conflict at Dego, the German General demanded the release of a certain Emigrant Moulin who had been taken by the French, though bearing a flag of truce. To this Bonaparte replied: "An emigrant is a parricide. You forgot the respect due to the French people when you sent M. Moulin with a flag of truce. You know the laws of war. If contrary to those laws you authorize an act of barbarism, all the prisoners taken from you shall be immediately made responsible for it with the most deplorable vengeance." There indeed, in his first field-note, spoke out the Corsican. Let no one trifle with him.

The king of Sardinia was already beaten. After Mondovi he made overtures of peace. Without pausing, Napoleon advanced on the main Austrian division under Beaulieu. Him he found strongly posted on the Adda, holding the bridge that led into the town of Lodi. Frederic the Redbeard had founded Lodi on the site of the ancient Roman Laus Pompeia. On the 10th of May the Austrians, sixteen thousand strong, were attacked at the bridge of the Adda by six thousand French grenadiers, led by Napoleon and Lannes in person. The action was bloody and decisive. The name of Lodi was added to the lengthening column of victories. Two thousand of the French were killed and wounded, and a much larger number of the Austrians. Here Bonaparte, fighting in the ranks, gained his famous title of LITTLE CORPORAL, which to the end of human annals will be repeated as his sobriquet.

Five days afterwards the conqueror entered Milan; Lombardy was at his feet. He made levies and requisitions with a freedom only equaled by the audacity of the things accomplished. He pulled down without compunction the magnificent art-trophies of the city, and sent them as foretokens of his triumph to Paris. Well he knew the effect which the news of the *startling events, and his treasures of an*cient art as evidence, would produce on the Parisians. Naples, Modena and Parma went down before him; and the Pope, becoming petitioner, signed an armistice.

Such was the first passage of the war; and the second was like the first. The coalition was not to yield without further battle. Napoleon made Mantua his next objective. Field-marshal Wurmser, of great fame, a veteran of seventy-two, came swiftly out of the Tyrol with a new Austrian army. Before he could reach the scene of action, Mantua was already besieged by Napoleon. The defense held out until Wurmser's army came on in two divisions, and the French were forced to fall back.

The division of his forces proved fatal to the Austrian commander. Woe to the army that was ever divided in front of Bonaparte! At Lonato, on the 3rd of August, he attacked a division of Wurmser and gained a complete victory; General Augereau was the hero of the day. On the 5th and 6th of August a second battle, on nearly the same field, was fought with still more decisive results; Wurmser was hurled back, and Mantua again besieged.

The enemy soon returned to the onset. At Riveredo, on the 4th of September, the division of Massena defeated the Austrians with great losses. On the 8th, at Bassano, Napoleon routed the main force under Wurmser in person. On the 15th of November was fought the great battle of Arcole where eighteen thousand French, led by Napoleon, Massena and Augereau, triumphed over the Austrians nearly forty thousand strong. The battle was fought in a swampy region traversed with causeways and difficult bridges. After three days of desperate fighting Wurmser was so disastrously defeated as to end the contest.

Napoleon now sought to settle some of the issues of the war. He corresponded with the Directory; set forth the condition of Italian affairs, and his own purposes; indicated the necessity of subjugating Venice; granted armistices to the king of Sardinia, to the duke of Parma, to the king of Naples, and made with Genoa a convention for a permanent settlement.

After Arcole, Wurmser threw himself into Mantua, and was cooped up. In January, 1797, Austria sent her third army into the field under General Alvinczy. This great force proceeded towards Mantua as far as Rivoli, where it was struck by Bonaparte and routed with a loss of about twenty thousand men! At Favorita, on the 16th, the French were again victorious. The ruin of Alvinczy's army was complete, and on February 2nd Mantua was surrendered with eighteen thousand prisoners of war.

Swiftly Napoleon followed up these tremendous successes. A fourth Austrian army, under Archduke Charles, came down from the Tyrol as far as Tagliamento, where on the 16th of March, it was routed by the French. On the 7th of April, an armistice was granted by Napoleon, and on the 18th he made with Austria his provisional treaty of Leoben. That power was compelled to cede the Netherlands, and to accept, in mocking compensation, a bit of the state of Venice!

Meanwhile, another coup d'etat had occurred in Paris. By violence the two great Councils of State purged themselves of fifty alleged Royalists and Anarchists. Carnot and Barthelemy, members of the Directory, were sent flying into exile. Such was the savage indignation of the Republic that the coalition became willing for peace. At Campo-Formio, on October 17th, 1797, Napoleon met the representatives of the German Empire, and with astounding presumption dictated to that ancient power the terms of pacification. Openly, Austria should cede the Belgian provinces, recognize the Cisalpine Republic, and accept fragments of Venetia. France should have the results of the war, including the Ionian Islands. Secretly, the Rhine should henceforth be the boundary between Germany and France.

Before leaving the scenes of his glory Napoleon sent Joubert as his herald to Paris. He shall announce for us the following results: The campaign of the Army of Italy has extended from April 12th, 1796, to October 17th, 1797. We have taken 150,000 prisoners; 170 standards; 550 siege pieces; 600 field guns; five pontoon equipages; nine ships of 64 guns; twelve frigates of 32 guns; twelve corvettes; eighteen galleys. We have given "liberty" (whatever that may mean, General!) to Bologna, Ferrara, Modena, Carrara, Romagna, Lombardy, Brescia, Bergamo, Mantua, Cremona, part of Verona, Chiavena, Bormio, the Valtelline, Genoa, the Imperial Fiefs, Corcyra, the Ionian Isles, Ithica. We send to Paris all the Masterpieces of Michael Angelo, Guercino, Titian, Paul Veronese, Correggio, Albana, Carracci, Raphael, Leonardo da Vinci. Not all the masterpieces of these immortals, General; but the rest is true to the letter. And by order of the Directory your glories shall be written in golden catalogue on a Memorial Flag to be hung in the great Hall of Sittings, and be seen by shouting Paris and the world. You were never yourself a poor man afterwards!

JOHN CLARK RIDPATH.

Donkeys have an aversion to drinking running water or crossing a running stream.

TELEPHONE COMPANY

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 12,000 SUBSCRIBERS—PROTECTION FROM FIRE AND BURGLARS, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—175 North Avenue.

Public pay stations, fitted with long distance instruments:

- J H Leggett Park ave and Front st
- Telephone Exchange 175 North ave opp depo
- Horsley Barker Grove and Front sts
- G W F Moy 8th and Park avenue
- Frank Rowley Somerset and Craig place
- J C Field, Somerville.
- J B Gutteridge, Netherwood
- Hotel Albion, Park ave and 8th street

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. H	378 West 7th st
Adams, Dr D G	66 Grove st
Adams H C	115 E 6th st
Addis & Fee	122 North av
Andrews F B	828 Central av
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 8th st
Alert Hose Co., No 1	W 3d st
Babcock, Geo H	8th and Union sts
Barnaby F A	Plainfield
Brakeley, F W Dr	Dunellen
Boone C W Dr	7th and Liberty sts
Bushnell, John	Central ave. and 9th st
Beerbower, J B	Park av and 2d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	123 E 5th st
Blair A C	149 North av
Boice, Runyon & Co	246 Park av
Board of Education	6th st and Arlington av
Booth, E H	Central av
Brookside Sanitarium	Somerset st
Brown J H	612 Central av
Central Times	103 E Front st
Clark, E B	121 Crescent av
Children's Home	Jackson ave
Chase Fred F	665 North av
Closson, James T	Richmond and Front sts
CONSTITUTIONALIST Office	105 North av
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves
Cox, Rowland	310 W Seventh st
Chapman, Mrs F A	18 LaGrande av
Cruikshank, R. A	Belvidere av
Carman, J H, M D	49 Somerset st
Chase, E F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy	Park av & Front st
DAILY PRESS	105 North ave
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 6th st & Park av
Day, B M	Rockview ave
Decker, F—pay station	Westfield, N J
Doane, F O—Chief P F D	438 W 8th st
Dunn Fred W	Park and North av
Dumont, John B	151 E 7th st
Endicott Dr Geo W	Park ave. and 7th st
Hose No 1	West 3d st
Engine No 2	2d st near Park av
Engine No 3	Somerset st
Evans, Geo C	27 Washington ave
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Force A L	22 Duer st
Fisk, Chas. J	211 West 7th st
Fisk, Pliny	6 W 7th st
Freight House	C. RR, Depot
French Bros	Somerset st
Fritts, Dr J T	423 Park av
Fleming, Howard	1012 Park av
French, C Frank	69 Somerset st
do do	237 Park av
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New st
Grant, Geo W Chief of Police	416 W 6th st
Griffen, A M	119 E Front st
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 8th st
Hegeman, B. A	107 Sycamore avenue
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W	703 Watchung av
Hedden, Albert	4th st. near Park ave
Hoagland's City Express	161 North av
Howell E O	191 North av
Holmes E H	206 Madison av
Hogan Chas W	20 Rockview av
Hummer & Mulford	220 Park av
Ivins D C	311 Watchung av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	213 W Front st
Kaufman W T	627 W 7th st
Keely & Son	LaGrande av and Scott pl
Kirkner, J	5th and Division sts
Leggett Pharmacy	Park av and Front st
Linnett W N	130 Jackson av
Lowrie H H, Dr	512 Park av
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 9th st
Lovell, L N	Crescent ave
Linke, Frank	227 W Front st
Lounsbury, F C	Plainfield av
Mallinson A D	205 North av
Matthews, Chas	49 Grove st
MacDonald, J F	136 E Front st
Marsh Craig A	108 E Front st
Mathewson W B Dr	Babcock Bldg
do do	27 Rockview av
McQuaide James E	731 W 7th st
McGee, Henry A	Willow ave
McGee, James	Willow ave
Moy G W F	Park av and 8th st
Muhlenberg Hospital	628 W 3rd st
Murray, Dr. W H	727 Watchung av
Murray J W	813 W 6th st
Music Hall	49B
Myers, J K	139 E 7th st
Newhall, Henry B	144 E 7th st
N Y & N J Telephone Co	175 North av
Park Club The	Washington av
Fenton T B jr	Rockview av
Perkins Ed C	Central av
Plainfield Beef Co	254 E 3rd st
do Electric Light Co	Madison av
do Gas Light Co	E 4th st
do Street Railway Co	Grant av
do Water Supply Co	Netherwood
Police Station	Park av and Railroad
do Chief Office	Park av
Pond Machine Tool Co	6 2nd st
Pope J C & Co	E Front st
Postal Telegraph & Cable Co	106 Park av
Potter, C jr	425 W 7th st
Potter Printing Press Co	665 South av
Probasco J B Dr	E Front st
Randolph, L W	143 Front st
Reynolds, H P	Park and North ave
Reynolds, H. P	Washington avenue
Reed Chas A	27 Myrtle av
Reed & Coddington	Babcock Bldg
Reinhart J W	69 Belvidere av
Rheaume L A	Watchung av and 4th st
Rogers W H	406 W 5th st
Rowley Frank	45 Somerset st
Roberts, D S	127 North av
Rockafellow, Geo W	Park and 6th st
Rogers, D W	231 W 2d st
Rooms, Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves
Runyon, A M & Son	602 Park av
Runyon, A M & Son	416 Madison av
Rushmore, Dr Edward	429 Park av near Fifth st
Runkle, H. G	621 8th st
Runyon, Chas W	109 North av
Rice, R. W. & Co	cor. Emily and Duer sts
Rushmore Robert	3rd st and Grant av
Saunders W L	25 Mercer av
Serrell, Lemuel W	225 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Shaw, R J	Front st. opp. Park ave
Shepard A D	Fanwood
Slater F M	27 Jackson av
Smalley Bros	North av
Smith, W F	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Smith, Jas A	125 W Front st
Streuli, H A	1208 Hillside av
Stevens F R	762 South av
Stevens Geo O	Grant av and W Front st
Stephenson W J	148 North av
Sykes T F	Front st Fanwood
Talmadge, Henry P	Netherwood
Taylor Mrs M S	19 Rockview Terrace
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Terrill & Cole	300 W 2d st
Thompson, A D	147-149 North av
Thompson, A D	Farragut road
Thickstun, Jno A	226 Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M	413 W 7th st
Tomlinson, Dr T H	213 La Grande av
Tobin Geo J	137 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	449 5th st
Tunison W J	542 Watchung av
Tweedy, O. B.	123 Crescent av
Ulrich & Blatz	119 W Front st
Union Beef Co	218 E 3rd st
United States Express Co	145 North av
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle J W	112 North av
Wadsworth, W B	402 9th st
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
Wharton, Clifton jr	516 3rd Place
Woltman, E	609 West Seventh st
Wiechers, J F	W 6th st., near Grant ave
Wierts Max	144 W Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park, N J	60c	Hempstead N Y	45c
Astoria, N Y	50c	Hoboken N J	35c
Babylon, N Y	60c	Hunter's Point N Y	45c
Bath, N Y	40c	Irvington N J	40c
Bayonne N J	45c	Islip N Y	60c
Bergen Point N J	35c	Jamaica N Y	45c
Bayside N Y	50c	Jersey City N J	35c
Bay Shore N Y	75c	Keyport N J	50c
Bayville N Y	60c	Kingston N J	35c
Belleville N J	40c	Laurel Hill N Y	45c
Blissville N Y	45c	Leonia N J	45c
Bloomfield N J	35c	Little Neck N Y	50c
Bloomingdale N J	45c	Little Silver N J	50c
Boonton N J	45c	Long Branch N J	50c
Brooklyn N Y	35c	Madison N J	40c
Caldwell N J	45c	Matawan N J	50c
Carlstadt N J	45c	Millburn N J	35c
Centreville N J	45c	Montclair N J	35c
Chatham N J	50c	Morristown N J	45c
Chester N J	45c	Newark N J	25c
Colt's Neck N J	75c	New Brunswick N J	25c
Coney Island N Y	45c	Newton N J	45c
Greenhill N J	40c	New York N Y	35c
Dover N J	40c	Orange N J	35c
East Norwich N Y	60c	Pamrapo N J	45c
Eatontown N J	60c	Passaic N J	35c
Elizabeth N J	25c	Paterson N J	35c
Englewood N J	35c	Perth Amboy N J	25c
Fairview N J	45c	Rahway N J	25c
Fanwood N J	15c	Red Bank N J	50c
Far Rockaway N Y	45c	Seabright N J	60c
Flatbush N Y	50c	Short Hills N J	35c
Flushing N Y	40c	South Amboy N J	35c
Fort Lee N J	45c	South River N J	35c
Franklin Park N J	35c	Staten Island N Y	35c
Freehold N J	50c	Westfield N J	15c
German Settlem't N Y	60c	Woodbridge N J	35c
Glen Cove N Y	50c	Yonkers N Y	60c
Gravesend N Y	45c	Trenton N J	60c
Hackensack N J	35c	Tarrytown N Y	60c

The Name Is Everything.

The many tricks of trade that are practiced in these times are justified by a prominent soap manufacturer of Philadelphia as being positively necessary to influence a stupid public to buy what is for their benefit. The article in which he takes the most pride is a pure Castile soap, purer and better than that made in Castile. He stamped it as American Castile and was unable to sell any quantity. The people would not buy what little was taken by retail dealers. Under these circumstances the manufacturer changed the stamp on his soap to one abounding in Spanish words which meant the same thing. Since the change in stamp the sales have been remarkable and the soap is ever gaining in popularity.—Philadelphia Record.

A Robin Dined With the Captain.

Touching instances of the recent stress of weather comes from the mountainous districts of Wales. At Ffestiniog a sheep actually walked into a house and placed its forelegs on a lady's lap to beg a bit of bread which she held in her hand. At Barmouth a robin took up its quarters on board a steamship (the Telephone), accompanied it on its voyage to Liverpool and back again, and at dinner hours hopped on to the table and dined with the captain.

A Compliment.

"That boy of yours, madam," remarked the conductor as he punched the half fare ticket, "looks remarkably well developed for a child under 12."

"Thank you," replied the lady very calmly. "It's so gratifying for me to have any one notice Tommy's remarkable precocity."—Chicago Record.

According to Dean Hole there are fifty silly young men for one silly young woman.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnace,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS
Cleanse the Bowels and Purify the Blood! Cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Dyspepsia, and give healthy action to the entire system.

FOR MALARIA.
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand with interest. Money deposited on or before July 1, 1894, will draw interest from that date.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
J. FRANK HUBBARD,
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 201 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly28tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVI
Vegetables, Fruits, etc:
No. 224 Park Ave
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
Everything usually found in a first-class grocery store.
Goods delivered free of charge.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
Insurance Agent,
Offic cor. Front St. and Park Av.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar30tf

Stoves, Ranges
—AND—
HARDWARE
OF ALL KINDS
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 21 SOMERSET ST. 3-13-tf

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE: CHARGES REASONABLE
Mrs. Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
mch30tf

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 328 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apdy

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 204 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at r residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. sfactorily performed. f17yl

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
135 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES &
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stov s can e found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the est Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in thi section. We use none but the very best of ma erials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Kes of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and
Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

W. R. CODINGTON.
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jestf

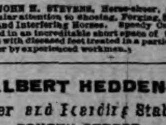
GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THIRES,
Dentist,
48 Somerset street. A new local anæsthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—je6tf

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—34 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges reasonable. P. O. Box 1 Piano moving a specialty.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and C ing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 123½ W. Front street, to 221 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

TWENTY
Yeas experience in the business.
SECOND STREET. 2 doors above Peacestree



Mr. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to shoeing, Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredible short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Liver and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Peace street and Park avenue.
First-Class Livery.
Horses Boarded by Week or Month
Telephone call No, 114.

Parlor stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
te Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning.
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-4l

Estey
Pianos
Organs
FULLY WARRANTED.
Moderate Prices.
Cash or Installments.
See Them Before You Buy.
ESTEY & SAXE,
5 East 14th Street, - New York.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.
CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? [illegible]

The Constitutionalist
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY
PUBLISHED AT
Plainfield, New Jersey.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.
A. L. Force, Publisher & Proprietor.
Walter Irving Clarke, City Editor

CATTLE ACTUALLY SCARCE.

High Prices for Beef to Prevail Through the Summer.

R. I. Tolles, local representative for Armour & Co., supplies to The Press as an explanation of the prevailing increase in the price of beef, an extract from a recent article in the Breeders Gazette, one of the acknowledged authorities on all matters pertaining to the cattle industry of the country. This article is a review of the situation from an intelligent and reliable standpoint, based upon a practical knowledge of the situation as it really exists. It says:

"There is an actual scarcity of prime cattle, or cattle of any kind. Within a short period the price of good cattle on the hoof has risen two cents per pound, and we see no reason why the advance should not continue. In fact, we look for a continuation of high prices for beef all of the coming Summer. The amount of range cattle offered for the market is now forty per cent. less than last year. There has been a drouth on the ranges, hard Winters, a lack of increase in cattle-raising, and, to sum it all up, a strong American demand for consumption not equaled by the producers of beef As far as we can see every circumstance of climate, and the laws of supply and demand have for a number of years combined against the American cattle-raiser, until we are confronted with an actual shortage of beef.

"This situation has long been foreshadowed by reports which have appeared in The Gazette from all quarters. The calculating farmer, the man who keeps posted, has not failed to see the drift of affairs, and when he has governed himself accordingly, he is not now caught with his bucket upside down when it is raining dollars. The long era of low prices has cost us much, but it has likewise taught us much, and it would be lamentable indeed if the present upward flight of prices should induce any farmer to forget the economies in production and feeding which he was forced to learn.'

A DAY AT THE TRAPS.

Climax Club Has a Good Time Smashing Targets.

Though the weather was showery yesterday afternoon, the monthly shoot of the Climax Gun Club was well attended by the local gunners and a half day of good sport enjoyed. The club handicap, consisting of 25 birds for the scratch men, at unknown angles, resulted as follows: Brentnall, scratch—20; Keller, scratch—22; Apgar, scratch—25; Smith, scratch—21; Brantingham, scratch—24; D Terry handicapped at 1—22; Manning, 2—26; D Darby, 5—22; W Squier, 2—15; J Darby, 7—27; J Goodman, 6—18; Singer, 10—23; Edwards, 5—27; W Terry, 4—17; Williams, 5—23; P Jay, 5—28.

The first sweepstakes was at 10 Empire targets at unknown angles, with one man up, which resulted as follows: Edwards 6; Brentnall 7; Apgar 9; Smith 10; Keller 7; D Darby 10; Singer 4; Brantingham 9; Manning 9; G. Squier 8; "Williams" 6; W Squier 9.

The second sweepstakes, 10 Empire targets at unknown angles, was as follows: Edwards 8; Apgar 9; Keller 9; Smith 9; Marning 10; D Darby 9; D Terry 9; Brantingham 8; Singer 7; "Joe" 5; "Williams" 9; W Squier 7; G. Squier 10; "P Jay" 9.

The last sweepstakes resulted as follows: Edwards 7; Apgar 10; Keller 9; Smith 9; Manning 7; D Darby 9; D Terry 9; Brantingham 7; Singer 8; "Williams" 6; W Squier 7 "P Jay" 8; G Squier 10

After the other events five pair of doubles, with eight entries, were shot, out of which Keller, Smith, Terry, Brantingham and Squier broke eight each; in the shoot-off at three pair Smith, Apgar and Squier divided with five each.

The Spine
is one of the most tender parts of the body. Inflammation there results in weak nerves everywhere.
Allcock's
Porous Plaster
will be found to have a beneficial effect in allaying the inflammation and restoring strength. It is invaluable in all sorts of lameness and congestion.
Never put up with "Just as good as Allcock's." Insist upon having the genuine.
Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.
Brandreth's Pills
not only cleanse, but tone up the system. They can be depended upon.

THE DAILY PRESS SOUVENIR.

"Plainfield, N. J., Illustrated" to Be Delivered to Subscribers This Week.

The Daily Pre Souvenir Book of Plainfield is now in the hands of the binders, and will be ready for delivery to subscribers this week. It is a handsome volume, printed in the highest style of the art, and bound in elegant embossed covers. The illustrations are sumptuous, and give a splendid idea of the comfort and beauty of New Jersey's city of homes.

R. M. Hooker, under whose superintendence the work has progressed, writes an introductory sketch, and has grouped the photographs with artistic skill. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis contributes a history and description of the town. The societies, churches and business interests of the community are faithfully represented The work is of value to townspeople, and bound to be of inestimable benefit to Plainfield wherever circulated.

One of the most beautiful illustrations is the snow scene showing the home of Clarence E. Bond, East Front street; and in happy contrast to this is the series of Summer views depicting the glories of Cedar Brook Farm, home of J.E. Martine.

Other residences of which exterior and and interior views are shown include the following: A J Woodruff, Charles J Fisk, Mayor Alexander Gilbert, J W Reinhart, H G Runkle, J Evarts Tracy, Dr George W Endicott, Charles Potter, S A Cruikshank, John M Clark, William P Smith, James W Jackson, Dr D C Adams, C F Abbott, Samuel Q Lawson, Leander N Lovell, S A Ginna, C C Cokefair, C. T Nightingale, W D W Miller, A D Phillips, Dr Oliver P King, Charles Schipper, Edwin B Leland, Edwin B Day, B A Hegeman Jr., George D Patten, George F White, Mrs. Wm White, Anna O Marsh, F E Marsh, W W Howland, H M Bliss, Thos B Penton, Jr., Mrs L P Bullock. Frank Baldwin, W E Lowe, E Woltmann, W A Lord, James T Closson, R H Radford, N P T Finch, Mrs Charles E Ryder, Mrs Emma Darling, James C Peck, Henry A McGee, Charles A Haynes, Postmaster J M Hetfield, Augustus D Shepard ("The Gables"). Louis Borsum, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, G D Hallock, Francis Wood, Samuel Townsend, Rev Dr Robert Lowry, John B Truell, R M Stelle, John Bushnell, Mrs C P Hazen, C W McCutchen, Aaron Keiser. Rowland Cox, Lemuel W Serrell, W B Wadsworth, A Vanderbeek, E H Booth, Mulford Estil, Ernest R Ackerman, James P MacQuaide, J O Stevens, Wm M Stout.

Other buildings faithfully shown are the Friends meeting-house, Muhlenberg Hospital, the schools, hotels, churches, and railroad stations, fire department headquarters, Y M C A Building, Public Library and Art Gallery, Babcock Building, with interiors of Edsall's Commercial Palace and Reed & Coddington's law offices, the water-works pumping station and standpipe, Daily Press building, with photograph of staff and view of editorial rooms, and stores of the various merchants whose patronage materially aided in making it possible to issue one of the handsomest souvenir books of a town ever published.

An Honest Tribute.

The following is from The Oneonta, N. Y., Herald:

"Charles E. Runk, manager of the Oneonta Fertilizer and Chemical Company, died of pneumonia last Sunday evening at his home on Watkins avenue in this village, aged 32 years, 4 months and 11 days. Mr. Runk had been ill less than a week and it was not until Saturday that it was generally known that his condition was critical. The funeral was held Tuesday morning, Rev. C. C. Pierce officiating, and the body was taken on the afternoon train to his old home in Plainfield, N. J., for interment.

"Such, in brief, are the facts concerning Mr. Runk's demise. When, however, such a man passes to another world, it may well be that a few words of honest eulogium should be permitted to gild the bare statement of fact. Such men as he are not so plentiful that departure of one of them should be unheeded.

"Though for less than two years a resident of Oneonta, and withal a modest unassuming, unpretentious man, Mr. Runk had in so brief a time won to a remarkable degree the confidence and respect alike of his associates and of the community. Under his judicious management the fertilizer plant, which for more than a year had been idle, became again a scene of activity, and business was built up to a degree which appears little less than wonderful to one who knows the difficulties which beset his way. Energetic and straightforward as he was in business, he was no less affable and lovable in private life, and to many, as to the writer of these lines, his demise came as a heartfelt personal calamity.

"Mr. Runk leaves a wife and one little daughter, besides an aged grandmother whose hope it was to spend the brief remnant of her life with him. His father, George E. Runk, who came from New Jersey about a year ago to reside with his only son, died last August."

To Organize for Suffrage.

A meeting to organize a Union County Woman Suffrage Association, auxiliary to the New Jersey State Association, will be held in Plainfield Friday, May 10, morning and afternoon. A number of prominent citizens will address the meeting, and delegates are expected from Elizabeth and other towns of the county and State. The time and place of meeting will be announced later.

—The exterior of Lowe Brothers' West Front street store is receiving a coat of paint.

YOUNG GIRLS.
INTERESTING CONCLUSIONS.
Mothers Agree on One Vital Subject.
[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]
Young girls, to the thinking mind, are ever subjects of the deepest interest.

Some lead lives of luxury, while others toil for mere existence. Separate, however, as their paths in life may lie, Nature demands of them the same obedience. All are subject to the same physical laws, and suffer in proportion to their violation.

Young girls are reticent through modesty, and often withhold what ought to be told.

Yet they are not to blame, for information on such subjects has been withheld from them, owing to the false interpretation of a mother's duty.

In such cases they should do as thousands of young ladies are doing every day: write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., giving as nearly as possible their symptoms, and receive her freely given advice and timely aid.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the young girl's most trusty friend. It can be obtained of any druggist, and speedily relieves and cures irregularities, suspension, retention, and all derangements of the womb and ovaries.

It banishes promptly all pains, headache, backache, faintness, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholia, etc. Young girls must know that self-preservation is the first law of nature.

HYMENEAL.

Thomas—Burke.

Beneath a canopy of roses and smilax the marriage of Miss Ida Louise Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pascal C. Burke and granddaughter of William Swalm of this city, to William Marvin Thomas was celebrated Wednesday evening, April 17, at the home of the bride, 175 McDonough street, Brooklyn, Rev. E P. Terhune of the Puritan Avenue Congregational Church officiating. The decorations were very elaborate, Easter flowers and foliage banking the mantel of the front parlor adorning the hallway, while the back parlor was decorated with American beauty roses.

The bride was attended as maid of honor by Miss Harriett V. Thomas, sister of the groom. The best man was William de la Montagnie of New York, and the ushers were Everett S. Swalm, Edward H. Bergen, Frederick Sherwood and A. de Forest Sanford.

The bride's gown was of white ivory satin with trimming of point lace, and her bouquet was bride roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was attired in rose pink satin and chiffon with pearl trimming and carried bridesmaid roses and hyacinths. Mrs. Pascal C. Burke wore turquoise blue brocade trimmed with bronze velvet and duchess lace, and Miss E. Eloise Thomas wore canary color peau de soie and turquoise velvet with trimming of oriental lace. A reception to about three hundred guests followed the ceremony, and later Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left on an extended tour in the South.

Among those present were Mr and Mrs A Ammerman, Edward Annan, Dr and Mrs Joseph B Brown, Mr and Mrs Seward S Beard of Lakewood, N J; Miss Josephine Bailey of Philadelphia; Mr and Mrs Ira Corwin of Middletown, N Y; Mr and Mrs Henry Elliott, Miss Elliott, George P Ely of New York; Mrs A De-Forest Keys of Elizabeth; Miss Mae Kimball of Chicago; Rev and Mrs Kenneth McKenzie of Westport; Mr and Mrs E Morris of Pottsville, Pa; Howard E Raymond of Chicago; Dr and Mrs W H Swalm, Mr and Mrs A Swalm of this city; Mrs William Swalm, Mrs. Everett S Swalm and daughters, the Misses Julia and Florence Swalm of Middletown, N Y; the Misses Sandford of New York; United States Senator George L Shook; H W Van Cortlandt of Tuxedo; William H Thomas of Westport; Mrs J C Wemple, and Gen William G Wallace of the United States Navy.

A SCHOLARLY TRIBUTE.

Historian Bigelow Publicly Recognizes the Services of ex-Mayor Randolph to the Tilden Trust.

In his scholarly "Life of Samuel J. Tilden", just issued in sumptuous style by the Harpers, John Bigelow, LL. D., pays this merited tribute to Plainfield's ex-mayor, whose management of the Tilden estate materially increased the millions of the estate:

"On the 16th of November, 1886, a few weeks after the probate of the will, Mr L. V. F. Randolph, who had been for many years a director and treasurer of the Illinois Central Railroad, was appointed the secretary of the executors and trustees under the will, to the duties of which position were subsequently added those of secretary to the Tilden Trust.

"I feel it to be a duty, as certainly it is a pleasure, for me here to make a public acknowledgment of his invaluable services in both capacities, and formally to recognize the very substantial obligations under which his varied accomplishments as a business manager, his indefatigable assiduity, and his high personal character, have placed all who are or may hereafter be in any way interested in this estate."

THE UNDERHILL READINGS.

Another Delighted Audience in the Casino.

A large and interested audience greeted Charles F. Underhill, the reader, at his second recital in the Casino last evening. The subject was Dickens's masterpiece, David Copperfield, and Mr. Underhill carried his audience with him from the start through the adventures—dramatic, humorous and pathetic—of Mr. Peggoty, Micawber, Uriah Heep, Miss Betsy Trotwood and all the rest of the dearly loved characters of this dearly loved book.

The stage was most attractively set with the garden scene for a backing and a veritable garden of carnations, roses and growing plants flanked the reader's desk on either side. The Casino was well ventilated, a circumstance as rare as it is pleasing, and everybody was most comfortable.

Mr. Underhill chose his selections from the most effective parts of the novel and so well were they chosen that the thread of the story was almost unbroken. These are the scenes he read: The Old Ark on the Sands, At Mr. and Mrs. Micawber's, Law Office of Wickfield and Heep, Little Emily's Flight, Mr. Peggotty's Narrative, Mr. Micawber Excited, Mr. Micawber's Explosion, Emily's Return, The Shipwreck.

The reader's rendering of the character of Mr. Peggotty was most effective, and he made Miss Betsy Trotwood very amusing and lovable. Mr. Micawber fairly stepped forth from the pages to crush the miserable, cringing Uriah Heep, and the rest of the less important characters were read with the same careful attention and discrimination that marks all of Mr. Underhill's work.

Recitals from David Copperfield have generally included the funny pages of David's and Dora's housekeeping, but Mr. Underhill confined himself to the story growing out of the attachment between "little Em'ly" and Ham Peggotty, and the sad wrecking of it all by David's friend, Steerforth. Lovers of Dickens enjoyed the treat of seeing the imaginary characters take on themselves the semblance of real life, as Mr. Underhill, with changing tones and facial expressions, made one after another appear upon the scene. Peggotty ceased to be merely Peggotty of the book, but was an honest Yarmouth boatman, commanding respect by "doing his endeavors in his line of life". Poor Ham Peggotty with his slow speech and shy manners appealed for sympathy as the audience were made to understand anew his great love for little Em'ly that was turned into great grief and ended in his tragic death As Uriah Heep, Mr. Underhill was so "umble", cringing and sinister that one felt a new detestation for the character that has become a synonym for hypocrisy and deceit. As Betsy Trotwood, he was so naturally sarcastic and refreshing that the audience could heartily wish there was more of Betsy to hear and enjoy. Micawber, the unfortunate and bombastic, with all his violent explosions, won the regard of his listeners, as he exposed Uriah's rascality and overthrew his machinations for evil.

The description of the shipwreck was vivid, and the closing scene of Ham's and Steerforth's lives was full of pathos.

The next reading will be from "The Rivals", Sheridan's well-known comedy and will take place Thursday evening, May 2.

Gymnastic Events.

The following is the programme of events to take place Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 29 and 30, in the Y. M. C. A. tournament:

Monday evening—Dumb-bell drill by class, vaulting bars, parallel bars, Indian club swinging by Thomas Schaefer, running high jump, standing broad jump.

Tuesday evening—Indian club drill by class, horizontal bars, German horse, Indian club swinging by Thomas Schaefer, running broad jump, hop, step and jump, awarding of medals and prizes by President W. D. Murray.

—Contractor A. C. Lazzi has completed the laying of the bluestone flagging in front of the property owned by Hughes Fawcett on Rockview avenue.

25 cents
spent in beef will yield 68 per cent. of energy—spent in H-O Hornby's Oatmeal
it will yield 345 per cent.
Steam Cooked That's Why
H-O [Hornby's Oatmeal] Company, N. Y.

What is
CASTORIA
Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary,
Boston, Mass.
Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Amos H. VanHorn, Limited,
73 Market Street, Near Plane Street.
Note the Name Amos Before Entering the Store.
COME EVERY DAY.
Whenever you come you find fresh features in Furniture and Household Wares to greet you. Just now nothing seems impossible in the line of economy in this store. Whatever you want maybe you can fill it here at a third—often half—the price you'll pay elsewhere. For instance:

PARLOR SUITS.
$20—Whoever thought to see such a splendid suit as this for such a little price? You'll wonder how the material can be bought for so small a figure and not count the making. Not many, only enough to keep the sale going this week, so you'd best be quick. Mahogany finished frame, five pieces.

MATTINGS.
15c. the yard and made in Japan. You know what that means. Quaint patterns, woven carelessly on a bright colored background. Some of the very prettiest patterns of the season. Brand new styles and the kinds that will win your approval.

DINING CHAIRS.
Fragile and delicate, stout and sturdy, and every one of them serviceable as can be. You needn't spend much time; close your eyes and choose, you can't go wrong. They are the most cheerful looking chair you ever saw, and the prices $1.25 to $5.00, with twenty-five cent go-betweens.

CARPETS.
High priced or low priced, the lining and the making and the laying free. That's what brings business to our carpet room. And you pay less here for the carpet than you're likely to pay elsewhere. Scores of fresh rolls added weekly, among them new patterns in the 65c. Tapestry Brussels and Super Ingrains.

An Unequaled Offering. Buy a bedroom suit here. You'll save the cost of spring and mattress. We give a strongly woven wire spring and mixed mattress with each bedroom set sold. A bouncing big offer, but it's away we have for making new acquaintances. Goods delivered free of charge to all parts of the State.

The Portland Range. You who have never heard about it, come to the store; you who have one, aren't you tickled?

The Storage House is making friends daily; such a well-lighted, well-ventilated place as it is, explains why. Satisfactory terms and satisfactory people to deal with. A 'phone call or postal will bring our vans to you door.

"Hello" Number 580

FIREMEN'S GALA DAY.

Exempts of the State to Meet in Convention, and a General Parade to Follow.

Plainfield firemen are planing for a merry celebration with their Elizabeth brethren on the occasion of the annual parade next month. Usually the parade occurs in October, but none was held last year, the event being postponed until next month, at which time the State Convention of the Exempt Firemen's Association will be held in Elizabeth. The day set for the convention is Wednesday, May 15, and it will be a gala one for the firemen and their friends.

At least three hundred and fifty visitors are expected, and the fire department intend to do their best to render the day memorable to each one by entertaining them in royal manner. This will necessitate the expenditure of a considerable sum of money, and to meet the expenses the firemen are receiving subscriptions from the public. Mayor Rankin has headed the list with a handsome sum.

The day of the convention promises to be an eventful one. The members of the State Exempt Association will convene at Quinn's Hall on Elizabeth avenue at 10 in the morning, and after transacting their business will elect officers for the ensuing year. At the close of the convention the visiting firemen will be entertained at a banquet and escorted through the city by the local exempt association and the fire department.

Busy Bicyclists.

At the meeting of the Crescent Wheelmen next week the decision as to what prizes will be offered for the racing events of the Decoration Day meet will probably be decided upon. Other matters concerning the meet will also be considered. The entry blanks will be sent shortly, after which the officers will probably be kept busy recording them, though the greatest portion of them will probably not arrive until the last few days before the meet.

I recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. There is, no better liniment made. I have sold over 100 bottles of it this year and all were pleased who used it. J. F. Pierson, druggist, South Chicago, Ill. It is for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

The Finderne,
FINDERNE, Somerset Co., N. J.
Open all the year as a resort of the highest order. Driving and sleighing parties will receive every attention,
HIGH-CLASS SUNDAY DINNERS.
(Table d' Hote from 1 to 3:30) Steam heat; inclosed piazzas; everything immaculate. When out driving let us entertain you.
A. E. WHITE, Manager,
1 9 tf Finderne, N. J.

CHESHIRE PIGS
For sale. Also fine thoroughbred
Cheshire Boar.
APPLY
C. Ackerman,
418 3 w Clinton ave, near Evona.

Prof. A. Wehner,
TEACHER OF THE PIANOFORTE.
ALSO VOICE CULTURE.
Graduate of the Conservatory of Leipsic, Germany, desires a few more pupils in Plainfield.
References given and required.
Address letters to the office of this paper.
1 31 tf-e

A SAILOR LOVER.

BY MARGARET DELAND.

[Copyright, [illegible], by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

I.

Why Donald Hayes should have built his house so near the water, that the line of drift left by the high tide was tangled in his little picket fence, was a mystery to the Seaport.

"I should think, Don, you'd have enough of that ocean week days, without a-settin' and a-lookin' at it Sundays, too," remonstrated more than one friend. "Ain't you tired of seein' the sea, just layin' there? If you was up here in town you could see the street, and folks comin' and goin'."

"Folks!" said Donald Hayes, with a laugh; "the sea is folks enough for me."

"Well, it's easy talking," threatened the other, good-naturedly, "but wait till you try to get Mary Ellis to live down on those God-forsaken rocks; Mary, or any woman, will say—'no, thank ye!' I don't see how your mother stands it, nohow."

Donald laughed again; he was a fine, vigorous young fellow, with an open, sunny, handsome face, and a mouth that found laughing easy. "Mother don't mind," he said; and then he jumped into his dory, which was tied at the wharf where they had been talking, and went slipping down the little tidal river towards the open sea. Donald was not concerned about his chance for getting a wife. "Mary won't mind the rocks," he might have said, but he only pulled his oars in as he passed a house near the river, and waved his hand at a girl up on the bank, who was hanging tea towels out on the currant bushes in the back garden.

"Hullo, Mary!" he called out; and she came running down the path to the river. She was a pleasant looking girl, not pretty, but fresh and honest, and with eyes that knew no secrets. As they met Donald's there was a joyous avowal in them.

"Can you get in?" he asked her, as the dory bumped against the piles that banked the grass at the end of the garden. Mary glanced at him, sidewise.

"I thought you were going to take me out yesterday?"

"Why!" said Donald, "I vow! so I was. Well, I declare I never thought of it till this minute! Ah, come on, Mary; don't be hard on a fellow!"

Mary demurred, with that delightful affectation of indignation at being neglected which only the girl who knows she is loved can assume.

Donald coaxed, rather humbly: "Just for a turn outside the breakwater. The sea's like glass. Come on, now, Mary. Never mind your hat, the sun's low. Mary, I'm going to sail Saturday."

WENT SLIPPING DOWN THE LITTLE RIVER.

Her face changed, as though a cloud had crossed the sun. She got in silently, and sat down opposite the young man; she looked at him once, and then watched the bubbles, leaping to the surface when the oars cut down into the swift flow of the tide.

"Your mother'll be lonely," she said.

"Bless your heart!" he answered, gayly, "what's a six months' voyage? I'll be back in December. And maybe you'll look in on her sometimes, Mary? Folks say our house is lonely, down on the shore; well, it never seemed so to me; if I can just look at the water I'm happy. I wish I could live on it all the year round. But maybe mother will feel lonely; and I'd take it as a favor if you'd see her sometimes?"

Mary nodded. "Of course I will."

"Don't let her worry if we're a day or two overdue; worrying is about the meanest business I know of. I worried about the Samuel P. Jones the time I let her to Dick Wheeler, and he was two weeks over due. I thought she'd gone to the bottom, and I'd be out my money I put into her. Well, I made up my mind then I'd never do it again; worry, I mean. Worrying wouldn't a-brought her up, if she'd been stove in and sunk; and if she was afloat, where was the sense?"

"We won't worry if you'll do your part, and write from every port," Mary said, a little tremulously; "You know you didn't write for six months the last time; and of course your mother was anxious."

"Well, I'm not much on writing," Donald admitted; "when I get a blamed pen into my hand I never can think of a thing to say. I don't believe I'll promise, Mary, but I guess I'll do it all the same."

Mary laughed and scolded. "If I'd only been teaching school when you were a boy," she said, "I'd have got that laziness out of you! I don't take any excuses from the boys, I can tell you—I make them write compositions every Friday."

"My!" said Don, admiringly, "I'll bet on you for bossing them. But I'm pretty glad you weren't teaching when I was a young one, because—because you would have been older than me now."

Mary's face flushed, and she did not meet his eyes; but she smiled and said: "Oh, nonsense!" and neglected to correct his grammar, which would have been in the line of her duty as school mistress of Seaport.

The town lay inland half a mile, scattered along the bank of a river that slipped down through salt marshes to the sea. It was a primitive little places; its main industry was fishing. Indeed, the pungent smell of drying fish, and the fishhouses, gray and weatherbeaten, and full of lobster pots and seines, betrayed that fact to any stranger. Dick Wheeler was almost the only man in Seaport who was not a fisherman. He had made an effort to follow the trade of his neighbors, but his one voyage on the Samuel P. Jones had been too unsuccessful to encourage him to put his father's inheritance into a vessel; instead, he bought a sawmill, and was growing richer every year. Mary never had occasion to correct Dick's grammar, nor reproach him for breaking his promises; but when, after her friendly scolding for his forgetfulness, Donald said, slyly, something to the effect that Dick Wheeler, who never forgot things, was probably the kind of pupil she had in her school, the "kin o' fellow that pleases you, Mary?" she tossed her head, and said: "Nonsense!" and this time with a spice of earnestness that seemed to please Don very much.

MARY SPREADING THE NAPKINS TO DRY.

They had drifted around the breakwater, and the dory lay with idle oars, rocking up and down. Up on the cliffs was the low, weather-beaten house; its faint whisp of smoke leaning with the wind against the opal gray of the June twilight. Perhaps the jibes of the men at the wharf made Donald say, with sudden wistfulness:

"Well, Dick Wheeler's house is smarter, I must say!"

"Oh, it's too big," Mary objected, carelessly; and Donald agreed, with animation, and said, for his part, he liked Dick.

After that they were silent, looking out across the gray, breathing, lifting expanse, at the fading crimson in the west; and a little later they turned back. When they reached the foot of the garden, and he helped Mary out, Donald held her hand hard in his a moment.

"You'll mind what I said about mother, won't you? And—and you won't go back on me, Mary?"

She looked him straight in the eyes, and her lip quivered. "Take care of yourself, Don," she faltered. But he only laughed, because he was too happy to answer her seriously.

"Bless you! I'm not sugar nor salt." Then he told her he would come up after supper, and they would go to prayer meeting.

"If you don't forget it," she told him, sarcastically.

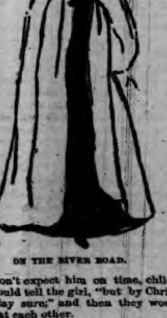
"Well, that's so," he acknowledged, humbly enough, "I must say, I'm good at forgetting. But I'm coming, just the same."

CHAPTER II.

The day after the big three-master, with Donald as mate, dropped down the river, Mary drove down to Mrs. Hayes' with her little cowskin trunk strapped into the back of the buggy.

"I'll stay a week," she told her father. But at the end of a week Donald's mother was ill, and somehow the week lengthened into a month. And then Mrs. Hayes said she felt the loneliness more than usual, and if Mary would stay?—"just a week or two longer," she pleaded. A week or two meant a month or two; and after that, well, Donald was coming home the middle of December, so what was the use of leaving his mother?

"She's not fit to be alone," Mary told her own mother. That was how it happened that when the dark December days began to close in around the little gray house, that clung so close to the shore, Mary was on hand to fix the glass at the west window of the kitchen, so that the old mother might sweep the horizon for a sign of the Samuel P. Jones' sails.



ON THE RIVER ROAD.

"I don't expect him on time, child," she would tell the girl, "but by Christmas day sure;" and then they would smile at each other.

The months of waiting had not been anxious ones; there had been no heavy storms along the coast, and that was somehow an assurance that there had been no heavy storms anywhere else. But Christmas day came and went; and the old year slipped into the new, and the Samuel P. Jones had not come. Explanations and excuses multiplied; declarations that all was well grew more insistent; instances of delay were repeated over and over; but it was the first of February before news came.

Wrecked off the Azores; it was feared all hands were lost.

"Feared;" not known. That was what Mrs. Hayes and Mary said to each other. Everybody knew a dozen instances of sailors picked up in open boats; of desert islands; of drifting rafts. No; the idea that Don was dead could not be accepted; there are some people one cannot associate with death: it is not appropriate. So Don's mother and sweetheart held on to hope.

Those awful, breathless days of despair, and refusing to despair, and then despair again, were filled to Mary with intense and immediate anxiety about Donald's mother. Mrs. Hayes was very frail at best, and it seemed as if this must kill her; indeed, if Mary had not kept on hoping for her, she must have died. But little by little she came back to life, and to the acceptance of the fact that Don was dead; and then one day, six months later, hope sprang again into sudden vigor and certainty: a sailor in Plymouth, who had known him, was told by a man who had just come in in a merchant Indiaman, that he had seen Donald Hayes in the street in Calcutta. He had not spoken to him, for he had lost sight of him again, but he had seen him. Through one mouth and another this news came to Seaport, and was brought down to the gray house on the rocks. Mary used to say afterwards that when she heard it it seemed to her that she should die of joy. Then came the waiting for the letter from Don which must, of course, be on its way. These two, who loved him, guessed with the instinct of women bred by the sea, the whole story; the wreck; the rescue on an outward-bound vessel; the long voyage; the first port Calcutta, and the instant dispatch of letters to them.

"We may hear any day," Mary said; the color had crept back into her face, and the light to her eyes; and yet, waiting, and waiting, and waiting for Don's letter, light and color waned again. It was months before she whispered to Don's mother the ghastly thought that the sailor had been mistaken, and that Don had not been seen. She said it to be contradicted. And at first it was contradicted sturdily and cheerfully. But by and by they both grew too wise for self delusion, and dully took up the burden of living again.

Fortunately there was no complication of poverty to make Mrs. Hayes more wretched; she had enough money for Seaport's standards of living; Don's earnings had never been relied upon; they were uncertain at best, and had mostly been put into the Samuel P. Jones. Still, things had to be managed for the old woman, and it came to be a matter of course for Mary to live with her.

So time went by placidly, without happiness, but with peace; and on Mary's part, with that deepening love which is the strange gift that Death sometimes bestows on those whom he robs. Although there had been no words that bound her, she knew that she was bound; and it seemed to her that all the world—her world—must know it, too. So when, one winter afternoon, as they were walking down the river road, Dick Wheeler spoke out, and asked her to marry him, her refusal was full of outraged love.

"Perhaps you don't know it, but Donald Hayes and I—" she said, the color hot in her face, her eyes threatening him with a straight look.

"Oh," said Dick, blankly; and was silent for a moment, looking with absent eyes at a big coaler coming up the river to one of the wharves; she was being towed by three dories, and Mary said, nervously, something about its being hard work. Dick did not seem to hear her.

"No," he said, in a low voice, "I didn't know that there was anything settled between you and Don. But, anyhow, it's nearly two years since then, and—"

"Do you think that makes any difference?" she flashed out. "Do you think I'm that kind of a girl? If it was twenty years, it would be just the same!"

And poor Dick, abashed, began to say that it would be different if there was any chance, but Mary knew there wasn't; and perhaps, sometime—

"Chance?" she cried, the tears brimming over suddenly. "No, there's no chance; I know that. But do you suppose I'm—I'm faithful just because he might come back?"

"Well, if you had any hope," the young man insisted, "of course I would understand; but you haven't; and, oh, Mary, won't you just let me care for you? I'll be satisfied with that, if you'll just take me?"

"I'll never take you, Dick Wheeler!" she said, panting and nearly crying, "and—and don't you ever say any such thing to me again!" As she spoke she flew suddenly ahead along the road, and left Dick looking dejectedly after her. He had meant to "see her home," but after such a rebuff he had to turn back or at least appear to turn back. He really skulked doggedly behind her, for he couldn't let her go down the lonely road in the darkness.

Mary's face was still flushed when she came into the kitchen, and found Mrs. Hayes trotting about, making biscuits for tea. The little old woman looked at her keenly for a moment; she had her suspicions and her hopes. Dick Wheeler had stepped in earlier in the afternoon to ask how she did—"to pass the time of day," Mrs. Hayes said; and in a casual way had asked when Mary would be in. "He wants to meet her, and walk home with her," she chuckled to herself; "well, well, that's right. That's how it ought be. I hope the child will take him."

There was a curious inconsistency about Don's mother. She loved Mary for her faithfulness to Don, but—why should the girl lose a good chance? She had no small fears of any discomfort to herself, any neglect—she knew Mary! So, with the best will in the world, she tried to further Dick's suit. She talked about him a good deal; his money, his providence, his good heart; and the fine bow window he had built in his dining-room.

"Dick, he's all for use and comfort, and his wife," she reminded Mary with vast significance, "will be more comfortable than most folks. She won't have to carry water in from the well, the way you do here; he's got it running in the kitchen!"

"There are worse things than carrying in the water from the well," Mary said, decidedly; and Mrs. Hayes said to herself, disappointedly: "There! well, she is set! Poor Dick, I guess there ain't no chance for him."

CHAPTER III.

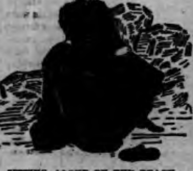
But Dick Wheeler did not so easily resign the hope that Mary would accept him. In his slow, honest, deliberate way, he went all over the situation in his own mind. He knew Don's worth, and he had felt, as had everybody who had come in contact with him, the attraction of the young fisherman's sweet, kind, careless nature. He knew all that with no jealousy or bitterness; with only a sober, kindly acceptance of the fact. He admitted the loyalty of Mary's heart, "and I like her all the better," he said to himself stoutly. He even realized, in an exact, reasoning way, the force of Mary's ideal of Don; "and the longer she waits, the more she'll care for him," he thought, soberly. He must not lose any time, that was clear. So he tried a dozen loving artifices; he called—not too often. He carried fruit to Mrs. Hayes; he sent books to Mary; and after awhile, to put her at ease, he talked to her about Don, and showed the affection which he had always felt for him.

It all seemed so natural to Mary that she began to feel, as he meant that she should, that he was a friend.

"He's forgotten all that nonsense!" she told herself, and grew to depend on his friendship. She was quite unembarrassed when she chanced to be alone with him; if he met her as she was walking home from school, or if he found her sitting alone on the beach, her hands locked about her knees, her eyes on the far line of the horizon, behind which Don's sails had dimmed, and dipped, and disappeared forever.

Another year passed in this way. Dick never spoke, but he went on loving. When at last he tried to speak, her perfect friendliness closed his lips.

"I'd better get shipwrecked," he told himself with a little bitterness which was foreign to his patient nature; "if I was dead, she'd think more of me." He did not give up hope, but he was discouraged. He hardly knew himself how deeply so, for he was surprised to find himself half sick, and by and by, altogether sick—"down with a fever," his man said, when he came to bring a pair of chickens to Mrs. Hayes' door, and explain that Mr. Wheeler couldn't come himself.



SITTING ALONE ON THE BEACH.

"Poor boy!" cried Mrs. Hayes, anxiously; "and not a wife nor a mother to take care of him. Well, there, Mary, it is too bad!" Mary looked sorry, and the next day she went to inquire about him.

"Well, he's worse," said the hired man, laconically. Mary took the news back to Don's mother, and was very silent.

"'Bout time to be concerned," old Mrs. Hayes thought, severely, but that was only for a moment. "Poor child," she said to herself, "she's worried about him!" "There, now, Mary, cheer up," she said aloud. "I guess it ain't nothin' very bad."

"I don't know," Mary answered, "I hope not. But I'm afraid it is." And then, later in the evening, when they had been talking of something else, she said, suddenly: "He hasn't a soul to look after him, except that stupid Jacob."

Mrs. Hayes looked at her inquiringly.

"I just wish," said Mary, tremulously, "that you and I could—"

"Why, bless your heart," cried the old woman, "we will! I know what you're going to say—we'll go right up there to-morrow. I don't know why I didn't think of it first."

Good nursing is well enough in its way, but when added to good nursing the invalid hears a voice that he loves, talking outside his door, to his little, old, kind nurse, or is told that "Mary made that gruel," or watches, dreamily, through feverish eyes, Mary moving about his room, or even feels her touch upon his forehead—why, he cannot help get well. At least that was what Dick Wheeler said, first to himself, and afterwards, shyly and awkwardly, when he was better and was sitting up, to Mary. But, poor fellow! Mary's blank look almost landed him back in his bed again. He began to realize, in a slow, pathetic way, that if she had been less kind he might have had more hope. "And Don dead seven years!" he told himself, as he sat propped up with pillows in a big, black wooden rocking chair that had roses painted on the head rest, and gay calico sleeves tied over its stiff arms.

It was a soft spring afternoon; he was much better; Mrs. Hayes and Mary had gone home, and only came in for an hour or two each day to see that he was comfortable. It was Mrs. Hayes who had packed him snugly into the big chair in the south window, and put a footstool under his feet, and drawn a little table with his medicine and a glass of water close to his side.

"Jacob'll help you back to bed, Dicky, as soon as you feel tired; now, mind, don't sit up a minute longer than you feel like it! And I'll come in to-morrow morning and bring some beef tea. Mary's great on making beef tea."

When she went away Dick sat there in the sunshine, looking out of the window. He made up his mind that he must get over thinking about Mary; there was no use; it only worried her, "and it kills me," he thought simply. He wondered if he could always feel so

Continued on page 8.

FIRE ESCAPES FOR SCHOOLS.

The Board Awards Contract—Census Takers Appointed.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening to take action in the matter of providing fire escapes for the school buildings.

All the members were present, and Principal H. M. Maxson acted as clerk.

Plans were submitted by the New York Architectural Iron Works and by W. T. Kirk. There were several other bids, but when considered they were found very much higher than these.

The bids of the two plans considered were as follows; W. T. Kirk, not including inside landings, $2,139 49; New York Architectural Iron Works, including landings, $1,965. Adding to Mr. Kirk's bid the estimated cost of inside work of the Stillman School, omitted by him, which was $161, a difference of $335 was found in favor of the New York Architectural Iron Works, and the contract was awarded to them.

George W. Moore was appointed census taker for the schools in the First and Second wards, and Abram Angleman for the Third and Fourth wards.

The Board adjourned.

—James Manning who has the contract for the carpenter work for A. D. Thompson's new house on Belvidere avenue, is compelled to discontinue work on the house until lumber arrives from Thomasville, Georgia, where Mr. Thompson has an interest in a large lumber concern.

THE best investment in real estate is to keep buildings well painted. Paint protects the house and saves repairs. You sometimes want to sell—many a good house has remained unsold for want of paint. The rule should be, though, "the best paint or none." That means

Strictly Pure

White Lead

You cannot afford to use cheap paints. To be sure of getting Strictly Pure White Lead, look at the brand; any of these are safe:

"Atlantic," "Jewett,"

"Brooklyn."

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.

A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting, and color-card. Send us a postal card and get both free.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

The Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Standard Railway of America

Protected throughout by the Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

On and after Jan 20, [illegible], trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

FAST LINE leaves Philadelphia 12 35 p m daily with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars, for Pittsburg, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

4.27 P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, daily except Saturday, for Toledo, Williamsport, Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

8.24 p.m.—SOUTHWESTERN EXPRESS with Pullman vestibule sleeping car, daily, to Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis, and Memphis. Dining car Altoona to Richmond.

9 43 p. m.—PACIFIC EXPRESS with Pullman vestibule sleeping cars, daily, for Pittsburg, Columbus, Chicago, and Toledo, daily, except Saturday for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—[illegible]

Sundays, [illegible]

For Baltimore only [illegible] p. m., week-days.

For Newark and New York—[illegible] p. m.

For New York only, 6 10 a. m. daily.

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

([illegible] with through Buffet parlor car) [illegible]

Cape May, Sea Isle City and Ocean City [illegible] p. m. week-days.

For Rahway—[illegible]

For New Brunswick—[illegible]

For Woodbridge—[illegible]

For Perth Amboy—[illegible]

For East Millstone—[illegible] week-days.

For Trenton—[illegible]

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere via Trenton—[illegible]

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Freehold—[illegible]

via Monmouth Junction, week-days.

For Jamesburg, via. Monmouth Junction—[illegible] week days.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—[illegible]

For Sea Side Park, Island Heights and Toms River—[illegible]

For Boston—[illegible] daily.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats to Brooklyn annex, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—[illegible]

S. M. PREVOST, General Manager.

J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

No Secret About It.

Physicians have had the formula of Scott's Emulsion for 20 years and know they can always depend upon it as being exactly the same. It contains the purest Norway Cod-liver Oil, the best Hypophosphites and chemically pure Glycerine, made into a perfect Emulsion that does not separate or grow rancid like other so-called Emulsions. There have been many things presented as substitutes, but there is nothing that can take its place in Consumption and all wasting diseases.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c. and $1.

GOOD REPORT FROM HOLY CROSS.

All Indebtedness Canceled, and an Encouraging Outlook for the Coming Year.

Rev. T. Logan Murphy made the following announcement to the congregation of the Holy Cross Church yesterday morning:

"I take this opportunity to thank the congregation for their generous response to my annual Easter appeal. You gave the amount I asked for. In consequence I am glad to state that all indebtedness is canceled and that we start the year from Easter free from debt. Our annual report to the Diocesan Convention which meets May 7 will be a highly creditable one. During the past year there have been baptized 25, confirmed 27, and communicants added to the parish 44. The societies or guilds of this parish have made a most excellent showing. We have great cause to thank God for His blessings and be stimulated to do more during the year that is before us."

—Miss Sadie Johnson has resigned her position in the perfumery and toilet soap department of Edsall's.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty street.

Time Table in effect, Nov. 18, 1894.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield, 3 14, 5 37, [illegible] p. m., Sunday, [illegible] p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty Street at [illegible] (except Saturdays) [illegible] p. m., [illegible] night. Sunday, [illegible] p. m.; [illegible] night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] p. m. Sunday [illegible] p. m.

Leave Newark, at [illegible] (Saturdays only) [illegible] p. m. Sunday [illegible] p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] p. m.; [illegible] night. Sunday [illegible] p. m.

Leave Somerville at [illegible] p. m. Sunday at [illegible] p.m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] p. m. Sunday at [illegible] p. m.

Leave Easton at [illegible] p. m. Sunday at [illegible] p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 34 a. m.; 5 [illegible] p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible] for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport and Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m. for stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] for Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] for Flemington, High Bridge branch, D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

[illegible] way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

[illegible] for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury and Williamsport, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton. Buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] way for Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge branch.

[illegible] for Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Mauch Chunk, Shamokin and Tamaqua. Buffet parlor car to Scranton.

[illegible] for Flemington.

[illegible] for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

[illegible] for Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] Sunday for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. [illegible] Sundays for Easton, [illegible] Sundays for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading and Harrisburg, [illegible] Sundays for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c. and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

For Atlantic City, [illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

For Perth Amboy, [illegible]

For Freehold, [illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, [illegible]

For Trenton [illegible]

For Baltimore and Washington at [illegible]

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points south with through vestibule sleeper, via Shenandoah Valley Route at [illegible] p. m. [illegible]

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points west, week days at [illegible] p. m. Sundays [illegible]

Plainfield passengers by trains marked * change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Sup't.

H. P. BALDWIN, Gen. Pass. Agt.

A DARK NIGHT

BY

SARAH ORNE JEWETT

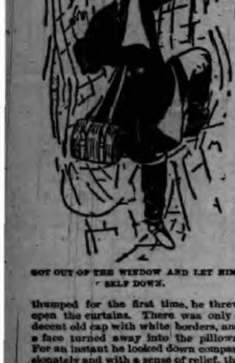
[Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

CHAPTER III.

Weymouth now bethought himself of his two sleeping companions, and especially of the mysterious occupant of the curtained bed. He leaned over and took the bottle from the hearth and pretended to take a long drink. He saw the curtains move again and felt that there were eyes behind them.

The house was very still, there was a dull droning of wind in the chimney. Weymouth smacked his lips and whistled another bar of his tune.

"I'll soon see who you are lying there ready to rob me, or to open the door to those who will," he said under his breath as he reached for the guttering candle that stood on the mantel shelf. With the bottle still in his other hand he went to Rogers and tried to wake him, insisting that they must soon be starting, and loudly offering the encouragement of more drink or more pay, as if he were possessed by a besotted man's generosity. Rogers was in a stupor, not asleep, and presently Weymouth crossed the room to the other bed; but one thing meanwhile had been made plain. The candle had shone into the dark corner of the ceiling and revealed what his eyes had anxiously sought for as he sat waiting with forced patience by the fire. A wide board had been nailed from one heavy beam to another of the ceiling, making a shelf into which something was crowded that drooped over the edge in unmistakable folds; to make sure he reached to touch it and his hand was entangled among the cords of a new net.



GOT OUT OF THE WINDOW AND LET HIMSELF DOWN.

There was only one thing to do; a man did not wish to frighten an old deaf and crippled body, but a careful look would do no harm, and, though his heart thumped for the first time, he threw open the curtains. There was only a decent old cap with white borders, and a face turned away into the pillows. For an instant he looked down compassionately and with a sense of relief, the next instant he saw at the foot of the bed among the bedclothes, which were strangely disarranged, the large muddy riding boots of a man. "Poor old granny!" he laughed aloud, as if he were unconscious of being besieged, and were growing more foolish and comfortable every moment with his drink. "A little grog wont do 'ee no harm. I'll rouse the old mother an' give her a taste o' gin. She looks a bit blue and cold. Too old anyway to be on the road such weather." He brought the bottle hastily from beside Rogers, and bent down close to the cap. "Rise up now, granny, an' take a taste!" he counseled her, persuasively. "'Twill warm 'ee, dear."

There was a moment of hesitation, and Weymouth lifted the becapped head and held the bottle to the lips. The attack was too sudden and unexpected; the watcher was, for some reason, not ready to declare himself or to provoke an open quarrel; the light was dim, and with much choking and spilling the liquor went down an unwilling throat.

As the peaceful figure with its grandmotherly cap recognized the bitter dram and rose with fury, a straight blow from Weymouth's fist and two or three more that followed, laid the disarranged headgear back among the pillows, and stunned its wearer into harmlessness. Then Weymouth pulled the net from its shelf, after dropping the bottle as if it had fallen from a tipsy man's hand, and, catching the stout tongs from the fireplace, he hurried to the window and opened it softly. It looked far to the ground, but he hastily pushed out the loose armfuls of the net and heard them drop softly, then, fastening a stout twist of the end about the bars of the tongs and bracing them across the corner, he got out of the window, let himself down, let go the window-sill, and lowered away down by stretching loops and tangles, bumping and swinging like a pendulum against the stone walls until he came to the ground.

It was a breathless beginning of a most uncertain journey, yet while Weymouth sat for a moment on the narrow ledge of rocky ground the freedom and freshness of the winter night seemed sweet enough, after the damp and chill of the room he had left. Such is human nature, the alternate prey of fear and careless pleasure.

Weymouth could hear no footsteps, he could see but dimly the steep road above at his right; below, the hill was steeper still, and looked perilous as he started to find his way down. Even a man who is bold at heart feels all the instincts of stealthiness when he is a hunted man, the prey instead of the pursuer. At this instant there came a faint sound from the roadway close by. There was something moving. There was the least sound like a hiss, and then one pebble was tapped against another as he still crept downward. His heart seemed to stop—a gust of wind caught the light net and swished it to and fro against the house. He flattened himself against the ground and clutched the sod with his fingers, then he dropped one foot slowly over the edge to find the shelf below. The burden of the wallet hindered him so that he longed to get rid of it. Suddenly he heard an eager whisper:

"This way! Come this way! Weymouth!"

The dim shape showed itself plainer now above him. A woman knelt at the wall above, reaching down to give him a hand whose touch he well knew. He quickly found his footing now and was helped up the steep scramble and stood with her in the road.

"Come, come," she urged in a whisper, "they will be keen after us! 'tis for your life!"

She started off instantly down the hill toward the water and he followed. They were running on turf, not gravel, and made no sound. As he ran by her side she pushed him back impatiently. "Keep away, don't come near!" she said. "Hurry, for Heaven's sake!"

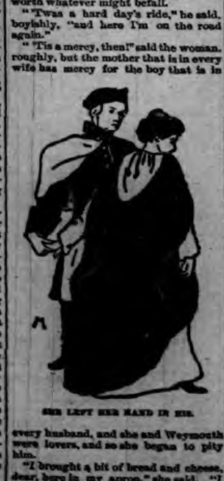
As they reached the low ground the light figure that flitted before Weymouth led him into a path that ran low down on the landward side of the dyke, which must have been made partly by cattle and partly by men who shielded themselves from the fierce north winds of winter which blew across the water. Two figures could easily have been seen in the smooth path that ran along the dyke top, but here they were sheltered and the silent guide took a slower pace as they passed some thickets of osiers. Once she stopped and motioned to him and crept up the dyke side. Weymouth followed, and they saw that they were nearly abreast of the fishing smack or smuggler if such she were. There was a boat just leaving her, a lantern was held for an instant over the side and then was hidden again. Weymouth looked back at the house on the height; they were now perhaps half a mile away. There were no lights in the windows, even in that which he had left, but by this time the wretched guttering candle would have melted and sucked itself into extinction. Without a word they both stepped back to the path again, and ran on until the leader turned from the dyke across a wide ditch which was bridged by some unsteady planks. The meadow was wet under foot, they lost and found again a narrow causeway that led among the upland fields and presently stopped to take breath beside an overgrown hedge.

"Be still," said the woman, anxiously, for Weymouth forgot everything except that they were lovers. "Speak soft!" and she moved away a little, but still left her hand in his. "A voice carries far in this mist; we are not out of danger yet."

She was panting for breath; they had come nearly a mile at a fine, steady pace for the most part. There was a singing in Weymouth's ears as he shifted the strap of his pouch to the other shoulder; to see her again was worth whatever might befall.

"'Twas a hard day's ride," he said, boyishly, "and here I'm on the road again."

"'Tis a mercy, then!" said the woman, roughly, but the mother that is in every wife has mercy for the boy that is in every husband, and she and Weymouth were lovers, and so she began to pity him.



SHE LEFT HER HAND IN HIS.

"I brought a bit of bread and cheese, dear, here in my apron," she said. "I almost forgot it, but don't stop to eat it now. 'Twas poor housing for you, God pity me!"

He had left her stern and cold two days before, and the wistful love she new betrayal was more [illegible] than any danger, past, present or to come. It must be that she had forgotten her wakened decision, but at the first word of an eager question she left his side and hurried up the long slope. The heavy leather pouch chafed and lamed its carrier's side, but, worse than that, unhappy forebodings took the spirit out of his heart. The whole adventure seemed unreal, danger and assistance were both alike strange events, a play which developed itself before his eyes. Weymouth was light-headed for the moment, and neither his own safety nor the gold's appeared to be important, while the whole happiness of his life was at stake.

A mile or two away the old inn stood up against the dark sky like a dismal prison. There were lights about it now, as if there some stir and excitement. The escaped man drew a long breath and hastened forward to overtake his companion.

"What shall I do?" he asked. "I have no horse, and I must reach Bristol by dawn. I have spent my life with horses, but this one was like a brother. Well, I must leave him to their mercy. We should have been in Bristol now, for the sailing of a ship."

"You were led astray," said she, speaking over her shoulder as he walked close behind.

"By whom, then?"

"By Rogers; they have trusted too long at the bank; he has been waiting his chance, and has been in league with—with these people," she faltered. "Let us make haste."

"I thought you meant to hail the vessel," said Weymouth. "They could have set round into Bristol."

"Do you not see that the wind has fallen?" answered his companion. "Folks have been dropped overboard from that craft before now. The Severn is deep and wide enough to hide many a man with a stone fast to his neck."

Again they walked on for some time without speaking, but at the foot of a long ridge of land with a hedge at the top, she stopped once more and whispered in his ear.

"We must do something bold now," she said; "that is the road above us."

Weymouth stood like a soldier waiting for his orders.

"There is an inn close by us at the path's end. 'Tis no palace, yet not a den of thieves like that," and she pointed back to the shore. "To let you escape may bring down the law on their heads. If they have not sent some one here already, they will do it soon. They will not let you get away so easily," she said, faltering again. "No one has escaped them yet who could tell tales," and she sobbed in spite of herself and let him take her into his arms. Her strength had broken at last. "Promise me something," she said, and he promised in love and pity.

"It is my shame and doom," she said, when she could speak. "I cannot marry an honest man. They are my own people, my nearest kin, these murderers and thieves. But they are going to America, their passage is already taken. Next week all will be at an end. Let them go free; they took me an orphan and bred me up kindly. 'Tis as good as any banishment. I have promised to go with them; it is my only hope and prayer to help them save their souls by honest living in a new country."

She was wild and piteous now with her kisses and entreaties. "Oh, my man, I cannot be your shame!" she cried like one whose nerves were ailing and whose distress was more than could be borne. "You do not know—you do not know; 'twas worse with them while I had gone away!"

"Then I must follow you," said the troubled man, trying to comfort her. "You are more than ever the wife for me."

Her face shone in the dark with whiteness; she stood before him and pushing him back with a firm hand her manner wholly changed.

"Listen to me"—she stopped a moment while they both heard a horse's tread coming along the highway. "Whatever horse that may be, if the rider stops at the inn you must be ready to take it and ride on."

She rapidly told him to find his way where the road divided just beyond, and they hurried together up the last steep rise of ground. The horse was coming at a galop.

"Good heavens! I believe it's my own," said Weymouth, ready to rush out in the middle of the road. The low building of the inn was opposite and there were lights in the window. They stood under the eaves of a bushy hedge as the rider came up and, stopping his horse, gave a call. The quick-witted woman pushed Weymouth under the ivy tod and ran out and caught the bridle.

"He came by the fields! Look in the inn kitchen!" she said aloud, triumphantly.

"I'll mind your horse. Quick now!" she insisted, and the rider leaped to ground, pleased at an ally, and had hardly opened the inn door when Weymouth, safe in his own saddle, rode away free as a bird down the Bristol road.

CHAPTER IV.

There was no time for farewells, but all the way the thought of the lonely figure behind him in the road was like a sword in Weymouth's heart. As day broke he rode into Bristol a weary but not hopeless man. Through all the hurry and business of the morning the experience of such a night shimmered in his mind, full of unreality, like the remembrance of a bad dream. In spite of his promise he must see that such horrid business was stopped. This thought possessed him at one moment, and at the next he only desired to rescue the woman, whom he now loved more than ever, from such surroundings and from the sense which so prayed upon her of responsibility. It was necessary to act with discretion. He knew now the reason of her withdrawal from her promise made when they were together in a distant part of England, and while she for some reason had felt free and light-hearted. Why she had come back to the old shame, or to new certainty of shame? All these things must wait for explanation, but, for his part, he could not wait long to see his deliverer again. It was a wonder that he was not under the Severn like the rest. But for the woman he loved best; but for Elizabeth Brent, he might indeed be drifting and swaying under the tide, the treasure stolen and he himself charged with the robbery. As he rode he made the whole plot clear to himself with its clever undoing; he could never forget the look of horror on that face in the shadow of the settee, when the man whose robbery was planned had proved to be himself. What pity grew in his heart for that young creature; an angel, as she seemed to him, lost among thieves!

THE LONELY FIGURE BEHIND HIM.

The first thing to be done was to make his report to those who had sent him out on the errand, and then to take the quickest of journeys to find her again and make sure that they should never be parted. So he rode in short time from Bristol, grudging each minute, but planning his return with eagerness.

When he reached the bank and told his story and asked for help, he was listened to with surprise and almost with incredulity. Rogers had not returned and the tale of his craft and dishonor seemed to be questioned. The wrong road; a suspicious den towards which Weymouth believed himself to be enticed (and which for purposes of his own he refused for the moment to describe); the strange liquor with its deadly drug meant for him, all which Rogers had got by mistake; all this sounded even in the days of greater lawlessness like a very strange story. The senior partner was again heard to grumble that Rogers was the best clerk they ever had, and grew more and more impatient.

"Were you robbed then?" he demanded, arrogantly, as if he believed the worst of these excuses and was ready to take vengeance, but the squire nodded shrewdly at Weymouth, as if they two kept an understanding.

Weymouth sprang to his feet and threw the captain's letter and his receipt for the money on the table.

"I have put aside the thought of one dearer to me than life," he said, "to bring you these. To venture back alone or in company might have been my end. I have done your errand; ask my fellow-messenger, if you like, what he will never dare to answer."

He turned on his heel and left the room. "This is very strange," said the old man, looking at the squire. "Yes, here are the papers, the money n the ship, he was there on time. id you mind what a look there was . the fellow's face when I doubted him?" But the squire was hurrying after Weymouth and the senior partner was left alone to wonder more than ever. Evidently whatever pay went into Weymouth's pocket would be to him only the price of much happiness and peace of mind.

The squire was a lover of adventure, as has been already said, and he went hurrying down the street like a boy to overtake the man for whom he had a great liking.

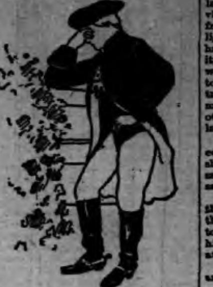
"Tell me more, Weymouth," he urged. "You're fagged to death with this affair, whatever is at the bottom of it. Come and we'll have something together and see what can be done! I always expected the like of this of Rogers—"

"I had to make a promise, sir," said Weymouth, "but I'll tell you all I can and be grateful for the chance. Sometimes a man who is alone must trust his friend, and I make bold to call you mine. 'Twill end in my borrowing your sorrel mare and begging you to mount the roan if I could have my wish."

"We'll start at dawn," said the squire eagerly when he had heard the story. "No, no constables till you've got her safe away—then I'll manage the game. I know the place, and that upper inn 'tis a low lodging with but an evil name, but 'twill do for a makeshift," and so they parted and Weymouth felt every hour to be a day and knew that they might be setting out on a long ride and was glad to remember that nobody would wait at home for the squire who was also a single man. They came in good time next day to the old house above the waterside, to find it deserted. The door stood open to the winter wind and its tenants had fled. At the other inn where Weymouth had parted from his love, they got news that those whom they sought were sailing for America and must be hiding in Bristol, if indeed they were not already at sea.

The landlord and his hostlers said boldly, and with an air of great innocence and unconcern, that the country was well rid of such a pack—they were not old country folk but late comers, and their room in England was better than their company. Of Rogers nothing could be heard.

The disappointed riders called for supper and made the most of the poor comforts of the roadside tavern, but it being then after nightfall Weymouth slipped out alone and crossing the road followed the footpath down toward the Severn. He was at heart like a poor dog that had lost its master and by the hedge where they had rested and stood talking he shed many tears. It was again a dark and misty night, and darkest and saddest of all were the forebodings of his own heart.



LIKE A POOR DOG THAT HAD LOST ITS MASTER.

They made haste to Bristol and searched there, but too late, for when, getting word of their ship, they hurried to the harbor side, it was only to see the far white fleck of a sail.

The rest of the story might be a long tale by itself.

"Under floods that are deepest,
Over rocks that are steepest
Love will find out the way."

But Weymouth's way was a long one. He lost no time in starting on his quest and pilgrimage, and his business of horse dealing made an excellent excuse for riding hither and yon through the newly settled part of the country, finding what faint traces he could of the emigrants, from the day of their landing, but after many months had passed he kept what patience and hope he could in the midst of discouragement, and believed at last that fate would lead him where plots and plans had failed.

One spring evening, the second year that he had been in America, Weymouth was driving into one of the older villages, where he had once or twice been before, and there saw a worn and wistful face at a window, and knew that the search was ended. It seemed the simplest thing in the world to look up and see her there after all the mystery and silence; for a moment he could not take in the truth and felt strangely cold and dull—then a tremendous wave of joy struck into his very heart. There were some young horses leading behind his wagon and he was driving an excitable pair of colts for whom the sight of a bundle of straw on a wheelbarrow was too much altogether, so that they reared and plunged and seemed to be putting their driver in danger. Elizabeth Brent came to stand in a door with great distress and discovered Weymouth as his face turned toward her just as the frisky company settled to the harness and halter again, and went on quietly to the end of their day's journey.

Weymouth could hardly stop to give directions or to care for his livery property; he felt like a dazed man with his mind in such a whirl of sudden delight and strange timidity, and without listening to the questions of a group of tavern idlers he went hurrying back down the road.

The houses were far apart, and the footpath was only a worn track in the cropped grass; it might have been the field path above the Severn. It was a misty night and the sky was gray and heavy, and there, beside a wild thicket, they met again as they had parted, on a dark night, but neither thought of anything except of meeting; certainly not of parting any more while the world stood.

There were sad tales to tell of poverty and shame, and there was need of all the protection and comfort that Weymouth could give, most of all because some letters which had been written had all miscarried or never found him in his wandering way of life. This was the bitterest of all, to think one's self forgotten and perhaps disdained, but hope was stronger and now at last prevailed. As for the keepers of the dismal inn, they had failed to prosper even after their own fashion, and the woman had died not long before, after a long and wretched illness, while her husband was in jail for theft, and their companions, who had fled with them, had long ago forsaken them. In her last days the miserable woman had been haunted by thoughts of the help she had given to the awful deeds, done at night in that dark low room, from which Weymouth had so luckily escaped. But as for Rogers, the accomplice, he had gone with them to Bristol, much hurt by his fall, and sick from the deadly drug which once was cruelly said to have done no harm to those who were also put to sleep by the deep water of the Severn. From Bristol, refusing to go to America, he had been put on board a brig that was sailing for France, and no one knew any more of Rogers from that day—the senior partner who missed his clerk from the bank, or the thieves into whose hands he tried to play. He had served them, and they had served him in years before, in other parts of the country — and but for this check upon their industries, the bank itself had but a short race to run without robbery. The week before, after long waiting, Rogers had at last been trusted with a key to the safe, and the theft of the money which Weymouth was carrying to Bristol was a bit of by-play, while the larger robbery was to be planned that very night, and to be achieved the next. But a poorer company has rarely gone seafaring than those who were to start with pockets full, and Weymouth's Elizabeth had long earned the money that supported herself and the old dying woman, who suffered every torture that illness can give in her last weary months. In this far-away village the two women had been befriended, and it was Weymouth's delight to pay the poor debts that his wife had been forced to make in her extremity, and to satisfy her generous heart with a new power of being bountiful to those who had saved her from distress. Then they went away together man and wife, and lived and loved each other for many years and saw old England again before they died.

Once Weymouth, who seldom reminded his wife of what could only bring shame and sorrow to her heart, as he sat thinking at night before the fire, said boldly:

"Where was the master of the inn that night, and what was his part of the game? Why hadn't he wit enough to keep watch and follow us?" Then his wife answered, cheerfully, looking at him with a smile:

"Because he was the old Welsh woman in the curtain bed."

"And that new net?"

"It was I who put it there, my dear."

"And saved my life?" said Weymouth.

"Yet, I did not know that it was for you," she said. "I only feared for some poor soul in danger. I was going for help next moment, when you came into the kitchen and I saw your face."

"It was a dark night, indeed," said Weymouth, puffing at his pipe, "but the money got safe to Bristol, and here we are now together."

[THE END.]

THE SILVER WATCH.

ITS PLACE BEING TAKEN BY FILLED GOLD CASES.

Since Centennial Year Silver Watches Have Been Gradually Relegated to the Past. The Filled Case an American Invention.

"This is an effete age and generation," remarked the free silverite. "Not content with depriving the country of cheap money, the gold bugs of Wall street have so worked upon the passion for display that possesses the multitude that even a silver watch isn't good enough for the workingman and he must carry a gold timepiece. What has become of the silver watches our grandfathers used to wear? Nobody, or almost nobody, carries one nowadays."

His listener observed that grandfather's turnip was probably worn out by this time.

"But," he continued, "if you want to know why even people in very modest circumstances don't carry watches like it I'll tell you. It's because they can buy gold watches just about as cheap as your grandfather could silver ones, and they naturally prefer the more precious metal. Not solid, of course, but the filled case, which for the time it is guaranteed is just as good as the solid."

The filling of watchcases with baser metal is an American invention and the manufacture of filled cases is confined to this country, where, however, it has attained vast proportions. James Boss first conceived the idea of a substitute for gold, and his invention was patented in 1854. Its possibilities were not fully realized by manufacturers for about twenty years, but since 1876 the use of the new method has been steadily increasing, until to-day filled cases are carried by the great majority of owners of watches.

"The use of filling is what has killed silver in the manufacture of watchcases," said a prominent expert. "The average life of a silver case is four or five years. A gold filled case, 14 carat, is guaranteed for twenty years, a 10 carat for fifteen, and a rolled plate for five. Here is one of the earliest make which has been worn for twenty years," showing a case which might have passed for gold. "I got that from a clergyman who said it was presented to him by his congregation and that he'd been lying about it for a score of years. It wasn't his fault, though. Manufacturers weren't squeamish in those days and it had the 18 carat mark inside.

"When the panic struck the country the factories of this country were turning out 6,000 watches a day. This huge production was stimulated by the artificial demand created by the watch club and other schemes which had such vogue four or five years ago. The courts have since ruled these schemes illegal and the watch trade is coming slowly back to a legitimate basis.

"Almost every part of an American watch is now made by machinery. Even the designs on the cheaper cases are stamped in."

"But are machine made cases equal to hand made, aside from the stamped engraving?"

"Better; the different parts are hardened by the pressure and are more uniform in quality. Of course you know that the gold is stamped on both sides of the filling by great mechanical pressure. You'd be surprised to see how little gold will spread over that filling, and last, too. We never make an 18 carat case except to order, because a 14 carat case wears best.

"This is only by the way, but look at that bow. You wouldn't believe that a piece of work apparently so simple of construction had twenty-five or thirty patents on it, would you? But it has. That's to prevent a thief from wrenching your chain off your watch, when he is unable to get at the timepiece itself."

"About how much has the adoption of the filling process reduced the price from that of a fine case?"

"Well, it wouldn't be any exaggeration to say that the reduction has been near one half. This is due to the machine process, of course, as well as to the filling."

All the great watchcase factories are in and around New York and Philadelphia.

—The great talking machine will g a band concert in Bethel Chapel Tues night, April 23.

—The building of the Y. M. C. A. is now open to visitors Sundays from 10:30 a. m., and from 1 to 6 p. m.

—Gavett is fitting up A. H. [illegible] store with the Welsbach light [illegible] fine light, and also an economical [illegible]

LDING ORDINANCE.

of Trade Committee Makes Report.

US AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED.

mmittee to Meet with the mittee on Fire and Buildings Reporting to the Common cil.

eeting was held last evening in the of Trade Building to hear the re- f the committee appointed to ex- the objections raised to the new g ordinance which it is the inten- f the City Council to make a law.

ose present were Mayor Gilbert, F C esbury, J E Martine, D W Martine, ens Laing, John D Runyon, B Frank ll, J B Coward, Fred Bird, Seaman ms, Charles Fisk, David Rogers, d MacDonald, Henry Liefke, Frank oyen, Frank W Runyon, ex-Judge W ddington, Dr Jenkins, D W Littell, L Woolston, George Griffin, H L VanEm- urch.

Chairman F W Runyon called the meeting to order, and stated the object, after which the committee, J B Coward, L B Woolston and John D Runyon, made ir report through J B Coward as chair- n.

t was decided to read the sections in e ordinance which the committee ought should be amended, and as the tions were called the changes were ubmitted by Mr. Coward.

In section one it was recommended that it should apply only to buildings within the fire limits, and only to such as the owners may have adopted or had made plans and specifications for, for such erections, and to such buildings within said limits as are to be used for mercantile and manufacturing purposes or as churches or places of entertainment. That some time should be inserted within which said permit, when required, should be furnished by inspector.

It was recommended that section two be erased entirely.

In section three, the third part referring to frame dwellings be also stricken out. That in the fourth part of the section it be altered to two inches of brick or ther hard material. Fifth part to be al- e three or more frame houses, the ion walls to be of brick and carried up to the underpart of the roof. That the sixth part be stricken out.

In section five, part two, walls below grade to be laid in good lime or cement mortar, mixed with sharp sand, at the option of the owner.

Section six, that all frame or wooden buildings of more than one story in height shall be built with fire cut-off at each floor; floor beams shall not be less than 2x10 except third story or attic beams, which shall be 2x8, all well bridged. Second part of section six erased.

Section seven to read within fire limits

Section 10 and 11 to be left out, or rate of insurance to be 75 per cent.

Section thirteen to be so amended as not to apply to piazzas or balconies or detached dwellings occupied as a family residence. Parts 7, 8 and 9 to be stricken out where they refer to bay windows.

Section fifteen, ninth part, with reference to the protection of adjoining owners, should be stricken out, and connected where the excavations do not go below 10 feet.

Section 17, reservation should be made for dwellings where a good ground bottom exists, then only four inches of concrete or footing corners shall be required.

Section nineteen, part six, stone walls to have brick joints on inside of walls to be laid in good lime or lime and cement mortar.

Section 21, first clause, height of walls to be not less than 24 feet above curb level.

Section 22, second clause, all interior party walls not exceeding 25 feet may be eight inches thick.

Section 26, was questioned as to whether it should apply to churches or other large assembly rooms.

the amendments to the Council, and that when the meeting adjourned it be subject to the call of the chair.

The ordinance says that when the pile is 10 feet high, wood, lumber or other inflammable material shall be piled 10 feet from the line, and when the pile is higher the distance is increased. This is done so that in case of fire should the lumber fall, the distance would be far enough away so as not to affect the fence or building adjoining.

J. D. Runyon made objections to the above, thinking he would be deprived of the privilege of stacking his lumber in the old yard. But his fears were allayed, and when the principal features were explained he seemed satisfied.

Another point to which objection was raised, was in regard to spires on houses r churches.

J. E. Martine did not think that the 60 et allowed was sufficient. He cited the rescent Avenue Church with a spire of 0 feet, and thought that the limit hould be raised.

In regard to the matter of gutters Mr. Martine thought they were a nuisance and should be abolished instead of compelling a man to have one. He thought he only benefits were to the tinsmith in hat business.

When the subject of not allowing chairs or obstructions in the aisles of Section 27, part three, strike out all after the word "obstructions".

Section 29, as to sand, strike out the words "of the best sand obtainable".

Section 31, amend by allowing 2x8 beams in three-story dwellings, and of small dwellings of certain sizes, with girders, and piers or even partitions.

Section 35, strike out "except as to buildings within the fire limits".

The above amendments were well received, and very thoroughly discussed by those most interested. It was discovered by many that the features thought to be the most objectionable would prove a benefit.

Questions were raised in regard to the building of towers on houses and churches, some thinking that 60 feet was not high enough to permit architectural beauty.

There were also objections to the thickness of walls required, 12 inches, 8 being thought sufficient.

The matter of drainage for buildings, gutters, etc., came in for a considerable amount of discussion.

It was decided by vote that the committee meet the Fire and Building Committee from the Council before submitting churches or halls came up, it was thought to be a good thing, excepting that people should be allowed to stand in the aisle.

Mr. Martine expressed his opinion in the way of a joke, that it might seriously affect Democratic meetings whose aisles were usually crowded.

It was asked by Mr. Woolston who was going to be building inspector. Mr. Fisk said he thought the fire marshal would be the proper one for the present. Mr. Woolston said that there was more work attached to this department than was generally supposed.

THE DEPUTY COLLECTORSHIP.

James J. Brennan Has Received Notice of His Appointment.

The report that ex-County Clerk John L. Crowell had won the contest for the office of deputy internal revenue for this district caused quite a sensation among the Democratic politicians.

Mr. Crowell was in Elizabeth yesterday, and to his friends who were tendering congratulations he said there must be some mistake about it. He had received a notice from Collector Connelly to go to Newark, but he did not think he had been appointed deputy.

Then Mr. Brennan appeared on the scene, and he said he knew there had been a mistake, because he had received a notice of his appointment in the early mail. He was out fixing up his bonds when he met Mr. Crowell.

Mr. Brennan was sure of his success, and he said that Mr. Crowell has been appointed to some position in connection with the income tax, which comes under Mr. Connelly's jurisdiction.

Has Sunday Fishing Been Made Legal?

The Somerset-Unionist Gazette says: "It will not reflect credit upon the New Jersey Fish Commissioners that they had eliminated from the Fish and Game law the clause prohibiting Sunday fishing. It was an easy thing to do without a single member of the Legislature noticing the omission. The remodeled law was handed to a member for introduction and he was informed that there were no important changes. It was never mentioned all through the discussion which followed that fishing had been taken from the Sunday section and no one would notice it unless the old law and new bill were compared carefully. As the law now stands it is made unlawful for a person to hunt with a gun on Sunday under a penalty of $20 fine, but he may fish with hook and line all day. A nice discrimination to make! Happily the blue laws remain under which Sunday fishers and gunners as well can be arrested and fined."

A SYRACUSE LADY.

Suffered From Heart Trouble, Liver Complaint and Rheumatism, and Was Cured.

From Syracuse Herald.

The efficacy of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was never more substantially proven—than in the case of Mrs. C. S. Abell of this city.

Mrs. Abell lives at No. 114 Roberts avenue, where she was seen by a reporter. She talked freely of her case, and said: "For a number of years I have been troubled with liver complaint and rheumatism, that made me almost helpless. I became so ill I could scarcely walk across the floor. One of our home physicians informed that I had heard trouble, and began treating me for that. His treatment did no good. One day I read of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, which I purchased, and began taking, and improved greatly. I have now taken six bottles, and was never so well in my life. I can say nothing but kind words for Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, to which I owe so much. I know of another case in which Favorite Remedy restored to health a friend who was thought to be incurable."

*Mrs. Abell said she would be glad to de*scribe her case to any sufferer who may call upon her. The family are quite as profuse in the praise of Favorite Remedy, as Mrs Abell herself.

Dr David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is a never failing specific in diseases of the skin and blood. It restores the disordered liver to a healthy condition and corrects constipation. It is a certain cure for the diseases peculiar to women. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, erysipelas, nervousness, loss of sleep, or that worn out feeling. In cases of rheumatism, dyspepsia, gravel, Bright's disease, diabetes, and bladder troubles it has cured where all else failed. Dr. David Kennedy's Remedy is sold by all dealers in medicine at $1 bottle, or six bottles for $5.

Baby Given Away.

The Salvation Army will have a great night April 26, at 8, when the commissioning of ten officers will take place and a baby will be given away. Adjutant and Mrs. Wood, Capt. March and Mimms, and the Elizabeth Corps, are to be present. A free lunch will be served to all, after the service. Tickets are 10 cents apiece.

A MAN OF JOKES.

ARTEMUS WARD MADE LAUGHS FOR A PROFESSION.

Miss Kate Martine Sketches the Life and Peculiarities of Charles Farrar Browne—Had a Keen Sense of the Ridiculous.

The fourth of a series of papers on five great humorists was read in All Souls Church last night by Miss Kate Martine. In substance she said:

Artemus Ward, whose Christian name was Charles Farrar Browne, was born in a little hamlet called Waterford Flats, in Maine, which was one of the provincial villages common to Maine. He first saw the light of the world April 7, 1834, and as late as 1884 his aged mother still lived in the house he was born in. When but 13 years of age his father died and he commenced his newspaper work. As a boy he was full of pranks, and the older persons who were acquainted with the youth prophesied a bad record for him. Brown's personal appearance was anything but prepossessing and he is remembered as one of the most verdant youth that ever set foot in Cleveland. He was almost slovenly at that time but after he commenced lecturing his toilet became almost a fad with him. His watchful attention to his mother characterized his whole life and her happiness and welfare were the ultimate aim of his plans. Whether Ward knew the felicity of married life in reality or whether Betsey was just a wife of his I do not know. We are quite safe to presume, however, for who but a married man could speak so unfeelingly of a bach*elor*, when he says "An old bachelor is a poor critter", and then goes on into his peculiar style of writing and tells of all the pleasures they miss. I have looked in vain for his opinion of the girl bachelor, but can find nothing, so conclude he had no opinion of them. As a newspaper man he was not altogether a success, and his growing reputation as a humorist, together with his dislike for routine newspaper work, were the occasion of his entering the lecture field in 1861.

At first he was not successful, but finally became one of the most prominent lecturers. His pen was always held in wholesome awe by his fellow journalists. His bad spelling was one of his charms. I must confess it almost seems as if anyone could be funny in this way, but the bad spelling of a poor joker is always silly. His wit was keen, sharp and irresistible. He never made an enemy because he never sacrificed a friend. His pages show that he was very fond of the people he laughed at. He had no abode and made loafing an accomplishment. To charm and accident he owed much that was merry in his nature. I well know it is not good for a woman to announce before a public audience the name of the man for whom she cherishes a fondness, but I cannot help confessing a fondness for Artemus Ward. His keen sense of the ridiculous strikes a very tender chord. If any one wants an antidote for all blues let him invest in a copy of Artemus Ward's works and he can lay in a supply of laughter to last him the rest of his days.

CASH CARS AND STORE DISPLAY.

The Celebrated Swezey Patents Adopted in a Plainfield Store.

The busy corner store of VanEmburgh & Son in the Babcock Building keeps up to date not only in its stock of seasonable bargains but also in the line of fixtures. For the convenience of the clerks and the accommodation of customers the Two Vans have for some time had in operation the celebrated Acme Cash Railway, which is a development of the patents of M. C. Swezey of Fanwood, who personally puts up the fixtures which he invented.

His system of cash cars is so highly satisfactory, that this week other Swezey patents were put in. The improvements added are store display fixtures which are so adjustable as to permit of splendid display of goods, and at the same time are themselves ornamental.

The Acme Cash Cars and Store Display Fixtures are a most useful invention, and have besides other points of superiority the merit of being comparatively inexpensive. They are manufactured by the New Haven Store Fixture Company of 67-83 Court street, New Haven, Conn., *to whom correspondence should be ad*dressed.

A Happy Event.

A pleasant birthday party was given to Mr. and Mrs. De Vol at their home on Craig place last night. The birthdays of Mr. and Mrs. De Vol come within a day of each other, both being 63 years of age. The party was arranged by Mrs. James Harned. Besides the amusements of cards and music a candy-pull was enjoyed, which was led by Miss Petery. Among those present were Mr and Mrs Fred Smalley, Mr and Mrs Charles Vail, Mr and Mrs Will Williams, Ephriam Vail, Misses De Golyer, Bigalow, Petery, the Misses Cutter, and Helen and Irving Harned.

Ill Instead of Intoxicated.

A man was put off a Jersey Central train at the Grant Avenue station yesterday on the supposition that he was inebriated. The police were telephoned for, and on their arrival it was found that he was ill instead of intoxicated. Drs. Murray and Probasco were called and described his ailment as painters colic. He was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital and gave his name as James Lawson.

HAPPY GREETINGS.

TWO CONGREGATIONS UNITE IN WELCOMING THEIR PASTORS.

Methodists Give a Reception to Revs. Barnes and O'Donnell.

The reception and entertainment given in Vincent Chapel last night by the Ladies Aid Society and the Epworth League was the occasion of gathering together a large number of members from the First M. E. Church and Monroe Avenue Chapel, who became acquainted with one another and started the conference year filled with fellowship and the desire to accomplish greater results in the religious field.

A well rendered cornet solo was given by Raymond McGee, and there was given a series of shadowgraphic views, entitled Sarah Jane, the school ma'am. With shadows a love story between two country young people was illustrated, while the poetry describing the antics of the pair, and the maid's hard hearted father, was read to the audience. Those who took part were Walter McGee, S. W. Clark and Miss Trenhate, with Mrs. James E. Joy as reader. The sketch was quite ludicrous and caused considerable applause at its conclusion.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Barnes was called on for a few remarks, and those he made were very practical and appropriate to the occasion. He spoke of the work that should be done in the church during the coming year. He suggested and advocated that three objects be set down by each member which they would endeavor to accomplish. First to be loyal and proud of the church. Some time ago he had counted thirteen different institutions in Plainfield that the members of the M. E. churches in this city were practically supporting. He questioned whether any of the members could consistently go elsewhere and still be loyal to the church. He wanted them to make up their minds that they would attend the two Sunday services and prayer meeting each week. The second object was to cultivate the acquaintance of one another by coming to the church socials and being friendly with all with whom they came in contact. The last object was to resolve to see to it that the current expenses of the church were paid as fast as incurred. As he closed his remarks he introduced Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, the new pastor of Monroe Avenue Chapel.

Mr. O'Donnell is a young man who has a very interesting manner of speech, and his talk of last night left an impression on the minds of those who heard him that he has a bright future before him in ministerial work. His previous charge was at Port Murray, Warren County. But in his present place he will have a better and more extensive field open to his efforts. He said that it was a peculiar pleasure for him to be there at this time, because he desired to meet with those whom he would labor among during the coming year. He looks with great expectations to the coming year's work, and especially so where there are many young people.

George O. Stevens concluded the exercises with two songs, rendered in an excellent manner, after which the women served refreshments. During this time everyone seemed to be following out the suggestion of Dr. Barnes in reference to becoming acquainted with one another. The reception finally broke up, each one feeling that it had resulted in welding closer the ties of affection between pastors and people.

The refreshments were served under the charge of Mrs. J. N. McNaughton, Mrs. O. C. Cokefair, Mrs. N. W. Pike and Mrs. C. E. Horne.

GIFT OF A COSTLY JEWEL.

Pythians Have Another Felicitious Evening in Their Lodge Rooms.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., met in their lodge rooms last night and conferred the rank of knight on three candidates, assisted by Captain Flannery and a detachment from Crescent Division, Uniformed Rank. The work was admirably done. An invitation was received from Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., to meet with them Wednesday evening, May 1, and confer the first rank on a number of their candidates. The invitation was cordially accepted.

Another pleasant part of the evening's entertainment was the presenting of a costly jewel by Deputy Grand Chancellor James Patterson, in a felicitous speech, to Captain Flannery of Crescent Division, as a mark of the division's appreciation of his long and untiring services on their behalf, and his personal worth as a brother. The recipient was completely surprised, but thanked the donors in a few happy words. A smoker was then indulged in, and a very pleasant evening agreeably and profitably passed.

An Afternoon Luncheon.

The Misses Martine entertained six of their young girl friends at lunch yesterday afternoon in honor of their young cousin, Miss Elizabeth Day of Orange, who is spending her Easter vacation with them. Among the number were Misses Edith Truman, who is home from St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, Burlington County, and Miss Elsie Jobs of Taird place.

Now is the Time.

While you're fixing up your garden and your domicile and chattels in the season custom dictates for such renovating battles, don't forget your clocks and jewelry that are of care in need, but forward them to Collier's, where good work is guaranteed.

VETS AND THEIR LADIES.

ENJOYABLE LUNCH-BOX SOCIABLE BY THE WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Winfield Scott Post and Its Visitors Have an Evening of Good Comradeship.

The entertainment and lunch-box sociable arranged and given by Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., in Grand Army Hall last evening, was a decided success. This was made possible by the excellent talent provided and the very large audience present.

Besides Grand Army men and Sons of Veterans with their friends present from this city there were representatives from Ulrich Dahlgren Post and their auxiliary, the Woman's Relief Corps, of Elizabeth, and the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans of Rahway.

The programme was opened with a piano solo by Miss Ada C. Nash, the rendition of which was highly commendable. A recitation by Miss Bertha Clum followed and was heartily applauded.

Miss Eppner, accompanied by Miss Nash on the piano, gave a vocal solo that was meritorious.

H. S. Thatcher was then called on for a recitation and gave in his own characteristic style, "Barbara Frietchie" and "Go Way Becky Miller". Both were cordially received with hearty applause. H. J. Martin pleased all with a vocal solo, "Nearer My God to Thee", and then Comrade Bob Mattox was introduced and the way in which he was received showed that he was a favorite. His recitations was excellent.

A quartette composed of Mrs William Westphal, Miss Maggie Page, H J Martin and William Tallamy, rendered a very pretty selection that was enjoyed fully. A very touching recitation "The Bar of Justice" by Beulah Kline, was thoroughly appreciated. A piano duet by Miss Lena Weber and Miss Radin was well executed and enjoyed.

Mrs Lynn of the Elizabeth Corps was introduced and gave a delightful recitation. A vocal duet by Mrs Westphal and Miss Maggie Page was given in an excellent manner. Mrs. Lynn and Miss Try Mattox concluded the entertainment with well rendered recitations.

"Bob" Mattox then took his position on the platform as auctioneer, and a most successful one he was. His happy manner and style resulted in very brisk business, and they ran out of lunch boxes long before everyone was satisfied. The amusing part of bidding on them caused lots of fun, and the prices were good. As a result $15 was cleared from the sale, and everyone had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. Andrew Cox assisted by other members of the corps, and the event reflected great credit on the very able management.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Small of New York is visiting Mrs. Lindsay of West Front street.

Frank Gleason of New Brunswick is visiting his son-in-law, David Kenney of Grove street.

Mr. Maxson of Westerly, R. I., is visiting his brother, H. M. Maxson of the public schools.

Misses Mamie Madden and Maggie Whalen of West Fifth street, both of Boehm's dry-goods house, are ill at their homes.

Mrs. Lawrence Myers of this city was elected a vice-president at the national convention of the McAll Mission in Pittsfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hyde, who have been spending some time in Paris, are *visiting Mrs. Hyde's mother, Mrs. Fred*erick Knowland on East Seventh street.

D. N. Messler, the energetic and successful publisher of the Somerville Democrat and The Jersey Knight, has purchased The Royal Craftsman, formerly owned by John Ulrich of Plainfield, and it will hereafter be issued at Somerville.

—Charles H. Daly's eye, on which an operation was performed last Sunday, will soon be restored to its normal condition.

—Civil Engineers Gavett and Hallock were today taking levels on West Front street preparatory to staking out the thoroughfare for sewer trenches.

—Several Plainfield people have received invitations to attend the last social and dance of Company H, in the Somerville Armory, Friday evening of next week.

—H. H. Baker, the veteran directory canvasser and publisher, told a Daily Press reporter last night that there had been more moving in this city this Spring than in a great many years.

—A few days ago The Daily Press called attention to the rickety condition of the walk surrounding the vacant lot on the corner of Washington avenue and Prospect place. It is to be replaced with stone flagging.

—Mr. Vanderhoof, who has managed and built up the branch dry-goods store of Edward White in Somerville, has purchased Mr. White's interest in the concern, and will hereafter conduct the business for himself.

—The case of A. D. Thompson against Lewis A. Hummer, on contract, which was set down for trial at the present term of court in Somerset County, holding at Somerville, has been taken off the calendar by consent. C. A. Reed represented the plaintiff, and W. K. McClure the defendant.

PIPE'S POWER LOST.

HYPNOTISM CURES THE TASTE IN HABITUAL USERS OF TOBACCO.

Instances in Which the Desire Yielded to the Power of Suggestion. Nauseating Results When a Patient Tried to Resume the Cigarette Habit.

Hypnotic influence may be made to serve innumerable uses. Among the very latest is that of taking away the taste for smoking. All confirmed smokers know what absolute suffering is involved in an attempt to forego the cigar, pipe and cigarette. They may therefore be relied upon to take peculiar interest in two cases recently treated by a specialist abroad, as related by the New York Herald, the details of which go to prove that if a man desires to rid himself of the smoker's habit and other methods fail *hypnotic suggestion is capable of achiev*ing the desired result.

The first case is that of a smoker sixty-three years old, who was a slave to tobacco. He began the habit at sixteen and continued it without a break for forty-seven years. He lit up as soon as he awoke in the morning and until he fell asleep at night there were few intervals in which he was not vigorously engaged in blowing a cloud. He had made some attempts during recent years to moderate his passion for tobacco, but without success. The warnings of his physicians were in vain.

They went so far as to tell him that he was showing symptoms of a lesion of the stomach, which might turn into a cancer, and that this was due simply to his abuse of the weed. They also promised him a complete cure if he would only stop smoking. But it was no use. After making one or two ineffectual attempts he resigned himself to the inevitable and smoked more obstinately than ever.

At this stage the hypnotizer—that magician of modern medicine—appeared on the scene. He offered to try the effects of suggestion. After some hesitation the smoker consented. He believed himself a doomed man, but he was willing to give this last chance of salvation a trial.

The doctor held up the index finger of his left hand. In less than three minutes the patient was fully hypnotized. Then the suggestion was made to him:

"Your desire for smoking no longer exists. From this moment you will not give another thought to tobacco. You will smoke no more cigars, cigarettes or pipes. You will refuse all tobacco, cigars or cigarettes that may be offered you by your friends. Tobacco will disgust you."

The patient joyously announced the next day that he had not smoked since and that he had no desire to do so. To ascertain, said the doctor in his account of the treatment, whether he was resolved, in accordance with the suggestion of the day before, to refuse any offer of tobacco made to him by another person, I took a box of cigarettes out of my pocket and offered him one. He gave a decided refusal. I begged him to try to smoke, but he would not. Then I lit a cigarette in his presence and leaving the open box in front of him went on to talk of other matters. But he did not make a single allusion to tobacco. He seemed to have forgotten all about it.

A friend called a few days later to see the former smoker and knowing nothing of what had taken place offered him a cigar. It was at once refused, and further the hypnotic subject proceeded, much to the other's astonishment, to make a present to his friend of all his own remaining cigars, declaring that he could no longer bear the sight of them. The doctor concludes his history of the case by saying that the cure has proved a permanent one.

The other instance of this novel use of the power of suggestion varied in some interesting details from the first. The patient was a man of forty-six who was an inveterate cigarette smoker. He had begun when fourteen years old and he smoked on an average twenty cigarettes a day. He felt that his health was suffering and last November he was hypnotized at his own request. The suggestion made to him while in the hypnotic state was:

"Your desire for smoking has disappeared. You will smoke no more cigars or cigarettes and will accept none from others. If you try to smoke a cigarette you will be ill."

The hypnotism took place in the morning. The same afternoon the patient felt a desire to smoke. No sooner did he try to do so than he was affected with a feeling of nausea and with constriction of the throat. He was obliged to throw away the cigarette which he had only just lighted.

He made no further attempt to smoke that evening, but the following day he tried on three occasions and each time with the same unpleasant consequences.

So far the suggestion had only partially influenced him. On the next day—the third—it ceased to influence him at all and he was able to smoke as comfortably as ever.

Forthwith he was hypnotized again and the first suggestion was repeated. The result of the second attempt was all that could be desired, for from that time to the present the patient has not smoked.

HE KNEW IT ALL.

Even that Finger Bowls and Batter Cakes Are Used.

The young man from Tamarackville was at the hotel with his bride and felt it to be his duty to know a good deal. It was at breakfast, and the young man had ordered cakes for himself and bride with the hauteur of the first Napoleon.

"What kind of cakes, sir?" inquired the abashed waiter.

"Batty cakes, of course," he replied.

"I didn't know, sir." He came again in a short time with the cakes, and over them was one of those china hot cake covers with a hole in the top of it to let the steam out. This the waiter removed and set down by the gentleman with its top side down. The young man didn't notice it until he had finished his cakes and was ready for the finger bowl, a feature, by the way, he was new to. His eyes fell upon the inverted cover at once, and he picked it up and nodded toward the waiter.

"Here," he said superciliously to that obsequious worthy, "put a cork in this finger bowl. You must think we are green."

A Threat.

Tommy O'Dooley—Say, wy doncher keep yer big hoofs outer me way?

Mamie McDuff—See here, young feller, if youse dare to refer to me Trilbys in dat uncher'manly way again I'll up wid one o' dem an' kick you where de baby had de croup, see!

[illegible] indifferent to everything, just because he couldn't have Mary? The sun was warm on the grassy slope in front of the house; a big vessel, coming slowly up the river with the tide, leaned, and her white topsails swelled and gleamed and flapped loose again; the trees at the foot of the garden showed a faint mist of green; a pigeon wheeled and fluttered down to the doorstep and sat preening itself and puffing out its white breast. The feeling of spring, and joy, and promise was in the air.

"And I don't care a darn!" Dick groaned to himself. "Well, I've got to get over this. I'll go away; I'll get out of it; Mary shan't know why; I'll let her think I've never thought of her since the last time I spoke. Good Lord—it was two or three years ago! and I've not gained an inch with her." And then he opened his eyes, and saw Mary coming up the path; she was on her way home from school, and stopped to know how he was getting along.

"Look at you, you careless fellow," she scolded, "you've dropped that shawl off your knees; what would Mother Hayes say?"

"Oh, Mary," he said, and somehow the tears stood in his eyes, he was so weak, "I—I've got to go away!"

Mary's instant look of concern, and light touch upon his wrist, showed what she thought of such crazy words, and poor Dick gulped and tried to get back to his resolution not to tell her. "I don't know why I said that—I didn't mean to," he told her.

"You are tired," she said, soothingly, "you've been sitting up too long."

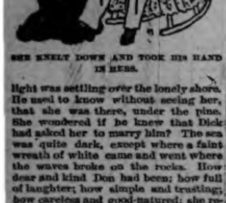
"Nothing of the sort," Dick answered, crossly. "I am only tired of this business! Good Lord! Mary—there! I can't help it; will you take me? I didn't mean to ask again; I was just saying I wouldn't, when you came up the path. Mary, will you take me? If you won't, I'm going off. I've stood this just as long as I'm going to."

Poor Mary turned red and white with pity. "Oh, Dick!" she said.

"You know he's dead and gone; you're only making another man miserable; and — and you'd be happier yourself."

"Of course he's dead," she said, tremulously, "that isn't it; it's because I—I shall always love Don!" she burst out, and then fell to crying; and Dick swore at himself and was ready to tell her that he didn't care the least in the world for her—if it would comfort her any.

But nothing comforted her. She went home along the river road in the pleasant spring dusk, her eyes blurring and smarting. She did not want Don's mother to know she had been crying, so left the path and sat down under a little pine tree that clutched at the rocks and stretched its starved, lean branches out over the tumbling foam below. She and Don had often sat here and listened to the steady beat of the waves on the broken rocks. The light paled and faded, and the sea grew gray and cold; far off a sail leaned like a wing against the sky and caught a sudden flush from the glow in the west. How often she had watched Don's boat beating in, when the twilight was settling over the lonely shore. He used to know without seeing her, that she was there, under the pine. She wondered if he knew that Dick had asked her to marry him? The sea was quite dark, except where a faint wreath of white came and went where the waves broke on the rocks. How dear and kind Don had been; how full of laughter; how simple and trusting; how careless and good-natured; she remembered this or that drollery, this or that dear unreasonableness; a hundred tendernesses. No wonder she loved him; to love such a man was enough for one girl's life, she thought. And yet, Dick Wheeler had thought she might marry him!



SHE KNELT DOWN AND TOOK HIS HAND IN HERS.

"But I've been true," she protested to herself, as if in excuse. Then she turned back to the path, and went on to the little gray house. "Don thought it wasn't as nice as Dick's," she thought, half smiling; "well, you see, I've chosen it, anyhow," she said, half aloud, as though he were beside her. She saw the kitchen door open and shut, and heard a burst of laughter.

"Why, who is here at this time of night?" she thought. And then she saw that there were people in the dooryard, and two figures at the gate suddenly saw her, and came running towards her:

"Mary, he's back! Mary! Don's home!"

Mary stood still at the gate; she was perfectly silent. Eager hands clutched her and would have pulled her along the path. "He's home! He's back, Mary; do you hear? He's back; he says he's been meaning to come these five years; but he's been on three voyages."

Like a woman walking in her sleep, Mary was pushed to the door, which swung open again to admit these friendly on-lookers, who had come to rejoice with those that did rejoice.

Afterwards she did not know whether she saw him or not; the kitchen was crowded. She heard Mrs. Hayes laughing and crying, and saying:

"And Mary's been true to you—but not because she hasn't had chances. But why didn't you ever write to her?"

And then a voice, a voice from the grave, a dead voice, that made Mary thrill with horror; a voice that made her heart quiver, as though the foundations of the solid earth moved and melted—a hearty, kindly voice, said:

"Well, I was always meaning to—" and, somehow, she turned and slipped away between the pushing, jostling, congratulating friends; slipped out into the night, and ran, stumbling, crying, shivering, away from the house of joy and thanksgiving.

Dick Wheeler was certainly tired enough to have Jacob help him back to bed; but Jacob was at the grocery store listening, open-mouthed, to the story of Donald Hayes' return; so the young man sat in the darkness, feeling miserably faint and miserably unhappy. He wished Jacob would come; he wished he had a lamp; he wished he had some supper; he wished Mary would be kinder. And then he drew a long breath, and set his lips, ashamed of his unmanly irritability, his cowardly collapse.

Some one knocked, but did not wait for his "Come in" to push the door open and enter. It was Mary; she came right to his chair and knelt down and took one of his big, thin, gentle hands in hers.

"Dick—he's come back. Don's alive. And—and—and, Dick, take me, please. I want—you; because Don's alive."

THE END.

A Promise Long Kept.

A story worth telling about the late Congressman Vaux, of Philadelphia, and one which shows his character, is that while a bon vivant and without the slightest prejudice against the stage, he had never been to a theater or to the opera in his life, and he acknowledged that it caused him many a pang to lose their attractions. When a very small boy, he begged his father to take him to see a play that all his boy friends had seen, but his father, while a Quaker of liberal views, did not for some reason approve of that particular play as an entertainment for the boy and forbade his going, at the same time making him promise that he would never go to the theatre or opera house until the paternal permission was granted.

Little Richard promised, and his father a very short time afterward was stricken with a fatal illness, and through all Mr. Vaux's life he kept his promise.

An Easy Way to Avoid Bother.

The man who advertises has to buy more goods and hire more help than the man who doesn't advertise. It is a nuisance to be put to the expense of buying and hiring. Don't advertise and you won't have to do business.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Not an Unmixed Blessing.

The shutting out of skilled and intelligent labor is a blunder. The anti-contract labor law is valuable when it keeps out the padrone and low standard labor systems, but when it forbids the founding of a new American industry it works uneconomic results.—Lewiston Journal.

Annexation of Canada.

The United States does not desire it. The time may come when the incorporation of the whole Dominion, and Newfoundland with it may be desired, but it is not yet.—Boston Traveler.

Host (at swell dinner)—Why don't you eat these strawberries? They are the first of the season and are very nice.

Scribble—Yes, I know they are nice, but I live at Mrs. Mealer's boarding house and I'm afraid they'll spoil my taste for prunes.—Detroit Free Press.

Tramp—Please, mum, I'm a financier and—

Housekeeper—Huh! You look like it.

Tramp—You surprise me, mum. I'd hardly have suspected a lady in this out of the way place would be so familiar with Wall street as to know a man on the wrong side of the market when she sees him.—New York Weekly.

The late Chief Gall was the power behind the throne of the Indian prophet Sitting Bull. His nature was savage and suspicious, but he was capable of genuine friendship. In person he was short and thick set, with a keen eye and determined visage.

THE TRAMP CONVENTION.

Borough Boys Enjoy Themselves Impersonating Knights of the Road.

The tramp convention of a number of borough boys last night afforded lots of fun for the impromptu wandering Willies. The invitations, written on brown paper, stated that the novel gathering would be held "in the caboose of Dusty Dick, side-tracked for the occasion". Twelve delegates responded to the call and a variegated lot of ragmuffins they were.

At the opening the delegates displayed considerable frolic, much to the dismay of the horse in the stall below. Essays were delivered in the latest slang on such subjects as "Tramps", "Clothes", "Soap and Water", "Tin Cans", and "De Growler". The meeting place was decorated with such choice mottoes as "All is not pie that's crust", "He who economizes will get riches; save your old chews for your pipe", etc.

The convention was closed with a banquet, consisting of baked beans, sandwiches, milk, coffee and pie.

—J. Parker Mason has put in a phone, 303.

—R. H. McCullough of Stelner place is building a brick addition to his house and making other improvements.

—The North Plainfield Township Committee met last evening and adjourned for one week. The adjournment was on account of the inability of Counsel W. R. Codington to be present.

—The Hillside Tennis Club is having its tennis courts scraped and put in excellent condition for the coming season. The courts are at the corner of Watchung and Hillside avenues.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., sends this: "I have used
Dr. Deane's
Dyspepsia Pills
for indigestion and stubborn constipation, and found them to work like a charm when all other remedies failed to benefit me. I cheerfully recommend them to all suffering with above troubles." WM. J. MOORE, Contractor and Builder, Atlantic City, N. J.
At all druggists. [illegible] Send to us for a free sample.
DR. J. A. DEANE CO.,
Kingston, New York.

THE RUSSIAN HONEYMOON.

Plainfield Amateurs Will Distinguish Themselves in This Performance.

The following circular, which explains itself, has today been sent out by the managers of the forthcoming Relief Fund benefit:

PLAINFIELD, April 24, 1895.

The Lady Managers of the Plainfield Relief Association beg to pronounce the production of the three-act comedy, "A Russian Honeymoon," to be given by Plainfield amateurs, in Music Hall, Thursday evening, May 9, in aid of the Relief Fund.

The cast will include many of the ladies and gentlemen who have contributed to the great success of the former plays in Plainfield, besides several who will make their debut on this occasion.

The parts of peasants, soldiers, etc., will be filled by well-trained singers, insuring admirable choruses, which, with the Lyceum Theatre Orchestra, will form a special feature of this performance.

No effort will be spared on the part of the management in making the production correct in all details of stage setting, costuming and accessories.

The seats will all be reserved and the prices will be as follows: Orchestra chairs, $1.50; orchestra circle, first two rows, $1.50; orchestra circle, other rows, $1; balcony, first two rows, $1.50; balcony, other rows, $1; boxes holding 6, $12.

Mail orders accompanied by check will be filled on and after Monday, April 29, in the order of their arrival, until Monday afternoon, May 6, at 2:30, at which time the remaining tickets will be placed on public sale at the box office at Music Hall. To prevent the possibilities of speculation, not more than 10 tickets will be sold to any individual.

Address all orders and inquiries, and make all checks payable to the business manager of the play,

CONSTANTINE P. BALLI,
Lock Box 644, Plainfield, N. J.

The Management has endeavored to have the purchase of tickets attended with as little trouble as possible and believes that the above method will prove convenient and satisfactory to every one. Orders will be filled and tickets mailed strictly in the order in which the applications are received and the best seats remaining will be given in all cases. The extremely small number of poor seats in Music Hall warrants the management in promising satisfactory tickets to all those who send in their applications at an early date.

It is hoped that everyone whether in receipt of a circular or not will avail himself of the opportunity to subscribe, as those who wait for the public sale may be disappointed.

Where the News Plant Will Go.

The New Brunswick Home News says: "Henry D. Morrison of Plainfield, at present connected with the New York Tribune, was in town a few days ago and obtained an option for the lease of a building on Hiram street, in which to start a daily Republican newspaper. His idea is to commence with a six or seven column, four page paper, to sell at 1 cent a copy. Mr. Morrison has the plant of a defunct paper [the Plainfield Evening News] at his disposal, and may move it here early in May, when he can get possession of the premises on Hiram street."

Local Baseball Abandoned.

The Y. M. C. A. athletics have practically abandoned the proposed organization of a baseball team for the season. The expense of buying uniforms, erecting a grand-stand on the grounds, etc., was more than they cared to shoulder this year. The grounds of the Crescent Wheelmen were undesirable, they considered, until the trolley road is extended to that section, owing to the inconvenience and expense patrons would be put to in order to get there.

Pipe for the New Sewers.

M. Honan & Son, of Chester, Pa., who was awarded the construction of 17 miles of new sewers for the city, were in town yesterday and signed a contract with J. Pierson of Westfield for the entire amount of pipe to be used. The pipe will come from the very best factories in the Ohio Valley. The contract was strictly drawn as regards the quality and prompt delivery of the pipe, thus ensuring good work for the city.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pope of Honeyman's tourist party were the recipients at El Paso, Tex., of six quarts of luscious strawberries from a daughter of the late Dr. Gillette, formerly a resident of Plainfield.

—Anyone desiring to purchase a fine residence, with barn, at a reasonable figure, should call at 143 East Front street.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he procured a bottle of it and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

A CAT ON AN ABANDONED BARK.

Men of the Potomac Who Rescued It Say It Killed and Ate Flying Fish.

A cat that needed all of its nine lives to enable it to pull through days of abandonment was landed at New York recently. It was brought in by the tank steamer Potomac, after spending twenty-one days [illegible] aboard the abandoned Norwegian bark Birgette.

The Potomac was three days out from the Thames when the lookout reported a strange craft on the weather bow. The Potomac ran alongside of her and found the remains of the Norwegian ensign flying from her gaff. Her foretopmast, bowsprit and rudder were gone. Her deck was awash and from the small portions of the mast that were standing her sails had been blown to ribbons.

The Potomac's whistle blew a piercing blast. It was blowing great guns and there was no response from the Birgette.

The Potomac ran to the leeward of the bark, and first officer Dogbein, with four men, put off to her. They boarded her with difficulty and not finding any indications of life on board were about to put back to their vessel when officer Dogbein, casting his eye aloft, discovered an emaciated looking cat peering over the edge of the crow's nest. He looked about for means of reaching the cat, but as there was no rigging standing and no one cared to climb the mast he was about to leave the cat to her fate when a few gently whispered meows smote upon his ear and awakened memories of home. He decided to have the cat or never again board the Potomac. He called for volunteers to save its life.

One of the sailors, who had spent some years on a ranch, suggested that he be allowed to lasso the cat. But Dogbein objected to that method, saying that if the cat were so choked it would surely be killed when it struck the deck. Another of the men said that he would throw a line over the gaff and allow them to draw him up to the cat. This was done, but the cat refused to be taken down in that way and eluded her would be rescuer, who returned to the deck with a wondrous tale.

He said that the cat was surrounded with bones from fish that she had eaten, and then the question arose as to how she had obtained fish up there. As they talked they watched the cat and saw it wave its tail frantically. A bright object shot through the air, the cat struck at it with its paw and it dropped to the deck. Officer Dogbein picked it up and found that it was a flying fish.

The officer and men were simply amazed at what they had seen and determined at all hazards to get the cat. The line was thrown over the gaff again and it is declared that the cat jumped upon it and wrapped the end about the gaff, that it then jumped back to its perch, took the remains of a flying fish in its mouth, sprang upon the gaff, felt of the line to see that it was secure and slowly descended to the deck.

It looked the men over and, still holding the fish, went to the man who had thrown the line, rubbed against his legs and purred its thanks. It was a poor looking specimen of a cat, but it was taken on board the Potomac and brought to New York. The fish that the cat had in its mouth was shown in corroboration of the story.

Whether the story is true or not, the cat and the fish are both in evidence.

The bark was abandoned on February 21, the crew being taken off by the steamship Snowflake and landed at Philadelphia on March 3. The cat was taken off March 12, so that it must have lived on flying fish for twenty-one days. In an effort to discover what it did for water during all those days of trial the reporter was sent to the man who was drawn up to the gaff.

He solemnly declared that he saw a tin pannikin lashed to the mast and stated his belief to be that the cat had placed it there to catch rainwater. There are times when even a marine reporter will show surprise at what he hears, and this was one of them. The seaman apologized for not having the pannikin to show to confirm his statement.

Capt. Leitch of the Potomac declares that the cat has been entered on the ship's articles as one of the crew and nothing can get it from his possession.

Boston's Tribute to Stephenson.

The death of Robert Louis Stevenson was a sad blow to Boston. Stevenson had become the literary fad and Boston had just begun to lay Browning aside and take him up. Listen to the sad plaint of one of the Hub's sweet singers—Louise Chandler Moulton—on the death of the novelist:

Why does my heart ache so?—
  I've never seen you—
Yet, now you're gone, I know
  What to me mean you.
Now you have sped afar,
  Ere we resign you,
Down from some distant star
  Look, while we twine you
Love wreaths that shall not die,
  Meet for your wearing—
Shout praise to scale the sky,
  Where you are faring.

The Southern Negro.

The Southern negro is better off at home than he can possibly be anywhere else in the world. The conditions of his life are easy, the climate is genial and grateful, his opportunity for acquiring independence greater than he can hope to acquire elsewhere. Whatever colored politicians and agitators and professional Afro-Americans may say to the contrary, the fact remains that the Southern negro lives on excellent terms with his neighbors.—Washington Post.

Ups and Downs.

Fixtop—Did you know that De Melville the actor, started on a starring tour week before last?

Popzam—Yes, I was told so; but, by the way what is he doing now?—Roxbury Gazette.

Oldest Inhabitants.

First Joke—You're so old you get printed on the theater programmes.

Second Joke—Well, I'm not old enough to be sprung on the stage like you.—Philadelphia Record.

At the Theater.

"Did you observe that tenor who sings so admirably? He is as deaf as a post."

"If he is deaf, pray how does he know when he has done singing?"

"The conductor gives him a sign."—El Diluvio.

Ralph Waldo Emerson, in middle life and old age, had a face of peculiar benignity. In preparing his essays his manuscripts, written in a hand like copperplate, was quite free from interlineation; but he was very rough on proof sheets.

BAMBERGER'S
THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE
147 and 149 Market Street,
NEWARK, N. J.
GRAND VALUES IN MEN'S WEA
Our 40c Underwear
In white and natural gray, medium weight and in French briggan. It would be cheap at 69c.
Our 25c Neckwear
tecks, four-in-hands and band bows, in the newest shapes, and designs, made fine quality silks. Regular men's wear sell it for 50c.
Our 49c Outing Shirts made of Bedford Cords, Cheviots, Madras Cloths Twills Outing Flannels, all 36 inches long, with pointed yokes an tension neckbands. They cannot be duplicated elsewher less than 65c.
Free deliveries everywhere. Prompt attention given to mail orders.
L. BAMBERGER & CO.
147 and 149 Market st Newark

COME TO PLAINFIELD!

That's the Garden-Spot of This Union County Paradise.

Eloquent McBride of the Elizabeth Journal sings this Spring poem of New Jersey's fairest region:

The time is at hand to secure new homes. Such a time is always at hand, but in the Spring of the year there are more opportunities offered, and people then feel more like making changes than at any other time of the year.

The homes which are offered in Union county are among the cheapest, most convenient, most healthfully located, and most beautiful, of all those to be found within the same distance from New York.

They are the cheapest, because Union county rural and semi-urban property has always been low in price. The property that has been opened up for improvement and for residences within the past few years, will compare in prices with anything that can be offered, even at much greater distances from the metropolis. Hundreds of purchasers have already discovered this fact, and the many new and beautiful homes that have already been established are pleasant evidence of the reasonable prices of Union county land.

They are the most convenient, because Union County is threaded, as no other county is, with railroads and with magnificent stone roads. The Central Railroad of New Jersey passes through some of the most beautiful sections of the county, and one of the longest stone roads parallels the railroad, thus making it easy to get to any station, and easy to drive from the station to the pretty country homes along the telford roads.

No other county is so traversed with railroads and telford pavements, and all these homes are convenient because they are so near the roads, and so easy of access.

There are no advantages for healthfulness that any locality within fifty miles of New York can claim over the county of Union. Its mountain ranges and hillsides are natural sanitariums. Crystal water flows from its rocks, and the clearest, cleanest air gives vigor to all who breathe it. As to the beauty of these sites, they must be seen to be really appreciated, and the time is near at hand when they are to be seen at their best; when the fragrance of Spring blossoms and the exquisite tints of green incite to the calm delights of Summer life in the country.

It is only since the telford roads were built that even the people of Union County's cities knew what beautiful sites for country homes were within a half-hour ride of their very doors. But since then these places have been made known to hundreds who have found them perfect places of rest, comfort and health. Moreover, the railroad rates are reasonable, and it will not be long ere the trolley car will offer its advantages to those who are now dependent on horses and the steam cars.

One of these days—and in the near future—these beautiful localities will all be bought up by syndicates, and their their prices doubled or quadrupled. To any seeking rural or semi-urban homes Union County affords a vast number, choice, beautiful by nature, health-giving and capable of the highest and most tasteful adornment. They are now cheap, but the day will come when they cannot be bought for thrice the money that will now secure them.

A Popular Singer.

The very large audience that was present at the First Baptist Church last Sunday evening to hear Lennox Barnes sing were so delighted that they are very anxious that his uncle, B. T. Barnes, bring him to Plainfield again soon. Lennox Barnes is the soloist at the Church of All Angels, New York, and his work is of a very high standard. He expects to come to Plainfield the latter part of June or first of July and it is expected that music-loving people will have an opportunity of hearing this wonderful singer.

The Kabo High Bust Cors
Popular with who desire pe fection in sh Dressmakers prefer them because they secure a perfe fit. Many advantages. Here are a f
Exquisitely long tapering waist. Boned with unbreakable Kabo—no discomfort. Made with soft loop eyelets—no breaking of cor laces or discoloring of undergarments. In all materials. Prices $1.00, $1.25
I. Lederer.

There is one DRESS STAY
Won't melt apart,
Can't cut through the dress
Don't stay bent.
It is
BALL'S PEERLE
All lengths; all colors.
Putnam & DeGraw, Seely Ed. I. Lederer.

ELY'S
Cream Balm CATARR
Is quickly absorbed.
Cleanses the Nasal Passages,
Allays Pain and Inflammation.
Heals the Sores,
Protects the Membrane from Additional Cold.
Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.
COLD IN H
IT WILL CURE. A particle is appl each nostril and is agreeable. Price druggists or by mail. ELY BROT 56 Warren st., New York.

MARRIAGES.

WINANS—MEYERS—At Millington, Ap by Rev. P. Gibb, Silas B. Winans of Wa tonville to Miss Catherine A. Meye Warrenville.

DEATHS.

BASS—Died at Plainfield, N. J., Apr Clara Pinckney Bass, wife of W. Bass. Notice of funeral hereafter.

CONNETT—In this city Thursday, 18, 1895, Mrs. Lucy A., wife of th Wm. H. Connett.

Funeral services from her late resid 363 Cottage place, Sunday, April 21, a m. Relatives and friends are respect invited

WANTED—Small farm within reach of Plainfield station or D ellen. W. O. Stoddard, Madison, N
4 1

HOUSE and building lots for sal Westfield, N. J., high ground, neighborhood, convenient to d Address box 104 Westfield N. J.
3 24 6-3

Limited Partnership

Notice is hereby given that a limited pa ship has been formed by the subscriber suant to an act entitled:

"An act to authorize limited partnersh be conducted under the firm of D. G. I Co., for the transaction of the busine merchants at Plainfield, in the county of U N. J., DeWitt G. Ivins and William S. Ce being the general partners and Edwar Booth a special partner, and that the amou capital contributed to the common stock b said Edward S. Booth is two thousand do ($2,000); which said partnership is to comm on the 21 day of January, 1895, and term on the 31st day of December, 1895.

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED MANURES
ALBERT'S
Horticultural,
Garden,
Special Garden,
Vineyard,
Fruit-tree.
[illegible]
ROBT. L. MERWIN & CO., Gen'l Agts.,
58 Wall Street, New York.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1895. No 18

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

MR. FROST HOME AGAIN.

He Brings Positive Ideas on Plainfield Sewerage.

HE INVESTIGATED IN ENGLAND.

Disposal Beds to Be Forthwith Established on Land to be Condemned Within the City Limits—Rock Avenue and Front Street a Suitable Locality—Satisfied the Sewage Farm Will Establish Its Inoffensiveness.

Councilman George H. Frost and wife, of Watchung avenue, arrived home Saturday evening from a two-months European trip.

One of the first to call and extend congratulations on their safe arrival home was a Daily Press reporter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Frost feel greatly recuperated and invigorated in health, a fact that was made evident by the hale and hearty salutation with which the reporter was greeted.

During their trip they spent five weeks viewing the sights of London, and also some little time enjoying the healthful atmosphere of noted South-of-England seaside resorts. They had pleasant weather.

Mr. Frost devoted some time to visiting and personally investigating the workings and results of two of the best of the English sewage farms, in order that he might understand this method of sewage disposal. At present the matter of sewage disposal is one of the most important problems with which this municipality has to deal, by reason of the proposed adoption of intermittent filtration and the opposition which has been encountered by the authorities in the attempt to consummate any such plan. However, the matter is no longer a problem to Mr. Frost, who returns with well defined and clear opinions, gained by the knowledge which he has acquired from personally inspecting two of England's noted sewage farms—the Croydon and the Wimbledon.

The reporter asked Mr. Frost what conclusions he had formed concerning these farms which would be of interest and applicable to this city and vicinity.

"The chief result of my visit"—replied the Councilman—"is that it removes every feeling of doubt in my mind as to the feasibility of the city of Plainfield using the intermittent filtration system for sewage disposal. If the Piscataway Township Committee, who refused the city the right to purchase and use lands within the territory over which they have authority, for sewage disposal purposes, could visit these farms in England, they might possiby change their present opinions on this subject.

"The territory surrounding the Wimbledon farm is partially built up with a superior-class of residences." To illustrate this Mr. Frost showed the reporter maps of Wimbledon and Croydon farms showing the populated territory closely bordering their limits.

"The sewage to the Croydon farm, comes in a stream larger than the volume of Green brook and in its fresh condition was free from offense. The Croydon farm contains 632 acres. I visited it March 22, when the first crop of grass was almost ready to cut. The inflow was a river of raw sewage from a populous city; the effluent was a stream of clear water. No better illustration of how little the people in that vicinity cared for or were interested in the close proximity of the sewage beds to their homes, is afforded than by the fact of a gentleman telling me that he had never yet visited the farm, and did not how it was opperated, though he lived within a half-mile of it. Three hours after the sewage leaves Croydon city it is disposed of, thus obviating any posible chance of its becoming offensive."

"Now that the city has been denied the privilege of establishing beds where it was proposed, what policy do you think is best for the city to follow out?"—asked the reporter of Mr. Frost, to which he replied:

"The city being debarred from going outside, can now only resort to the use of territory within its own limits. So sure are the sewer beds to be void of offense that the true policy is to go on and condemn property, which the law authorizes the Council to do within the city, and finish our system as contemplated, and by an actual illustration demonstrate its efficiency and inoffensiveness. The time may come when these sewage beds may be needed for residential purposes; the city may then deem it advisable to sell and remove to more remote and cheaper property."

"But"—suggested the reporter—"do you not think any other plan of sewage disposal probable? You know there is talk that the Council really means to adopt tidewater disposal."

"In my opinion"—replied Mr. Frost—"the best method is filtration beds; tidewater disposal means pumping-works and maintenance."

"What section of the city is most desirable for the location of the beds?"

"The land in the vicinity of Rock avenue and Front street is the best situated for this purpose."

"How many acres will be needed?"

"I should say 40 or 50. The farm to be a success must be properly managed, just the same as anything else. To turn the sewage on the ground and leave it without attention would doubtless cause a nuisance. On the Croydon farm 60 men are employed constantly. In the location of the sewage beds the city officials will probably be criticised, but they cannot prevent that, and they need not care so long as they know that they are promoting the best interests of the city."

BOWLING TOURNEY.

Individual and Team Standings in the Two-Men Team Contest.

Herewith are the individual averages of those bowlers in the Dunellen two-men team tournament who have played 8 games, also the standing of the teams:

Krewson 178; Stonelake 171; Lindzay 169; Wilson 164; Darling 160; Neal 159; Bamberger 159; Brown 157; Hand 157; C Giles 157; Squires 155; Shaw 155; Klippel 155; Taylor 155; Kiely 154; Young 153; Price 152; W Giles 152; Woolston 146; Mulford 140; McConnell 136; Reynolds 128.

TEAM STANDING.

	Won.	Lost.	Ave.
Krewson and Kiely	6	2	750
Taylor and C. Giles	5	3	625
Neal and Bamberger	5	3	625
Mulford and Stonelake	5	3	625
Young and Squires	5	3	625
Wilson and Woolston	4	4	500
Darling and Hand	4	4	500
Lindzay and W. Giles	3	5	375
McConnell and Klippel	3	5	375
Sauer Brothers	3	5	375
Reynolds and Price	2	6	250
Shaw and Brown	1	7	125
Sandford and Waring	1	7	125

The following teams will bowl tonight: Mulford and Stonelake, Thiers and Matthews, Lindzay and W. Giles. The teams playing tomorrow night are Krewson and Kiely, Sauer Bros., Reynolds and Price.

NEWS FROM THE EXCURSIONISTS.

As a Contrast to the Present Spell of Weather, Read This Letter from a Floral Eden.

Under date of Echo Mountain, Cal., April 23, A. V. D. Honeyman writes that he finds Fred S. Dunn of Plainfield in good health and as brown as a berry. He adds:

"The trip has been, thus far, an uninterrupted success. We arrived in Los Angeles in time to see the great floral parade; and, as the sight was such that no word-painting could describe it, we felt the spectacle was alone worth a trip across the continent to witness. Flowers were as thick as the grass at our feet and of beauty and fragrance such as we read of in oriental tales but did not suppose we should see in America. You could pick up, after the floral battle, a hundred thousand roses or pinks and no one would say nay. One of our party found in the street a cluster of over 100 roses and no one stopped to notice them."

Exempts Elect.

The following officers were elected by the Exempt Firemen's Association Monday night: President—A Saltzman; vice-president—J E Flannery; corresponding secretary—G Thorn; financial secretary—S J Robinson; treasurer—E M Laing; trustees—D W Littell, E M Laing, W A Woodruff, Joseph A Hubbard, and E A Vermeule; representatives to Relief Association—A Saltzman, and G Thorn; representatives to State Association—D W Littell, J E Flannery, W A Woodruff, E M Laing, and S J Robinson.

Hotel Netherwood Leased.

Residents of Netherwood and vicinity will be glad to know that Hotel Netherwood has been leased for the season. J. Fred MacDonald for Charles Hyde, the principal owner of the hotel, has closed a lease with John Spitler, formerly of St. George's Hotel, St. Augustine, Florida, and under Mr. Spitler's management the popular hotel will be opened June 1.

Mr. Spitler thoroughly understands the business, has abundant capital, and will make the place first-class in every particular.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

THE ADVANCED WOMEN.

They Get Together on an April Day.

NEVER MIND THE WEATHER.

They Are Here to Celebrate the Monday Afternoon's Club's Anniversary, and Royally They Do It.

The Congregational Church was filled with an audience of cultured and brilliant women last Monday who attended to hear the literary exercises of the seventh anniversary of the Monday Afternoon Club.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, president of the club. Arranged about the platform were a few choice and beautiful potted palms and plants.

In her address of welcome Mrs. Miller said there was no special significance to the occasion though this was the seventh anniversary of the organization. She said that the organization was practically the same as that of seven years ago. During the interval since its formation a great deal of talk has been indulged in with the result of increasing the club's mental fibre very largely; the increase in membership had been large since that time, and of course they had a feeling of braveness and substantiality. Mrs. Miller's remarks were very brief, at the conclusion of which she introduced Mrs. William Todd Helmuth, president of the Sorosis club, who spoke on the subject, "How Sorosis was begun". Mrs. Helmuth said that Sorosis was the first woman's club organized in this country—the beginning of a spirit which had grown extensively throughout the United States. The inception of the club was at the suggestion of several members of a New York press club. At first all efforts made towards organizing a woman's club were treated as jokes, but one of its earliest and most sincere advocates was Horace Greeley. The principles and aims at first suggested for the club to adopt were many and varied, but the objects finally decided on were to provide sort of a free masonry among women of artistic and literary minds.

"Working Girls Clubs" was the theme which Miss Katharine Jones of the New York college settlement spoke of. Working girls clubs she said, worked along lines that were practical rather than theoretical. So long as one class of women are rising higher and higher and another class going lower and lower the need of these clubs is evident. One of the principal aims was to prevent early marriages, which, to a large extent in the cities, caused the slums to exist.

Mrs. Margaret Yardley, President of the New Jersey Federation of Woman's Clubs, spoke on "How the Federation helps your club and mine". The great trouble she had encountered in her work was that a great many clubs considered only how much they could get out out of the Federation, rather than what they might contribute.

"The Democracy of Clubs" was spoken of by Julia Ward Howe, whose appearance on the platform was greeted with enthusiastic applause. She said that in all our lives there is some central thought or idea, and it was so in club life. Her idea of club democracy was to permit all to enter on the same level and have the same chances for benefit along the lines which the club sought to attain

"Is there such a thing as club can't" was what Miss Florence Howe Hall spoke of. In the sense of insincere words she did not think there was club can't.

Mrs. Mary Lowe Dickinson spoke of "The Value of Club Discussion". The value of discussion, she said, was the interchange of thought, conviction and sentiment.

Mrs. E. W. Conklin gave an interesting address on what she considered to be an ideal club woman.

"What constitutes higher education" was logically discussed by Miss Kate Thompson.

The exercises were closed by Miss Elizabeth A. Kenyon, founder of the club, who spoke on "Has our club reached its highest development?"

Immediately after the club members and invited guests repaired to the Casino where a dinner was served.

This was the menu, prepared and served under the efficient direction of Thomas Toombs: Strawberries; puree of clams; olives; almonds; radishes; homard farcie; filet de beouf hote; petits pois francaise; pommes parisienne; pluvier d'ori; salad laittue and tomat; glaces fantasie; petits fours; coffee.

The list of toasts is as follows:

Our Guests.—
"You are passing welcome, and so I pray you to think yourselves."
—Shakspeare.
Mrs. Llewellyn H. Johnson,
President of the Woman's Club of Orange.

Faces We Miss.—
"That we have loved long since,
and lost awhile."—Newman.
Miss Adeline Newton,
Monday Afternoon Club.

Women's Clubs, 1868-1895.—
"A little one shall become a thousand."
—Isaiah.
Mrs. Jennie C. Croly, (Jennie June),
President of New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Woman Without a Club.—
"Thoughts shut up, want air and spoil like bales unopened to the sun."—Young.

The Men, God Bless Them!—
"Be kind and courteous to this gentleman"—Shakspeare.
Mrs. Florence Howe Hall,
Monday Afternoon Club.

The Home-Maker.—
"Our homes are cheerier for her sake,
Our door-yards brighter blooming,
And all about the social air
Is sweeter for her coming."—Whittier.
Mrs. Aaron Powell,
Rasores Club, Plainfield.

The Business Woman.—
"And to that woman, when she has done most, yet will I add an honor."—Shakespeare.
Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt.

The Active Member.—
"The very pulse of the machine."
—Wordsworth.
Mrs. Jennie De La M. Lozier,
Vice-President of Sorosis.

The Club Critic.—
"She could distinguish and divide,
A hair 'twixt south and southwest side."
—Butler.

Our Next Reunion.—
"Fair thoughts and happy hours attend on you.
Farewell."—Shakspeare.
Mrs. Henry Opkyke.

PLANNING FOR COMMENCEMENT.

North Plainfield School Trustees Conduct Important Business.—Sewing May Be Taught in School.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education of North Plainfield was held Monday evening in the schoolhouse. Those present were Trustees Joseph, Van Winkle, Schutt, Waring, Brown, Overton, Lounsbury, and McCutchen.

The monthly salary list and incidental bills, amounting to $1,160.30, were audited and ordered paid.

The President reported renewals of contracts with teachers for the coming school year.

A report was received from a special committee appointed to consider the advisability of introducing plain sewing into the school. The committee reported an extensive correspondence with schools in which sewing is taught, and recommended its introduction next year into the school.

The report was accepted, but action on the recommendation was deferred for the present.

The Principal reported a new plan for Commencement exercises, to consist of music, an address, presentation of diplomas, and two essays, with recitations to be delivered by members of the class, to be selected according to merit.

The report was received and adopted.

A committee of three, to consist of the president and two other trustees to be named by him, was appointed with power to have charge of the Commencement exercises.

The District Clerk reported an agreement with the Township District, fixing the westerly line of the Borough School District at Clinton avenue.

A committee from Somerset Council, No. 104, J. O. U. A. M., who have generously offered to donate a flag to the school, visited the Board to arrange for presentation and acceptance of the flag.

Public notice of this will be given when settled on.

Eggs
at Eighteen Cents a dozen are five times as dear as
H-O Hornby's Oatmeal
considering the nourishing qualities of each.
Steam Cooked That's Why
H-O {Hornby's Oatmeal} Company, N. Y.

LOCAL ANNEXATION.

Our Local Canada Not Likely to Wed Us.

ITS COUNTY PAPA OBJECTS.

Somerset County Has Lost All the Territory She Intends to, and the Borough People Are as a Rule Content to Remain Distinctive.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—The question has occasionally appeared in the local papers of this city at different times in reference to the annexation of North Plainfield with Plainfield, and in every instance the articles emanated from persons who were decidedly in favor of the project. The subject is one the public for several years has heard agitated, and while the question has always been a remote one it has had many advocates on both sides of the brook, who cherish it as they would a fond dream.

The proper time, if there was ever any, for the consummation of joining together the two Plainfields, was some ten years ago, before the adoption of the borough form of government by the citizens of that municipality.

What the citizens of the borough of North Plainfield have to gain by uniting with the city of Plainfield, is hard to discern. That the older government would be the gainer, no one who will study the situation will deny. The borough today enjoys all the luxuries that her sister city does, with a lower rate of taxation, and the borough officials are constantly improving the public highways in a manner satisfactory to all within its borders. Of course the progress is not as rapid as in the older city, but in considering the difference in the populations it speaks very well for them and their careful methods in governing. In all articles on this question there has been left out of the debate the greater loser of all, Somerset County, whose officials by no means would let the territory slip away from them without a strong protest. And it is almost safe to say that under no circumstances would they allow their largest town in the way of population and riches to be taken from them.

Somerset County has lost all the territory that she intends to. Many years ago it contained within its borders both Princeton and Rutgers colleges, and then the county line ran as far as George street, New Brunswick, and so on, taking in Princeton. With concession to Mercer and Middlesex counties she became one of the small counties; and now to ask her citizens to yield the largest and most profitable town in her domain to a larger and richer county, seems somewhat preposterous.

In 1878, Plainfield, in a fit of generosity—with a political string to it—yielded up a tract almost as large as the borough in the southern end of the city, which contains the beautiful Hillside Cemetery and the hamlet of Alton. It certainly seems ludicrous to tell a person that Hillside Cemetery and all that dale and valley in the Short Hills belongs to Fanwood township, but that is where it belongs. It was ceded to Fanwood only as recently as '78. That valuable territory should never have passed away from Plainfield's keeping. That it was a great mistake, everyone must admit. The city limits of Plainfield today contain many miles of streets that sooner or later must be paved, and with Netherwood, Evona and the other sections of the city that contain so much unimproved property that in a few years will be opened up, thus adding more streets to care for, it does seem that the authorities of the city must indeed use wise discrimination and forethought if they are successfully to steer the ship of state through to the satisfaction of the taxpayer and at the same time keep apace with the march of improvements that makes the town talked of more than any other in the State.

In the meantime, with a steady, constantly increasing growth, the borough will move along in its quiet way, making public improvements and history to the end of this century, and way long into the next, unless a new county is formed, with Plainfield as the county seat, and then, and only then, will North Plainfield be able to leave old Somerset, whose pride and model it is.

The growth of the borough is, and has been steadily on the increase, and in whatever light you wish to look at it the progress has been forward in all public matters excepting the opening of Watchung and Madison avenues.

Those thoroughfares must soon be opened. The public demands insist that they shall. They will be.

There is absolutely no doubt that many conscientious and well-meaning residents of the borough fancy, through illusions and sympathy, that they would be better off were they residents of a combined city. To all those, and there are among that class many well-known men, who have the interests of the borough at heart, and who think the community would profit thereby, we would say, consider well the obstacles that must be overcome, and the more that you consider them the more impossible will seem that undertaking of consolidation. A fair object lesson in connection with this subject is the unceasing and unsuccessful efforts of Newark before the Legislature for years past in its attempts to annex Harrison and Kearny to Essex County from Hudson County.

North Plainfield Township is 25 years old, and the territory consists of a stretch from a point just above Seeley's paper mill, near the Feltville road, in the rear of Scotch Plains, to Sebring's mills, in the rear of Bound Brook, which is about eight miles in length, and from Greenbrook to the brow of the second mountain, which is about three miles in width. Washington Rock is in its limits. The territory was taken from Warren Township. The borough limits consist of all that tract on the west from the Rock road and Greenbrook to the brow of the first mountain, thence along said mountain to Raymond avenue in the east, about three miles in length and a trifle over a mile in width.

LOYAL CANADIAN.

PUFF SLEEVES OUSTED 50.

One of the Club Women's Guests Gives Away the Reason of the Banquet Limitation.

Under the head of "Feminine News and Views", written by a prominent club woman who was in Plainfield Monday, the New York Evening Sun Tuesday printed the following concerning the Monday Afternoon Club dinner:

"Three years ago the Monday Afternoon Club gave a similar entertainment at which 300 women were present. That was when dress sleeves were in comparatively reduced circumstances, however. The present style of sleeves made it impossible for the club to accommodate more than 250 women yesterday. After an elaborate menu had been enjoyed the company turned its attention to the toasts, ten in number. The flowers and other decorations of the luncheon were exquisite, and not least among the latter were the women's bonnets. From the balcony, indeed, the entire roomful looked like a vast and well-blooming conservatory, only it was an unusually intellectual and eloquent conservatory.

ANTI-TOXINE.

Successful Use of the New Discovery in Plainfield.

The two cases of diphtheria in the home of James Patterson, 5 Grove street, are progressing towards recovery, and it is expected that the quarantine will soon be removed. Duncan, the seven-year-old boy who was taken suddenly ill a week ago last Sunday, had anti-toxine administered by Dr. J. H. Carman Monday night, and again Tuesday morning; and Thursday his throat was pronounced absolutely clear of membrane, and he is today as well as ever.

Jessie, the nine-year-old girl, who had been ill two days prior, and who did not have the disease so severely, is also nearly well. This is the first diphtherical case treated with anti-toxine successfully in this city, so far as known, and is gratifying to the physician as well as to the children's parents. The quarantine has been so strictly adhered to in the house that up to the present time the other four children have escaped contagion.

The Merchant and As You Like It.

The senior English Literature class of the High School is planning entertaining exercises to be given some time in the latter part of May. The programme will consist of a number of selections from Shakespeare's plays. "The Merchant of Venice" will be given almost entire, and there will be selections from "As You Like It." The Shakespearean exercises have been given regularly by the Senior Class for the last few years.

—An observing man counted twenty-nine signs in front of a North avenue merchant's place of business a day or two ago.

—The Elizabeth Wheelmen hold their annual ten-mile handicap race June 1, and several Plainfield wheelmen will probably enter.

—The annual meeting and election of the Monday Afternoon Club takes place next Monday. The officers have already been nominated.

"There is Danger in Delay."

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol., and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ely Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

Hero of Italy Welcomed by the Directory.

OTHER CAMPAIGNS PROJECTED.

Invasion of England Appears Doubtful, and He Turns His Eyes on the East—Battle of the Pyramids and Rout of the Mamelukes—Egypt Ruled by the French.

[Copyright, 1895, by John Clark Ridpath.]

XI.—CONQUEST OF EGYPT.

Bonaparte returned to Paris on the 5th of December, 1797. His coming was heralded. The democratic Directory must receive him in the name of the people; but the act of hero-worship was embarrassing. The people of Paris must have a spectacle; and the Jacobin administration must glorify the hero of Italy. Arrangements were made at the Luxembourg Palace for a reception—first of many such—to the child of the Republic.

The court of the palace was splendidly decorated; and the elite gathered for the welcome. The occasion was not without its peril to Napoleon. He must bear himself like a true democrat—beginning to be idolized. Symbolical statues of Liberty, Equality, and Peace were set up in the hall where hung the memorial banner commemorating the victories and spoils of the Italian campaign. There, too, was placed an altar of the Fatherland. Beautiful women thronged the galleries. The Directory sat to receive the conqueror. Talleyrand introduced the young general to the assembly. The statesman's speech was long, flattering and casuistical. To one paragraph was added this significant clause: "Far from apprehending anything from his (Napoleon's) ambition, I believe that we shall one day be obliged to solicit him to tear himself from the pleasures of studious retirement. All France will be free; but perhaps he never will; such is his destiny." Barras, president of the Directory, also spoke. Napoleon bore himself with great modesty, pronouncing a brief speech of congratulations on the improved condition of France.

The reference to "studious retirement" in Talleyrand's address was not bad. It was an allusion to Bonaparte's election to membership in the National Institute of France. This was an honor of which he was very proud. In accepting the distinction, he said, referring to the members of the Institute, "I feel assured that before I can be their equal I must long be their scholar. True conquests—the only ones which leave no regret behind them—are those which are made over ignorance. The most honorable occupation for nations is the contributing to the extension of human knowledge. The true power of the French Republic should henceforth be made to consist in not allowing a single new idea to exist without making it a part of its property." For some time after this, Napoleon was wont to sign himself, Member of the National Institute.

BATTLE OF THE PYRAMIDS.

Such ceremonies as those attending his reception in Paris were always regarded by Bonaparte as so much mummery—quite necessary in the make-up of glory; but very cheap. Not a month elapsed before the General became restless to a degree. To Bourrienne, his secretary, he said: "Bourrienne, I do not wish to remain here; there is nothing to do. They [the Directory] are unwilling to listen to anything. I see that if I linger here, I shall soon lose myself. Everything wears out here; my glory has already disappeared. This little Europe does not supply enough of it for me. I must seek it in the East, the fountain of glory. However, I wish first to make a tour along the coast, to ascertain by my own observation what may be attempted. I will take you, Lannes, and Sulkowsky with me. If the success of a descent on England appear doubtful, as I suspect it will, the Army of England shall become the Army of the East; I will go to Egypt."

Bonaparte was now made commander of the new army, which was alleged to be intended for an invasion of England. On the whole, it seems that he never seriously contemplated a descent on the English coast. He was too prudent for that. But he lent himself to the popular whim, and made as though he would invade the British Isles. The Directory, meanwhile, gave him no orders. It had already come to pass that he did much as he pleased. On the 10th of February, 1798, he set out from Paris with his secretary, his aide Sulkowsky, and General Lannes. He went to Étaples, Ambleteuse, Boulogne, Calais, Dunkirk, Furnes, Niewport, Ostend, and the Isle of Walcheren; and then returned to Paris by Antwerp, Brussels, Lille, and St. Quentin. Everywhere on the journey he showed the greatest activity and discernment. His glance shot into every situation. He informed himself of the conditions existing along the coast, but did not prosecute the scheme of invasion.

The superiority of Napoleon over the men of his epoch lay in his far-reaching gaze and comprehension of great things. His vision flashed over the European landscape like a gleam of light. At twenty-eight he had already discerned that the best way to afflict Great Britain was by destroying her influence in the East. Out of this notion sprang his project of conquering Egypt. Beyond Egypt lay all Asia. "Europe," said he, "is a molehill. There have never been great empires and revolutions except in the East, where there are 600,000,000 men." The Directory readily assented to his wishes. It is in evidence that that body was more than willing to have the ambitious commander out of Europe.

On the 12th of April, 1798, Napoleon was appointed General-in-Chief of the Army of the East. Virtually he was to go where he would, and accomplish what he could. The matter once determined, he brought everything to results with the greatest rapidity. He made Toulon the rendezvous for his army and fleet. He gathered to his standard a retinue of the learned, mostly members of the Institute. He would disseminate the civilization of the West in the effete Orient. En route, he would conquer Malta, still nominally under the dominion of the Knights. That done, he would debark at Alexandria, overthrow the dominion of the Mameluke Beys, and conquer and colonize the land of the Pharaohs.

Admiral Brueys was called to the command of the fleet. Napoleon ordered his equipage to be prepared as for a conqueror, a governor, a man of letters. He made up an extensive list of books for his camp library, and in doing so spelled Du Guesclin thus—Ducecling, and Ossian thus—Occan! Strange that this astounding cacography was not coincident on his part with ignorance of the authors referred to!

The Egyptian expedition sailed from Toulon on the 19th of May. The General's ship was the Orient. On the 10th of June, the squadron came to Malta, and that place, with its strong defenses was—partly by intrigue and partly by assault—taken from the Knights. The French flag was raised over the fortress, and many of the Knights joined the expedition. Meanwhile, an English fleet, under command of Nelson, passed the French flotilla without discovering it; sailed on to Alexandria; paused there, and then turned to the northeast, believing that Brueys had made for the coast of Syria.

All this inured to the advantage of the French. Napoleon was able to reach Alexandria without attack. On the 1st of July the column of Septimus Severus, rising in the distance, caught the sight of the French commander, and gave token of a safe arrival. The army was hastily debarked; but not sufficient care was taken to put the French fleet in a defensible position. Without a moment's delay, the city was assailed by the invader, and after some desultory fighting was captured. The conqueror of Italy easily made himself master of the city which Alexander had founded as the capital of the world.

But all Egypt was not to be so easily taken. Bonaparte proclaimed his mission as that of liberator and pacificator. The Turks and Mamelukes should be expelled; but the people of Egypt should otherwise have peace. The nation should be raised from the dust. New institutions should be founded; but the old institutions, and in particular the Mohammedan religion, should be respected. "Extend to the ceremonies prescribed by the Koran," said the General to his soldiers, "and to the mosques the same toleration which you have shown to the synagogues—to the religion of Moses and of Jesus Christ."

For six days Bonaparte had his headquarters in Alexandria. He then removed to the house of the sheik of Damanhour, and there organized his expedition up the Nile. A flotilla was ordered to ascend the river, while the army marched up the left bank. By a strong wind from the north the boats were driven ahead, and the land forces were obliged to advance without naval support. On the 14th of July, the Mamelukes, who, falling back from Alexandria, had been organized into an army under Murad Bey, made a stand at the village of Chebreisse, and were forced from that position by the French; but the action was not decisive. Meanwhile, the flotilla was assailed by the enemy from both banks of the Nile. The Mamelukes mounted small cannon on camels, and inflicted not a little loss on the Europeans. The French boats, separated from the army, were galled by these attacks. On the 23rd of July, a junction was effected, but not until a great battle had decided the campaign.

The conflict occurred on the plain within sight of the pyramids of Gizeh. It was perhaps the most picturesque battle of modern times. The French army was drawn up in squares, on the Egyptian sands. The artillery was planted at the angles of the squares. The commanders were Generals Desaix, Kleber, Berthier, and Menou—under the eye of the General-in-chief. The plains round about were covered with heavy masses of Mameluke horsemen. Bonaparte addressed his soldiers after his manner, in a sort of Pindaric apostrophe. He called their attention to the setting of the scene, and reminded them that from the summit of Khufu's pyramid forty centuries were looking down upon them. The battle was bloody and decisive. The Mamelukes were overwhelmed by thousands. The officers on the French flotilla, descending the river on the next day, saw on the bank literal heaps of the Mameluke dead which the rising Nile was gathering and bearing out to sea. Murad Bey fled to Upper Egypt, and the French entered Cairo.

Without a moment's delay Bonaparte set to work at the herculean task of reorganizing Egyptian society. He divided the country into provinces, and over each province appointed a divan, or council, of seven persons. To each he assigned a body of Janizaries. Over each a civil intendant was appointed to levy the taxes. A finance department was organized, under direction of French officers. Desaix was ordered to pursue Murad Bey into Upper Egypt. Bonaparte himself marched against Ibrahim Bey, and, falling upon him at Salehyeh, defeated him and drove him back on El Arish. The French authority was rapidly widened and confirmed throughout the country.

Four days after the battle of the Pyramids, Napoleon wrote to his brother Joseph, saying: "Egypt is richer than any other country in the world in corn, rice, vegetables and cattle. But the people are in a state of utter barbarism. We can not procure money, even to pay the troops. I may be in France in two months. Engage for me a country-house near Paris or in Burgundy, where I mean to pass the winter." To this was added a list of things necessary to be sent out from France, as follows: "A company of actors; a company of dancers; three or four dealers in marionettes; a hundred French women; the wives of all the men employed in the corps; twenty surgeons; thirty apothecaries; ten physicians; some founders; some distillers and dealers in liquor; fifty gardeners with their families; all kinds of vegetable seeds; each party to bring two hundred thousand pints of brandy; thirty thousand ells of blue and scarlet cloth; a supply of soap and oil." The purpose of the General to return to France, but to leave an army of occupation in Egypt, is sufficiently shown in these orders, in which the comedy of war is grotesquely figured on the background of statesmanship.

JOHN CLARK RIDPATH.

"Leave No Stone Unturned."

The origin of the expression, "Leave no stone unturned," is thus accounted for by authorities on the many obscure expressions used: "After the battle of Platea Mardonius, the aid of Xerxes, buried a vast amount of treasure on the field. Polycrates, consulting the oracle at Delphi as to the best means of securing the same, received the answer, "Turn every stone."—St. Louis Republic.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

Royal Baking Powder Co., 106 Wall st., New York.

MISS SMITH'S MUSICALE.

She and Her Friends and Pupils Provide a Delightful Concert.

An appreciative audience was present at the W. C. T. U. rooms last Friday to enjoy the piano recital given by Miss Alice O. Smith, pianist, of Newark, assisted by Mrs. M. Albert Davis, Miss M. Elizabeth Davis, vocalists, of Cranford, and Miss Smith's pupils, the Misses Reilly, Kennan, Firstbrook, Alice Quinn, Kittie Quinn, and Millie Tyrrell.

The programme opened with the "Overture to Zampa" by Lattenberg, by Misses Alice and Kittie Quinn, Reilly and Firstbrook. Two pianos were used, the rendition and precision being most excellent. Rigoletto (Opera de Verdi) by Billem, was finely rendered by Misses Smith and Kittie Quinn. Mrs. M. Albert Davis then gave a soprano solo "When the Heather is in Bloom". She has a remarkably well trained voice, and her singing was enjoyed exceedingly.

"La Belle Amazon", Loeschhorn, Opus 25, by Miss Kittie Quinn, was well executed, and showed that the selection had been well taught and studied. A charming Menuet, by Berthold Toure, was exceedingly well rendered by Misses Smith and Millie Tyrrell. The last selections in part first, Soldiers Chorus from Gounod's Faust, and Serenade from opera Don Giovanni, were played by Misses Alice and Kittie Quinn, Reilly and Firstbrook, and gave evidence of thorough study by the pupils.

In part second the same four pupils rendered the overture from the opera of Martha, as an opening selection, and it was much enjoyed.

A selection abounding in life was "Mazeppa" by Wollenhaupt, and the skill with which Misses Alice and Kittie Quinn interpreted it was noteworthy.

A vocal duet, "Cheerfulness", by Gumbert, was thoroughly appreciated as sung by Mrs. Davis and Miss Davis, and in response to an encore another very pretty selection was given.

Miss Kittie Quinn then gave "Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 2", by Liszt, and the rendition was remarkable for the very fine execution in every detail.

A duet (Spielmann's Standchew) by Joseph Low, was an enjoyable number by Misses Reilly and Keenan, as was also Liszt's Faust Waltze by Misses Smith, Reilly, Alice Quinn and Kittie Quinn.

A soprano solo (Cavatina—The Huguenots), by Meyerbeer, was given by Mrs. Davis in a delightful manner, and an encore was demanded.

The programme closed with the selections "Spanishee Tange", and "Dance of the Fairies", by Misses Alice Quinn, Kittie Quinn, Reilly and Firstbrook.

The entire affair was enjoyable, and Miss Smith is deserving of much credit and high praise for the very choice programme. Her playing throughout was appreciated, and frequent hearty applause was given.

THE SAME GLAD STORY.

Park Club Whisters Win Again—This Time from Fanwood.

The first of the series of three whist games between the Park and Fanwood clubs to decide the four-men team championship of the New Jersey Whist League tournament was played at the Park club-house Friday. The Parks won by four tricks. The score:

PARK.		FANWOOD.
McCutchen and Reed Townsend and Rogers	7	Kieb and McCarthy Newman and Worth	2
McCutchen and Rogers Townsend and Reed	5	Kieb and Worth Newman and McCarthy	5
McCutchen and Townsend Rogers and Reed	2	Kieb and Newman McCarthy and Worth	3
	14		10

The second game will be played next Wednesday evening.

Miss E. D. Lyon, teacher in Miss Newton's school, has returned home from Marcellus, N. Y., where she was called by the illness and subsequent death of her mother.

Among the mid-June marriages announced is that of Miss Josephine Van Arsdale, daughter of the late John K. Van Arsdale of 120 Grove street, to Garret Conover, a theological student who will soon enter on pastorly duties. Owing to the death of the bride's father, the wedding will be a quiet one at home.

RAILROAD SPEED RECORD BROKEN.

Special Train Over the Pennsylvania Double Lines to the Sea, Annihilates Time.

The magnificent physical condition of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Double Lines to Atlantic City was fully attested April 21, in the splendid run made by the special train from Philadelphia to Atlantic City. The train put out of the slip at Market street wharf at 5:30 a. m. precisely, and fifty-one and one-half minutes thereafter came to a stop in Atlantic City station.

The train left the station in Camden six and a quarter minutes after the departure from the Philadelphia side, so that the actual running time was only forty-five and three-quarter minutes. The distance by this route is fifty-eight and three-tenths miles, and the average speed was seventy-six and one-half miles per hour. This is the fastest time ever made between the Delaware and the Atlantic Ocean, and is actually the fastest time ever made by any railroad train for the distance. From Winslow to Absecon, twenty-four and nine-tenths miles, an average speed of eighty-three miles per hour was maintained.

The fastest single mile was made in forty-one seconds, which is an average of eighty-seven and eight-tenths miles per hour.

This is the most notable performance in railroad speed which has yet been recorded. It could not be accomplished without the aid of the best and the most substantial roadbed, the finest modern equipment, and the skilful management of experienced men.

No portion of the Pennsylvania system, off the world-famous main line, is superior to the division over which this phenomenal run was made. The track is laid with heavy steel rails on stone ballast, a great part of which has been renewed during the past Winter, and the movement of trains is protected by block signals. The equipment has been greatly improved by the addition of locomotives of the highest standard and handsome coaches and parlor cars.

These facts are of peculiar interest in view of the great traffic which the Summer will bring to this popular route.

The management is fully alive to the demand for the best accommodations and the quickest time consistent with safety, and the Summer schedule will undoubtedly present the largest number of the best equipped and fastest trains ever enjoyed by the travelers between the Delaware and the ocean.

EUTERPE'S FIRST.

A Casino Audience Enjoys an Excellent Programme.

The first entertainment of the Euterpe Literary and Musical Society was given Thursday in the Union County Country Club Casino. It was entirely unconventional, but an enthusiastic audience enjoyed it thoroughly, and rendered generous applause to the performers, most of whom are residents of this city. The friends of the society were present in full force, and nothing that deserved hearty commendation escaped their appreciation.

The programme was varied, and included piano playing, six hands, by Mrs. Korff and the Misses Vordermeier; singing by Miss F. May Grant; instrumental music by the "Musical Russells" and Hugh J. Emmett, and violin and piano selections by Masters George Smith and Oscar Smith. Miss Lillian A. Force accompanied Miss Grant on the piano.

The piano overture, "Le Caleif de Bagdade", by Mrs. Korff and the Misses Vordermeier, opened the evening's programme in a brilliant manner, and was unquestionably more finished in execution than the later selection by the same young women.

Messrs. Emmett and Martyne were intensely humorous in their musical and character specialties, and the "Musical Russells" surpassed any like pair that ever appeared in the Casino.

The violin solo by Master Smith gave evidence of considerable inherent talent and careful training. He played bravely enough for so young a lad before such a large audience, and well deserved the encore which his delighted hearers demanded of him. His brother's accompaniment was excellent support.

A PASTOR'S RECEPTION.

Rev. Mr. O'Donnell Welcomed to Monroe Avenue Chapel.

A very pleasant reception was given to Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, the new pastor of the Monroe Avenue Chapel, last evening, by the Ladies' Aid Society of that church. Although the committee in charge was greatly disappointed by the nonappearance of the greater number of those who were to take part in the programme, yet all those present enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

After an opening hymn, Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes of the First M. E. Church offered prayer, after which James McGee welcomed the new pastor with a few words of encouragement. Dr. Barnes also welcomed him to Plainfield, and concluded by introducing Rev. Mr. O'Donnell to the assembly. J. R. Joy next gave a reading, "Armazindy", at the conclusion of which Mr. O'Donnell spoke a few words. He expressed his thanks for the kind words spoken to him and hoped to be able to co-operate with the church as well as to have their hearty co-operation with him in the great work that lay before them.

After partaking of refreshments provided by the Ladies' Aid Society, the congregation spent a pleasant hour in becoming better acquainted with their new pastor and each other.

—Brittin's Hotel in Scotch Plains will be sold at Sheriff's sale, at the courthouse in Elizabeth May 22 at 2 p. m.

TEA AND TABLEAUX

Pretty Event in Grace M. E. Church.

Pretty tableaux, followed by a tea and reception, entertained a large audience in Grace M. E. Church Thursday.

The first part of the programme was a series of tableaux entitled A Dream of Fair Women, by Tennyson. The characters in it were taken by the following: Helen of Troy—Miss Clara Steiner; Iphigenia—Miss Maggie Schuck; Cleopatra—Miss May MacDonald; Jeptha's Daughter—Miss Alice Loomis; Rosamond—Miss Carrie Tingley; Eleanor—Miss Mamie Steiner; Joan of Arc—Miss Grace Carroll; Saint Agnes—Miss Emma Stevens; Lady Clara and nurse—Miss Alice Carroll, Miss Emma Smalley.

The costumes were very tasteful, and added much to the beauty of the entertainment.

A piano duet by Miss Mabel Benner and Miss Ella Benner was next enjoyed. Horace J. Martin then rendered a vocal solo and Miss Emma Stevens gave a recitation. After a piano solo by Miss May Conroy, the second series of tableaux took place.

Seven scenes represented that well-known old story, of Under the Mistletoe Bough, where the young bride runs off to hide and becomes locked in an old chest. The bridegroom and all his friends hunt in vain, but after the lapse of many years the remains of the young bride are discovered. The part of the bride was taken by Miss May Schuck and the bridegroom by Frank Schuck. The other characters were taken by Miss Grace Carroll Miss Clara Steiner Miss May McDonald Miss Carrie Tingley, Raymond Carroll, Louie Hummer and Dick Winckler.

Mrs. T. W. Powell acted as pianist during the tableaux, which were arranged by Miss Anna Most, assisted by a very efficient committee.

John H. Carney was in charge of the calcium lights.

The tables were presided over by the following: Pink table—Mrs. Griffin; violet table—Mrs. Valiant; yellow table—Mrs. Most.

Those who remained after the programme was concluded enjoyed a period of social chat, while the young women of of the church served refreshments.

The committee in charge certainly made a great success of the evening, and the whole affair reflects great credit on them.

IT WAS GOOD LAW.

But Somehow or Other It Didn't Fit the Case in Hand.

The contract case of W. O. Smith against James Rogers was tried before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff was suing for $100 for work done and materials furnished on the construction of the Cranford Opera-house, of which the defendant is owner.

The work and materials were ordered by the architect, Mr. Lent, and the plaintiff claimed that Lent was acting as agent for Rogers. On the contrary, the defendant said that he had never authorized Lent to make any such contract. The case was aggressively conducted by the attorneys of both sides, Fred A. Pope of Somerville for the plaintiff and George H. Bruce of Cranford for the defendant.

After the testimony of the plaintiff had been finished, Attorney Bruce made a motion for a nonsuit on the ground that the evidence they had produced was not sufficient to substantiate their claim.

Lawyer Pope, who is new in the profession, made an eloquent reply in arguing against the motion, and quoted law which Justice Nash said "was very good law, but he couldn't see how it fitted the case under consideration".

At the conclusion Justice Nash granted the motion for a non-suit, at which the young lawyer said with a flourish of his arms: "All right, sir".

THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

Personally-Conducted Tours to Washington, D. C., via Pennsylvania Railroad.

No true American should fail to see Washington, the Nation's Capital, and the series of three-day tours via the Pennsylvania Railroad, under their perfect personally-conducted tourist system, offering an opportunity for a trip under the most favorable of circumstances.

But two more tours of this season's series remain—the next leaving New York and Philadelphia May 2; the last leaving those points May 23.

The rates, including accommodations at Washington's best hotels, are $13 50 from New York and $11.50 from Philadelphia; proportionate rates from other points.

Detailed itinerary will be sent on application to Tourist Agent, 1196 Broadway, New York, or Room 411, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

The friends and neighbors who have enjoyed the company of Robert Clark and family during the Winter at 20 Manning avenue, are sorry to learn that they have returned to their country home at Washingtonville for the Summer. But no one can blame them, as they have one of the most complete country homes in this part of Jersey.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

BRIAR PIPE
GIVEN AWAY WITH EVERY ONE POUND
bale
OF DUKES MIXTURE
for 35 cents
Every pipe stamped
DUKES MIXTURE OF ATCo
2 OZ. PACKAGES 5¢

Rates of Advertising

SPACE	WEEKS 1	WEEKS 2	WEEKS 3	MONTHS 1	MONTHS 2	MONTHS 3	MONTHS 6	MONTHS 12
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$4.00	$5.00	$9.50	$15.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.50	8.00	12.00	20.00
3 in.	2.50	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00
4 in.	3.00	3.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	16.00	20.00	32.00
5 in.	3.50	4.50	6.00	8.00	12.50	18.00	25.00	37.00
¼ col.	4.50	6.00	8.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00
½ col.	7.00	10.00	12.00	15.00	24.00	32.00	54.00	80.00
1 col.	12.00	16.00	20.00	25.00	35.00	50.00	85.00	140.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings.
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.
H EGGERDING,
121 Park Avenue.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
7aply

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 141-143 NORTH

PLAINFIELD'S TREE PEST

Now's the Time to Fight the Elm Despoiler.

STAMP OUT THE VORACIOUS BEETLE

When Our Trees Are Ravaged 'Twill Be Too Late to Deal with the Pest—Tree-Saving Greater Than Tree-Planting—Ex-Mayor Randolph Points Out a Cure to Save One of the City's Chief Charms.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—It is well to observe Arbor Day. It is well to plant trees. It is better to preserve noble trees well-grown, and in the full course of beauty and usefulness.

It is painful to note the paralysis which appears to have come over this community in relation to the protection and preservation of the elm trees, which have constituted so large a share of the interest and beauty of our town.

This is the more deplorable in view of the fact that a cure is at hand, and can be availed of at small cost and trouble.

The appropriation of $1,000 per annum by our Common Council (and probably of a much less sum) will save our elms; and, by so much, will preserve and increase one of Plainfield's chief charms. Is there no enterprising member of our city government ready to champion effectively the cause of the elm?

If the city authorities will do nothing in this matter, will you not, in your office, take the matter up as a worthy public enterprise? I will be one of 100 citizens to give either $5 or $10 each per annum to extirpate, or repress, the elm-beetle pest.

I spray my trees each year, and thus have benefited myself and my neighbors; but, working alone, can do but little good in this cause. The pest is increasing each year in power and damage.

Professor John B. Smith, State Entomologist, in a recent bulletin says: "In many of our New Jersey cities, towns and villages, in which shade trees form an important element of beauty, insect injury has been so marked for two or three years last past, as to bring me many letters of inquiry. During the season of 1894 matters were so much worse than ever before that even the authorities were aroused in some instances."

The elm leaf beetle makes its appearance at the beginning of the leafing season. It is usually well at work about the middle of May, riddling the leaves. Late in May and in early June the eggs are laid. Then the beetles disappear, and the larvae hatch, and go to work on whatever of tender elm foliage they can find. Through the month of June the larvae stuff themselves. Then they make their way to the ground, cast their skins, and appear as soft, bright-yellow pupae. A week later, say about Independence Day, the new army of beetles is in motion; and the elm foliage is subject to another attack. These successive attacks in the course of a single season complete the ruin of many trees. In August and September the beetles seek Winter quarters.

The State Entomologist recommends as one cure—arsenate of lead—formed by adding four ounces arsenate of soda and eleven ounces acetate of lead to 100 gallons of water.

The remedy with which, perhaps, we are most familiar, and which is quite as strongly recommended by Prof. Smith, is Paris green. Or again, London purple is quite as good. I quote below Professor Smith's own words:

"These insects can be controlled and the trees entirely preserved, by three sprayings with either London purple, or Paris green, at the rate of one pound of either in one hundred and fifty gallons of water, one pound of stone or shell lime, or two gallons of milk of lime, being added to prevent possible injury to the foliage. Two quarts of glucose, or molasses, add greatly to the sticking power of the poison used."

Spraying should be first done about the first or second week in May. The second spraying should be done in the early part of June, and the third spraying may be done about the second week in July.

An additional remedy is to pour on the ground, about the base of the trees, in the early Spring, (and again about the first of July, and again in September) a dilution of kerosene-emulsion or whale oil soapsuds.

For small trees any good spraying outfit will serve, such as may be procured through any hardware dealer. For large trees, and for general neighborhood or city protection, there should be a tank, mounted on a wagon, holding from one to two hundred gallons prepared as above told. To this should be attached a double-acting brass cylinder force-pump, with full hose couplings. The hose should reach well up into the large trees, and should be supplied with suitable nozzles, such as the Nixon nozzle, or the Vermorel nozzle, or a graduating nozzle, such as is used in lawn sprinkling, may be used with advantage in some cases.

Three or four such outfits could, perhaps, thoroughly protect our town from the elm beetle—each tank and spraying apparatus being in charge of about three men.

I am aware that, in portions of our State, the elms and other fine trees are already subject to attack from another imported pest, known as the elm borer or leopard moth. As yet, I think this pest has not reached Plainfield—though it may appear this season. The remedy for this is to cut back the tree, and plug the borer holes with bi-sulphide of carbon and putty.

But, the emphasis of this article, and of these suggestions, has to do with the elm-leaf beetle, one of the most destructive of modern tree pests, and one which we can suppress effectually if we have the pluck and purpose to do it.

L. V. F. RANDOLPH.

Plainfield, April 27, 1895.

THEY'LL ALL BE HERE.

A Great Army of Wheeling Talent Coming to Plainfield.

A letter from Louisville, Ky., where many of the best known Class B cyclists are in training for the coming racing season, states that all of the great flyers there expect to ride in the Crescent Wheelmen's meet here Memorial Day.

Among these speeders are Harry Tyler, holder of most of the short distance records; Louis Callahan, who has just returned from Mexico and Texas with the best of their records; Archie Gardiner and E. C. Anderson who ran away from all western Class A men last year; Con Baker and W. de Cardy, the strongest road riders of the west; Mike Dirnberger, who rode a mile unofficially in 1:41 two years ago; H. R. Steenson, M. Carter, F. H. Allen, G. A. Goble, Arthur Porter, L. C. Johnson and Ernie Johnson, not to mention the great and only John S. Johnson himself. And this is but one of the many counties to be heard from.

ECCENTRIC ALLEYS.

But You Can't Lose the Plainfield Club Men Bowlers.

A picked team from the Union County Country and the Park Clubs went to New York last Friday and rolled a match game, best two out of three, with a team from the Friday Night Bowling Club. The game was full of interest from the start to finish. It took the visiting team one game to get onto the eccentricities of the alleys, but when they did succeed in finding the grooves they just piled up the neat score of 818 pins, to let the New York boys know what Plainfield could do even on bad alleys.

The following scores of the games rolled shows how our team carried off the victory.

PLAINFIELD.

	Games.
	1st.	2d.	3d.
Beebe	124	155	143
Hegeman	150	175	138
Wharton	110	167	142
Burnet	100	201	177
Matthews	163	120	149
Totals	647	818	749

NEW YORK.

	1st.	2d.	3d.
Smart	100	146	127
Laing	158	172	159
Milligan, A. H	167	149	148
Brown	159	140	164
Milligan, A. W	150	141	150
Totals	734	748	748

LAY WRITERS OF THEOLOGY.

English Statesmen Rush in Where Our Own Fear to Tread.

Theology is a favorite study of many English statesmen. Gladstone has written half a dozen or more theological books. Balfour, the coming man, has just broken into theology with his book on the "Foundations of Belief." Those who regard the Duke of Argyll as a statesman must be aware that he is one of the most voluminous theological writers of the age. In running over the list of British statemongers we see the names of a lot of theologians. Henry VIII. took a hand in the theological disputes of his time, and so did Oliver Cromwell. Even Beaconsfield, while yet he was Disraeli, dabbled in theology; Peel, known as "Orange Peel," made a deep study of it; and Brougham annotated an edition of Paley.

It is queer that there never has been any great theologian among our American statesmen or high functionaries. The President now in office, for example, has given us no book on the subject, though his father was a clergyman. Harrison has made no contribution to theological literature. Buchanan, Lincoln, Jackson, Grant and most of our other Presidents were not scholars in theology. Garfield knew a good deal about it, but he wrote only fragments. Jefferson was better versed in it than any other President, but he was not orthodox. The Hon. Thomas C. Platt, though a Presbyterian by conviction, has never figured as a theologian, outside of the Sunday school. In Mr. Cleveland's cabinet there is not a theological writer. We do not know of a member of either House of Congress who is an adept in theology, though there are clergymen in both Houses.

We cannot divine how it happens that there are so many theological writers among British statesmen and in Parliament, while there is not one known to us among American statesmen or in Congress. England is ahead in this respect.—N. Y. Sun.

High School Baseball.

An attempt will be made to have at least one Plainfield baseball club this Spring. The Plainfield High School Athletic Association has discussed the question and decided to organize one. There is plenty of good material in the High School, and if sufficient enthusiasm can be aroused, there is no doubt but that an excellent team can be formed. Charles Noble '96 is the manager of the nine, he is a good player himself, and will certainly work hard for the success of the team. At present, there is no candidate for the position of pitcher, but it is to be hoped that one can be developed from the abundant material at hand.

F. M. Bacon is slowly improving from his recent operation for abscesses.

David Rogers of Florida is the guest of his brother, Lewis T. Rogers of West Sixth street.

G. B. Schoonmaker of 929 Madison avenue has become an unattached member of the L. A. W.

TELEPHONE COMPANY

PEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 12,000 SUBSCRIBERS—PROTECTION FROM FIRE AND BURGLARS, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—175 North Avenue.

Public pay stations, fitted with long distance instruments:

J H Leggett Park ave and Front st
Telephone Exchange 175 North ave opp depo
Horsley Barker Grove and Front sts
G W V Moy 4th and Park avenue
Frank Rowley Somerset and Craig place
J C Field, Somerville.
J B Guttridge, Netherwood
Hotel Albion, Park ave and 8th street

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. H.	318 West 7th st
Adams, Dr D C	46 Grove st
Adams H C	115 E 6th st
Addis & Son	122 North av
Andrews F H	818 Central av
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 8th st
Alert Hose Co., No 1	W 2d st
Babcock, Geo H	8th and Union sts
Barnaby F A	Plainfield
Brakeley, P W Dr	Dunellen
Boone C W Dr	7th and Liberty sts
Bushnell, John	Central ave, and 9th st
Beerbower, J E	Park av and 2d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	122 E 5th st
Blair A C	149 North av
Boice, Runyon & Co	246 Park av
Board of Education	5th st and Arlington av
Booth, E H	Central av
Brookside Sanitarium	Somerset st
Brown J M	612 Central av
Central Times	103 E Front st
Clark, E B	131 Crescent av
Children's Home	Jackson ave
Chase Fred F	655 North av
Closson, James T	Richmond and Front sts
CONSTITUTIONALIST Office	105 North av
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves
Cox, Rowland	310 W Seventh st
Chapman, Mrs F A	16 LaGrande av
Cruikshank, S. A	Belvidere av
Carman, J H, M D	49 Somerset st
Chase, R F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy	Park av & Front st
DAILY PRESS	105 North ave
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 6th st & Park av
Day, B M	Rockview ave
Decker, F—pay station	Westfield, N J
Doane, T O—Chief P F D	488 W 5th st
Dunn Fred W	Park and North av
Dumont, John B	151 E 7th st
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park ave. and 7th st
Hose No 1	West 2d st
Engine No 2	2d st near Park av
Engine No 3	Somerset st
Evans, Geo C	37 Washington ave
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Force A L	82 Duer st
Fisk, Chas. J	211 West 7th st
Fisk, Pliny	6 W 7th st
Freight House	C. RR, Depot
French Bros	Somerset st
Fritts, Dr J T	423 Park av
Fleming, Howard	1012 Park av
French, C Frank	69 Somerset st
do do	337 Park av
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New st
Grant, Geo W Chief of Police	418 W 6th st
Griffen, A M	119 E Front st
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 8th st
Hegeman, B. A	107 Sycamore avenue
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W	703 Watchung av
Hedden, Albert	4th st. near Park ave
Hoagland's City Express	161 North av
Howell R O	101 North av
Holmes E H	208 Madison av
Hogan Chas W	20 Rockview av
Hummer & Mulford	220 Park av
Ivins D C	311 Watchung av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	212 W Front st
Kaufman W T	531 W 7th st
Keely & Son	LaGrande av and Scott pl
Kirkner, J	8th and Division sts
Leggett Pharmacy	Park av and Front st
Linnett W N	110 Jackson av
Lowrie H H, Dr	512 Park av
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 9th st
Lovell, L N	Crescent aye
Linke, Frank	227 W Front st
Lounsbury, F C	Plainfield av
Mallinson A D	205 North av
Matthews, Chas	49 Grove st
MacDonald, J F	186 E Front st
Marsh Craig A	103 E Front st
Mathewson W B Dr	Babcock Bldg
do do	97 Rockview av
McQuaide James R	731 W 7th st
McGee, Henry A	Willow ave
McGee, James	Willow ave
Moy G W V	Park av and 5th st
Muhlenberg Hospital	528 W 3rd st
Murray, Dr. W H	737 Watchung av
Murray J W	313 W 4th st
Music Hall	49B
Myers, J K	139 E 7th st
Newhall, Henry B	144 E 7th st
N Y & N J Telephone Co	175 North av
Park Club The	Washington av
Penton T B jr	Rockview av
Perkins Ed C	Central av
Plainfield Beef Co	254 E 3rd st
do Electric Light Co	Madison av
do Gas Light Co	E 4th st
do Street Railway Co	Grant av
do Water Supply Co	Netherwood
Police Station	Park av and Railroad
do Chief Office	Park av
Pond Machine Tool Co	8 2nd st
Pope J C & Co	E Front st
Postal Telegraph & Cable Co	104 Park av
Potter, C jr	427 W 7th st
Potter Printing Press Co	638 South av
Probasco J B Dr	E Front st
Randolph, L W	143 Front s
Reynolds, H P	Park and North ave
Reynolds, H. P	Washington avenue
Reed Chas A	27 Myrtle av
Reed & Coddington	Babcock Bldg
Reinhart J W	69 Belvidere av
Rheaume L A	Watchung av and 4th st
Rogers W H	408 W 5th st
Rowley Frank	45 Somerset st
Roberts, D S	127 North av
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and 4th st
Rogers, D W	238 W 2d st
Roome, Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves
Runyon, A M & Son	402 Park av
Runyon, A M & Son	416 Madison av
Rushmore, Dr Edward	429 Park av near Fifth st
Runkle, H. G	531 8th st
Runyon, Chas W	169 North av
Rice, R. W. & Co	cor. Emily and Duer sts
Rushmore Robert	3rd st and Grant av
Saunders W L	95 Mercer av
Serrell, Lemuel W	625 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Shaw, R J	Front st. opp. Park ave
Shepard A D	Fanwood
Slater F M	27 Jackson av
Smalley Bros	North av
Smith, W P	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Smith, Jas A	125 W Front st
Strelli, H A	1808 Hillside av
Stevens F R E	763 South av
Stevens Geo O	Grant av and W Front st
Stephenson W J	146 North av
Sykes T F	Front st Fanwood
Talmadge, Henry P	Netherwood
Taylor Mrs M S	10 Rockview Terrace
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Terrill & Cole	200 W 2d st
Thompson, A D	147-149 North av
Thompson, A D	Farragut road
Thickstun, Jno A	223 Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M	418 W 7th st
Tomlinson, Dr T H	212 La Grande av
Tobin Geo J	187 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	440 8th st
Tunison W J	242 Watchung av
Tweedy, O. B.	125 Crescent av
Ulrich & Blatz	153 W Front st
Union Beef Co	248 E 3rd st
United States Express Co	153 North av
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle J W	122 North av
Wadsworth, W B	452 8th st
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
Wharton, Clifton jr	616 3rd Place
Woltman, E	669 West Seventh st
Wiechers, J F	W 8th st., near Grant ave
Wiertz Max	544 W Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park, N J	60c	Hempstead N Y	45c
Astoria, N Y	50c	Hoboken N J	35c
Babylon, N Y	60c	Hunter's Point N Y	45c
Bath, N Y	40c	Irvington N J	40c
Bayonne N J	45c	Islip N Y	60c
Bergen Point N J	35c	Jamaica N Y	45c
Bayside N Y	50c	Jersey City N J	35c
Bay Shore N Y	75c	Keyport N J	50c
Bayville N Y	60c	Kingston N J	35c
Belleville N J	40c	Laural Hill N Y	45c
Blissville N Y	45c	Leonia N J	45c
Bloomfield N J	35c	Little Neck N Y	50c
Bloomingdale N J	45c	Little Silver N J	60c
Boonton N J	45c	Long Branch N J	50c
Brooklyn N Y	35c	Madison N J	40c
Caldwell N J	45c	Matawan N J	50c
Carlstadt N J	45c	Millburn N J	35c
Centreville N J	45c	Montclair N J	30c
Chatham N J	50c	Morristown N J	45c
Closter N J	45c	Newark N J	15c
Colt's Neck N J	75c	New Brunswick N J	25c
Coney Island N Y	45c	Newton N Y	45c
Cresskill N J	45c	New York N Y	35c
Dover N J	40c	Orange N J	35c
East Norwich N Y	60c	Pamrapo N J	45c
Eatontown N J	60c	Passaic N J	35c
Elizabeth N J	25c	Paterson N J	35c
Englewood N J	35c	Perth Amboy N J	25c
Fairview N J	45c	Rahway N J	25c
Fanwood N J	15c	Red Bank N J	50c
Far Rockaway N Y	45c	Seabright N J	50c
Flatbush N Y	35c	Short Hills N J	35c
Flushing N Y	40c	South Amboy N J	25c
Fort Lee N J	45c	South River N J	35c
Franklin Park N J	35c	Staten Island N Y	35c
Freehold N J	50c	Westfield N J	15c
German Settlem't N Y	60c	Woodbridge N J	25c
Glen Cove N Y	50c	Yonkers N Y	60c
Gravesend N Y	45c	Trenton N J	60c
Hackensack N J	35c	Tarrytown N Y	60c

The Name Is Everything.

The many tricks of trade that are practiced in these times are justified by a prominent soap manufacturer of Philadelphia as being positively necessary to influence a stupid public to buy what is for their benefit. The article in which he takes the most pride is a pure Castile soap, purer and better than that made in Castile. He stamped it as American Castile and was unable to sell any quantity. The people would not buy what little was taken by retail dealers. Under these circumstances the manufacturer changed the stamp on his soap to one abounding in Spanish words which meant the same thing. Since the change in stamp the sales have been remarkable and the soap is ever gaining in popularity.—Philadelphia Record.

A Robin Dined With the Captain.

Touching instances of the recent stress of weather comes from the mountainous districts of Wales. At Ffestiniog a sheep actually walked into a house and placed its forelegs on a lady's lap to beg a bit of bread which she held in her hand. At Barmouth a robin took up its quarters on board a steamship (the Telephone), accompanied it on its voyage to Liverpool and back again, and at dinner hours hopped on to the table and dined with the captain.

A Compliment.

"That boy of yours, madam," remarked the conductor as he punched the half fare ticket, "looks remarkably well developed for a child under 12."

"Thank you," replied the lady very calmly. "It's so gratifying for me to have any one notice Tommy's remarkable precocity."—Chicago Record.

According to Dean Hole there are fifty silly young men for one silly young woman.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnace,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 113 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS
Cleanse the Bowels and Purify the Blood!
Cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Dyspepsia, and give healthy action to the entire system.

FOR MALARIA.
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand with interest. Money deposited on or before July 1, 1894, will draw interest from that date.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
J. FRANK HUBBARD,
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19t

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVI
Vegetables, Fruits, etc:
No. 224 Park Ave
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
Everything usually found in a first-class grocery store.
Goods delivered free of charge.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.

OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
Insurance Agent,
Offic cor. Front St. and Park Av.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar30tf

Stoves, Ranges
AND HARDWARE
OF ALL KINDS
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 31 SOMERSET ST. 3-18-tf

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE: CHARGES REASONABLE
Mrs. Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N.J.
mch20tf

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 308 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap4y

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 204 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at r residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed, f17yl

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
135 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and
Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

W. R. CODINGTON.
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—je4tf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THIERS,
Dentist,
48 Somerset street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—je4tf

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey,]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—24 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges reasonable. P. O. Box 1 . Piano moving a specialty.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 23½ W. Front street, to 261 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

TWENTY
Yeas experiencein the business.
SECOND STREET, 3 doors above Peace street

Mr. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to Shoeing, Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredible short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables.
FOURTH STREET,
Between Peace street and Park avenue.
First-Class Livery,
Horses Boarded by Week or Month
Telephone call No. 114.

Parlor stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Steam Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Estey
Pianos
Organs
FULLY WARRANTED.
Moderate Prices.
Cash or Installments.
See Them Before You Buy.
ESTEY & SAXE,
5 East 14th Street, — New York.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

Plainfield, New Jersey.

TERMS--TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

A. L. Force, Publisher & Proprietor.

Walter Irving Clarke, City Editor

CLUB WOMEN.

Toasts Enjoyed at the Monday Afternoon Club Dinner.

The scene presented in the Casino of the Country Club during the Monday Afternoon Club dinner Monday afternoon was one of beauty. The eight tables were arranged in fan shape, the principal one running lenthways along the side of the south wall, while the others ran out at right and left angles. The curtains of the stage were dropped, and in front of them was arranged a bower of flowers and potted plants, which, with their many colored blossoms and green foliage, gave a tropical air to the surroundings. The table covers were of white linen, and the serving dishes of silver and china. The table flowers were yellow daffodils and roses. On each table was a large number of candelabra, the shades of which corresponded in color with the flowers. All of these, accentuated by the brilliant toilettes of the fair diners, made a picture of delight and animation.

The dinner was commenced at 1, and it was 3 before the last course was served, at the conclusion of which the toasts were enjoyed. The first one responded to was "The Active Member," who was discussed by Mrs. Jennie De La M. Lozier, vice-president of Sorosis. The success of the club, of course, depended on the active member. The active members, however, might be of widely divergent characters, and pursue different methods, but when they come together under right conditions they will accomplish results.

"Women's Clubs, 1868-1895", was the toast to which Mrs. Jennie C. Croly, president of the New York State Federation of Woman's Clubs, responded. Early clubs, she said, aimed at being representatives of science, art and literature. The State and National Federations of Clubs are gradually assuming the power of great social republics, and she believed that if equal suffrage at the ballot box ever came it would be by reason of the women showing their ability to grasp and solve the problems of the day, just as the Monday Afternoon Club is doing.

"Our Guests" was talked of in a brief and pleasant strain by Mrs. L. H. Johnson, president of the Woman's Club of Orange.

The serious toast of "Faces We Miss" was responded to by Miss Adeline Newton. She said the memory of those who had met and worked with them in the past was too precious to give up without a reference—even in this time of banqueting. She spoke of those who had contributed much to the success of the last annual dinner, who were missing now by reason of being claimed by their Maker.

Mrs. Noah H. Chapman of the Brooklyn Woman's Club made a short address, "A Plea for Simplicity", which had been postponed from the literary exercises in the morning. The paper was practical in the opinions ventured and suggestions offered, so that Mrs. Chapman was the recipient of applause as she finished.

Miss Chandler responded to the toast of "The Woman Without a Club", but stated that she thought there was no such thing as the woman without a club—that is without being a member of some organization.

"The Men, God Bless Them" was responded to in happy vein by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall.

Mrs. Aaron Powell spoke of "The Home Maker", and said that the intellectual thought which clubs develop assists to make better homes among those whom it reaches.

Mrs. Henry Opdyke finished the toasts with "Our Next Reunion".

—Dressmaking parlors have been opened by Miss E. R. Rockfellow at 195 North avenue. She is expert is the work, and makes a specialty of the Taylor system. Suits are made for $5 and upwards, and all orders are sure to be skillfully, speedily and satisfactorily executed.

The Lungs
are nearer the back than the chest. In case of sudden congestion, put an

Allcock's
Porous Plaster

high up between the shoulder blades. It will give relief, and ward off worse results. It cures rheumatism, sprains, lame back, and all similar troubles.

None are equal to the genuine—Do not only ask for, but see that you get "ALLCOCK'S."

Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
free the system from injurious secretions. There is no remedy like them

HYMENEAL.

Harper-Keegan.

In St. Joseph's R. C. Church Tuesday afternoon at 5 took place a very pretty marriage, when James Harper and Margaret Keegan, both of this city, were joined in wedlock. The church was filled with a large number of friends of both bride and groom, who witnessed the impressive ceremony as conducted by Rev. William Miller, assisted by Rev. Mr. Freeman of Metuchen, formerly pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of the Lohengrin march, played by Organist James Bailey, and proceeded to the altar, which was beautifully decorated with azaleas, palms, ferns, and an arch of marechal niels. The bridemaids were Margaret Nolan and Ella Mullen, and the maid of honor was Nellie McCann. The best man was James McCann. The ushers were David Kenney and Thomas E. Lowe.

The bride was attired in a princess gown of white faille silk, with pearl trimmings; her veil was fastened with pearl ornaments, gift of the groom. The maid of honor was dressed in white d'esprit over silk, trimmed with white satin ribbon and lace. The bridemaids wore white point d'esprit over white silk, trimmed with pink ribbon and white lace.

After the ceremony the wedding party were driven to 149 Manning avenue, where a pleasant reception followed.

Later in the evening the couple left for a bridal tour to Washington. On their return they will reside in North Plainfield.

Stahl—Sweeney.

J. J. Stahl and Margaret Sweeney, both of North Plainfield, where the groom is foreman of Warren Engine Company, were quietly married at St. Joseph's rectory Tuesday at 7:30 by Rev. William Miller. Isaac Squiers was best man and Miss Rose Getchell, of Jersey City, bridemaid. A short reception followed at the home of Mrs. Wm. Newman, the bride's sister, after which the couple went to their own home at 28 Grandview avenue, where everything was in readiness for them to commence keeping house.

Crescents Full of Business.

An important meeting of the Board of Governors of the Crescent Wheelmen will be held in the Board of Trade rooms tomorrow, when matters pertaining to the Decoration Day meet will be discussed. A committee will probably be appointed to decide on the prize medals. It is expected that several of the local merchants will offer special prizes for the various events. The subordinate members of the committees of which the chairmen have already been appointed will also probably be selected by President Rogers at this meeting. A club meeting will be held next Monday evening.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sence of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

☞Sold by druggists, price 75 cts. per bottle.

Revere House Open.

George B. DeRevere has opened the Albion under his own name for the reception of guests. That the hotel will take a new lease of life under his management, is an assured fact.

Mr. De Revere's experience, ability, and large personal acquaintance, will be factors in making the Revere House a favorite resort for people of good taste all over the country.

BY THE WAY.

—The Hibernians meet Thursday evening of next week.

—Thomas Barrett, shipping clerk at Edsall's, is riding a new Crescent wheel.

—The money found by Mr. Shotwell has been restored to its owner, Miss Wray, who spoke in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon.

—The report in another paper that Mr. Powers has rented his North Plainfield house to a gang of Italians is untrue. Contractors Honan & Son are living there.

—Arnold Jeanrenaud of Dunellen has sold his Brookside cottage on Jefferson avenue to Charles H. Taylor of New York, and Mr. Taylor and family have moved into the house.

—The master plumbers and Board of Health had another conference on the proposed plumbing ordinance last night, and the plumbers made suggestions. Adjournment was made to May 16.

—There is a possibility of John Johnson, the great bicycle rider, not racing in the Decoration Day meet of the Crescent Wheelmen, if the charges which have been preferred against him should be substantiated before the racing board of the L. A. W.

I recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. There is no better liniment made. I have sold over 100 bottles of it this year and all were pleased who used it. J. F. Pierson, druggist, South Chicago, Ill. It is for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

WOMAN'S SUFFERING.

RELIEVED BY MAIL. HOW IT IS DONE.

How a Woman Works for Her Sex.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Seated at her desk in the bureau of correspondence, this wonderful woman opens her letters from all parts of the world. A few extracts from their contents tell the story.—

FROM IOWA.

"I am in a very bad condition. My courses have stopped from catching cold, and the pain is fearful. I am all bloated up; and the pain in lower part of my body is terrible. My back and head ache all the time. What shall I do for it?" MISS L——, Des Moines.

FROM NEW JERSEY.

Mrs. Lizzie DeCline, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, relates her miseries resulting from womb trouble, from which she was relieved and cured by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She ends her letter by saying, "I owe all to you."

FROM OHIO.

Mrs. Newton Cobb, of Manchester, O., writes: "I used eight bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I am happy to say it has cured me of painful menstruations and backache. My suffering every month was dreadful. The doctors gave me morphine to ease the pain; nothing to cure me. Oh, I want to tell every one what cured me! I wish every suffering woman would write and get your advice."

FROM ILLINOIS.

Miss Jennie ——, Chicago, states that she is twenty-two years of age; occupation, saleswoman in large dry goods store. Constant standing has brought on womb trouble, the symptoms of which she describes fully. She says: "Help me if you can. There are several girls I know who have written to Mrs. Pinkham, and been cured by her advice and medicine."

FROM PENNS'LV'N'A.

Miss Mary Smylie, who resides at 2078 E. Susquehanna Avenue, Kensington, Phila., writes: "I am a working-girl, and must stand eleven hours every day. I have suffered terribly from painful menstruations and kidney trouble. At times my head was so dizzy I could hardly see. A friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I am a different girl now: no more aches and pains. Oh, thank you, thank you!"

The above extracts from many hundred letters received daily by Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., go to show how easily ailing women can obtain advice and relief. Write to Mrs. Pinkham.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful female medicine known to the world, can be obtained of any druggist in the land.

CLOSE OF THE CONTEST.

Clever Athletes Awarded Prizes—Severe Accident to a Performer.

Part second and the last of the gymnastic contest given by the Y. M. C. A gymnasium members took place Monday evening. The audience was much larger than on the preceding evening, and the interest and enthusiasm in consequence was increased considerably. The programme opened with an Indian club drill by the class of 14 members, and the general work was excellent, reflecting credit on their teacher, Physical Director D. A. MacPhie.

A feature was the work on the horizontal bar. Those who entered this contest had been training very hard for it. An unfortunate accident occurred while J. Burns was performing. He had about finished his feat and in landing slipped, giving his right arm a severe twist. He was taken to Dr. Probasco's house, where it was found that he had fractured the wrist. The physician treated him and bandaged the injured part. Later in the evening a subscription was taken, so that Mr. Burns would not suffer from loss of work.

The next number was the German horse. Those taking part in this did exceedingly clever work, and hearty applause greeted the contestants. Then came the running broad jump. Good work was also done by those entered for this contest, as well as in the hop, step and jump. T. E. Schaefer gave another exhibition of Indian club swinging, and his work was even better than on Monday night.

The judges then retired to render their decision, and while they were doing this several members gave an exhibition on the horizontal bar. At the conclusion President Murray appeared and before presenting the prizes made a short address along the line of athletics. He then awarded the prizes as follows:

Dumb bell drill—1st prize, gold medal, E. B. Eagan; second prize, silver medal, Horace Moore.

Vaulting bar—1st prize, gold medal, Charles Dupee; 2d, razor, offered by J. P. Laire, F. E. Woodward.

Parallel bars—1st prize, gold medal, J. N. Burns; 2d, silver medal, Clarence Thorn; 3d, bronze medal, H. P. Vosseller.

Running high jump—1st prize, silver medal, A. C. Wyckoff; 2d, $2, offered by G. A. Hallock, I. K. LaBoyteaux.

Standing broad jump—1st prize, medal, L. Fish; 2d, $2, offered by T.E. Morgans, I. L. Brady.

6—Indian club drill by class, 1st, silver medal, E Morraller; 2nd, gold cuff buttons, Edgar Sheppard.

7—Horozontal bar, 1st, gold medal, A Wagoner; 2nd, silver medal, A P Crane; 3rd, bronze medal, Wyatt Barnes.

8—German Horse, 1st, silver medal, J A Koechli; 2nd, bronze medal, H Jessup.

9—Running broad jump, 1st, medal, Harry Williams; 2nd, order for ½ dozen photographs from G W Monfort, D W Littell.

10—Hop step and jump, 1st, medal, J K LaBoyteaux; 2nd, gold cuff buttons, offered by J Hervey Doane, C Doliver.

For the best all-around work in the contests A C Wyckoff received a second medal.

—The run to Newark which the Victor Wheelmen intended to make last Sunday, but which had to be abandoned on account of the inclement weather, will probably take place next Sunday.

FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Monthly Bulletin of New Books Added During April, 1895, Officially Published by The Daily Press.

Abbott J S C	Christopher Carson.
Alcott L M	Jo's boys.
"	Little men.
"	Little women.
"	Old-fashioned girl.
"	Under the lilacs.
Almost a Duchess.
Aldrich T B	Story of a bad boy.
Appleton	Index to annual cyc 1876-87.
Artman W	Beauties etc of the blind.
Baker Sir S W	Cast up by the sea.
Barr Mrs A E	Bow of orange ribbon.
Ballantyne R M	Gascoyne.
"	Wild man of the west.
"	Young fur traders.
Barrie Ja M	Little minister.
"	Window in Thrums.
Bates Arlo	Wheel of fire.
Bayly A E	Derrick Vaughn.
"	Donovan.
"	Knight Errant.
Behrens B	Gertrude's marriage.
Besant W	Capt Cook.
Black W	In silk attire.
Blackmore R D	Lorna Doone.
Brooks N	Boy emigrants.
Brown H D	Two college girls.
Broughton R	Cometh up as a flower.
Burnett Mrs F H	Editha's burglar.
"	Little Lord Fauntleroy.
"	Sara Crewe.
Burstenbinder E	Alpine Fay.
"	Saint Michael.
Cable G W	Dr Sevier.
Carey R N	For Lilias.
Chesebro C Isa	A pilgrimage.
Clemens S L	Huckleberry Finn.
"	Prince and pauper.
Coffin C C	Winning his way.
Collins W W	Man and wife.
"	Woman in white.
Cousin Franck's household.
Craik Mrs D M	Olive.
Craik Mrs D M	Young Mrs Jardine.
Crane A M	Opportunity.
Crawford F M	Children of the King.
Crawford F M	Dr Claudius.
Crawford F M	Don Orsino.
Crawford F M	Greifenstein.
Crawford F M	Mr Isaacs.
Crawford F M	Paul Patoff.
Crawford F M	Roman Singer.
Crawford F M	Three Fates.
Crawford F M	Witch of Prague.
Crawford F M	Zoroaster.
Custer Gen	Wild Life on the Plains.
Dodge M M	Hans Brinker.
Dodgson	Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.
Doyle A C	Adventures of Sherlock Holmes.
DuMaurier G	Trilby.
Dumas A	Count of Monte Cristo 2v.
Dumas A	Forty-five Guardsmen.
Dumas A	Three Guardsmen.
Eaton F	Queer Little Princess.
Edwards	Ordeal for Wives.
Emerson R W	English Traits.
Fawcett E	Ambitious Woman.
Galaxy	bound 3 v.
Gaskell Mrs	Cranford ill by Hugh Johnson.
Gaskell Mrs	Sylvia's Lovers.
Green, J R	Short Hist of the Eng People v 4.
Hale Mrs	Distinguished Women.
Harper's Magazine 7 v.
Harris Mrs M C	Richard Vandermarck.
Hector A F	Her Dearest Foe.
Henshall Ja A	Camping and Cruising in Florida.
Henty G A	Under Drake's Flag
Howard B W	Aunt Serena.
Howard B W	One Summer.
Howe H;	The Great West.
Hughes J	Tom Brown at Oxford.
Hungerford Mrs	Airy Fairy Lilian.
Jackson H H	Ramona.
Jamison Mrs	Lady Jane.
Jones H	Laws and Principles of Whist.
Kellogg E	Brought to the Front.
Kidd B	Social Evolution.
King C	Between the Lines.
King C	Colonel's Daughter.
Kirk Mrs E O	Lesson in Love.
Kirk Mrs E O	Margaret Kent.
Lamb C and Mary	Tales from Shakespeare.
Landor Wa S	Works and Life. 8 v.
Lang A	Red Fairy Book.
Lee S	Dict of National Biography v 41.
Longfellow H W	Complete Poetical Works.
Lothrop A	Dollars and Cents.
Light and Darkness.
Lytton E B	Harold.
McDonald G	Princess and Goblin.
McIntosh M J	Lofty and the Lowly.
McMaster J B	People of U S v 3.
Manteuffel U Z v	Violetta.
Martin G H	Massachusetts Public School System.
Miller O T	Little People of Asia.
New York Historical Society Collections 5 v.
New York Weekly.
Nordhoff C	Man-of-War Life.
"	Merchant Vessel.
"	Whaling and Fishing.
Ossoli M F	At Home and Abroad.
Poole S L	Coins and Medals.
Pratt M L	Australasia.
"	China.
"	India.
"	The Great West.
Baum G E	Tour around the world.
Reade C	Never too late to mend.
Roe A S	True to the last.
Roe E P	Day of fate.
"	Barriers burned away.
"	Near to nature's heart.
"	His sombre rivals.
"	Without a home.
Rohlfs Mrs A K (G)	Hand and ring.
Sabatier Paul	Life of St Francis of Assisi.
Scott Sir Walter	Pirate
"	Quentin Durward.
Scottish clans (anon).
Select novels.
Sewell A	Black beauty.
Sewell Miss	Cleve hall.
"	Glimpse of the world.
Spencer H	Education.
Stockton F R	Squirrel Inn.
Stoddard W O	Talking leaves.
Stowe Mrs H B	Uncle Tom's cabin.
Strickland A	Pilgrims of Walsingham.
Terhune Mrs M V	Hidden path.
Trollope A	Last chronicle of Barset, 2 v.
Trowbridge J T	Three scouts.
"	Fast friends.
"	Chance for himself.
"	Silver medal.
"	Young Joe.
Traill H D	Social England, v 3.
Verne Jules	20,000 leagues under the sea.
Warner S	Hills of the Shatemuc.
Winsor, Justin ed	Memorial hist of Boston, 4 v.
Woolsey Sa C	What Katy did at school.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Amos H. VanHorn, Limited,
73 Market Street, Near Plane Street.

Note the Name Amos Before Entering the Store.

COME EVERY DAY.

Whenever you come you find fresh features in Furniture and Household Wares to greet you. Just now nothing seems impossible in the line of economy in this store. Whatever you want maybe you can fill it here at a third—often half—the price you'll pay elsewhere. For instance:

PARLOR SUITS.

$20—Whoever thought to see such a splendid suit as this for such a little price? You'll wonder how the material can be bought for so small a figure and not count the making. Not many, only enough to keep the sale going this week, so you'd best be quick. Mahogany finished frame, five pieces.

MATTINGS.

15c. the yard and made in Japan. You know what that means. Quaint patterns, woven carelessly on a bright colored background. Some of the very prettiest patterns of the season. Brand new styles and the kinds that will win your approval.

DINING CHAIRS.

Fragile and delicate, stout and sturdy, and every one of them serviceable as can be. You needn't spend much time; close your eyes and choose, you can't go wrong. They are the most cheerful looking chair you ever saw, and the prices $1.25 to $3.00, with twenty-five cent go-betweens.

CARPETS.

High priced or low priced, the lining and the making and the laying free. That's what brings business to our carpet room. And you pay less here for the carpet than you're likely to pay elsewhere. Scores of fresh rolls added weekly, among them new patterns in the 65c. Tapestry Brussels and Super Ingrains.

An Unequaled Offering. Buy a bedroom suit here. You'll save the cost of spring and mattress. We give a strongly woven wire spring and mixed mattress with each bedroom set sold. A bouncing big offer, but it's away we have for making new acquaintances. Goods delivered free of charge to all parts of the State.

The Portland Range. You who have never heard about it, come to the store; you who have one, aren't you tickled?

The Storage House is making friends daily; such a well-lighted, well-ventilated place as it is, explains why. Satisfactory terms and satisfactory people to deal with. A 'phone call or postal will bring our vans to you door.

"Hello" Number 580

—The members of the German Reformed Church have decided to expend $100 on their structure in improving its sanitary condition, especially with reference to the ventilation.

—St. Joseph's Church has rented Saengerbund Hall for May 22 and 23, when a fair and entertainment will be given for the benefit of the society.

—The all-around contest between the Park and the Country clubs will take place next Tuesday evening at the Country clubhouse.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

—The Camera Club will exhibit the Rockford views next Tuesday evening, at which time it is expected the elevator will be in operation in the Babcock Building. Owing to the delay in its construction, the club has been compelled to send several sets of views away without exhibiting them.

Prof A. Wehner,

TEACHER OF THE PIANOFORTE.

ALSO VOICE CULTURE.

Graduate of the Conservatory of Leipzic, Germany, desires a few more pupils in Plainfield.

References given and required.

Address letters to the office of this paper.

1 21 tf-c

CHESHIRE PIGS

For sale. Also fine thoroughbred

Cheshire Boar.

APPLY

C. Ackerman,

418 3 w Clinton ave, near Evona.

The Finderne,

FINDERNE, Somerset Co., N. J.

Open all the year as a resort of the highest order. Driving and sleighing parties will receive every attention.

HIGH-CLASS SUNDAY DINNERS.

(Table d' Hote from 1 to 3:30.) Steam heat; inclosed piazzas; everything immaculate. When out driving let us entertain you,

A. E. WHITE, Manager,
Finderne, N. J.

1 0 tf

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER CXIX.

An Act for extending the time for completing certain railroads.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the time limited for the completion of any railroad authorized to be constructed within this state under any special or general act has expired or shall expire before the thirty-first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, such time shall be and the same is hereby extended for the further period of two years from the passage of this act; provided, however, that this act shall not apply unless money has actually been expended in surveys or location of route, or in acquisition of right of way or in construction since January first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six; provided further, that this act shall not apply to any corporation unless such corporation shall first, and as the condition precedent to the exercise of any power granted by this act, file in the office of the secretary of state an agreement, to be approved by the governor and attorney-general, waiving all right of exemption from taxation and from privileges and advantages arising from any law or contract, if any there be, establishing any special mode of taxation of any such corporation, and the further agreement to be bound by any general law of this state now in existence or that may hereafter be passed, taxing such corporations as are now authorized to be taxed by the legislature of the state under any general law, and further agreeing that the exercise of any power granted by this act shall not in any way affect the rights of this state, if any there exist, to take the property of such corporations under any existing law of this state, and agreeing, further, that all laws affecting such corporations shall be subject to alteration or repeal by the legislature.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 11, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting conveyances," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the power vested by said act to which this a supplement, and general assembly, in joint meeting, to appoint proper and fit persons for each of the counties of this state, to be styled and denominated "commissioners of deeds," shall not be limited to the appointment of persons of the male sex, but such appointments may be of persons of either sex; and all words in said act, or any supplement thereto, referring to said commissioners as of the masculine gender, shall be understood to include and shall be applied to females as well as males.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXV.

An Act to authorize pursuing and detective companies to provide for the indemnification of the members from loss, in whole or in part, by robbery, burglary, larceny or theft.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any pursuing and detective company, organized under any general or special act of the legislature, to provide for the indemnification of its members from loss, in whole or in part, by robbery, burglary, larceny or theft, and to make by-laws, rules and regulations for the same, and to fix the dues, fees and assessments of the members, and to provide for the payment and collection thereof, and to sue for and recover the same in any court of competent jurisdiction.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXVI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act for the organization of the national guard of the state of New Jersey," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in addition to the force hereinbefore authorized there shall be allowed four companies of colored infantry, one each to be stationed at Camden, Trenton, Newark and Jersey City.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXVII.

An Act to allow municipalities and improvement commissions, other than cities of the first class, to issue certificates of indebtedness for street improvements.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the legislative body of any municipality and improvement commission, other than cities of the first class of this, shall have authority to issue certificates of indebtedness to an amount not exceeding the cost of any street or sewer improvement or improvements in anticipation of the collection of any assessment or assessments made or to be made therefor, which certificates shall be redeemable after one year from date and payable in five years, and shall draw such rate of interest, not exceeding five per centum per annum, as such legislative body may determine.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 185.

CHAPTER CXXVIII.

An Act to authorize the correction of mistakes in the assessment and collection of taxes, and in the sale of lands for alleged non-payment of taxes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in case the owner of any lands shall have duly paid taxes according to the tax bills presented to him from year to year, and it shall subsequently appear that through mistake or inadvertance the said tax bill or bills for any year so presented to such owner and paid by him shall contain an erroneous lot number or other misdescription not affecting the amount of tax payable thereon, and that by reason of such misdescription or other mistake or inadvertance the said land of such land-owner shall have been sold for supposed non-payment of taxes, whereby such land-owner shall have been compelled to pay for the redemption of such land from the said sale, it shall be lawful, and shall be the duty of the municipal corporation in which such land is situated, upon the production by such land-owner of both the tax receipt and the certificate of redemption relating to the same premises, and for the taxes of the same year, and upon satisfactory evidence that such sale for alleged non-payment of taxes was made by mistake or inadvertance, to refund and repay to such land-owner the amount so paid by him for the redemption of such land, together with lawful interest thereon from the date of such payment.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXIX.

An Act in relation to partition walls between adjoining buildings and to provide for relief in cases where the centre line of such partition wall is not erected upon the division line of adjoining lands.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That wherever any partition wall has heretofore been erected or shall hereafter be erected by the owners of adjoining lands upon the division line of their properties, and it shall appear that the centre line of such partition wall does not correspond exactly with the division line of the land of such adjoining owners, but that more than half of such partition wall is erected upon the land of one of such adjoining owners, no suit in ejectment or action of tort shall be commenced by the owner of the premises upon whose land more than half of such partition wall is erected in reference to such partition wall as long as the same shall stand, but the present owner of either of such adjoining lands may apply to the court of chancery of this state for relief and adjudication of the rights of such adjoining owners in such portion wall, and the said court shall hear and determine such cause, or shall refer such application to one of the special masters of said court to ascertain and report the facts in the case, and what in the opinion of such special master is a fair and just sum in gross to be paid by the owner of the premises who enjoys the use of more than half of such partition wall, to the owner of the land upon which more than half of such partition wall has been erected, and upon the confirmation of such special master's report, the said court shall make a decree that, upon the payment of such sum in gross by the owner of the land who has the use of more than half of such partition wall, to the owner of the land upon whose ground such partition wall overlaps, or to any mortgagee or judgment creditor having a lien thereon as hereinafter provided, such partition wall shall stand as then erected as long and in the same manner as if the centre line thereof had been erected upon the centre of the division line between such adjoining premises and the rights of such adjoining owners in such partition wall shall in all respects be the same as if the centre line of such partition wall was erected upon the centre of the division line between such land.

2. And be it enacted, That any mortgagee or mortgagees or judgment creditors having a lien upon the land upon which more than half of such partition wall is erected may be made parties to such proceedings, and in case they fail to appear and answer and prove their claims, they shall be bound by such decree, and in case they do appear and prove their claims and claim such sum in gross, the same shall be paid to them in order of priority and upon the payment of such sum in gross to such mortgagee or judgment creditor the same shall be deducted from his debt.

3. And be it enacted, That any of the parties to such proceeding may take exceptions to such special master's report, which shall be heard and determined by said court as such exceptions are usually heard and determined.

4. And be it enacted, That in case any owner, mortgagee or judgment creditor to whom such sum in gross is awarded shall refuse to accept the same when tendered, together with such costs as may be awarded to him and to execute and acknowledge a proper receipt for the same, which may be recorded, such sum in gross and costs may be paid into said court to the clerk thereof, and the payment thereof into court shall operate in the same manner as if paid to such owner, mortgagee or judgment creditor.

5. And be it enacted, That the payment of such sum in gross shall not be held to convey any title to the land upon which such partition wall is erected, nor shall the continued erection thereof be held to give a title by adverse possession to such land, but the division line between the lands of such adjoining owners shall be and remain the same as before any proceedings were instituted.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to any case where an action in ejectment or action of tort has now been commenced in reference to such partition wall as herein described, until after such suit is determined.

7. And be it enacted, That the said court shall make such order in reference to the costs of such proceedings as to the court shall appear equitable and just.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXX.

An Act to prevent the adulteration of candy.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person shall by himself, his servant or agent, or as the servant or agent of any other person or corporation, manufacture for sale or knowingly sell or offer to sell any candy adulterated by the mixture of terra alba, barytes, talc or other mineral substance, by poisonous colors, flavors, fusil oil, intoxicants or other ingredients deleterious or detrimental to health.

2. And be it enacted, Thot every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall forfeit and pay a penalty of fifty dollars for the first offense and one hundred dollars for a second or subsequent offense; the one-half thereof to the use of the state of New Jersey and the other moiety to him who shall sue for the same, to be recovered by action upon contract in any court of record of this state together with costs of suit.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section nine of the act entitled "An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That within five days after the assessment shall have been confirmed and entered in the minutes as aforesaid, the township clerk shall deliver a certified copy of the same to the collector of taxes in such township, who shall within fifteen days after receiving the same demand payment of the sum so assessed upon the owner or owners of each lot of land by delivering to the owner of each lot, or to one of the owners of each lot residing within his township, or by leaving at the place of residence of any owner residing within his township, or by delivering to the agent of any such owner or owners, a notice in writing or printed, which notice shall set forth the name or names of the owners, a brief description of the location of such lot, the amount of the assessment, and the time when the same shall become due and payable, and if any owner or owners shall reside out of his township, the said collector shall, within the same time, send a like notice to him, her or them by mail, with postage prepaid, directed to his, her or their last known post office address; provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to townships in counties having less than fifty thousand inhabitants.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXII.

An Act to regulate the publication of financial statements in incorporated towns.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where, by any existing law, the treasurer auditor of accounts or other financial officer of any incorporated town is required to publish a monthly statement of the public finances in a newspaper circulated within said town, the said treasurer, auditor of accounts or other financial officer charged with the duty of publication shall publish all such financial statements in a daily newspaper; provided, there be a daily newspaper printed and published within any such incorporated town.

2. And be it enacted, That the monthly financial statements required to be published as aforesaid shall be inserted in such daily newspaper within fifteen days after the end of the month covered by the same, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXIII.

An Act providing for the formation and establishment of wards in certain cities of the third class in this state, and making the necessary changes in the government of the same.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for the common council or other governing body of any incorporated town or city of the third class in this state that has not been heretofore divided into wards by ordinance to divide said town or city into wards by ordinance, all of which shall be formed of contiguous territory, and with due regard to equality of population; the boundary and dividing lines of all such wards shall be properly described, and a map defining the said lines and showing the extent and boundaries of such wards shall be made and filed in the office of the city clerk, with a description or statement of such lines, all of which shall be attested and certified by the mayor of said town or city.

2. And be it enacted, That the number of wards into which such town or city shall be divided shall not exceed more than one for every five hundred voters registered at the last municipal election held in said town or city, and each fraction thereof exceeding one-half; and that said ward lines and the number of said wards when established, shall not be changed oftener than once in five years, except by the unanimous vote of the board of aldermen.

3. And be it enacted, That the several wards created as aforesaid shall constitute the election districts of said town or city; provided, however, that whenever more than six hundred votes shall be cast at any election in any of said wards or election districts, the board of aldermen may, in their discretion, divide such ward or election district into two districts, and cause boundary lines of the same to be marked on the map as hereinbefore provided.

4. And be it enacted, That there shall be elected in each of said wards two aldermen, who shall hold their office for two years and until their successors shall be elected, who, with the mayor of such town or city, shall constitute and form the government thereof in place of the government theretofore existing in such town or city, and the said mayor and board of aldermen shall be a body politic and corporate in deed, fact and name by the name, style and title of "the mayor and board of aldermen of ———," and shall have and enjoy all the rights, powers, authorities and immunities heretofore had and enjoyed by the governing bodies mentioned in the act of incorporation of said town or city; provided, however, that the mayor shall remain in office until the expiration of his present term and the recorder, aldermen and common councilmen now in office in such town or city shall remain in office as the aldermen of the wards in which they severally reside until the expiration of their present terms; and provided further, that in case of an election for two aldermen in one of such wards, one shall be elected for one year and one for two years.

5. And be it enacted, That the several county boards of registration shall appoint boards of registry and election for each of the election districts in such town or city of their respective counties, and that such boards of registry and election shall conduct all elections held in such town or city.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXIV.

An Act to authorize the common council or other governing body of certain municipalities in this state to change the time of holding the annual election therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That wherever in any incorporated town or city in this state the time for holding the annual election therein has been fixed by its charter for the second Monday in May, the common council or other governing body of said town or city may by ordinance change the day of holding said election to the first Monday in May; and after said change has been made by ordinance, as aforesaid, the said annual election shall be held on the first Monday in May in each and every year thereafter.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to enable certain municipal corporations of this state to raise increased sums of money for public purposes," approved February twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act to enable certain municipal corporations of this state to raise increased sums of money for public purposes," approved February twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where any city, town or other municipal corporation of this state, incorporated or existing under or by virtue of any special act of incorporation, is now limited by its charter or act of incorporation, or any supplement thereto, to raise by taxation in any one year, a less sum than thirty thousand dollars, it shall and may be lawful for the governing body of any such city, town or other municipal corporation, by whatever name such governing body may be called or designated, in the discretion of such governing body and by a majority vote thereof, to order and raise by taxation, in any year or years, any sum, not exceeding thirty thousand dollars, as such governing body may deem necessary and proper, anything in any such special act of incorporation, charter or supplement thereto to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXVI.

An Act to further amend "An act entitled 'An act to authorize the construction of school houses in cities of the first class in this state,'" approved February thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act to authorize the construction of school houses in cities of the first class in this state," approved February thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, which said section was amended by an act entitled "An act amending an act to authorize the construction of school houses in cities of the first class of this state," approved February thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, which amendatory act was passed April sixteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, be amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the corporate authorities of the cities of the first class of this state or the board having charge of the finances upon request of the board of education or other body having the charge of the public schools in such city of the first class, shall purchase lands and shall erect school houses thereon, and shall furnish the same from time to time, as the increase of population in any part of such city of the first class having the least school accommodations may demand; provided, however, that the expense incurred in each year shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars; and provided further, that such expenditures shall be concurred in by the city board authorized by law to make appropriations for the expense of the city government.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXVII.

An Act to enable cities of the second class to purchase land and construct and operate water works for the purpose of supplying their inhabitants with pure and wholesome water.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of any city of the second class in this state which does not own, possess, control or operate its own reservoir or water works to purchase and acquire the necessary land in or adjacent to said city for the construction of a reservoir and necessary water works, and to erect and construct on the lands so purchased, an adequate reservoir for the supplying of pure and wholesome water to such city.

2. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of connecting the said reservoir and water works with the water pipes and mains in the streets of said city, the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body shall have power to lay all necessary pipes, mains and conduits to, through and along any and all public roads, streets or thoroughfares in any village, town, township, city or other municipal division between said reservoir and said city; provided, however, that the consent of the governing body of such village, town, township, borough, city or other municipal division in which such roads, streets or thoroughfares are located shall, by proper resolution, be given, upon application in writing of such city, designating in such application the streets, roads or thoroughfares through which it is desired that said pipes, mains or conduits shall be laid.

3. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of properly connecting said reservoirs and works with the pipes and mains of any other reservoir operated by any other city or company with which said city may contract for a supply of pure and wholesome water, or with any stream, river or watershed which it may be desirable to tap for the purpose of an intake of such water to the reservoir so constructed or to be constructed by said city the said common council or board of aldermen or other governing body of such city shall have power to lay the necessary pipes, mains and conduits in, to, through and along any and all roads, streets or other thoroughfares of any village, town, township, borough, city or other municipal division, between said reservoir of any other city or water company, or the stream, river or watershed aforesaid; provided, that a designation of such streets, roads or thoroughfares shall first be presented to the governing body of such village, town, township or borough or city, and a resolution of such governing body be passed approving of such designation.

4. And be it enacted, That when constructed and in operation the reservoir, water works and other works connected with said water supply shall be and remain in the charge, custody and control of the properly-constituted water board or water commissioners, or other board of a like character having in charge the management and control of the water supply of said city.

5. And be it enacted, That if for any reason the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of such city cannot agree with the owner or owners of any lands required for the construction of such reservoir or other works connected with such water supply and necessary for the proper operation thereof, or when by reason of legal incapacity or absence of such owner or owners no such agreement can be made, a particular description of the land so required shall be given in writing, under oath or affirmation of the city engineer and the name or names of the occupant, and owner of the premises and the residence of the owner, if the same can be ascertained, to one of the justices of the supreme court, who shall cause said city to give notice thereof to the persons interested, if known and in the state, or if unknown or out of the state, to make publication thereof as he shall desire for any term not less than ten days, and to assign a particular time and place for the appointment of the commissioners hereinafter mentioned, at which time upon satisfactory evidence to him of the service or publication of such notice aforesaid, he shall appoint, under his hand and seal, three disinterested impartial and judicious freeholders, residents of the county in which the lands are situated, commissioners to examine said lands and assess the damages upon such notice to be given to the persons interested as shall be directed by the justice making the appointment, to be expressed therein not less than ten days; and it shall be the duty of the said commissioners, having first taken and subscribed an oath or affirmation before some person duly authorized to administer an oath faithfully and impartially to examine the matter in question, and to make a true report thereon according to the best of their skill and understanding, to meet at the time and place appointed and to proceed to view and examine the said land, and to make a just and equitable estimate or appraisement of the value of the same, and an assessment of damages to be paid by said city for such land, which report shall be made in writing under the hands and seals of the said commissioners or any two of them, and filed within ten days thereafter, together with the aforesaid description of the lands and the appointments and oaths and affirmations aforesaid in the clerk's office of the county in which the land is situate, to remain of record therein; and thereupon and on payment or tender of payment of the amount awarded as hereinafter provided, said city is hereby empowered to enter upon and take possession of said lands for the purposes aforesaid, and the said report or a copy thereof, certified by the clerk of said county, and proof of payment, or tender of the amount awarded, shall at all times be considered as plenary evidence of the right of such city to have, hold, use, occupy, possess and enjoy the said land, or of the said owner or owners to recover the amount of said valuation, with interest and costs, in an action of debt in any court of competent jurisdiction in a suit against the city if it neglect or refuse the same for thirty days after demand made in writing upon its common council, board of aldermen or other governing body, another said justice of the supreme court shall upon application of either party and on reasonable notice to the others, tax and allow such costs, fees and expenses to the commissioners, clerks and other persons performing any of the duties prescribed by this section as he shall think equitable and right, which shall be paid by the city; provided, that should the owner of said lands or the city feel aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners aforesaid he, she or it may appeal to the circuit court in the county wherein the said lands are situate.

6. And be it enacted, That the appeal from the decision of the commissioners shall be made in writing and in the form of a petition to said court, and filed with the clerk of the circuit court of the county where said lands are situate, and notice in writing of such appeal shall be given to the opposite party within ten days after the filing of said petition, which proceeding shall vest in the circuit court full right and power to hear and adjudge the same and to direct a proper issue for a trial of the said controversy to be formed between the parties, and to order a jury to be struck and a view of the premises to be had and the said issue to be tried at the next term of said court; and it shall be the duty of said jury to assess the value of said land and damages sustained and if they shall find a greater sum than said commissioners have awarded, the judgment thereon, with costs, shall be entered against said city; but if said jury shall be applied for by the owner of the land, and shall find a less sum than said city shall have offered or said commissioners awarded, the costs shall be paid by said applicant and deducted out of the sum found by said jury; but such application shall not prevent said city from taking said land upon filing the report aforesaid; provided, that in no case whatever shall said city enter upon or take possession of said lands until they have paid to the party or parties entitled to receive the same the amount assessed by said commissioners as the value of said lands and damages in case the report is not appealed from, or if appealed from then the amount which shall be found by the jury by whom the issue shall be tried, but in case the party or parties entitled to receive the same shall be out of the state or under any legal disability then the payment of the amount assessed or found as aforesaid into the circuit court of the county wherein such lands lie shall be deemed a legal and valid payment; and provided further, that the party or parties entitled to receive the amount assessed by said commissioners may upon tender thereof receive the same without being barred thereby from his or her appeal; and on tender or payment of the money into court in case it be refused as aforesaid or in case said city shall appeal from the finding of the commissioners, then said city upon payment of the amount so assessed or found as aforesaid into said circuit court shall be empowered to enter upon and take possession of said lands and proceed with the work of constructing said reservoir and incidental works.

7. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of defraying the cost and expense of the construction of said reservoir and incidental works, and the purchase or condemnation of the necessary lands as aforesaid and the purchase of the necessary pipes, mains and conduits as aforesaid so as to enable the said city to operate a perfect system for the supplying of pure and wholesome water to its inhabitants, it shall and may be lawful for said common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of such city, to cause to be issued under the hand of its mayor and the seal of said city bonds to an amount not to exceed the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, payable in not less than twenty years from date of issue and bearing interest at a rate not to exceed five per centum per annum, pledging the faith and credit of said city for the payment thereof, which bonds shall be sold to the highest bidder therefor; and for the purpose of retiring said bonds at maturity the assessor of said city shall cause to be inserted in the annual tax levy of each year a certain percentage on the gross value of assessable property in said city, to be appropriated on collection thereof as a sinking fund, to meet and retire said bonds as they mature, and in the order of their maturing.

8. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and they are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately, but its provisions shall remain inoperative in any such city of this state until assented to by a majority of the legal electors thereof, voting at an election to be held in said city at any time to be fixed by the board of aldermen, common council or other governing body of such city, of which election the city clerk of said city shall cause public notice to be given by advertisements, signed by himself and set up in at least twenty places in said city and published in one or more newspapers printed therein, setting forth the time and place of holding such election and published for at least six days prior to the day of election; and said election ballots shall be printed or written, or partly printed and partly written, on all of which ballots shall be the words "for the adoption by this city of the provisions of the act entitled 'An act to enable cities of the second class to purchase land and construct and operate waterworks for the purpose of supplying their inhabitants with pure and wholesome water;'" and "against the adoption by this city of the provisions of the act entitled 'An act to enable cities of the second class to purchase land and construct and operate water works for the purpose of supplying their inhabitants with pure and wholesome water;'" and the elector shall signify his election by scratching or erasing either of said propositions from his ballot as deposited in the ballot box, the ballot when counted to be counted for the unscratched or unerased proposition only, and against the scratched or erased proposition; and if a majority of the legal electors voting at said election shall cast their ballots in favor of the adoption of said act, then the said act, after the declaration of such result by the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body upon the returns submitted to said body by the election boards, shall go into effect immediately and become operative in said city.

9. And be it enacted, That said election shall be held at the usual places of holding the annual charter election said in city, and may be held upon the same day with said charter election, if desirable to said common council, board of aldermen or other governing body, and the polls shall be open during the same time as prescribed in charter elections, and said election shall be conducted by the proper election officers of said city for the time being in the manner provided by law for conducting elections, and such election officers shall return to the board of aldermen, common council or other governing body of said city, a true and correct statement in writing of the result of such election the same to be entered at large upon the minutes of said body.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act relative to corporations," approved May fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That each and every corporation, not organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey (foreign corporations), other than banking, insurance, ferry and railroad corporations shall, before transacting any business in any manner whatsoever in this state file in the department of state a copy of its charter or certificate of organization, duly attested by its president or vice president and treasurer or secretary, under its corporate seal, and a statement by the same officers also under corporate seal, setting forth the total amount of capital stock it is authorized to issue and the amount actually issued, the character of the business in which it is engaged and in which it proposes to engage within this state, a citizen or corporation of this state as its agent, upon whom legal process against such foreign corporation may be served; such citizen or corporation so designated shall have an office or place of business in this state which shall be held to be the principal place of business within this state of such foreign corporation; and the agency so designated shall continue in force until revoked in writing, and some other citizen or New Jersey corporation shall be substituted therefor; if the citizen so designated dies or removes his office, or such New Jersey corporation becomes disqualified, and such foreign corporation does not within thirty days after such death, removal or disqualification designate in like manner another citizen or New Jersey corporation upon whom process against it may be served within this state, the secretary of state shall revoke the authority of such corporation to do business within this state, and process against such corporations in actions upon any liability incurred within this state before such revocation may, after such death, removal or disqualification, and before any other designation shall have been made, be served upon the secretary of state; at the time of such service the plaintiff shall pay to the secretary of state for the use of the state two dollars, to be included in the taxable costs and disbursements of such plaintiff, and the secretary of state shall forthwith mail a copy of such notice to such corporation or the address of any officer thereof, if known to him.

2. And be it enacted, That upon filing the papers hereinbefore designated, the secretary of state shall issue to the said foreign corporation a certificate that it has complied with all the requirements of law to authorize it to transact business in this state, and that the business of such corporation to be carried on within this state is such as may be lawfully carried on by corporations incorporated under the laws of New Jersey for similar business; until such corporation so transacting business in this state shall have obtained said certificate of the secretary of state, it shall not maintain any action in this state upon any contract made by it in this state, but any lawful contract made prior to the passage of this act may be performed and enforced within this state subsequent to that date; for each certificate issued and paper filed by the secretary of state as herein provided for, he shall receive for the use of the state the sum of five dollars; provided, that all expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this act shall be paid by the secretary of state out of the fees so received.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person to act as agent or transact any business in any manner whatsoever, directly or indirectly, for or on behalf of any such corporation, until such corporation has fully complied with the requirements of this act; and whosoever shall act as agent, or transact any business for any such corporation without such corporation having first complied with the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay to the state the sum of fifty dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail of the county where such conviction is had for a period not exceeding six months.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any such foreign corporation to transact any business in any manner whatsoever, directly or indirectly, in this state before filing the instruments and obtaining the certificate provided for in sections one and two of this act; and any such corporation that transacts any business in this state either by itself or agent or agents, before complying with the provisions of this act, shall for each offense forfeit and pay to the state of New Jersey the sum of one hundred dollars.

5. And be it enacted, That every penalty provided for in this act shall be enforced, sued for and recovered in the name of the state of New Jersey by the attorney-general of this state, together with the costs of suit, and when so collected must be paid into the state treasury, and in case of the non-payment of such penalty as prescribed in the fourth section of this act, then that levy be made upon the book accounts or other assets of such offending corporation.

6. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXXIX.

An Act concerning proceedings to review judgments or other judicial proceedings of any city judge, police court or other inferi or court had for or on account of alleged violation of city ordinances or ordinances of city boards of health.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in order to establish uniformity in the premises in all the cities of this state, all judgments or other judicial proceedings of any city judge, police court or other inferior court had for or on account of alleged violation of city ordinances or ordinances of city boards of health, and whether had with or without a trial by jury, shall be reviewable by writ of certiorari, in accordance with the rules and practice of the supreme court and not otherwise.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXL.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this state," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

Whereas, After sewers are laid in the streets of cities, such streets are frequently opened and torn up for the purpose of making house connections with such sewers; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities in this state where sewers are now being built or hereafter may be built, under and by virtue of the act to which this is a supplement, the common council, board of aldermen or other municipal body, charged by law with the construction of sewers in such cities shall have power and authority to build and construct at the time of the building of such sewer, house connection from such sewer proper to the curb line of the lots fronting on the street or streets through which such sewer or sewers shall be built.

2. And be it enacted, That the costs and expenses of making such house connections shall be charged to and borne by the lots and sub-divisions of lots particularly benefited thereby, and shall be assessed against the same at the same time and by the same authority making the assessments for such sewers proper.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this state," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section twenty-two of the act entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this state," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be amended so as to read as follows:

22. And be it enacted, That in case there shall be in any city a board of assessments or commissioners of assessments, appointed by the common council and entrusted with the duty of assessing damages and benefits generally in respect of such local improvements as may be authorized by the charter of such city, or in case any city shall, by ordinance provide for the appointment of commissioners of assessments to be intrusted with the duty of assessing damages and benefits under and by virtue of this act (which ordinance all cities are hereby authorized and empowered to pass), and such commissioners shall be appointed as provided by such ordinance, it shall be lawful for said council to refer all assessments of damages and benefits authorized by this act to such board or commissioners, who shall make said assessments in the manner and according to the principles prescribed by this act; such board or commissioners may be at once sworn to make all assessments fairly and impartially, according to the best of their skill and judgment, and if so sworn need not be sworn again; they shall receive such compensation for their services under this act as shall be determined by the common council, and instead of reporting to the circuit court they shall make their report to the common council, which shall proceed to consider, review, alter, ratify and confirm the same at any meeting of which at least two weeks' previous notice, by advertisement, shall be given by the city clerk, or at any subsequent meeting; such notice shall be published at least twice in a newspaper published or circulating in said city, and shall briefly state the object of such meeting with reference to said assessment; and said council, in its discretion, shall have power to refer the matter to any committee of their own body before taking final action upon it; such report, when ratified or confirmed, shall be final and conclusive, both upon the city and upon the owner of any land affected thereby, except that any person aggrieved by an assessment of damages may appeal to the supreme court in the manner provided by section fifteen hereof; all the provisions of section fourteen hereof shall be applicable to the case of all references made under this section.

2. And be it enacted, That section thirty-five of said act be amended so as to read as follows:

35. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of defraying the costs and expenses of improvements incurred under and by virtue of this act, the common council may, if necessary, borrow money and secure the payment of the same by the notes and other temporary obligations of the city; these notes and obligations may be renewed from time to time until the work be done or the assessments for benefits confirmed; when so confirmed the common council shall provide for the costs and expenses of the improvements in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLII.

An act relating to contracts and agreements of operatives in mills, factories and other manufacturing establishments.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any operative in any mill, factory or other manufacturing establishment shall contract or agree with his or her employer, or the agent of such employer, to forfeit any part of his or her wages or pay in case he or she shall quit work or service in such mill, factory or manufacturing establishment without giving a certain specified notice of intention so to do, such operative shall, before being discharged from such work or service, be given notice thereof for the same length of time as that of the notice required of him or her as aforesaid, and in default of such notice, shall receive wages or pay for the same length of time for which his or her wages or pay would have been forfeited in case he or she had quit such work or service without notice as aforesaid; and whenever, in such case, the wages or pay of such operative shall not be a fixed sum, as, for instance, so much per day or week, then the wages or pay to be so received by such operative shall be the amount he or she might ordinarily have earned in the time for which such notice should have been given; and such operative upon making demand for such wages or pay, and a refusal to pay the same, shall be entitled to sue for and recover the same, the same as if it was due under an express contract; and if he or she shall recover judgment in such suit for such wages or pay, or for a larger amount than had been tendered him or her in case a tender had been made, then he or she shall be allowed, as part of the costs thereof, an attorney's fee, to be fixed by the court; and in case the defendant shall appeal from such judgment, and shall not be successful on such appeal, then such operative shall be allowed, as part of the costs of such appeal, an additional attorney's fee, to be fixed by the court; provided, however, that such operative shall not be entitled to receive or recover such wages or pay in consequence of having been discharged without notice as aforesaid, if he or she, by his or her misconduct in or about such work or service, or incompetency to perform properly such work or service, shall have given or afforded sufficient cause for such discharge.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of boroughs," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section nine of said act be amended so as to read as follows: that in addition to the officers above provided for, there may be appointed by the council one borough marshal, one surveyor, one solicitor, one superintendent of public roads, one police justice, who shall have like jurisdiction and exercise like powers as are now conferred upon police justices in cities of the third class in this state, and such and so many policemen and other officers as shall be deemed necessary by said council, who shall hold office for such time and perform such duties as are or may be by law or ordinance of said council, not in conflict with law, provided for.

2. And be it enacted, That this act be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLIV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act requiring contracts for the conditional sale of personal property to be recorded," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act requiring contracts for the conditional sale of personal property to be recorded," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, be and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in every contract for the conditional sale of goods and chattels hereafter made, which shall be accompanied by an actual delivery and be followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the things contracted to be sold, all conditions and reservations which provide that the ownership of such goods and chattels is to remain in the person so contracting to sell the same, or other person than the one so contracting to buy them until said goods and chattels are paid for, or until the occurring of any future event or contingency shall be absolutely void as against the judgment creditors of the person so contracting to buy the same, and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees thereof in good faith, and as to them the sale shall be deemed absolute, unless such contract for sale with such conditions and reservations therein be recorded as directed in the succeeding section of this act.

2. And be it enacted That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLV.

An Act concerning fire districts formed under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide means for protection against fires in townships," approved March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the territory included within the bounds of any fire district in this state formed under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide means for protection against fires in townships," approved March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine shall have been heretofore or be hereafter divided and formed into or made parts of two or more new municipalities, and no part of such district remain in the township of which such district when originally formed was a part, such fire district shall be and is hereby abolished, and the terms of office of the commissioners thereof terminated.

2. And be it enacted, That the governing bodies of such new municipalities and the treasurer or person having the custody of the funds and securities of such fire district shall meet at a convenient place to be designated by the clerk of either of such new municipalities upon ten days' notice mailed to or served personally upon each of the members of such governing bodies and such treasurer or custodian, and shall then and there proceed to allot and divide between or among the said municipalities all property, real and personal, money on hand, due or to become due, in proportion to the aggregate value of the buildings and contents which each shall take from the limits of such fire district at the last assessment, raising money for said fire district, the result of which allotment and division shall be reduced to writing and show the amount of the funds on hand to be paid and transferred by said treasurer or custodian or said fire district commissioners to each of said governing bodies and be signed by a majority of the members of said governing bodies present, and the inhabitants of said respective municipalities shall be liable to pay their proportion of the debts of said fire district, if any there be, and a majority of the persons comprising the said governing bodies shall constitute a quorum, and may proceed to make the said division, and their decision shall be final and conclusive; it shall be lawful to adjourn said meeting to such time or times and place or places, within either of such municipalities, as a majority of those present may deem proper; the amount to be paid or the property to be transferred to each municipality being ascertained as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the said treasurer or custodian and said fire district commissioners to forthwith pay and transfer said funds to the treasurer or custodian of the funds of said municipalities in the manner ascertained and directed.

3. And be it enacted, That the word "municipality" as used in this act shall be construed to include township, borough, borough commission, town or city.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

An Act to provide for the incorporation of pathological and anatomical associations for the advancement of medical and surgical science.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any three or more physicians duly authorized and licensed to practice medicine under the laws of the state of New Jersey, who shall desire to associate themselves together for the purpose of pathological and anatomical study and the advancement of medical and surgical science may make, record and file a certificate in writing in manner hereinafter mentioned.

2. And be it enacted, That such certificate in writing shall set forth:

I. The name or title assumed to designate such association;

II. The place or places in this state where the purposes of such association are to be carried out;

III. The purposes for which the association shall be formed;

IV. The names of the governors or directors who shall manage its affairs for the first year of its existence.

3. And be it enacted, That such certificate shall be proved or acknowledged and recorded, as is required of deeds of real estate, in a book to be kept for the recording of certificates of incorporation in the office of the clerk of the county where the purposes of such association are to be carried out, and after being so recorded shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state; the said certificate, or a copy thereof, duly certified by said clerk or secretary, shall be evidence in all courts or places.

4. And be it enacted, That upon making such certificate and causing the same to be recorded and filed as aforesaid, the said physicians so associating, their successors and assigns, shall, by virtue of this act, be a body politic and corporate in fact and in law, by the name stated in such certificate and by that name they and their successors shall have perpetual succession and power to sue and to be sued, plead and be impleaded answer and be answered unto, in all courts and places whatsoever, to make and use a common seal, and the same to use at pleasure and take, have, hold, receive and enjoy any lands, tenements or hereditaments in fee simple or otherwise, and any goods, chattels or property of any description, real or personal, and whether acquired by gift, grant, devise, bequest or otherwise, and the same to grant, convey, lease, assign, sell or otherwise dispose of for the purpose of said association.

5. And be it enacted, That the directors or governors of such association shall have power from time to time to make, alter and amend by-laws not inconsistent with the constitution of the United States or of this state, fixing or altering the number of its governors or directors for the management of its property and the regulation and government of its affairs and providing for the mode of filling vacancies in and removing any member from their number and prescribing qualifications for membership of the association and to appoint such agents and officers as shall in their judgment tend to promote or advance any purpose of the association and to prescribe their respective duties.

6. And be it enacted, That no governor or director of any association organized under this act shall receive, directly or indirectly, any salary or emoluments from such association, nor shall any compensation whatever be voted, allowed or paid by the governors or directors thereof, to any governor or director for services, either as governor or director, or in any other capacity.

7. And be it enacted, That the property of any association organized under this act and held for its purposes to an amount not exceeding five thousand dollars shall not be liable to the imposition of any taxes.

8. And be enacted, That whenever any association shall be formed or organized under this act in any county of this state, all public officers, agents and servants, and all officers, agents and servants of any such county or of any city, township, borough, district and other municipality and of any and every almshouse, prison, morgue, hospital or other public institution in such county, having charge or control over dead human bodies required to be buried at the public expense, are hereby required to notify the president or other head officer of any such association or such person or persons as may, from time to time, be designated by said association as its duly authorized officer or agent, whenever any such body or bodies come to his or their possession or control, and shall, if such association or its duly authorized officer or agent request it, without fee or reward, deliver such body or bodies, and permit such association and its duly authorized officers or agents, who may comply with the provisions of this act, to take and remove all such bodies, to be used within this state for the advancement of medical and surgical science; but no such notice need be given, nor shall any such body be delivered, if any person claiming to be, and satisfying the authorities in charge of said body that he or she is of kindred or is related by marriage to the deceased, shall claim the said body for burial, but it shall be surrendered for interment; nor shall the notice be given or body delivered, if such deceased person was a traveller who died suddenly, in which case the said body shall be buried.

9. And be it enacted, That the said association may employ a carrier or carriers for the conveyance of said bodies, which shall be well inclosed within a suitable encasement and carefully deposited free from public observations; the drivers or persons in charge of such carrier or carriers shall obtain receipts by name, or, if the person be unknown by a description of each body delivered by him, and shall deposit said receipts with the person or persons in charge of the institution from which the said body was taken.

10. And be it enacted, That no association organized under this act shall be allowed or permitted to receive any such body or bodies until a bond shall have been given to the state of New Jersey by the said association, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the clerk of the court of common pleas of the county in which such association shall be organized, and shall be filed with the said clerk of said court, which bond shall be in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned that all such bodies which the said association shall receive shall be used only for the promotion of medical and surgical science within the state; and whosoever shall sell or buy such body or bodies, or in any way traffic in the same, or shall transmit or convey, or cause or procure to be transmitted or conveyed, said body or bodies to any place outside this state, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars or by imprisonment at hard labor for a term not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

11. And be it enacted, That neither the state nor any county or municipality, nor any officer, agent or servant thereof, shall be at any expense by reason of the delivery or distribution of any such body or bodies, but all the expense thereof shall be paid by the association receiving said body or bodies.

12. And be enacted, That whenever more than one association shall be organized under this act within the same county it shall become the duty of the board of governors or directors of each association so as aforesaid organized within the same county to appoint two of their own number, who together shall constitute a board of distribution of dead human bodies, subject to delivery to such associations under the provisions of this act, which board of distribution shall be notified, as provided in the eighth section of this act, whenever any body or bodies may be subject to delivery under the provisions of this act, and it shall be the duty of said board of distribution to distribute the bodies which may from time to time be so delivered to it under the provisions of this act equally and in just rotation among the different associations organized under this act.

13. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for any association organized under this act to apply for and to receive from any county in this state dead human bodies which may be required to be buried at the public expense and which shall not be claimed by any kindred or relation, as provided in the eighth section of this act, and it shall be lawful for any public officer or agent or any person in charge of a public institution as enumerated and set forth in the eighth section of this act, to deliver such human body or bodies under the restrictions of said eighth section of this act, to any association organized under this act in any county in this state; provided, however, that when any such association shall have been organized in any any county, no body or bodies shall be removed to another county without the association or associations within said county having had an opportunity to receive said body or bodies.

14. And be it enacted, That any person having duties enjoined upon him by the provisions of this act, who shall neglect, refuse or omit to perform the same as hereinbefore required, shall, on conviction thereof, be liable to fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each offense.

15. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

16. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXII

An Act to amend an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the formation and government of boroughs,' ap- [illegible] hundred and ninety-one," which supplement was approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section ten of said supplement to said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

10. And be it enacted, That if any borough which is incorporated under the act to which this act is a supplement, shall have heretofore constructed, under contract made by the mayor and council of said borough, a sewer, which has, in fact, been accepted by the mayor and council of said borough, and for the payment of the cost of construction of which bonds of said borough have been issued, or shall have begun proceedings for the purpose of constructing sewers or drains as they are empowered by said act to do, all such proceedings, including the assessment to provide for the payment and redemption of said bonds heretofore made, or that may be made in conformity with this act so far as the same is applicable thereto, shall have as full legal effect as if they had been taken in conformity with all the provisions of said supplemental act.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXIII.

An Act concerning registrar of vital statistics in cities of the second class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the second class of this state having over fifty thousand inhabitants the clerk of the city council, board of aldermen or other governing body shall be registrar of vital statistics.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXIV.

An act to provide means to increase the fish production of the waters of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That for the purpose of continuing the work of stocking the waters of this state with food fishes, there is hereby appropriated the sum of five thousand dollars which, or any portion thereof necessary, shall be paid by the state treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, with the assent of the governor to the fish and game commissioners of this state upon their request, to be by them expended in defraying the cost of leasing and maintaining a hatchery, and for procuring, hatching and distributing valuable food fishes to stock the rivers, streams, lakes and ponds of this state, and for such other purposes as they may deem advisable to restore and increase the fish production of the waters of this state; provided, one thousand dollars of this appropriation be expended for the propagation of shad in the Delaware river; and provided, that for all moneys expended by said fish and game commissioners vouchers shall be filed with the comptroller, verified as said comptroller shall direct.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act for the protection of shad, sturgeon and game fish in the Delaware river.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of an act entitled "An act for the protection of shad, sturgeon and game fish in the river Delaware," approved the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, which reads as follows:

"2. And be it enacted, That hereafter no person or persons shall cast, set, draw, fasten or otherwise make use of any fyke-net, or nets of any kind or device, made from cotton or flax twine or wire-netting similar to a fyke-net, for the purpose of catching fish in the Delaware river above Trenton falls at any time in any year; every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the magistrate or court before which such offender or offenders shall be convicted, and the net or nets, devices or appliances used shall be destroyed by the officer making the arrest," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That hereafter no person or persons shall cast, set, draw, fasten or otherwise make use of any fyke-net, or nets of any kind or device, made from cotton or flax-twine or wire-netting similar to a fyke-net, for the purpose of catching fish in the Delaware river above Trenton falls at any time in any year; every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine of one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding six months, and the net or nets, devices or appliances used shall be destroyed by the officer making the arrest.

2. And be it enacted, That section four of said act, approved the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, which reads as follows:

"4. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to place, build, erect, fasten or use any fish-baskets, gill-nets, pound-nets, fyke-nets, eel-weirs, kiddles, brush or facine nets, or any permanently set means for taking fish in the river Delaware above Trenton falls; nor shall any person at any time affix any nets, fish-baskets, fyke-nets, eel racks or any kind of appliances or set means of taking fish to any wing-walls in the river Delaware above Trenton falls; nor shall any person or persons erect, build or place, or cause to be erected, built or placed, any wing-wall or walls of stone, or of any other substance or material, in the river Delaware above Trenton falls for the purpose of affixing, adjusting, placing or setting thereto, or adjacent thereto, any of the above mentioned illegal devices, contrivances or appliances for taking fish; any person violating the provisions of this law shall be fined fifty dollars for the first offense, and be liable to imprisonment for one month in the county jail or both, at the discretion of the magistrate before whom the offender is convicted, and any person or persons so offending a second time shall be liable to a fine of one hundred dollars and imprisonment for three months in the county jail," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to place, build, erect, fasten or use any fish baskets, gill-nets, pound-nets, fyke-nets, eel-weirs, kiddles, brush or facine-nets, or any permanently set means for taking fish in the river Delaware above Trenton falls; nor shall any person at any time affix any nets, fish-baskets, fyke-nets, eel-racks, or any kind of appliances or set means of taking fish to any wing-walls in the river Delaware above Trenton falls; nor shall any person or persons erect, build, or place, or cause to be erected, built or placed, any wing-wall, or walls of stone or of any other substance or material, in the river Delaware above Trenton falls, for the purpose of fixing, adjusting, placing or setting thereto, or adjacent thereto, any of the above-mentioned illegal devices, contrivances, or appliances, for taking fish; any person violating the provisions of this law shall be fined fifty dollars for the first offense, and be liable to imprisonment for one month in the county jail, and any person or persons so offending a second time shall be fined one hundred dollars and imprisoned for three months in the county jail.

3. And be it enacted, That section seven of said act, approved the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, which reads as follows:

"7. And be it enacted, That no person shall catch or kill in the Delaware river any black bass or wall-eyed pike under six inches in length, or any rock bass under five inches in length, under a penalty of ten dollars for every fish so caught; but should any such fish be taken of less size than the above, or should any wall-eyed pike or rock bass of any size be taken within two years from the passage of this act, it shall be the duty of any one taking or capturing the same to return the fish immediately to the water from whence taken; any violation of this law shall subject the offender to a penalty of ten dollars for each and every fish so caught," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

7. And be it enacted, That no person shall catch or kill in the Delaware river any black bass or wall-eyed pike under nine inches in length, or any rock bass under five inches in length, under a penalty of ten dollars for every fish so caught; but should any such fish be taken of less size than the above, or should any wall-eyed pike or rock bass of any size be taken within two years from the passage of this act, it shall be the duty of any one taking or capturing the same to return the fish immediately to the water from whence taken; any violation of this law shall subject the offender to a penalty of ten dollars for each and every fish so caught.

4. And be it enacted, That section nine of said act, approved the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, which reads as follows:

"9. And be it enacted, That any fish commissioner, fish warden, deputy warden, sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, policeman, or any special officer of this commonwealth, is hereby authorized to destroy any fish-basket, eel-weir, fyke-net, pound-net, shore-net, drift-net, dip-net, wing-wall or wing-walls, or any illegal devices named in any section of this act, and they are hereby authorized to arrest forthwith any person placing, erecting, using or fastening them; any person or persons interfering with any of the above officers in the discharge of their duties, or resisting arrest, shall pay a fine of one hundred dollars and be imprisoned three months in the county jail, or shall be subject to both penalties at the discretion of the magistrate or court before which he or they shall be convicted," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That any fish commissioner, fish warden, deputy warden, sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, policeman or any special officer of this commonwealth, is hereby authorized to destroy any fish-basket, eel-weir, fyke-net, pound-net, shore-net, drift-net, dip-net, wing wall or wing-walls, or any illegal devices named in any section of this act, and they are hereby authorized to arrest forthwith any person placing, erecting, using or fastening them; any person or persons interfering with any of the above officers in the discharge of their duties, or resisting arrest, shall pay a fine of one hundred dollars and be imprisoned three months in the county jail.

5. And be it enacted, That provided the alterations and amendments herein provided for shall not be operative until the legislature of the state of Pennsylvania shall approve the same in whole or in part by enacting laws similar in effect as herein provided.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXVI.

An Act to provide for the fitting commemoration of the part played by the New Jersey troops in the campaigns of Chattanooga and Chickamauga and for suitable representation of the state at the national dedication of the Chattanooga and Chickamauga national military parks on September nineteenth and twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the commissioners who may have been heretofore or who may be hereafter appointed under and by virtue of the provisions of chapter one hundred and twenty-one of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, shall suitably mark by tablets the positions occupied by each regiment, battery, and independent organization from the state of New Jersey, in the battles which took place during the campaigns of Chattanooga and Chickamauga.

2. And be it enacted, That in order that the state of New Jersey may be suitably represented at the national dedication of the Chattanooga and Chickamauga military park on September nineteenth and twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, the commissioners previously referred to in this act are hereby authorized and directed to furnish suitable transportation and hotel accommodation for the governor of the state and his staff, such state officers as the governor may designate, the president of the senate and two members of the senate to be designated by the president, the speaker of the house of assembly and four members of the house of assembly, to be designated by the speaker, to and from the said Chattanooga and Chickamauga military park.

3. And be it enacted, That in order to defray the expenses incurred by the commissioners in carrying into effect the provisions of this bill, the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars or so much thereof as may be needed, is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the hands of the treasurer not otherwise appropriated, which said sum or so much thereof as may be needed shall be paid to the said commissioners upon the warrant of the comptroller.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXVII.

An Act respecting the paving, repaving, grading, curbing, sewering and otherwise improving of streets and public highways in cities of the first class in this state, and providing for the payment of the same, and further providing that the assessments upon property for special benefits shall be payable in full or on installments, at the option of the property owner.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in addition to any power now vested in any board or body having control of the streets and highways of any city of the first class of this state, said board or body shall have further power, either upon the application of any owner or owners of property liable to assessment for any contemplated improvement, or in their discretion, to pave, repave, grade, curb, sewer or otherwise improve any street, avenue or public highway in such city under the provisions of this act, and all proceedings taken hereunder shall refer to this act by its chapter number, and this act shall not be exclusive, nor affect the right of such board or body to proceed as heretofore under existing laws governing the subject-matter named in the title and sections of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That when in the judgment of said board or body it is desirable that any improvement contemplated by this act should be made, then said board or body may direct their proper officers to prepare specifications describing therein the location and character of such improvement, together with a preliminary estimate of the amount of materials required therefor, which when so prepared, presented to and adopted by said board or body shall be filed, and upon the filing thereof the officer or officers now performing a similar duty in such city shall cause to be placed in the daily official newspapers of said city for five consecutive insertions, and in any weekly official newspapers in said city for one insertion, an advertisement soliciting proposals for the doing of the work and for the furnishing of the materials necessary to complete the improvement, and when such proposals shall be presented said board or body may, at the time of such presentation, or at any time thereafter, not exceeding six months, at some public meeting of said board, either reject any or all of said proposals or proceed to award a contract therefor in such manner as is now prescribed by law in any said city for the making of improvements where the cost thereof, either in whole or in part, is payable by assessments for special benefits on property benefited thereby; which award of contract shall be provisional and shall impose no duty or liability upon such city, unless it shall be finally made by such board or boards, as hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That when a contract shall be awarded provisionally as herein provided, such board or body shall cause to be prepared by the commissioners of assessments or the officer or officers now performing a similar duty in such city, a preliminary sketch or map based upon said award of such contract and the amount of materials estimated as aforesaid, which shall show the probable total cost of such contemplated improvement, and the probable amount to be assessed upon the property specially benefited thereby; and upon the filing of such preliminary sketch the officer or officers now performing a similar duty in such city shall thereupon cause to be published in the official newspapers of such city a notice to parties interested in said proposed improvement of the time and place for hearing parties in objection thereto; said notice shall be inserted in the official daily newspapers of such city for a period of five days, and in any weekly official newspaper for one insertion, all prior to the time named in said notice for such hearing; and at such time and place said board or body shall proceed to hear and adjudicate upon any objections which may be presented, and no improvement shall be proceeded with under the provisions of this act, if objections thereto, in writing, are presented to said board or body representing properties liable to more than one-half of the probable assessment for said improvement, on the basis of the preliminary sketch; in case objections shall not be so presented, or if, in the opinion of said board or body, a sufficient reason has not been presented for stopping said improvement, an award of such provisional contract shall be then finally made; provided, however, that in case a contract is now required to be concurred in by the board or body now having a concurring power in the award of contracts relating to assessable improvements, such concurrence shall not be dispensed with.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the said city to pay for such work and materials by temporary loan bonds or improvement certificates, which bonds or certificates shall, upon their face, indicate the improvement for the payment of which and the date of the contract in pursuance of which they are so issued, by virtue of the provisions of this act; and it shall be the duty of the proper officer or officers of such city to keep a record of all bonds or certificates so issued, which said bonds or certificates shall be payable at the option of the city, and within six years from the date thereof, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, from the first day of January or July next succeeding the day of issue that the said bonds or certificates shall, as far as practicable, be issued in sums and for amounts of one hundred dollars and multiples thereof, and shall be negotiable, and shall not be subject to defense by the city causing the same to be issued; except such defense as might be interposed to the payment of bonds issued in such city for like improvements, and such bonds or certificates shall not be subject to taxation in the hands of the holder; and in case the amount assessed for special benefits on the property specially benefited does not equal the whole cost of the improvement, and any portion of the cost of such improvement is required to be borne by the city at large, said city shall provide for the payment thereof in such manner as is now provided by law in such city for payments where any part of the cost of an improvement proposed to be paid by assessments upon property specially benefited is placed upon the city at large.

5. And be it enacted, That upon the completion of the work done by contract as herein provided, the said board or body having control of streets and highways in such city shall cause to be filed with the commissioners of assessments or the officer or officers now levying assessments upon property specially benefited by an improvement, a statement showing the entire cost of said improvement, and such commissioners of assessment or officer or officers shall proceed to make the assessment, and prepare a report and map showing the benefit to each lot or parcel of land which is specially benefited by reason of the making of the improvement; and said assessment, when so made, shall be filed with the clerk of the board or body making the improvement, whereupon notices by publication shall be given to the owners of the property liable to assessment for said improvement, which said notices shall name the time and place for the hearing of objections, and shall be published in such manner and for such length of time as heretofore provided in this act for the notice of hearing the preliminary map or sketch, and at the time and place so fixed in said notice, said board or body shall then proceed to hear and adjudicate upon all objections which may be presented in writing against the confirmation of final assessment, and said board or body shall have the authority to confirm the same as a whole or refer the same back to the said commissioners of assessments, officer or officers making the same for further consideration, and the proceedings thereon shall be conducted in the same manner as the making of the original assessment, and the final action thereon shall be shown in the resolution of confirmation; and a copy of said final assessment map, on which shall be stated the date of confirmation, shall be then filed with the officer or officers upon whom devolves the duty of collection of assessments in any such city.

6. And be it enacted, That after the confirmation of the said assessment as herein provided, the property owner or owners shall have five years from the date when the annual tax is payable next after the making of the aforesaid assessment in which to pay for the said improvement; the amount assessed against each piece of property shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of confirmation; and such payment may be made immediately after confirmation or in five equal annual installments as follows: the first installment is to be due and payable when the annual tax is payable next after the making of the aforesaid assessment and confirmation, and each installment thereafter shall be due and payable on and after the date of payment of annual taxes of each year in said city, together with interest computed at the rate aforesaid upon the unpaid balance of such assessment; and the property owner or owners shall at any time after the aforesaid confirmation have the right to pay the said assessment or any amount remaining unpaid thereon with interest as aforesaid from the date of confirmation to date of payment; all payments herein provided for shall be paid to the official or officials authorized to receive the payment of assessments in such city.

7. And be it enacted, That all property against which such assessment is made shall be subject, as to each annual installment, to the laws now in force for the collection of taxes and assessments, and all such assessments and installments shall be enforced and collected in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for the collection of taxes and assessments; and it shall be lawful for such city, through its proper board, to provide by ordinance or resolution for such enforcement and collection, in accordance with the provisions of this act and the laws of this state.

8. And be it enacted, That in order to take advantage of the provisions of this act, and put and keep the same in operation in such city, such board or body ordering the contract work herein authorized shall pass a resolution, including therein an itemized statement of the cost of advertising done as herein directed, and any and all costs not herein mentioned, and which may have been necessarily incurred to carry out the provisions of this act, which statement shall not include any amount of said cost as before referred to, which represents any amount placed upon the city at large by reason of the assessments on property specially benefited by the improvement not equaling the cost of the said improvement, and shall forward such resolution and statement to the board or body in such city having the control of the finances thereof; and such last-named board or body shall borrow such sum or sums of money so included in such resolution and statement in anticipation of the collection of taxes to be thereafter levied, and to issue evidences of indebtedness therefor at a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum per annum; provided, that any money borrowed as aforesaid shall be met and paid by an appriation to that board having borrowed the money as aforesaid, the same to be placed in the tax levy next thereafter to be levied in any such city.

9. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and incorporation of insurance companies," approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any insurance company not organized under the laws of this state and doing business under or by virtue of the laws of any state or territory of the United States or District of Columbia or foreign country for the purpose of insuring the lives of domestic animals upon the mutual or co-operative assessment plan, may be admitted to transact business in this state by obtaining a certificate of authority from the commissioner of insurance of this state as hereinafter provided; such foreign corporation or association shall furnish to the commissioner of insurance of this state satisfactory evidence that such company has bona fide insurance in force among its members to the amount of not less than three thousand dollars and shall furnish to the commissioner of insurance of this state a certified copy of its articles of association or charter and its by-laws, together with a sworn statement of its business of the preceding year, giving in detail the same formation as is required by annual statements of like corporations organized under the laws of this commonwealth, together with a copy of its certificate or policy and certificates under oath of its president and secretary that it has in force policies of insurance on which the proceeds of one assessment not exceeding in amount one and one-half per centum of the face value of policy will pay the highest amount insured upon the life of each animal for which the assessment is levied; the full amount agreed to be paid upon the death of any one animal, and that it is paying, and for the twelve months preceding has paid, the highest amount named in its policies or certificates in full; such foreign corporation or association shall also appoint some citizen and resident of this state its attorney, upon whom all process against said corporation or association may be served, and shall also agree that such service may be made upon the commissioner of insurance of this state, who shall be deemed its agent for that purpose, and shall also file with the commissioner of insurance for this state a certified copy of resolution adopted at a special or regular meeting of the board of directors of the corporation or association authorizing the appointment of such attorney; and such agent or commissioner shall immediately mail to the secretary of the corporation or association a certified copy of the process thus served; such foreign corporation or association shall also furnish to the commissioner of insurance of this state a certificate from the insurance department, if any, of its home state or territory of the United States or District of Columbia or foreign country, that it is authorized to do business in such home state or territory of the United States, or District of Columbia, or foreign country.

2. And be it enacted, That upon compliance with the provisions of the preceding section and the payment to the commissioner of insurance for the use of the state a fee of one hundred dollars, he shall issue to the corporation or association so complying, a certificate of authority to do business in this commonwealth for a period of one year from the first day of January of the year of its issue unless the same be sooner revoked.

3. And be it enacted, That no person shall, within this state, act as agent, solicitor, officer, trustee or otherwise in receiving or procuring application for live stock insurance in any assessment or co-operative corporation or association, and no person shall collect, receive or remit any money or assessment or otherwise for any company not authorized to do business in this state, and any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall, for each offense, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and cost of prosecution or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed three months; or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

4. And be it enacted, That the business year of every corporation or association doing business in this state under and by virtue of the provisions of this act shall close on the thirty-first day of December in each year, and every such corporation or association shall within sixty days thereafter prepare, under oath of the president and secretary, and file in the office of the commissioner of insurance of this state a detailed statement, showing its assets, how invested, liabilities, receipts from assessments and all other sources, and an itemized account of all expenditures, amount of policies or certificates in force, death losses and benefits paid, death losses reported, but not paid, death losses contested, and that it still has in force among its members bona fide insurance to the amount as required by section one of this act, and shall answer such other questions as the commissioner, who shall furnish blanks for the purpose, may require, in order to ascertain its true financial condition, and the commissioner may at any time make or cause to be made an examination of the affairs of any such corporation or association doing business under this act at the expense of such corporation or association.

5. And be it enacted, That upon the filing of any annual statement, if the commissioner shall find that the corporation or association making the same is still organized and doing business in conformity to the provisions of this act, he shall, upon the payment of the fee of one hundred dollars, as hereinbefore provided, issue his certificate authorizing such corporation or association to do business in this commonwealth for a further period of one year, unless sooner revoked.

6. And be it enacted, That whenever any corporation doing business under or by virtue of the provisions of this act shall fail to make the annual statement required by this act, or whenever the commissioner of insurance shall, after a full examination of its affairs, find sufficient evidence that such corporation or association is conducting its business fraudulently, or not in compliance with the provisions of this act, or is not carrying out its contracts with its members in good faith, he shall immediately report to the attorney general such evidence and copies of any papers, statements or reports in his office relating to the matter; upon receiving such papers, evidence, statements and reports, the attorney general, if he is satisfied from the evidence, papers, statements and reports that such corporation is conducting its business fraudulently, or not in compliance with the provisions of this act, or is not carrying out its contracts with its members in good faith, shall immediately notify the corporation or association to cease doing business in this state, under penalties prescribed by law; he shall also instruct the prosecuting attorneys of the proper counties to prosecute for all violations of this act.

7. And be it enacted, That every policy or certificate issued to policy or certificate holders in this commonwealth by any corporation or association doing business under the provisions of this act, shall specify the sum which the insured shall be entitled to recover upon the death of the animal or animals described in said policy or certificate, and shall set forth a definite time for the payment of losses so incurred; no policy or certificate issued by any corporation or association doing business under the provisions of this act shall be cancelled for the non-payment of any assessment without first having given notice by letter to the holder of such policy or certificate, at his or last-known post office address, the following notice: You are hereby notified that an assessment of ——— per centum, amounting to ——— dollars, levied upon you, ——— has not been paid; unless the amount due for said assessment is paid within ten days from the date hereof, your policy or certificate will be cancelled.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXIX.

An Act to provide for the annexation of additional territory to cities of the third class and incorporated towns.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That one or more persons living and owning land adjacent to any city of the third class or incorporated town, may have their said lands annexed to and become part of such city or town by presenting a written request to the mayor and board of aldermen or other governing body of such city or incorporated town, specifically setting forth the boundaries of the additional territory so sought to be annexed, signed by persons owning at least sixty per centum of the assessed value of the lands therein described, as shown by the assessor's duplicate for the preceding year; which request shall be duly verified and shall have attached thereto the oath of the assessor of the township, or townships in which said lands are located, or of some other person having access to such assessor's books, setting forth the assessed value of the real estate contained within such boundaries for the preceding year, and the amount of real estate assessed to the persons whose names are signed to such request; and the mayor and board of aldermen or other governing body of such city or incorporated town by a two-thirds vote may in their discretion by ordinance annex the territory specifically described in said request to such city or town; and in case such city or incorporated town is divided into wards shall also in such ordinance designate the ward or wards to which said territory shall become a part, but in all cases the annexed territory shall become part of the ward or wards to which it is contiguous; provided, however, that the boundaries of such city or incorporated town shall not be extended so to include a portion of any county other than that in which such city or town is located.

2. And be it enacted, That after the passage of such ordinance, the territory set forth in said request shall become a part of such city or incorporated town and subject to all the laws and ordinances regulating and governing the same.

3. And be it enacted, That in case such city or incorporated town is divided into wards, and has a map defining the lines and showing the extent and boundaries of such wards filed in the office of the clerk of such city or town, the mayor or presiding officer shall forthwith cause the territory so annexed as aforesaid to be plotted upon said map, showing the extent and boundaries of the ward or wards to which said annexed territory has by such ordinance been added.

4. And be enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXX.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "An act to enable boards of chosen freeholders to acquire, improve and maintain public roads," approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the boards of chosen freeholders in the several counties of this state that heretofore have acquired or hereafter may acquire, improve and maintain roads under the provisions of the act and its supplements and amendments, to which this is a further supplement, to enter into contract for the supplying and furnishing of the whole or any part of the materials necessary in constructing, improving and maintaining the roads adopted or to be adopted as county roads under the provisions of said act; that whenever in the opinion of said board it is desirable to furnish or supply material for the whole or any portion of the work, said material shall be furnished under contract with said board, and a notice, specifying the kind and as near as may be the quantity of materials required and the points or places where the same is to be delivered, and inviting bids or propositions to furnish the same, shall be published for at least three weeks once in each week in two or more of the newspapers circulated in the county where said materials are to be used; said materials shall in all cases be subject to the inspection and approval of the county engineer, and shall conform in all respects to the specifications and other requirements of the contract; the person or corporation whose bid is accepted shall enter into bond to the county in such sum and with such sureties as the board may require, conditioned for the due and faithful performance of the contract, and said bond and contract shall be held by the county collector.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate elections," approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where the electors of two or more counties are authorized or required by law to elect any person to an office in or for such counties, it shall be the duty of the board of county canvassers in each of the counties constituting such election district to canvass the vote cast for any and all persons for such office at the time and in the manner that votes are required to be canvassed for county officers, and prepare a statement in duplicate of the number of votes cast for each person or persons for such office, which statement shall be certified by the chairman of the board of county canvassers as in other cases; that one of such duplicates shall be filed forthwith in the office of the clerk of the county, and the other within seven days thereafter, shall be sent by mail to the secretary of the state, to be filed by him in his office; and upon receiving such statements from each of the counties constituting such election districts, the secretary of state shall ascertain therefrom what person has received the greatest number of votes for such office, and shall make a certificate thereof and file the same in his office, and deliver a copy thereof certified by him under the seal of his office, to such person on application; and when such person shall produce such copy before the governor, he shall be entitled forthwith to a commission for the office to which he has been elected.

2. And be it enacted, That the circuit court of any county constituting such election district shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all cases in which the election of any person to such office shall be contested, and the proceedings in such cases shall be conducted in the manner provided by law in case of a contested election of a county officer.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXII.

An act concerning certain cities of the second class, permitting the consolidation of offices and relating to the election, appointment, terms, duties and compensation of officers.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of any city of the second class in this state, having a population of less than thirty-five thousand, shall have power from time to time, by ordinance or ordinances, to consolidate any two public offices of said city or of any of its departments and enact that the duties of the offices so consolidated shall thereafter be performed by one and the same person, and shall have power by such ordinance or ordinances to fix and determine the nature of said duties, to designate the name or names by which said offices shall be known when consolidated to fix the length of the term for which the holder thereof shall be elected or appointed, which shall in no case exceed the term of two years, to determine the amount and nature of the bond to be required from the holder of such offices when consolidated, if any, the compensation to be paid him and the time and manner of paying the same, which compensation shall be a definite salary and shall in no case exceed the compensation formerly allowed the officer holding the one of said offices so consolidated, for which the greater compensation or salary was formerly paid.

2. And be it enacted, That such common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body in any such city shall also have power, from time to time, by ordinance or ordinances, to fix and determine the duties appertaining to any public office therein or in any department thereof; the compensation that shall be paid any person holding any such office and the time and manner of paying the same, which compensation shall be a definite salary and may be fixed at any amount not exceeding the amount now allowed said officers respectively, the term for which they shall be elected or appointed, which shall in no case exceed the term of two years, and the amount and nature of the bond to be required from such officer, if any.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall be construed to apply to and include all offices in any such city or in any of its departments the salary or compensation of which is paid directly or indirectly from the funds of said city, and all offices therein the holders of which are chosen by the electors of said city at its charter elections or by said common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body or by any board, commissioners or similar public body of said city, the members of which are chosen by said common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body, excepting only the members of the board of education of any such city and all persons employed as principals, teachers or janitors in the public schools of said city; that any two of said offices may be consolidated as provided for in the first section of this act, and if any office, the holder of which now is chosen by the electors of said city, at its charter election, shall be consolidated with one formerly filled in some other manner, then such consolidated offices, by the name or names to be chosen to designate them as above set forth, shall be filled in the usual manner by the electors of such city at its charter elections, and if any office, the holder of which is now chosen by said common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body aforesaid, shall be consolidated with one, the holder of which is now chosen by said board, commissioners or similar public body aforesaid, then such consolidated offices, by the name or names to be chosen to designate them, as above set forth, shall be filled by the said common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body, but where both of the offices so consolidated were formerly filled in the same manner by the same body or persons, then no change shall be made in the manner of filling the same when they are consolidated.

4. And be it enacted, That such common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of said city, after passing any ordinance or ordinances which they are authorized to pass by this act, may declare vacant and vacate any and all officers in relation to which such ordinance or ordinances shall have been passed, and persons may then be chosen, in the manner above set forth, to fill such offices under the terms and provisions of such ordinance or ordinances at the compensation therein fixed; provided, however, that persons holding offices to which they have been elected directly by the electors of such city at its charter election, may continue in office during the term for which they were elected under the terms existing at the time of their said election.

5. And be it enacted, That the entry upon the duties of any such office or offices by any person duly chosen thereto shall be construed to be an acceptance of the duties of said office or offices, as determined by said ordinance or ordinances, at the compensation therein fixed, anything in the charter of any such city or any supplement thereto or amendment thereof, or in any general or special law, to the contrary notwithstanding.

6. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect on the fifteenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Passed March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXV.

An Act to provide for the appointment of commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That within ten days after the passage of this act the governor shall appoint, by and with the consent of the senate, three commissioners, who are hereby constituted a board of commissioners by the name and style of "commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States;" it shall be the duty of said board to examine the subjects of marriage and divorce, insolvency, insurance, the form of notarial certificates and other subjects; to ascertain the best means to effect an assimilation and uniformity in the laws of the state, and especially to consider whether it will be wise and practicable for the state of New Jersey to invite the other states of the union to send representatives to a convention to draft uniform laws to be submitted for the approval and adoption of the several states and to devise and recommend such other course of action as shall best accomplish the purpose of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall hold office for a term not exceeding five years; no member of said board shall receive any compensation for his services as commissioner, but each commissioner shall be entitled to receive his actual disbursements in performing the duties of his office; in case any of the persons so appointed as above will not undertake the office of this commission or in case of a vacancy in said board such vacancy shall be filled by the governor.

3. And be it enacted, That said board may employ such persons and incur such expenses as will be necessary to the performance of their duties, but the total annual expense of said board shall not exceed the sum of one thousand dollars.

4. And be it enacted, That the sum of one thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, payable out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated annually, subject to the audit of the comptroller, to carry out the provisions of this act, and the same shall be payable by the treasurer to the said commissioners.

5. And be it enacted, That said board shall report to the senate at the next session thereof an account of its transaction and its advice and recommendations as required by section one of this act.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXIX.

An Act to authorize the town committee or other legislative or governing body of any township, borough or borough commission to alter, fix, establish and maintain the grade of any street, road or highway within its jurisdiction and define the grade so established by suitable monuments.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for the town committee or other legislative or governing body (by whatever name the same may be called) of any township, borough or borough commission, by ordinance to alter, fix, establish or maintain the grade of any street, road or highway within its jurisdiction, so that surface water may flow thereon with the least obstruction and with as little damage to private property as possible.

2. And be it enacted, That when the grade of any street, road or highway shall have been so altered, fixed and established, such town committee or other legislative or governing body shall cause such grade to be marked by monuments at suitable and convenient distances, and any and all subsequent improvements and repairs to any such street, road or highway shall conform to such grade, and it shall be unlawful to change, alter or disturb any grade so established and fixed without authority from such town committee or other legislative or governing body.

3. And be it enacted, That the expense of altering, fixing and establishing any such grade and marking the same by monuments as aforesaid, shall be paid by the proper officer, upon the order of such town committee or other legislative or governing body, from any moneys raised in such township, borough or borough commission for the repair of streets, roads or highways.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXIII.

An Act to provide for the permanent improvement of public roads in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the board of chosen freeholders of any county in this state shall, by resolution, have declared their intention to cause any particular road, or section thereof, within such county to be improved under the provisions of this act, such board shall cause all necessary surveys to be made and specifications to be prepared; the specifications shall require the construction of a macadamized road, or a telford or other stone road, or a road constructed of gravel, oyster shells or other good materials, in such manner that the same, of whatever materials constructed will, with reasonable repairs thereto, at all seasons of the year, be firm, smooth and convenient for travel; shall be so prepared as to call for bids from which an approximate estimate of the cost can be ascertained, and shall state the amount of security that will be required of the bidder; after said specifications shall have been prepared they shall be submitted to the board of chosen freeholders for their approval or rejection; and, if such board shall approve them, they shall then be submitted to the state commissioner of public roads for his approval or rejection; it shall be the duty of the commissioner of public roads before approving the specifications for any road so submitted to him, to ascertain, by personal examination or otherwise, the natural character of the soil upon which such road is proposed to be constructed, and all other facts that he may deem important, and if, after examination, of the specifications and facts so ascertained, he shall be of the opinion that the specifications provide for the construction of a road that will, with reasonable repairs thereto, be firm, smooth and convenient for travel at all seasons of the year and if he shall also be of the opinion that one-third of the cost of constructing the road or section of road to which such specifications relate, together with one-third of the cost of constructing all other roads and sections of roads in this state under specifications previously approved by him will not in any one year exceed the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, then he shall approve the specifications, but otherwise he shall reject them; provided, however, that he shall, in his discretion, have the power to withhold his approval of any specifications, to the end that the estimated aggregate amount of contracts made in any one year shall not exceed the sum of three thousand dollars, and also to the end that the amounts paid out of state treasury under the provisions of this act shall in each year be distributed amongst the several counties of the state in such manner as to the said state commissioner of public roads shall seem fair and equitable and any specifications, the approval of which is withheld as aforesaid, may, if otherwise satisfactory to the said state commissioner of public roads, be approved by him in any year subsequent to the one in which the same may be presented for approval as aforesaid; if the board of chosen freeholders and the state commissioner of public roads shall both approve such specifications, it shall then be the duty of the director of the board of chosen freeholders to advertise in at least two daily newspapers, printed and circulating in the county, for the period of two weeks, or in at least two weekly newspapers, printed and circulating therein, for at least four weeks, for bids to do the work according to the specifications prepared; such advertisements shall state where bidders may find the specifications and shall name a time and place where the board of chosen freeholders, or a committee of five members thereof, of whom the director shall be one, will meet to receive bids; every such bid shall be accompanied with the bidder's bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, with security satisfactory to the board, conditioned that if the contract shall be awarded to him, he will, when required by the board, execute an agreement in writing to perform the work according to the specifications; no bids shall be received by the board or any member thereof, or by said committee or any member thereof, except at a meeting of said board or a committee, of which notice shall be given as aforesaid, and all bids then received shall be immediately publicly read; if the bids shall be received by a committee of the board they shall be reported to the board at the next meeting thereof, with recommendations of the committee; the board may reject all bids if, in their opinion, good cause exists therefore, but otherwise they shall award the contract to the lowest bidder who shall give satisfactory evidence of his ability to perform the contract; provided, however, that the estimated amount of contracts awarded in any one year by any board of chosen freeholders, together with the estimated cost of repairs of roads already constructed, shall not exceed one-fourth of one per centum of the ratables of the county as reported to the state comptroller for the last preceding year; and provided, further, that in every contract made as aforesaid it shall be specified that at least five per centum of the contract price shall not be paid to the contractor within the period of one year after the work specified to be done by such contract shall have been fully performed and accepted; the bidder to whom the contract may be awarded shall, in addition to executing the agreement to perform the work according to the specifications, also execute to the board of chosen freeholders a bond conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract, in the sum specified in the advertisement for bids, and with such sureties as the board may approve; the contract shall, on behalf of the board of chosen freeholders, be executed by the director thereof, and, when executed by the bidder and said director, a copy of the contract and specifications with the estimated cost of the work, shall be forthwith filed with the state commissioner of public roads.

2. And be it enacted, That after a copy of the contracts and specifications shall have been filed with the state commissioner of public roads as aforesaid, the said state commissioner of public roads shall, as soon as practicable, appoint a supervisor of the construction of the work under such contract, who shall receive for his services under this act three dollars per day, to be paid out of the county treasury; if the work for which such contract shall be made shall have been petitioned for, pursuant to the provisions of the eighth section of this act, then, if the petitioners therefor or any of them shall in writing nominate to the said state commissioner of public roads one or more persons for the position of such supervisor, it shall be the duty of said state commissioner of public roads, if only one nomination be made, to appoint as such supervisor the person so nominated and, if more than one nomination be made, to appoint as such supervisor one of the persons so nominated, and if no such nomination be made, the said state commissioner of public roads shall then appoint as such supervisor any person whom he may consider competent for such position; the said state commissioner may, however, at any time summarily discharge any supervisor who in the judgment of the state commissioner is incompetent, or who neglects his duty, and in such case shall appoint a new supervisor to take the place of the one so discharged; the supervisor shall supervise all work done under the contract, shall give all his time thereto, shall require the provisions of the contract to be strictly adhered to by the contractor; and, in any case where the contract provides for partial payments during the progress of the work, he shall also as each payment becomes due and before payment shall be made, present to the board his certificate, and also the certificate of the surveyor or engineer, if any there be, stating as near as may be the total amount of work done, and that such work has been done in all respects as required by the contract; and the board shall thereupon direct payment to be made by the county collector; provided, that no partial payment made during the progress of the work shall exceed eighty per centum of the estimated value of the work done; the board shall have power to borrow on temporary loans on the credit of the county such sums of money for the purpose of carrying on such work as may from time to time become necessary; and when the work shall have been fully completed, and the terms and conditions of the contract shall have been fully complied with, and such facts shall have been certified to the board to their satisfaction by the supervisor and the surveyor or engineer, if any there be, payment in full shall be made, less the amount required to be withheld for the period of at least one year, as in the next preceding section specified.

3. And be it enacted, That when the work under any contract shall have been fully completed, it shall be the duty of the supervisor to prepare a detailed and itemized statement in duplicate of the cost of the improvement, one copy whereof shall be filed with the board of chosen freeholders and one with the state commissioner of public roads.

4. And be it enacted, That one-third of the cost of all roads constructed in this state under this act shall be paid for out of the state treasury; provided, that the amount so paid shall not in any one year exceed the sum of one hundred thousand dollars; if one-third of such cost shall appear by the statements filed in any one year with the state commissioner of public roads to exceed the said sum of one hundred thousand dollars, then, and in such event, the said sum of one hundred thousand dollars shall be apportioned by the governor and the state commissioner of public roads amongst the counties of the state in proportion to the cost of roads constructed therein for such year, as shown by the statements of costs filed in the office of the state commissioner of public roads; the governor and said state commissioner of public roads shall, between December fifteenth and thirty first in each year, certify to the state comptroller the amount to be paid to each county for such year and the state comptroller shall thereupon draw his warrants in favor of the respective county collectors for the sums certified as aforesaid upon the state treasurer, who shall pay the same out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

5. And be it enacted, That on or before September first in each and every year it shall be the duty of the board of chosen freeholders to certify to the county board of assessors, either in the annual tax budget or separately, two-thirds of the estimated cost of all work for which contracts shall have been awarded under this act during such year and the county board of assessors shall include the sum so certified in the county taxes assessed for such year, and the same shall be assessed, collected and paid over to the county in the same manner and within the same time that other county taxes are assessed, collected and paid over; if a deficiency shall exist in consequence of the cost exceeding the estimate, or in consequence of the receipt of less than one third of the cost from the state treasury, the board of chosen freeholders shall have authority to borrow on temporary loans to the amount of such deficiency until the next annual taxes shall be assessed, collected and paid over to the county; and if there be a surplus, in consequence of the cost being less than the estimate, such surplus shall be retained and used in the construction of other roads under this act, or in repairs to roads constructed under this act.

6. And be it enacted, That instead of certifying to the county board of assessors two-thirds of the estimated cost of all work for which contracts shall have been awarded under this act in any one year as required by the fifth section of this act, or two-thirds of said estimated cost less one-tenth of said estimated cost as required by the eighth section of this act, the said board of chosen freeholders may, if a resolution to such effect shall be adopted by a vote of at least two-thirds of all its members, borrow such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for the payment of such proportion of said estimated cost by the sale of the bonds of such county, issued in the name of the board of chosen freeholders thereof and in such sums as the said board may deem proper; said bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, shall be sold at not less than their par value, shall not exceed in the aggregate the proportion of the estimated cost of such road as hereinabove mentioned, shall be so divided that one-tenth of the amount of the proportion of said estimated cost shall fall due in one year from their date, and one-tenth of the proportion of said estimated cost in each successive year thereafter for the period of ten years after their date, and shall be either coupon or registered bonds, as the board of chosen freeholders may determine; the principal and interest thereof shall be made payable at the office of the county collector of such county; said bonds shall be signed by the director of the said board and the county collector, and shall be sealed with the seal of the county, and the county collector shall keep a record thereof; it shall be the duty of the board of chosen freeholders each year to place in the tax levy for such county in each year, so long as said bond shall run, a sufficient sum to pay the interest accruing thereon for said year and the principal of the bonds that shall mature in said year.

7. And be it enacted, That any road constructed under the provisions of this act, except within the limits of any city, shall forever thereafter be a county road, and the duty of keeping the same in repair, except within the limits of any city, shall devolve upon the board of chosen freeholders and the county supervisor hereinafter mentioned, and all other powers and duties respecting such roads, except within the limits of any city, shall be imposed upon and vested in the said board of chosen freeholders to the exclusion of all township, borough or other municipal officers, excepting city officers; after the first road shall have been constructed under this act in any county, it shall be the duty of the board of chosen freeholders thereof to appoint a county supervisor of roads who shall hold his office for three years and until his successor is appointed, shall give bond to the board of chosen freeholders in the sum of one thousand dollars conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office with such sureties as the board may approve, and shall receive such salary or allowance as the board may fix; the board of chosen freeholders shall provide all moneys necessary to keep in a proper state of repair the roads constructed under this act, except within the limits of any city, and may, if there be no moneys on hand that can be lawfully used for such repairs, borrow therefor on temporary loans until the next annual taxes shall have been assessed, collected and paid over to the county, it shall be the duty of the supervisor to report to the board of chosen freeholders or to the road committee thereof all repairs he may think necessary or proper to be made to such county roads, and, under the direction and control of said board of chosen freeholders or its road committee, to expend the moneys raised for such repairs in such manner and upon such portions of the roads as will tend to keep them in the best possible state of repair; no part of said moneys shall be paid into the hands of the supervisor, but all expenses of repairs shall be paid by the county collector on the orders of the board of chosen freeholders, granted only on the presentation of bills verified by affidavit, as now required by law in the case of other claims against the county; if the board of chosen freeholders shall neglect or refuse to make appropriations sufficient to keep any such road as aforesaid in good repair, any citizen of the county may apply to the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel said board to make an appropriation as aforesaid, and when any such application is made, the court, upon a rule to show cause or otherwise, in such manner as the court shall prescribe, shall ascertain and determine whether such road as aforesaid is in a proper state of repair, and may also, in its discretion, allow to the attorney of the applicant a reasonable counsel fee to be paid by the county; in case the board of chosen freeholders shall not have on hand sufficient moneys out of which to make the appropriation commanded to be made by any writ of mandamus granted as aforesaid, they shall borrow such sum or sums as may be necessary therefor on temporary loans on the credit of the county, and shall require the amount so borrowed to be raised by taxation with the next assessment of county taxes; it shall be the duty of the authorities of any city within which any portion of road may be constructed under the provisions of this act to keep the portion thereof within such city in repair forever after such construction, and such city shall have the power, authority and jurisdiction over such portion of such road, and shall have imposed upon it the same duties as were imposed upon and vested in it with respect to such portion of such road before its improvement under the provisions of this act.

8. And be it enacted, That whenever there shall be presented to the board of chosen freeholders of any county a petition signed by the owners of at least two-thirds, either in lineal feet or in area, of the lands and real estate fronting or bordering on any public road or section of road in such county, taking in said estimate of area all the lands of every such owner which are assessed for taxes in said county and which lie together in any farm tract or lot of which a part has a frontage on said road or section of road, praying the board to cause such road or section to be improved under this act, and setting forth that they are willing that the peculiar benefits conferred on the lands fronting or bordering on said road or section shall be assessed thereon in proportion to the benefits conferred to an amount not exceeding ten per centum of the entire cost of the improvement, it shall be the duty of the board to cause such improvement to be made; provided, that the road or section desired to be so improved shall be at least one mile in length, or, if it be less than one mile in length, shall be an extension of or connection with some other permanently improved or paved road or street; and provided further, that the estimated cost of all improvements made under this act, together with the estimated cost of repairs of roads already constructed in any county in any one year, shall not exceed one-fourth of one per centum of the ratables of such county for the last preceding year; and provided, further, that where more roads are applied for than can be constructed under this act in any one year, the said board of chosen freeholders shall have the power and authority to select from the roads petitioned for the ones first to be constructed, having regard to the most important roads and the distribution of the benefits of this act to all parts of their counties; it shall not be necessary for the board in any such case to declare by resolution their intention to cause such improvement to be made, but they shall forthwith cause all necessary surveys of such road or section to be made, and specifications to be prepared for a macadamized road, or a telford or other stone road, or a road constructed of gravel, oyster shells or other good material, in such manner that the same, of whatever material constructed, will, with reasonable repairs thereto, at all seasons of the year, be firm, smooth and convenient for travel; the proceedings shall thereafter be the same as is hereinbefore required in cases where such intention has been declared; if the specifications shall not be approved by the board or by the state commissioner of public roads, or if all the bids for the work shall be rejected, it shall be the duty of the board to cause other specifications to be prepared, or re-advertisements for bids to be made, as often as may be necessary and until a contract shall be awarded, to the end that the improvement prayed for may be completed with reasonable speed; provided, however, that no re-advertisement need be made where the lowest bid submitted shows that the improvement prayed for cannot be made within the limit of expenditure in this section above mentioned; in every case where a contract shall be awarded after the presentation of such petition as aforesaid, the board of chosen freeholders, instead of certifying to the county board of assessors two-thirds of the estimated cost of the work as prescribed by the fifth section of this act, shall unless they determine to issue bonds in the manner prescribed by the sixth section of this act which they are hereby authorized to do certify two-thirds of said estimated cost less one-tenth of said estimated cost, which sum the county board of assessors shall include in their assessments of county taxes.

9. And be it enacted, That when the improvement prayed for as aforesaid shall have been completed and the statement of the cost thereof filed with the board of chosen freeholders as prescribed by the third section of this act, said board shall apply to the circuit court of the county for the appointment of commissioners to estimate and assess the peculiar benefits conferred by such improvements upon the land and real estate fronting or bordering on the road or section thereof improved, of the time and place of which application notice shall be given by ten days' publication in two daily newspapers printed and circulating in the county, or by two weeks' publication in two weekly newspapers printed and circulating therein, at which time and place or at such other time and place as the court shall designate, said court shall, without unnecessary delay, appoint three commissioners who shall be disinterested freeholders and residents of the county in which the application is made, to estimate and assess the benefits aforesaid; the said court shall have power to remove any commissioner and appoint another in his place and also to fill any vacancy that may occur in the office of any commissioner from any cause; said commissioners shall each receive three dollars per day to be paid by the county collector.

10. And be it enacted, That said commissioners, before entering upon the duties required of them by this act, shall take and prescribe before some person duly authorized to administer the same an oath or affirmation that they will make all assessments and estimates required of them fairly, legally and equitably according to the best of their skill and understanding, which oath or affirmation shall be attached to the report that they are hereinafter required to make.

11. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners, having thus qualified, shall give such notice as the court may direct of the time and place, when and where they will hear any persons in interest who may present themselves, to be heard, and at such time and place and at such other times and places to which they may adjourn for that purpose the said commissioners shall attend, and shall give a public hearing to those persons in interest who may desire to be heard; the said commissioners shall have power to examine witnesses under oath or affirmation to be administered by one of them, and to enter upon and view the lands and real estate fronting or bordering on the road or section thereof improved, and to adjourn from time to time in their discretion, or as directed by said court; they shall use diligent efforts to ascertain the names of the owners of lands fronting or bordering on the road or section thereof improved, and shall state the same in the report hereinafter mentioned; but the failure to ascertain the name of any owner, or to state the same correctly, or the omission of any such name from the report, shall not invalidate said assessment nor be a bar to the collection of the same.

12. And be it enacted, That after having given opportunity as aforesaid for a public hearing of the persons in interest, and having viewed the lands fronting or bordering on the road or section thereof improved as aforesaid, the said commissioners shall make a report in writing of their estimates and assessments to the said court, accompanied by a map prepared by the engineer in charge of the construction of the road, showing the several tracts or parcels of lands and real estate fronting or bordering on said road or section thereof; the said report shall state the cost of the whole work, which shall be furnished to the commissioners by the board of chosen freeholders from the report of the supervisor of construction filed with said board under the requirements of the third section of this act, and shall give the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the tracts or parcels of lands or real estate fronting or bordering on said road or section thereof, the city, township, borough or other municipality in which each tract or parcel of land is situate, and the amount of the assessment upon the owner or owners of each of said tracts or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits; which several assessments shall be in proportion, as near as may be, to the peculiar benefits deemed to have been conferred by said improvement upon the respective tracts of land and real estate aforesaid; if any tract of land shall be located in more than one city, township, borough or other municipality, it shall be stated in said report as being in the city, township, borough or other municipality in which there is the greatest frontage by lineal feet on the road or section thereof improved; in no case shall any tract or parcel of land and real estate, or any owner thereof, be assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvement, nor shall the aggregate amount of assessments imposed upon the tracts or parcels of land fronting or bordering upon such road or section thereof exceed ten per centum of the total cost of the improvement.

13. And be it enacted, That upon the coming in of any such report signed by the said commissioners, or any two of them, said court shall cause such notice to be given as it shall deem proper of the time and place of hearing any objections that may be made to such assessment, and after hearing any matter that may be alleged against the same the said court, either by rule or order, shall confirm the said report, or shall refer the same to the same commissioners for revision and correction, or to new commissioners to be appointed by the said court forthwith to reconsider the subject-matter thereof, and the said commissioners to whom such report shall be so referred by the court shall return the same corrected and revised or a new report to be made by them in the premises, to the said court without unnecessary delay, and the same, being so returned, shall be confirmed, or again referred by the said court in the manner aforesaid, as right and justice shall require, and so, from time to time, until a report shall be made or returned in the premises which said court shall confirm; such report, when so confirmed, shall be final and conclusive, as well upon the said board of chosen freeholders and the cities, townships, boroughs or other municipalities, in which said lands may be situate, as upon the owners of any lands and real estate affected thereby, and the court shall require the same to be forthwith filed with the county clerk, and certified copies thereof and of the accompanying map, and of the rule of order confirming the report, to be promptly delivered to the county collector, one for said county collector and for each city, township, borough or other municipality in which the assessed lands may lie; the county collector shall retain one of the said copies for his own use and shall forthwith give one to the collector or receiver of taxes in each of the cities, townships, boroughs and other municipalities in which the assessed may lie each city, township, borough or other municipality, whose collector or receiver of taxes shall receive such certified copy shall, by its proper disbursing officer, within six months after the date of the said order of confirmation, pay the amount of assessments appearing by said report have been assessed upon the lands situate in such city, township, borough or other municipality, who shall receive for his services three per centum of the money so collected to be paid by the county.

14. And be it enacted, That no certiorari shall be allowed by any court to review the proceedings in relation to such improvement, nor in any way to affect any assessment made by such commissioners, after the lapse of thirty days from the making of the order of the court confirming such assessment; the court shall designate what notice, if any, shall be given by publication or otherwise of the confirmation of the report of said commissioners.

15. And be it enacted, That the assessments made by said commissioners shall be and remain a lien upon the lands assessed, from the date of the confirmation of the report of assessments in the same manner and to the same extent that taxes are liens upon lots or tracts of land situate in the city, township, borough or other municipality in which the assessed lands may be.

16. And be it enacted, That the receiver or collector of said city, township, borough or other municipality shall, as soon as the said report is delivered to him give to the owners of lots or tracts of lands appearing by said report to be assessed, such notice of the assessments and of the time within which the same are required to be paid, as the court in its order of confirmation hereinabove mentioned shall prescribe; all such assessments shall become due and payable to such receiver or collector within six months from the date of the order of confirmation hereinabove mentioned.

17. And be it enacted, That if any assessment upon any lot or tract of land made under the provisions of this act shall not be paid within the time appointed in said notice the township committee, common council or other governing body in the city, township, borough or other municipality within which such lot or tract of land shall be situate, or a majority of them may, as they shall deem proper, either bring an action on contract in any court of competent jurisdiction, in the corporate name of such city, township, borough or other municipality, against the owner or owners of such lot or tract of land for so much money laid out and expended by them for the use of such owner or owners and declare generally, and give the special matter in evidence, and either party from any judgment rendered therein may have the same remedy by appeal or otherwise as if said parties were private individuals, or they may proceed to collect the said assessment by sale of the lot or tract of land whereon such assessment has been imposed, or may be a lien, in the same manner and to the same extent as lands are now sold for unpaid taxes in such city, township, borough or other municipality, and the purchaser or purchasers at any sale or sales, and his legal representatives, shall hold and enjoy such lot or tract of land, with the rents, issues and profits thereof, in the same manner and by the same title and tenure as purchasers at the sales of lots or tracts of land for unpaid taxes can now hold and enjoy the same in such city, township borough or other municipality.

18. And be it enacted, That if any property owners or owner along any road in any county of this state which has not been improved, or is not undergoing improvement, under the previous sections of this act, shall desire any section of any road in such county to be improved, and are or is willing to contribute the whole expense of such improvement, the supervisor of roads of such county shall, upon the written request of such owners, or owner, make a plan of such section of road so to be improved, in which shall be given the levels and distances, and also specifications, which shall state the materials that may be used and the manner of using them; and a copy of such plan, specifications and of any bids to do such work shall then be submitted by such owners or owner to the board of chosen freeholders, and if such board shall approve them, it shall then be lawful for such owners or owner to accept any bid or bids so approved from among the bidders and proceed to build such section of road according to such plan and specifications, and such owners or owner shall have control of the expenditure of the moneys used to make such improvement, subject to the approval of the supervisor of such county; and, upon the completion of the improvement to the satisfaction of the said supervisor and said board of chosen freeholders, and upon the submission to said board of receipts, showing full payment for materials furnished and work done under the plan and specifications, such section of road so improved shall be thereafter a county road; and the said supervisor shall be paid by the aforesaid owners or owner the sum of ten dollars for making the plan, the sum of five dollars for drawing the specifications, and the sum of five dollars for the supervision of the work, and, in case such supervisor is not a civil engineer and an actual survey is necessary, then such owners or owner, at their or his expense, shall procure a survey which shall be subject to the approval of such supervisor, which survey shall take the place of the plan before mentioned.

19. And be it enacted, That the act entitled "An act to provide for the more permanent improvement of the public roads of this state," approved the fourteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, and all acts supplementary thereto, and amendatory thereof, be and the same are hereby repealed; provided, however, that this section shall not cause any proceedings for the improvement of any public road or section thereof under the provisions of the act hereby repealed to abate, but such proceedings may be continued under the provisions of this act in the same manner as if they had been commenced hereunder.

20. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXIV.

An act to amend an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the appointment of commissioners for the better protection of the fishing interests of the state of New Jersey,' approved March seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, which supplement was approved May fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act to which this is an amendment be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the present commissioners of fisheries of this state and their successors shall hereafter be known and designated as "the board of fish and game commissioners;" and that after the expiration of the terms of the respective members of the present board, said board shall be appointed by the governor of this state, with the advice and consent of the senate, and shall be constituted of four competent persons, who shall hold office for five years, and until their successors are duly appointed and qualified; vacancies occurring by death, resignation, or otherwise, shall be filled in the same manner and for the unexpired term of the commissioner whose office shall become vacant; provided, that no appointment shall be made by reason of which more than two of the said commissioners shall be of the same political party.

2. And be it enacted, That the duties of the said board shall be the protection and propagation of fish, birds and game animals and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and for the propagation and distribution of food fish, and to keep up the supply thereof in the various waters of the state; said board shall have the conduct and control of such hatching stations as are now owned and operated by the state and such as may hereafter be established and shall have power to investigate any and all complaints made to the said board, and shall at all times have the right and power to inspect any dam, weir, fish-basket, net or other illegal apparatus for taking fish, and, forthwith to remove the same, and shall have power, on view or information, to enforce the laws for the protection and propagation of fish, birds and game animals within this state, by arrest and prosecution of the offender of offenders, without warrant or complaint, and shall make a full report to the legislature annually at the meeting thereof for the year ending on the thirtieth day of November preceding, of all their official operations, with such suggestions and recommendations as they shall deem useful.

3. And be it enacted, That the said board of fish and game commissioners shall appoint twenty-five competent men, who shall be known as fish and game wardens, whose powers and duties are hereinafter defined, and who shall hold office for one year, or during the pleasure of the said board, and who shall be subject to summary removal by the said board without notice; the said board shall from time to time designate one of said wardens as the fish and game protector, who shall hold such office during the pleasure of the said board and who shall, under the supervision of this board, have the direction, supervision and control of the other fish and game wardens; the fish and game protector shall give a bond to the said board with sureties in the penal sum of one thousand dollars and each of said wardens shall give a bond to the said board with sureties in the penal sum of five hundred dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties, such bond to be approved by the commissioners, and upon default an action thereon shall be brought in the name of the state; the compensation of the fish and game protector shall be one hundred dollars per month, payable monthly, and he shall be allowed for the expenses in the performance of his duties the sum of three hundred dollars per annum; the compensation of the said wardens shall be at the rate of fifty dollars per month each, payable monthly, and an allowance to each for expenses not exceeding two hundred dollars per annum; the payment of traveling and incidental expenses of said fish and game wardens shall be made upon the statement of the said fish and game protector, duly sworn to by him, that the charges for which payment is asked have been incurred in the discharge of official duties, and that the bill is true and correct; such bill so certified to by the said fish and game protector shall be approved of by the said board before payment.

4. And be it enacted, That the fish and game wardens shall enforce all the laws of this state for the protection of fish, birds and game animals, and shall have full power to execute all processes issued for the violation of such laws, and to serve subpœnas issued for the examination, investigation or trial of all offenses against said laws, such fish and game warden shall keep a daily record of his official acts, and shall at the close of each month make a summary of such record with such statements in detail as shall be necessary for the information of the said board, and report the same, to the said board; the fish and game protector shall report to the said board any negligence or dereliction of duty or incompetency on the part of any of the said wardens, with the facts relating thereto, and he shall report monthly to said board the operation of his department during the preceding month, and make such further report as may be required by the said board; it shall be the duty of every fish and game warden to seize, remove, and forthwith destroy any net, pound or other device for taking fish, found in or upon any of the waters of this state or upon the shores or islands of such waters where fishing with nets is prohibited or illegal, and all such nets, pounds or other devices are declared to be a public nuisance, and may be abated and summarily destroyed by any fish or game warden and no action for damages shall lie or be maintained against any fish and game warden for such seizure or destruction.

5. And be it enacted, That the said board of fish and game commissioners and the fish and game wardens and the fish and game protector may, in the discharge of their duties, call in the aid of any constable, sheriff or other peace officer of this state when deemed necessary; and any such officer neglecting or refusing to aid when thus required, shall forfeit twenty-five dollars, to be recovered by action of debt; they shall also have the power of summary arrest in cases of flagrant violation of the fishing or the game laws of this state

6. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith and in conflict with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

7. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXVI.

A Supplement to an act approved March thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, entitled "A supplement to an act approved May sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, entitled 'An act to amend an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the incorporation of safe deposit and trust companies,'" ' " approved April twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when, and as soon as any of the companies or associations mentioned or referred to in this act or in the amendments thereof, or in the supplements thereto, whether such company or association be incorporated under any general law of this state, or by special charter, shall have an accumulated surplus and undivided profits which together are double or more than double the capital stock of such company or association, then and in such case it shall and may be lawful for any officer or court of this state to appoint such company or association to any office or trust which it may be authorized or empowered by its charter or by law to execute or accept, and such company or association shall not be required to give any security for the faithful performance of its duties under such appointment, but the capital stock, accumulated surplus, undivided profits and assets of such company or association shall stand as security and be held liable for the faithful performance of its duties and obligations under such appointment.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXVII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate elections" (Revision), approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any township in this state exceeding in area twenty-five square miles and having a population according to the last national census of not less than three thousand five hundred persons and now divided into not more than two election districts, may be divided by the township committee of such township into three election districts, and that in such division the geographical compactness of such districts and the convenience of the voters shall be first considered.

2. And be it enacted, That where, in any township of this state now divided into two election districts, it shall at any time appear that the total number of votes cast in one of said districts shall, for the two elections of members of the general assembly then last past, have exceeded by at least two hundred votes the total number of votes cast in the other district, it shall be lawful for the township committee of such township to change and alter the boundary line or lines between the two said districts so that said districts will thereafter be as nearly equal as possible in voting population, and in such division or change the geographical compactness of each district and the convenience of the voters shall be first considered.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXVIII.

An Act to authorize the governing bodies of incorporated towns, boroughs, commissions or towns corporate in this state to purchase steam fire engines or other appliances or apparatus for the extinguishment of fires and to erect houses for the housing of the same, and to provide means for the payment thereof.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the common council, board of commissioners or other governing board or body of any incorporated town, borough, town corporate or commission in this state having an assessed valuation of nine hundred thousand dollars, to purchase one or more steam fire engines or other appliance or apparatus for the extinguishment of fires and to erect buildings for the housing of the same, at a cost not exceeding ten thousand dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That in case any common council or other governing body of any incorporated town, borough, town corporate or commission, who shall desire to avail themselves of the benefits of the first section of this act, may issue town bonds; said bonds shall be issued for no other purpose than for the uses set forth in this act; the said bonds shall be signed by the mayor or presiding officer by whatever name designated and the clerk of such governing body: provided, however, that before any such bonds shall be made, or issued the following shall be complied with and observed: The said common council or other governing body shall cause a resolution to issue such bonds to be submitted to the legal voters of such incorporated town, borough, town corporate or commission, by causing such resolution to be written or printed on ballots underneath which shall be written or printed the words "for the above resolution," or "against the above resolution," which votes may be taken either at the annual town meeting or at a special town meeting to be called by the said governing body for that purpose; provided, further, the bonds hereby authorized shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum, and shall not be disposed of or sold for less than their par value.

3. And be it enacted, That in case such vote is taken at the regular annual town meeting, the said resolution may be printed or written, or partly printed or partly written, on the ballots used at such town meeting, and in case a special town meeting is called for that purpose the ballots to be used shall contain only the said resolution and the words thereunder as mentioned in the preceding section, and that said common council shall give at least ten days' notice of such special town meeting specifying the time and place where such town meeting shall be held, and the purpose and object thereof, by notices printed or written, posted in five or more of the most public places in said town corporate, borough, incorporated town or commission; and the result of said town meeting or election, as to the said resolution, shall in either case be certified to the said common council or governing body by the board of election acting at such town meeting or election and the town clerk or clerk of other governing body, under their respective hands; and in case a majority of the legal voters as shall appear by such certificate shall have voted for such resolution, then such common council or governing body shall proceed to issue such bonds forthwith and use the same for the purpose or purposes expressed in said resolution; and such bonds shall not be sold or disposed of in any way or manner for less than their par value.

4. And be it enacted, That in case a special town meeting or election be held for the purpose mentioned in this act, the same shall be held and conducted in the same manner in which the annual town meeting or election is now held and conducted, and the expenses thereof shall be paid in the same way.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXX.

An Act in relation to exemptions from taxation of soldiers and sailors.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the receiver or collector of taxes of any city in this state shall deduct from the taxes payable by honorably discharged soldiers or sailors of the late war of the rebellion, upon the production of his discharge, the amount of exemption now allowed in all cases wherein the commissioners of assessment or other officers charged with the duty of making assessments of taxes have failed to make such an allowance.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide means for protection against fires in townships," approved March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where the legality of the organization of a fire district in a portion of a township under the provisions of the act entitled "An act to provide means for protection against fires in townships," approved March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, and the supplements thereto, is questioned upon the ground that such fire district was never laid off by metes and bounds by the township committee of any such township as said act requires, and the collection of taxes for fire purposes assessed and levied in any such fire district under the provisions of said act and supplements is resisted upon the ground aforesaid by twenty or more persons upon whose real or personal estate any such taxes have been assessed and levied, and no evidence or recital of the laying off of any such fire district appears upon the records of any such township, it shall be lawful for the township committee of any such township upon written application for such action by said twenty or more persons, to abate and remit all such taxes not paid and to authorize in writing the township collector of any such township to refund to the several persons who have paid the same all of such taxes in his hands; and upon such written authority it shall be lawful for such township collector to refund to the several persons who have paid the same all of such taxes in his hands.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the condemnation of lands in the cities of this state whereon public school buildings may be erected and which shall be devoted to use for public school purposes," approved April fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one the act entitled "An act to authorize the condemnation of lands in the cities of this state whereon public school buildings may be erected and which shall be devoted to use for public school purposes," and approved April fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows namely:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever in the judgment of the board or body having control of the public schools in any of the cities in this state, the price demanded by the owners of any land or real estate which may be deemed by such board or body necessary for the use of the public schools of any such city, is exorbitant and more than the fair market value thereof, it shall and may be lawful for such board or body with the concurrence of the common council (whenever the concurrence of the common council or other governing body of such city is necessary for the purchase of lands for public purposes) to apply to a judge of the circuit court in and for the county in which such city is located, for the appointment of three commissioners to make an appraisement, of the value of the lands, and of the damages which the owner or owners may suffer by reason of the taking and condemnation thereof; such application shall be made upon petition, setting forth that the said board or body or the said common council or other governing body has been unable to agree with the owners for the purchase of such lands, and that the price demanded therefor is in the judgment of said board or body exorbitant and more than the market value thereof, and praying that the same may be condemned, giving in the said petition a description of the lands which it is desired shall be condemned for the purpose aforesaid, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the said judge to appoint as commissioners three suitable persons, who shall be freeholders and residents of the county within which such application is made to make an appraisement of the value of the lands so to be condemned and of the damages which the owner or owners of such lands may suffer by reason of the taking thereof.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect, immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXIV.

An Act providing for the appropriation of funds for the improvement of the state reform school for boys.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the sum of five thousand dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated to build a hospital for said school.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of this state be and is hereby directed to pay to the trustees of the school the aforesaid sum to be expended for the purposes stated upon the warrant of the comptroller.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXV,

An Act for the protection of sturgeon.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to take, capture or kill or have in possession after same has been taken, captured or killed, any sturgeon between the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each and every year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every sturgeon so taken, captured, killed or had unlawfully in possession.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, special, local or general, inconsistent herewith or repugnant hereto, be and the same are hereby repealed, excepting that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to repeal the provisions of an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act for the protection of mammose or young sturgeon in the Delaware bay, river and their tributaries,' approved March twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety," which amendment was approved April first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect when similar acts shall have been passed by the legislatures of the states of Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXVI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the township committee of each township in this state shall meet and hold meetings at their usual places of meetings in their respective townships on the second Tuesday in July of each year for the purpose of examining, revising and correcting the duplicate of assessment to be laid before them in the manner hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, That the assessors of the several townships in this state shall on the second Tuesday of July of each year attend the meeting of the committee of his township and lay before them the duplicate of assessment, to be by them examined, revised and corrected, and it shall be his duty to remain with said committee for the purpose of explaining the said duplicate and assisting said committee in the discharge of the duties required of them by this act.

3. And be it enacted, That said committee shall have power to adjourn from time to time as they may deem expedient for the purpose of discharging the duties required of them by this act, providing the said examination, revision and correction shall be made and completed on or before the third Tuesday in July of each year.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXIII.

An Act to facilitate the separation of boroughs from townships.

Whereas, By an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the formation of borough governments,' approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight," which said supplement was approved April twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, it was provided that all boroughs of the first class existing within the limits of any of the townships of this state should thereafter be entirely separated and independent in all matters of local government from the township out of which such borough was created, and that no voter of any such borough shall have the right to vote for any township officer nor for any appropriation for township purposes; but such act did not provide for any change of any township election district which embraced any portion of any such borough; and did not provide for any apportionment between such township and borough of property, money or debts of such township in which the people of such borough had rights or were liable to pay; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all townships of this state having more than one election district, whenever at any election held in such township the total number of votes cast in any two election districts in such township shall aggregate less than six hundred, the township committee of such township shall have power to consolidate said two election districts or to change or alter any or all the election districts of such township, which consolidation, change or alteration shall be made in the same manner now prescribed by law in cases where election districts contain more than six hundred voters.

2. And be it enacted, That in the case of every township of this state coming within the terms of the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the formation of borough governments,' approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight," approved April twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, the township committee of such township and the mayor and council of such borough shall meet at such time and place as they or a majority of each of them shall agree upon, not later than the fifth day of July next, and on said fifth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, if a time and place be not sooner agreed upon, at the council chamber in such borough, and shall then and there proceed in writing, signed by a majority of the members present, to allot and divide between such township and borough all properties and moneys of the township in hand or due at the close of the last preceding fiscal year of such township, and all debts owing by said township in proportion to the taxable properties and ratables of such township, exclusive of such borough, with the taxable properties and ratables of such borough, which said proportion shall be ascertained from the respective tax duplicates of such township and borough for the last preceding year; and such borough shall be liable to pay the proportion of the debts of such township which shall be so alloted to it, and it shall be the duty of the mayor and council of such borough, if necessary, to issue bonds with legal interest payable annually to the township committee of such township for the proportion of such indebtedness alloted to such borough, and the collector of taxes of such borough shall be entitled to demand, have, take and receive from the the treasurer of such township all the proportion of moneys and properties so alloted to such borough, and upon failure of the township treasurer for thirty days after such meeting to pay over and deliver the same to such collector, he shall be entitled to recover the same by appropriate action in the circuit court of the county in which such township is situate; in case any of the persons comprising either such township committee or such mayor and council shall neglect or refuse to meet as aforesaid, those assembled may proceed to make such allotment and division, and the decision of a majority of those present shall be final and conclusive.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of medicine and surgery, to license physicians and surgeons, and to punish persons violating the provisions thereof," approved May twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section nine of an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of medicine and surgery, to license physicians and surgeons, and to punish persons violating the provisions thereof," approved May twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby amended so it shall read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to the commissioned surgeons of the United States army, navy or marine hospital service while so commissioned, or to lawfully qualified physicians or surgeons residing in other states meeting registered physicians and surgeons of this state in consultation, or to any legally qualified physician or surgeon of another state taking charge of the practice of a legally-qualified physician or surgeon of this state temporarily during the latter's absence therefrom and upon the written request to said board therefor, or to any physician or surgeon of another state and duly authorized under the laws thereof to practice medicine and surgery therein; provided, that such practitioner shall not open an office or a place for the practice of his profession within the borders of this state, or to anyone while actually serving as a member of the resident medical staff of any legally-incorporated charitable or municipal hospital or asylum or to any legally-qualified and registered dentist exclusively engaged in practicing the art of dentistry, or to any person claiming the right to practice medicine and surgery in this state who has been practicing therein since before the fourth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety; provided, said right or title was obtained upon a duly-registered diploma, of which the holder and applicant was the lawful possessor, issued by a legally-chartered medical institution which, in the opinion of said board was in good standing at the time said diploma was issued, or to any person resident of this state who has been continuously engaged in giving treatment by electricity herein during the past seven years; provided, that said person has graduated from a legally-incorporated electro-therapeutic school in good standing.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, general or special, not in accordance with the provisions of this act or inconsistent therewith, are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXIX.

An Act concerning assessors.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the assessors of all cities of the third class and incorporated towns having but one assessor, who have authority to assess taxes for county purposes, shall represent such city or town in the county board of assessors.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXL.

An Act to amend an act approved March sixteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act regulating proceedings in criminal cases,' approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four," which supplement was approved February sixth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act to which this act is amendatory be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in cases where the death penalty is inflicted the sheriff shall admit to the execution, in addition to the persons now limited by law, the accredited representative of the united press and the accredited representative of the standard news association or its successor.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLVI.

An Act to provide for the repaving, repairing and improving of paved streets and reconstruction of sewers in cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful in any city of this state for the board having charge and control of the finances thereof to appropriate and set apart annually, with the consent of the mayor, for the period of five years from the date hereof, out of the license fees received in such city for licenses to sell spirituous or malt liquors, one-half thereof for the repaving, repairing and improving of paved streets and the reconstruction of sewers in such city, and said moneys so appropriated shall be disbursed, applied and expended for such purposes exclusively by the board or department of such city charged with the duty of paving and repairing streets and the reconstruction of sewers, and by no other board and authority, nor for any other purpose whatever.

2. And be it enacted, That the said board or department of such city may, by unanimous vote, at any time, out of said funds when so set aside, cause any part of the main thoroughfare in such city to be improved or paved, or both, although the same may not have heretofore been paved.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLVII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act relative to the Monmouth battle monument," approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Whereas, "The Monmouth Battle Monument Association," a corporation under the laws of this state, did, in conformity to the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, convey to the state of New Jersey the tract of land in the county of Monmouth known as "Monument Park," containing over three acres; and whereas, a monument to commemorate the battle of Monmouth has been erected on said land by the joint contributions of the people and the state and United States governments, under the supervision of the commission created by said act; and whereas, on the fifteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, the said monument was damaged by lightning to such an extent that it will be necessary to remove the statue now surmounting said monument and replace it with a new statue, at an expense of at least three thousand five hundred dollars; and whereas, one of the chief inducements to the appropriation of the sum of twenty thousand dollars heretofore made by the United States toward the erection of said monument was the fact that the title to the site thereof was in the state of New Jersey, which fact was considered a guarantee that the site and the monument would be continually cared for; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That out of the moneys in the treasury of this state there be hereby appropriated the sum of three thousand five hundred dollars, to be paid as hereinafter specified, towards the repairing of the said monument.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of this state shall, on the warrant of the comptroller, pay to the president of the said commission the moneys hereby appropriated, to be used by said commissioners created by the act to which this is a supplement, in replacing the present statue surmounting said monument with a new one of similar design and quality, and in making all other necessary repairs to said monument.

3. And be it enacted, That as soon as the repairs to said monument as aforesaid shall have been finished, said commission shall make to the governor a report and detailed account of the expenditures in making such repairs, who shall lay the same before the legislature at the next session thereafter.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLVIII.

An Act to prevent trespassing with guns.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any person trespassing on any lands, carrying a gun, after public notice on the part of the owner, occupant, lessee or licensee thereof, forbidding such trespassing, such notice being posted conspicuously adjacent to the highway binding on said lands, or adjacent to any usual entranceway on said lands, shall be deemed guilty of trespass at the suit of such owner, occupant, lessee or licensee, and in an action of trespass or tort (which action shall be conducted in all respects as actions of trespass or tort are usually conducted) the damages awarded for any such trespass shall be not less than ten dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That any person trespassing on any lands, carrying a gun, after being forbidden so to trespass by the owner, occupant, lessee or licensee thereof, shall be deemed guilty of trespass at the suit of such owner, occupant, lessee or licensee, and in an action of trespass or tort (which action shall be conducted in all respects as actions of trespass or tort are usually conducted), the damages awarded for any such trespass shall not be less than ten dollars.

3. And be it enacted, That any person or persons found trespassing, as provided in the first and second sections of this act, shall be deemed and adjudged to be disorderly, and in addition to the remedies therein provided for, it shall be lawful for the owner or owners of the said lands, or the occupant or occupants, lessee or licensees thereof, or any constable or constables, to apprehend, without warrant or process, any such disorderly person or persons, and to take him or them before any justice of the peace of the county where apprehended; and it shall be the duty of the said justice, in a summary manner, to hear and determine the guilt or innocence of such person or persons, and upon conviction, to impose upon the offender or offenders, and each of them so convicted, a fine of five dollars, besides the costs of the prosecution; and if any person or persons so convicted shall fail to pay such fines and costs, the said justice shall commit such offender or offenders to the common jail of the county for a period of not less than five nor more than ten days.

4. And be it enacted, That any person or persons who shall willfully or maliciously remove, deface or alter any notice posted, as contemplated in the first section of this act, with the intent to destroy such notice, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days, or both.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXLIX.

An Act relative to the construction of school buildings in cities of the first class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for the board having charge and control of the finances in any city of the first class of this state, upon the request of the board thereof charged with the erection and construction of school buildings therein, to issue bonds of such city in an amount not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; said bonds to run for not exceeding six years, and to be sold for not less than par and accrued interest; said bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually.

2. And be it enacted, That the proceeds derived from the sale of such bonds shall be placed by such financial board at the disposal of the board charged with the erection and construction of school buildings in any such city for the purpose of purchasing and erecting thereon school buildings in such city at such times as said last-mentioned board may determine.

3. And be it enacted, That all of the moneys now devoted by law in any such city for the construction and furnishing of buildings for public school department thereof shall be set aside annually and appropriated for the payment of the interest upon such bonds as the same fall due, and to the extinguishment thereof upon maturity, or at any time during their term.

4. And be enacted, That so much of the moneys to be raised hereinbefore mentioned as may be required may be used, in the discretion of the board having charge and control of the erection of school buildings in such city for the reconstruction and alteration of any buildings used for school purposes in such city, whenever the board of education in such city shall certify to said board having charge and control of the construction of schools therein when said school buildings should be reconstructed, and not otherwise.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to any city where no portion of the money derived from licenses for the sale of liquor is appropriated by law for school purposes.

6. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CL.

Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act regulating the expenses for the observance of decoration day," approved April twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the township committee, board of finance, or other governing body of any township, town or borough, in this state having control of the finances of said township, town or borough, are hereby empowered to appropriate a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars for the observance of decoration day, said appropriation to be paid by the disbursing officer of such municipality to the grand army post having jurisdiction over the territory of such township, town or borough.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLI.

An Act to authorize the codification of the ordinances of the cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of aldermen, common council or other legislative body of any city may codify the ordinances of the city, and the said ordinances when printed in book form and certified as true copies of the original ordinances of the city by the city counsel or city attorney of such city, and approved by the mayor, shall be received in all courts as evidence as fully as if the original ordinances were produced and offered in evidence.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLII.

An Act concerning wards and district lines in cities of this state, and for the formation of new wards.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of any city of this state shall have power by ordinance to divide said city up into wards and to change the lines and boundaries of the present wards and aldermanic districts therein, and to increase the number of wards therein; provided, that the number of wards shall not exceed sixteen in any city; and provided further, that a majority of all the members of said legislative body shall agree to the passage of said ordinance, and the same shall be approved by the mayor of said city.

2. And be it enacted, That all officers elected or appointed for existing wards or aldermanic districts in any city wherein the ward or aldermanic district lines are changed, and new wards created as herein provided, shall continue in office until their respective terms of office shall have expired, and until others are duly appointed or elected to take their places, and that hereafter such number of officers shall be elected or appointed from the new wards as may be elected or appointed from the wards now existing; and vacancies therein may be filled in the manner now provided by law for filling vacancies.

3. And be it enacted, That when new wards are created in any city, as herein provided, it shall be the duty of the common council or board of aldermen of such city to divide the new wards into election districts or precincts, which said precincts, so far as practicable, shall be so constituted as not to contain over six hundred voters.

4. And be it enacted, That the term wards as used in this act shall include all divisions of cities known as aldermanic districts, and that hereafter all such aldermanic districts shall be known and designated as wards.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning cities," approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act concerning cities," approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and which section reads as follows:

"1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the common council or other legislative body of the several cities of the third class be and they are hereby authorized to elect a city attorney, who shall be a counselor-at-law, and shall hold his office for the term of three years, and until his successor shall be duly appointed and qualified; he shall perform such service and receive such compensation as the common council or other legislative body shall by ordinance prescribe; provided, however, that this act shall not apply to any city wherein a like officer is provided for in its act of incorporation," be amended so that the same shall read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the common council or other legislative body of the several cities of the third class be and they are hereby authorized to elect a city attorney, who shall be an attorney-at-law of at least two years' standing at the bar, and shall hold his office for the term of three years, and until his successor shall be duly appointed and qualified; he shall perform such service and receive such compensation as the common council or other legislative body shall by ordinance prescribe; provided, however, that this act shall not apply to any city wherein a like officer is provided for in its act of incorporation, or is elected by a vote of the people or appointed by the mayor subject to confirmation by the common council of said city.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to secure to mechanics and others payment for their labor and materials in erecting any building" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same hereby is amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That whenever any building shall be erected in whole or in part by contract in writing, such building and the land whereon it stands shall be liable to the contractor alone for work done or materials furnished in pursuance of such contract; provided, said contract or a duplicate thereof, together with the specifications accompanying the same, or a copy or copies thereof, be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which such building is situate before such work done or materials furnished.

2. And be it enacted, That section three of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same hereby is amended to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That whenever any master-workman or contractor shall, upon demand, refuse to pay any person who may have furnished materials used in the erection of any such house or other building, or any journeyman or laborer employed by him in the erecting or constructing any building, the money or wages due to him, it shall be the duty of such journeyman or laborer or materialmen to give notice in writing to the owner or owners of such building of such refusal, and of the amount due to him or them and so demanded, and the owner or owners of such building shall thereupon be authorized to retain the amount so due and claimed by any such journeyman, laborer or materialman out of the amount owing by him or them to such master-workman or contractor, or that may thereafter become due from him or them to such master-workman or contractor for labor or materials used in the erection of such building, giving him written notice of such notice and demand; and if the same be not paid or settled by said master-workman or contractor, such owner or owners on being satisfied of the correctness of said demand shall pay the same, and the receipt of such journeyman, laborer or materialman for the same shall entitle such owner or owners to an allowance therefor in the settlement of accounts between him and such master-workman or contractor as so much paid on account.

3. And be it enacted, That when a notice or notices shall be served upon such owner or owners by any journeyman, laborer or materialman, under the third section of the act to which this is a supplement, and notice thereof shall have been given by such owner or owners to the master-workman or contractor as required by said section, and said master-workman or contractor shall, within five days after receiving notice aforesaid, notify in writing the journeyman, laborer or person who has furnished materials that he disputes his or their claim and requests him or them to establish the same by judgment, the owner shall not pay the claim until it is so established; provided, the master-workman or contractor shall notify him in writing that he has given the aforesaid notice to said journeyman, laborer or materialman.

4. And be it enacted, That section thirteen of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same hereby is amended to read as follows:

13. And be it enacted, That no debt shall be a lien by virtue of this act unless a claim is filed as hereinbefore provided within four months from the date of the last work done or materials furnished for which such debt is due; nor shall any lien be enforced by virtue of this act unless the summons in the suit for that purpose shall be issued within ninety days from the date of the last work done or materials furnished in such claim; and the time of issuing such summons shall be endorsed on the claim by the clerk upon the sealing thereof, and if no such entry be made within four months from such last date, or if such claimant shall fail to prosecute his claim diligently within one year from the date of the issuing of such summons or such further time as the court may by order direct such lien shall be discharged; provided, that the time in which such lien may be enforced by summons may be extended for any further period, not exceeding four months, by a written agreement for that purpose, signed by said land owner and said claimant and annexed to said claim on file before such time herein limited therefor shall have expired, in which case the county clerk shall enter the word "extended" on the margin of the lien docket opposite such claim, and any claimant upon receiving written notice from the owner of the lands or building requiring him to commence suit on such claim within thirty days from the receipt of such notice, shall only enforce such lien by suit to be commenced within said thirty days.

5. And be it enacted, That if the owner or owners of any building or other property which, by the act to which this is a supplement or the various supplements and amendments thereto, is made the subject of liens for or toward the construction, altering, repair or improvement of which labor or services have been performed or materials furnished by contract, duly filed, shall, for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, or the various supplements and amendments thereto, or in advance of the terms of such contract, pay any money or other valuable thing on such contract, the amount still due to the contractor, after such payment has been made, shall be insufficient to satisfy the notices served in conformity with the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement or the various supplements or amendments thereto, such owner or owners shall be liable in the same manner as if no such payment had been made.

6. And be it enacted, That every mortgage upon lands in this state shall have priority over any claim which may be filed in pursuance of the act to which this is a supplement or the various supplements or amendments thereto, to the extent of the money actually advanced and paid by the mortgagee and applied to the erection of any new building upon the mortgaged lands or any alterations, repairs or additions to any building on said lands, provided such mortgage be recorded or registered before the filing of any such claim.

7. And be it enacted, That in all cases journeymen or laborers shall have priority and preference over any employers of labor, contractors or materialmen, for the payment of wages, without reference to the date when said journeymen or laborers shall have filed the lien or served the notices provided for in the act to which this act is a supplement or the several supplements or amendments thereto.

8. And be it enacted, That chapter two hundred and ninety-two of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and ninety, entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act to secure to mechanics and others payment for their labor and materials in erecting any building,' approved March twenty-seventh, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four," which supplement was approved June nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be and the same is hereby repealed.

9. And be it enacted, That an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'A supplement to an act entitled "An act to secure to mechanics and others payment for their labors and materials in erecting any building,"' approved March twenty-seventh, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four,' which supplement was approved June nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety," and which amendatory act was approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, be and the same is hereby repealed.

10. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLV.

An Act regarding honorably discharged union soldiers, sailors and mariners.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person now holding a position or office under the government of this state, or the government of any city or county of this state, or who may hereafter be appointed to any such position whose term of office is not now fixed by law, and receiving a salary from such city, county or the state, who is an honorably-discharged union soldier, sailor or mariner, having served in the war of the rebellion, shall be removed from such position or office except for good cause shown, after a fair and impartial hearing, but such honorably-discharged union soldier, sailor or mariner shall hold his position or office during good behavior, and shall not be removed for political reasons.

2. And be it enacted, That before any honorably discharged union soldier, sailor or mariner shall be dismissed from any position or office held by him in any department of the government of this state, or of any department of the government of any county or city of this state, charges shall be preferred against him, a copy of which must be served upon him, and a time set for the hearing of the same, at which the honorably-discharged union soldier, sailor or marine so accused shall have the right to be represented by counsel, if he so elect, and to produce witnesses and testimony in his own behalf.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any board of commissioners, mayor, aldermen, common council or other governing body in any municipality in this state, or of any county in this state, or of any department of the state government to abolish any position or office held by any honorably-discharged union soldier, sailor or marine or to change the title of any such office or position or reduce the emoluments thereof for the purpose of terminating the service of any such employee.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the preservation of clams and oysters," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any person who shall hereafter dredge upon, or shall throw or cast his oyster dredge or any other instrument used for the purpose of catching oysters upon any oyster bed duly staked up within or under any of the waters of this state belonging to or in possession of any other person or persons without the permission of the owner or holder of such oyster bed, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for any term not exceeding two years, or both; and any boat or vessel used or employed in the commission of such offense, with all her furniture, tackle and apparel, and all oysters on board thereof, shall be forfeited, and the same seized, secured and sold in the manner prescribed in the act entitled "An act for the preservation of clams and oysters," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and the supplements thereto, and the proceeds of such sale, after deducting all expenses, shall be paid to the collector of the oyster fund of Maurice river cove and Delaware bay oyster association.

2. And be it enacted, That any person who shall hereafter dredge for, or shall catch or take, or attempt to catch or take, any oysters planted in or under any of the waters of this state, the location of which planted oysters is indicated by stakes or buoys, without the permission of the owner of such planted oysters, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for any term not exceeding two years, or both; and any boat or vessel used or employed in the commission of such offense, with all her furniture, tackle and apparel, and all oysters on board thereof, shall be forfeited, and the same seized, secured and sold in the manner prescribed in the act entitled "An act for the preservation of clams and oysters," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and the supplements thereto, and the proceeds of such sale, after deducting all expenses, shall be paid to the collector of the oyster fund of the Maurice river cove and Delaware bay oyster association.

3. And be it enacted, That nothing in this act contained shall give to any person or persons the right or privilege, nor shall it confirm any supposed right or privilege, to stake up, take, have, hold, use, occupy, possess or enjoy any exclusive right in or to any natural oyster bed or ground.

4. And be it enacted, That all general acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLIX.

An Act to provide for the payment of expenses incurred by order of the supreme court.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any item of expense has been incurred by order of the supreme court in the execution of its duties, the payment of which is not otherwise provided for by law, the same shall, when so directed by the order of said court, be paid by the state treasurer, which order shall be countersigned by the comptroller, when attested by the justice of said court presiding therein at the time said order is made.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLX.

An Act concerning the qualification of commissioners appointed to assess benefits conferred by the construction of sewers and drains in certain cases.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where the benefits conferred by the construction of any sewer or drain shall extend beyond the line of such sewer or drain, no commissioner appointed to assess the benefits conferred by the construction of any such sewer or drain shall be disqualified because of his being interested as owner in any lands situate beyond the line of such sewer or drain, but included within the area or district benefited thereby.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXI.

An act for the incorporation of park trustees.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever a tract of land has heretofore been or may hereafter be conveyed to any persons in trust for use as a public park, and such park has been opened and established, it shall and may be lawful for such persons to become incorporated as hereinafter provided, and have, possess and enjoy all the powers and privileges which are now or may hereafter be granted to corporations as such by law; such persons so desiring to become incorporated shall make a certificate in writing under their hands and seals, which shall be filed and recorded with the clerk of the county wherein said park is situate; said certificate shall recite that the persons making the same are trustees, maintaining a public park, and the municipality, township or other place where the same is situated and maintained, and that that they desire to become incorporated under a name to be therein stated, which shall thereafter be the corporate name of the said corporation, and upon filing and recording of said certificate said trustees shall be and become a body politic and corporate in the law as aforesaid, and thereafter shall have and hold any property, real and personal, belonging to said trustees, as the property of said corporation; provided, however, that said corporation shall be subject to the same limitations and restrictions as the trustees are subjected to, as to the management of the trust, in and by virtue of the instrument creating them such trustees; membership in such corporation shall be created as provided by the by-laws of such corporations.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXII.

An Act to abolish the inferior courts of common pleas, courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery and courts of general quarter sessions of the peace, and to establish in their place a county court in each of the counties of this state, and to provide for and define the jurisdiction, powers and duties of such county courts.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the inferior courts of common pleas, courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery and courts of general quarter sessions of the peace in the several counties of this state, be and the same are hereby abolished, and that a county court be and the same is hereby established in each of the counties of this state, to be known and designated as the (name of county) county court, and which shall be a court of record, with the jurisdiction, powers and duties hereinafter stated and defined, and the common seal of the county shall be seal of the county court therein.

2. And be it enacted, That the legal voters of each of the counties in this state having a population exceeding forty-seven thousand inhabitants, according to the census of the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety, shall, at the next election for members of the general assembly, elect one judge to hold the county courts hereby established therein; that said voters of each of the other counties in this state shall jointly elect judges to hold said county courts therein as follows, namely, said voters of Atlantic and Ocean counties shall elect one judge; said voters of Gloucester and Salem counties shall elect one judge; said voters of Cumberland and Cape May counties shall elect one judge; said voters of Hunterdon and Somerset counties shall elect one judge; and said voters of Sussex and Warren counties shall elect one judge.

3. And be it enacted, That said judges shall be elected from among the qualified voters of the county or counties in and for which they are elected respectively; they shall be members of the bar of this state, and shall be commissioned by the governor, and hold office for the term of five years from and after the first day of December next; their successors shall be elected for terms of five years at the election for members of the general assembly held next before the expiration of each term, and in case any vacancy shall occur more than thirty days preceding any such election, the governor shall appoint and commission a judge qualified as aforesaid, to hold office until the first day of December following such appointment, and if any vacancy shall occur within such period of thirty days, such appointment and commission shall expire on the first day of December in the year next following, and the successors of the judges so appointed shall be elected at the election for members of the general assembly next preceding the expiration of the term for which they shall have been appointed; each judge, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall take and subscribe an oath to support the constitution of the State of New Jersey and of the United States, and to faithfully and impartially perform all of his official duties as such judge, according to the best of his ability and understanding; which oath shall be administered by a justice of the supreme court, and filed in the office of the secretary of state; and no judge elected or appointed under this act shall be allowed to practice in any of the courts of the county or counties in which he is elected or for which he may be appointed.

4. And be it enacted, That the annual salary of the judges elected in counties containing more than two hundred thousand inhabitants according to the then next preceding state or national census, shall be seven thousand and five hundred dollars; the annual salary of each of the other judges of said county courts shall be as follows, namely, judges elected in counties having between one hundred thousand and two hundred thousand inhabitants, according to such census, shall receive the sum of five thousand and five hundred dollars; in counties having between eighty thousand and one hundred thousand inhabitants according to such census, five thousand dollars; in counties having between seventy thousand and eighty thousand inhabitants, according to such census, four thousand five hundred dollars; and in counties having between forty-seven and seventy thousand inhabitants, according to such census, four thousand dollars; and judges elected by the voters of two counties jointly shall be paid at the same rate, according to the aggregate population of the counties in which they shall be elected, and each of such counties shall pay in proportion to the number of its inhabitants according to such census; provided, that the judges elected in two counties when the aggregate population thereof according to such census is not more than forty-seven thousand, shall be paid the sum of three thousand dollars annually; such salaries shall be paid by the collector or treasurer of the respective counties in equal monthly payments, and shall be in lieu of all fees and other compensation whatsoever and shall not be changed during the term for which any judge shall have been elected or appointed; and all fees which are now by law are divided among or paid to the judges or to any judge of any of the courts hereby abolished, shall not hereafter be taxed or collected.

5. And be it enacted, That the justices of the supreme court of this state, together with the judges to be elected or appointed in pursuance of this act, shall be judges of the county courts, and any county court may be held by any justice of the supreme court or by any judge of any of the county courts or by any such justice and judge sitting together; the clerks of the several counties shall be clerks of the county courts therein, respectively, and shall be entitled to the same fees as have been payable heretofore for similar services, and the sheriffs, coroners, elisors, and constables of the several counties of this state, for the time being, shall be the ministerial officers of the county courts held within their respective counties, and shall execute all writs, orders and processes issuing out of said courts and to them directed and delivered, and make true return thereof according to the command of the same, and they shall be entitled to the same fees as heretofore for similar services.

6. And be it enacted, That the county courts in the several counties in the state shall have jurisdiction and cognizance of all crimes, misdemeanors and offenses whatsoever which by the laws of this state are or shall be of an indictable or presentable nature, and which have been or shall be committed, done or attempted within the counties respectively, and of causes of civil and penal action arising therein; and the said county courts shall have, and they and each of them are hereby invested with and may exercise all the jurisdiction, powers and authority heretofore conferred upon or lawfully exercised by any and all of the courts mentioned in the first section of this act; both by way of original jurisdiction and on appeal; and for the purpose of properly hearing and determining the matters and causes of action committed to said county courts in and by this act, and to facilitate the administration by said courts of the laws applicable to such matters and causes of action, it shall be lawful for said courts to proceed in the manner and according to the methods, rules and practice heretofore provided, established and prevailing in any of the courts hereby abolished until such methods of practice shall be changed by rules, as provided in this act or otherwise, according to law; and all proceedings and acts had and taken before such county courts shall be of the same validity, force and effect as if the same were had and taken prior to the passage of this act before the several courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery and general quarter sessions of the peace, and the courts of common pleas in the several counties of this state; and every judge of a county court shall have and may exercise all the rights and powers which have heretofore been vested in or exercised by any judge or law judge or president or presiding judge or by the judges of any of the said courts acting or sitting together, and shall perform all the duties heretofore imposed on or required of any such judge or judges; provided, that a justice of the supreme court shall preside at the trial of any presentment or indictment for a crime punishable by death.

7. And be it enacted, That whenever any person shall be charged upon oath or affirmation with any offense cognizable before such county courts, and the person so charged shall in writing signed by him or her, and addressed to the prosecutor of the pleas of the county, waive indictment and trial by jury and request to be tried immediately before the county court of the county in which it is charged that such offense was committed, it shall be the duty of the prosecutor to apply to the judge of the county court of such county to appoint a special session of such court for the purpose of trying such person; and such judge is hereby authorized to appoint such session and try the person so charged for such offense.

8. And be it enacted, That all proceedings of whatever kind that shall have been commenced before the first Monday of December next in any of the courts abolished by this act shall, on said Monday of December, be transferred to and continued in the county courts of the respective counties in which such proceedings shall have been commenced and shall be proceeded with as if commenced originally in the county courts; and all suits and proceedings that shall have been commenced, and all orders and judgments that shall have been made or entered in any of the courts hereby abolished prior to the said Monday of December next, shall be continued and enforced by said county courts as if originally made or entered therein; and all records of said court hereby abolished, and all papers and documents on file in the offices of the clerks thereof relating to said courts or to proceedings therein, shall, on and after said Monday of December, be taken, treated and regarded as records of the county courts respectively, and the same or copies thereof may be certified or exemplified by the judges and clerks of said courts, respectively in the manner provided or required by law.

9. And be it enacted, That the judges of the county courts respectively may adopt and settle rules of practice in all matters not regulated by statute for the government of said county courts and of proceedings therein, and may, from time to time, alter, repeal and modify the same as occasion may require.

10. And be it enacted, That the terms of the county courts shall begin in each county at the time and place of beginning the terms of the circuit courts therein, and they may adjourn from time to time and hold special terms when deemed necessary; all writs and processes issuing out of any county court shall be tested in the name of the judge thereof, or in the name of a judge authorized to hold such court; and it shall be lawful for said county courts, in their discretion at any time when the general panel of jurors shall not be in attendance, to issue a special venire to summon a jury for the trial of any cause that may be pending therein on the application of either or any party thereto.

11. And be it enacted, That any final judgment of a county court may be removed into the supreme court by a writ of error or certiorari in the same manner as final judgments of the courts of common pleas, courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, and general quarter sessions of the peace have heretofore been removed.

12. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general, special or local, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed; provided, that the several courts mentioned in the first section of this act shall continue to exist and exercise their jurisdiction and powers as heretofore until the first Monday of December next.

Passed March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXIII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the orphans' court and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and the orphans' court and surrogates."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "An act respecting the orphans' court and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and orphans' court and surrogates" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the judges of the county courts of the respective counties of this state shall be and they are hereby constituted judges of the orphans' court heretofore established therein; and each judge of the county courts may hold the orphans' court in any county.

2. And be it enacted, That the judges of the orphans' court respectively shall not be entitled to demand or receive any fees, compensation or salary for services rendered by them as judges of said courts in addition to the salaries to which they shall be entitled respectively as judges of said county courts, and no fees or costs shall be hereafter taxed or collected for any such services.

3. And be it enacted, That the orphans' courts in the several counties of this state may each adopt and use an official seal.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect on the first Monday of December next.

Passed March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXIV.

An Act to enable the city clerk of cities of the first class in this state to designate a clerk in the office of the city clerk to act as city clerk.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the city clerk of any city of the first class in this state shall be authorized to designate from the clerks in his office a clerk to act as acting city clerk during his absence or disability, which designation shall be made in writing and addressed to the board having the control of finances in said city, which designation shall be operative until the resumption of the work of the office by the city clerk.

2. And be it enacted, That such acting city clerk shall perform all of the duties of the office of city clerk during such absence or disability of the city clerk, which said city clerk shall be responsible for the acts and doings of such clerk so designated as acting city clerk.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 18, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXV.

An Act authorizing the relaying and repair of sidewalks in townships of this state, and to provide for the assessment and collection of the costs and expenses incurred therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the township committees of the several townships of this state be and they are hereby authorized by ordinance to provide for the relaying and repair of sidewalks in the several townships in this state, in such localities, of such width and material and of such length as they may deem best; that upon the passage of such ordinance by any township committee it shall be the duty of the township clerk to notify, in writing, the owner or owners of all lands adjacent to such proposed improvement of the adoption of such ordinance, and requiring the owner or owners to make or cause to be made, under the supervision of said town committees, the improvements therein and thereby provided for in front of their said lands respectively within thirty days after service of such notice, and that in default thereof such improvement will be made by said township committee at the expense of such owner or owners; such notice shall be served personally upon such property owner or owners when he, she or they reside within the township where such improvement is proposed, or by leaving the same at his or her residence with some member of his or her family above the age of fourteen years; but when such owner or owners reside without the limits of said township such notice shall be served either personally or by mailing the same to such owner or owners at his, her or their proper post office address, if the same can be ascertained, but if the same cannot be ascertained after due inquiry, then such notice may be given by publishing the same once a week for at least two weeks in some newspaper published in said township, if any; or if no newspaper shall be published in said township, then by publishing the same in some newspaper published in the county in which said township lies, and circulating therein, for the same period in the same manner.

2. And be it enacted, That, in default of any property owner or owners making such improvement within thirty days after being notified as aforesaid, the said township committee shall and may without delay proceed to relay or repair said sidewalk, make or cause the same to be relaid or repaired in front of the property of such owner or owners and shall pay the costs and expenses of the same to the person or persons entitled to receive the same; the said township committee shall cause said work to be done by contract in all cases where the amount of work to be done is estimated to cost more than one hundred dollars, and shall in such case invite bids for said work by public notice given once a week for at least two weeks in some newspaper printed and published in the township, and if there be no such newspaper, then in some newspaper printed and published in the county and circulating in said township; said township is hereby empowered to issue promissory notes of said township in payment of the cost and expenses of said work.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever said work shall be done in whole or in part by any township committee pursuant to this act, it shall be the duty of said committee to ascertain and determine the costs and expenses of doing such work in front of and adjacent to the lands of any and every owner neglecting or refusing to make such improvement after notice as aforesaid, and thereupon to assess such costs and expenses upon and against the said land of such owner or owners respectively, and to file such assessment under the hands and seals of said township committee with the clerk of said township.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the township clerk of said township to receive and file said assessment and within five days thereafter to deliver a certified copy thereof to the collector of said township; and from and after the filing of said assessment with the clerk of said township said assessment shall be and remain a first and paramount lien upon the lots assessed for the amounts thereon assessed respectively, with interest at six per centum from the time of such filing, and also for all costs and fees thereon until the same be paid and satisfied, notwithstanding any devise, descent or alienation thereof, or any judgment, mortgage or incumbrance thereon, and notwithstanding any mistake in the name or names of the owner, or omission to name the owner or owners thereof, and any assessment in which such omission or mistake occurs shall nevertheless be a valid and effectual lien upon the lands assessed.

5. And be it enacted, That the assessments so imposed shall be collected by the same officer or officers and at the same time and in the same manner that taxes are or may be collected in the township where said improvement is made.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 18, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXVI.

An Act concerning the registrar of vital statistics in cities of the second class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the second class of this state the city clerk shall be registrar of vital statistics; provided, however, that this act shall not affect any city now having a registrar of vital statistics.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 18, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXVIII.

An Act relating to life insurance companies doing business in the state of New Jersey, and to the representatives of such companies.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no life insurance company doing business in the state of New Jersey shall make or permit any distinction or discrimination in favor of individuals between insurants of the same class and equal expectation of life in the amount of payment of premiums or rates charged for policies of life or endowment insurance, or in the dividends or other benefits payable thereon, or in any other of the terms and conditions of the contracts it makes; nor shall any such company or agent, or sub-agent thereof, or any other person make any contract of insurance or agreement as to such contract, other than is plainly expressed in the policy issued thereon; nor shall any such company or any agent or sub-agent thereof or any other person, directly or indirectly pay or allow, or offer to pay or allow, as inducement to insurance, or after the insurance shall have been effected, any rebate of premium payable on the policy, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefit to accrue thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever not specified in the policy contract of insurance.

2. And be it enacted, That any person or corporation violating any of the provisions of the preceding section of this act shall, for each and every offense, forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars for every twenty-five hundred dollars of insurance or fraction thereof effected by the said policy contract of insurance; such penalty to be sued for and recovered with costs in an action of debt in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county where the offense shall have been committed, or in any county wherein such offender may reside or be served with process, by any person who shall sue for the same; one-half of such penalty shall be for the benefit of the person prosecuting the suit and the other half shall be paid to the state treasurer for the benefit of the school fund of the state; and in case the defendant in any suit shall neglect or refuse to pay the amount recovered against him, it shall be lawful for such court in which such judgment has been obtained to issue its process against the body of the defendant and to cause him to be committed to the jail of the county until the judgment and costs are paid, the imprisonment, however, not to exceed sixty days from the date of such commitment.

3. And be enacted, That no agent, sub-agent or other person against whom final judgment may have been recovered under the second section of this act, shall solicit applications for life insurance in this state, or in any way, directly or indirectly, act as the agent of any life insurance company doing business in this state within two years after the recovery of such final judgment; and any person so offending against the provisions of this section of this act shall be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, and on being thereof convicted shall be punished by a fine not less than five hundred dollars nor exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for any term not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXIX.

An act to enable cities of the second class in this state to reconstruct old school-houses or to purchase additional land and construct new school-houses thereon to take the place thereof, and to issue bonds of such city for the payment of such expenditures.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter in any city of the second class in this state where any public school-house shall be in a dilapidated, unsanitary, unsafe or unsatisfactory condition for school purposes, it shall be lawful for the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of every such city to borrow money to an amount not exceeding the sum of one hundred thousand dollars for the purchase of additional or other ground as may seem best for school purposes and thereon to reconstruct such school-house, or to build another to use in place thereof, on a larger scale, and with better and more modern appointments.

2. And be it enacted, That the said common council, board of aldermen or other governing body to secure the payment of the said sum or sums so borrowed may issue bonds of such city not to exceed the said sum of one hundred thousand dollars, payable in not more than twenty years at a rate not to exceed five per centum, pledging the faith and credit of such city for the payment thereof, which bonds shall be sold to the highest bidder at not less than par value, after first having advertised the same for sale in two newspapers of the county for at least two weeks; provided, that the purchase of land for all such purposes and the erecting and furnishing and reconstruction of any school-house with the money so borrowed shall be done solely and entirely by the board of education in every such city, and the money so borrowed shall be placed to the credit of said board of education for the purposes aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXX.

A Further supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of education, board of school trustees, or other body having charge and control of the public schools in any school district in this state acting under a special charter, is hereby authorized and empowered for the purpose of building or enlarging any school-house or houses in said district, to borrow such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for that purpose; provided, the legal voters of said district shall have first authorized and determined the amount that may be borrowed for said purpose, by a majority of the votes cast at an annual election or at a special election called by said board or said other body for that purpose; and provided, further, that the said board or said other body shall have made an estimate of the amount necessary to be borrowed for such purpose, and notice in writing of such estimate shall have been set up by the district clerk in seven of the most public places in said district at least ten days before the time for holding said election.

2. And be it enacted, That the money borrowed by virtue of this act shall be secured by bonds issued in the corporate name of the said school district, to be known as district school bonds, which bonds shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually; and the said bonds shall and are hereby declared to be the first lien upon the school-house and the lot on which the same is erected, and, for the erection, enlarging or repair of which they shall have been issued; that such loan may be paid at such times and in such amounts as said board of education, board of school trustees or other body borrowing money under the provisions of this act may direct; provided, that the first payment on any such loan shall become and be payable not later than five years from the date of said loan.

3. And be it enacted, That if any charter of any incorporated school district in this state shall limit the amount of the indebtedness that may be incurred or shall limit the amount of tax or the rate of taxation in any incorporated school district, or by its terms prevent the carrying out of the provisions of this act, the said charter shall not hereafter be held to apply to the raising of money under the provisions of this act, any public, local, special or other law to the contrary notwithstanding.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the officer or board charged with the raising, levying and assessing of taxes in any school district issuing bonds under the provisions of his act, to assess upon the inhabitants thereof and their estates and the taxable property therein, an amount sufficient to pay the bonds of the said district maturing in such year, together with the interest accruing upon the whole issue of the unpaid bonds of such district, and the tax thus ordered shall be assessed, levied, collected and paid over in the same manner as other taxes for school purposes are assessed, levied, collected and paid in said school district.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the better regulation of the proceedings upon writs of mandamus," approved December second, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all proceedings of mandamus, to enforce the collection or payment of a tax or appropriation, it shall and may be lawful to plead and show as a defense that such tax or appropriation is in whole or in part illegal.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section seventy-three of an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy four, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

73. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the trustees of the school fund of this state, on or before the fifteenth day of November of every year, to appropriate out of the annual income of the fund for the support of public schools the sum of two hundred thousand dollars; and if the annual income of said fund shall not have been received in full, or shall be insufficient for that purpose, then the said trustees are hereby authorized and empowered to draw for any sum necessary to make up the deficiency, by warrant, signed by the comptroller, upon the treasurer of the state, who is directed to pay the same; which sum, so drawn from the treasury aforesaid, shall be replaced from the annual income of said school fund as soon as the same shall be received.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXIII.

An Act to repeal a further supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of villages," approved February twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, said further supplement approved May fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That an act entitled a further supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of villages," approved February twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, said further supplement approved May fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of villages," approved February twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the legal voters of any village formed under the act to which this is a supplement, out of part of a township, shall, at the annual election for village officers, elect a collector of taxes, an overseer of the poor, and three judicious freeholders, to hear and determine all appeals in cases of taxation, to be known as commissioners of appeal, the said collector and overseer each to hold his office for the term of three years and until his successor shall be qualified, and to give bond to the said village for the faithful performance of his duties, in such sum and sureties as the board of village trustees of such village shall determine, and the said commissioners of appeal to hold their office for the term of one year; the said collector, overseer and commissioners of appeal of such village to act in the limits of such village in the place of the collector, overseer and commissioners of appeal of the township wherein such village lies, to have the same powers and authority, to be subject to the same duties and penalties, and to receive the same compensation as is now provided by law in regard to the collector and commissioners of appeal of such township respectively, except that the compensation of such overseer shall be fixed annually by the board of village trustees; provided, however, that no election of any of said officers shall be had unless the legal voters of said village shall by an election held for that purpose determine to elect any one or all of said officers.

2. And be it enacted, That the assessor of said village shall be paid the same fees for his services as are now paid to the assessor of the township wherein such village lies, and all fees to be paid to such assessor, collector and commissioners of appeal shall be paid wholly by the trustees of said village, and not by the said township.

3. And be it enacted, That section sixty of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

60. And be it enacted, That the board of trustees, in order to pay the expenses of any such improvement or any improvement in relation to sidewalks made by the said trustees under the provisions of section forty-three of this act, may borrow the money necessary therefor upon the promissory notes of such corporation or by the issue of temporary improvement certificates from time to time as the work progresses in such form as the board may prescribe; said notes and certificates to bear interest at a rate not to exceed six per centum per annum, to be fixed by the board, and shall be payable of not more than three years from the date of their issue, and that receipts from assessments for such improvement shall be paid to the treasurer and shall be applied to the payment of indebtedness incurred by the village therefor.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXV.

An Act to establish the rate of interest on arrears of taxes and assessments in cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the common council or other board having charge and control of the finances of any city in this state may, by the same vote required to expend moneys, fix and change by resolution the rate of interest on all past-due taxes and assessments of all kinds which were due prior to January first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, at and after a rate of not less than seven per centum per annum; provided, however, that such rate shall apply only to such taxes and assessments as are still due and unpaid to said city, and shall not apply to any taxes or assessments that have been or may be adjusted under the act of the legislature entitled "An act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in cities of this state, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to further taxation and assessment," passed March thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, so far as may conflict herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXVI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for rendering the proceedings upon information in the nature of a quo warranto more speedy and effectual," passed March seventeenth, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter any relator or relators, upon the entry of judgment of ouster in the supreme court in respect to any office or franchise within this state, upon any proceedings upon information in the nature of a quo warranto, wherein such relator or relators shall theretofore have had judgment of ouster in said court, shall be entitled at once upon the entry thereof to enter, possess and enjoy the office in respect to which the said proceedings, whereon the said judgment may be founded, were or shall be taken; and that the said court or any judge thereof may, upon the entry of such judgment, thereupon make an order on any defendant in such proceedings requiring him immediately to surrender any such office or franchise, with all the books, papers and insignia thereof, to the relator or relators; and no writ of error or other proceedings shall in any wise affect the right of such relator or relators to immediate entry into such office or franchise; provided, that such relator or relators shall, upon his or their entry into such office or franchise, give bond to the defendant or defendants in such sum and with such surety or sureties as the supreme court or any judge thereof shall approve, conditioned for the repayment to the the defendant of the emoluments of the office or franchise during such relator's incumbency therein to which such defendants may be adjudged to be entitled, as well as the costs of the defendant, in the event of the subsequent reversal of the judgment of ouster in the said proceedings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXVII.

A Supplement to "An act relative to the state house and adjacent public grounds," passed March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the governor, the treasurer and the comptroller, or a majority of them, be and are hereby authorized and required to effect and maintain insurance against loss or damage by fire upon the state house and the contents thereof, in such a sum as in their judgment may be necessary and sufficient.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXVIII.

An Act in relation to mutual fire insurance companies.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for any mutual fire insurance association, organized under the laws of this state, to insure buildings, farm produce and other personal property against loss or damage by lightning or fire, wheresoever the same may be located.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXIX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act providing for the formation and establishment of wards in cities of the first class in this state," approved May sixteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the first class in this state in which new ward lines may have been or shall hereafter be established under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, there shall be elected at the first charter election ensuing after the formation of such new wards, one alderman from each of the wards thus formed, who shall hold the offices to which they have been elected for the term of two years; and that one alderman shall be elected each year thereafter in each of the said wards, to hold office for a like term; and other officers required to be elected in said new wards shall be elected to such number only as would have been required to be elected for full terms in such wards had the new wards been the original wards theretofore provided for by law.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXX.

An Act respecting local boards of health in cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where the board of health of any city in this state shall have established or shall hereafter establish a plant for the production of diphtheria anti-toxin serum, and shall be engaged in the production of diphtheria antitoxin serum, that such board of health shall have power from time to time and at such price as they shall determine, to sell to any other municipality or to any person desiring to purchase the same, such surplus diphtheria anti-toxin serum as they may have and which is not needed in the city in which such health board is located.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "Further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to regulate elections,' approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six," which supplement was approved April twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section twenty-seven of an act entitled "An act to regulate elections," approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, which section was amended by a supplement to said act approved April twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

27. And be it enacted, That the board of chosen freeholders of each county and the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of each city and incorporated town and each township, shall, when new boxes are required, provide and keep in good repair such ballot-boxes for the use of each township, ward or election district, which box shall be made at least one foot in depth, width and length, measuring the same on the exterior thereof, and may provide a ballot-box known as the "safety ballot-box" of Camden, New Jersey, and that no sum in excess of twenty-five dollars shall be paid for each ballot-box, and that the said ballot-box may be furnished to the respective municipalities and townships before the first day of October, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five; said ballot-box shall be so constructed as to have four glass sides, supported by four upright columns, and that no bolts, screws or other attachments by which the box is held together shall be exposed on the outside; and that the said ballot-box shall be secured by three patent locks, no two keys of which are alike, and these locks in turn to be covered by an outer door, connected by a rod running to dial in front of the box, which is sealed and in full view of the voter, and each vote cast to be recorded in figures plainly visible in the front of box.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 19, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXIII.

An act to establish and maintain a state museum.

Whereas, The governor of this state has recommended that the exhibits of the several departments of the state government at the Columbian exposition at Chicago be placed on permanent exhibition; and whereas, said exhibits would form a nucleus of an exhibit which would be of great value in showing the educational, agricultural and industrial development of the state; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the commission now having charge of the restoration of the state house shall have power, and it shall be its duty, to cause to be prepared suitable rooms in said state house for a museum for the preservation and display of the exhibits of the several state departments at the Chicago exposition, and for such other exhibits as may from time to time be placed therein by the commission having control of said museum, as provided in the second section of this act, and the expenses incurred in the preparation of said rooms shall be paid on the warrant of the comptroller out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

2. And be it enacted, That the state superintendent of public instruction, the state geologist, the president of the state board of agriculture, the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of assembly, are hereby constituted a commission, which commission shall have control of said museum, and shall make all necessary rules and regulations for the proper care and maintenance thereof, and said commission may appoint a curator, who shall, under the direction of the said commission, arrange and classify the several exhibits, and shall have charge of said museum and exhibits, and shall perform such other duties in connection therewith as shall be directed by said commission, and he shall be paid such a compensation as such commission shall determine, but not to exceed the sum of fifteen hundred dollars per annum which compensation shall be paid by the state treasurer in equal monthly installments upon the warrant of the comptroller.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXIV.

An Act relative to the formation of surety companies and regulating surety companies doing business in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for seven or more persons to associate themselves into a company to carry on the business of indemnity and suretyship upon making and filing a certificate in writing of their organization in manner hereinafter mentioned, and every company so formed shall, besides the powers conferred by this act, be additionally possessed of all powers and be subject to all restrictions thereon contained in the general act entitled "An act concerning corporations," as far as the same are consistent with this act, and be subject to the provisions and regulations of the act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and subject to the provisions of the act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation," and incorporation of insurance companies," approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

2. And be it enacted, That such certificate in writing, shall set forth:

I. The name assumed to designate such company and to be used in its business and dealings;

II. The place or places in this state or elsewhere where the business of the company is to be conducted, and the place in this state where its principal office is to be located and the place where its principal office and place of business, if any, out of this state it is to be located;

III. The objects for which the company shall be formed;

IV. The amount of the capital stock of such company, which shall not be less than one hundred thousand dollars; the amount with which they will commence business, which shall not be less than fifty thousand dollars; and the number of shares into which the same is divided and the par value of each share, which certificate shall be proved or acknowledged and recorded as required of deeds of real estate in a book to be kept for that purpose in the office of the clerk of the county where the principal office of the company in this state shall be established, and, after being so recorded, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and said certificate, or a copy thereof, duly certified by said clerk or secretary, shall be evidence in all courts and places, and from the filing of such certificate said persons so associating, their successors and assigns, shall be incorporated into a company by the name mentioned in said certificate.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever any bond, undertaking, recognizance or other obligation is, by law, or the charter, ordinances, rules or regulations of any municipality, board, body, organization, court or public officer, required or permitted to be made, given, tendered or filed, with surety or sureties, and whenever the performance of any act, duty or obligation, or the refraining from any act is required or permitted to be guaranteed, such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guarantee may be executed by such surety company qualified to act as surety or guarantor as hereinafter provided; and such execution by such company of such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guarantee shall be, in all respects, a full and complete compliance with every requirement of every law, charter, ordinance, rule or regulation that such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guarantee shall be executed by one surety or by one or more sureties, or that such sureties shall be residents or householders or freeholders, or either or both, or possess any other qualification; and all courts, judges, heads of departments, boards, bodies, municipalities and public officers of every character shall accept and treat accordingly such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guarantee, when so executed by such company, as conforming to and fully and completely complying with such law, charter, ordinance, rule or regulation.

4. And be it enacted, That such company, to be qualified to so act as surety or guarantor, must comply with the requirements of every law of this state applicable to such company in doing business therein; must have good available assets exceeding its liabilities, which liabilities, for the purposes of this act, shall be taken to be its capital stock, its outstanding debts and a premium reserve at the rate of fifty per centum of the annual premiums on all outstanding bonds, undertakings, recognizances and obligations of like character in force; must have on deposit with the comptroller of this state at least fifty thousand dollars in good securities, worth at par and market value at least that sum, and held for the benefit of the holders of the obligations of such company; must file with the commissioner of banking and insurance a certified copy of its certificate of incorporation, a written application to be authorized to do business under this act, and also with said application, and in each year thereafter in January, a statement signed and sworn to by its president or vice president and its secretary or assistant secretary, made up to December thirty-first preceding, stating the amount of its paid-up cash capital, particularizing each item of investment, the amount of premium on existing bonds upon which it is surety, the amount of liability for unearned portion thereof, estimated at the rate of fifty per centum of the annual premium on all outstanding obligations, stating also the amount of its outstanding debts of all kinds and such further statement similarly verified as may be by the laws of this state required of such company in transacting business therein; said securities deposited with said comptroller shall remain with him in trust to answer any default of such company as surety upon any such bond, undertaking, recognizance or other obligation established by final judgment upon which execution may lawfully be issued against said company, said comptroller and his successors in office being hereby directed to so receive and thereafter retain such deposit under this act in trust for the purposes hereof, such company, however, at all times to have the right to collect the interest, dividends and profits upon such securities, and from time to time to withdraw said securities or portions thereof, substituting therefor others of equally good character and value to the satisfaction of the comptroller; and such securities and substitutes therefor shall be at all times exempt from and not subject to levy under any writ or process of attachment and, further, shall not be sold under any process against such company without at least thirty days' notice to said company specifying the time, place and manner of such sale and the process under which and purposes for which it is made, accompanied by a copy of such process; provided, however, that a foreign corporation having not less than one hundred thousand dollars in good securities deposited with a state officer of the state where it is incorporated and held for the benefit of the holders of its obligations as hereinafter provided, and not engaging in the business of executing or guaranteeing bonds, undertakings, recognizances or other obligations, in actions or proceedings, legal, equitable or otherwise, or which are required by law or by the charter, ordinances, rules or regulations of any county, municipality, township, town, village or borough commission for the performance of any written contract for work or supplies or for the enforcement of any penalty of forfeiture provided for in such contract shall not be required to make deposit of fifty thousand dollars with the comptroller as in this section provided.

5. And be it enacted, That no surety company shall hereafter be formed in this state except in pursuance of this act.

6. And be it enacted, That any corporation of another state which is by the laws of the state where it was incorporated and under its charter authorized to become surety upon such bonds and undertakings as are in this act mentioned, may engage in the business of suretyship and indemnity in this state in the same manner and to the same extent as allowed by corporations created under this act; provided, that said foreign corporation shall comply with all the requirements of the fourth section of this act, except as therein otherwise provided concerning a foreign corporation; and in addition thereto shall establish that it has on deposit with the superintendent of insurance or other state officer of the state where incorporated in good securities worth at par and at market value at least one hundred thousand dollars, held for the security of its obligations, and has a fully paid-up, safely invested and unimpaired capital of at least two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and also appoint an attorney in this state upon whom process of law can be served, and file in the office of the commissioner of banking and insurance a written instrument, duly signed and sealed, certifying such appointment, together with the residence and office of such attorney within the state, which appointment shall continue until another attorney be substituted.

7. And be it enacted, That whenever any such company, domestic or foreign, has been engaged in this state in the indemnity or suretyship business as contemplated by this act and has made deposit in this state in trust or otherwise, of securities to answer any default of such company upon any bond, undertaking, recognizance, guarantee or obligation, such securities so deposited shall be by the trustee or custodian thereof transferred, and delivered to said comptroller in trust for the same purposes, under and subject to all the rights and equities of all parties interested and to the terms and provisions of this act, and thereupon such deposit shall remain in trust under and subject to the terms and provisions of this act; and whenever such deposit has been made with a trustee by order of any court, it shall be the duty of such court, by order or otherwise, to direct such transfer to said comptroller; in case such deposit is less than the sum of fifty thousand dollars, then such company must deposit with said comptroller securities sufficient to increase such deposit to said sum of fifty thousand dollars as required by this act.

8. And be it enacted, That the commissioner of banking and insurance, upon due proof by any such domestic or foreign company of its possessing the qualifications in this act specified, shall issue to such company a certificate setting forth that such company has qualified and is authorized for the ensuing year to do business under this act, which said certificate shall be evidence of such qualification of such company and of its authorization to become and be accepted as sole surety on all bonds, undertakings, recognizances and obligations required or permitted by law, or the charter, ordinances, rules or regulations of any municipality, board, body, organization or public officer, and the solvency and credit of such company for all purposes and its sufficiency as such surety.

9. And be it enacted, That any such surety company, domestic or foreign, may at any time surrender to the commissioner of banking and insurance its said certificate of qualification, and shall thereafter cease to engage in the said business of suretyship and indemnity; such company shall thereupon be entitled to the release and return of its said securities deposited as aforesaid in manner following: said company shall file with said commissioner a statement in writing, under oath, giving the date, name and amount of all its then existing obligations of suretyship or indemnity in this state, setting down the facts of each case, and said commissioner, after an examination of the facts, shall require said company to file with the comptroller a bond to the state, in the penalty of not less than twenty nor more than fifty thousand dollars, executed by said company and two or more responsible freeholders of this state, or a responsible surety company of this state qualified as aforesaid, conditioned for the prompt fulfillment by said company of all its said outstanding obligations of suretyship and indemnity, and stipulating that the makers of said bond may be joined as defendants to any action upon any of the aforesaid obligations of suretyship or indemnity of said company, and that if judgment in such action be rendered against said company it may at the same time be rendered and enforced against the makers of said bond without further or other action against them, and such bond shall stand for the security and benefit of all persons interested in said outstanding obligations of suretyship and indemnity; upon approving and filing such bond said commissioner shall deliver said securities to said company.

10. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation, establishment and government of towns," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, conferring upon towns formed and established under previous acts of the legislature of this state the powers, authority and franchises conferred upon towns organized, or to be organized under the act to which this is a supplement, and giving to the acts and proceedings of such towns the force, effect and validity of acts done and proceedings had and taken under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That every town government heretofore established, formed under and in accordance with the provisions of the acts of the legislature of this state for the formation and government of towns which has been in fact constituted, formed and organized substantially in the manner directed by the act to which this is a supplement, containing within its limits and jurisdiction the population therein required, whether the authority to form such government has been lawfully conferred or not, shall be deemed, held and taken to be a town government created under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement; and each and every of such governments is hereby constituted and made a town government, as fully to all intents and purposes as if the proceedings for the formation of the same had been instituted, and the said governments had been formed under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement; and every such town government is hereby perpetuated and continued and authorized, without reorganization or further proceeding, to assume and exercise all the powers, privileges and franchises conferred upon town governments by the said act to which this is a supplement; and that all officers heretofore appointed, chosen or elected in any such town government shall continue in office until the expiration of the term or terms for which they were originally appointed or elected, with all the powers and subject to all the duties and responsibilities that are conferred upon or imposed upon like officers appointed, elected or chosen, or to be appointed, elected or chosen in governments formed and organized under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement; and that all laws, ordinances, acts and proceedings of every such government heretofore passed, done and taken shall have the same force, validity and effect as if they had been passed, had, done and taken by governments organized under and in pursuance of the authority of the act to which this is a supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXVI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act providing for the formation, establishment and government of towns," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section eleven of an act entitled "An act providing for the formation, establishment and government of towns," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, be and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows:

11. And be it enacted, That the annual town election shall be held on the second Tuesday in April in each year, between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and seven o'clock in the afternoon, at the place or places in each ward designated by the council; notice of the time and place or places of such election and of the officers to be chosen shall be given by the town clerk at least two weeks before the day of election, by publication in at least one newspaper published in the county in which the town is situated and generally circulating in the town; no person shall be permitted to vote at any such election unless he is an actual resident of the election district in which he offers his vote; immediately after the polls shall be closed at any such election the election officers of each election district shall count the votes given for the several candidates, and certify under their hands the number given for each, and publicly announce the same; and within twenty-four hours thereafter they shall immediately deliver one such statement to the judge or inspector, who shall be delegated to attend the meeting of the board of town canvassers, and one to the town clerk and one to the county clerk, to be by them filed in their respective offices.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXVII.

An Act to repeal an act entitled "An act to provide for admission of certain persons resident of this state to practice as attorneys and counsellors in the supreme court of this state," approved April thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That chapter one hundred and seven of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, entitled "An act to provide for admission of certain persons residents of this state to practice as attorneys and counsellors in the supreme court of this state," approved April thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXVIII.

An Act in relation to the salary of comptrollers in certain cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of aldermen or common council of any city having a population exceeding seventy-five thousand inhabitants may, by resolution, increase the annual salary of the comptroller of the city to an amount not exceeding two thousand dollars; provided, however, that this act shall not be construed to limit the salary of such officer in such cities where such officer now receives a larger annual salary.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CLXXXIX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of pharmacy in the state of New Jersey," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of pharmacy in the state of New Jersey," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty six, be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That from and after the passage of this act it shall not be lawful for any person not a registered pharmacist, within the meaning of this act, to conduct any store or pharmacy for retailing, dispensing or compounding drugs, medicines or poisons, or for anyone not a registered pharmacist or qualified assistant to prepare and dispense physicians' prescriptions, or to retail or dispense medicines or poisons, except under the immediate supervision of a registered pharmacist.

2. And be it enacted, That on or before the first day of June next the New Jersey pharmaceutical association shall submit to the governor the names of fifteen pharmacists doing business within this state, from which number the governor shall appoint five persons, who shall constitute the board of pharmacy of the state of New Jeasey, and who shall hold office for the term of one, two, three, four and five years, as designated in their respective appointments, and until their successors shall have been appointed and qualified; the New Jersey pharmaceutical association shall annually thereafter nominate to the governor five pharmacists, of whom the governor shall appoint one to fill the vacancy annually occurring in the said board, who shall hold office for five years and until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified; any vacancy occurring in said board shall be filled by the governor for the unexpired term from among the persons last nominated to him; each person so appointed shall, within thirty days after appointment, take and subscribe an oath, before any officer authorized to administer oaths in the state, that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties prescribed by this act.

3. And be it enacted, That the board of pharmacy shall organize by electing a president, a secretary and a treasurer, and shall have power to make by-laws and rules for the proper fulfillment of its duties under this act; it shall meet on the third Thursday of January, April, July and October in the city of Trenton, and at such other places and dates as may be required; it shall examine into all applications for registration and grant certificates of registration to all persons whom it shall judge, on examination, to be properly qualified to practice pharmacy; it shall keep a book of registration, in which shall be entered the names and places of business of all persons registered under this act, and shall also keep a book of record of all its official transactions, which book shall be legal evidence of such transactions in any court of law; it shall have power to examine into all cases of alleged abuse, fraud and incompetence, cause the prosecution of all persons not complying with the provisions of this act, and suspend and revoke the registration of any person legally convicted of violating the same, or of any person addicted to chronic and persistent inebriety, or of any person convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude; it shall annually report to the governor and to the president of the New Jersey pharmaceutical association upon the condition of pharmacy in the state, which report shall embrace a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures of the board; the members of such board shall receive the sum of five dollars for each day actually engaged in this service, to be paid from the fees and penalties collected under the provisions of this act, and all moneys thus collected by said board in excess of said per diem allowances and of the necessary expenses of said board, shall be paid to the treasurer of the New Jersey pharmaceutical association at its annual meeting; three members of the board shall constitute a quorum.

4. And be it enacted, That every person applying for registration as pharmacist under this act shall not be less than twenty-one years of age and shall furnish satisfactory evidence that he has had at least four years' experience in the practice of pharmacy and pay to the secretary of the board of pharmacy a fee of ten dollars, and upon passing an examination satisfactory to said board, he shall receive from said board a certificate of registration; in case of failure to pass a satisfactory examination, the applicant shall be granted a second examination (without the payment of another fee) at any time within one year from his first examination; and that the board of pharmacy shall grant an assistant's certificate to any person not less than eighteen years of age, who shall have had three years' practical experience in pharmacies where prescriptions have been usually compounded, and shall have passed a satisfactory examination before said board of pharmacy; which certificate shall entitle such person to all the privileges of a registered pharmacist during the temporary absence of his employer, and shall not entitle such assistant to engage in business on his own account or as manager to conduct a pharmacy; every person applying for an assistant's certificate shall pay to the secretary of the board of pharmacy a fee of five dollars before examination; in case of failure to pass a satisfactory examination the applicant shall be granted a second examination without the payment of another fee at any time within one year from his first examination; every pharmacist owning or conducting a pharmacy or store shall conspicuously display his certificate of registration in said pharmacy or store, and any failure to do so shall be prima facie evidence that such person is not a registered pharmacist and every registered assistant who desires to continue the practice of his profession shall once in three years during the time he shall continue such practice on such date as the board of pharmacy shall prescribe, pay to the secretary of the board of registration renewal fee of fifty cents, in return for which he shall receive a renewal of his registration.

5. And be it enacted, That any person who shall procure or attempt to procure registration for himself or any other person under this act, by making or causing to be made any false representations, or fraudulently represent himself to be registered, or shall adulterate or sell any adulterated drug, medicine or chemical, or who shall otherwise violate the provisions of this act (except section six), shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, be liable to a penalty of not less than fifty or more than one hundred dollars, and for every subsequent offense or offenses a like fine or imprisonment, not to exceed six months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

6. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person to retail or dispense any of the poisons enumerated in schedule A appended to this section or any other substance commonly recognized as a deadly poison, without distinctly labelling with a red label the bottle, box, vessel or wrapper in which such poison is contained, with the name of the article, the word "poison" and the name and place of business of the dispenser, nor without being satisfied that the purchaser is aware of its poisonous nature and intends to use it for a legitimate purpose; any person failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and for every such omission shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars; and any person who shall give a fictitious name, or who shall make any false representations to the seller when buying any of the poisons thus enumerated, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars; the penal provisions of this act shall not apply to the sale of such poisons as are used in the arts, agriculture or in manufacturing, to persons known to be engaged in such pursuits, nor to the dispensing of poisons upon the prescription of a practicing physician.

SCHEDULE A.

Arsenic and its compounds or chemical derivatives; corrosive sublimate and other poisonous derivatives of mercury; phosphorous and its poisonous derivatives; prussic acid and its poisonous derivatives; tartrate of antimony; essential oil of bitter almonds; oils of tansy, savin or croton; chloroform, chloral-hydrate, aconite, belladonna, conium, cantharides, digitalis, hyoscyamus, nux vomica, Indian hemp, veratrum viride, yellow jessamine, opium, their alkaloids or other preparations (except paregoric and other preparations of opium having less than two grains to the ounce); ergot, savin, cotton-root and their preparations.

7. And be it enacted, That any person or persons who shall establish or conduct any pharmacy for the retailing, dispensing or compounding of drugs, medicines, physicians' prescriptions or poisons not being a duly registered pharmacist of this state, or shall be engaged as clerk or assistant in said store or pharmacy, and retailing, dispensing or compounding drugs, medicines, poisons or physicians' prescriptions, not having first obtained a certificate of registration as a pharmacist or assistant in accordance with the provisions of this act; or being a duly registered pharmacist or assistant, shall violate any of the provisions of the next preceding section, or shall adulterate or sell any adulterated drug, medicine or chemical; or any person who shall procure, or attempt to procure registration for himself or any other person under this act, by making or causing to be made any false representations, or fraudulently represent himself to be registered in accordance with the provisions of this act, shall forfeit and pay such sum, not to exceed one hundred dollars, together with costs, as the court shall determine, to be sued for and recovered in an action of debt, with costs of suit, by any person or persons, in the name of the board of pharmacy of the state of New Jersey, before any justice of the peace, district court or police magistrate in the county where the offense or offenses were committed, one-half thereof to the person or persons who shall sue therefor, and one-half to the board of pharmacy of the state of New Jersey.

8. And be it enacted, That nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to or in any manner interfere with the strictly professional pursuits of any physician, nor with the making or vending of non-poisonous patent or proprietary medicines, nor with the sale of simple non-poisonous domestic remedies by retail dealers in rural districts, nor with the ownership of any pharmacy or store in part or whole by any person not a registered pharmacist; provided, such pharmacy or store be at all times in charge of a registered pharmacist; and any person holding a certificate of registration granted under any former act shall be considered a registered pharmacist within the meaning of this act.

9. And be it enacted, That each and every fine imposed under the provisions of this act shall be paid to the treasurer of the board of pharmacy.

10. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and shall take effect immediately, and that all acts and parts of acts conflicting or inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXC.

An Act to enable women to practice law.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person shall be denied admission to examination for license to practice law as an attorney or counselor in this state, or be refused recommendation to the governor for license to practice law as an attorney or counselor in this state, on account of sex.

2. And be enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a bureau of statistics upon the subject of labor, considered in all its relations to the growth and development of state industries," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the sum of five thousand dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated for the current expenses of said bureau.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of this state is hereby authorized to pay from any moneys not otherwise appropriated the sum provided for in the first section of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCII.

An Act to enable certain municipal corporations of this state to fix the compensation of their recorder.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for the common council, board of aldermen, or other municipal governing bodies of any incorporated town, having a population according to the last census of not less than ten thousand, in counties of the first class of this state, incorporated or existing under and by virtue of any special act of incorporation and supplements thereto to fix the salary of its recorder; provided that the sum so fixed shall not exceed eight hundred dollars.

2. And be it enacted That all acts and parts of acts, whether general, special or local, inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting conveyances," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if every acknowledgment or proof of any deed or conveyance of lands, tenements or hereditaments lying and being in this state, heretofore made by any grantor or witness thereto, before or by any officers in some other state in the union or territory thereof, authorized at the time of such proof or acknowledgment by laws of the state or territory wherein such proof or acknowledgment was made or taken, to take the proofs and acknowledgments of deeds or conveyances of lands, tenements or hereditaments lying or being in such state or territory, shall be good, valid and effectual in law, and the record of said deed admissible in evidence and good, valid and effectual in law for all purposes, notwithstanding the certificate accompanying such acknowledgment or proof under the great seal of such state or territory, or under the seal of a court of record of the county in which it was made, does not certify that the officer before whom such proof or acknowledgment was made was, at the time of the taking thereof, authorized by the laws of such state or territory to take the acknowledgments and proofs of deeds or conveyances for lands, tenements or hereditaments in such state or territory; provided, such certificate and such acknowledgment or proof and the certificate thereof, in all other respects conforms to the laws of this state.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXXXVII.

An Act to repeal section four of an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the better enforcement in Maurice river cove and Delaware bay of the act entitled "An act for the preservation of clams and oysters," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six,' and of the supplements thereto," passed March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section four of chapter fifty of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and ninety, entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act entitled "An act for the better enforcement in Maurice river cove and Delaware bay of the act entitled 'An act for the preservation of clams and oysters,'" approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and of the supplements thereto," which further supplement was passed March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLV.

An Act for the protection of certain kinds of birds, game and fish, and to provide a procedure to recover penalties for the violation thereof.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons at any time, either on their own property or that of others, to pursue with intent to kill or injure, or in any manner attempt to take or injure, any hare or rabbit, quail (frequently called partridge), ruffed grouse (frequently called partridge or pheasant), European pheasant, European partridge, European grouse, wild deer, buck doe or fawn, gray snipe (frequently called English or Wilson snipe), duck, brant, goose, dove, swan, gray, black or fox squirrel, woodcock, reed bird, rail bird, marsh hen, grass or upland plover, or other game bird or game animal, excepting in the manner usually known as hunting with gun or with dog and gun, the gun being such as may be held at arm's length and fired from the shoulder without other rests, and at such times as may be permitted in this act, under the penalty of fifty dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons at any time to capture, kill, destroy or injure any of the birds or other animals enumerated in the first section of this act, excepting in the manner usually known as hunting with gun or with dog and gun, said gun being such as may be held at arm's length and fired from the shoulder without other rests, and at such times as may be permitted in this act, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each bird or other animal captured, killed or injured or destroyed.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to take, kill, injure or destroy, or have unlawfully in possession any wild deer, buck, doe or fawn, excepting only between the twenty-fifth day of October and the fifth day of November, inclusive, in each and every year, under a penalty of one hundred dollars for each and every wild deer, buck, doe or fawn so taken, killed, injured or had unlawfully in possession.

4. And be it enacted, That for the purposes of this section there shall be two game districts in this state, to be known as the "northern game district" and the "southern game district;" the northern game district shall comprise the counties of Sussex, Warren, Hunterdon, Somerset, Morris, Passaic, Bergen, Hudson, Essex, Union, Middlesex and Mercer; the southern game district shall comprise all the other counties of this state; it shall be unlawful to capture, kill or injure or have unlawfully in possession, any hare, rabbit, quail (frequently called partridge), ruffed grouse (frequently called partridge or pheasant), gray, black or fox squirrel, European pheasant, European partridge, European grouse, or woodcock, in the northern game district except only between the twenty-fifth day of October and the tenth day of December, inclusive, in each and every year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each bird or other animal enumerated so captured, killed, injured or had unlawfully in possession; it shall be unlawful to capture, kill, or injure or have unlawfully in possession any hare, rabbit quail (frequently called partridge), ruffed grouse (frequently called partridge or pheasant), gray, black or fox squirrel, European pheasant, European partridge, European grouse or woodcock, in the southern game district except only between fifteenth day of November and the first day of January, inclusive, in each and every year under a penalty of twenty dollars for each bird or other animal enumerated so captured, killed, injured or had unlawfully in possession.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to capture, kill, injure or have unlawfully in possession any gray snipe (commonly called English or Wilson snipe), except only during the months of March and April and also between the thirty-first day of August, and the fifteenth day of December, inclusive, in each and every year, and reed-bird rail-bird or marsh hen, excepting only between the twenty-fifth day of August and the fifteenth day of December, inclusive, in each and every year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each bird so captured, killed, injured or had unlawfully in possession.

6. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to capture, kill, injure or have unlawfully in possession any grass or upland plover or dove excepting only between the first day of November and the fifteenth day of December, inclusive, in each and every year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each bird so captured, killed, injured or had unlawfully in possession.

7. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to capture, kill or injure or have in possession after the same have been captured, killed or injured, any night hawk, whip-poor-will, thrush, meadow lark finch, martin, barn swallow, woodpecker, robin oriole, red or cardinal bird, cedar bird, tanager, or other insectivorous bird, under a penalty of twenty dollars for every bird so captured, killed, injured or had in possession; provided that nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent the taking or killing of English sparrows, cranes, hawks, crows, ravens, crow-blackbirds, kingfishers or red-winged blackbirds.

8. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to rob or destroy the eggs or nests of any wild bird whatever, under the penalty of twenty dollars for each and every nest so robbed or destroyed.

9. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons hunting or gunning after geese, duck or brant or other web-footed wild fowl to place the boat or sink-box or other floating vessel in which he lies in wait to kill said geese, duck, brant or other web-footed wild fowl at a distance of more than one hundred feet from ice or from marsh or meadow, bar or bank or heap seaweed not covered with water at high tide, the said boat or other floating vessel to be attached to said marsh or meadow by a line; and it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, with intent to capture or kill geese, duck, brant or other web-footed wild fowl to hunt after or pursue them in any manner, excepting between one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset, and every person or persons offending against the provisions of this section shall for each and every offense forfeit and pay the sum of twenty-five dollars.

10. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to pursue any goose, brant, duck or other web-footed wild fowl with, or to shoot or shoot at the same from any boat or vessel propelled by any means excepting oars or paddles, or from any boat, vessel or similar structure anchored and staked upon the waters of this state at a greater distance than one hundred feet from ice, marsh or meadow, bar or bank or heaped seaweed, not covered with water at high tide, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every offense.

11. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to catch, kill or injure, or to have unlawfully in possession after the same has been caught, killed or injured, any goose, duck, brant or other web-footed wild fowl, excepting only between the thirtieth day of September and the first day of May, inclusive, in each and every year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for every goose, duck, brant or other web-footed wild fowl caught, killed, injured or had unlawfully in possession.

12. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to capture, kill, injure or destroy or pursue with such intent any of the game birds or other animals enumerated in this act on his or her own property or on the property of any other person or persons, excepting during the season and at such times and in such manner as provided in this act, and any person or persons so doing shall be liable to the penalties provided for by said act in violation thereof.

13. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to have in possession, sell or offer for sale any rabbit, quail (frequently called partridge), ruffed grouse (frequently called partridge or pheasant), English pheasant, English partridge, English grouse, woodcock, reed bird, rail bird, grass or upland plover, marsh hen, duck or any other of the game birds or animals herein enumerated, after the same has been caught or trapped by means of any snare, snood, net, trap or device of any description whatsoever, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every bird and other animal so had unlawfully in possession, sold or exposed for sale.

14. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to have in possession, sell, offer or expose for sale any of the game birds or animals herein enumerated, excepting only in the seasons hereinbefore provided during which said game bird or animals may be lawfully hunted and killed, and within ten days thereafter, under penalty of twenty dollars for each and every bird or other animal enumerated so had unlawfully in possession, sold, offered or exposed or sale.

15. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to hunt with a gun, or with a dog, or with any firearms or weapons, or to carry a gun in the fields or in the woods on the Sabbath day (commonly called Sunday), under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every offense.

16. And be it enacted, That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent associations or individuals from domesticating or bringing into this state any animals or birds for the purpose of propagating the same, or keeping the same until a seasonable opportunity offers for their release.

17. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons at any time to take or attempt to take any fish from the waters, excepting the tide waters, of this state by any means or any contrivance whatsoever, excepting hook, rod and line used in the manner commonly known as angling, under a penalty of fifty dollars for each offense, provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to the catching of eels by means of a wicker eel-basket or pot and eel-weir between the fifteenth day of September and the first day of November, said weir to be so constructed as not to prevent the migration of fish during the closed season, nor to the sparing of eels, suckers and carp, the taking of minnows for bait with a seine not over twenty-five feet in length during the whole year; provided, that the young of trout pickerel, bass and pike are not injured thereby and the taking of fish under the direction of the fish commission of the state; provided, that this section shall not apply to any salt or brackish waters of this state.

18. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, take or have in possession any black bass, Oswego bass, except only between and including the thirtieth day of May and the first day of December in any year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each fish so caught killed, taken or had unlawfully in possession.

19. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, take or have in possession any brook trout, excepting only between and including the first day of April and the fifteenth day of July in each year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each fish so caught, killed, taken or had unlawfully in possession.

20. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons at any time to kill, sell, expose for sale or have in possession any black bass measuring less than nine inches in length, or any trout measuring less than six inches in length, except for the use of stocking waters of this state therewith, and on license, in writing, first obtained for that purpose, under the hand and seal of the fish and game commissioners of this state, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each fish so killed, sold, exposed for sale or had unlawfully in possession.

21. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to place in any pond, lake, river, stream or in any of the waters of this state any dynamite, giant or electric powder or any explosive substance whatever, or any drug or medicated bait, for the purpose of taking or killing fish, under a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars for each and every offense, at the discretion of the justice of the peace, police magistrate or district court before whom said conviction is had.

22. And be it enacted, That no person or persons, company, corporation or association shall allow any dye stuff, coal tar, saw dust, shavings, tanbark, lime, refuse from gas-houses or other deleterious or poisonous substance to be turned or allowed to run into any of the waters of this state in quantities destructive of the life of or disturbing the habits of fish inhabiting the same, under a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars for each and every offense, at the discretion of the justice of the peace, police magistrate or district court before whom such conviction is had.

23. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to shut off or draw off the water of any pond, stream or lake in this state for the purpose of taking, capturing or killing the fish therein, under a penalty of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars for each and every offense at the discretion of the justice of the peace, police magistrate or district court before whom such conviction is had.

24. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to put, place use or maintain in any of the fresh waters of this state inhabited by pickerel, black bass, perch or trout, any set line or set lines, or to put or use in such waters any line or lines not under the constant and immediate supervision of the person so placing or using such line or lines, under a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each offense.

25. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, take or have in possession any pickerel between the twentieth day of February and the first day of May in any year, under a penalty of ten dollars for each fish so caught, killed, taken or had unlawfully in possession.

26. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to take or attempt to take, pickerel, pike or perch through the ice, excepting below the tide waters of this state, except by the use of a single line or single lines, with a single hook on said line or on each of said lines, under a penalty of twenty dollars.

27. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful to take or catch with hook, line and rod or with spoon and scroll in the manner usually known as angling or trolling, or in any other manner, from any lake, pond or stream any fish of the kind with which such lake, pond or stream of this state is or may hereafter be first or originally stocked by the fish and game commissioners of this state or by private individuals, for three years from the time such stock fish are introduced into such lake, pond or stream, under a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each fish so caught or taken; provided, however, the fish and game commissioners shall have posted at least ten notices to such effect at equal distances, as near as may be, on the banks or shores of such waters.

28. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to enter or trespass on any land for the purpose of taking fish from any private pond, stream or spring after the owner, lessee or rightful occupant of such lake, pond, stream or spring, shall have posted or caused to be posted in prominent places on such land, adjacent to such pond, stream or spring at least ten legibly written or printed notices forbidding such trespassing on said land for the purpose of taking fish from such pond, stream or spring, under a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each and every such offense.

29. And be it enacted, That the term "waters of this state" for the purposes of this act shall be construed to mean all waters within this state where the tide does not ebb and flow; provided, that all waters under the exclusive control of individuals or associations, created and stocked exclusively at the expense of such individuals or associations, and not runway for migratory fish shall be considered private waters and be exempt from the provisions of this act, as far as such individual and the members of such association shall be concerned.

30. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any owner, lessee or tenant of any property knowingly to permit the erection of maintenance on his, her or their property of any of the contrivances for the unlawful taking of game and fish prohibited by the provisions of this act, or to permit the setting of a fyke or other net or the drawing of any net whatsoever from the banks of any stream which may form a boundary line for said property, under a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each offense, and it is hereby made the duty of such owner, lessee or tenant to immediately destroy any and all such unlawful contrivances.

31. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful at all times to remove or attempt to remove from this state any of the birds, game or fish whose capture is prohibited or for which a close season is provided by any provision of this act; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to birds, game or fish in possession of the person who may have lawfully captured the same during such periods as the provisions of this act make lawful for such capture, and that such removal shall not take place excepting within such periods; and provided, that this act shall not apply to common carriers carrying from beyond the confines of this state in unbroken packages to some other point beyond the confines of this state any such birds, game or fish; any person, persons or corporation found guilty of a violation of this section shall be punished by a fine of twenty dollars for each bird, game or fish so removed or attempted to be removed.

32. And be it enacted, That hereafter justices of the peace, district courts and police magistrates shall have jurisdiction to try and punish any person or persons accused of violating any of the provisions of this act, and all the different penalties in this act prescribed for violation thereof may be enforced and recovered before any justice of the peace, district court or police magistrate, either in the county where the offense is committed or where the offender is first apprehended, or where he may reside.

33. And be it enacted That such justice of the peace, district court or police magistrate upon receiving proof by affidavit or affidavits of one or more persons of the violation of any of the provisions of this act, is hereby authorized and required, unless the accused is then before him, to issue a warrant, under the hand and seal of said justice or police magistrate, or under the seal of such district court, as the case may be, directed to any constable, police officer, fish and game warden of the county, or the fish and game protector of the state, to cause such person or persons to be arrested and brought before such justice, district court or police magistrate, and shall thereupon, in a summary way, hear and determine the guilt or innocence of the person or persons so charged, and upon conviction of any such person or persons upon such hearing, the said justice, district court or police magistrate is hereby authorized and required to impose upon the offender and offenders so convicted the penalty or penalties prescribed, together with the costs of prosecution for such offense, and if any person or persons shall fail to pay the penalty or penalties so imposed, together with the costs of prosecution, the said justice, district court or police magistrate is hereby authorized and required to commit such offender to the common jail of the county for a period of not more than ninety days or until said penalty and costs are paid.

34. And be it enacted, That for the violation of any of the sections of this act done in view of any constable, police officer, fish and game warden or game and fish protector, or any officer or detective of any incorporated game protective society, such officer is hereby authorized, without warrant, to arrest the offender or offenders and to carry him or them before a justice of the peace, police magistrate or district court of the county where such arrest is made; and the justice, district court or police magistrate before whom such offender shall be taken shall have jurisdiction of the case, and is hereby authorized and required summarily to hear and determine the same after receiving from the said officer an affidavit in writing of the commission of the offense for which the person or persons was or were arrested.

35. And be it enacted, That in all actions commenced for violation of this act, the prevailing party shall recover costs against the other; the same fees and costs shall be allowed therein as in trial before justice of the peace holding court for the trial of small causes.

36. And be it enacted, That any case begun under this act may be for good cause shown adjourned by the justice, district court or police magistrate not exceeding thirty days from date of arrest of the defendant, but in such case it shall be the duty of the justice, district court or police magistrate to retain the defendant in custody, unless he shall enter into bond unto the person making the complaint with at least one sufficient surety in double the amount of the penalty prescribed for the offense complained of, conditioned for his appearance at the adjourned day of trial, and thence from day to day until the case is disposed of, and then to abide by the judgment of the justice, district court or police magistrate, or otherwise to demand and perfect an appeal to the court of common pleas of the county within ten days after rendering final judgment; and such bond, if forfeited, may be prosecuted in the name of the person making the complaint in any court of competent jurisdiction; all sums of money recovered for the violation of this act or the forfeiture of such bonds shall be paid, one-third to the person making the complaint, one-third to the game and fish commissioners and one-third to the person or persons furnishing the evidence necessary to secure conviction.

37. And be it enacted, That any party to any proceeding instituted under this act may appeal from the judgment or sentence of the justice, district court or police magistrate to the court of common pleas of the county in which the said trial shall take place; provided, that the party appealing shall, within ten days from the rendering of judgment, serve a written notice of appeal upon the person making the complaint and pay the costs adjudged against him, and deliver to the justice, district court or police magistrate a bond to the opposite party in double the amount of the penalty imposed, with at least one sufficient surety, conditioned to prosecute the appeal, and to stand to and abide by such order or judgment of the court as may be made against him in the premises.

38. And be it enacted, That whenever an appeal shall be taken as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the justice, district court or police magistrate to send all the papers in the case to the next court of common pleas of the said county, which court shall receive and try and determine all such appeals in the same way and manner that appeals from the courts for the trial of small causes, where no jury has been had below, are now tried and determined in that court, except that on the trial of such appeals no notice of the production of any new evidence on behalf of either party shall be required.

39. And be it enacted, That in cases under this act no state of demand or other pleading shall be required, but the preliminary affidavit shall specify the section of this act claimed to have been violated.

40. And be it enacted, That the duly appointed fish and game protector and fish and game wardens of this state shall have the same power and be entitled to the same fees for the services of process in cases instituted under this act that constables have and are entitled to receive in the courts for the trial of small causes.

41. And be it enacted, That no person shall be excused from giving evidence in any action or proceedings taken or had under this act on the ground that the evidence might tend to convict such witness or to establish the liability of such witness under any provisions thereof, but such evidence shall not be received against such witness to recover any of the penalties mentioned in this act.

42. And be it enacted, That when any fish and game warden, or the fish and game protector, or any of the fish and game commissioners, has reason to believe and does believe that any fish and game mentioned in this act are concealed in any house or houses or in any other place or places during any of the periods aforesaid during which it is unlawful to have such fish or game in possession, any such fish and game warden, or the fish and game protector, or fish and game commissioner, may go before any justice of the peace of the county, or any district court or police magistrate, in any city wherein such offense may be or has been committed, and make complaint thereof under oath; and thereupon it shall be the duty of such justice of the peace, or district court, or police magistrate, as aforesaid, before whom any such complaint shall be made as aforesaid, thereupon to issue a process in the nature of a search warrant directed to any constable, police officer, fish and game warden of the county, or the fish and game protector of the state, which shall recite such complaint as aforesaid, and which shall command such constable, police officer, fish and game warden of the county, or the fish and game protector of the state, to immediately search the premises, place or places mentioned in said complaint; and if upon such search any such fish or game as mentioned in said complaint be found, to bring the same, together with the body of the person in whose possession they may be found, before such justice of the peace, or district court, or police magistrate; and that when any such person as aforesaid shall be brought before any justice of the peace, or such other magistrate, upon a process issued as aforesaid, such justice or other magistrate shall proceed as directed by the other sections of this act in cases where an arrest of some one having fish or game unconcealed or unlawfully in possession has been made.

43. And be it enacted, That if any person or persons shall be found making use of any boat or boats, vessel or vessels, or of any seine, gill, drift, anchor or sink-nets, fixed-nets, trap, pot, pound, set-line, fyke, weir or other apparatus for the unlawful taking of fish in any waters within the jurisdiction of this state contrary to the intent and meaning of this act, he, she or they shall, in addition to the penalties prescribed, forfeit the boat or boats, vessel or vessels, seine or seines, net or nets, gill or gills, drift or drifts, draw net or nets, fyke or fykes, trap or traps, pot or pots, pound or pounds, weir or weirs, set-line or lines or other apparatus so unlawfully used; and it shall be the duty of all constables, sheriffs, fish and game protectors or fish and game wardens, or it may be lawful for any other person or persons, to seize and secure any of the aforesaid apparatus, and immediately thereafter give notice to some justice of the peace, district court or other magistrate of the county wherein said seizure shall have been made, and said justice of the peace, district court or other magistrate is hereby required and authorized at such times and places as he shall appoint to hear and determine in a summary manner whether the same was lawfully used, and if it shall appear to his satisfaction that the same was used unlawfully, to make an order directing that the same be declared confiscated and forfeited to the use of the game and fish commissioners of this state, who may dispose of the same at their discretion.

44. And be it enacted, That any judgment obtained under the provisions of this act against a corporation may be docketed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court for the county in which such judgment was obtained and the sheriff of the county is authorized and directed to proceed to the collection of the judgment as if said judgment had been rendered in the circuit court.

45. And be it enacted, That proceedings under the provisions of this act may be instituted on any day of the week, and the institution of such proceedings on a Sunday shall be no bar to the successful prosecution of the same, and any process served on Sunday shall be as valid and effectual as if served on any other day of the week.

46. And be it enacted, That all proceedings for the recovery of penalties imposed by the provisions of this act shall be entitled and shall run in the name of the state of New Jersey, and one of the fish and game wardens of the state, prosecutor, and no proceedings shall be instituted by any person not a duly commissioned fish and game warden or an officer or detective of any incorporated game protective society, or fish and game protector of the state without the direction of the fish and game warden appointed for and authorized to act for the county in which said proceedings shall be begun.

47. And be it enacted, That in all cases where a person shall be convicted a second time, either in the court where the first conviction was had or in the court where the second conviction is had, double the penalty prescribed shall be imposed for the second conviction, and it is hereby made the duty of every complainant under the provisions of this act who has reason to believe that the accused has been previously convicted of a violation of this act to lay such information before the justice, court or magistrate and adduce such proof in support of the same as may be obtainable.

48. And be it enacted, That an act entitled "An act concerning trespassing on private lands," approved April twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four; "An act for the protection of certain kinds of birds, animals and fish and to provide a procedure to recover penalties for the violation thereof," approved February twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three (except sections forty-five to fifty-six inclusive of said act), and the various supplements thereto, approved April twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, and May twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, and all other acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed; provided, that such repealer shall not be taken or construed to prevent any prosecutions now pending or which may hereafter be begun for the violation heretofore of any section of such repealed laws, and upon conviction of such violations the same penalties shall be enforced in the same manner as though the laws had not been repealed.

49. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLVI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the punishment of crimes" (Revision), approved March twenty seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That before foreclosing any chattel mortgage covering household goods within this state, and before the sale of any such goods covered by a chattel mortgage by the chattel mortgagee, assignee or legal representative of such chattel mortgagee or assignee, within this state, it shall be the duty of such chattel mortgagee, assignee or the legal representative of such chattel mortgagee or assignee, to serve upon the chattel mortgagor, or the person in possession of the goods covered by such chattel mortgage, a notice in writing at least five days previous to such foreclosure, stating the true amount due upon such chattel mortgage, which amount shall be the amount of the money loaned, together with legal interest thereon, less all payments made by such chattel mortgagor or owner of such goods, or other person for him or them, to the mortgagee or owner of such goods, or other person for him or them, to the mortgagee, whether such payments were made as interest or as part payment of principal, or as payments for delay or other privileges granted by the said mortgagee or his assignee; any person who shall, either as principal or agent, violate the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLVII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize incorporated townships in this state to establish and maintain fire departments, for protection of life and property against fire," approved March twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act to which this is a supplement be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of township committee or other legislative or governing body of any incorporated township in this state having an assessed valuation of not less than four million of dollars shall have power to establish a fire department and maintain and support the same, and purchase grounds and erect suitable buildings thereon for that purpose, and to purchase fire engines for the proper equipment of the said fire department with the necessary apparatus for the protection of life and property against fire, but the amount to be expended therefor shall not exceed the sum of twenty thousand dollars; provided, that this act shall only apply to townships in this state having a supply of water for the extinguishment of fires, and that no board of town committee or other legislative or governing body of any incorporated township in this state shall expend any money for the purpose incorporated in this act without the consent of a majority of the legal voters of said township as expressed at the regular annual spring election in said township.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, whether general, public, local or special, inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLVIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act respecting licenses in the boroughs of this state," approved May first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety four

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the above-mentioned act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the mayor and council, common council or other governing body in any borough of this state to make and establish ordinances for the following purposes, namely: to license and regulate the owners and drivers of express-wagons, trucks, hacks, carts, omnibuses, stages and all other carriages and vehicles used for the transportation of passengers, baggage, merchandise and goods and chattels of every kind; also to license and regulate the owners and drivers of all vehicles used in connection with any business or occupation for the purpose of soliciting orders or delivering goods within the limits of the municipality; also to license and regulate all common criers, hawkers, peddlers, pawnbrokers, junk wagons, news stands, sweeps, scavengers, traveling and other street shows, street exhibitions, parades, circuses, concerts, theaters, skating rinks, merry-go-rounds, observation wheels, round-abouts, razzle-dazzles or circular swings, organ-grinders, itinerant venders of medicine and remedies and merchandise, and to fix the license fees to be paid therefor, which may be imposed for the purpose of revenue; and also to designate and locate stands and places which hackmen, cartmen and all other persons engaged in carrying passengers, baggage and merchandise shall be privileged to occupy when soliciting business, and to prevent the occupying of other places for such purpose, and to fix and prescribe penalties for the violation of any such ordinance or section thereof, in a sum not less than ten dollars or more than one hundred dollars as may be designated by such governing body; provided that no person or persons shall be required to take out a license in order to sell any product off his farm; provided, also, that before selling any of the produce and articles, the person or persons intending to sell the same shall procure from the clerk of such borough an annual permit to sell such produce, and which permit the clerk of such borough is directed to issue upon the filing of an affidavit by the person or persons desiring to sell, such produce intended to be sold will be from off his own farm and of his own growing.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLIX.

An Act concerning boards of health in cities of the first class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the boards of health in cities of the first class are hereby authorized to grant and regulate permits incident to health matters and fix the fees to be paid therefor

2. And be it enacted, That said boards of health in said cities of the first class be and are hereby empowered to pass, enact, alter, amend and repeal ordinances relating to the public health of said cities, and fix the amount of fines and penalties for the violation of said ordinances; the method now in use in said cities for the passing, enacting, altering amending and publishing ordinances in said cities to be the method used to pass, enact, alter, amend, repeal and publish the ordinances herein mentioned; provided, however, that in any county of this state wherein there is established by law a county board of health and vital statistics, such board shall be and is hereby empowered to make ordinances in relation to, and for the protection of, the public health, and the registration of vital facts or statistics in and for such county; and provided, further, that no ordinances to be enacted by any board of health in cities of the first class, or any county board of health, shall be deemed of any force and effect within the limits of any city of the first class located in any county in which there may be established any such county board of health, until the said respective boards shall agree thereto and by ordinance enact and define their separate and respective jurisdictions within the limits of such city.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLX.

An Act for the protection of the public health.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That every physician shall, within twelve hours after his professional attendance upon any person who is suffering from cholera, yellow fever, typhus fever, leprosy, plague, trichinosis, small-pox, varioloid, enteric (or typhoid) fever, diphtheria, membranous croup, scarlet fever, or any other contagious, infectious or communicable diseases, which hereafter may be publicly declared by the state board of health to be preventible and specially dangerous to the public health, report such sickness to the clerk of the local board of health having jurisdiction over the territory within which such sickness may be, or if such local board of health shall have designated some other officer thereof to receive such reports, then to such officer, which report shall be in writing, signed by such physician, and shall set forth the name, age and precise location of the person suffering from such disease; and every house owner or householder who knows that any person living, dwelling or being in any building under his control is affected by any of the contagious, infectious or communicable diseases hereinabove specified or referred to shall, when no physician has professionally attended such sick person, within twelve hours after discovering the same, report the fact in writing to the same person and in the same manner as any physician attending such sick person could be required to do as hereinabove set forth; and on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty first day of December in each and every year every physician, house owner and householder making any report or reports as in this section required, shall be entitled to receive from the officer to whom such report or reports shall have been made during the preceding six months, a certificate in writing under the hand of such officer, setting forth the number of names of persons reported to have been affected with any of the diseases hereinabove specifically named or referred to, which certificate when presented by such physician, house owner or householder to the proper disbursing officer of the city, borough, town or other local municipal government or township within which such affected person may have been shall entitle such physician, house owner or householder to receive from such disbursing officer the sum of ten cents for each and every name by such certificate certified to have been reported, unless such notification shall be found to have been erroneous; and any physician, house owner or householder who shall refuse or neglect to perform the duty hereinabove required of him shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That the facts contained in every report filed with the clerk or other officer of any local board of health, pursuant to the provisions of the first section of this act, shall be entered by the officer to whom the same shall be delivered in a book kept exclusively for that purpose, which book shall be subject to the inspection of the local board of health and its proper officers, and to the state board of health and its officers only; the officer of the local board of health to whom such report shall be delivered, and whose duty it is to make record of the same, as in this section above set forth, shall also, at least once in each week, and daily when required by the state board of health, transmit the facts stated therein by mail to the board of health of the state of New Jersey, at Trenton, and shall further keep the said state board of health constantly informed concerning the measures which are employed by the local board of health to prevent the spread of the diseases in such reports mentioned, which facts and information shall be conveyed to the said state board of health in writing, and upon such blank forms as may be furnished by the said state board of health; any officer whose duty it is to make ary report to said state board of health, as in this section above provided, and who neglects or fails to perform such duty, shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every such neglect or failure of duty.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier to accept for transportation, or to transport or carry within this state any person affected with any of the contagious, infectious or communicable diseases named or referred to in the first section of this act, or any infected article or articles of clothing, bedding or other property whatsoever, or the body of any person who shall have died of any of said contagious infectious or communicable diseases, except the same be enclosed in an hermetically sealed casket, and except a license for such transport be first obtained in writing from the local board of health of the municipality or township in which the said infected person, infected articles or dead body may be located; and any common carrier knowingly violating any of the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars.

4. And be it enacted, That if the board of health of the state of New Jersey shall ascertain any vaccine virus, antitoxin or other animal product sold, or offered for sale, or held for sale or use within this state for prophylactic or remedial purposes, to be dangerous to human health, or so impure or inert as to be inefficacious in rendering immune or less susceptible to disease any person in whom such product may be used, it shall be lawful for the said board of health of the state of New Jersey to prohibit the further sale or use within this state of any vaccine virus, antitoxin or other animal product, as aforesaid, manufactured or produced by the party who shall have manufactured or produced such dangerous, inert, impure or inefficacious product; any person who shall, after such prohibition, and with knowledge thereof, sell, or offer for sale or use, or offer for use within this state any such prohibited product shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars.

5. And be it enacted, That any penalty incurred under any of the provisions of the first, second, third or fourth sections of this act may be recovered in an action upon contract, in any court of record within this state for the use of the state of New Jersey.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXI.

Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the several assessors and collectors of the townships of this state shall hereafter be entitled to the following fees and no others for duties performed by them in assessing and collecting all taxes levied for township and county purposes, to wit: eight cents per name for each name on the duplicate of assessment; also the sum of one and one-half per centum on the amount of taxes assessed and collected in their respective townships except when the amount assessed and collected shall exceed forty thousand dollars, in which event the said collector and assessor shall receive the sum of one and one-half per centum upon the first forty thousand dollars, and three-quarters of one per centum upon the amount in excess of forty thousand dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and they are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXII.

An Act to exempt volunteer fire companies from taxation.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the real and personal estate of any volunteer fire company incorporated under the laws of this state and which is used exclusively for the purposes of such company, shall be exempt from all state, county and municipal taxation so long as such property is used exclusively for such purposes.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXIII

An Act respecting hospitals for the insane and the admission of indigent patients thereto.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when an insane person in indigent circumstances, not a pauper, is found in any county in which there is a hospital for the insane, application may be made in his behalf to any judge of the court of common pleas in such county or to any police justice in any municipality in such county, and the said judge or justice shall thereupon call two reputable physicians and other creditable witnesses and fully investigate the facts in the case, and either with or without the verdict of a jury, at his discretion, shall decide the case as to insanity and indigence; he shall also decide the question of legal settlement, and if the said judge or justice is satisfied with the proof he shall make a certificate that satisfactory proof has been adduced showing such person to be insane and his estate insufficient to support him and his family, or if he has no family himself, under the visitation of insanity, and shall certify also to the place of legal settlement of such insane person, if any within this state; and on said certificate, or a copy thereof, duly authenticated by the county clerk under the seal of the court, such person shall be admitted into the county hospital for the insane if he has a legal settlement in said county, and supported there at the expense of the said county until he shall be restored to soundness of mind, if effected in three years; if such patient has no legal settlement in said county he shall, by order of the court, be transferred to the state hospital for the insane, there to be supported at the expense of the county within which such patient has a legal settlement, if any, or at the expense of the state in case said patient has no legal settlement in this state; the said judge or justice shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses and jurors and others; he shall file the certificates of physicians taken under oath and the other papers relating to the matter, with a report of his proceedings and decision, with the clerk of the county, and shall report the fact to the board of chosen freeholders of the county where such patient has his legal settlement, and if such patient has no legal settlement within any county, then to the treasurer of the state of New Jersey; and it shall be the duty of the board of chosen freeholders to whom such notice is sent, at their next annual meeting to raise the money requisite to meet the expenses of support or to otherwise provide for the support of such patient in the asylum or hospital to which he is sent.

2. And be it enacted, That hereafter it shall not be necessary for the certificate of the judge or justice as provided for in the preceding section, to receive the approval of the chosen freeholder of the ward, township or other municipal division in which said patient or insane person resides or has his legal settlement, or to give such freeholder any notice of the application for admission of any such insane person or patient, but one day's notice of the application to such judge or justice shall be given either to the director of the board of the chosen freeholders of the county within which such application is made, or to the county counsel of such county.

3. And be it enacted, That where the patient is turbulent, violent or dangerous to himself or others on account of his insanity said justice may, upon due proof of the character of the insanity and without notice either to the director of the board of chosen freeholders or to the county counsel, make a certificate as provided for in the first section of this act, but in such case it shall be the duty of the said judge or justice to rehear the matter upon application to him by the county counsel, and upon one day's notice to the city, township or municipality where such insane person resides, to be served in the case of townships upon the chairman of the township committee, and in cities upon the mayor and in other municipalities upon the chief executive officer thereof; such application for a rehearing shall have the effect to re-open the case in all particulars, and to set aside and annul the proceedings and decision in such case previously had and made; and in case of the death, illness or other disability of the judge or justice before whom the original hearing was had, application for a re-hearing may be made to any judge of said court of common pleas, and it shall thereupon be his duty to proceed in all respects as if the application had been made to him in the first instance.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning idiots and lunatics," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the guardian or guardians of any idiot or lunatic appointed under the act to which this is a supplement, by petition in writing, setting forth the fact on which the application is founded, presented in the court of chancery, and verified by the oath of such guardian or guardians, to apply for an order directing what amount may be expended yearly by such guardian or guardians for the support and maintenance of said idiot or lunatic, or that of his or her household out of his or her personal estate, and the income thereof, and the profits of his or her lands and tenements, or directing the payment of any debt, or debts of said idiot or lunatic, or otherwise directing such guardian or guardians in relation to the management or care of the said idiot or lunatic, or his or her estate, and the chancellor is hereby authorized on investigation of the matter alleged in the said petition, to make such order or decree in the premises as he shall deem equitable and just, and to direct that the cost of the application shall be paid out of the estate of the said idiot or lunatic; and the chancellor shall, by order, direct what notice, if any, shall be given to the heir or next of kin of the said idiot or lunatic, of the proceedings to be had or taken under said petition.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXV.

An Act concerning corporations authorized to bridge navigable streams bounding this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever proceedings have been taken heretofore for the organization of any corporation or corporations under any general, special, public, private or local act authorizing the incorporation of a company for the purpose of building a bridge over or in any part of the navigable waters separating this state from other states where the tide ebbs and flows, the said corporation or corporations so organized shall have an extension of the time limited for the commencement and completion of any such bridge, and such time shall be and the same is hereby extended for the further period of ten years from the passage of this act; provided, however, that this act shall not apply unless money has actually been expended in surveys or location of route, or in acquisition of right of way or in construction, since January first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six; provided, further, that this act shall not apply to any corporation unless such corporation shall first, and as the condition precedent to the exercise of any power granted by this act, file in the office of the secretary of state an agreement to be approved by the governor and attorney-general, waiving all right of exemption from taxation, and from privileges and advantages arising from any law or contract, if any there be, establishing any special mode of taxation of any such corporation, and the further agreement to be bound by any general law of this state now in existence or that may hereafter be passed, taxing such corporations as are now authorized to be taxed by the legislature of this state under any general law and further agreeing that the exercise of any power granted by this act shall not in any way affect the rights of this state, if any there exist, to take the property of such corporations under any existing law of this state, and agreeing, further, that all laws affecting such corporation shall be subject to alteration or repeal by the legislature.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXVI.

Supplement to an act entitled "An act to protect the planting and cultivating of oysters in the tide waters of this state," which act was approved May seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any person or persons removing any stakes, buoys or monuments, placed or erected for the purposes as set forth in the first section of the act to which this is a supplement, shall, upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, pay a fine of twenty dollars or be imprisoned in the county jail, for a period not exceeding ninety days, either or both, at the discretion of the court.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXVII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any district acting under a special charter, or under the provisions contained in charter of any city, town or other municipality, may be relieved from the provisions and limitations of such special or local law upon the adoption of the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, and the supplements thereto, by the legal voters of said district at any meeting of such voters called for that purpose, as provided in section two of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever the board of education or any such district shall by resolution decide to submit the question of the adoption of the act to which this is a supplement to the voters of the district, it shall be the duty of the district clerk to post notices giving the time, place and object of the said meeting, in the manner provided for the calling of special school meetings by the act to which this is a supplement, and if at such meeting a majority of the legal voters present shall vote to adopt the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, thereafter said district shall be governed solely by the general school laws of this state applicable thereto instead of the special acts, and the said board of education shall forthwith file a certificate with the county superintendent setting forth the determination of said meeting, and said district shall remain and be a separate school district until consolidated with an adjoining district as hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That each city, borough and incorporated town, acting under the provisions of this act, which contains four hundred or more children between the ages of five and eighteen years, shall be a school district, separate and distinct from the township school district; but each city, borough and incorporated town, acting under the provisions of this act, which contains less than four hundred children between the ages of five and eighteen years, shall be a part of the township school district in which said city, borough or incorporated town is situated; nothing in this section, however, shall be construed as abolishing any school district now legally constituted, notwithstanding such district contains less than four hundred children between the ages of five and eighteen years, but each of said districts shall remain and be a separate school district until consolidated with an adjoining district as hereinafter provided; provided, further, that this section shall not apply to any district acting under a special charter or whose boundaries are fixed by special act incorporating said district, and further provided, that nothing in this section shall apply to any city, borough or incorporated town or proposed city, borough or incorporated town where proceedings are now pending for the incorporation of the same.

4. And be it enacted, That whenever any school district desires to consolidate with an adjoining school district, the board of education of said district shall petition the county superintendent of the county in which said districts are situated, to appoint a time when meetings of the legal voters of each of the districts proposed to be consolidated shall be held, and it shall be the duty of said county superintendent, upon receiving said petition, to appoint a day for said meetings, and to notify the board of education of each of the districts of his action; and it shall be the duty of each board of education receiving said notification to direct the district clerk to post notices calling a special meeting of the legal voters of the district for the purpose of voting on the question of the consolidation of said district, which meeting shall be called in the same manner as other special meetings; said meeting shall be held on the day designated by the county superintendent, at such hour and place as may be determined by the board of education; and it shall be the duty of the chairman of said meeting to file with the county superintendent, within five days after the date of said meeting, a certificate, signed by himself and attested by the secretary of said meeting, setting forth the number of votes cast for and the number cast against consolidation, and if the county superintendent ascertains from said certificate that the total number of votes cast in both of said districts in favor of consolidation exceeds the total number of votes cast against the same, it shall be his duty to declare that thereafter said districts shall constitute but one district, and he shall immediately notify each of the boards of education of the result of said election.

5. And be it enacted, That the board of education of each district consolidated in the manner provided in the preceding section shall, upon receipt of the notice from the county superintendent of such consolidation, select by lot four of its members to serve as members of the board of education of the consolidated district, and the eight members so selected shall select the ninth member of said board from among the remaining members of the board of education representing that portion of the consolidated district which contained the greater number of children between the ages of five and eighteen years, as ascertained from the last preceding school census, and the members of the board of education so selected shall constitute the board of education of the consolidated district, and shall continue in office until the next annual meeting for the election of members of boards of education, and at said annual meeting a board of education shall be elected as provided for the election of members of boards of education in new districts, as provided in the act to which this is a supplement, and the terms of office of the remaining members of the boards of education of each of said districts so consolidated shall thereupon cease and determine; provided, that if the board of education of one of the districts so consolidated shall consist of but three members, all of said members shall be members of the board of education of the consolidated district, and six members of said board shall be chosen from the board of education as the other district so consolidated; and provided, further, that if each of said boards of education consist of three members, said boards shall constitute the board of education of the consolidated district until the next annual meeting for the election of members of boards of education.

6. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLI.

An Act to regulate the crossing at points not within the limits of cities of this state of steam railroads by steam or electric railroads hereafter to be constructed.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the route of any steam or electric railroad hereafter to be constructed shall cross at points outside of the limits of cities the line of any steam railroad in this state, such crossing shall be made in such a way as will inflict the least injury upon the rights of the company owning or operating the railroad intended to be crossed and will afford proper protection to the public; and no company shall hereafter construct any steam or electric railroad across the line of any steam railroad except within the limits of a city until it shall have first made application to the chancellor of this state to define the mode in which such crossing shall be made, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the chancellor, after causing reasonable notice of such application to be given to the municipal authorities, and also to the corporation owning or operating the railroad intended to be crossed, to define by his decree the mode in which such crossing shall be made, and if in his judgment it is reasonably practicable, and public safety so requires to avoid a grade crossing, he may, in his discretion, by his decree, define and regulate the mode and manner of such crossing and thereupon such crossing shall be made in the mode defined by such decree, and in no other way.

2. And be it enacted, That crossings of steam railroads by steam or electric railroads within the limits of cities shall be made subject to the present existing laws in regard to the same.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLII.

An Act for the further improvement of the farm of the New Jersey state reform school and to facilitate public travel on a road adjoining the same now used as a private road.

Whereas, All the lands required for the opening of a public road along the most northerly line of the farm of the New Jersey state reform school have been dedicated by the owners thereof to the use of the public for a public highway, except that portion belonging to said farm, and that, in order to properly open said road, it is necessary that the trustees of said reform school, in whose names the title of said farm is vested, shall join in said dedication for so much of the lands belonging to said farm as shall be required for said road as proposed, but that now they have no power or authority to do so; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the trustees of the New Jersey state reform school be and are hereby authorized and empowered to dedicate to public use as a public highway so much and such part of the farm of the said reform school as in their discretion shall be necessary for the proper laying and opening of said road as a public highway along said northerly line of said farm, and to have the same laid and opened accordingly as proposed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLIII.

An Act to authorize cities in this state to issue bonds in certain cases.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where any city in this state is now or hereafter may be authorized to purchase or condemn lands, property, or rights in lands or property for public purposes, within the limits of such city, and no adequate provision is made or authority given to provide for the payment thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the city council or other governing body of such city to issue and dispose of the bonds of such city, on its faith and credit, for any sum not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, and to use the proceeds thereof for such purpose.

2. And be it enacted, That all bonds so issued shall state on their face that they are issued in pursuance of the authority of this act; they shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, and may run from their date for a term not exceeding thirty years; they may be of such form and be made payable, principal and interest, at such place and at such times (not exceeding the term aforesaid) as the city council or other governing body may by ordinance provide.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever bonds shall be issued under the authority of this act by any city, such city shall have the right to provide for the payment of the sum by taxation, and it shall be the duty of the proper authorities of such city, either by taxation or from other revenues received therein, to provide for the payment of the principal and interest thereof as the same shall fall due.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLIV.

An Act legalizing, ratifying and confirming the election of village trustees heretofore held in villages incorporated under the act entitled "An act for the formation and government of villages," approved February twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, and an act to amend said act, approved April eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any election of village trustees heretofore held or had in any village in this state, incorporated under the act entitled "An act for the formation and government of villages," approved February twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, and the act to amend said last-mentioned act, approved April eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, be and the same is hereby legalized, ratified and confirmed, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That the village trustees elected at any such election shall hold and possess their offices until the end of their respective terms.

3. And be it enacted, That only so many village trustees shall be elected in any such case, under existing laws, as will make the whole number of village trustees five, including those who hold over under existing terms of office.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts inconsistent with this act be repealed and that this act shall be deemed and taken to be a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLV.

An Act to provide for the expenses of the senate committee of inquiry appointed February thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Whereas, The senate, on the thirteenth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, appointed a select committee of five senators to inquire into certain matters therein referred to relative to the conduct of public officials and the administration of the laws, with power to sit during the recess of the legislature and report to the next session thereof, and said committee is now engaged in such inquiry, and is likely to continue its labors after the adjournment of the present session of the legislature; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That upon the requisition of said committee, or a majority of them, the comptroller of the treasury shall draw his warrants for, and the state treasurer shall pay, all expenses which may be incurred in such inquiry for witness fees, mileage, counsel fees, compensation of clerks, stenographers and others necessarily employed by said committee, and all other necessary expenses incurred by said committee in the course of their inquiry, and all moneys necessary for said purpose are hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLVI.

An Act to repeal the act entitled "An act for the restoration of the state house," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act for the restoration of the state house," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and the several supplements thereto, be and the same are hereby repealed and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLVII.

An Act to repeal the act entitled "An act to provide for furnishing certain offices in the state capitol," approved June thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act to provide for furnishing certain offices in the state capitol," approved June thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be and the same is hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLVIII.

An Act to repeal the act entitled "An act in relation to the state house and adjacent public grounds," approved June thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act in relation to the state house and adjacent public grounds," approved June thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be and the same is hereby repealed and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXLIX.

An Act to repeal the act entitled "An act to provide additional facilities for the transaction of public business," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act to provide additional facilities for the transaction of public business," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, be and the same is hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCL.

An Act to repeal the joint resolution entitled "Joint resolution authorizing the governor to provide a suitable assembly chamber and committee rooms for the transaction of public business and appropriating money to defray the cost and expense thereof," approved March twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the joint resolution entitled "Joint resolution authorizing the governor to provide a suitable assembly chamber and committee rooms for the transaction of public business and appropriating money to defray the cost and expense thereof," approved March twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, be and the same is hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLI.

An Act to repeal the act entitled "An act to provide for the purchase of furniture and appliances rendered necessary by the late fire in the state house, to provide for the care of the public documents and records, and to defray incidental expenses incurred on the occasion of the said fire," approved March twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act to provide for the purchase of furniture and appliances rendered necessary by the late fire in the state house, to provide for the care of the public documents and records, and to defray incidental expenses incurred on the occasion of the said fire," approved March twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, be and the same is hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLII.

An Act to prevent the propagation of carp.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be unlawful at any time in this state to place any German carp, mirror carp, leather carp, or carp of any kind whatsoever, or the seed thereof, in any of the public or private waters of this state, under a penalty of not less than two hundred dollars and not more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the jail of the county where the offense shall have been committed or where the conviction shall be had for not less than thirty days nor more than six months, at the option of the magistrate before whom the conviction of any violation of this statute may be had.

2. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall be enforced according to the method of procedure provided for the enforcement of the laws for the protection of fish and game.

3. And be it enacted, That the fish and game protector of this state and all duly appointed fish and game wardens of this state are authorized and required to enforce the provisions of this act, and they shall be entitled therefore to the same fees as they are entitled to under the act for the protection of fish and game.

4. And be it enacted, That any person who may have been aggrieved or injured by means of any violation of the first section of this act shall be authorized to institute proceedings for the punishment of the offender.

5. And be it enacted, That no conviction had under this act shall be a bar to any proceedings an aggrieved party may institute for the recovery of damages in a civil suit.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to the owners or lessees of private ponds stocking such private ponds; provided, that such private ponds are so constructed as to effectually prevent said carp or the seed thereof from escaping into any of the waters of this state or into private waters owned by other individuals or corporations.

7. And be it enacted, That all laws and parts of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That each assessor shall include in the next assessment made by him one-fifth of the total value of all the school property situated within his taxing district, as appraised as now provided by law, and there shall be remitted to the taxpayers of each school district, as said district existed on the thirtieth day of June last, one-fifth of the appraised value of the school property belonging to said school district, and yearly thereafter one-fifth of the value of said property so appraised as aforesaid, shall be so assessed and remitted until the total appraised value of said property has been remitted; provided, that in case a district lay in two or more townships or boroughs or in a township and borough, the amount ascertained as due that portion of the district lying in the township or borough which does not contain the school house, shall be paid over by the collector of the township or borough in which said property is situated, to the collector of the township or borough in which said property is situated, to the collector of the township or borough in which is situated that portion of the district which does not contain the school house, and the moneys thus paid over shall be used for the repair or improvement of the school property of said township or borough.

2. And be it enacted, That for making said appraisement the assessor shall be paid such compensation as shall be determined by the township committee or borough council, and the collector shall receive such compensation for the performance of the duties imposed on him by this act as said committee or council shall allow, and the compensation to said assessor and collector shall be paid from the funds of the township or borough.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to any district whose boundaries have not been changed since the thirtieth day of June last, and that in said districts no appraisement shall be made.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLIV.

An Act to prevent deception in the sale of cakes and biscuits and to preserve the public health.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person by himself or his agents or servants nor as an agent or servant shall manufacture, sell, offer for sale, expose for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell any cakes or biscuits in which yolka, yolkaline, tumeric, chrome yellow or any other substitute for eggs of like nature has been used, except there be displayed in a public manner on the package in which such cakes and biscuits are carried, or on the place, receptacle or holder in which such articles are placed for sale, a label, show card or sign, on which shall be printed in letters of the English language at least three inches high and one and one-half inches wide the words, "these cakes and biscuits are colored with an artificial substitute for eggs."

2. And be it enacted, That any person or persons who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall forfeit and pay a penalty of one hundred dollars for the first offense and two hundred dollars for each subsequent offense to be recovered in an action of debt by any person who may sue for the same, one-half of said penalty to go to the person so suing and one-half for the use of the municipality where such offense is committed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXVIII.

An Act authorizing any town, township or borough or part thereof containing a population exceeding five thousand inhabitants to be incorporated as a city, after a vote of the people, and providing for the government and powers of such cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the inhabitants of any town or borough, or of any township or part thereof, which had by the census of the United States taken in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety, or which may have by any census hereafter taken under authority of any act of congress or of the legislature of this state, a population exceeding five thousand inhabitants, may become a body politic and corporate in fact and in law, by the name and title of "the mayor and city council of ——" (specifying the name to be borne by such city), whenever at any special election called for that purpose, or at any town or charter meeting or election at which the question of incorporating under this act is submitted, as hereinafter provided, it shall be so decided by a majority of the voters thereof voting at any such election; none of the provisions of any general or special act relative to cities in this state shall apply to cities organized under this act, nor shall any such act hereafter enacted so apply, unless the same shall be a supplement to this act or such future act shall by its terms be made applicable to cities incorporated under this act.

2. And be it enacted, That the council, township committee or other governing body of any such town, borough or township, upon the petition, in writing, of at least fifty resident freeholders, which petition must designate the name proposed for said city and the boundary lines of the district intended to be so incorporated, except where a whole township, town or borough is proposed to be erected into a city, in which case it shall only be necessary to state in the petition the fact that the boundary lines of the city are to be concurrent with the lines of such existing town, township or borough, may, by the votes of a majority of all the members thereof, pass a resolution or ordinance for the holding of a special election in such town, borough, township or part thereof for the purpose of deciding whether such town, borough, township or part thereof shall become incorporated as a city under the provisions of this act, which resolution or ordinance shall prescribe the time and place or places of holding such special election and such other regulations respecting the same as may be deemed necessary and proper; provided, however, that instead of providing for a special election such resolution or ordinance may provide for submitting the question of incorporating as a city under this act to the voters of such town, borough or township, or part thereof, at the town charter meeting or election to be held next thereafter.

3. And be it enacted, That if a special election be called, notice of the same shall be given by advertisement published in one or more newspapers of such town, borough or township, and if there be none, in at least two newspapers published in the county and circulating in such town, borough or township, at least once, and by printed notices posted in at least one hundred conspicuous places therein, at least ten days next preceding the time appointed for said election; which advertisements and notices shall specify the time, place or places and the object and purpose of holding such election; and in case said resolution or ordinance provides for submitting the question of incorporating as a city under this act at a town or charter meeting or election, notice thereof shall be given by advertisement published in one or more newspapers of such town, borough or township, and if there be none, in two newspapers published in the county and circulating in such town, borough or township for two weeks successively, next preceding the day appointed by law for holding such election, at least once in each week, and by printed notices posted in at least one hundred conspicuous places therein, at least fifteen days prior to the day appointed by law for holding such election, which advertisement and notices shall set forth that the question of incorporating as a city under the provisions of this act will be submitted, at the next ensuing town or charter meeting or election.

4. And be it enacted, That any special election held under the provisions of this act shall be by ballot, and shall be held and conducted under the general acts respecting elections, and the votes shall be canvassed and counted in the manner provided by law for canvassing and counting votes at town or local elections held in such town, borough, township or part thereof; the ballots shall contain the words "for incorporation as a city under the act entitled 'An act authorizing any township or borough or part thereof containing a population exceeding four thousand inhabitants to be incorporated as a city, after a vote of the people and providing for the government and powers of such cities;'" or "against incorporation as a city under the act entitled an 'An act authorizing any town, township or borough or part thereof containing a population exceeding four thousand inhabitants to be incorporated as a city, after a vote of the people and providing for the government and powers of such cities;'" and in case the question of incorporation as a city under this act shall be submitted at a town or charter meeting or election, the words "for incorporation as a city under the act entitled 'An act providing for the incorporation and government of cities,'" shall be printed on each ballot beneath the list of candidates thereon; if said words or proposition be marked off or defaced upon the ballot it shall be counted as a vote against the same; if not marked off or defaced the ballot shall be counted as a vote in favor thereof; if a majority of the votes so cast at any special town or charter meeting or election shall be in favor of incorporation as a city under this act, then within three days after the result of the election shall have been declared, a certificate of the result of such election, signed by the chairman of the council, committee or governing body of such town, borough, township or part thereof, and attested by the clerk thereof, together with certified copies of the petition, ordinance and statement of the board of canvassers or election officers who canvassed the vote, and proof by affidavits that due notice of such election was given, shall be filed with the secretary of state; and from and after filing the same such town, borough, township or part thereof, shall be and is hereby declared to be a body politic and corporate in fact and in law by the name and title aforesaid, and by said name and title shall have perpetual succession, sue and be sued, prosecute and defend in all courts in this state; have a common seal and alter the same at pleasure, and purchase, hold and convey real and personal property for the use and benefit of the city.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the council, township committee or other governing body of such town, borough, township or part thereof, which shall have voted as aforesaid for incorporation as a city under this act, to divide such city into not less than three wards; each ward shall consist of contiguous territory and each shall contain as nearly as possible an equal number of inhabitants; provided, however, that such division into wards shall be made at least one month before the first annual city election held under this act; and provided, further, that where any town, borough, township or part thereof shall have been divided into three or more wards before adopting this act, such division shall continue, and such existing wards shall constitute the wards of the city as formed and incorporated under this act; and further, that the city council may be empowered once in four years or upon the addition of new territory, if it shall be deemed needful to increase, revise and alter the existing wards in such manner as to secure an equal division of inhabitants in each.

6. And be it enacted, That the officers of any town, borough, township or part thereof which has voted as aforesaid for incorporation as a city under this act, who shall hold office at the time of filing the aforesaid certificate with the secretary of state, shall continue to hold their respective offices until the first day of May next succeeding the first annual city election held under this act, and shall in all things be subject to the provisions of this act in the same way as if they had been elected hereunder; and no surety of any such officer shall be discharged from liability on account of any change made in the duties of such officer by this act, unless within five days after this act becomes operative in such city, he shall, in writing, notify the council of his intention to withdraw from his suretyship, in which case he shall be discharged from liability from the time this act becomes operative in such city; and the council may require such officer to furnish new additional sureties in place of the ones withdrawing as aforesaid; and if he fails or neglects so to do, the council may declare his office vacant, and may fill such vacancy in the manner hereinafter prescribed for the filling of vacancies.

7. And be it enacted, That the council or governing body of the city may fill by appointment all such offices herein provided for which did not exist in the town, borough, township or part thereof of which it is the successor; and all such appointments to elective offices shall hold only until the first day of May next succeeding the first city election held under the provisions of this, and all other such appointments shall hold only until the first day of June next thereafter.

8. And be it enacted, That any city which may be formed or incorporated under the provisions of this act shall take, hold, possess and enjoy and become absolutely vested with all the rights and property of the town, borough, township or part thereof of which it is the successor, or if part of a township is incorporated the rights and property embraced within the district incorporated and shall be responsible for and liable to all contracts, debts and obligations of such town, borough or township, or in case a part of the township, then its equitable share thereof; and further, that whenever a majority of the voters of any adjoining borough, township or part thereof shall desire to be annexed and incorporated within the limits of any city incorporated under this act, and shall so express their willingness by petition of its governing body to the city council, it shall be lawful for the mayor of the city, with the approval of a two-thirds vote of the city council, to submit such proposal to a vote of the people of the city at a special or annual election; and if a majority of the voters shall be in favor of enlarging the limits of the city and accepting the proposal, then to take all the necessary legal action, if any, to receive the said district into the city limits; and upon the acceptance of the proposal by the city, said borough or township government shall be deemed dissolved within the said territory and the said territory shall become a part of the said city.

9. And be it enacted, That the city and ward officers of the city shall be a mayor, a city council, consisting of one councilman from each ward, a city clerk, a receiver of taxes, a city treasurer, a city attorney, an assessor, a recorder, a board of commissioners of appeal, consisting of one member from each ward, an overseer of the poor, one or more city surveyors, one or more poundkeepers, a board of education, consisting of one member from each ward, a board of excise commissioners, consisting of five members, a health inspector and a city physician, three commissioners of assessment, a chief of police and a chief engineer of the fire department, two constables in each ward, a street commissioner and such number of justices of the peace as the city may be entitled to under the constitution and laws of this state; and all cities incorporated under this act shall be entitled to be represented by not less than two freeholders in the board of chosen freeholders of the counties in which they are respectively chosen or as now allowed by law; provided, however, that in any city to which this act applies which shall at any time have a population exceeding ten thousand inhabitants, as shown by any national or state census, there shall be two councilmen and two members of the board of education and one assessor from each ward, and at the first election held under this act in cities in which two are to be elected from any ward one shall be elected for one year and one for two years, and annually thereafter one shall be elected for two years, except in case of a vacancy; the assessors of the various wards in cities electing by wards shall constitute a "board of assessment," and a majority of said board shall have authority to determine and equalize all valuations of property in such city, and such cities shall have as many votes in the board of county assessors in the county in which such city is as there shall be wards in any such city.

10. And be it enacted, That the mayor, councilmen, city clerk, city collector, assessor, constables, members of the board of education and the commissioners of appeal shall be elected at an annual city election; the city treasurer, city attorney, recorder, health inspector, overseer of the poor, chief of police, city surveyors, commissioners of assessment and poundkeepers shall be appointed by the council in the manner and for the terms hereinafter provided; the chief of the fire department shall be elected in the manner and for the term hereinafter provided by the active members of the fire department; provided, that in cities to which this act applies having more than ten thousand inhabitants, that the city clerk shall be appointed by the city council, and the treasurer, receiver of taxes, chief of police and chief of the fire department shall be nominated by the mayor and be appointed by him by and with the advice and consent of the city council by a majority vote of the whole number of councilmen.

11. And be it enacted, That the annual city election after the first shall be held on the second Tuesday in April in each year, between the hours of seven o'clock in the morning and seven o'clock in the afternoon, at the place or places in each ward designated by the council, in the same manner and under the same regulations in all things as is described by law for election of members of the general assembly of this state; notice of the time and place or places of such election and of the officers to be chosen shall be given by the city clerk at least two weeks before the day of election, by publication in one or more newspapers of the city, and if there be none, by publication in at least one newspaper published in the county in which the city is situated and generally circulating in the city; no person shall be permitted to vote at any such election unless he is an actual resident of the election district in which he offers his vote; immediately after the polls shall be closed at any such election the election of officers of each election district shall count the votes given for the several candidates, and certify under their hands the number given for each, and publicly announce the same; and within twenty-four hours thereafter they shall deliver one such statement to the judge or inspector, who shall be delegated to attend the meeting of the board of city canvassers, and one to the city clerk and one to the county clerk, to be by them filed in their respective offices.

12. And be it enacted, That the person or persons receiving the greatest number of votes of those given in the city for any city office and of those given in each ward respectively, for any office in or from the ward, shall be declared to be elected.

13. And be enacted, That the board of city canvassers shall consist of one judge or inspector of election from each election district in the city, who shall be appointed for that purpose by the other election officers (excluding the clerk) of such district, a majority of the board shall constitute a quorum, and the city clerk shall be clerk of said board; the board shall meet on the Friday next after such election, at three o'clock in the afternoon, at the city hall or place designated by the city council, and shall choose one of their number to be chairman thereof; if the city clerk shall fail to attend, the board may appoint one of their own number to be clerk thereof; thereupon the members of the board shall produce the statements which shall have been delivered to them as aforesaid, and lay the same before the board, and from such statements the board shall proceed to ascertain the votes given at such election for the several officers voted for thereat; provided, however, that if for any reason, any member of such board shall fail to produce such statement, that then, on the request of the board, the city clerk shall produce and lay before the board the statement filed with him, and the same may be used with the like effect as if it had been produced by the member so failing to deliver his statement.

14. And be it enacted, That the said board of canvassers shall make a written statement of the number of votes given for the several officers to be elected for said city and the several wards thereof, the names of the persons for whom such votes were given and the number of votes given for each; that upon such statement said board shall proceed to determine and declare what person or persons have received the greatest number of votes for each of the officers mentioned in such statement; the statement and final declarations of the board shall be certified to by the presiding officer and clerk, and shall be filed with the city clerk and be by him recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose, and within two days after such canvass of the votes, the city clerk shall deliver to every person elected to any city or ward office a certificate thereof, under the seal of the city.

15. And be it enacted, That if at any such election there shall be a failure to fill any office, except that of councilman or member of the board of education, commissioners of appeals and board of excise commissioners, by reason of two or more persons having received an equal number of votes therefor, the city council then in office shall by ballot elect one of the persons so receiving an equal number of votes to fill such office until the next city election, when the unexpired portion of the term (if any) shall be filled by the electors of the city; and if there shall be a failure for like cause to fill the office of councilman or member of the board of education, a new election for such officer or officers shall be immediately ordered by the city council.

16. And be it enacted, That no person shall be eligible to any office under this act unless he shall have resided in the city for a period of at least two years, and no person shall be eligible to any ward office unless he shall be an actual resident of the ward; and no person shall be eligible to any office unless he is a citizen of the United States; provided, however, that when any person elected or appointed to any city or ward office shall remove from the city or ward his office shall thereby become vacant.

17. And be it enacted, That in case a vacancy occurs by reason of the death, resignation, inability, disqualification, removal or refusal to serve of, or by any city or ward officer, elected as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the city council to fill such vacancy by the appointment of a suitable and qualified elector to hold until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified, and the unexpired portion of the term (if any remain) shall be filled at the city election to be held next after such appointment; provided, however, that in case any such vacancy shall occur in the board of education, said board of education may fill such vacancy by appointment until the next city election, when the vacancy shall be filled by the electors of the city; provided, that if at any city election there shall be a vacancy in any office to be filled and at the same time an election for a full term of such office, the term for which each person shall be voted for shall be designated on each ballot cast therefor.

18. And be it enacted, That in case any such vacancy as aforesaid shall occur in any office which is filled by appointment or election by the city council, the said city council shall have power to fill such vacancy by the appointment of a suitable person to hold for the unexpired portion of the term of such office.

19. And be it enacted, That every person elected or appointed under this act to any office, shall, within ten days after such election or appointment, take and subscribe before an officer qualified to administer oaths, an oath or affirmation, faithfully and impartially to execute the duties of his office according to the best of his ability and understanding, which oath or affirmation shall be filed in the city clerk's office, and if any person so elected or appointed shall fail so to qualify, then his office shall be deemed vacant, and may be filled in the manner herein before provided.

20. And be it enacted, That the city clerk, city treasurer, receiver of taxes, and such other officers as the city council may require before they enter on the duties of their office and within such time as the board of council may by ordinance prescribe, shall give bonds to the city in its corporate name in such sum and with such sureties as the board of council shall require and approve for the faithful performance of their duties, which bonds, when so given, shall bind the obligors therein named until the successors to the officers giving the same shall be actually inducted into office, and if any officer shall fail or neglect to give bonds in the sum or with the sureties or within the time required by such ordinance, the council may declare such office vacant, and such vacancy shall be filled in the manner hereinbefore provided.

21. And be it enacted, That the official terms of the officers who shall be elected under this act at any election after the first shall commence on the first day of May next succeeding their election; and the term of any officer who shall be appointed by virtue of this act shall commence on the first day of June next succeeding his appointment, except in cases otherwise provided for in this act, and every officer shall hold his office during his official term and until his successor shall have been duly elected or appointed and shall have duly qualified.

22. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every officer in said city within ten days after the expiration of his term of office or his removal therefrom, to deliver to his successor in office, or to such person as the city council may appoint, all books, records, papers, vouchers and property of every kind in his possession or under his control, belonging to said city or appertaining to such office, and for a failure so to do he shall forfeit and pay to the city the sum of five hundred dollars; to be used for and recovered in the name of the city with costs.

23. And be it enacted, That the salaries and compensation to be paid to the mayor, councilmen, city clerk, the receiver of taxes, the city treasurer, the city attorney, the recorder, the assessor, the chief of police, health inspector, city physician, street commissioner, members of police force, the overseer of the poor, the city surveyors, poundkeepers, commissioners of appeals and commissioners of assessment, and all other public officers shall be fixed by ordinance, and the salary or compensation of any officer which has been fixed as aforesaid shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office, and all fees paid to any of said officers for any services required of them by this act or by any ordinance or resolution of the city council, shall immediately after the receipt thereof be paid by such officer to the city treasurer for the use of the city unless herein otherwise specially provided.

24. And be it enacted, That all officers of the city shall be governed by such general ordinances as the city council may from time to time adopt, not inconsistent with the provisions of this act and the laws of this state, and every officer may be removed from office for cause by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the council, but no such removal shall take place until the person sought to be removed shall have had an opportunity of being heard in his own defense; but the provisions of this section shall not apply to any member or officer of the board of education.

25. And be it enacted, That the city clerk shall hold office for the term of two years, and shall, in addition to the duties required of him by this act or any other law of this state, have charge of all the records, books and documents of the city, except when the city council shall otherwise direct; he shall keep a record of the proceedings of the council; he shall engross all ordinances in a book to be provided for that purpose, which book shall be deemed a public record of such ordinances, and each ordinance shall be signed in said book by the chairman of the council and said clerk; copies of all papers duly filed in the office of the city clerk and transcripts thereof, and of the records and proceedings of the board of council and copies of the ordinances of said city, certified by the said clerk under the corporate seal of the city, shall be evidence in all courts and places; the city clerk shall pay over to the city treasurer without delay all moneys received by or paid to him for the use of the city; his office shall be at the city hall or the place designated by the city council and he shall keep the same open for the transaction of public business during such hours as the council shall by ordinance prescribe; it shall be lawful for him to charge and receive for his own use, at the rate of ten cents per folio, for copies of all official papers and records and for the return to any writ of certiorari made by him.

26. And be it enacted, That at the first city election held under this act, a mayor shall be elected for two years, and at the annual election every two years thereafter; he shall be the chief executive officer of the city, and may recommend the city council to pass such measures as he may deem necessary or expedient for the welfare of the city; it shall be his duty to communicate to the city council, at their first meeting in each year, and at other times when he shall deem it expedient, a general statement of the condition of the city in relation to its government, finances and improvements, with such recommendations as he may think proper; to be vigilant and active in causing the laws and ordinances of the city to be executed and enforced; to exercise a constant supervision over the conduct of all subordinate officers, and to examine into all complaints preferred against them for violation or neglect of duty and generally to perform all such duties as may be required of him by law or ordinance; that he is hereby invested with all the powers which any police justice may now or may hereafter have by law, and that for the purpose of quelling any insurrection, riot, disturbance or disorderly assemblage, the said mayor shall have control of the marshals, constables, watchmen and other police force of the city, and power to call upon the citizens for aid in cases of insurrection, riot or disturbance of the public peace, and when he shall deem it necessary to call out the militia of the city, if any, and employ the same in quelling such insurrection, riot or disturbance; every resolution or city ordinance passed by the city council shall, before it takes effect, be presented to the mayor by the city clerk, duly certified by the chairman of the city council and the city clerk; if he approve it, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it with his objections, and file it with the clerk within ten days after receiving it; and the city council shall, at its first regular meeting thereafter, enter the objections at length on its journal, and shall proceed to reconsider the same, and if two-thirds of all the members of the city council agree to pass the same, it shall take effect, but in every such case the vote shall be taken by ayes and nays and entered on the journal; and if such ordinances shall not be returned within ten days as aforesaid, it shall take effect in like manner as if the mayor had signed it; and each and every ordinance so passed as aforesaid shall be published for the space of two weeks in one or more newspapers printed and published in the city; that whenever there shall be a vacancy in the office of mayor, or whenever the mayor shall be prevented by absence from the city, sickness or any other cause from performing the duties of the office, then the chairman of the city council shall act as mayor pro tempore, and he shall possess all the rights and powers of the mayor, until such disability be removed, or a new mayor be elected and provided, further, that if at any time there shall be a tie vote in the city council, the mayor shall, upon the application in writing of a member of said council, attend the meeting or call a special meeting of the city council to consider the subject under discussion, and he shall be entitled to a vote upon such question; provided, however, that the provisions of the foregoing proviso to this section shall not apply to any city having a population exceeding ten thousand inhabitants, except in case of a tie vote upon the question of election of a chairman of the city council, and of a city clerk, and then only in case a tie vote shall again occur at the meeting at which the mayor shall so be present, in which case after such tie shall be found to exist he shall then give the casting vote.

27. And be it enacted, That the councilmen from the several wards shall constitute the city council; they shall meet annually for organization on the first day of May, unless that day shall fall on Sunday, in which case they shall meet on the day preceding; they shall elect one of their own number chairman by a majority vote, whose duty it shall be to preside over all meetings of the city council, and in his absence the council may elect a chairman pro tempore; a majority of the whole number of councilmen shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but a smaller number may meet and adjourn from time to time; the city council shall hold stated meetings at least once in each month, at the city hall, or if there be none, at such place within the city as they may appoint by resolution, at such time as may be appointed; they shall determine and establish the rules of their own proceedings, and pass ordinances, by-laws and resolutions pertaining to the purposes and objects of the corporation as may be necessary for properly carrying out the provisions of this act; the mayor or chairman of the city council shall each have power to call special meetings of the council when necessary, and in case of their neglect of refusal to do so, it shall be lawful for any three members of such council to call any special meeting, by written or printed notice to each member served personally or left at their places of residence at least twenty-four hours previous to the time appointed for such meeting.

28. And be it enacted, That the receiver of taxes shall hold office for the term of two years, and it shall be his duty to receive and collect all moneys due to the city, whether for taxes, assessments, arrears of taxes or otherwise; the city council shall provide him with an office, which he shall attend at such times as shall be designated by the council by ordinance; he shall enter, in suitable books to be provided for that purpose, by the council, any sums received by him for any purpose, and he shall specify in such entry the names of the persons by whom or on whose account the payments are made, the date of payment and the purpose for which payment is made, and if any part of any payment is for interest or penalties, the amount thereof shall be separately stated; he shall at least once each week pay over all moneys collected by him for the city to the city treasurer and shall take his receipt therefor; he shall furnish the council at least once in each month, and oftener if required, a statement of all moneys received and collected by him since his last preceding report was made, and he shall perform all such other duties, appertaining to the said office as the council shall by ordinance prescribe; he shall make a full report annually on the first day of April to the council of all moneys received and disbursed by him, and he shall, whenever required, lay before the council for examination and audit all books, papers and vouchers appertaining to his office.

29. And be it enacted, That the city treasurer shall hold office for two years; he shall receive, safely keep and disburse, under the direction of the council, all moneys belonging to or under the control of the city; he shall keep an accurate account of all receipts and payments in such manner as the council shall direct; no money shall be paid out of the treasury except on warrant signed by the mayor and attested by the city clerk, excepting payment of state and county taxes, which the said treasurer is hereby required to make annually out of the first moneys received by him from the city collector and moneys paid into the city treasury for the redemption of property sold for taxes and assessments; and no warrant shall be drawn on the treasurer except in pursuance of an order or resolution of the council passed at a stated meeting and entered in their minutes; all such warrants shall be numbered and made payable to the order of the person entitled to receive the same, and shall specify for what purpose the amount therein mentioned is directed to be paid and the appropriation against which it is to be charged; it shall be the duty of the clerk before he delivers any warrants so drawn to enter into the margin of the book to be called "warrant book," opposite to said warrant, the number, date, amount of the same, the appropriation to which it is charged, the date of the resolution or order authorizing it to be drawn, the purpose for which ordered, and the name of the person or persons to whose order it is made payable, and to take his or their receipt in said book at the end of said marginal entry for said warrant; provided, however, that nothing in this section contained shall apply to the disbursement and payment of moneys raised or received for public school purposes.

30. And be it enacted, That the city treasurer shall receive, safely keep and disburse all moneys raised and received for public school purposes; he shall keep separate accounts thereof and pay the same out only on warrant signed by the chairman and clerk of the board of education, and no warrant for any such purpose shall be drawn on the treasurer except in pursuance of an order or resolution passed at a stated meeting and entered in their minutes, and the provisions of the last preceding section of this act relative to warrants on the treasurer by the city council shall apply to the warrants of the board of education; and the said treasurer shall do and perform all acts and duties enjoined upon township collectors by the school laws of the state.

31. And be it enacted, That the treasurer, at least once every month, and oftener if required, shall furnish the council with a statement of all moneys received and expended by him (including school moneys) since his last report, and he shall annually on the first day of April make to the council a full report of all his receipts and expenditures, and he shall, whenever required, lay before council, for examination and audit, all books, papers and vouchers appertaining to his office.

32. And be it enacted, That the recorder shall hold office for three years, and shall have jurisdiction and is hereby empowered, on oath, affirmation or affidavit made according to law, that any person or persons has or have been guilty of a violation of any of the ordinances of the city, to issue process either in the nature of a summons or warrant as to him may seem most advisable, against the person or persons so violating such ordinance, which process shall, when of the nature of a warrant, be returnable forthwith, and when in the nature of a summons be returnable in not less than three or more than five days; that such process shall state what ordinance the defendant or defendants named therein has or have violated, and in what manner the same has been violated, and then on return of such process, or at the time to which the recorder shall have adjourned the same, the said recorder shall proceed to hear testimony and to determine and give judgment in the matter without the filing of any pleadings, and the recorder shall, if judgment be rendered for the plaintiffs, forthwith issue execution against the goods and chattels and against the body of the defendant or defendants; and the said recorder shall be further empowered to inflict fines not exceeding the sum of twenty dollars on such persons as shall be convicted before him of vagrancy, disorderly conduct, breach of the peace, or, in his discretion, to order such persons to be committed to the county jail or workhouse for any period not exceeding thirty days; provided, that in all cases when the fine or penalty shall exceed ten dollars or where the punishment shall be imprisonment, there may be a trial by jury, to be conducted as in cases now triable in courts for the trial of

To be Continued.

CHAPTER CXCIV.

An Act to create, establish and regulate a police department in the cities of the second class in this state having a population by the last census, not exceeding thirty-five thousand, and to remove the same from political control.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be and is hereby created and established in each of the cities of the second class in this state whose population, by the United States or state census last taken, does not exceed thirty-five thousand, which shall accept the provisions of this act as hereinafter provided, a board of police commissioners, to whom shall be exclusively entrusted the government, control and management of the police department therein and the transaction and control of all public police matters and business.

2. And be it enacted, That such board of police commissioners shall consist of four persons, resident in such city, and each of whom shall be appointed and commissioned by the mayor of such city; two of the persons so appointed shall be selected from the dominant political party and two from the party which at the last preceding municipal election cast the next highest number of votes in such city; that is to say, two of the members of the said board shall be selected and appointed from each of the two political parties casting the largest number of votes at the last preceding municipal election in such city two of the said commissioners, one from each of the said political parties, shall be appointed for the term of two years, and two of the said commissioners, likewise one from each of the said political parties, shall be appointed for the term of three years; and thereafter, upon the expiration of the term of each of the members of said board of police commissioners, as hereinbefore provided, the mayor of such city shall appoint his successor, who shall be selected from the same political party as his predecessor, to serve for the term of three years as a member of said board of police commissioners; but in no case and at no time shall more than two of said commissioners composing said board belong to the same political party as aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That such board of police commissioners shall be entitled to have and appoint a clerk, who shall receive a salary to be fixed by the said board, and who shall keep a record of all their proceedings and proper accounts of all money received and expended by said board, and do all other acts directed by said board, and the said board of police commissioners shall make and render detailed reports monthly to the mayor of such city.

4. And be it enacted, That before entering upon the duties of such office each of said commissioners, and the clerk of the said board, shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before the clerk of such city, faithfully and impartially to perform the duties of such office, and each of the said commissioners shall enter into a bond to the corporation of such city, in such sum not exceeding five thousand dollars, and with such sureties as may be designated or approved by the mayor of such city, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such commissioner.

5. And be it enacted, That the mayor of such city shall have the right to expel from office any of the said commissioners therein on good cause shown, and after a trial of such commissioner before such mayor, and for such purpose such mayor shall be and he is hereby fully authorized and empowered to summon, swear or affirm and examine witnesses, hear counsel, and try and determine the charges against such commissioner, as to the said mayor shall seem just and proper, and his determination shall in all cases be final and conclusive.

6. And be it enacted, That in case a vacancy shall occur in the said office of police commissioner, such vacancy shall forthwith be filed for the remainder of the unexpired term, in the same manner as the original appointment was made, and such commissioner shall be selected and appointed from the same political party as his predecessor.

7. And be it enacted, That the commissioners composing such board of police commissioners be and they are hereby fully authorized and empowered to employ such persons as may be deemed necessary by said board, from time to time, in their respective departments; and the said board is hereby fully authorized and empowered to declare vacant any or all of the offices or positions therein or thereunder as to said board may appear best for the public interests in such department, including the chief of police of such department or person holding the equivalent or similar position however called or designated; and the said board shall have power to make or alter, from time to time, such by-laws, rules and regulations for the government of such board and for the conduct and management of the affairs of such board and the department under its control and government as to the members of such board shall seem proper, provided such by-laws, rules and regulations are not contrary to the constitution and laws of this state or the provisions of this act.

8. And be it enacted, That such board of police commissioners shall be and it is hereby fully empowered and authorized to designate, appoint or approve all the policemen or other persons employed in the police department of such city; and the said board of police commissioners is also hereby fully empowered and authorized, and it is hereby invested with the full right and power to suspend, remove, expel and discharge any and all persons employed or appointed in or under the department under the government and control of the said board, provided good cause shall be shown for such suspension, expulsion or discharge after an investigation by the said board.

9. And be it enacted, That each of such commissioners shall devote such time and attention to the duties of his office as the welfare of the department under his control and the public interests therein may require; and each of such commissioners shall receive an annual salary of two hundred and fifty dollars, to be paid quarterly to such commissioners by such city.

10. And be it enacted, That said board of police commissioners shall annually, or whenever a vacancy occurs, select one of their number to act as president, who shall preside at their respective meetings, and in case of a vacancy in the office of chief of police by removal, disability or otherwise, the president of said board shall perform all the duties and possess all the powers of said position during the continuance of such vacancy.

11. And be it enacted, That the said board of police commissioners shall have power to fix and regulate the compensation of all officers, servants and employees of their respective departments, and said board shall have power to appoint a surgeon from among the regularly graduated and licensed physicians of such city, who shall be under the control of the said board and subject to its rules and regulations.

12. And be it enacted, That the said board of police commissioners shall have power to issue subpoenas in the name of the president of such board and compel the attendance of witnesses upon any proceedings by virtue of its rules and regulations, and each member of said board is hereby authorized to administer oaths or affirmations in any matter or proceeding as aforesaid, and any willful or corrupt swearing by any person before said board shall be deemed perjury and punishable in the same manner as is now prescribed by the statutes of this state in cases of perjury.

13. And be it enacted, That annually, before making up the tax levy or tax budget in any such city, the said board shall estimate in detail the expenses of the police department therein for the ensuing year, and transmit the same to the common council of such city, which body shall make provision for the assessment of the same in the tax ordinance of such year; provided, the sum required shall in no case exceed by more than ten per centum the amount expended for the police department in such city for the previous fiscal year; provided, further, that it shall be lawful for the common council or other governing body to make additional appropriation to the use of the said department whenever the public interests may require it.

14. And be it enacted, That in paying salaries of said police department a pay-roll of such department shall be made out by the said commissioners thereof, and submitted to the mayor of such city, and such mayor shall order warrants drawn on the city treasurer of such city for the amount thereof to the order of the president of such board of police commissioners, and it shall be the duty of said president of such board to pay the officers and employees of said board according to the pay-roll so made out and submitted to such mayor.

15. And be it enacted, That the members of the police force employed by the board of police commissioners are hereby invested with all the powers applicable to sheriffs and constables of this state, except to serve civil process; they shall also be exempt from duty as jurymen and from military service during the time they shall remain members of such police force.

16. And be it enacted, That each of such police commissioners shall have full power to arrest, without warrant, for breaches of the peace committed in their presence; and in every such case of arrest the person so arrested shall be forthwith taken before a proper judicial officer to be dealt with according to law.

17. And be it enacted, That no police commissioner shall accept or hold any other place of public trust or emolument within the elective franchise or accept any nomination therefor unless he shall first resign his office of commissioner, and upon his acceptance of any such place or nomination his position as a member of such board shall become vacant.

18. And be it enacted, That in case any police commissioner appointed under this act shall take or receive any other reward, compensation or emolument for or in respect of any service under this act, or for or in respect to any appointment to be made or voted on, or for or in respect of any vote to be given by him as such commissioner, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars or imprisonment at hard labor for a term not to exceed two years, or both, at the discretion of the court before which such conviction is had.

19. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the common council of any city in this state wherein is established a board of police commissioners, under the provisions of this act to provide such board with suitable and proper officers, quarters and accommodations, and to make such changes and alterations therein, and to increase and enlarge the same whenever such board shall so request such common council.

20. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to nor be operative in any city until its provisions shall have been accepted by an ordinance duly passed for that purpose by the common council or other governing body of such city, exercising legislative power therein by a majority vote of all its members and such ordinance shall have been approved by the mayor of such city, and it shall be duty of the mayor upon the approval of such ordinance forthwith to cause proclamation to be made of the passage of such ordinance and its approval, stating therein that this act has become operative in such city, and he shall cause the said proclamation to be published for four weeks successively, once each week, in the newspapers published and circulating in the said city in which the ordinances of the said city are required by law to be published, and from and after the approval of the said ordinance the said act shall take effect in and be operative in such city.

21. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general, special, local or private, inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of boroughs," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any village heretofore incorporated by virtue of any special or general law to accept the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, and thereafter to be governed by the same, and have all the rights, privileges and powers specified in the supplements thereto, in lieu and instead of the provisions of the act or act under which such village was incorporated or which have been heretofore in force therein; provided, that the question of adopting this act shall be submitted to the legal voters of said village by the trustees or other governing board of said village at a general or special election held for the purpose, and be approved by a majority of the votes cast at such election.

2. And be it enacted, That the said board of trustees or other governing board shall appoint a clerk and two inspectors of said election; who shall be freeholders and legal voters in the said proposed borough, and who shall hold and conduct the election aforesaid; the polls shall open and close at the same hours as at general elections in this state, and the election shall be conducted, as nearly as may be, in like manner as general elections are conducted; the ballots cast shall contain the words "for incorporation" or "against incorporation," as the case may be; at the close of the polls the said clerk and inspectors shall canvass the votes cast, and if the majority of said votes shall be for incorporation, they shall forthwith certify the result of said election and the number of votes cast for and against, under their hands to the clerk of the county wherein said borough is situated, to be filed in his office, and from the time of filing said certificate in the office of the clerk of the county aforesaid the inhabitants of said borough shall be a body corporate, in fact and in law, under the name of the "mayor and council of the borough of ——," and by said name shall have perpetual succession, sue and be sued, prosecute and defend, in all courts of law and equity in this state, have a common seal, and alter the same at pleasure, and purchase, hold and convey real and personal property for the use and benefit of such borough.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCVI.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "An act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in cities of this state, and imposing and levying a tax assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to further taxation and assessment," passed March thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the certificate of sale issued to any city for lands bought by any city at any sale, under the provisions of the act passed March thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, the title to which is above recited, may be sold or assigned to any person or persons, by and with the consent of the mayor of any such city, upon the terms and conditions now existing.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent or conflicting with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCVII.

An Act regulating the payment of fees for licenses or permits granted in third-class cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any third-class city of this state when the city clerk is ex-officio clerk of the board of excise commissioners, or when licenses are granted by the board of aldermen or councilmen, or, when by any general or special public law, fees for licenses to sell malt or spirituous liquors, or for licensing hucksters, peddlers, auctioneers, and so forth, or the fees for any licenses or permits whatever are required to be paid to the city clerk, it shall be lawful for the board of aldermen, councilmen or other governing body in any such city having the control of the finances of said city to direct by resolution that all fees for licenses or permits of any sort or description required by law or by any ordinance of said city to be paid to the city clerk, or to be received by him, shall be paid by the applicants for such licenses or permits directly to the tax collector, collector of revenue or other officer collecting and receiving the taxes in the said city, who shall receive the same, and thereupon give his receipt therefor, specifying in said receipt the object or purpose for which said license is to be issued or permit granted; and the receipt of said tax collector, collector of revenue or other officer collecting the taxes in said city shall be sufficient evidence in all courts and places of the payment of the fee or fees for such licenses or permits.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCVIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to enable second-class cities in this state to improve and extend the water supply in said cities and to issue bonds for the payment thereof," approved March twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section six of the act entitled "An act to enable second-class cities in this state to improve and extend the water supply in said cities and to issue bonds for the payment thereof," approved March twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

6. And be it enacted, That the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body having control and management of the finances of said city, on the application of the governing body having the control and management of the water supply in said city be and are hereby authorized and required, for the purpose of improving and extending such water supply and the purchase and acquisition of land and water rights thereto, and the construction of buildings and reservoirs thereon, and the purchase and erection of pumps, machinery and other appliances and the laying of pipes in and along the streets of such city, to issue bonds in the name and under the seal of the city, to be denominated on their face "water bonds," in addition to any heretofore authorized by law, to any amount not exceeding six hundred thousand dollars; such bonds may be registered or coupon bonds, and shall bear a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum and shall be redeemable at any time not less than five nor more than thirty years from their date, in the discretion of said board, which bonds may be sold at public or private sale for the best price they can obtain for the same, but not under the par value thereof; all bonds issued as aforesaid shall be signed by the city treasurer and countersigned by the mayor of such city, and all the real estate within such city shall be liable for the payment of the principal and interest that may become due on the bonds to be issued by virtue of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CXCIX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act relating to cities of the third class."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the third class in this state the city clerk shall be elected by the council or other governing body at their annual meeting or any other regular meeting thereafter, and said council or other governing body shall, by resolution or ordinance, fix the compensation of said city clerk and define his duties.

2. And be it enacted, That the term of office of the city clerk in all cities of the third class shall be three years.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CC.

An Act to authorize township committees or other governing bodies of townships, villages or boroughs to raise, by taxation moneys to establish or aid public libraries and free reading rooms.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the township committee or the boards of trustees or other governing body of any township or village or borough in this state, to raise by taxation any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars annually, to aid public libraries and free reading rooms in any such municipality in this state, provided the same be first assented to by a majority vote of the legal voters of any such municipality, at their annual election.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CCI.

An Act in relation to the service of process in actions ex delicto upon residents of other state and upon non-resident receivers of foreign corporations.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases in which mesne process shall issue out of the supreme court or circuit court of this state in actions ex delicto against any person, persons, corporations or receiver of foreign corporations, who do not reside in this state but who own or control or have the custody of property, real or personal, situate in this state, and the cause of action arose in this state, and the plaintiff is a resident of this state, such process may be served upon the defendant or defendants therein named in the same manner as process may now be served on non-resident defendants in actions denominated local, the cause of which arose in this state; and the practice in all cases under this act shall be the same, as nearly as may be, as the practice provided for in the said local actions.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CCII.

An Act relating to towns and boroughs.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the common council of incorporated towns and boroughs, by ordinance, to order and cause any street, road, highway or alley already laid out or any portion thereof, to be vacated, straightened, altered or widened, and to take and appropriate for purpose of vacating, straightening, altering or widening any lands and real estate upon making compensation to the owner or owners thereof, in the manner now required by law.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CCIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize a new publication of the public acts of the legislature of this state, and a subscription therefor on the part of this state," approved April fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the state treasurer be and he is hereby authorized and directed to subscribe for one thousand sets of the public acts of the legislature of this state, to be compiled and edited by Garret D. W. Vroom and William M. Lanning, which work shall contain all the public acts of the legislature of this state now contained in the "revision of the statutes of New Jersey," published in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, and in the "supplement to said 'revision,'" published in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and the session laws passed and that shall be passed by the legislature of this state, between the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and the close of the legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, which are general and permanent in their nature, and which shall be in force at the end of the said legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, together with abstracts from the public decisions of the courts of this state expounding or construing the same;

2. And be it enacted, That the second section of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That the said work shall consist of three volumes, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, and shall be furnished with a full and complete general index of its contents and with a list, alphabetically arranged, of the cases from which the abstracts of public decisions shall be made, and also a list, alphabetically arranged, of the legislative acts passed since one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, not published in said work on account of their not being general and permanent in their nature or not being in force at the end of the legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five; the said work shall correspond, in arrangement of statutes and mechanical execution, to the said "revision" published in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 20, 1895.

CHAPTER CCIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the establishment of free public libraries in cities of this state," approved April first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when, in the judgment of the board of trustees of the free public library in any city in this state, which city has accepted the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, it is advisable to purchase lands, improved or unimproved, or to erect buildings thereon, or both, for the purposes of a free public library, or for the improvement and enlargement of such library, and where the estimated cost thereof shall exceed the amount of the annual appropriation for library purposes in such city and the funds of such board of trustees then on hand, said board of trustees of such public library may certify to the common council or other governing body of the city in which such free public library is situated, the amount of money necessary for the purpose of making such purchase of land or improvement thereof, and thereupon the common council or other governing body of such city may by resolution at its discretion authorize and empower the board of trustees of said free public library to expend such moneys as to the said common council or other governing body may seem proper for such purposes, not to exceed, however, the amount certified as aforesaid by said board of trustees of the free public library, and upon the passage of such resolution the board of trustees of said public library shall be empowered and authorized to purchase real estate and to erect buildings and make improvements thereto and to expend moneys therefor to the amount of such appropriation; provided, however, that no lands shall be purchased for the purpose of erecting thereon a free public library, except with the concurrence and approval of the common council or other governing body of such city, which concurrence and approval shall be expressed by resolution of the said common council or other governing body; the title of real estate so purchased shall be taken in the name of such city, and shall be exempt from taxation, but the use and control of the same shall be in such board of trustees of the free public library so long as it shall be used for free public library purposes.

2. And be it enacted, That to defray the expense of such purchase and construction, or either, the said common council or other governing body of such city is hereby authorized and directed to issue the bonds of such city not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, which bonds shall be of such denominations as the said common council or other governing body shall direct; they shall be made payable within not more than thirty years nor less than ten years from the date of their issue; they shall bear such rate of interest not exceeding four per centum per annum and be made payable as the said common council or other governing body may determine; said bonds shall be negotiated and sold at not less than their par value; they shall be denominated "free public library bonds," and shall be signed as other municipal bonds of such cities are signed.

3. And be it enacted, That for the redemption of the bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this act, and to provide for the payment of the interest on said bonds, it shall be the duty of the board of trustees of such free public library, from the annual appropriation for the support of free public libraries therein (which appropriation is fixed by the act to which this is a supplement), to pay to the commissioners of the sinking fund or other proper officer or officers having charge of the sinking fund of such city, the amount of interest on said bonds, together with three per centum for the purpose of a sinking fund, and the said sums so annually received for interest and sinking fund by the said commissioners of the sinking fund, or other officers, shall be applied by them to the payment of such interest and to the creation of a sinking fund to meet the said bonds when they shall fall due.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCV.

AN ACT CONCERNING CITIES.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the city council or other governing body of any city of this state to pass a resolution requiring the collector or other officer of such city having charge of the collection of taxes to pay to the city treasurer or other fiscal officer or department of such city all the moneys which may be collected for state and county taxes required to be assessed in such city, in which case, however, such city shall pay to the county collector of the county in which such city is located such state and county taxes out of the first moneys which it shall receive from the collection of taxes, and as soon as the same are collected.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCVI.

AN ACT CONCERNING BOROUGHS.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That a majority of the legal voters residing in any borough of this state may at any time present to one of the judges of the court of common pleas of the county within which such borough may be located a petition in writing signed by a majority of said legal voters, requesting the designation of a time and place for the holding of an election in said borough to determine whether or not the said borough incorporation shall be continued.

2. And be it enacted, That upon presenting said petition to said judge, with an affidavit accompanying the same that the said petition is signed by a majority of said legal voters, he shall thereupon designate in writing a time, not less than six days nor more than fifteen days from the presenting of said petition, and a place within said borough for holding therein of an election by the legal voters residing therein to determine whether the said borough incorporation shall be continued or set aside; that at the time of granting said order the said judge shall appoint one judge and two inspectors of said election, who shall discharge the same duties imposed upon similar officers in general state elections, who shall receive the sum of three dollars each for serving at said election, which shall be paid from the township funds in which said borough is located.

3. And be it enacted, That the polls of said election shall open at seven o'clock in the forenoon and close at seven o'clock in the evening.

4. And be it enacted, That notice of said election shall, after signing of said order by said judge, be forthwith published in any newspaper circulating in said borough, which notice shall state the time, place and object of holding the same, and a similar notice shall be posted in five of the most public places in said borough, at least five days prior to said election, which notice shall be signed by the said judge of election and inspectors of election.

5. And be it enacted, That if a majority of the votes cast in said election shall be in favor of a discontinuance of said borough incorporation, the said borough incorporation shall thereupon terminate, and the territory within the limits of said former borough shall become a part of the township within which it may be located in all respects as before the incorporation of said borough.

6. And be it enacted, That all bonded indebtedness of the said borough existing at the time of said discontinuance of borough incorporation shall remain a lien on the property within the limits of the said former borough to the same extent as during the existence of said borough, and the interest due on said bonded indebtedness, and the accruing bonded debt shall be assessed within the limits of said former borough by the assessor of the township within which the said former borough is located as the same shall become due and accrued, and the said assessments shall be collected by the township collector and applied to the payment of the said indebtedness.

7. And be it enacted, That all debts and unpaid taxes and assessments due and owing the said borough shall after the discontinuance of said corporation, be payable to the proper fiscal officer of said township, who shall apply the money collected thereon to the use of the owners of the taxable property within said former borough as hereinafter set forth, and in case of the non-payment of any taxes, assessments or other money due and owing the said former borough, such proceedings shall be taken for the collection of the same as in the case of taxes, assessments or debts due said township; and proceedings to be in the name of and by the inhabitants of the township within which said borough was located, for the use of the said former borough, and the proceeds thereof shall be payable as hereinafter set forth.

8. And be it enacted, That suit for all causes of action existing against said borough at the time of the discontinuance of said borough incorporation, may be instituted in any court of this state having jurisdiction of the same, against the inhabitants of the the township within which said borough was located, and any judgment obtained thereon shall be satisfied by an assessment made upon the taxable property within said former borough.

9. And be it enacted, That the said township committee shall have power, after the discontinuance of said borough incorporation to sell and dispose of, either at public or private sale, all real estate owned by said former borough, and to execute and deliver a proper deed therefor; all personal property owned by said former borough at the time of the discontinuance of said borough incorporation may be sold, either at public or private sale, by the said township committee, and the proceeds arising from the sale thereof shall be applied by the township collector on account of the taxes assessed on the taxable property within said former borough according to the respective assessments thereon, and all moneys accruing from said sales or from other assets of said former borough shall be applied by said collector in the same manner from year to year until the same is expended fully, as aforesaid.

10. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the township committee of the township within which said borough was located to order paid all legal claims against said former borough, and the same shall be paid in the same manner as claims against townships are paid; and the money so paid shall be assessed on the taxable property within the limits of said former borough, and when collected shall be paid into the general fund of the said township.

11. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCVII.

An Act concerning the terms of certain officers of certain cities of the second class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the second class in this state having a population of less than thirty-five thousand, where the charter of such city shall provide for the election or appointment of certain officers of such city by the common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body thereof, it shall be unlawful for such common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body to elect or appoint any such officer for a longer term than the length of the term for which the members of said common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body are themselves elected.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCVIII.

An Act to regulate the manner of making street improvements in cities of the third class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases when streets or avenues are ordered to be opened, graded or paved, or when sidewalks are ordered to be made, that it shall be lawful for the board of aldermen, councilmen or other governing body of any city of the third class in this state to cause said streets or avenues to be opened, graded and paved, and to lay sidewalks and set curb, stones and gutters by contract, to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, without first requiring the property owners along the line of said improvement or improvements to do said work at their own expense.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCIX.

An Act to authorize the issue of bonds for building public bridges in second-class counties.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the board of chosen freeholders of any county of the second class in this state, for the purpose of building any new public bridge or bridges in said counties to issue bonds in the corporate name and under the corporate seal of any said county, signed by the director and the clerk of the board of chosen freeholders of such counties and countersigned by the county collector thereof, to be denominated on their face bridge bonds, to an amount not exceeding one hundred and fifty thousand dollars; such bonds may be registered or coupon bonds, and shall bear a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable half yearly, and shall be redeemable not exceeding thirty years from their date, in the discretion of the board of chosen freeholders of such county, which bonds may be sold at public or private sale for the best price they can obtain for the same, but shall not be sold for less than par value, and all real estate and property within any such county shall be liable for the payment of the principal and interest that may become due on the bonds to be issued by virtue of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That the board of chosen freeholders of any county of the second class that shall issue bonds by virtue of this act shall have power and authority to provide by taxation for the payment of said bonds and the interest thereon, and shall yearly and every year, until the said bonds shall be redeemed and paid off, order and cause to be assessed and collected by tax at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes are assessed and collected in such counties a sum of money sufficient to pay the interest on the said bonds as the same shall become due and payable, and to pay and discharge the principal at the several times it shall become due and payable.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CCX.

An Act respecting the paving and repaving of streets, avenues and public highways in cities of the first class in this state, and providing for the payment of assessments for especial benefits to property benefited thereby and the payment of contractors supplying the work and material therefor.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when the board or body having control of the streets and highways of any city of the first class of this state shall by ordinance provide for the paving or repaving of any street, avenue or public highway in such city under the provisions of this act, and shall enter into a contract for the work and material or any part thereof necessary or convenient for carrying out the provisions of such ordinance and for the performance of the work therein provided for, it shall be the duty of such city to pay for such work and material in the manner following: twenty-five per centum of each payment made pursuant to the terms of every such contract may be paid in current funds from the capital fund account for paving and repaving in such city, or from such other fund as may be provided therefor; the remaining seventy-five per centum shall be paid in current funds from the sale of temporary loan bonds, to be issued by the common council or other body having charge of the finances of such city and which bonds shall upon their face indicate that they are issued for street paving and repaving; and it shall be the duty of the proper officers of such city to keep a record of all temporary loan bonds issued under the authority of this act and the time and place of payment, both of principal and interest, and make proper provisions for the payment of the same as herein provided; said bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, and shall be payable at the expiration of not more than five years from the date of issue.

2. And be it enacted, That hereafter assessments upon property especially benefited by the paving or repaving of any street, avenue or public highway in any city of the first class in this state, made under an ordinance as herein provided, shall be payable in five installments, the first on or before forty days from the date of the confirmation of such assessment, the second, third, fourth and fifth in one, two, three and four years after date of such confirmation respectively; the first installment of such assessment to be paid by the owner of property especially benefited shall equal one fifth of the total assessment upon said property; the second shall be for a like amount, together with interest computed at five per centum per annum upon the unpaid balance of such assessment, and each succeeding installment shall be for one fifth of the amount of the original assessment, together with interest computed at the rate of five per centum per annum, upon the unpaid balance of the assessment; the owner of the property so assessed for especial benefits may, at his option, pay the whole of the assessment on or before forty days from the date of its confirmation or at any time thereafter, with interest at five per centum, instead of installments as herein provided for; in case any installment of such assessment is not paid by the owner of property assessed for especial benefits at the time when the same is due and payable, then and in that case interest upon such installment shall thereafter be computed at the rate of ten per centum per annum; no property so assessed for especial benefits shall be sold for the non-payment of such assessment or any installment thereof, and no proceedings shall be taken to enforce the collection of such installments so due and unpaid until four years from the date of confirmation of said assessment, at which time, however, it shall be the duty of the comptroller and other proper officers of the city to cause such assessments to be collected in the same manner as assessments are now collected for like street improvements in said city.

3. And be it enacted, That when the commissioners of assessment or other body charged with making an assessment upon the property especially benefited by such paving or repaving shall have made its assessment, and the same shall have been confirmed, the amount remaining and unassessed upon property especially benefited and thereby charged to the city at large, shall be charged to and deducted from the capital fund account for paving and repaving in such city, or from such other fund as may be provided therefor, and there shall be credited back to said fund the twenty-five per centum of the cost of such improvement if theretofore charged against such fund for paving and repaving in such city or such other fund as may be provided therefor; and in case the amount so charged to said capital or other fund for paving or repaving in such city shall exceed the twenty-five per centum of the cost of such improvement, such excess shall be pledged to and used for the redemption of temporary loan bonds issued for said improvement; and in case the amount so charged as aforesaid shall be less than twenty-five per centum of the cost of said improvement, then said difference shall be made good to the capital fund account from the proceeds of the sale of temporary loan bonds of the same character as those hereinbefore provided for; and all moneys received from the assessments of especial benefits or the installments thereof shall be pledged and used for the redemption of the outstanding temporary loan bonds issued as aforesaid.

4. And be it enacted, That all written or printed proceedings had under the provisions of this act shall refer to the number of the chapter of this act in the laws of this state.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXI.

An Act to provide for the election of chosen freeholders in certain cities and incorporated towns in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be elected from cities of the third class and incorporated towns of this state, having a population of not less than eight thousand, which are not now but may hereafter be divided into wards, a chosen freeholder to represent each ward of such city or incorporated town in the board of chosen freeholders of the county in which such city or incorporated town is situated, whose term of office shall be the same as the other freeholders elected in said county; provided, however, that if a chosen freeholder now holds a seat in the board of chosen freeholders of the county from any such city or incorporated town to which this act applies, or from the township of which such city or incorporated town formed a part and from which it has been set off, and is a resident of such city or incorporated town, such freeholder shall remain in office until the expiration of the term for which he was elected, as the chosen freeholder from the ward in which he resides; and his successor shall be elected for a term ending at the same time that the term of office of the other chosen freeholders of such city or town shall terminate.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 13, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the collector of taxes of any borough formed under the act to which this is a supplement shall, when requested to do so at any time by the mayor and council of such borough, render to said mayor and council a true and full account of all moneys collected by him as such collector up to such time, and of all payments made by him out of said moneys, and for what purpose, and shall also, when required by said mayor and council, pay over to any bank or banking institution designated by them all moneys then in his hands collected or received by him for borough purposes, in the corporate name of such borough subject to drafts thereon, to be signed by the said mayor, attested by the borough clerk and countersigned by said collector.

2. And be it enacted, That if any such collector shall not comply with any such requirement, demand or direction of such mayor and council as herein provided, then he shall forfeit and pay to such borough the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in a proper suit in any court of competent jurisdiction.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CXXIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to protect trade marks and labels,' approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to protect trade-marks and labels,' approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any person, or any association or union of workingmen has heretofore adopted or used or shall hereafter adopt or use any label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement for the purpose of designating, making known or distinguishing any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor, as having been made, manufactured, produced, prepared, packed or put on sale by such person or association or union of workingmen, or by a member or members of such association or union, it shall be unlawful to counterfeit or imitate such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, or to use, sell, offer for sale or in any way utter or circulate any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement.

2. And be it enacted, That section two of said act be amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That whoever counterfeits or imitates any such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, or sells, offers for sale, or in any way utters or circulates any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, or knowingly uses any such counterfeit or imitation, or knowingly sells or disposes of, or keeps or has in his possession, with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor to which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached or affixed, or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is printed, painted, stamped or impressed, or knowingly sells or disposes of any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor contained in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, painted, stamped or impressed, or keeps or has in his possession with intent that the same shall be disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise or other product of labor in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, painted, stamped or impressed, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

3. And be it enacted, That section three of said act be amended to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That every such person, association or union that has heretofore adopted or used, or shall hereafter adopt or use, any label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, as provided in section one of this act, may file the same for record in the office of the secretary of state by leaving two copies, counterparts or fac-similes thereof, with said secretary, and by filing therewith a sworn statement, specifying the name or names of the person, association or union on whose behalf such label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement shall be filed, the class of merchandise, and a particular description of the goods to which it has been or is intended to be appropriated; that the party so filing, or on whose behalf such label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement shall be filed, has the right to the use of the same and that no other person, firm, association, union or corporation has the right to use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, and that the fac-simile copies or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct; there shall be paid for such filing and recording a fee of one dollar; any person who shall, for himself or on behalf of any other person, association or union procure the filing of any label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement in the office of the secretary of state under the provisions of this act by making any false or fraudulent representations or declarations, verbally or in writing, or by any fraudulent means, shall be liable to pay any damages sustained in consequence of any such filing, to be recovered by or on behalf of the party injured thereby, in any court having jurisdiction, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court; said secretary shall deliver to such person, association or union so filing or causing to be filed any such label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement, so many duly attested certificates of the recording of the same as such person, association or union may apply for, for each of which certificates said secretary shall receive a fee of one dollar; any such certificate of record shall in all suits and prosecutions under this act be sufficient proof of the adoption of such label, trade mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement; said secretary of the state shall not record for any person, union or association any label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement that would reasonably be mistaken for any label, trade-mark, term, design, device or form of advertisement theretofore filed by, or on behalf of any other person, union or association.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1895.

MISS HOLLIDAY'S AFTERNOON NAP.

BY HOWARD FIELDING.

[Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

CHAPTER I.

THE "LONG ROOM" AT SUNNYSIDE.

Gen. Frederick Holliday, my uncle, served his country in the field from the opening of the civil war to its close. He entered the army as a first lieutenant and rose to the rank which I have coupled with his name. Few soldiers of that war participated in so many battles; and his tremendous energy urged him ever to the front. It is therefore the more remarkable that not a drop of blood was exacted from him as the price of his devotion to the cause. Horses were shot under him; comrades fell dead at his side; but neither steel nor lead could touch him. Yet his name was written on a bullet; and it was ordained that, when scenes of violence had become mere dreams, in the home of his peaceful old age, and in an hour of absolute tranquillity, the death he had so often gone to meet should come to him.

It was a drowsy summer afternoon. I lay in a hammock under the trees before my uncle's home, called Sunnyside, on the banks of the Hudson, some miles below West Point. Some one passed along the concrete walk near me, but I was so near to sleep that I had not the energy to turn my head to see who it was. I supposed, however, that it was Capt. Charles Marshall, an officer of the United States army, and the accepted suitor of my uncle's daughter.

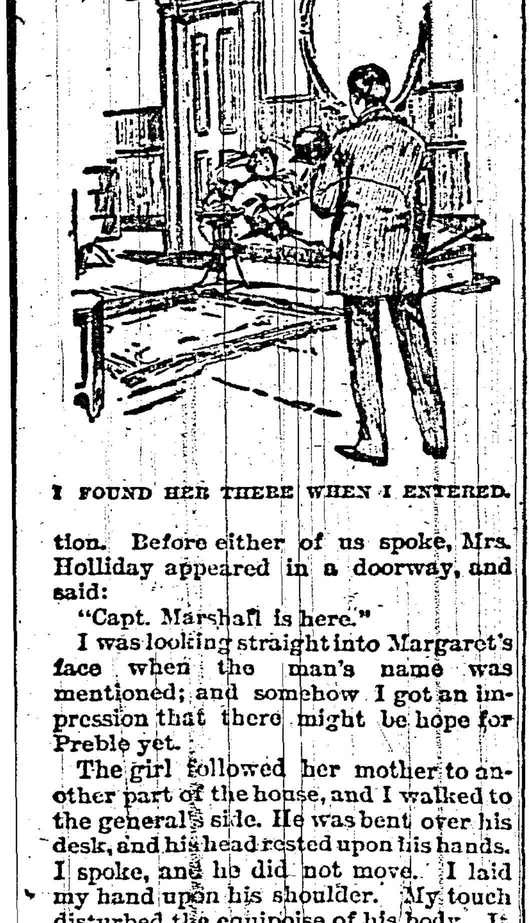
My feeling for Marshall was not cordial. I would have much preferred to see Margaret engaged to Horace Preble, whom I liked exceedingly. Two years before, I had believed that they would make a match; but my uncle's influence had turned the scale in favor of Marshall. I say this on my own authority, and as an expression of my belief at the time. The accepted theory, however, was that Preble's loss of his small fortune, through the dishonesty of a trustee, had caused him to withdraw from the contest. I had seen comparatively little of him since, though recently I had begun to meet him in society, where, being of good family and remarkably attractive appearance, he was a favorite despite his utter lack of interest in the gayeties of that world.

Marshall was forty years old, and a typical soldier. The idea of Margaret's marriage to him suggested an incarceration in a military prison.

A few minutes after the steps which I took to be Marshall's passed me, I suddenly remembered that the general had asked me to confer with him upon a matter of business that afternoon. I knew that I should find him at that hour in the "Long Room," as it was called, an apartment extending the full length of one side of the house. This somewhat unusual feature had been added to the house, considerably to the detriment of its external appearance, by the general's orders. He made it his parade ground in bad weather; and there he used to march up and down, attended by many a soldier's wraith, summoned by his old commander from a grave in the south. The furnishings of the room were as peculiar as its dimensions. At one end was the general's desk where he wrote his letters. There was also an easy chair for reading, and some small, revolving bookcases. The other end had somewhat the appearance of a conservatory; and midway was a couch with cushions, a work basket with colored wools, and other indications that Margaret often kept her father company in the Long Room.

I found her there seated. She lay on the couch fast asleep. I stood by her side, looking down upon her beautiful face, and she did not know. The general, at his desk, had not moved at the sound of my coming. The somnolency of the summer's day seemed to hold them both.

I put my hand on Margaret's forehead and waked her. She did not start, but only opened her brown eyes and looked up at me with instant recognition. Before either of us spoke, Mrs. Holliday appeared in a doorway, and said:



I FOUND HER THERE WHEN I ENTERED.

"Capt. Marshall is here."

I was looking straight into Margaret's face when the man's name was mentioned; and somehow I got an impression that there might be hope for Preble yet.

The girl followed her mother to another part of the house, and I walked to the general's side. He was bent over his desk, and his head rested upon his hands. I spoke, and he did not move. I laid my hand upon his shoulder. My touch disturbed the equipoise of his body. It slowly, heavily slid from the chair, and fell to the floor where it lay face upward.

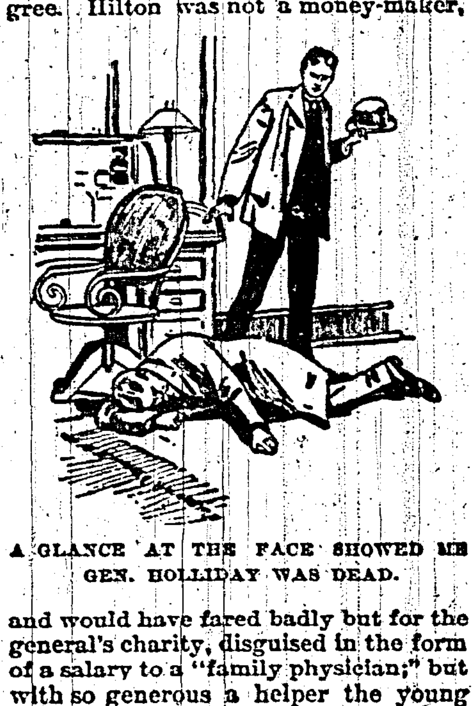
A single glance at that face showed me that Gen. Holliday was dead.

I am not one of those who tremble in the presence of death. The dominant sentiment of my heart, as I knelt beside this lifeless form, was poignant grief for the loss of one whom I had loved and reverenced many years.

But when, after a moment, I saw blood upon him and upon the floor where he had fallen, and much more beneath the desk, I was alarmed and cried out for help. Stephen Hanley, my uncle's butler, ran into the room by a door close to where I stood beside the corpse. He was the only person who heard my cry. It is notable about the Long Room that sound does not readily pass out of it. The butler was so terror-stricken as to be of no use to me. He dared not touch the body. The sight of the blood, which had startled me, seemed utterly to have unmanned him.

"Find Dr. Hilton," I cried, "and send him here instantly. Tell no one else."

Hanley obeyed with alacrity, and in scarcely more than a minute Dr. Hilton came. He was a young physician resident in the family, with which he had a distant relationship. Gen. Holliday had paid for his education, and had supported him since he had taken his degree. Hilton was not a money-maker, and would have fared badly but for the general's charity, disguised in the form of a salary to a "family physician;" but with so generous a helper the young man might have been an object of envy. He was assured of a luxurious home during the general's life, and of competency after his death, under the will.



A GLANCE AT THE FACE SHOWED ME GEN. HOLLIDAY WAS DEAD.

I have never thought well of Dr. Hilton's professional attainments, but the foremost practitioner of the world could have done no more in this instance. Gen. Holliday had been shot through the body. The bullet had shattered the spine, and death had resulted instantly from shock. So much Dr. Hilton was able to say with perfect certainty. He added that the murderer must have stood directly behind his victim, and have aimed well, for the bullet, if it had not been deflected slightly by the spine, would have pierced the heart. Gen. Holliday had been dead a very short time—certainly less than an hour.

Considering his medical training, Hilton was extraordinarily affected by this terrible event. He was far less calm than I was, and for that reason I decided that it would be best for me to do what must be done about informing Mrs. Holliday and her daughter. Hilton begged me to do it, speaking with pallid and trembling lips. It even seemed to me, as I turned away, that he dreaded to be left alone with the body.

We speak in the most ordinary way of breaking such news as that, to those who will be heart-broken when they hear it. I did my best, speaking to Margaret first, because she was stronger than her mother; but I doubt if either could have suffered greater pain at the most brutally sudden announcement. Mrs. Holliday was utterly prostrated; and I believe that nothing but her mother's dire need saved Margaret.

I have already confessed my prejudice against Capt. Marshall, and it is therefore with the greater pleasure that I admit him to have proven himself a serviceable man in such an emergency. If it is in him to face the perils of battle with an equal calmness, he must be a good soldier.

It was under his direction that we at last began to make an investigation of the tragedy. We had already telephoned to the police of West Point.

Evidently the extraordinary circumstance—the seemingly impossible detail which distinguished the case from all other mysteries—was the presence of Margaret when the shot was fired. Of that fact there could be no doubt. She told us that she had come to the Long Room immediately after luncheon. Her father had come in, very soon afterwards, and had gone at once to his desk. She must have fallen asleep immediately; and she remembered nothing more till the moment when she saw me standing beside her.

"This is beyond belief," said Hilton. "It is utterly incredible that Margaret should not have been awakened by the report of the weapon; but it is even more preposterous to suppose that any human creature would have had the hardihood to commit this crime right before the girl's face, even though she slept."

"He might have felt sure that she wouldn't wake," said Marshall; and I noticed that his cold gray eyes scanned Hilton's face narrowly.

The suggestion seemed to escape the physician, but it came like a blow to me. Margaret's sudden and deep sleep might furnish the explanation of the entire mystery. Hilton sat next to Margaret at the table. He might have drugged her food. This necessitated the supposition that he knew that she and her father would be together in the Long Room after luncheon. It was not impossible that he should have known it. But if that seemed an obstacle to the theory, another and more reasonable one suggested itself immediately. Margaret's sleep might have been natural in the beginning. Then some one might have come noiselessly to her side, as I had done, without disturbing her slumbers. He might have caused her to inhale some soporiferous vapor which would have dulled her senses while the murderous deed was done, passing away afterwards without leaving a trace upon her.

We three were silent while these thoughts were passing through my brain. Hilton sat in a chair and his head had fallen upon his hands. Before him stood Marshall, stern and soldierly. I stood at one side observing them.

If Margaret was drugged, I thought, who but this doctor could have done it? Is there some secret passion in the man's heart for Margaret? Did she favor him, and did he hope to win her when his rival should lack a father's influence in his favor? Then there was the will; and Hilton knew its contents.

"They make powders nowadays," said Marshall, "which develop extraordinary energy but very little noise. I think it possible that a weapon so charged might have been fired in this end of the room and not have been heard by anybody but the murderer. It is extremely improbable, but we must not forget the fact. A shot was certainly fired in this room. It must be explained somehow."

"Where were you?" I asked, with unintentional rudeness.

He turned upon me with a sort of military wheel.

"I was in the parlor with Mrs. Holliday," he said. "And your question reminds me of one that may be pertinent. Dr. Hilton, from your examination of the body, should you think it likely that Gen. Holliday was shot after Margaret left this room?"

I flushed hotly and was on the point of uttering a sharp retort. And then suddenly the thought of the true-hearted, kindly man, the friend whom all of us had lost, came over me and grief conquered resentment.

"Gentlemen," I said, "we waste time with idle suspicions. Let us confine ourselves to the facts of the case."

CHAPTER II.

HORACE PREBLE.

There is a police officer in West Point who has a considerable reputation as a detective. His name is Bernard Kelly. Within an hour after the message was sent out from Sunnyside Kelly arrived.

Meanwhile we had made several important discoveries. First we questioned the servants. There were six. Three of them believed that they had heard a sound like a pistol shot, about the time when the crime must have been committed. The other three were sure that they had not. Of the latter, Hanley, the butler, was the most important witness. He was nearer to the Long Room during the critical period than any other person not actually within it. He had heard nothing, but he had seen something of consequence—namely, a man whom he did not know, walking hurriedly away from the house. This person the butler had seen from a window. He attached no importance to the circumstance at the time; indeed, he did not mention it until I had sharply questioned him. This was just before Kelly arrived.

My first vague suspicions had centered upon Hanley. They were founded only upon his demeanor at the time when he and I were together in the Long Room immediately after my discovery of the crime. Certainly there could not have been a more perfect picture of guilty terror than he furnished then. His horror of the body, and especially of the blood; his eagerness to escape from the room; his dread of questioning, were all suggestive.

But I could not at first supply a motive for him. That came later, when, with Kelly's assistance, we examined more closely my uncle's desk. Our first examination of it had but one object; we wished to trace the course of the bullet. This was not difficult. After passing entirely through my uncle's body it had penetrated the back of the desk, and the wall also. I was amazed at the power of the projectile; but Capt. Marshall was not. It supported his theory that the new explosive for small arms figured in this case. He was an expert upon this point; indeed, he was at that time conducting experiments with a rifle intended for the army. This dreadful weapon when fired on a level from the height of a man's shoulder would send a bullet nearly two miles, and at two thousand yards would drive it through the bodies of seven men.

He stated these facts to me with professional calmness; he even offered to exhibit them to me if I would go some day to his laboratory and proving ground, which was on the outskirts of West Point. His knowledge of the subject was undoubtedly great, and the more I thought upon it the more important, in my mind, became the coincidence of the presence of such a man in that house at a time when a mysterious and terribly powerful weapon had been murderously employed.

My interest became horror when I found soon afterward that this circumstance impressed itself more strongly than any other upon the mind of Bernard Kelly. Through Margaret he learned from Mrs. Holliday that she had left Marshall alone in the parlor for fully ten minutes. He seemed not to have moved when she returned, but he had had time to go to the Long Room and return.

Margaret told me of Kelly's questions, despite his warning to her to keep absolute silence about them. She said, frankly, that they indicated to her his suspicion that Marshall had committed the crime.

"That is not to be thought of," said the girl. "He, of all others, had most reason to wish my father to live."

Perhaps; yet it is true that a living father may change his mind about a daughter's marriage, but the expressed will cannot be recalled when death has sealed the lips.

Then came that other discovery relative to the desk, and it threw all my theories into confusion.

On the forenoon of that day I had seen a pile of bank notes in a drawer of the desk, and the topmost had been of the denomination of one hundred dollars. How much was in the pile I did not know. My uncle had closed the drawer immediately. I had seen only one of the bills. When we searched the desk under Kelly's direction there was no money at all in it. My uncle had only a few dollars and a gold watch in his pockets.

If robbery was the motive, whom should we suspect? I thought of Hanley instantly; and, in private, I described to Kelly the demeanor of the man at the first alarm. The detective received my communication without any comment whatever. Indeed, he did not speak ten words, except in questions, while he was in the house.

About an hour after he had gone away, I received a telephone message from him saying that the case would soon be cleared up. He spoke as if he already had his hand on the murderer's shoulder. I begged him to name the guilty man, but his only reply was that he would be at Sunnyside early the next morning.

The night in that house was one which I shudder to remember. Suspicion was rampant. In my own mind Hanley, Marshall and Hilton figured in turn as the murderer. Then the absence of the weapon suggested the mysterious stranger whom the butler had seen. My thoughts were in a whirl, and their confusion became more as I perceived that both Hilton and Marshall were coming more and more closely into conference and conspicuously shunning me.

I heard one of the servants say to another that Capt. Marshall had done it, and the reply was that, whoever had fired the shot, Margaret Holliday was certainly a party to the crime. Another servant in response to my questioning said that he had seen Hanley enter the Long Room from the dining room which adjoined it, not ten minutes before my discovery of the murder. Hanley, with white lips, denied that he had been in that room since the morning.

Marshall and Hilton divided between them the care of the body and did not consult me. I passed the night in torment, relieved only by an occasional sight of Margaret, who twice or thrice came from her mother's room to speak with me. She would not see Marshall. I think that she believed him guilty.

At eight o'clock I was standing on the veranda in front of the house when the sound of wheels startled me, and I saw a carriage containing Bernard Kelly and a man who leaned far back with his face in the shadow. It flashed across me in a second that Kelly had solved the riddle, arrested the murderer, and was bringing him to the house. If that was so, the prisoner could be no other than the man whom Hanley had seen. And then I thought of the steps that I had heard, and had supposed to be Marshall's, as I lay in the hammock. Had the murderer passed me then?

The carriage rapidly approached. In a few seconds it was near enough for me to see the face of the shadow. Kelly's companion was Horace Preble.

I hope to get through this mortal life without suffering such a shock as that again.

Preble got out of the carriage with Kelly close behind him.

"In heaven's name what is this?" I demanded.

The young man looked disconsolately down upon the ground. He had at first extended his hand toward me and had withdrawn it.

"This thing had to come out," he said. "I've tried to cover it up as much as I could, but it was no use. You might as well know the truth."

"Speak!" I cried.

"Why, you see, about two years ago, when I lost all my money, I was in a desperate fix. I had hoped to live without work and that hope failed me. I got into sad straits, and at last—of course you'll regard this as confidential?"

"Confidential!"

"Well, it's known to a few. Every time a thing of this kind happens to me, somebody has to be let in."

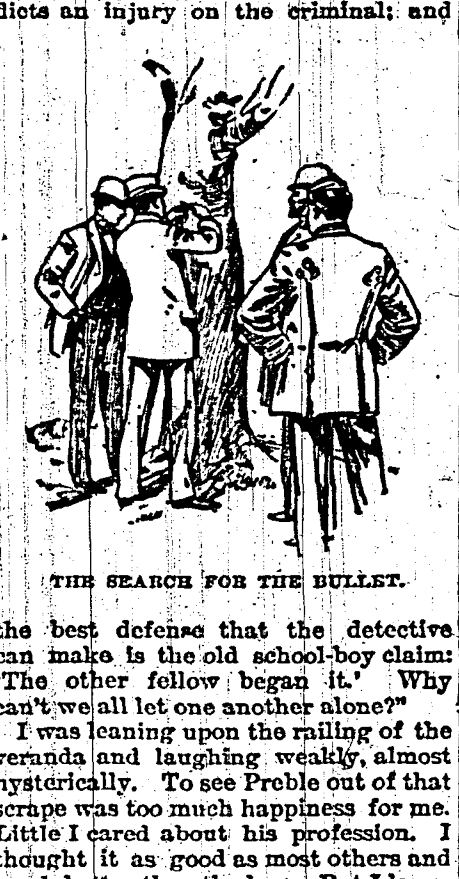
"Look here, Preble," I exclaimed, "I'm altogether too nervous to stand this strain any longer. Since yesterday I've been suspected of murder by half a dozen people, and have convicted, in my own mind, half a dozen others in town. I convicted you, when I saw you with Detective Kelly. But of course when I stand here face to face with you, I know it can't be true. Yet you have some part in the shameful secret, as you have confessed to me. What is it? Don't keep me in suspense!"

A sickly smile distorted Preble's handsome face.

"I am a detective in the pay of the New York police department," he said. "I'm here professionally."

He shuddered at the thought.

"It's a little different from the old times," he continued. "I'm heartily ashamed of it, my boy, but it can't be helped now. There's little to choose between detective and criminal in my opinion. The criminal inflicts an injury on society, and the detective inflicts an injury on the criminal; and the best defense that the detective can make is the old school-boy claim: 'The other fellow began it.' Why can't we all let one another alone?"



THE SEARCH FOR THE BULLET.

I was leaning upon the railing of the veranda and laughing weakly, almost hysterically. To see Preble out of that scrape was too much happiness for me. Little I cared about his profession. I thought it as good as most others and much better than the law. But I knew

Continued on page 8.

FERRIS' GOOD SENSE Corset Waists

Quality, Workmanship, and Shapes, unequaled.

Over A MILLION Mothers, Misses, and Children, wear them.

Modern ideas of healthful dress are perfected in this Corset Waist. For sale by all leading retailers.

Children's, 25c. to 75c. Misses', 50c. to $1.00. Ladies', $1.00 to $2.00.

Ran Away and Lamed Himself.

While standing in front of an East Ninth street residence, yesterday afternoon, the horse attached to the delivery wagon of Woolston & Buckle, the North avenue wallpaper dealers, became frightened, and started on a terrific pace down the street. After going a short distance the animal lurched to one side and ran full force into a water hydrant. The shock of the collision threw the horse to the ground, and tangled him in the harness so that he was unable to rise till Howard Woolston and J. F. Buckle released him, when it was found that he had seriously bruised and lamed himself. The wagon was badly damaged.

One Swallow

"don't make a spring." Neither will one bottle of Scott's Emulsion cure a well established case of Consumption, but it will ease the Cough, relieve the irritation and arrest the progress of the disease, and if persistently used, with the observance of the laws of health, will surely restore the patient in the early stages and give great comfort and prolong life in the latter stages.

It is simply Cod-liver Oil properly emulsified, combined with Hypophosphites and Glycerine. It is a tissue-builder.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c. and $1.

DIRECTIONS for using

CREAM BALM.

Apply a particle of the Balm well up into the nostrils. After a moment draw a strong breath through the nose. Use three times a day, after meals preferred, and before retiring.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD CATARRH ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY BROS. NEW YORK TRADE MARK

COLD IN HEAD

ELY'S CREAM BALM opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation heals the sores, protects the membrane from colds, restores the senses of taste and smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once. Price 50c at druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren street, New York.

The Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Standard Railway of America

Protected throughout by the Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

On and after Jan 20, 1896, trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

FAST LINE leaves Philadelphia 12 25 p m daily with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars for Pittsburg, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

6.37 P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, daily except Saturday, for Toledo. Williamsport, Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

8.24 p.m—SOUTHWESTERN EXPRESS with Pullman vestibule sleeping car, daily, to Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis, and Memphis. Dining car Altoona to Richmond.

8 42 p. m.—PACIFIC EXPRESS with Pullman vestibule sleeping cars, daily, for Pittsburg, Columbus, Chicago, and Toledo, daily, except Saturday for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South –1 00 9.05, 9.36 a. m., 2.32 p. m.

Sundays, 1, 9 05, 9 36 a. m., 9 41 p m.

For Baltimore only 1 37 p. m., week-days.

For Newark and New York—3 02, 5 34, 5 46, 6 17, 6 43, 7 01, 7 20, 7 49, 7 57, 8 06, 8 23, 8 33, 8 47, 9 17, 9 41, 9 48, 10 20, 10 33, 10 49, 11 07, 11 43 a. m., 1 13, 1 20, 1 56, 224, 2 40, 3 45, 3 27, 3 47, 4 43, 5 15, 5 36, 5 48, 6 08, 6 27, 6 43, 6 58, 7 07, 7 25, 7 59, 8 41, 9 10, 9 50, 10 03 11 03 and 11 56 p. m. Sundays 3 02, 5 34, 7 54, 8 45, 9 20, 9 47, 10 12, 10 33, 10 49 a. m., 12 35, 1 44, 2 33, 3 45, 3 45, 4 33, 5 34, 5 43, 7 05, 7 12, 7 25, 7 53, 8 30 9 15, 10 16, 1 43 and 11 56 p. m.

For New York only, 6 10 a. m. daily.

For Philadelphia—1 00, 6 57, 7 59, 9 05, 9 36, 11 43 A. M.; 1 05, 1 37, 3 33, 5 03, 6 33 7 46, 8 42, 9 39 P. M. Sundays at 1 00, 6 59, 9 05, 9 36, 10 41 A. M.; 5 40, 6 37, 7 47 and 9 41 P. M.

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

(2 25 p.m. with through Buffet parlor car) Sundays 6 59 a. m.

Cape May, Sea Isle City and Ocean City 1 37 p. m. weekdays.

For Rahway—1, 1 43 daily ex. Monday, 4 03, 6 44, 7 10, 7 59, 8 54, 9 45, 9 50, 10 59, 11 43, a. m., 12 46, 1 11, 1 37, 2 48 3 20, 3 39, 3 59, 4 33, 4 53, 5 22, 5 40, 6, 6 06 6 12, 6 17, 6 27, 6 45, 6 52, 6 59, 7 20, 7 46, 8 14, 8 55, 9 54, 11 02 11 45 p. m., and 12 27 night week-days Sundays, 1, 1 43, 6 59, 8 43, 9 49, 10 25 10 41 and 11 47 a. m., 12 50, 1 50, 2 47, 3 28, 4 50, 5 20, 5 40, 7 21, 7 27, 7 47, 8 14, 8 47, 9 16, 10 14, 11 and 11 55 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1 00, 6 57, 7 10, 7 59, 9 05 9 36, 9 50, 11 43 a. m., 12 35, 1 37, 2 48, 3 59, 4 33, 5 03, 5 40, 6 06, 6 45, 7 46, 9 39 and 11 02 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 6 59, 9 05, 9 36 9 49, 10 41 a. m., 12 50, 1 50, 5 40, 7 47, 9 16, 9 41 p. m.

For Woodbridge—1 43 a m daily except Monday, 6 44, 9 45, 10 59 a. m., 12 46, 3 20, 4 53, 5 44, 6 12, and 7 20 9 54 p.m., 12 27 night, week-days. Sundays, 1 43, 10 25, and 11 47 a. m., 10 14 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—1 43 a m daily except Monday, 6 44, 9 45, 10 59, 12 46 3 20, 4 53, 5 44, 6 12, 7 20 7 36 9 54 and 12 27. Sundays, 1 43 10 25, 11 47 a m 10 14 p m.

For East Millstone—7 10 a. m., 12 35, 2 48 and 5 40 p. m., week-days.

For Trenton—1 00, 6 57, 7 10, 7 59, 9 05, 9 36, 11 43 A. M.; 1 05, 1 37, 2 48, 5 03, 6 36, 7 46, 8 42, 9 39 P. M. Sundays at 1 00, 6 59, 9 05 9 36, 10 41 A. M.; 5 40, 6 37, 7 47 and 9 41 P. M.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere via Trenton—7 59 A. M., 2.48 and 6.36 p. m., and 5.40 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—7 59 A. M.; 2 48 P. M.

For Freehold—7 59, 11 43 a. m., 4 33, 5 03 p.m., via. Monmouth Junction, week-days.

For Jamesburg, via. Monmouth Junction—7 59 and 11 43 a. m., 4 33 and 5 03 p. m., week days.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—9 45 12 46, 4 12 5 44 p. m., 12 27 night week-days. Sundays, 10 25 a. m., and 5 41 p. m.; do not stop at Asbury Park on Sundays.

For Sea Side Park, Island Heights and Toms River—12 46, p. m.

For Boston—8 43 p. m., daily.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats to Brooklyn annex, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—1 00 daily except Monday 6, 6 30, 7 20, 8 10, 8 30, 9, 9 10, 10 10, 11 00 a. m., 12, 12 10, 12 30, 12 40 1 00, 2 10, 2 30, 3 00, 3 20, 4 00, 4 10, 4 30, 4 40, 5 00, 5 10, 5 20, 5 30, 5 40, 5 50, 6 00, 6 10, 6 20, 6 40, 7 00, 7 30, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11 00, 11 50 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays, 1 00 6 15, 8, 9 00, 9 45, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 2 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 30, 10,15, 11 00 p. m., and 12 15 night.

S. M. PREVOST, General Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Fraternal Visit.

Unity Lodge, 102, K. of P., meet in their room in the Babcock Building tonight. They will receive a fraternal visit from Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, the oldest Pythian lodge in the city. Eight candidates will have the first rank conferred on them, and the following officers from Perseverance Lodge will by request confer the work: C. C.—Jacob C. Blimm; V. C.—S. J. Higham; Prelate—L. Mohring; Master at Arms—J. Milligan, and Master of Work, L. J. Robinson, in the absence of Deputy Grand Chancellor Patterson, through sickness in his family. Past Chancellor Cadwallader Jones, one of the oldest Pythians in this State, will introduce the brethren, and a very pleasant and fraternal time is anticipated.

The Plainfield Excursionists.

A. V. D. Honeyman writes that all but two of his Plainfield excursion party have decided to go into the Yosemite. He states as a pleasant experience of their Pasadena visit, a theatre party given to the entire excursion, by Lewis A. Dunn, formerly of Plainfield. In the beautiful opera-house they saw an amateur operatic performance, the best they had ever seen for amateurs, all home talent. Though 3 hours long, it was bright from beginning to finish.

Lacerated His Fingers.

While engaged in working about a joining machine in Rheaume's planing mill on Watchung avenue, a day or two ago, Lewis Miller of Short Hills accidentally caught his left hand in the fast revolving machinery, with the result of badly lacerating his fingers. The injuries were dressed by Dr. Rushmore, but it will be some time before he will be able to resume work.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty street. Time Table in effect, Nov. 18, 1894.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield, 2 14, 3 37, 5 33, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 33, 10 04, 10 27, 11 19, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 50, 5 54, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 03, 11 19, 11 28 a. m.; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 28, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 38, 10 17 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty Street at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a. m.; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 15, 11 30, p. m., 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 8 30, 9 15 a. m.; 12 00 m.; 1 00, 2 15, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00. 10 00, p. m.; 12 15 night 1 00 a. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a. m.; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 50, 5 54, 6 54, 7 03 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p.m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 03, 11 28, a. m.; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark, at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 39, 9 08, 10 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 15, 1 35, 2 20 (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday 7 30, 8 45, 9 35, 11 35, a. m.; 1 10, 2 35, 4 10, 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a. m. 12 46, 2 08, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 33, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 23 p. m.; 12 33 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 34, a. m.; 2 03, 3 28, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7.00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m.; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 5 28, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 55 a. m.; 13 03, 1 20, 5 05, 6 45, 8 03, 8 05, 9 40 p.m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54, a. m.; 12 46, 2 08, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28 a. m.; 2 03, 6 35, p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 53 a. m.; 12 32, 4 00, 7 00 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a. m.; 6 40, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5 45 A. M. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk Williamsport and Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m. for stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 A. M. for Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 A. M. for Flemington, High Bridge branch D L & W R R, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Nanticoke, Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m. way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 08 P. M. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury and Williamsport, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton. Buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge branch

5 14 P. M. for Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Mauch Chunk Shamokin and Tamaqua, Buffet parlor car to Scranton.

6 19 P. M. for Flemington.

6 33 P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

8 21 P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 A. M. Sunday for Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 8 28 a.m. Sundays for Easton. 2 03 p. m. Sundays for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading and Harrisburg, 6.35 p. m. Sundays for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c. and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m. 1 18 p. m.

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c

Leave Plainfield 3 37, 8, 10 27, a. m 1.18, 3 51, 5 54, p. m. Sundays—(except Ocean Grove 8 52, a. m., 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 8 52, 8 10 27 a. m. 1 18, 3 51, 4 50, 5.54, 7 03 p.m. Sunday—8 52, a. m., 3 30 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8, 10 27 a. m., 1 18, 3 51, 4 50, p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 48, 10 45, a. m., 2 08*, 5 54*, 6 45 8 21, 9 37* p. m., 1 12, night. Sundays—5 45, 9 48, a. m., 2 03*, 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 12, night.

For Trenton 5 45, 8 44, 9 48*, 10 45, a. m., 12 46, 2 08*, 5 54*, 6 33*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 12 night. Sunday—5 45, 9 34, a. m., 2 03*, 5 14* 6 35 p. m., 1 12 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 9 48, a. m. 2 08, 5 54* 6 45 p. m. 1 12, night. Sundays—9 48 a. m., 2 03, 5 14* 6 45 p.m. 1 12, night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points south with through vestibule sleeper, via Shenandoah Valley Route at 5 34 p m. Sundays 5 14 p m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points west, week days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sundays 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked * change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Sup't.
H. P. BALDWIN, Gen. Pass. Agt.

A SUMMER NIGHT.

BY MAXWELL GRAY.

[Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

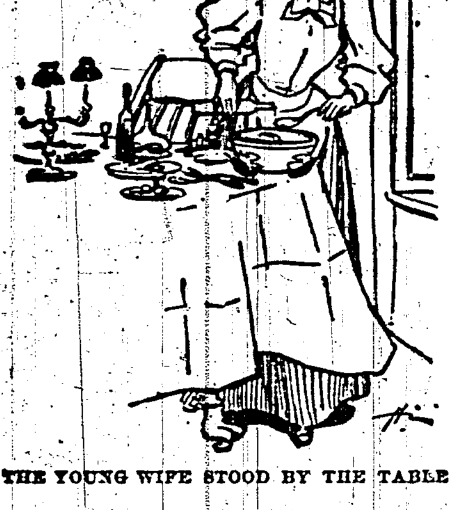
CHAPTER I.

Sunbeams falling slant and soft towards the close of a long, glowing, glorious summer day, shooting through translucent hangings of gold-green leaves and interstices of grass and corn-stalks, stretching long vague shadows upon sun-drenched turf and dusty roadway, burning in smouldering luster on the west face of the church tower, resting caressingly on the chimney-pots, roofs and garret windows, and dazzling from high western window panes, while the sun-baked streets below lay in cool, deep shadow, and townsfolk began to breathe freely and to think of restful, pleasant things. Sunbeams caught by glass of dormer windows and tossed back upon the wall opposite an open casement, where the tailor's son sat coughing, large-eyed and hectic, made his heart faint with longing at the thought of sunlight upon the cliffs and sea-waves, meadows, woods and hill-slopes he would see no more.

The streets began to echo with leisurely steps of tired people strolling in the coolness, voices floated, softened yet distinct on the pleasant still air with the indescribable tonal quality so distinctive of summer time. The tailor's son heard snatches of talk rising thus pleasantly to the window with the scent of his father's pipe and the sound of his father's slow steps on the pavement, where he paced, with rolled-up shirt-sleeves and unbuttoned waistcoat, stopping now and again to exchange a word with a passer-by.

Over the way a large private house with two doors was set among the shops. One door stood wide and offered through a back doorway a glimpse of foliage and garden turf, translucent in the late sunshine, suggestive of infinite stretches of wood and meadow and mossy stream. It was the doctor's house. By and by perhaps the doctor would step over the way, run up the creaking stair, feel the lad's pulse, chat for ten minutes and run back again. He often did this; it was always a pleasant possibility to look forward to. The boy was developing a tranquil philosophy; the pleasantest things in life, he thought, are the things that may occur and sometimes do. They are also the saddest; but he was not old enough to know that.

The doctor's old red brick house was a source of perennial pleasure, a tranquil stage on which dramas were shown but seldom played through; an act here, a scene there, suggested endless combinations to be worked out by idle fancy; the framework of the daily domestic comedy was always visible. The next scene would be lighting of windows and descent of blinds. The table in the room to the right of the door was laid for supper; he caught gleams of a white cloth, glitter of silver and glass, and color of red-shaded candles ready to be lighted. The doctor's young wife stood by the table, smiling faintly and putting the last touch to a cool and pleasant arrangement of tenderest greens of crisp lettuce, transparent ivory of cucumber, shell white of young onion, and deep red of radish. Such a salad, in the pretty porcelain bowl that had been a wedding present; such a salad, she thought, as would surprise the doctor and fill him with delight and make him repent his saying that no female hand could rightly mix a salad. And it did surprise him; because she had used, in generous plenitude, excellent clear castor oil, mistaking it for olive. The doctor's wife had yet to learn what tragedy may mar the honeyed peace of early conjugal felicity; so she went on faintly smiling, adjusted her slices of hard-boiled egg to perfect symmetry on the top and daintily crossed the spoon and fork above, all unconscious of the doom that lurked within the bowl.

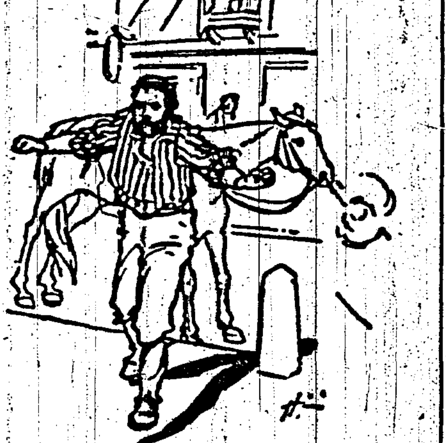


THE YOUNG WIFE STOOD BY THE TABLE.

A cheerful pop sounded through the the open window across the street, the kind of pop that inspires a delicious thirst on a hot day, conjuring up visions of cool and ruddy claret, surf-like creaming of bright champagne, or clear amber and ivory froth of the honest native drink for which the banks of Trent are justly renowned. The amiable gurgle that followed as the doctor's wife poured the claret into the tall, slim cup was inaudible save to herself. She liked the maids to be out of an evening, if only to give her an opportunity of impressing the doctor with due respect for her household capabilities. One last touch to the bowl of fresh roses a farmer's wife had tucked under the seat of the doctor's dog cart, another to the parsley adorning the cold fowl, a slight pause to consider the advisability of lighting candles, and she went out, slim and pretty in her white gown, softly singing to herself, to call the doctor to supper, while the tailor's son watched the gas burst into flame in the surgery and witnessed the execution of a breakdown, ending in high kicks that would have assured wealth beyond the dreams of avarice to a lady on the London boards, by the surgery boy, whose subsequent enjoyment of a nefarious effervescing drink out of the glass physio-measure, was also tantalizingly visible.

"Horace! Horace!" called the doctor's wife, her white figure swallowed up in the green lucent gloom beyond the garden door.

The doctor supposed himself to be reading the Standard in the summer house in the company of a short black pipe and a small white dog. But in this he was mistaken. He was but just home from a long dusty journey, or rather round of journeys, his head had fallen forward on his chest, the Standard was slipping over his outstretched legs from one limp hand, and his pipe dropping its dead ashes on the dog's back and the gravel path from the other, while those rhythmic mellifluous sounds that give pleasing assurance of a good man's slumber played upon the summer air.



HE WAS AT THE DOOR IN AN INSTANT.

"Horace!" cried the doctor's wife. "Lazy fellow!" and the little dog jumped up and barked. "Ay—hum!" muttered the doctor thickly, as he opened and closed his heavy eyes, "no night bell—heaven!"

Through the now open doors of garden and street the town sounds floated in; a boy whistling, the far-off roll of a solitary carriage, murmur of voices, the church clock striking in lordly leisure nine mellow strokes on the tremulous waiting air, and then—a long way off, a sharp, quick click rousing a thin, sharp echo. The click grew sharper, yet fuller, it broadened and was a click no more, the echo ceased, and the tailor's son recognized in the fuller sonority of the strokes the hoof-beats of a galloping horse on the hill; they quickened down the steep descent, grew louder and hollower over the bridge, and full and strong on the hard street road with a confused ring of echoes from the houses. The people turned at the sound of the mad, ever-quickening gallop, to see a strong, firm-necked cob, streaming with sweat, flecked with foam, red of nostril and with bleeding mouth, ridden by a hatless man in shirtsleeves, tear along the street and thunder up to the doctor's door, where, pulled on his haunches, he stopped and seemed to shoot his rider to the ground. No sooner did the man touch the dusty road than he was at the door, tearing at the bells labeled "Night" and "Surgery," leaving the panting, streaming horse to blow noisily and shake himself on his quivering legs with down-drooped head. The surgery boy leisurely finished his nefarious drink and even rinsed the glass before responding to the furious ringing of the bells, faintly curious to see how long and how loud the man could or would ring. The doctor's wife jumped nervously at the first sharp peal, the little dog barked passionately, the doctor dropped his pipe and made a face.

"Come di-rectly; the chickens are taken with the pip; old Granny Jones has the tooth-ache; pray ring a little louder. Where is that scamp of a boy?" he murmured with sarcastic resignation.

"Horace you shall not go," Mrs. Newman decided. "You've had nothing to eat; you are tired out, and such a salad I've mixed."

"I won't go, I'll be hanged if I'll go!"

"Come to supper, before the ice melts in the pail. I'll say you are—"

"Say I'm out, I'm dead, I shan't be home all night, I'm at church, I've got the smallpox," grumbled the doctor, steadily moving all the time, not supper-wards, whither his wife tried to draw him, but towards the surgery. "I've not been home half an hour. Am I a slave? Can't I have a minute's peace? May I never eat?"

"And the claret you ordered yesterday dear. And the salad," pleaded the anxious wife.

"I'm dog-tired, and not a horse in the stable fit to go."

"Please, sir, it's Mr. Adams, of Thornly, and come at once and he's rode hard and his horse is blowed," panted the surgery boy.

The tailor's son was excited, he heard not only the loud, continuous ringing at the surgery door, but the urgent summons of the hatless rider, who now leant, pale beneath the brown of his drawn, wet face, panting against the door-post, staring vacantly at the opposite window, regardless of the comments and inquiries of a little group of loungers, including the tailor, while the blown horse snorted and shook his quivering flanks and reins thrown loose on his neck.

Presently the man, after a word with the doctor, moved heavily from the door, and, taking the cob's bridle on his arm, led him slowly up and down the road. The doctor and his wife, the latter conspicuous in her white dress, moved quickly about the surgery and consulting-room, opening drawers and brass-bound mahogany boxes, taking things out and making up a parcel, while the surgery boy fled like one possessed down the street and round the corner, returning soon in a dog-cart driven by a groom who leapt to the pavement at the door, when the doctor as quickly leapt into the cart, stowing the parcel under the seat and driving off with a lessening clatter and rattle down the echoing street, over the bridge and up the hill into the silence of the sweet summer night.

CHAPTER II.

Stephen Adams stood still in the road the bridle on his bare brown arm, and started stupidly after the doctor's dog-cart. A great sob broke from his broad brown chest, the blue striped shirt on which was open; it was a sob of relief. Then he looked at the cob, and, going over to the old-fashioned inn, relic of past coaching days, the Rose and Crown, called the ostler and helped him rub the cob down, loosening the girths and rinsing the mouth.

Somebody gave him a hat which he put on half consciously; and then he called for ale, drank a pint and poured a pint down the cob's throat.

"He done it in half an hour. Seven mile," he said, looking hard at the cob.

"A rare good goer, guvner," the ostler returned, patting and smoothing the animal's firm-set neck, "and a rare good un to stay. But you've took it all out of en; there ain't 'alf a kick in all his four legs."

Adams looked thoughtfully at the cob, considering how much go was left in him, and then, taking a parcel the doctor's man had brought him, fixed it to the saddle, feed the ostler and led the horse briskly away, walking him down the street, over the bridge and up the hill before he mounted and trotted along the level, slowly at first, and then more quickly through the cooling dusk, and dewy scents of field and hedgerow.

Hundreds of years seemed to have passed since he started in the evening sunshine on that mad, break-neck gallop, spurred by agonies of fear.

He fell to thinking over all that had passed since he went forth in the morning dew that day, bent upon getting that last grass crop, over-ripe as it was for lack of hands to save it, mown. There were still some acres to cart; the hands could go on to the carting when the dew was fully dried; in the meantime a quarter of the heavy grass at least might be down—the whole must be down before dewfall, and those acres of well-made hay carted besides. To mow one field and cart the other—that had seemed the whole aim and problem of existence in the morning. And Annie to worry him with her petty wants just then! He had flung off with a snarl, when she raised herself from the pillow on one arm and called after him as he was leaving the room, only half awake, his heavy eyes full of sleep. Money! Women were always wanting money—at the wrong time. What if Jane's wages were a week overdue? She could wait; but that heavy, over-ripe grass could not. Give Annie the key to his strong box to get it? A likely matter. And the weed that had got into the cows' pasture to be seen to besides. Why hadn't Annie told him of the taste in the butter before? Who but a woman would wait till that morning over breakfast to mention it? Who wouldn't have sworn?

Those acres of rich waving grass, stiff against the scythes, and that invidious weed in the pasture seemed of small moment now. The whole dairy and the year's hay had better have gone—before that evening's tragedy took place.

They had been married ten months and it had not troubled Stephen to see Annie's rounded cheek sharpen and pale and the corners of her young red mouth droop; it was only nature, he thought. And if she was found crying at times, why it was the way of young wives on the road to motherhood; so he was told. These woman's troubles had to be borne; what else were women made for? To be borne quietly, without troubling men. Wives must not be spoiled. Men had troubles enough out of doors; they wanted peace at home.

So he thought in the morning—but now his thoughts were changed.

In spite of his moroseness and evil temper, he had been a happy man in the beginning of that day. What would he not give now to drag himself from sound sleep in the morning coolness, and drowsily dress and hurry forth, to be called back by Annie? To be standing in the mower's rank at mid-day with streaming face, sweeping the long bright scythe through the stiff thick grass—to be lying, face downward, beneath the hedgerow oak in a pleasant doze, hushed by the faint rustle in the cool green canopy above—half dreaming, half thinking of happy things—of heavy hay crops, nearly saved, of glorious weather and consequent coming on of blossomed wheat, plumping out of heavy ears of barley and filling of oat-husks, as well as of the lucky chance that the child was not to be born till harvest was done, the dairy work lighter and autumn leisure at hand. It would not do to have Annie upstairs in harvest or haying time, with twenty cows in milk. She would get through a good summer's work first, and by next summer the boy would be grown to a plaything good to toss. Of course it would be a boy.

"Stephen," he heard, continually, above the cob's trot on the dusty high-road, "do listen, Stephen. Indeed, it's particular." Of all things he hated a complaining woman; and the querulous tone of Annie's voice irritated him. He knew that he was not good-tempered, was ungracious, taciturn, irritable. Annie should have known it too, and forborne to worry him. A whole day often passed without a word from him; he meant no harm; he hated senseless chatter; she knew it was only his way. Yet he promised his conscience that if Annie were but spared, he would be kinder, more sociable, gentler for ever after. If!

He turned sick, and pressed his heels into the tired horse's side. The possibility was infinitesimal. The cob quickened his weary trot; Stephen thought he might be too late.

The tailor's son was still at the window, watching the street lamps sparkle out on the dusk, and a few silver stars point the pale strip of sky that ran like a river between the black roofs. He saw the untasted supper in the opposite room, where no one remembered to draw the blinds, and caught the gleam of Mrs. Newman's white gown as she passed the open doors, pacing disconsolate in the garden, waiting for her husband.

And always he saw the spare, sinewy figure of Stephen Adams; his sunburnt, hard-featured face, with red-brown beard and thick hair matted over his strong, stubborn forehead

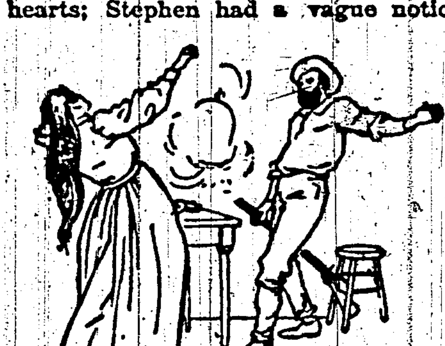
Always he heard the words: "Shot through the body." Who was shot, and by whom? "Wife," "loaded gun," were the only words that he could make out in the farmer's hurried, urgent message.

Stephen was hearing that shot over and over again, together with Annie's words, above the cob's foot-falls, the droning of chafers, voice of corn-crakes and chirp of grasshoppers, and then a mist of blood would come before his hot, dazed eyes.

The mowing was at last quite finished, the hay had been carted long before the dews began to fall. The sun was low when he went into the wide brewus or outer kitchen to replace his gun in the rack after firing at rooks in the piece of wheat beyond the orchard. He had fired both barrels, reloaded, and fired again more than once; he had a young rabbit just shot in his hand, and threw it on the table, when Annie came in, white and anxious.

"Stephen, I must speak in private. It's serious; it's about—it's Willis Arley—" so far she had panted.

He had always despised and disliked this Willis Arley, a fellow who never succeeded in anything, who read and wrote when he should have been plowing and sowing, who left his father's farm and set up for a scribbler in London till he was nearly starved. He had been one of Annie's numerous sweethearts; Stephen had a vague notion that she favored him at one time before her father stepped between them and forbade Arley the house. It was an old story, so old that it had not occurred to Stephen even to be jealous; Arley had not been near the place for years; there was a rumor that he was gone for a soldier, or to Australia. He was no longer spoken of now, his brother had the farm, his mother lived in a vine-covered stone house near the village church; Stephen seemed to remember that she was very ill; to be sure, Dr. Newman's dog-cart had been seen outside the vine-covered house that afternoon. Yet when Annie spoke the half-forgotten name, he turned with one of his impatient jerks, the gun still in his hand—and how did it happen?—the maid servant was standing by, the only witness—what did she know?—the gun must have been cocked, he must have touched the trigger—there was a report, a cry, Annie was down, there was blood on the stone-paved floor. Then followed cries of alarm and horror, people running in, the saddling and bridling and mad galloping of the cob along the dusty, seven-mile road to the town.



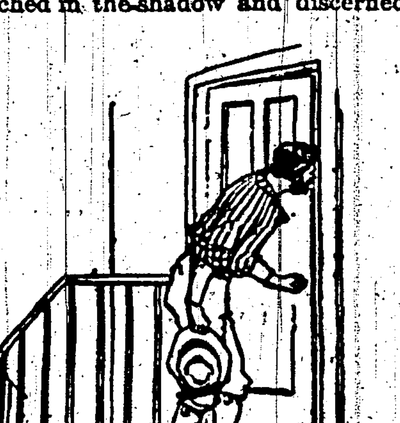
THERE WAS A REPORT.

The night sparkled with pale stars, the breath of honeysuckle hung about meadow and garden, when he rode into his own yard and looked anxiously at his house, dimly outlined in the gray summer dusk that would not deepen before the early dawn reddened the sky.

A dim light showed in the rose-bowered window upstairs, another dim light in the kitchen below, neither window was curtained; all was not yet over. His quick step, heavy with nailed boots, was on the uncarpeted oaken stair, where an eight-day clock ticked with steady patience on the landing and vaguely comforted him, quieting the fever of his blood with familiar, home-like voice. Outside the bedroom door he paused, sick at heart; then softly turned the handle and entered.

Annie's face, white and sharp, was on the white pillow, her dark hair, loosened and tangled, lay over pillow and sheet, the doctor was bending above her, doing something to her wounded side, a woman wiped blood from the pale lips, lips softly smiling in spite of the quick, gasping breath that parted them. Annie's beautiful dark eyes were wide and full of light—such a light as he had never before seen in them, a light directed to the gaze of a tall man in a smock frock standing by the bed in the shadow of the curtains.

What man? His startled glance searched in the shadow and discerned the half-forgotten, thoughtful features of the white-handed dreamer, the wastrel, the ne'er-do-weel Willis Arley. He found himself narrowly observing the clean white smock, worn somehow with a difference, beneath the evidently unaccustomed garment he detected the narrow red stripe of regimental trousers, above it the trim mustache and otherwise clean-shaven face and close-cropped hair that bespoke the soldier.



HE SOFTLY TURNED THE HANDLE.

A faint shiver went through Arley's frame at Stephen's approach; Annie's eyes lost their light and turned to her husband's face with a piteous pleading.

"I tried hard, Stephen," she panted, in a slow, strained voice that already seemed far off. "If you had a cared for me, if you had a spoke a kind word! And the child and all coming—I could a been—a good wife—" The voice failed into inarticulate mutterings, the dark eyes closed, Stephen and Arley each heard the throbbing of their own hearts and Annie's sibilant breathing; a waft of flower-spiced air shook the feeble candle flame, a moth dashed madly through it; the doctor put something to the pale lips; the patient seemed to sleep.

Some seconds passed; Arley stood rigid and erect; cold dews sprang on Stephen's strong square brow; his mouth was parched.

Then Annie started and sat up. "Forgive!" she cried, gazing into her husband's face drawn, and stretching out her hands to him. The effort brought blood from the wounded lungs to the mouth and she fell back, her eyes turning to Arley and closing with a smile forever.

It seemed not long after that Adams found himself in the kitchen, where a fire had been kindled and a candle burned dimly, but not so dimly that he did not see dark, wet stains on the stone floor. The doctor was holding his arm firmly, Arley was standing before him with a sullen, defiant gaze in his large, dreamy eyes.

"It's four years since I saw Annie Duke, Mr. Adams," he was saying, "till this afternoon. Mother died at five o'clock. I'd overstayed my leave for a day and they were after me. I slipped along the hedge in the ditch to your orchard, and so through the garden and wood-house, where your wife saw me and took me to the strong beer cellar, and hid me, and gave me the smock frock. There I should have stayed until I could have got off quiet in plain clothes. But I heard the shot and the cries and ran out and helped carry her up. That's all I have to say."

"And that's enough," said a deep voice from a dark corner whence issued two soldiers, while a third appeared at the door.

"Quite enough," replied Arley, saluting. "Good night, gentlemen."

"Good night," replied Adams, mechanically, as Arley and the three soldiers, each with a "Good night, all," vanished into the pale summer night, where their measured tread gradually died away into silence.

"Her last look was for him, and I killed her," Adams muttered to himself.

"I was never more sorry for anybody in my life, Mabel," the doctor told his wife afterwards. "The man was like a stone. The woman told him his wife had said she was glad to go, thankful for the shot."

The tailor's son slept but brokenly; sometimes he was glad to hear solitary footsteps echoing along the silent streets and passing into the cool and pleasant night; his spirit seemed to pass into the freshness with the unknown steps. He waked to-night to hear the belfry clock chime the four quarters and strike twice on the deep bell that sounded fuller and more solemn on the silent night. The air stole fresh and sweet through the open window. It was not unpleasant to lie awake in the restful stillness. A quarter chimed and the half hour. The bells were like the voice of a watching spirit, telling that all is well. Then from far off rose the faint roll of wheels and quick beat of hoofs, louder and louder, till the sound ceased at the opposite door, and the doctor drowsily dropped to the pavement. He was cheered by the red light of the shaded candles on the table where the supper was still waiting, cheered still more by the sight of his wife opening the door, flushed with sleep, charming in a cambric dressing-gown with pink ribbons and pink slippers, her shining hair gathered into a long thick plait that fell over one shoulder, her eyes bright with welcome and kindness.

He thought of poor Annie's words: "If I'd thought you'd a cared for me—if you'd a said a kind word." So, to keep himself from over softness, he roundly rated Mrs. Newman for being up.

But she only laughed and stopped his mouth in the proper way.

[THE END.]

Art Note.

"How is your daughter coming on in her art studies, Mr. Bondclipper?"

"Splendidly. She has made great progress in sculpture. I expect she will be the only sculptress in New York."

"That's where you are mistaken. There are lots of women who 'bust their husbands' in New York.—Tammany Times.

BOROUGH OR NOT?

Fanwood to Have an Election to Settle the Question.

A large meeting of Fanwood voters was held in the clubhouse last Friday, with George Miller in the chair and L. J. Ellis secretary.

The committee on borough reported a computation that the increase of tax-rate within the limits of the proposed borough would be 14½ cents on each $100.

After much discusion, it was voted to apply for a borough commission, instead of a complete separation from the township.

A petition was signed by the required property interests, asking the Freeholders to call an election. The petition was given to Freeholder Westcott, and the election will be held as soon as the law permits.

The citizens will then decide whether or not to govern the station end of the township by borough commission.

To Pass Through Plainfield.

The Manhattan Bicycle Club of New York have arranged for a double century run from New York to Philadelphia and return, to take place June 22 and 23. The club will pass through this city on the run.

—Dr. E. B. Lighthill, having recovered his health in Plainfield, has returned to New York and resumed his large practice, at 214 West

PLAINFIELD CONTRIBUTED.

Her Quartette of Instrumentalists Made This a Great Concert.

The residents of Scotch Plains and Fanwood had the pleasure of listening to one of the finest musical performances that has ever been given in that section, Wednesday evening, April 24, in the Baptist Church, Scotch Plains.

Plainfield contributed largely to the success of the entertainment in furnishing a quartette of instrumentalists, consisting of Mrs. F. A. Pollock, piano; J. Z. Petrie, violin; F. A. Pollock, flute; F. Ferrer, 'cello. The playing of this quartette was very fine, showing the result of considerable practice, and the professional instrumental clubs that occasionally visit the neighboring cities will have to look to their laurels.

They were assisted by Miss Alice H. Fine, an excellent solo soprano; Mrs. W. S. Force, contralto; and Spencer P. Smith, tenor.

Miss Fine's singing gave great pleasure to the audience, particularly her rendering of the "Angel's Serenade" by Braga, with flute obligato beautifully rendered by Mr. Pollock. Mrs. Force and Mr. Smith also won the good graces of their audience by the manner in which they rendered their solos. Mr. Petrie, violinist, delighted the musical audience in the rendering of Bohm's Cavatina, a classical solo for the violin, which he played very artistically. Mr. Ferrer rendered a beautiful solo on the 'cello, which showed he was a master of that instrument, and Mr. Pollock's playing of the "Nightingale's Serenade" was particularly good and resulted in a hearty encore which was responded to with Schubert's Serenade, an excellent arrangement of this beautiful composition. It is due to Mrs. Pollock to say that her playing in the quartette parts, and her accompaniments to the various solos, were all that could be desired. Miss E. A. Randolph accompanied Mrs. W. S. Force to the great satisfaction of the audience.

THE SENIOR RECEPTION.

Methodists Have a Pleasant Evening in Vincent Chapel.

The reception given in Vincent Chapel Thursday by the senior department of the First Methodist Church Sunday-school was a delightful event, in providing an evening of entertainment and sociability for those who attended. The exercises were opened by singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers", after which Superintendent Jackson made brief remarks appropriate to the occasion.

A piano solo was rendered by Miss Maude French, which was executed in such a manner as to win applause from the hearers.

Miss Addie Parker Jackson next gave an elocutionary recital entitled "The Tenor". It was a piece that brought into action all the versatile accomplishments of the elocutionist, whose gesture, tone and enunciation are such as only acquired by constant and thorough study. Very naturally her effort was received with marked appreciation, so that it was necessary for her to respond to an encore.

A cornet solo was played by Raymond McGee, which displayed musical ability on the part of the player.

Miss Kittie Mitchell of Philadelphia sang a solo, entitled "Orpheus With His Lute". Miss Mitchell has a beautiful soprano voice of real depth and range, and her rendition of this delicate piece was so pretty that the audience demanded an encore.

By special request Miss Jackson recited Fred Emerson's "Swing", which, like her previous pieces, was very pleasing. For an encore she recited a juvenile piece that displayed better than anything else her scope of ability.

The exercises were closed by a piano solo by Miss French, a cornet solo by Mr. McGee, and a vocal solo by Miss Mitchell.

At the conclusion pleasant social intercourse was indulged in, and refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. N. Y. Hull, Miss Jackson, and the Misses Sharp.

EX-SHERIFF OF ULSTER COUNTY.

Hon. Davis Winnie Owes His Health to Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

SHANDAKEN, N. Y.—One of the most prominent men in Ulster County is the Hon. Davis Winne, of this town. His reputation is not confined alone to this county, where he held the office of Sheriff for three years, he was also this district's representative in the New York State Legislature. For years Mr. Winne has been suffering from a complicated case of kidney and bladder trouble and congestion of the liver. Upon the advice of friends he decided to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. He was not disappointed, for in a short while after he began its use, he was in better health than he had been in years before.

In speaking of Favorite Remedy to your correspondent Mr. Winne said: "It has done more for me than all the physicians I ever employed, and I most unhesitatingly recommend it to any one suffering from kidney, liver or urinary troubles, for it will cure them."

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is today the acknowledged specific for all diseases arising from acidity of the blood, and will cure dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney, liver and urinary troubles, scrofula and eczema.

You can not afford to trifle with health and life. Putting off treatment when dangerous symptoms exist is only slow suicide. Accept the aid of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy; it has restored thousands to health and strength.

Miss Sadie Randolph of West Eighth street has recovered from a serious illness.

Miss Bertha Hoffman of Grove street has returned after an enjoyable visit to

END OF A CAMPAIGN

BY MATT CRIM.

(Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson and Bacheller.)

CHAPTER I.

When Mrs. Col. Waring sold her old home in Virginia and went to New York to live, she frankly confessed that it was for the sole purpose of giving her daughters the advantages of social life, and the opportunity to marry well.

Frankness seemed one of Mrs. Col. Waring's crowning charms. Her poverty, the beauty of her daughters, her motherly anxiety and ambition for their future, were all gracefully acknowledged; but discretion went hand in hand with this candor. The lady was shrewd enough to know perfectly well when and with whom to talk so freely. Her audiences were carefully selected. Men were apt to pity and admire her, but a few ill-natured women had declared her to be a deliberate and selfish schemer. However, Mrs. Col. Waring suffered little from these scurrilous attacks.

She was a small, slightly-built woman, with a thin face, queer gray eyes and dark hair tinged silvery on the temples. She dressed plainly and always very markedly as a widow, but wore some handsome rings on her slender hands. No one ever observed Mrs. Col. Waring without also observing the old-fashioned cluster diamond on her forefinger. It seemed to assist largely in the perfection of her plans. When occupied with some knotty problem she would turn and twist it around on her finger incessantly. As for the colonel, he had fought gallantly for the confederacy, and finally lost his life in its service. People who knew the family well had liked him rather better than his wife. He had been a handsome, robust man, as healthy in mind as in body, a truly candid soul without any pretense or make believe. The daughters inherited his beauty, and they might have resembled him more in spirit had he lived to train and influence them. But they knew the pinch of poverty and felt it all the more because their mother chafed under it so sorely. Her high estimate of money and position had its influence with them, and the two eldest sisters married according to her wishes. They had the opportunity, for the Warings were remotely connected with a moderately well-to-do and very aristocratic family—according to the New York standard of aristocracy—while Tom Waring, who had made and lost two or three fortunes on the stock exchange, rendered valuable service in bringing some of his moneyed friends to the house. So her sisters married, and then it was Barbara's turn.

For her, Mrs. Waring had made her most ambitious plans. She was undoubtedly more attractive than either of her sisters, although they were much handsomer. She was charming, but not eager to please, therefore men were anxious to please her, and then she possessed a decided "style," to which, she, as well as her mother, attached decided value. She listened to her mother's wordly counsel with a ready acceptance of its wisdom and a cool impartial appreciation of her gifts and what was due her family pride. It would be an exceptional man indeed who could win her. Her marriage should be a triumph before which all the Waring marriages would pale into utter insignificance. She desired money, the prestige of a fine old name, and a brilliant mind. She would neither marry a rich fool nor a poor genius. She read the history of famous and fascinating women, pored over accounts of the French salons and wished that she could have one of her own. Her lip curled with disdain at the thought of contenting herself with the frivolous pastimes of a mere society woman. It was her vaguely outlined plan to draw about her the highest and best in all the arts and professions, to become a patron of genius and be noted for her brilliant gatherings as well as the perfection of her gowns. Love had not even been considered. Indeed it rather pleased her to think that she couldn't love very deeply, that her head, her well poised, artistically dressed head, would always govern her.

"A little unwomanly," Tom Waring would say to himself when his thoughts wandered in her direction. "Not very deep, either, I fancy, but taking—immensely taking."

Waring was a stout, florid bachelor who had been through an endless number of love affairs and who still retained his chivalrous admiration for women. He had taken the pretty Waring girls under a semi-paternal wing and felt it his duty to administer many solemn warnings on worldly ambition. But as he invariably delivered those warnings after dining freely he only provoked laughter and affectionate raillery. Barbara exasperated him very much.

"A fellow might kill himself for you, and I don't believe you'd know enough to care a bawbee!" he exclaimed, one evening.

She leaned her head lazily against the back of her chair.

"Ah! well, perhaps not so bad as that," she said, nonchalantly. "But a man who would do such a decidedly imbecile thing is hardly worth pitying, don't you think so?"

"I wonder," said Waring, looking quizzically at her, "I wonder if you are not posing. It is your evident desire to appear very flinty, and you play your part well—very well. But I'm sorry. I wish girls would be more simple and natural."

His earnestness amused her.

"I think it would be very tedious to have to keep up a pose before you, Cousin Tom, one of my own family—tedious and unprofitable. Girls are natural, only they are not all angels, but human beings, like the rest of the world. If I can't fall madly in love or don't want to, what's the difference? I think the people in love are about the most wretched creatures I know, always swinging between heaven and hell."

"You've been well trained, Miss Waring. A fish would be warm-blooded compared to you."

Barbara refused to be piqued.

"Mamma is admirable, but I have a reason of my own which occasionally is able to assert itself."

"Your reason be hanged!" cried Waring, rising from his seat in a passion. "It doesn't seem to prevent you from accepting all the adoration that is offered you."

"You positively grow rude, Cousin Tom. Don't you think it would be wise for you to go home and sleep off your ill temper?"

"I beg your pardon, Barbara. I have to let myself out occasionally, you know. But what has reason to do with love—genuine true-hearted love, you know?"

Barbara's eyes glinted.

"I don't see why it shouldn't have a great deal to do with it, and I think if it did there'd be fewer unhappy people in the world—fewer divorces even. There is no reason whatever for people throwing common sense to the wind simply because they fall in love. For my part—".

"By jove! Barbara you are stunning, really. I'd like to possess a little of your coolness when stocks are going down and the market smashes. Your serenity is worth a fortune."

Barbara passed through three seasons and received a number of offers of marriage. They were all rejected, however. She had not yet found what she wanted.

"And you never will, my dear Barbara, depend upon it. You'll either marry some poor devil, or die an old maid," said the irrepressible Tom, who watched her social career with unabated interest.

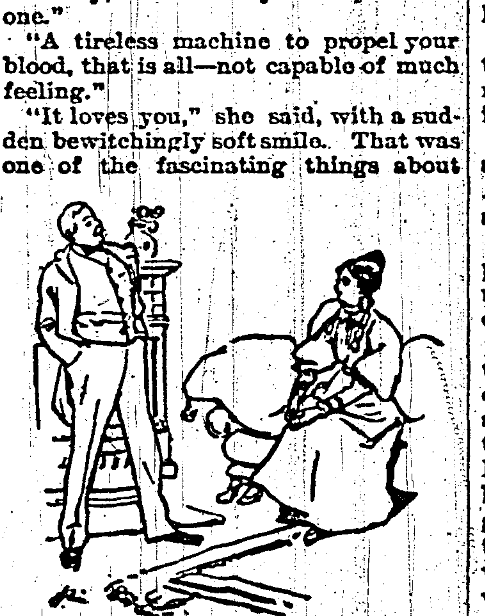
Barbara involuntarily stole a glance at herself in a mirror.

"Oh, you are not losing your attractiveness, I must admit. You wear marvelously well." His voice sunk to a suggestion of tenderness. "You could be a matchless woman if you had a heart."

"A very necessary portion of one's anatomy, I should say. I hope I have one."

"A tireless machine to propel your blood, that is all—not capable of much feeling."

"It loves you," she said, with a sudden bewitchingly soft smile. That was one of the fascinating things about Barbara—the little glimpses of womanliness occasionally peeping tantalizingly through her colorless languor.



"OH, COME, NOW, NONE OF YOUR ARTFUL COQUETRY."

"Oh, come, now, none of your artful coquetries on me!" he exclaimed, flushing and stroking his gray mustache.

"Then you must stop harking back to that old theme. We settled it long ago."

"No, we have not settled it. We never can as long as you refuse to—"

"To see through your eyes?"

"To see what you are missing. But I guess you are all right—some sides of you, at any rate. I believe you'd make a first-rate mother. Now, wouldn't you?"

She had relapsed into her usual indifference.

"I really never gave the matter a thought," she said, then suddenly broke through again and laughed a gay, delightful laugh. "How you do overflow with sentiment. You must have been in love a score of times."

"I have."

"And your heart? I suppose it is in a very fragmentary condition?"

"On the contrary, it has been enriched by every experience," he replied, with dignity. "My first love affair occurred when I was only twelve years old. What an experience! What profound emotion thrilled my soul!"

He sighed deeply, throwing his head back and gazing retrospectively at the ceiling.

"And when did the last affair end?" Barbara inquired casually.

Waring came out of his sentimental reverie with a slightly disconcerted air.

"Oh—ah, it hasn't ended."

"Indeed!"

"Yes, she is the dearest little woman in the world."

"How interesting! Why don't you marry her?"

"She—ah, is already married. It is a purely platonic sentiment between us, I assure you, Barbara. She is neglected and I pity her. I shall never marry."

Just then Mrs. Waring's niece broke into the conversation. She had all the while been seated near the window.

"Tom, Tom, why do you talk such nonsense? Of course you will marry. There is a Divinity that shapes our ends."

"A peroxide of hydrogened one will probably shape his," Barbara remarked from the cabinet mantel where she was now standing rearranging her hair.

Waring dined downtown with some friends that evening, and then returned to his rooms to make some changes in his toilet before going on to the Lyceum where he had promised to meet Barbara and her mother. He had imbibed so freely of champagne that he was overflowing with joyousness.

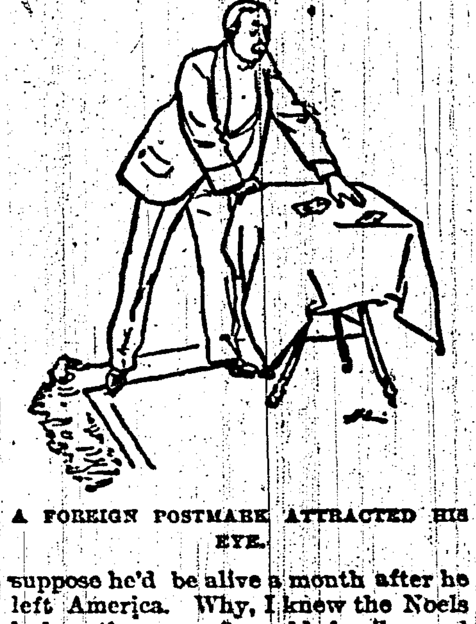
"I am not drunk, but Jove, my head does feel peculiar," he muttered to himself. "That champagne must have been extra dry, sure enough."

At the last moment he discovered some letters on the table. He turned them over carelessly, while humming a popular air. A foreign postmark attracted his eye, and he opened that letter [illegible] others aside to be read at a more convenient time. It was from an old acquaintance traveling abroad.

"And now, Waring, I come to the real point of this discourse. My son is on his way to America. He has foolishly entangled himself in a love affair with a young widow over here, and I am anxious to break off the whole matter. He will call upon you in New York, and I beg you, for the sake of our friendship in the past, to look after him, you know all the best people. Introduce him to some charming girls and try, if possible, to make him forget his widow. Please do not let him know that I have prepared you for his visit. I am quite recovered from the most serious of my ailments. Ever your friend, JAMES NOEL."

For a moment Waring struggled with his befogged memory trying to place James Noel.

"Oh, yes; oh, yes," he said finally, "I know who it is now. James Noel went abroad with his family years ago, and his daughter married a prince or something of that kind. Why, of course, awfully sick man, Jim Noel. Didn't suppose he'd be alive a month after he left America. Why, I knew the Noels before the war—fine old family, and Jim made money till you couldn't rest. Perfect loads of it."



A FOREIGN POSTMARK ATTRACTED HIS EYE.

He mused over the letter and the responsibility thrust upon him for a moment. Then a brilliant idea struck him.

"I'll introduce him to Barbara—that's the thing, the very thing. If he's not not hopeless she'll cure him. Yes, I'll introduce him to Barbara."

He winked at himself in the mirror, and gathered up his hat and gloves. At the same instant a servant appeared at the door with a card.

Waring took it and gave vent to a prolonged whistle, but in a moment he remembered himself through the haze of his astonishment.

"Show the gentleman up, show him up," he said quickly. "Now I must be careful what I say; funny that he should call the very day I get the letter. Wonder if he looks like his father. I am very glad to see you, Mr. Noel," he exclaimed heartily as a blonde, good-natured looking young man entered the room. "Knew your father very well; I ought to say extremely well. I'm happy to welcome you to America; very happy indeed to welcome you to America."

"You are kind, Mr. Waring," said Noel. "I promised my father I would look you up if I ever came to New York."

"Delightful of him to remember his old friend"—hypocritically, and with his hand upon the letter in his pocket.

"He always spoke of you in the warmest tones, sir," said the young man, seriously. He did not appear an entirely spoiled or willful youth. He was older than Waring had expected, judging from his father's letter, and even through the simple candor of his manner one might have seen a suggestion of satisfactory reserve force and self-reliance. Waring insisted upon taking him to the theater, and learned during the drive that Noel had studied art abroad, and that he expected to set up a studio in New York. He did not speak of his family, and Waring tactfully refrained from making inquiries. He introduced the young man to his relatives and managed during the evening to whisper into Mrs. Col. Waring's ear some information about his aristocratic family, and his father's wealth, enlarging especially upon the princess. Mrs. Col. Waring absorbed all these details as a hungry fish does water after being out on dry land.

"He's very ambitious, too. Works, you know, for the love of it. Will suit Barbara to a T," Waring added, as she smiled blandly upon the young man.

But when he had slept off the effects of the dinner he had almost forgotten Noel's existence. Some mining investment called him away to the west and he left at a day's notice, merely writing a line of farewell to Mrs. Waring and her daughter.

CHAPTER II.

Jasper Noel did suit Barbara exactly, even more perfectly than she had ever fancied any man could. He was frank and simple of manner and open of speech, but had a strong will, and Barbara loved a strong will. Then he also had that generosity which is apt to accompany the artistic temperament. His admiration for women was of the idealistic sort, tenderly chivalrous and reverential. Barbara laughed to herself over his unworldly faith, while the sensation of tears stung her eyes. She saw that his worldly experience had not been excessively broad or else that he had passed along with eyes closed to the selfishness and folly of her set. He painted well, surprisingly well for a young man of such great expectations, and devoted himself assiduously to work. That also appealed to her. "He will be great as well as rich, and he is so lovable, so lovable," she acknowledged to herself.

She had always expected to be interested in the personality of the man she married, but not to the extent that Noel absorbed her. It was almost alarming. "I think I love him; yes, I'm sure I love him." She rested her chin on her hands and mused awhile. Why should her heart beat so fast and loud every time she recalled a tender glance or a whispered word of his? He never had made love to her as other men, why should she blush and palpitate? "Well, positively this is the first real mystery I ever came across in my life. I feel so different, so very different."

She began walking the floor of her little room with a restlessness that would have astonished Mrs. Waring could that lady have been a spectator. "Yet they say that's always the way," she continued musing to herself. "One reads about it until one is weary and yet one is drawn on just the same, and it is always new."

The deep disquiet of her soul bewildered her. There were some trinkets on her bureau and she arranged and rearranged these, scanning the effect each time as though the result were a matter of grave moment. But her thoughts were all the while busy with other things. Finally obeying an impulse she put on her best walking gown and set forth for Noel's studio. She had grown very fond of the studio, but this was the first time she had ever gone alone, and she wondered now what her mother would say. But she must see him, analyze him in the light of this new revelation, if she couldn't analyze herself. She knew that it was his working hour, so she opened the door and walked in.

He was painting away with all fervor, with a dirty heavy-mouthed droop-eyed child before him as a model.

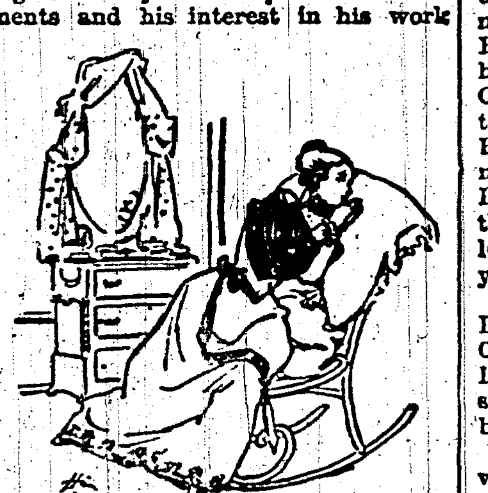
"Why Miss Waring, Miss Waring," he cried, delighted. "I'm so glad you've come to-day. I've been wishing all morning that you could be here. I wanted you to see this new model. See what a wild lovely tangle in her hair, and what long eyelashes she has. I found her on the street and asked her to come up with me. She makes a fine study in color with that yellow drapery behind her."

Barbara was not artistic enough to easily reflect his enthusiasm, yet the picturesqueness of the child was not entirely lost upon her.

"She is very good," she agreed, absently, and walked around to look at the picture on the easel. She was flushed and breathless from rapid walking, and now that she stood in his presence wished that she had not come. "Please go on with your work," she begged after a moment. "I shall feel sorry if you don't, and talk to me about your model. Where did you find her?"

"On the street. Do sit here on this chair where I can see you, too, if I am to work while you are here."

But she was too restless, uneasy over the boldness of her visit, to sit down. She continued to walk around looking at sketches and odds and ends of drawing. Noel's eyes followed all her movements and his interest in his work flagged. When Barbara saw the little model stealing softly away, some shining coins in her dirty little hand, she felt that she too must go.



"I THINK I LOVE HIM."

"Not just this moment," he pleaded, putting out his hand.

"But I only came in for a moment. I have some shopping—an appointment—" she stammered, blushing and confused. Then she looked up at him as they stood facing each other, and he took one of her hands between both of his.

"Is it true, Barbara?"

"Is what true?"

"I love you, love you so, do you love me a little? I—I seem to read it in your eyes."

"Oh, you must let me go," she breathed, suffering an intenser fright over her own emotion than over the impropriety of the situation, standing there alone with him in his studio.

"Yes, this instant, sweetheart; but I'm coming this evening to see you."

"Yes, come," she faltered, as she vanished through the doorway and fled downstairs.

The engagement was publicly announced in a few days. Mrs. Col. Waring believed in letting the world appreciate her triumphs. She confided the story of Noel's wealth and high connection to two or three gossipy friends, and the poor princess figured largely in the story, too. Little notices crept into the papers and Barbara was envied as well as admired. Noel was too blissfully happy to heed anything outside of his sweetheart and his pictures. He had been accepted, and so had they at the spring exhibition, and discriminating critics had given them high praise.

It was about this time that Tom Waring returned from California. A lucky financial deal had added considerably to his fortune, and he was gay accordingly; yet his smile grew a trifle grim when told of Barbara's engagement. "I thought she'd make him forget the other woman, but I'm afraid men are faithless creatures anyway. I'm true as anybody to love, but not to its personification. I thought I had left my heart safely in New York, and now I believe it's in Mexico. Stunning creature I met down there!" But sentimental regrets could not cloud Mr. Waring's satisfaction in his financial success. He beamed upon the world like a full-risen sun and returned thanks for his good fortune in liberal donations to favorite charities and a diamond pin to Barbara.

It was two days after his return that he received another foreign letter, and he recognized James Noel's handwriting before he broke the seal.

"DEAR WARING: I regret exceedingly that I troubled you with that former letter about my son. He did not sail for America, but secretly married the widow. The bad taste of the matrimonial affair still lingers bitter around my mouth, but there's no use worrying now, and our daughter-in-law is staying with us. By the way—"

Waring did not stop to turn over the page and finish the letter. He felt his hair rising, and an ague creeeping down his back. Young Noel still abroad and married! Then what of this other man who bore his name, who had won Barbara. An adventurer? The thought was awful.

Twenty minutes later he rushed into Mrs. Waring's apartment, breathless, turbulent, the open letter still in his hand. The drawing-room was free of visitors. Mrs. Col. Waring reclined by the open fire absorbed in a book, while half way down the room Barbara sat radiant, talking with Noel. Waring felt like springing upon the young villain for holding the girl's hand, but restrained himself, because such a course would be unwise as well as lacking in dignity. Still his anger increased with every stride he took forward into the room. Mrs. Waring sprang nimbly to her feet.

"Good heavens! Tom, what's the matter?"

"The devil's to pay," he cried fiercely. "That man is a—a—the Lord only knows what," his voice failing him, one finger pointed at Noel.

"What is the matter?" inquired the young man also rising.

"Matter, sir, matter, you ask me the matter? Read that and you'll find out. Oh, it shows you up well," thrusting the letter into his hand. Mrs. Waring looked on in disgust, disquieted and yet firm. Noel read the letter hastily, his face clearing. He remembered Waring as he had first seen him and thought he comprehended the situation.

"You are a little excited now," he said pleasantly, even amusedly. "I think you must have missed part of this letter. It explains the situation pretty well, and—and—" he broke into a hearty laugh. "I feel very much as though I had stepped out of a pink-bound story book. He has mistaken my identity, Barbara, he has mistaken it quite seriously."

There was a twinkle in his eye, but he noted with surprise that Barbara's face wore an expression of puzzled anxiety. Waring began reading the letter aloud. "By the way"—he read beginning where he had left off—"my nephew, Allen's son, writes me that he has settled in New York and knows you as well as some of your relatives. I hope he'll be more successful in his art than his father was in business. Poor Allen, you must remember what a dreamy, impractical fellow he was." Waring paused, feeling decidedly blank. Noel's face softened to tenderness. "Poor father! We felt satisfied with each other. We didn't care for the money; you would have loved him, Barbara." Then he looked again at her. "Oh, pardon me, I did not think. Of course I have only my art, and three thousand a year, not much to live upon. But I didn't realize, I didn't know the money might make a difference to you. How blind and selfish of me. Under the circumstances it is more than needless for me to explain to you how free you are—Miss Waring."

The coals dropped softly in the grate. Between rage and disappointment Mrs. Col. Waring had been almost paralyzed. But the attitude of her daughter consoled her, and Noel's words were like balm to her heart.

"You have at least earned the good will of both Barbara and me by appreciating the situation so perfectly," she finally said, addressing him. "I shall always consider you a friend of the family, one of our best friends, in fact," her tone beginning to take on a tinge of effusiveness. "Barbara is such a sensible girl I have never felt any anxiety about her. This is a severe test—but I am proud of you both."

No one responded to her little speech. Twilight seemed to turn suddenly black, and even Mrs. Waring shivered slightly and drew her black lace scarf more closely about her.

"That fire is dying down, I must ring for coal," she remarked. "I wonder that Maria doesn't come in to light the gas," as a wavering yellow gleam wandered in from the street lamp. "I hope we shall still see you when you—you feel like dropping in for a cup of tea, Mr. Noel."

But Barbara sprang to her feet as Noel started for the door. Her face crimsoned, her eyes glistened mistily.

"You don't think that such a trivial consideration as money could come between us, do you, Jasper? You are"—her voice was beginning to quiver and break. "Why, you are unworthy of my love, almost, if that is the way you take me. You know, you must know, that my lot lies with yours, whatever—"

It was plain that she could not say any more just then for tears, but she was resting against him and he stroked her hair with the soft tender touch we reserve for children and people most precious to us, holding her fast and close.

"I understand," he whispered from the depths of his content, "I understand."

[THE END.]

Fairview Avenue Surprise.

A complete and most delightful surprise and house-warming was arranged by Mrs. E. E. Winckler of Jackson avenue in honor of Mrs. H. J. Martin of Fairview avenue, last Friday. The surprisers met at the home of Mrs. Steiner and then proceeded to the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

It required several rings of the bell to bring Mrs. Martin to the door, and when she did come she was completely surprised. The party included Mr and Mrs B M Fountain, Mr and Mrs I Sheppard, Mr and Mrs E E Winckler, Mr and Mrs H H Moore, Mr and Mrs William Lunger, Mr and Mrs J E Townsend, Mr and Mrs Fred Slater, Mr and Mrs Charles Steiner, Mrs Rebecca Fenner, Miss Squires, Miss Holly, Miss Cora Van Arsdale, Miss Ruth Fenner, Harry Swackhamer and Mr and Mrs H J Martin and family.

The evening was passed pleasantly with music, games and in a social manner, after which a fine collation was served.

About 12, the electric lights went out and failed to shed their rays the rest of the night. In consequence lamps were provided.

A UNIQUE INSTRUMENT.

It Was Made by a Plainfield Clergyman, and Is Highly Prized.

The Society of Antiquity of Worcester, Mass., has recently come into the possession of a piano which is priceless from the standpoint of the antiquarian and interesting to every musical person. It is one of the first upright pianos ever made, probably the first in America, and the only upright ever attempted with a folding keyboard. The value of the instrument to the society is enhanced by the fact that it was invented by Rev. William Phipps, once a resident of Plainfield, who manufactured it himself, not in a joiner's shop or piano factory, but in the parsonage of the parish of Paxton, of which he was then pastor.

The straits to which the inventor was put to manufacture the piano are shown in every detail. A jack knife sufficed to shape the parts of the action, the keys and the wooden pins. The hammer is tipped by the perpendicular piece striking an ordinary brass pin. The wires, of which there are but few sizes, Mr. Phipps depending upon tension to procure degrees of pitch, are cleverly but primitively strung in pairs to hand forged keys.

Mr. Phipps was graduated from Amherst College in 1837, studied theology with Rev. Jacob Ide, D. D., at West Medway, was ordained to the ministry in 1840, when he assumed charge of the Paxton parish. He remained there until called to Plainfield in 1869. He died in this city in 1876, aged 63 years.

ANOTHER BIG MEET.

Plainfield's Track Gathers the Crack Cyclists from Everywhere.

The bicycle meet of the Newark Diocesian Union of Catholic Clubs will be held on the Crescent Wheelmen's oval in this city some time in August—either the first or second Saturday of that month. The bicycle races are part of the field day sports of the union, which was held in Caledonian Park, Newark, last year. The sports will be held at the same place this Summer, with the exception of the bicycle races. The cause of separating the events this year and bringing the wheeling races to Plainfield was brought about by the Jersey City members of the field day sports committee making a complaint about the poor bicycle track at Caledonian Park. P. McDonough, who is the member of the committee from the Young Men's Catholic Lyceum of this city, immediately made a suggestion that the bicycle races be brought to Plainfield, where is one of the finest tracks in the State, making a seperate day for them from the regular field sports. This proposition received a favorable reception from the other committeeman, and arrangements were immediately made to that end. The matter of securing the use of the oval was left with Mr. McDonough, who will know Monday, May 6, as to the exact date of the meet.

This event will bring to Plainfield some of the best riders in New Jersey, for the union is composed of twenty-five clubs in the Newark Diocese.

Birthday Party.

Miss Evelyn McHarg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Hillman of 828 Sherman avenue, celebrated her third birthday yesterday by inviting a few of her friends to spend the afternoon from 3 to 6 with her. The time was passed pleasantly, and no doubt too quickly, by the little people in various ways, including the playing of games, etc., until 5, when all sat down to a well-laden table, in the centre of which was a birthday cake surmounted by three candles, denoting the age of little Miss Hillman. All did justice to the good things set before them, and in due time the children left for their respective homes, wishing the little hostess many happy returns of the day.

Among those present were the Misses Ellena Woodcock, Rosa Woltmann, Florence Maguire, Grace Kinsman, Marie Fountain; and Masters Kerro Knox, Jack and Will Douglass, Gideon and Guion Fountain.

Mr. Underhill Will Play Them All.

The characters to be represented in "The Rivals" Thursday evening in the Casino are: Sir Anthony Absolute, a choleric old gentleman; Captain Jack Absolute, his son, masquerades as Ensign Beverley; Mr. Bob Acres, a country squire, one of the rivals; David, his servant; Sir Lucius O'Trigger, of Blunderbuss Hall; Mrs. Malaprop, the redoubted linguist, whose select words are so ingeniously misapplied without being mispronounced; Miss Lydia Languish, her niece, who thinks nothing can be quite so lovely as an elopement; Lucy, her servant. In part first, Sir Anthony proposes on behalf of his son; in part second, Mrs. Malaprop accepts on behalf of her niece; in part third, a rival appears; and part fourth gives the great duel scene.

Inter-Club Tourney.

It is probable that the return all-around contest between the Park and Country Clubs will be played in the latter's clubhouse next Friday evening. The games played are bowling, pool, billiards and whist. In the first contest, played several week ago in the Park clubhouse, each side broke even by winning two games. The coming event will be one of intense, but friendly, rivalry.

—The East Third Street Mission Sunday-school has elected L. W. Randolph superintendent, Irving Brady assistant superintendent, James Flack librarian and treasurer, and C. E. Hepburn secretary.

him well enough to be sure that whatever profession he had chosen would immediately seem to him the most disgraceful and unbecoming that men's needs had ever produced.

"We wired to New York for a man," said Kelly, "and Byrnes sent up Mr. Preble. Between us I guess we can sift this matter down. Would you like to look at the body, Mr. Preble?"

"Not yet," he replied. "Let us have a look at the room."

Capt. Marshall joined us while we were busy there. Preble was examining the bullet hole in the desk and in the wall. He enlarged the latter until he could see through it, and then he looked out, following with his eye as nearly as possible the direction of the ball.

"There's a chance that we can find it," he said, and led the way to the grounds at the rear of the house.

Fifty yards back we came to a large tree, and in its rough bark, near the ground, after most careful searching, Preble found a bullet hole. Five minutes later he held in his hand the leaden missile that had killed Gen. Holliday.

"Capt. Marshall," he said, "you, as an expert, will be able to tell us what sort of weapon carries such a bullet."

"You know already," replied the captain, with a sort of gasp. "I can see that in your face. It is the bullet which the rifle I am testing carries. There is no other like it."

I looked anxiously at Preble, and saw, to my surprise, that he was not regarding Marshall. He was looking over the captain's head.

I turned and saw a man running through the grounds. He was bent double, and seemed to fancy himself to be shielded by some low shrubbery. I recognized Hanley, the butler.

"You'd better go after him, Kelly," said Preble, and Kelly obeyed, exhibiting a surprising swiftness of foot.

He overtook Hanley before he had reached the road which bounds the estate upon the south; and in a few minutes the trembling servant stood before Preble. The detective nodded to Kelly, who instantly began to search Hanley. In one of his pockets was a package of twelve one-hundred-dollar bills.

"Now, let's have your story without a moment's delay," said Preble, sternly.

"I swear to you, sir," replied the butler, solemnly, "that I had no hand in his death. I robbed him, but I did not kill him. It was this way: I went into the Long Room to speak to him. Miss Margaret was asleep on the couch. The general also seemed to be asleep with his head on his desk. And right there in plain sight was all that money.

"I've been hard pressed, sir, of late. There's been some as had me at a disadvantage and have used their power. It's their fault, sir, that I took the money. I'm no thief at heart. I did it in sheer nervousness, at the sight of what I needed so much.

"The general never stirred. He was dead then, sir, I've no doubt, but I didn't know it. I got away with the money and hid it in my room. Then when the murder was discovered I was near frozen with horror. I would have restored the money, but there's been no chance. Somebody has been in that room all the time. So this morning, when I learned that one of the servants had seen me go into that room, and had told on me, I resolved to run for it. That's the whole truth, sir, and I'm glad to have it off my mind."

"I believe you, my man," said Preble. "It's never a good thing in this world to be too smart, and it's your good fortune that you're not nearly smart enough to have committed this crime, supposing that it is a crime at all."

He directed Kelly to keep an eye on Hanley and then we all went into the Long Room. We found Margaret and Dr. Hilton there. Margaret greeted Preble with great cordiality. She said that she felt much relieved at having his advice and aid, for she had always thought him to be gifted with an exceptionally clear mind.

"If my present theory of this terrible mystery proves to be correct," said Preble, "I think we shall all feel greatly relieved. It is only a theory at present, and its basis is no more than this."

He opened his hand and showed a splinter of wood about an inch and a half long. For my part I had no idea of its bearing upon the case. The others seemed equally at a loss.

"I found this on the floor at that end of the room," he said, pointing away from the general's desk. "It was knocked off the inside of the wall by the bullet which killed your father. It surprises me, gentlemen, that when you had found where the bullet went out you should not have looked for the place where it came in."

"But, Preble," I exclaimed, "you are not going to tell us that the murderer fired through that wall and across the whole length of this room?"

"And a mile of open country besides," said Preble, calmly, "if my theory is true. Capt. Marshall, will you tell me whether I am correct in saying that a line drawn from the spot where Gen. Holliday was struck down and extended through the wall one foot to the left of that window would pass close to your laboratory on the other side of the valley?"

Marshall's forehead was wet with perspiration.

"It is true," he said, in a low voice. "I am afraid that your theory is right."

"You mean," I cried, "that the accidental discharge of a rifle which was being tested is responsible for this terrible calamity?"

"You have seen the bullet," said Preble, "and I have proven the direction in which it came. The weapon could not have been fired near the house or you would have heard the report. The shot must have been accidental, for the distance and the impossibility of seeing into this room preclude the possibility of intent. I can see no other explanation. However, we need not be long in doubt. If Capt. Marshall will accompany me to the spot we can learn whether there was an accidental discharge of a rifle at the hour named.

"I may add," he continued, "that the whole aspect of this case indicates the work of chance. It had not from the first the appearance of human device. The absolutely [illegible] of the facts, which [illegible] every person who could have been physically present, showed a [illegible] grasp of detail than any [illegible] claim. The [illegible] of [illegible] strikes in discordantly with the [illegible]. You can readily see the difference between design and fate which [illegible] no purpose. This terrible event is the forerunner of many which will follow upon this new development of modern arms. And the tragedies will not all be accidents. If a murderer can by repeated trials at last strike down his victim at the distance of more than a mile, he will be less often restrained by mere cowardice."

He bade us good-by and went away with Marshall and Kelly. In an hour we received a telephone message from the last named, that Preble's theory had been confirmed.

[THE END.]

PARTICULAR MENTION.

H. W. Rowley of Arlington avenue is in Altoona on business.

H. M. Demarest of Park avenue is at Fortress Monroe, for his health.

M. Cooper has been in town for a few days visiting his old acquaintances.

Lewis Riegal of Netherwood avenue is suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

William Runyon and family have returned to their home, 316 East Front street.

Henry Giles and family have moved from East Front street to 518 West Front street.

Mr. Beebe and family have taken possession of O. T. Pond's house on Madison avenue.

Miss Minnie Wilson entertained friends at her home on Greenbrook road Monday evening.

Mrs. W. H. Cornwall of Babylon, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. B. Fosgate of 820 Park avenue.

John Leal of Second place will build a house on Central avenue as soon as the weather permits.

Miss Mattie Barrett has returned to her duties as cashier in Doane & Edsall's after a brief illness.

George Baskin and family, who have been residing on East Ninth street, will move to Connecticut.

Rowland Cox and family of West Seventh street will spend the Summer in England and Holland.

Miss Margaret Kirch, and Mrs. F. A Long and daughter are visiting Mrs. Long's sister in New Brunswick.

The marriage of Miss Carrie Ross of LaGrande avenue to Frank Runyon of Stelton will take place next Fall.

Mrs. A. B. Chafin, who has been visiting Mrs. O. W. Ellis of 516 Ravine road, has returned to her home in Boston.

J. H. Havens and family have removed from 316 East Front street to their Summer home at the end of Central avenue.

Wm. E. Brock and family returned today to their elegant home on Mountain avenue, after spending the Winter in Troy.

George B. Potts of New York has leased the DeRevere property on Woodland avenue, and will move there with his family this week.

The engagement is announced of Miss Noreta H. Thorne, formerly of Plainfield and now of Orange, to Herman Thompson of East Orange.

Miss Carrie A. Heldt, who has been confined to her home the past few days on account of rheumatism, is able to be at work at Boehm's store again.

Cards are out announcing the approaching nuptials of Frank Rowley of this city and Miss Mabel J. Weaver of New York. The ceremony will take place in the West Farms, N. Y., Grace Church, May 14.

The Daily Press is in receipt of copies of the Los Angeles Herald from Mulford Estil containing an extensive and interesting account of the flower show, which was being held in that city at the time the Honeyman tourist party was there.

—The Grocers Association meets Monday night.

—"The Russian Honeymoon" will have a full rehearsal tomorrow night. Tickets are going fast.

—Policeman Nicholas Meyers is having a four-foot stone wall built in front of his property on North avenue, Netherwood.

IN paint the best is the cheapest. Don't be misled by trying what is said to be "just as good," but when you paint insist upon having a genuine brand of

Strictly Pure White Lead

It costs no more per gallon than cheap paints, and lasts many times as long.

Look out for the brands of White Lead offered you; any of the following are sure:

"Atlantic," "Jewett," "Brooklyn."

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.

A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting and color-card. Send us a postal card and get both free.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

OWNED HIS PRISON.

MINERS KEPT J. M. RICKET IN A TUNNEL FOR SEVEN MONTHS.

Wanted to Steal His Property. They Gave Him the Alternative of Assigning His Claims. He Caught a Sentinel Asleep, Stunned Him and Fled.

It isn't every day that one meets a man who owns a gold mine that he dares not visit. Denver has such an individual and the story which he tells would seem incredible were it not for proofs that cannot be explained away.

He holds patents issued by the United States for two mining claims in the Black Hills. He has not seen the property for two and a half years.

"I may be over sensitive as to the danger of going back to that region," said he a short while ago in relating his thrilling experience, "but seven months' imprisonment in a gloomy tunnel in the mountains with the prospects of starvation would make anybody cautious, wouldn't it?"

Ricker is by choice a miner. Years ago he reached the Black Hills in his journey through the West and was employed as a miner in the celebrated Homestake mine. Keeping his eye open for an auspicious opportunity to invest in a promising claim he, one day, bought two patented properties of a busted prospector.

While waiting for the railroad, Ricker drifted back to his old home in New Haven, Ct., where he was employed on one of the street-car lines, when a letter arrived from Deadwood telling him that several miners desired to purchase his claims, and inviting him to go at once to Deadwood to close the deal. A brief correspondence ensued, in the course of which Ricker received an offer for the two claims. He at once proceeded to Deadwood, where he met one of the prospective purchasers and journeyed to the mine for a final conference.

"I had no suspicions that anything could be wrong," said Mr. Ricker, in telling his story, "and I really thought the men meant business until they began to urge me to sign a deed before any money had been paid. They were thoroughly armed with guns and revolvers. We were in the heart of the mountains, far from human help, and the alternative was presented to me of signing a deed trasferring the property to designing villians or to be thrust into the very tunnel which I had assisted in constructing. I refused to be terrorized into an act which I knew to be wrong, and I was made a prisoner and placed in close confinement."

Ricker says that he was conducted into the tunnel in January and it was not until the following August that he felt the genial heat of the sun. When his gloomy experience began he weighed 204 pounds. After escaping and arriving at Denver he tipped the beam at 137 pounds. Two armed miners sat at the mouth of the tunnel each night as guards, and he was bound hand and foot each night so that he could not escape while his captors slept.

No violence was offered his person, but it was evident that the captors had decided upon a campaign of slow starvation.

One day when the prisoner was feigning sickness one of the guards disappeared, and Ricker found himself in charge of a careless sentinel, who had fallen asleep.

"I lost no time," said Ricker, "in removing my shoes and creeping past the sentinel. Seizing a stone, I turned and knocked him senseless. I then took possession of his brace of 45's and his Winchester, and relieved him of his heavy boots, as I expected a hard tramp before me. Luckily I had $80 in money in one of my shoes, and I succeeded in getting out of the country without begging bread. Had I coolly considered the situation I would have made a bee line for the nearest United States Marshal and called upon him for protection. My only thought was to get away, and I allowed no grass to grow under my feet until I arrived at the union station in Denver."

His long confinement had cut off all communication between himself and his friends in the East. Among the latter was a sweetheart who remained faithful through the trying ordeal, believing that he would some day reappear. Her hopes was realized.

A letter from Denver gave the details of his long imprisonment. A few months later a handsome woman stepped from one of the trains and the Rev. Charles Marshall of Trinity Memorial Church, performed the happy ceremony which united two congenial spirits, and to day it is doubtful if there is a happier couple in Denver than Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ricker.

Mr. Ricker does not attempt to say whether he killed the guard or not in escaping from the tunnel. He remembers that the man gave no signs of life when his boots were pulled off.

A CAT AND DOG TEASER.

The Scheme of an Orange County Man with a Pail of Milk and an Electric Battery.

"I've got a great scheme," said an ingenious Orange county man. "There's no patent on it either. It is just a cat and dog teaser, and it beats anything I ever saw for the purpose. I got an old stove zinc and laid it on the ground near the back door. Then I put a wooden bucket of milk on the zinc. In the kitchen I've got a battery of two gallon cells and a four inch coil with a vibrating circuit breaker. One wire is connected to the zinc plate and the other terminates in a piece of metal in the milk. You just ought to see the effect. A cat comes along, smells the milk and goes for it. She just touches the milk with her whiskers and looks puzzled when the slight, tingling shock is felt. Then she returns to the attack and touches her tongue to the surface of the milk. Her hair rises then and she emits a yowl of rage or pain as she springs away from the pail and then turns to look back at it. I have seen the same cat take two shocks within as many minutes and then act as if she wanted to try it again, but didn't dare to.

"With dogs it is different. The dog steps upon the zinc, lops his long tongue into the milk and then throws a back somersault. He wants no more after that, but tucking his tail between his legs, streaks out of the yard as quickly as possible. If you want to try it you needn't use a whole pail of milk. Just take a crockery dish and it will answer just as well. Milk is cheap up our way, you know, and I took the first thing that came handy."

In seasons of scarcity of food the coyote and other wild animals subsist upon the leaves of the cactus plant.

LOVE FOR THE BEAST.

Parental Interference Drove the Daughter to the Mountains.

"We had gone about two miles from camp when Tige and Fan struck a scent and dashed off through the dense thicket. I quickened my pace in the direction the dogs had taken and soon came upon the tracks of what I knew must be those of a huge grizzly bear. Presently, as I anticipated, the hounds brought the bear to bay a few hundred yards ahead. This was clearly evident from the altered tone of their cries. When I came up with the dogs there sure enough was a big grizzly sitting on his haunches and complacently taking in the situation.

"I poised my rifle and was about to fire, when to my utter surprise I saw a stout leather strap about the bear's chubby neck, while from the brass ring under his throat dangled a rosette and tassel made of red, white and blue ribbons. Beside, the animal's coat was as sleek and clean as if he had just come from a tub of soap and water. So long as I allowed the dogs to bark at a safe distance he sat bolt upright, perfectly still, neither sniffing nor growling, and with an air of stolid indifference.

"Was the brute an escape from some menagerie? Was he a household pet, or was I dreaming? None of these surely. We were in the heart of a mountain wilderness, more than thirty miles from the nearest border settlement, and 200 miles from the nearest town ever visited by circus or menagerie. Beside, family pets are not made of grizzly bears weighing half a ton. Morever, I was wide awake, and I had not tasted any brandy since leaving camp.

"I called off the dogs and put them in leashes. Strangely enough the huge beast plunged instanter into the thicket and shambled off up the creek, while I followed as fast as I could lead the hounds. At a point about a half a mile further up the bear forded the stream, scaled the opposite bank and was soon lost in the brush. I followed, still leading the dogs, now furiously barking and madly trying to get loose. I could hear the crackling of dry twigs under the bear's feet, and quieting the dogs in order to catch his course, I heard a human voice, the shrill, treble cry of a woman.

"'Ho, Dio! Dio! Dio-o!' it came.

"Once more I was dazed. All the fairy stories of bears and wolves I had ever heard or read came back to me, and I was beginning to mistrust the reliability of my senses when the cry came again, a good deal nearer and louder:

"'Dio! Dio! Ho, Di-o-o-o!'

"Chaining the hounds to a sapling, I plunged forward. I soon overtook the bear, which had paid no attention to me whatever, but lazily walked along as if his business were his own and nobody else's, halting now and then to munch a few berries from the bushes. As Bruin and I emerged from the thicket into a partially open space what was my amazement to suddenly meet face to face a woman—a real, live woman! The apparition was clad in buckskin frock and leggings, with high brogans buckled over her feet and her head covered with a brown slouch hat, from beneath which streamed her long hair. She was a blonde of the most perfect type. She snapped her thumb and finger and the bear walked to her side, reared up on his hind feet and licked her cheek while she stroked his shaggy coat.

"'Now, sir,' said the woman, 'will you walk home with me and see where I live with Dio and his family?'

"A twenty minutes' walk on a well beaten trail brought us to a limestone cliff a few yards from the stream. This cliff was nearly perpendicular, forty or fifty feet high, and in its face on a level with the bank of the creek there was a broad opening or cave, perhaps [illegible] feet high and thirty or forty deep. Just within it was a snugly built log cabin, its front gable end extending outside far enough to catch the sunlight and permit the escape of the smoke from a stick and clay chimney. This retreat was the home of the woman, while a family of bears occupied the further end of the cave.

"Upon our arrival Mrs. Grizzly Bruin and two half grown cubs made their appearance, all exhibiting the same docile characteristics as the great Dio. A big Newfoundland dog also bounded forth to greet us. The cabin contained three airy and well lighted rooms, a studio or parlor, a bedroom or kitchen.

"Retiring to her bedroom a few minutes, the lady reappeared attired in her 'reception suit,' as she laughingly called it. While we sat at luncheon she told me her history, and I assure you it was only the old story, with romantic variations and practical illustrations. The gist of the whole matter was a love sorrow caused by the interference of unwise parents and resulting in the abandonment of a comfortable home for the precarious life of a recluse. Only two or three trusted friends know the secret of her whereabouts and mode of living.

"Backwoodsmen built her the cabin five years ago, and about that time she bought a pair of grizzly cubs from the Indians and reared them on condensed milk. To this simple diet and the kindest treatment the philosophical lady attributes the wonderful docility of her grizzly pets. Frontiersman hired for the purpose make monthly visits to the cabin, bringing upon pack animals every comfort and many luxuries.

"The hermitess maintained that mercy between man and man and kindness to the lower animals must constitute the great panacea which is to redeem animated nature, bring back the golden age and hasten the millennium. Growing enthusiastic she cited many interesting facts in her own experience. It was a common thing every summer for humming birds to come through the open window, build their nests and rear their young in the evergreen foliage that decorated her little parlor. The parent birds would come at her call and eat honey from the palm of her hand. Large birds built their nests under the eaves of her humble cabin, while grouse nested in the neighboring trees and brought their chicks to pick up the crumbs that she threw to them from her kitchen window. A couple of well bred tabby cats share the house with their mistress and keep the storeroom free from mice. Volumes might be written upon what she has already done with the larger animals. While she does not believe in a charmed life, she declares that there is not a creature in the mountain forests round about that would harm her."

Controllable Affection.

"I cannot say that I love him wildly," admitted the Chicago young lady, "but still I think he will make a good enough husband for a year or so."—Indianapolis Journal.

BAMBERGER'S

THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE

147 and 149 Market Street,

NEWARK, N. J.

BOYS' CLOTHING.

That boy of yours needs clothing that will stand the romping and jumping and running around that boys always do. It's here, made in the right way—wear—resisting, perfect fitting and sewed strongly.

Four Special lots for this week!

Boys' Knee Pants

Cheviots, worsteds and cassamere's well made with strong waist bands, sizes 3 to 15, usually 89 to 98c, at 49c.

Boys' Fauntleroy Blouses

Extra quality, white lawn, trimmed with colored insertion, sizes 2 to 8, usually 79c, at 49c.

Boys' Fauntleroy Suits

All wool, fancy trimmed, pants embroidered with bows and buckle, sizes 3 to 7, regular $2.69, at $1.73.

Boys' Fauntleroy Suits

Finished in best manner, sizes 4 to 15, with long cut coats, and pants with taped seams, regular $2.89, at $1.98.

L. BAMBERGER & CO.,

147 and 149 Market st., Newark.

Free delivery everywhere. Prompt attention given to mail orde s.

—The fire companies elect officers Monday night.

—A man living in the east end of the city has a peculiar fad for gathering all kinds of soap. He has 163 varieties, many of them being from Russia, Germany, France and Turkey.

—Rev. Hobart Clark will read a paper on Oliver Wendell Holmes in All Souls Church Friday evening. This will be the last of the series of papers read there during the season.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he procured a bottle of it and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

OLD TIME BOND SERVANTS.

Men Who Sold Their Services For a Time to Pay Their Debts.

The question which in this generation have disturbed so much employers and employes came up in a very different shape in the days of our grandfathers. Almost every one who knows now that when Benjamin Franklin came to Philadelphia he was a runaway apprentice, but very few comparatively know that he would have been subjected to very severe penalties if he had been caught.

In the days before the Revolution and for a long time afterward the practice of binding a boy as an apprentice was the almost universal method of putting him to learn a trade. The binding of a boy with a farmer until he was a certain age—usually 16 or 17 years of age—was very common. An adult person voluntarily signed indentures by which they practically sold themselves to another to work out a debt.

When imprisonment for debt was the punishment of the law, the man who was poor but honestly desirous of paying his debts could do it in no other way. Very often a man would not only thus sell himself for a term of years, but would put his children or possibly his wife out at service in the same way.

The woman or man thus securing their services had almost absolute control over his servant and could compel obedience to his commands. He was allowed to whip them in moderation, and if they ran away they were required when caught to render extra service for a longer period of time than he had been absent and also to work out the costs and expenses incident to his capture.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills Cure Sick Headache.

At all druggists' 25c

SICK HEADACHE is usually caused by indigestion. If you take Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, you won't have sick headache.

Send to us for a free sample.

DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, New York.

DEATHS.

WHITE—At Netherwood, N. J., April 29, 1895, Lucy Dunbar, widow of Heman Lincoln White, and daughter of the late Rev Duncan Dunbar of New York.
Funeral services will be held at the residence of her son-in-law Henry P. Talmadge, Netherwood, on Thursday, May 2, at 2:30 p m. 4 30 2

TRAYNOR—In this city, Margaret Mary Traynor, died April 30, 1895, age 1 year 16 days.
Funeral from her parents residence 306 Monroe avenue corner Third street, Thursday May 2, 1895, at 2 p m
Friends and relatives are respectfully invited to attend. 4 30 2

STINE—In North Plainfield, Saturday, April 27, 1895, Miss Phebe M. Stine, daughter of the late John Stine.
Funeral services from the residence of her brother, John Stine, Greenbrook road, Tuesday April 30, at 2:30 p. m.

STRYKER—In North Plainfield, N. J., April 25, 1895, Lucinda Lant, wife of John H. Stryker.
Funeral services from her late residence 46 Manning avenue, Monday April 29, at 2:30 p. m. 4 25 3

THE ALASKA MAIDEN.

Remarks About Her by a White Man Who Studied Her Characteristics.

Some of the early American settlers who went to Alaska as bachelors married native women. One of them who died several years ago left behind the following description of the Alaska maiden, which was published in the last number of the Alaska News:

"The Alaska maiden is a very queer and unnatural being. She may live with a white man, or be lawfully wedded to him, but such tender sentiments as love for her white master never enters her dusky bosom. She may dwell in a fine cottage, wear silks and fine raiment and live upon dainty food and in ease, but to be good and true to him who labors to supply her with these fine things is not according to the Hoyle of her clan, and she keeps the head of the house constantly in hot water through the intrusions of some swarthy lover upon his domestic happiness. The cottage, silks, well supplied table and liberal allowances of cash are her demands for living with him, and if financial embarrassments cause a shortage in such luxuries the frisky damsel suddenly has home affairs that demand her attention, and 'Mr. Parker' 'baches' until he makes another stake. She is a very dutiful child to her aged parents, and the persistency of her demands for cash and the depletion of her own larder for their support is only equaled by the amount that these old people seem able to consume. She is very aboriginal in her habits, and when she can escape the argus eye of her better half and make a sneak from under the roof of civilization for a time, she can always be found rolling in the sand in front of the parental hovel, munching dried salmon or cakes of seaweed and seal grease. But when she has gorged herself sufficiently on this odoriferous food and visited and gossiped to her heart's content, she returns to her cottage again, and, with silks soiled and torn and a breath flavored like the breeze from a fish drying rack, sues for that forgiveness she is always sure to receive. She is then thoroughly soapsudsed, a new gown is purchased, and the head of the house breathes a sigh of relief, knowing that it will be several days at least before his domestic happiness is again broken."

Fail to Rule the Waves.

An old song says that Britons never, never will be slaves,
And boasts about Britannia, the ruler of the waves:
But I've just crossed the stormy sea, and I regret to state
That if Britannia ruled the waves she didn't rule 'em straight.
—Hartford Courant.

MARRIAGES.

WINANS—MEYERS—At Millington, April 14 by Rev. P. Gibb, Silas E. Winans of Washingtonville to Miss Catherine A. Meyers of Warrenville.

WANTED—Small farm within easy reach of Plainfield station or Dunellen. W. O. Stoddard, Madison, N. J. 4 23 2-o

HOUSE and building lots for sale in Westfield, N. J., high ground, good neighborhood, convenient to depot. Address box 204 Westfield N. J. 3 24 6-3 28 4 o

Limited Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that a limited partnership has been formed by the subscribers pursuant to an act entitled:

"An act to authorize limited partnership," to be conducted under the firm of D. C. Ivins & Co., for the transaction of the business o merchants at Plainfield, in the county of Union, N. J., DeWitt C. Ivins and William B. Ostrom being the general partners and Edward H. Booth a special partner, and that the amount of capital contributed to the common stock by the said Edward H. Booth is two thousand dollars, ($2,000); which said partnership is to commence on the 3d day of January, 1895, and terminate on the 31st day of December, 1895. 4 4 6

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED MANURES

ALBERT'S MANURES.

Horticultural,
Garden,
Special Garden,
Vineyard,
Fruit-tree.

No Sand. No Dirt. No Organic Matter. Nothing but Pure, Soluble, and Immediately Available Plant-foods COMBINED with each other.

Garden Manures: Nitrogen, 12 per cent; Available Phos. Acid, 14 per cent; Potash, 20 per cent.

The others are equally concentrated. Prices and Booklet on request.

ROBT. L. MERWIN & CO., Gen'l Agts., United States
88 Wall Street, New York.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7 30, 8 40, 11 a. m., 2 30, 5, 5 30 p. m.
Close—7 and 9 20 a. m., 1 45, 5, and 7 30 p. m

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON MAILS.

Arrive—8 40 a. m., 2 40, 5 30 p. m.
Close—7 15 a. m., 4 30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arrives 12 m; closes 9.20 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9 30 to 10 30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6 15 p. m.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1895 No 19

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

ISAAC PANGBORN DEAD.

Apoplexy Smites a Leading Plainfield Citizen.

HE DIED IN BED AT HIS HOME

But There Had Been No Warning That Death Was So Near, and the Sudden Bereavement Was a Great Shock to the Family and Friends.

The community of Plainfield received a severe shock Saturday evening at the news of the sudden death of Isaac W. Pangborn, which occurred about 3 o'clock, at his home, on Rockview avenue, the cause being apoplexy.

During the past Winter, Mr. Pangborn had not been feeling very well, and at one time was confined to his home with a severe illness which seemed to affect his general health, but through it all he attended to business, and was kept much occupied filling the contracts on hand.

Saturday morning he was busy staking out cellars on Stelle avenue, for Messers. Chapman and Baker, and expected to commence work this morning. He also had two other contracts for dwellings which were to be started in a short time.

About noon he went home to lunch, but did not eat very heartily. He was then about the house, resting. His daughter, Mrs. Charles Lyman, said to him that when he went out she would like to have him take her down town, to which he replied that he would.

Some time afterward he told his wife that he thought he would stay home, as he did not feel very well. He then went to his room, undressed, and went to bed; and inside of a half-hour he passed away. In the meantime Dr. Probasco was sent for, also his brother, Wm. Pangborn, and son-in-law, Charles Lyman; but life had fled before they reached the house. To the family it was a terrible shock, and they are completely prostrated.

Isaac Williamson Pangborn was the eldest of four sons, and was born March 4, 1835, in Washington Valley. He was the son of Stephen and Jane Pangborn

His father many years ago kept a country store on Chatham street, and was well known in this vicinity. Stephen Pangborn was collector for the township for seven years, when the taxes amounted to $33,000 a year; he died March 7, 1882, and his wife died October 9, 1848.

When about 18 years old, Isaac went with Mahlon Smalley to learn the mason and building trade. He worked faithfully and hard, and in a few years had gained a considerable knowledge of the business. At the age of 25 he married Miss Jenny Chandler, sister of John Chandler, after which he went to Jerseyville, Illinois, and continued the business which he had learned. He did not remain long in the West, however, and returned to Plainfield, where he had been a prominent resident the past 30 years.

As a contractor and builder he stood probably first in the city. He was identified with the erection of most all the best and prominent buildings in Plainfield, and, to use the remark of a friend, "He built half the town" would perhaps give an adequate idea of his work. His first important building was the Stillman High School. He built all the public schools, the parochial school, the First Presbyterian, First Methodist, and Crescent Avenue churches, Monroe Avenue chapel and Grace P. E. Church, Babcock Building, the building at she corner of Park avenue and Second street used by G. Q. Packer and William Sebring, the First National Bank building, the Y. M. C. A. Building, many Front street business buildings, and a large number of the finest dwelling houses in the city.

He was a man who favored a high rate of wages, and he was thoroughly a union man, preferring to employ union men, rather than others. It was largely through his influence that a union was established here.

His death is a sad loss not only in the building business, but also in the Methodist Church, of which he had been a devoted member for many years. He had served for 25 years as president of the Board of Trustees of the church, and recently was re-elected for another term.

He leaves a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Charles Lyman and Miss Louise Pangborn, and two brothers, William and Freeman. Stephen Pangborn, another brother, died in Williamsport, Pa., some time ago. His sisters are Mrs. Amos Allen of Westfield, Mrs. Moses D. Brown of this city, Mrs. David Sheppard of Flemington, Mrs. Cornelius Willett of Illinois, and Mrs. Fred Slater of North Plainfield. Two sisters, Hannah and Matilda Pangborn, died a number of years ago. He also had a son, George, who died at the age of 9.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 from his late home, Rockview avenue.

A number of laboring men were discussing the death of the late Mr. Pangborn on the street Saturday night, and the remark was made that in his death both masons and laborers in this city had sustained a great loss, as he was an employer that always upheld good wages for his workmen. One man stated he had been in his employ nearly twenty years, and never saw any friction between employer and employes in that time; and in these times when reduction in wages were general all over, he never reduced his employes, any, and it was generally agreed that his loss would be deplored by a large number of workmen in this city.

WHY MONTE SCOTT LOST.

C. E. TEEL SAW THE RACE AND TELLS THE FACTS.

Though the Plainfield Boy Lost First Prize He Captured the Third, and Under the Circumstances Rode the Greatest Race of 247 Riders.

Capt. J. A. Haynes Tuesday received a letter from C. E. Teel, who witnessed the Linscot road race at Malden, Mass., and who writes as follows concerning Monte Scott's performance in the race:

"There were 247 starters of which 179 finished. Monte was of course one of the scratch men and rode a grand race, but it was his misfortune to meet with an accident. The course was 12½ miles and return, and seven miles out from the start he punctured his rear wheel and rode on a flat tire to a town called Arlington, where he borrowed an Eagle road wheel, geared at 68, and high handle bars, which gave him no possible position for speed. He then took after the scratch men again and when he turned the stake at the 12½ miles, the checker reports showed him to be 2½ minutes behind the scratch men, but by hard work he overtook them again and passed all but Eddie McDuffie, and they were having it hot, when 2½ miles from the finish, in turning a sharp corner, Monte fell and bent his pedal so badly that it would not clear the crank. Before he could start again, his rival McDuffie got a big lead which Monte could not overcome, but with all his bad luck he was only beaten for time prize by 47 seconds, and succeeded in winning third time prize and finishing number forty-four in the race. The race was finished in hard rain. When the racers came in at the finish you could n't tell whether they were white or black men—they were covered with so much mud and dust. The track, of course, was very slippery and this accounted for Monte's fall at the turn."

The particulars given in the above extract from Mr. Teel's letter plainly show that Monte would have easily beaten every scratch man in the race if he had not encountered the accidents, which he was unable to avoid.

MONTE SCOTT MET THE CRACKS.

And Finished Third Out of 248 Starters in the Linscot Race.

Fully 100,000 people witnessed the Linscot 25-mile handicap road race held in Malden, Mass., Saturday, in which there were 248 starters, including all the crack long distance riders in the country. The time prizes were won by the following: First—"Eddie" McDuffie of Malden, 1:12:08; second—W. G. French of Boston, 1:12:40; third—Monte Scott of Plainfield, 1:12:55.

The feat of Monte Scott finishing third, with his rivals only a few seconds ahead, in this great race fills his Plainfield friends with pride and admiration, as well as displays the fact that he is one of the best "stayers" in the world, thus ensuring for him a successful career in racing circles.

The world's record was not broken, on account of a heavy shower that came up about fifteen minutes before the finish, and which made the roads very heavy, and by the crowds that interfered with the riders by blocking the roads. The finish was very exciting.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75 cts. per bottle.

EX-GOV. GREEN DEAD.

Passed Away in Elizabeth This Morning.

ONE OF JERSEY'S LEADING SONS.

Union County Court Pays a Tribute to the Dead Vice-Chancellor, and Adjourns Out of Respect to His Memory.

From The Press of May 7.

Ex-Gov. and Vice-Chancellor Robert S. Green of New Jersey died at his home in Elizabeth this morning at 9:30. His death was caused by heart trouble and a complication of other diseases.

The Union County Court expressed grief at the news of his death, appointed a committee to draw resolutions upon his career, and adjourned for the day out of respect to his memory.

Robert Stockton Green was born at Princeton, March 25, 1831, and was in his sixty-fifth year. He was the son of James S. Green, a lawyer and a sturdy Jerseyman, whose father, Rev. Dr. Ashbel Green, was President of Princeton College. Robert's great-grandfather, Rev. Jacob Green of Hanover, Morris County, was chairman of the committee which prepared the first Constitution for the State of New Jersey at the Provincial Congress, held at Burlington in 1776.

Young Robert, after a preliminary training, entered Nassau Hall, from whence he graduated in 1850. He then began to study for the profession of law and was admitted to the bar in 1853 and became a counselor in 1856. While residing in his native place he took a lively interest in its affairs and, in 1852, was elected a member of its Council. He removed to Elizabeth in 1856 and at once became interested in the movement then on foot for the creation of Union County. He was largely instrumental in the passage of the act of 1857, which designated Elizabeth as the county seat.

During 1857 he was appointed Prosecutor of the Borough Courts by Governor Newell, and the following year became City Attorney of Elizabeth, which position he filled with ability for ten years. In 1868 he was elected to the City Council from a strong Republican ward, and so great was his popularity that he continued to hold the office by successive re-elections until 1873, when he retired. He was elected Surrogate of Union County in 1862 and appointed Presiding Judge of the Court of Common Pleas and County Courts in 1868. During the succeeding year he was appointed by Governor Randolph to the Commercial Convention at Louisville as a representative of New Jersey. In 1873 he was appointed by Governor Parker, and confirmed by the Senate, as one of the Commissioners to suggest amendments to the constitution of the State.

In this Convention he was Chairman of the Committees on Bill of Rights, Rights of Suffrage, Limitation of Power of Government, and General and Special Legislation. The amendments suggested by the Commission were adopted by the two succeeding Legislatures and ratified by the people at the general election of 1875.

In 1868 Judge Green was the choice of Union County for Congress, and was only defeated by a few votes in the Convention, two kickers in his own county being the sole cause of his defeat, they voting for John T. Bird of Hunterdon. In 1884 he was nominated for Congress from the Third District, comprising the counties of Union, Middlesex and Monmouth, after a memorable contest. Two Conventions were held, Judge Green being nominated by both. After the first Convention the friends of William McMahon of Rahway, claimed that he had been cheated out of the nomination. Judge Green hearing this, positively refused to accept a nomination that had the slightest cloud of unfairness attached to it. There was nothing left but to reassemble the Convention, when Judge Green was declared its unanimous choice. He defeated Congressman Kean (Rep.) by 1,848 majority.

Judge Green has always been a stanch Jeffersonian Democrat, and was one of the delegates to the Baltimore Convention of 1860, which nominated Stephen A. Douglas for the Presidency, and was a delegate to the National Convention in 1880, which nominated General Hancock. In January, 1874, the Judge became a member of the bar of New York as a partner of the firm of Brown, Hall & Vanderpoel, which afterwards became changed to Vanderpoel, Green & Cuming. Judge Green has been very successful in his profession, and is ranked as one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the State. He was largely instrumental by his ability and tireless energy in working up the preliminary litigation in the passage of the free railroad bill by the Legislature in 1873, which was the first triumph of popular rights over the oppressive railroad monopoly that then had control of the entire State.

Judge Green had always manifested an active interest in perfecting and keeping up the organization of the Democratic party in his county and State. For several years he served as a member of the Union County Executive Committee from the Seventh ward of Elizabeth, in which he resided. His cool, well-balanced judgment always exercised a powerful influence in the deliberations of this committee, which has to conduct the entire mapping out of the campaign. In personal appearance he was about the middle height, erect and military looking in his bearing, and had a firm, determined expression on his features, indicative of strong will-power. Judge Green married in 1857, and had an interesting family, consisting of one son and three daughters, with whom their father spent most of his time when not engaged in the practice of his profession.

In 1886 he was elected Governor, after a very exciting canvass, by a plurality of 8,020 over ex-Congressman Benjamin F. Howey, Rep., of Warren County. His term expired in 1890, and two years ago he was appointed Vice Chancellor

DEER PARK,

On the Crest of the Alleghenies.

To those contemplating a trip to the mountains in search of health and pleasure, Deer Park, on the crest of the Allegheny mountains, 3,000 feet above the sea level, offers such varied attractions as a delightful atmosphere during both day and night, pure water, smooth, winding roads through the mountains and valleys, and the most picturesque scenery in the Allegheny range The hotel is equipped with all adjuncts conducive to the entertainment, pleasure and comfort of its guests.

The surrounding grounds, as well as the hotel, are lighted with electricity. Six miles distant on the same mountain summit, is Oakland, the twin resort of Deer Park, and equally as well equipped for the entertainment and accommodations of its patrons. Both hotels are upon the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, have the advantages of its splendid Vestibuled Limited Express trains between the East and West. Season excursion tickets, good for return passage until October 31, will be placed on sale at greatly reduced rates at all principal ticket offices throughout the country.

One-way tickets, reading from St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Columbus, Chicago and any point on the B. & O. system to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia or New York, or vice versa, are good to stop off at either Deer Park, Mountain Lake Park or Oakland, and the time limit will be extended by agents at either resort upon application, to cover the period of the holder's visit. The season at these popular resorts commences June 22.

For full information as to hotel rates, rooms, etc., address George D. DeShields, Manager, Deer Park, or Oakland, Garrett County, Md. 5-3 4

BETTER TIMES.

The Old Scale of Hours' Restored at the Potter Press Works.

After a long spell of reduced working hours, the workmen of the Potter Press Works resumed their old working hours this morning—6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p m.—week terminating Friday night. Business is picking up briskly and for considerable time back the lathes and planers have been running nights, and in consequence a large number of the men have been making more than full time, while the minority have been making only five days, so this step has been that all could be on an equality and overtime will only be worked on the floors that the machines are being constructed on, and when necessity calls for it. Business is brisk on newspaper and lithographic presses at present, and the men are glad that business is so that the factory is once more on its old-time basis.

Letter of Condolence.

The following message was sent yesterday as a personal tribute to the late ex-Gov. Green from one who was a warm friend and companion:

Mrs. Robt. S. Green:—Accept my sincere sympathies in your affliction.

In the death of your husband our State has lost a distinguished son, the Democratic party a grand advocate, and his many friends a loyal brother.

Very respectfully,
J. E. Martine.

Plainfield, May 7.

I recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. There is no better liniment made. I have sold over 100 bottles of it this year and all were pleased who used it. J. F. Pierson, druggist, South Chicago, Ill. It is for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

THORN LICENSE REFUSED

Council Rejects It by the Vote of 3 to 5.

NO REASON WHATEVER ASSIGNED.

It Was Reported Correct and in Due Form, But Was Effectually Killed—Other Business of the May Session.

The session of the Plainfield Common Council last Monday was short. Besides the acceptance of minutes and payment of bills the following business was done:

An invitation from the G. A. R. to occupy Music Hall boxes Memorial Day was accepted.

Application for fire hydrants at the west end of West Front street was referred to the Fire Committee.

A communication was received from Albert G. Thorn, and referred to the License Committee, protesting against granting a liquor license to E. P. Thorn, on the ground that his mother's signature had been obtained by cajolery and that she was of unsound mind as stated by Drs. Fritts and Tomlinson, and that said Albert's signature was necessary, he being in control of the property.

Petitions were referred to the Committee on Streets, from the West Seventh Street Protective Association for the improvement of Grant avenue, and from H. A Weber and others for the improvement of Liberty street.

Chas. Hand, Alonzo Ayres and Peter A Emmons were exempted on the fire roll.

Edward Willis was made poundkeeper, and Joseph Swick special policeman.

The License Committee reported E. P Thorn's application correct as to form and conforming to the ordinance. The motion to grant it was lost, without debate. Ayes—Dumont, Frazee, and Westphal—3. Noes—Fisk, Frost, Ginna, Moore, See—5.

$4,000 was ordered borrowed for the sewer fund.

Crosswalks were ordered at Plainfield avenue and South Second street and East Sixth street and Franklin place.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company was authorized to keep the fire-alarm service in operation at $37.50 a month.

The Fire Committee was authorized to buy 1,200 feet of hose as needed, at 65 cents a foot, and to secure bids for a chemical engine.

Mr. Fisk reported that the street railway matter would be ready at the next meeting.

The Street Committee was instructed to confer with the Board of Health to devise a plan, crematory or otherwise, for sanitary disposal of garbage.

Mr. Fisk moved to reconsider the vote on the Thorn license. The motion was lost, without debate. Ayes—Dumont, Frazee, Westphal, 3. Noes—Fisk, Frost, Ginna, Moore, See, 5.

The Council adjourned to May 20.

FIGHTING THE BOROUGH.

These Fanwooders Want Equalization Before Anything Else.

The Westfield Standard says: "Nine gentlemen met Tuesday night at the residence of Ernest C. Kieb, and formed a permanent organization under the name of 'The Independent Citizens Club'. The purpose of the club is to oppose the formation of any kind of Borough government in Fanwood while the ownership of the property, the burden of taxation and the weight of influence in the territory are so unequally divided; and also generally to work for good government, without regard to persons or parties. Already both political parties are represented in the club, and all who are in sympathy with its object are invited to join it, and send in their names to the secretary, Frank W. Quereau."

COMMENCEMENT HONORS.

Helen Hazen and Thomas Blair to Share Them.

The honors for scholarship in the High School graduating class of '95 will be shared by Helen A. Hazen and Thomas D. Blair. One will be valedictorian, the other salutatorian.

Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond will be the visiting orator.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

BREAK EVEN AGAIN.

Park and Country Clubs Win Two Events Apiece.

CONTEST EXCITING BUT FRIENDLY.

The Return All-Around Contest Between the Two Clubs Played Last Night—Country Club Victorious at Pool and Billiards and Park Club at Bowling and Whist.

In the return all-around contest between the Country and Park Clubs, played in the Country clubhouse Tuesday night, the contestants again broke even by each winning two of the four games played—the Park Club at bowling and whist and Country Club at billiards and pool. The games were all played with a vim, though with the utmost friendliness between the participants. At the close of the contest a lunch was served. The results were as follows:

BOWLING.

PARK CLUB.		COUNTRY CLUB.
Brooks	131	Brown	158
Leonard	131	VanBoskerck	130
Hegeman	135	Herring	140
Worth	158	Booth	144
Smith	180	Jackson	124
Murray, W	171	Bogert	145
VanBuren	150	Kimball	149
Waring	147	Wharton	138
Thiers	141	Beebe	148
Matthews	96	Burnett	124
	1440		1395

WHIST.

COUNTRY CLUB.		PARK CLUB.
Coffin and Ladd	3	Reed and Reed	7
Kirchoff and Perkins	10	Rogers and Howell	4
Dumont and Beebe	5	Townsend and McCutchen	9
	18		20

POOL.

DeWitt, Country Club	150
Hinrichs, Park Club	110
Stockton, Country Club	150
Erickson, Park Club	112

Country Club......300 Park Club......222

BILLIARDS.

Murray, Country Club	150
VanDeventer, Park Club	91
Chapman, Country Club	150
Brooks, Park Club	95

Country Club......300 Park Club......186

READY FOR THE MEET.

Crescent Wheelmen Arranging for the Great Event.

The principal business transacted by the Crescent Wheelmen last night was the selection of the various committees for the Decoration Day meet. After considerable discussion the following were made the members:

Advertising—George Taggart, H. S. Thomas. Reception—F. L. C. Martin, C. H. Dunham, Thomas Cummings. Stages and Transportation—J. A. Haynes, Frank Hand, J. W. VanSickle. Tickets—H. H. Coward, John Petrie, L. G. Timpson. Grand Stand—T. J. Carey, John Crawford, R. O. Williams, George Saunders, Louis Moraller. Police—Patrick Kiely, V. W. Nash. Prizes—A. Saltzman, C. C. Vail, S. P. T. Wilbur.

The matter of securing medals for prizes was also extensively discussed, and left with the prize committee who will endeavor to have local merchants offer prizes for the various events. A subscription paper was started for the purpose of raising the $250 necessary to put the oval in condition, and $100 was immediately subscribed by those present.

The club adjourned to meet Monday, May 20.

IN THE TRACK OF THE ROYAL BLUE.

Hair-Bleaching Experience of Mr. and Mrs. Shearer.

A thrilling accident happened to Mr. and Mrs. H. Shearer of Westfield Friday afternoon. They left their home in a buggy to enjoy a drive, and on coming to the Cranford railroad crossing their horse stumbled and fell on the track just when the Royal Blue Line express, bound east, had been signalled clear. Fortunately, the engineer saw the mishap, and pulled the train up ere it reached the prostrated horse, which was got up with some difficulty. The flagman at at the crossing turned pale, expecting to see horse, buggy and occupants ground to pieces; but beyond a terrible scare, which they have not got over yet, they are none the worse of their terrible experience. Mr. Shearer has long been one of the agents connected with the Metropolitan Insurance Company in this city, and was on his usual collection tour in the Cranford district when the accident happened.

—The Swedish ladies sewing society will have a fair and supper, in Grace Church, Saturday evening at 7:30. Tickets, 25 cents; all welcome.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN

THE ACKNOWLEDGED HEAD OF THE AMERICAN WORLD OF FINANCE.

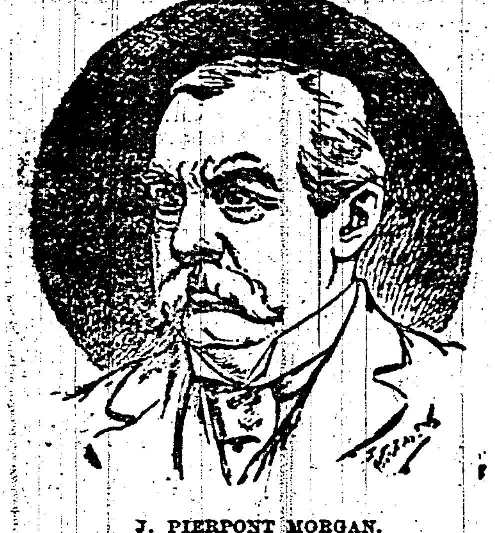
He Finds It Easy and Profitable to Float Uncle Sam's Bonds—Born of Rich but Honest Parents, He Began Early to Make a Place for Himself.

The noteworthy success of the floating of Mr. Cleveland's latest bond issue has renewed public interest in the man to whom the greater part of it if not all of the credit is due. This interest is not confined to this country, for the lending of his name to the plan made English investors indulge in a perfect scramble to get a share of the bonds.

J. Pierpont Morgan is a signature that means a great deal, whether at the bottom of a check, on a reorganization plan, on a letter of credit, on a club list, a social invitation or a reform politics circular. J. Pierpont Morgan is a man who means what he says, and therein lies the secret of his rise to the position of foremost financier of this country of finance.

His wealth is to-day, at a conservative estimate, $40,000,000. Just what it is is one of those things no fellow can find out, for there never lived a man who talked less about himself than does Mr. Morgn.

He gives away more in charity than any man in the United States, but his right hand is an utter stranger to his left, and an invariable accompaniment of his good gifts is the proviso that his name must be kept hidden, on the penalty of no further subscriptions.



J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

He is a man of commanding physique, and his hair and mustache are grey. His face is ruddy with exercise and good living, and he should by all these signs be an extremely good natured personage. He affects, however, a brusqueness and reserve that hides all this when he is downtown, and he can freeze a bore more quickly and effectually than any other man in town.

Mr. Morgan comes by his ability as a banker naturally. His father was Junius S. Morgan, of Hartford, Conn., a prominent banker in the fifties and the founder of the London banking house of J. S. Morgan & Co. John Pierpont Morgan was born in Hartford, April 17, 1837, was graduated at Yale, and after a postgraduate course of three years at the University of Gottingen, Germany, went as clerk in the office of Duncan, Sherman & Co., of this city. He soon grasped the details of business life, and was only 23 years old when his father bought him a partnership in the firm of Dabney, Morgan & Co.

This was all plain sailing, but Mr. Morgan showed when he was not quite 32 years old that he was able to make a name for himself apart from banking. He began a fight with that hitherto invincible pair, Gould and Fisk, for the possession of the Albany and Susquehanna Road. Jay Gould wanted it as a part of the system he was organizing, and the directors retained Mr. Morgan to fight him off. Gould secured a big block of the stock, and had Fisk appointed receiver to do his biding.

Mr. Morgan secured the appointment of another receiver, and by a series of injunctions overturned the other faction, and finally, although military coercion was necessary, secured possession of the road.

Twenty-five suits followed this struggle, a majority of which were won by Mr. Morgan. These heavy expenses put the little road in a bad way, but Mr. Morgan took personal charge of it, put it in better condition than before, and made it finally a prosperous portion of the Delaware and Hudson system.

At the completion of this work the firm of Dabney, Morgan & Co. was dissolved and Mr. Morgan opened a New York branch of the Drexels of Philadelphia, under the firm name of Drexel, Morgan & Co. Connections were formed with J. S. Morgan & Co., of London, and Drexel, Harjes & Co., of Paris, and the combination made one of the big financial houses of the world.

What Pat Would Do With $10,000.

One day near the close of the war we sat around the camp fire thinking and talking. Our Yankee had begun to tell what he would do at the close of the war if he had $10,000. He would invest it so and so.

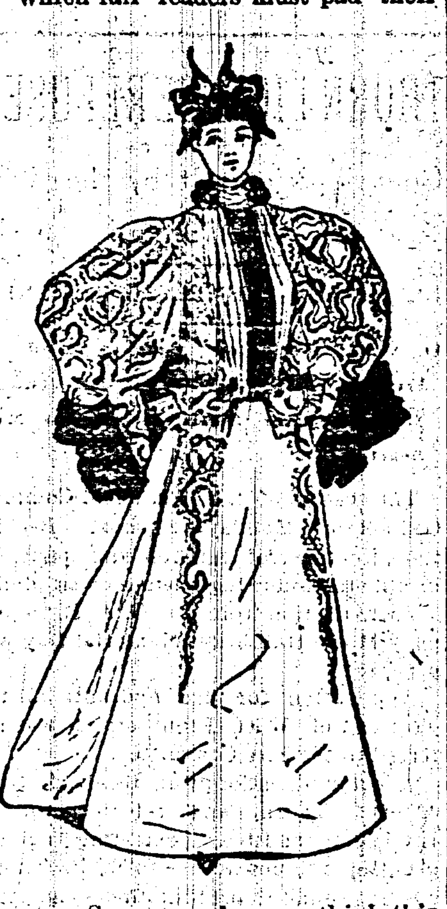
We all had a hack at that $10,000, investing it this way, until finally an Irishman was asked.

"Faith," said he, "if I had $10,000 I know what I'd do. I'd go out to Iowa (he was an Iowa soldier) and I'd buy me a nice little place and take Biddy out there, and we'd settle down, and I'd hire a fifer and drummer and every morning at 4 o'clock I'd have him come round to my house and beat the reveille, and he'd have to do it if I hired him. And when I heard the reveille I'd go to the windy and I'd say: 'To the divil wid yez and yer old revellay. I'm going back to bed,' and, bedad, that's what I would do."

FEMININE FRILLS.

Skirts Are So Full Now They Suggest the Crinoline.

The new skirt is decidedly tending to crinoline proportions. Thick cords, feather bone and various other devices are resorted to so as to make it stand out. The organ folds have invaded the sides, and finally attacked the front breadth, where it waves in wide and not ungraceful undulations. One and all swing from the hips—when there are hips to swing from, in the absence of which fair readers must pad their corsets. Some people may think this is wicked, but it is far better than to offend the eyes of your artistic fellow creatures and make yourself a blot on the face of humanity!

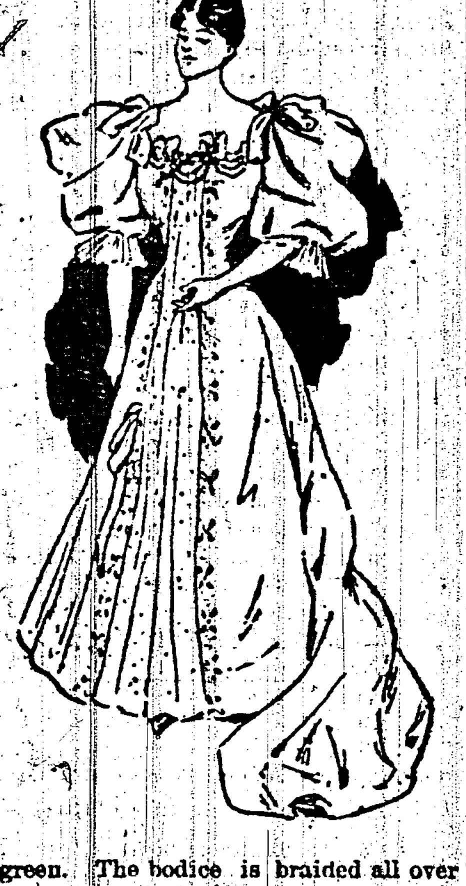


"I have no figure," you bluntly declare.

"Madame," smiles the dressmaker, "we shall make you one."

An attractive design for a gown in frieze or cloth is shown in the illustration. Another shows a tea gown made of pale salmon brocade, the new front worked with pearls and bordered with pearl embroidery. The bows are of green velvet, matching the green tone that is in the brocade. The soft sleeves hang in particularly graceful folds, and end at the elbow with a deep frill. A stylish costume, with some novel effects in its arrangement, is shown.

The cloth is of firm texture and the color is what is known as narcissus green. The bodice is braided all over in a ribbon design formed of a fine mohair braid of a walnut tint. This has a dentated outline of fine cord entwined with threads of iridescent metal. The full pouch front, folded collar and under basque are arranged in a soft shade of yellow satin, the centre plaid rosettes and buttons being of walnut velvet. The skirt has a spiral design of braiding on either side of the front, hanging down from the waist. The capote is of narcissus cloth. The square front has bows of walnut velvet. The wings are of white.



Getting Up in the World

There is no disgrace in getting up in the world, provided one gets up honestly, and sometimes provided he gets up the other way. The self-made man is at sixty the proud man. He looks back and gloats over the past. Ex-Mayor Gilroy was Harry Genet's valet; Abram S. Hewitt was a plodding tutor till he married Edward Cooper's sister; Collis P. Huntington clerked in a general store in San Francisco for his board and clothes; Robert Bonner was a typesetter; Hammerstein sold cheap cigars and invented a cigar roller, which he sold for $500,000; Cleveland was a pinochle fiend; Croker was a prize fighter; Steve Brodie was a bootblack; Corbett was a bank clerk; John Kelly was a bartender; Edison was a newsboy.

A Cynical Creature.

Mr.—What month is it in which it is unlucky to be married?

Mrs.—Great Scott!, what a poor memory you have my dear. We were married in June.

A Title With a Meaning.

Charley Cumso—Why are girls called misses?

Freddy Fangle—Did you ever see 'em try to hit anything?—Judge.

LAST LEAF OF THE FIVE.

O. W. HOLMES A MEDICINE MAN OF MERRY HEART.

Graceful Tribute by a Plainfield Pastor to the Wise and Lovable Poet-Doctor Whose Gentle Wit and Kindly Philosophy Have Brightened American Homes.

A cultured audience of those interested in literature gathered in All Souls Church Friday to hear the last of the series of papers on five great humorists. It was read by Rev. Hobart Clark, pastor of All Souls, who had Oliver Wendell Holmes for his subject. Mr. Clark said in substance:

Although a great humorist, Oliver Wendell Holmes was a humorist incidentally, also because he could not help it, sometimes no doubt with a healthy moral purpose, but mainly for fun and not for revenue. He has told us in one of his well remembered poems of a remarkable imaginary experience which taught him the danger of being too funny, and since then he says "I dare not write as funny as I can".

In 1836 he published his first volume of poems, and the same year began the practice of medicine in the town of Boston, but calls came for him very slowly, and it was at this time that he threatened to put out a signboard with the notice "Small fevers gratefully received". His first poem was simply entitled "To the insect".

He seems to have gained recognition as a writer much more rapidly than as a physician, but he slowly built up a good practice. He was peculiarly fitted by his scientific training and his natural instinct, combined with his healthy temperament, to deal with the subjects which he undertook, and they would have been dangerous to a less healthy-minded man, but he was able to make us laugh as we ought to do, where Hawthorne could only make us shudder. That stage of New England life in the country district which he depicts, is now almost as entirely a thing of the past as the New England life of Hawthorne's romances, but these stories will always have a charm and fascination for those children of New England who have seen many examples of that self-respecting village life which he describes. He was one of the most quiet and genial, as also one of the most skilful of satirests, who ever lived and wrote. His companions at the famous breakfast table whom he seemed to create as the occasion required them, are perhaps more real to the average reader than those in the novels, and if the author finds them useful and brings them into conversation a second or third time we seem to become as well acquainted with them as the Autocrat himself; but we never expect any of them to get the best of him, and they never do, yet we come to know them all very well.

Whatever he had to say was original, and to the point. If his power of pathos had been equal to his humor, he would have been not only a great writer but also a great orator, which he was not, though bright and always scholarly.

He died at a ripe old age, as peacefully as he had lived. He was the last of a group of five men—Emerson, Lowell, Longfellow, Whittier and Holmes—all typically American.

Crescents First Run.

The Crescent Wheelmen will have their first club run of the season Tuesday evening, when they will leave the Board of Trade building at 7:30 and go to Scotch Plains, Locust Grove, Westfield, and return.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. O. P. Coles of New York is visiting Mrs. O. P. Smith of 915 LaGrande avenue.

W. W. Blaker of 230 East Fourth street has moved to 807 North avenue, Netherwood.

Wm. G. Brett and family moved yesterday from 149 Crescent avenue to 31 Mercer avenue, in the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Hurst Brown and daughter Isabelle, of New York city, are at The Woodside, Netherwood.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lissignolo and family leave town next Wednesday to occupy their Belmar cottage for the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Pond of Washington avenue, who have been spending the Winter in Santa Barbara, Cal., are now at Fort Wayne, Ind., where they will remain two weeks with Mrs. Pond's mother before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barton Groendyke, who have been spending the Winter in New York city, have returned to the home of Mrs. Groendyke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. F. Randolph, West End Park, for the Summer.

P. B. Wright of Hotel Netherlands bade his Plainfield friends goodbye today, preliminary to boarding the steamship La Bourgoyne of the French line to-morrow morning, for a three-months tour of France, England, Ireland, Scotland and Germany. He will accept an invitation to spend two weeks with Mme. Lehman, great opera singers, at her home in Berlin.

—Hugh L. Reid of Quebec has accepted the position of engineer in his brother's brickyard, Netherwood.

—Woolston & Buckle, the North avenue painters, have the contract to paint the exterior of S. A. Cruikshank's handsome residence "Sacmoor", Belvidere avenue.

NO FUN IN THE SERVICE

Councilman Lounsbury Ready to Step Down.

SAYS HE'S BOUND TO NOBODY.

Lively Remarks in Public Meeting Indicative of Independent Personality—G. A. R. Appropriation Refused—Salaries Fixed—Fire Department Improvements—Other Borough Business.

It was 8:30 when Mayor Hegeman called the North Plainfield Council to order Friday night. Councilmen Howell, Peck, Schutt, Smith, Valiant, and Lounsbury, answered to the roll-call of Clerk Arnold. The minutes of the two April meetings were read and approved. Borough Collector Spencer offered the following report for the month: Taxes collected for '94 since last report: Borough, $4.95; lights, $23.76; roads, $16.83; fire department, $13.86; total, $59.40. Previously reported, $11,116.57; total, 11,175.97. Clerk Arnold's report was as follows: Borough deficit, $77.25; fire department deficit, $228.17; total, $305.42. Light account balance, $850.92; road account balance, $628.30; total, $1,479.22. Net balance, $1,173.80. He also reported $108 received from fines and licenses. These reports were received and filed.

The Council received and accepted with thanks an invitation from the G. A. R. posts to attend the exercises in Music Hall Memorial Day at 2:30 p. m. The Clerk was instructed to send acknowledgment.

H. R. Munger asked the Council for $6.25 as damages for five chickens that he claimed were killed by dogs, and which damages were appraised by John Emmons and H. N. Spencer. This was referred to the Committee on Laws, Ordinances and Elections.

David R. Weaver and others petitioned for a crosswalk on Warren street at its intersection with Race street. The matter was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Residents of Harrison street asked that the street be macadamized from Stone street to Mountain avenue. The Committee on Streets was given charge of the matter.

The report of the Street Committee for the past month showed an expenditure of $365.40 on the borough streets, and that $12 30 was realized from the sale of earth etc. The report was received and filed.

Bills fo salaries, claims, etc., were presented, audited and ordered paid.

Mr. Peck stated that the fire-alarm had been placed in charge of Dr. Cooley, who had remedied all difficulties, and it was now in good working order. He also stated that there were under consideration several improvements in the fire department service.

Mr. Lounsbury reported that two uniforms and two helmets had been purchased, and that clubs would be secured, for the special marshals. He had purchased also the license numbers for cartmen and hackmen.

Mr. Smith said that work was progressing on the streets, and that Rockview avenue would be filled in a few days.

Mr. Smith reported that A. S. Lazzie's bids for sidewalks and crosswalks was found to be the lowest, also that J. H Wilson's bid for crushed stone was the lowest, and recommended that they be accepted, which was done.

Mr. Valiant said that the ordinances of the borough had been referred to the Borough Counsel for arrangement. The report was received and filed.

Under the head of miscellaneous business, Mr. Lounsbury offered resolutions that the action of the Council in drawing $100 in favor of D. R. Weaver, overseer of the poor, be ratified; also, that the Freeholder for North Plainfield be instructed to secure the erection of a bridge over Green brook at Giraud avenue. These were adopted.

Mr. Peck offered a resolution that the Mayor and the Clerk be authorized to negotiate a loan of $1,000 and charge the same to road account, which was so ordered.

Mr. Smith moved that the action of the Council in drawing $105 and $149 to meet the pay rolls be ratified, and this was done. He also offered a resolution that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to draw $111 40 to meet pay rolls for the week ending May 3, which was adopted.

The Mayor then appointed the following as special marshals: Robert Terry, Thomas MacDonald, W. A. Wilson, Peter Doeringer, William Emmons and Peter Hansen. They were confirmed by the Council, and at the close of meeting William Emmons, who was present, was sworn in.

The matter of appropriating $50 for the G. A. R. posts for Memorial Day was brought up, and Mr. Lounsbury repeated what he had held at the previous meeting, that the Council had no right to make the appropriation. Mr. Valiant was of the same opinion.

Mr. Lounsbury then offered a resolution, which was carried, that the Clerk be instructed to write to the Secretary of the Joint-Detail Committee and explain the matter and express the Council's regrets in not being able legally to meet their request.

The ordinance which was drawn to regulate the salaries of the assessor and collector of taxes in the borough was taken from the table, and after a long discussion was adopted on final reading. It provides a salary of $600 for the assessor, and $1,200 for the collector. Some of the councilmen thought the two officers were not overpaid, and expressed themselves in such terms. Since the borough had been separated from the township, it was thought that the salaries might come down. But it was fully agreed that they were not too much considering the amount of work done. The collector's salary was first placed at $1,000, but was afterwards raised to $1,200; and is not, as some suppose, an increase, because that is about the amount paid when the borough and township were together.

Mr. Valiant stated that he had heard the Council criticized for the lavish way in which it was spending money, and he thought the Council should go slow.

Mr. Lounsbury said that he was in the Council to do his duty. He was under obligations to no man, and if the people did not like the way he transacted their business they could put someone in his place.

Mr. Valiant said that he did not value his seat in the Council any more than Mr. Lounsbury did, but he still thought that the people's wishes should be concurred in. The salaries fixed are to prevail three years.

The Mayor stated that hereafter all bills would be paid the Monday following the Council meeting.

Mr. Smith moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet Friday evening, May 10, which was carried. The Council then adjourned.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

Royal Baking Powder Co., 106 Wall st., New York.

Franklin's "Junior" Night.

During the business part of the Franklin Council meeting, Thursday night, five propositions for membership were received, and two were elected.

The Council then went into initiation, eight members being present to be received into the mysteries of the order.

At the conclusion of the work, under the good of the order, National Representative Smith from George H. Adams Council of Newark was called on and commended the initiatory work and team in the highest terms, and said that he had never seen a better exemplification of the work and thought the team was the best in the State.

National Representative J. R. Rollinson who followed with a few remarks, also commended Franklin for their excellent work, and hastily reviewed the past seven years of its history. He said that the Council was the banner one of Union County, having the largest membership of about 175.

National Representative G. W. McFarland of Enterprise Council, No. 6, of Trenton, was then called on and made an address that was very interesting to the members. At times he became very humorous.

Other brothers from Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Bound Brook, and Somerset Council were present and made remarks. Past Councilors Frank VanCleef of the East Millstone Council, and J. D. Anderson of Somerset Council were also present. Dr. Bedford of the latter Council made a few excellent remarks.

During the evening a telegram was received from State Councilor P. Hall Packer stating that he was unable to be present.

All then adjourned to the banquet room where an elaborate collation was served, after which all departed highly pleased with what they had experienced.

The Finishing Touch.

The finishing touch to your absent friend's art collection would be the beautiful "Plainfield Illustrated" with its 300 fine photo-engravings and its interesting history from the able pen of Rev. Dr. Lewis. It would bring more vividly to their memory the days made so enjoyable by your genial hospitality. Why not send them a copy? Your address, sent to W. S. Bullock 334 East Sixth street, does the business. Single copies one dollar.

In Memory of the Cary Sisters.

The fifth grade in the North Plainfield Public School held Alice and Phoebe Cary exercises yesterday morning. The programme was as follows: The Cary Sisters—Nellie Valiant; The Hunchback—Carrie Pangborn; Three Little Bugs—Harry Vetterlein; Work—Frank Bach; The Chicken's Mistake—Kenneth Anderson; Quotations—Six Girls; The Gray Swan—Landon Howard; The Legend of the Northland—Bessie McCallum.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Dukes Mixture

BRIAR PIPE GIVEN AWAY

WITH EVERY ONE POUND bale OF

DUKES MIXTURE

for 35 cents

Every pipe stamped DUKES MIXTURE or ATC

2 oz. PACKAGES 5¢

Rates of Advertising

SPACE	WEEKS 1	2	3	MONTHS 1	2	3	6	12
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$4.00	$5.00	$9.50	$15.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.50	8.00	12.00	20.00
3 in.	2.50	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00
4 in.	3.00	3.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	16.00	20.00	32.00
5 in.	3.50	4.50	6.00	8.00	12.50	18.00	25.00	37.00
¼ col.	4.50	6.00	8.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00
½ col.	7.00	10.00	12.00	15.00	24.00	30.00	54.00	80.00
1 col.	12.00	16.00	20.00	25.00	35.00	50.00	85.00	140.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings.
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.
H EGGERDING,
121 Park Avenue.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
7 apl y

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 141-143 NORTH

NO WORRIMENT IN CHINESE NATURE.

Mandarins Not a bit Disturbed by the Victories of Japan.

China's method of conquering Japan has been to wait for something to turn up. China has gone on for 4,000 or more years—perhaps Adam was a Chinaman—maintaining her own distinct identity, moving on according to her own sweet pleasure, and is a larger and more populous empire to-day than she ever was before. Why, then, should she hasten to bend her neck to impudent, meddlesome Japan? At any stage of the war if the high mandarins of China, or even the young emperor, were asked what plan they had to drive back the Japanese they would probably reply, "We have none: wait a bit and they will let us alone." Where other people get frightened and puzzled China remains self satisfied.

The writer has been in China for the last three months, but the only Chinese he has seen excited or worried were those in Chifu, after the capture of Port Arthur, when attack on them was expected. On account of the excitement so easily aroused among the common people it is the custom to forbid the people to discuss public affairs. The officials are responsible, and they appear as calm as ever. A gentleman called on Li Hung Chang a short time after he lost all his ranks, titles, feathers and jacket, and found him as smiling, calm and undisturbed as in years gone by during his untarnished glory. Telegrams kept coming in on matters of the war, but he merely looked them over quietly, wrote out an answer or laid them aside as if unimportant. The officials in Pekin are equally composed, leaving the scare to the foreign legations and the war correspondent.

The foreigner worries his life out in thinking of the future. If he is a friend of China, he wrenches his brain in trying to devise some scheme to rescue her from certain catastrophe. He at last rejoices in a scheme, carefully thought out to the end, and proposes it to "their Excellencies the Prince and the Ministers." They thank him, and add: "We will consider the matter, but nothing is needed now."

"But your situation is perilous. What plan have you for preserving the dynasty?"

"Oh, that is unimportant. There'll be some way out."

Nervously prostrated Americans can learn much from John Chinaman. One thing is sure, that if he must die he won't die of worry. He may not be a warrior, but he has horse sense.

A NOVELTY IN TELEGRAPH WIRE.

Weighs 110 Pounds to the Mile and Will Be a Great Saving.

The Western Union Telegraph Company is having as an experiment, a special wire stretched along its poles from New York to Trenton. This special wire is of much lighter weight than the ordinary wire, weighing but 110 pounds to the mile. It has a steel core and a copper covering, and it is made by the Roebling Company of Trenton, N.J. the firm made famous through its connection with the building of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The weight of the average wire used by the Western Union Company is 250 pounds to the mile. The life of a wire barring cyclones or continuous inclement weather, is placed by experts at about twelve years, if running along a turnpike; but if placed along a railroad or through a section of a city where soft coal is largely used, its term of usefulness is much shortened and it lasts but a few years, the gases seeming to corrode it.

Should this special light wire have the necessary tensile strength and proper conductivity also it will not only mean a monetary saving, but more wires may be placed without strain on the poles. There are forty poles to the mile between Jersey City and Philadelphia, along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and forty wires also. These poles last but a short time. They cost about $3 each, cut, trimmed and shipped. Each pole is eight inches in diameter at the top. Chestnut is the wood chiefly used.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT'S AGE.

Next Year It Will Begin on Its Seventh Century.

We are on the eve of the sixth century of the British Parliament. If it so cares it will be able in a few months to celebrate the sixth hundredth anniversary of its existence.

In 1295 Parliament assembled on the basis from which has grown the form which it now has; that is to say, special summonses were issued to the prelates and to the nobles, then consisting of seven earls and forty-one barons; while to the sheriffs of each county orders were given to cause the election of two knights for each shire, two citizens for each city, and two burgesses for each borough, who were to be endowed with full power to execute what should be ordained by common council. Great Britain is unique. Centuries will elapse before any other country will be able to celebrate its Parliament's sexcentenary.—Scottish American.

Worse Than Critical.

"They tell me that the editor is not very well," said the poet's friend.

"He is feeling quite badly," was the reply. "I called on him this morning."

"Is his condition critical?"

"Worse than that; it's abusive."—Washington Star.

Not Fireproof.

Dick—What! out of a job again? I thought you had a permanent position.

Tom—So did I. They said the building was fireproof, but I was fired in less than a fortnight.—Boston Transcript.

Wordy.

It seems like throwing good money after bad for a tailor to bring a suit to recover the suit which he had already lost.—Chicago Record.

BIBLE IN ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

An Explanation of the Fondness of English Statesmen for Theology.

English statesmen are much given to writing upon theology, in contrast with American statesmen, who do little if any literary work in that line.

This is probably due to the circumstance that the British statesman is reared under a government in which the Church is an established and important feature, making theological dogma a necessary division in his economical training, and the subject of his frequent and practical consideration throughout his career as a statesman? Out of this circumstance also arises the system of religious and scriptural instruction which has ever been so insistently maintained in the English schools of all classes, and which must have played no slight part in implanting that taste for theological discussion so notably displayed by scholarly Englishmen. In the English national or government pay schools—at least such was the case some ten years ago—it was not uncommon for a lad of twelve to win a parchment upon his graduation with honor from the three years' course of Scripture study. The Bible lesson is also one of the daily exercises in the public schools which, although of a later generation than the more exclusive colleges, which taught the young ideas of Disraeli and Mr. Gladstone yet reach a greater number of possible future statesmen; and who shall say what parliamentary and diplomatic laurels await the brows of many among this present generation of youthful students of Moses and Joshua and David, of St. Paul and St. John the Divine?

How different is the case with a youth in this highly Christianized, but indifferently religious land of ours! The daily chapter at family prayer, when paterfamilias holds the Book and the boy's thoughts wander where they will, or the half dozen verses of the weekly Sabbath school lesson comprise all of his Biblical research until he arrives at the Bible reading period, which comes to most bright boys sooner or later, when with highest commendations for his virtue and piety, his mother presents him with a Bible and suffers him to read it wherever and however he please, which he usually proceeds to do with the same eager, though irreverent, appreciation he would have for any other work as full of historical and dramatic interest as is the holy Book. And that is all. If in after life he take up theological study it will be for Christ's sake, upon the awakening of religious impulse, whereafter he may become a theologian, but rarely, if ever, a statesman.

OPENING THE SEASON.

One Account of a Ball Game in Which Brooklyn Defeated New York.

Fair was the day and vast was the crowd. The score card wight cried long and loud. By bench and board the rooters soughed, yelled, yowled and yawped enormously. There Brooklyn sat, with pie in hand and watched the deeds of Foutz's band. There Freedman's shouters fiercely fanned the breeze and howled unspeakably. Then Mayor Strong with mighty feet upon the creaking planklets beat, and by him with a smile most sweet, Job Hedges looked ineffably. The air was torn, the sky was rent with twenty thousand voices blent in a wild cheer that rushed, hellbent, vociferating stentorously. Hail, Lynch, whose voice outdoes all noise! Hail, Scissors Foutz, hail, all ye boys now thump the ball tremendously!

O, field by those stark farmers plowed; O, Giant heads in soup embowed; O, Brooklyn chorting joyously! Brooklyn imbrued in Gotham's gore, and with one elemental roar, frequent remarking "seven to four," and celebrating ruddily!—N. Y. Sun.

American Colleges Superior to Foreign.

There is far less need for a young American who seeks instruction in the classical or Oriental languages, or in philosophy or metaphysics, or in any of the sciences, or in any branch of knowledge to go to Germany or any other foreign country to obtain it than there were forty or fifty years ago, or even one generation ago.

Nearly every branch of learning is now taught, in excellent manner, by competent professors in our American universities and colleges. We have scholastic institutions of the highest character and we have renowned professors. We do not need to look abroad for them. No young American need to go over the Atlantic for his scholarship.

"Free" is the Catchword.

The word "free" in the silver question is the drop of molasses that has attracted a great many flies. Wipe that word out and the swarm about the fly trap would diminish rapidly and perceptibly. The word "free" has a mighty power to charm. It is the embodiment of the idea of getting something for nothing. The idea has always been a fatal one to people who have followed it up. The hope and desire to get valuable articles free are the life of lotteries and gambling tables. Green goods men play upon those weaknesses and find the business very profitable.—Savannah News.

A Question of the Future.

"Who is going to be the best man at your wedding?" asked Hicks of Garraway, who is shortly to marry a new woman.

"I don't know," said Garraway, sadly. "Miss Strongminded and I have not settled yet which of us is to have that honor."—Harper's Bazar.

Professor Proctor's Daughter.

Miss Mary A. Proctor, daughter of the late Prof. Richard A. Proctor, the astronomer, is following in the footsteps of her father by popularizing science. The young woman has already won a high reputation as a writer and lecturer. She is to lecture at Chautauqua this summer.

TELEPHONE COMPANY

MAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 12,000 SUBSCRIBERS—PROTECTION FROM FIRE AND BURGLARS, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—175 North Avenue.

Public pay stations, fitted with long distance instruments:

J H Leggett Park ave and Front st
Telephone Exchange 175 North ave opp depo
Horsley Barker Grove and Front sts
G W V Moy 4th and Park avenue
Frank Rowley Somerset and Craig place
J C Field, Somerville.
J B Guttridge, Netherwood
Hotel Albion, Park ave and 8th street

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. H	3'8 West 7th st
Adams, Dr D C	46 Grove st
Adams H C	115 E 6th st
Addis & Son	132 North av
Andrews F H	818 Central av
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 8th st
Alert Hose Co., No 1	W 2d st
Babcock, Geo H	8th and Union sts
Barnaby F A	Plainfield
Brakeley, P W Dr	Dunellen
Boone C W Dr	7th and Liberty sts
Bushnell, John	Central ave. and 9th st
Beerbower, J E	Park av and 2d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	122 E 5th st
Blair A C	149 North av
Boice, Runyon & Co	246 Park av
Board of Education	5th st and Arlington av
Booth, E H	Central av
Brookside Sanitarium	Somerset st
Brown J M	612 Central av
Central Times	103 E Front st
Clark, E B	131 Crescent av
Children's Home	Jackson ave
Chase Fred F	653 North av
Closson, James T	Richmond and Front sts
CONSTITUTIONALIST Office	105 North av
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves
Cox, Rowland	310 W Seventh st
Chapman, Mrs F A	16 LaGrande av
Cruikshank, S A	Belvidere av
Carman, J H, M D	49 Somerset st
Chase, R F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy	Park av & Front st
DAILY PRESS	105 North ave
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 6th st & Park av
Day, B M	Rockview ave
Decker, F—pay station	Westfield, N J
Doane, T O—Chief P F D	428 W 5th st
Dunn Fred W	Park and North av
Dumont, John B	151 E 7th st
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park ave. and 7th st
Hose No 1	West 2d st
Engine No 2	2d st near Park av
Engine No 3	Somerset st
Evans, Geo O	37 Washington ave
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Force A L	83 Duer st
Fisk, Chas. J	211 West 7th st
Fisk, Pliny	6 W 7th st
Freight House	C. RR, Depot
French Bros	Somerset st
Fritts, Dr J T	423 Park av
Fleming, Howard	1012 Park av
French, C Frank	69 Somerset st
do do	337 Park av
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New st
Grant, Geo W Chief of Police	418 W 6th st
Griffen, A M	119 E Front st
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 8th st
Hegeman, B. A	107 Sycamore avenue
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W	703 Watchung av
Hedden, Albert	4th st, near Park ave
Hoagland's City Express	161 North av
Howell R O	121 North av
Holmes E H	208 Madison av
Hogan Chas W	20 Rockview av
Hummer & Mulford	220 Park av
Ivins D C	611 Watchung av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	212 W Front st
Kaufman W T	521 W 7th st
Keely & Son	LaGrande av and Scott pl
Kirkner, J	8th and Division sts
Leggett Pharmacy	Park av and Front st
Linnett W N	110 Jackson av
Lowrie H H, Dr	512 Park av
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 9th st
Lovell, L N	Crescent ave
Linke, Frank	227 W Front st
Lounsbury, F O	Plainfield av
Mallinson A D	205 North av
Matthews, Chas	49 Grove st
MacDonald, J F	158 E Front st
Marsh Craig A	108 E Front st
Mathewson W B Dr	Babcock Bldg
do do	97 Rockview av
McQuaide James R	721 W 7th st
McGee, Henry A	Willow ave
McGee, James	Willow ave
Moy G W V	Park av and 5th st
Muhlenberg Hospital	6'8 W 3rd st
Murray, Dr. W H	737 Watchung av
Murray J W	313 W 4th st
Music Hall	49B
Myers, J K	139 E 7th st
Newhall, Henry B	144 E 7th st
N Y & N J Telephone Co	175 North av
Park Club The	Washington av
Penton T B jr	Rockview av
Perkins Ed C	Central av
Plainfield Beef Co	254 E 3rd st
do Electric Light Co	Madison av
do Gas Light Co	E 4th st
do Street Railway Co	Grant av
do Water Supply Co	Netherwood
Police Station	Park av and Railroad
do Chief Office	Park av
Pond Machine Tool Co	8 2nd st
Pope J C & Co	E Front st
Postal Telegraph & Cable Co	104 Park av
Potter, C jr	427 W 7th st
Potter Printing Press Co	688 South av
Probasco J B Dr	E Front st
Randolph, L W	143 Front s
Reynolds, H P	Park and North ave
Reynolds, H. P	Washington avenue
Reed Chas A	27 Myrtle av
Reed & Coddington	Babcock Bldg
Reinhart J W	63 Belvidere av
Rheaume L A	Watchung av and 4th st
Rogers W H	408 W 5th st
Rowley Frank	45 Somerset st
Roberts, D S	127 North av
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and 4th st
Rogers, D W	232 W 2d st
Roome, Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves
Runyon, A M & Son	402 Park av
Runyon, A M & Son	418 Madison av
Rushmore, Dr Edward	429 Park av near Fifth st
Runkle, H. G	531 8th st
Runyon, Chas W	169 North av
Rice, R. W. & Co	cor. Emily and Duer sts
Rushmore Robert	3rd st and Grant av
Saunders W L	95 Mercer av
Serrell, Lemuel W	625 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Shaw, R J	Front st. opp. Park ave
Shepard A D	Fanwood
Slater F M	27 Jackson av
Smalley Bros	North av
Smith, W P	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Smith, Jas A	125 W Front st
Streuli, H A	1308 Hillside av
Stevens F R	783 South av
Stevens Geo O	Grant av and W Front st
Stephenson W J	148 North av
Sykes T F	Front st Fanwood
Talmadge, Henry P	Netherwood
Taylor Mrs M S	10 Rockview Terrace
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Terrill & Cole	200 W 2d st
Thompson, A D	147-149 North av
Thompson, A D	Farragut road
Thickstun, Jno A	222 Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M	413 W 7th st
Tomlinson, Dr T H	212 La Grande av
Tobin Geo J	137 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	440 8th st
Tunison W J	742 Watchung av
Tweedy, O. B	125 Crescent av
Ulrich & Blatz	153 W Front st
Union Beef Co	248 E 3rd st
United States Express Co	152 North av
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle J W	122 North av
Wadsworth, W. B	452 8th st
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
Wharton, Clifton jr	516 3rd Place
Woltman, E	669 West Seventh st
Wiechers, J F	W 8th st., near Grant ave
Wiertz Max	544 W Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD. NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park, N J	60c	Hempstead N Y	45c
Astoria, N Y	50c	Hoboken N J	35c
Babylon, N Y	60c	Hunter's Point N Y	45c
Bath, N Y	40c	Irvington N J	40c
Bayonne N J	45c	Islip N Y	60c
Bergen Point N J	35c	Jamaica N Y	45c
Bayside N Y	50c	Jersey City N J	35c
Bay Shore N Y	75c	Keyport N J	50c
Bayville N Y	60c	Kingston N J	35c
Belleville N J	40c	Laural Hill N Y	45c
Blissville N Y	45c	Leonia N J	45c
Bloomfield N J	35c	Little Neck N Y	60c
Bloomingdale N J	45c	Little Silver N J	60c
Boonton N J	45c	Long Branch N J	50c
Brooklyn N Y	35c	Madison N J	40c
Caldwell N J	45c	Matawan N J	50c
Carlstadt N J	45c	Millburn N J	35c
Centreville N J	45c	Montclair N J	30c
Chatham N J	50c	Morristown N J	45c
Closter N J	45c	Newark N J	35c
Colt's Neck N J	75c	New Brunswick N J	25c
Coney Island N Y	45c	Newton N Y	45c
Cresskill N J	45c	New York N Y	35c
Dover N J	40c	Orange N J	35c
East Norwich N Y	60c	Pamrapo N J	45c
Eatontown N J	60c	Passaic N J	35c
Elizabeth N J	25c	Paterson N J	35c
Englewood N J	35c	Perth Amboy N J	25c
Fairview N J	45c	Rahway N J	20c
Fanwood N J	15c	Red Bank N J	50c
Far Rockaway N Y	45c	Seabright N J	50c
Flatbush N Y	35c	Short Hills N J	35c
Flushing N Y	40c	South Amboy N J	25c
Fort Lee N J	45c	South River N J	35c
Franklin Park N J	35c	Staten Island N Y	35c
Freehold N J	50c	Westfield N J	15c
German Settlem't N Y	60c	Woodbridge N J	25c
Glen Cove N Y	50c	Yonkers N Y	60c
Gravesend N Y	45c	Trenton N J	60c
Hackensack N J	35c	Tarrytown N Y	60c

FOR A NEW CHURCH.

Redeemer Parishioners to Have a Home of Their Own.

The Church of the Redeemer Building Society was organized last night with the following officers: President — Rev Jocelyn Johnstone; secretary — G T Rhoads; treasurer—Mrs S L Platt; executive committee—G T Rhoads, Rev Jocelyn Johnstone, Mrs S L Platt, Mrs Charles Matthews, and Mrs Charles Brown. The purpose of the organization is to provide ways and means for acquiring church property.

That Battery for Plainfield.

Plainfield did not get the battery that was so much talked of last Summer, but now there is an opportunity for Plainfield men, between the ages of 18 and 40, and of good moral character, to get all the battery they want, in the Naval-Militia now forming.

There will be a member of the Second Division of the Battalion of the East in The Press office this evening, from 8 to 9, to furnish information in regard to the Naval Reserve, to any who will apply.

Rode Too Fast in the Dark.

While riding on his bicycle at a fast speed from Rahway, Thursday evening, Herbert Woodland struck an obstruction in the road and was thrown from his wheel with considerable force. His leg was wrenched in a painful manner, so that it will lay him up for a day or two.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnace,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man minding his own business at all times and in all cases

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

Cleanse the Bowels and Purify the Blood! Cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Dyspepsia, and give healthy action to the entire system.

FOR MALARIA.
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES' DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand with interest. Money deposited on or before July 1, 1894, will draw interest from that date.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
J. FRANK HUBBARD,
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Term reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19t

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVI
Vegetables, Fruits, etc:
No. 224 Park Ave
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery store.
Goods delivered free of charge.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.

OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.

Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
Insurance Agent,
Offic cor. Front St. and Park Av.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar30tf

Stoves, Ranges
AND HARDWARE
OF ALL KINDS
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 31 SOMERSET ST. 3-18-tf

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Mrs. Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N.J.
mch30tf

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 308 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap1y

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 204 PARK AVENUE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at r residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed, f17y1

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
135 West Front St.

TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES &
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Kes of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and
Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—je4tf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 182, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THIERS,
Dentist.
48 Somerset street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—je4tf

LEWI B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey,]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—24 W. FRONT ST.

Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges reasonable. P. O. Box 1 . Piano moving a specialty.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 23½ W. Front street, to 261 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

TWENTY
Yeas experience in the business.
SECOND STREET, 2 doors above Peace street.

Mr. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to Shoeing, Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredible short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Liver and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Peace street and Park avenue.
First-Class Livery.
Horses Boarded by Week or Month.
Telephone call No, 114.

Parlor stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
to Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Estey
Pianos
Organs
FULLY WARRANTED.
Moderate Prices.
Cash or Installments.
See Them Before You Buy.
ESTEY & SAXE,
5 East 14th Street, - New York.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

Plainfield, New Jersey.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

A. L. Force, Publisher & Proprietor.

Walter Irving Clarke, City Editor

COUNTY RALLY.

A Big Convention to Be Held in Elizabeth This Week.

The Spring Conference of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union will be held in the First Baptist Church of Elizabeth Friday. There will be a Junior rally at 3:30, addressed by Rev. A. W. Spooner of Camden, and the senior conference will be held in the evening at 7:45, Rev. W. J Harsha of Harlem will be the speaker. There will also be an open parliament on Good Citizenship, led by Rev. G. H. Payson of Rahway.

At a joint conference of the Elizabeth and County unions officers of both will be elected. The badge banner will be awarded to the society having the largest percentage of its active members present.

MRS. CORSA'S LUCK.

Policeman Was Handy, and Her Thief Was Caught.

Mrs. H. O. Corsa, wife of the district uperintendent in the New York Street Cleaning Department who was recently Plainfield detective for the Jersey Central Railroad, discovered a man in her apartnents at 152 West One Hundred and First treet, Saturday afternoon.

He dashed into the hall and held the loor behind him until the noise brought Dr. Frank Hauser, who lives on the opposite side of the hall. Then the fellow ook the long flight of stairs in two leaps nd ran into the street.

The doctor followed, as did also Policeman Edward Fullerton, whose apartents are under those of the doctor.

The thief was caught in the cellar of 27 West One Hundredth street.

He was Morris Luhr, 25 years old, of eventeenth street, near First avenue. He ad stolen nothing.

STALE CHARGES RESURRECTED.

r. Reinhart Finds Criticism One of the Results of Greatness.

J. W. Reinhart of Netherwood, ex-preslent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa e Railroad, said to a Press reporter to-ay:

"My attention has been directed to the rticle in the New York Herald this morng. The matter is a mere repetition of e stale and unfounded charges first ade use of last Summer and now aparently republished by persons seeking otoriety. Such flimsy insinuations ould not be tried in the public press. n attack like this is evidently one of the enalties to which one is subject who has ld a position of responsibility and care ith great concerns during a period of vere financial depression."

Respect for the Law-Giver.

The Summit Record says: "The aprent cheerfulness with which most of e hotels and saloons in Union County ve kept their doors closed since last uesday, speaks well for the popular reect for law that the adminatation of stice in this county has inspired. Durg the entire period of his service on the nch, now nearly fifteen years, Judge cCormick has dispensed justice with ch an even hand, that he has won the lmiration of the law abiding classes and e enmity of the foes of good governent. That his influence has always en for the good is clearly shown by the adiness with which hotel keepers and loon keepers have for ten years reained from even the semblance of a neral defiance of the law. It will be any a day before Union County will sere a judge who will command more reect than the present presiding judge of e Union County Court."

THERE is but one way in the world to be sure f having the best paint, and that to use only a well-established rand of strictly pure white lead, ure linseed oil, and pure colors.*

The following brands are standrd, "Old Dutch" process, and are lways absolutely

Strictly Pure White Lead

Atlantic," "Jewett,"

"Brooklyn."

* If you want colored paint, tint ny of the above strictly pure leads ith National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each n being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly re White Lead the desired shade; they are in sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to t Strictly Pure White Lead.

Send us a postal card and get our book on ints and color-card, free.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PROOF IS POSITIVE

THAT LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is Daily Curing Backache, Dizziness, Faintness, Irregularity, and all Female Complaints.

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Intelligent women no longer doubt the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It speedily relieves irregularity, suppressed or painful menstruations, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, leucorrhœa, womb trouble, flooding, nervous prostration, headache, general debility, etc. Symptoms of

Womb Troubles

are dizziness, faintness, extreme lassitude, "don't care," and "want to be left alone" feelings, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all this trouble as sure as the sun shines. That causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in perfect harmony with the laws that govern the female system, is as harmless as water. It is wonderful for Kidney Complaints in either sex.

Bearing-Down Feeling,

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick-headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is frequently found of great value for local application. Correspondence is freely solicited by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the strictest confidence assured. All druggists sell the Pinkham remedies. The Vegetable Compound in three forms,—Liquid, Pills, and Lozenges.

THE MOUSE RAN UP THE CLOCK,

Chewed Off the Cord that Suspended the Weight, and Great Was the Fall Thereof.

A mouse, so small that its entire carcass would n't furnish more than one bite for a half-grown cat, met a tragic end Monday, and incidentally caused a racket that frightened a domestic employed in a North Plainfield dwelling nearly out of her senses. The episode occurred at 43 Jackson avenue, the residence of Elisha Coriell. In the corner of the sitting room, a tall grandfather's clock has stood in stately grandeur for years. Its machinery was worked by two immense weights attached by cord to the striker and time making apparatus respectively. The timepiece is an eigh-tday clock and it has always been the family's custom to wind it on Sunday night. So, when, on Monday afternoon Mr. Mouse got in his work the weights were almost as high from the floor as it was possible to get them.

There were no eye-witnesses of the tragedy, but a careful examination of the ruins makes the subjoined account of the havoc seem true: The mouse ran up the inside of the clock, and being hungry determined to make a meal on the oil that had recently been rubbed on the cords to make them strong. At any rate, one of them snapped off. A terrific crash followed. Down came one weight, then the other, then the clock work, and finally the whole frame work. The mouse too shared in the destruction, its head being crushed by a big wheel.

The house at the time was unoccupied save by Hulda Anderson, the domestic. She was in the kitchen, and the racket made her think that a burglar upstairs had fallen over a chair. Her fright was almost sublime.

Death of Mrs. Phebe Terry.

The death of Mrs. Phebe C. Terry which occurred Monday morning at the residence of her son-in-law, Eugene W. Brokaw, 240 East Fourth street, is a severe affliction to her many friends who had known and loved her. She was troubled considerable with her heart, and frequent fainting spells would leave her in a weakened condition. It was during one of these attacks that she died.

Mrs. Terry was in the eighty-fifth year of her age, and was well known in Plainfield. Two sons survive her, Noah Terry, who lives at Netherwood, and Samuel C. Terry, Sr., of East Front street.

To Float the Stars and Stripes.

A 96-foot Michigan pine spar, which has been soaked in salt water for two years, will be erected in the yard of Councilman Charles Fisk on West Seventh street in a few days by Chief T. O. Doane, for a flag pole. It will be surmounted by a three-foot gilded zinc eagle.

More Fact Than Fiction.

Here is a piece of Spring "poetry" which is tacked on a sign in front of a West Front street clothing store, that is particularly appropriate to the occasion just now:

"Come while we are on top,
The sewer dagos will soon have us covered up."

—The Odd Ladies will give an entertainment in Red Men's Hall Friday evening.

PLAINFIELD PUBLIC LIBRARY AND READING ROOM.

Librarian's Report for the Month of April, 1895.

Volumes on accession-book, March 31	13,079
" added by purchase	139
Volumes added by gift	47
Volumes now in the library	13,265
Number of card-holders	3,586
Cash rec'd from fines	$ 20.01
" " " non-resident subscriptions	$ 2.00
Home Circulation.
Fiction	1263
Juvenile	498
Biography	115
Travel	181
Philosophy	14
Religion	30
Sociology	34
Philology	1
Natural science	71
Useful arts	19
Fine arts	51
Literature	192
History	129
General works	18
Total	2627
Total for April, '94	2357
Increase	270
Average circulation per day	101
Visitors to building	3,398

Gifts during the month:

April 4, from E. L. Hyde, bas-relief cast of Mr. G. H. Babcock, April 4, from the publisher, Raum's "Tour Around the World". April 12, from Mrs. R. C. Leonard, 21 volumes. April 22, from C. Scribner's Sons, index to App. Annual Clyclopædia. April 23, from Mr. Clark, N. Y. Hist. Soc. Collections, vs. 8, 12, (2 sets). April 23, from a friend, Mrs. Hale's "Record of Distinguished Women". April 27, from Mrs. B. Fosgate, 3 bound volumes of Galaxy. April 29, from Miss A. Shaw, 14 volumes. April 30, from the State of New Jersey, N. J. Law reports, v. 56.

EMMA L. ADAMS,
Librarian.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Last Tour of the Season via Pennsylvania Railroad.

A trip to Washington, D. C., under any circumstances, cannot but prove interesting and instructive, but when made under the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's perfect personally-conducted tourist system, the trip is an ideal one in every particular.

The last tour of this season's series leaves New York and Philadelphia May 23

The rates, including accommodations at Washington's best hotels, are $13 50 from New York and $11.50 from Philadelphia; proportionate rates from other points.

Detailed itinerary will be sent on application to Tourist Agent, 1196 Broadway, New York, or Room 411, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

HIS WARPAINT ON.

Ex-Councilman Spangenberg After the Railway Company with a Sharp Stick.

Ex-Councilman Spangenberg, who has been working so zealously for street-railway extension, heartily commends the stand of The Daily Press in demanding the construction of local routes before the through line, and says that if the company do not show at the Council meeting May 20 that they mean business he will call a public indignation meeting to head off the through-line scheme till after the local extensions are made.

1492.

"1492", with its frivolity and melody, is announced for production by the Rice Surprise Party, for Music Hall, Friday, May 10. It deals with the late Mr. Columbus and his discovery of America after others had discovered it, but in this instance Columbus discovered not only America but something the others overlooked—Madison Square and a few other things. The result is a potpourri of good things. This organization actually carries 60 people, in addition to which they have their own orchestra and complete scenic, mechanical and stage garnishment.

On to the Seashore.

The Methodist Sunday-school will go on its annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove Friday, July 12. This is in accordance with its time honored custom of going during the second week in July. Fuller particulars will be given later.

—Joseph Arrison, one of the United States Industrial Insurance Company's State agents, has been in Plainfield a few days. Mr. Arrison is an expert insurance accountant, and is a well known authority on matters pertaining to his line of business.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c. and $1.

KILLED AND INJURED.

Record of the New Jersey Railroads For 1894.

The slaughter on the railroads of New Jersey during the year of 1894 represents 265 persons killed and 1,192 injured. The returns of the companies include only one of the trolley roads, that of the Jersey City and Bergen Railroad, belonging to the Consolidated Traction system. Why the other trolley roads are omitted from the report does not appear. If the returns were complete for all the surface roads of the State, the total of dead and injured would be greatly enlarged.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is the largest system in the State, and reports a total of 82 killed and 409 wounded. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western system comes next with 46 killed and 164 wounded. The Central Railroad is a good third with 37 killed and 206 wounded.

Mr. Thorn's Straightforward Course.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—My application for license would have been presented to the Council the same night Mr. Haurand's was; but after I had sent it to the Council room that night, I was told that my brother had taken two doctors to examine in regard to her mental faculty, and that they had certified that she was not of sound mind. I then immediately sent for my petition and drew ink marks through her name, as I did not want her infirmity made public, and as I had already signed the application myself I supposed there would be no trouble, as I have the same right and interest in the property my brother has. I signed last year and there was no objection made then. But I have been told, by one who ought to know, that my license was refused because I did not apply when the rest did. I never knew there was a stated time to apply for a license, if there is, will the Council refuse to license the Netherwood or Albion should they apply?

I have been in the hotel and saloon business since the close of the war, being forced to quit my trade by physical disability, and I think I have kept as orderly and respectable place as was possible. I think the Council should have stated on what grounds they refused me a license.

EDWARD P. THORN.

A Borough Ideal Home.

People passing through Washington Park never fail to admire the handsome residence and beautifully kept grounds of C. W. McCutchen. Spring, Summer and Fall, the flowers and plants are chosen to harmonize with nature. Even in Winter, roses, orchids, carnations and violets bloom in profusion in the vast green-houses. The velvety lawn and carefully-trimmed hedges, give proof of skill and culture. Nothing is lacking to make it one of the finest homes in the borough. Peter Doringer, the gardener, well knows his business. Just now Mr. McCutchen is greatly improving his place by the construction of an elegant stable on his land across the street. He will remove the old stable, and beautify further his grounds.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he procured a bottle of it and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

Woman's Suffrage Convention.

The announcement that the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist Church, has kindly consented to address the meeting of the Woman Suffrage Association, to be held Friday, May 10, at the Y. M. C. A., Front street, will add much interest to the occasion. The people of Plainfield and the neighboring towns are looking forward with pleasant anticipations to this meeting. A petition for granting the women of the State free school suffrage, (they already have free partial school franchise, with regard to voting for school appropriations, the issuing of bonds, etc.), will form one of the interesting features of the occasion.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North aves. T. S. Armstrong, Manager

—The Ladies Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church will enjoy a sociable Friday evening.

—Clifford Brady badly injured his wheel a night or two ago by colliding with another bicyclist at the corner of West Seventh street and Arlington avenue.

"There is Danger in Delay."

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S Vol., and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ely Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

DO YOU KNOW —THAT—

AMOS H. VAN HORN

Limited.

73 Market St., Near Plane St.

Is doing better by purchasers in their line than any other house in the trade? If you doubt it, why just call at number 73—Get their prices and see the big inducements they are offering. For instance:

PARLOR SUITS.

We are giving a Moquette Rug, size 27x54, and a Parlor Table with every Parlor Suit sold.

CARPETS CARPETS

We are making and laying all of our carpets with paper without charge, which is a saving of 15 cents per yard.

BEDROOM SUITS

We are the only house in the city that is giving a woven wire bed spring and a mixed mattress with every bedroom suit sold.

MATTINGS

We pride ourselves that we have the largest stock of fancy mattings in the city, and at lowest prices Good Japanese matting at only 15c per yard.

NOTE THE NAME AND NUMBER BEFORE ENTERING THE STORE.

PORTLAND RANGES

Any one who wants a range should not buy one until they have called and examined the Famous Portland Range. Over 7,000 now in use and everyone warranted. Easy Terms. Goods delivered free to all parts of the State.

STORING FURNITURE—It must be true what everybody says, for those that have seen the rooms in our New Storage Building, put up expressly for storing furniture, at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street, say that it is the finest in the State for cleanliness and low rates.

TELEPHONE 530.

Amos H. VanHorn, Limited,

73 Market Street, Near Plane Street.

MUST HURRY THOSE SEWERS.

Cook & Co. May Have to Pay Forfeits After June 1.

Civil Engineer Gavett last night notified Cook & Co., the sewer contractors, that they would be obliged to hurry along the trenching on West Front st. faster than is being done. Their time limit for the completion of the contract expires June 1, and Councilman Frost this morning told a Daily Press reporter that the $10 a day forfeiture would be enforced against them for every day they work over that time. It is therefore probable that a larger force of men will be put to work.

A Leg of Mutton

contains 77 grains of protein to the pound.

H-O Hornby's Oatmeal

gives 5 times as much to the pound.

Steam Cooked That's Why.

H-O {Hornby's Oatmeal} Company, N. Y.

Deer Park and Oakland,

On the crest of the Alleghenies.

(Main line B. & O. R. R.)

SEASON OPENS JUNE 22, 1895.

Rates $60, $75 and $90 a month, according to location. Furnished cottages, with facilities for housekeeping, if desired, $450 to $600 per season. Address

GEO. D. DESHIELDS,
Manager, Cumberland, Md.

4 26 6-s

CHESHIRE PIGS

For sale. Also fine thoroughbred

Cheshire Boar.

APPLY

C. Ackerman,

418 3 w Clinton ave, near Evona.

The Finderne,

FINDERNE, Somerset Co., N. J.

Open all the year as a resort of the highest order. Driving and sleighing parties will receive every attention.

HIGH-CLASS SUNDAY DINNERS.

(Table d' Hote from 1 to 3:30.) Steam heat; inclosed piazzas; everything immaculate. When out driving let us entertain you,

A. E. WHITE, Manager,
Finderne, N. J.

1 9 tf

Limited Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that a limited partnership has been formed by the subscribers pursuant to an act entitled:

"An act to authorize limited partnership," to be conducted under the firm of D. C. Ivins & Co., for the transaction of the business o merchants at Plainfield, in the county of Union, N. J., DeWitt C. Ivins and William B. Ostrom being the general partners and Edward H. Booth a special partner, and that the amount of capital contributed to the common stock by the said Edward H. Booth is two thousand dollars, ($2,000); which said partnership is to commence on the 3d day of January, 1895, and terminate on the 31st day of December, 1895. 4 4 6

THE STROKE OF RUIN.

"But haven't you yet seen her?"

"Seen her—how should I know? Monsieur Harding forgets the conditions." He laughed in his atrociously frivolous French way.

"I beg pardon," said Harding, quickly; I had, indeed, forgotten that I did not know her name, her place of residence, nor yet even the color of her eyes. Yes, I will go to the opera with you. Everybody goes, eh?"

"Not everybody; but everybody of the best. It is the distinction; we draw the line in front of the boxes."

Boyle Harding made no answer. He had come South a fortnight past with letters of introduction to influential people, but he was not seeking society; a quiet sojourn in New Orleans with his eyes and ears open suited him better. He was young, however, brimful of blood and surcharged with a poet's imagination.

What was, perhaps, just the thing he would have most desired, came to him unexpectedly one day. It was the twinkle of romance in the gloom of Royal street.

He suddenly met a beautiful young woman face to face at the door of Garcin's old book store, a dingy hole where you find the contents of French libraries that have been sold at successive sales or picked up at auction. Warm eyes exchanged an involuntary look which seemed to have a glow of inquiry struck out of iris points. Harding was electrified, and impulsively lifted his hat. She passed him with a half smile, leaving a breath of violets and the rustle of a gown quietly elegant in the air round her.

Harding and his young creole friend set out on foot, it was but a short step to the opera house, and as they went along Rapin was prattling on the subject of fencing, always a great vogue with the jeunesse doree of New Orleans. He was himself a rich orphan, living upon an almost unlimited income, and had long been a confirmed habitue of the fencing halls. Having seen some rapiers and foils in Harding's rooms he was saying:

"But you must be interested in sword play—in fencing. It is the noblest of all the exercises for gentlemen, and your physique is precisely made up for it. You must be a master, or you could be."

"I have had good masters," Harding replied in an invasive tone, "but I am losing interest in it."

"Your masters were in New York?"

"No; Paris. I had M. Duval for three years."

"M. Duval! You had M. Charles Duval for three years?"

"Yes."

"Ah, what fortune! He, and he only, teaches the 'stroke of ruin,' the pass which pierces across from shoulder to shoulder, disabling the victim for life, yet never killing him!" Rapin spoke enthusiastically, and after a moment's pause added almost breathlessly:

"And you learned his stroke! Oh, but I am overjoyed; and you will teach me to do it? Ah, Monsieur, I shall be your life long debtor. I have dreamed of that incomparable thrust; I have made two journeys to Paris to learn it; but, you must know, M. Duval is an ancient enemy of my father's. I could not go to him, and his pupils are so few and so, so distinguished and exclusive that I could not reach one of them."

Harding laughed at the youth's frankness, and told him pleasantly that he should be glad to give him the secret instruction. Thereupon Rapin almost hugged him, and they were just entering the opera house.

Harding and Rapin were the only persons in their box, which was well to one side of the great curve. On the stage a celebrated ballet favorite was kicking featly through one of her captivating passages.

"We will begin the lessons to-morrow," murmured Rapin; "I shall be an apt scholar, Monsieur."

"Yes," said Harding, absently. He was gazing along the great sweep of beauty and light.

"But excuse me a moment or two," the creole added after a while when the curtain was down. "I am going to call at the box of a friend."

He went and Harding continued his survey, which, now that his eyes had somewhat accustomed themselves to the glamour, became more real and absorbingly interesting.

Presently he saw Rapin in a box, a magnificent one, near the center, talking with a tall young woman—and it was she. There could be no doubt for a moment; the thrill through Harding's heart told as much as the girl's resplendent, yet, in a way, subdued beauty.

Harding's eyes were fixed; the trance of that old time love which men used to acknowledge was upon him. His strong, healthy, boyish nature plunged into the thick of a passion romance as fervid as it was pure and sincere. And at the very central moment she turned from Rapin and looked straight at him. Moreover, he could see a light of quick interest come into her face. They were speaking of him.

The prosy fact was that Rapin, in his enthusiastic way, had been telling Mlle. Marie de Montmartin—that was her name—about his good fortune in finding a master to teach him the "stroke of ruin," and he had directed her attention to the young man in his box. But, for Mlle. Marie de Montmartin, we may as well say that she glanced mechanically, then looked again. Harding was a superbly handsome young athlete, a flower of perfect manhood, with a face never to be forgotten by any woman.

Rapin presently returned to the box, bringing with him, or at least Harding fancied it, a breath of that exquisite violet perfume which had been haunting Harding's memory for days and nights together.

"Who is she—the young lady in the box where you've been?"

The abrupt inquiry and a certain timbre of Harding's voice betrayed his emotion to the quick creole.

"Oh, she—that is Mlle. Marie de Montmartin. Lovely, isn't she? You might envy me, M. Harding. She is my betrothed."

"Ah——," Harding hesitated and a palish change passed over his face, like a fleece cloud over some glorified space of sky. Then he added, "I do envy you. Yes, she is the most beautiful girl that I have ever seen. She is the one I met in the old book store. You are quick to find."

Rapin colored.

"Thank you," he said as the curtain went up and the prima donna strode forth with a superb swing.

The next day Rapin came to Harding's rooms for his initial lesson; but the young man begged a postponement; he was not feeling in good form, he said, and was averse to exercise.

And now Harding's powerful letters of introduction came into play. The only son of Gen. Stanhope Harding had the key to open even the exclusive gate of the mansion wherein the ancient family traditions of Montmartin were kept in an atmosphere of their own. Here the young man found Mlle. Marie even more fascinating than his imagination had pictured her.

We must acquit him; he did not deliberately seek to gain her affections; indeed, there was no need to seek; she claimed him at sight, and the way was love's sweetest path. Rapin was forgotten as a merely conventional lover must always be when the true one comes rushing in all aglow and all powerful.

Marie's parents were delighted. There was no obstacle, religious or other, and an alliance with the Harding family was something to be proud of. So, in due course of time, the engagement was announced and the wedding day approached.

Harding had been sent to New York; he returned late in November, radiant with happy aspirations, and took rooms as before, but now in the St. Charles. He brought some friends with him, and his parents would be coming a little later.

I have said that a lover is a fool. His vanity, moreover, cannot be overestimated, and the selfishness of his passion plays him small yet irresistible tricks. Harding had a desire to go again to the old book store of Garcia, on Royal street, and have his first meeting with Marie over once more in his imagination. He slipped away from the hotel furtively and with a foolish stir in his blood.

When we go to seek an illusion we are pretty sure to find a reality. It is not the scheme of nature to humor us in luxuries. At Garcia's door Harding came abruptly face to face with Francois Rapin, whom he had not seen since the announcement of the coming nuptials. Somehow it was a surprise, but Rapin's face showed a quick smile.

Harding stopped short in his tracks, and would have probably put forth his hand in a friendly offer of salutation; but just then his hat was lightly tapped from his head by Rapin, who immediately picked it up and handed it to him, saying:

"Monsieur Harding will now remember his promise to teach me the mysterious stroke of M. Duval."

He bowed low and was gone, while a card fluttered down at Harding's feet; it bore Rapin's address.

At first Harding's heat of temper was great, but reflection led him to consult his friends, who ridiculed the thought of a duel. He was glad to escape, for, although a born fighter, this was no time to be risking his life or to be killing a man.

He had, however, consulted but one side of that advisory board which always exists in such cases. His Northern friends were unanimously opposed to the duels, but now he must be frank and lay the matter before his fiance's family.

"You must fight him, sir," said Montmartin.

"Of course there is but one way open to a gentleman," sighed Marie, "you must challenge him."

They met at sunrise under the "oaks" so well known to dueling history. Merrily clinked their rapiers for honor's sake, and Marie's. That was but about forty years ago: and yet what a distance!

Yesterday a white haired man whose shoulders drooped strangely and whose two arms dangled half paralyzed beside him walked down Royal street.

"That is Francois Rapin," said a creole to some friends. "He got that wound in the celebrated duel with Harding."

Polyglot Tom Reed.

If by any lucky stroke of fortune Tom Reed should happen to become President of the United States he will probably be the first accomplished linguist to occupy that office. Mr. Reed is passionately fond of the study of languages. Some years ago he took up French, and during the Fifty-first Congress, while acting as czar of the House of Representatives and passing through parliamentary storms of cyclonic severity, found time three days a week to go to a school of languages for his lesson in French. Later he took up Italian, and is now able to converse fluently in that language. At the present time he is studying Spanish, and if the movement to annex Cuba to the United States should succeed during Mr. Reed's hoped for regime he will have in his command of this tongue a convenient accomplishment.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Dyrenforth Outdone.

During the Moody meetings at Fort Worth, Tex., a violent wind and rain storm arose, and suddenly a large section of the east side of the Auditorium roof was blown off, creating a panic. Just prior to the storm Mr. Moody offered a prayer for rain.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Necessarily a Bad Risk.

Insurance Officer—Of what complaint did your father die?

Applicant—The jury found him guilty.—Tid-Bits.

SUNDAY HEADACHES.

THE PECULIAR MALADY THAT KEEPS SO MANY MEN FROM CHURCH.

Dr. Collyer Says Stupid Sermons Are Too Common—Dr. Talmage, Dr. Abbott and Others Differ as to the Cause and Means of Cure.

There are a variety of reasons why people don't go to church, and a number of leading divines have constituted a most interesting symposium on this timely and important subject by airing their views upon the question.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, one of our best known ministers, says: "People don't go to church because we ministers are so stupid. We preach about Noah and the Ark, when we should be talking about topics of burning interest that will attract the attention of the average man and woman. Too many of us think we are called and sent of God to preach the Gospel, when we are really better fitted for most any other profession or avocation in life. It is no longer a matter of opinion that the church has lost her hold on the masses. Fully one-half of our population never enter any church, and there must, of necessity, be many causes of this alienation, yet the cause is the fact that the church has not recognized her social mission; has not taught and exemplified the brotherhood of men, has not looked upon Christ's second great law, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself,' as the practical organic law of society. The church has preached the first law and neglected the second. When she preaches the whole Gospel instead of a half Gospel she will win the masses."

The Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage says: "A preacher who enforces able preaching by excellent and especially benevolent living is sure to win the sympathy of men everywhere to him and fill his church. There are more churches to-day than there ever were before, and, as a rule, they never were so acceptably filled. The church, considered collectively, is growing."

The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, says: "The subject is a large one and involves a number of issues. I cannot say that the church is waning, as some men think. In this old church there has been a steady gain during the past year. The outlook is gratifyingly encouraging."

The Rev. Madison C. Peters, pastor of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church, New York, says: "People do not go to church because they are not interested. Short services and shorter sermons are insisted on by the taste of the day. Why this impatience of preaching? A true adage says: 'A sermon, like a pudding, must have something in it.' We have all heard men preach who would have made as good sportsmen as the Irishman who aimed at nothing and hit it every time. Good old Andrew Fuller once exclaimed: 'Oh, the holiness of their living and the painfulness of their preaching!' No amount of moral and spiritual excellence will make a stupid man a good pastor. Fifty pastoral visits a week, sipping tea and nursing babies, will not hold a thinking audience on Sunday. Many ministers have brains enough, but they do not seem to have brains enough to know how practically to use their brains. The Gospel affords the grandest theme for genuine eloquence, and the last place on earth one should expect to find dulness ought to be in the pulpit. Our empty pews are largely due to weakness in power of statement and oratorical inefficiency of the ministry.

"A preacher once asked a famous tragedian, 'Why is it that you are able to produce so much more effect with the recital of your fictions than we do by the delivery of the most important truths?' He said:

"'You speak truths as if they were fictions; we speak fictions as if they were truths.'

"The want of rhetorical culture in the pulpit is one of the greatest and most constant causes of failure to get the people into the pew. Fill the pulpit and the pews will fill themselves."

The Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell says: "The majority who stay at home on Sunday are probably those who have so far outgrown the church doctrines, with their related hopes and fears, customarily enforced by the minister, that the continued reiteration of them excites uncomfortable mental protest not conducive to religious edification. It is the steady drop of 'vinegar upon niter' shut into a cast iron bottle too strong to give way, but too narrow to allow of comfortable effervescence. Minds unsettled as to past beliefs, but not resettled as to future ones, instinctively find it good to be left alone.

"Until some new vista into a more assured beyond can afford a wider outlook, respectable waiting seems to be a better attitude than either a silent or an open antagonism and revolt. The minority do not willingly force an issue with the majority unless something is to be gained in the encounter.

"Of course there are all shades and grades of questions and of shaken belief. Very few are willing to renounce a great hope because gathering clouds partially obscure the brightness; yet it is oftener a serener comfort not to be perpetually recalling the uncertain tenure by which it is held insecurely.

The Cheerful Lunatic.

The Medical Press tells a story of a gentleman who went to visit a friend who was an inmate of a lunatic asylum. When he had been there about an hour he looked at the clock and asked if it was right. The lunatic gazed at him with a look of compassion on his face for a minute or so, and then said: "Do you think it would be here if it was right, you lunatic?"

THE AMERICAN GIRL.

AS DESCRIBED BY A DAUGHTER OF BRIGHAM YOUNG.

She Pleads for an Equality of the Sexes and Holds that Boys Should be Taught to Do the Dishes and Girls to Milk Cows.

At the recent session in Washington of the National Council of Women Susa Young Gates, of Utah, a daughter of Brigham Young, read a paper on "What is Modern Education Doing for American Girls?" She said, in part:

"Fifty, 100, yea, 1,000 years ago, no thought save that of dependence ever entered into the ideal life of woman. The clinging vine was the accepted standard of womanliness. The ideal of our girl to-day is the exact opposite. From utter dependence she has emerged to a too complete independence. Girl bachelors are as plentiful as the male bachelors. The fin de siecle girl is loath to give up her cozy rooms in her luxurious flat or her tiny cottage home, shared, no doubt, by a companion of her own sex and of similar tastes, to take upon herself the heavy burdens of housework and home management. She is positively determined that she will not allow herself to become the mother of children. The reproach of old maidenhood has so far receded into the past, and the selfish serving of selfish wants has so far spread from masculinity to femininity that the cities are even more crowded with young women from city and country who refuse to marry than they are with young men who share with them these egotistic views.

"What is the effect, physically, of modern education upon our girls? Who that meets the pink-cheeked lassie upon her wheel or visits the popular gymnasium, that shares with our summer girl her climbs and mountain junketings; who gazes upon the sparkling eyes and rosy lips of the country girl, or her prudent city cousin, who has utilized all the modern health promoting methods, will deny that physically our once thin, pale and delicate girl is improving? There is still great need of improvement. The physical status of women to-day is so low that motherhood is almost, if not quite, an impracticability. Witness the flat chested and poorly developed body, be she rich or poor, country born or city bred, who tread the halls of our Eastern schools and colleges. The occasional well developed and round-limbed girl is sure to be only one generation removed from the mother's European home, or she has been reared on a Western farm and has not had higher educational advantages or disadvantages.

"There are always in every condition of life a majority of good women. The girl of to-day is uncertain what she will be—what she wants to be spiritually. She is not at all uncertain about her determination to grasp every opportunity which comes near her for physical and mental independence, nor is she uncertain as to her willingness to accept tho council of her senior and avoid all possibility of material worry and care; she is even mildly willing to remain single and free to pursue her own selfish course, for it is the spirit of the age. Nothing but an overpowering impulse of the divine passion can influence her to marry, and even then she will so catechise herself and her lover that it requires all her own peculiar tact to make him or even herself forget that she is giving much to receive little.

"Physically a girl should be guarded between the ages of 10 and 16 from severe mental strain and from the mischievous principle of emulation used to stimulate our school children. The girl's life should be spent principally out of doors, and in midwinter or in large cities she should be much of her time gently exercising in a scientifically conducted gymnasium. Indeed, why should there not be institutes for girls, something after the plan of the Pratt Institute of Brooklyn, the Armour of Chicago and the Drexel of Philadelphia? Why should not such an institute be so arranged that the girls and boys shall attend together? Will not as many boys turn out excellent milliners as there will be girls who can administer medicine or plan a house? Why must we go thinking that it is right for women to do men's work, but it will never do for men to choose the occupations now monopolized by women?

"And if such a revolution is pending, I prophesy that there will be as many mild mannered men who will cling lovingly for support to the future architect or cabinetmaker as there are now depending upon the wife's washing or following women lecturers from pillar to post.

"Some noble hearted women are freely devoting life, time, money and influence to converting other women's sons and husbands to the necessity of equal suffrage and equal privileges for the sexes. I am practically educating my boys to understand and share in the problems and wearisome cares of the household. I am not afraid that in their manhood they will fail to insist upon my sharing with them the responsibilities and honors of town, State and nation.

"Numbers of alert Western mothers, who share with me these views, are so training their children that while the boys are ofttimes happily engaged in washing dishes, their sisters are out in the open air milking the cows, bringing in the coal and chopping up the kindling wood. No matter what the effect of this interchange of work may have upon the boy, it will certainly strengthen the body of our girl and make her more able to bear future mental and physical strain."

Ferris'
GOOD SENSE
Corset
Waists.

SENSIBLE WOMEN WEAR THEM

BECAUSE THEY ARE
RIGHT Shape to fit properly and feel comfortable
RIGHT Material to give the best service.
RIGHT Finish because of killed labor.
RIGHT Buttons and Button Holes won't pull off.
RIGHT Support from the shoulders.
RIGHT Fastenings for Hose Supporters.

Why Buy an Imitation when the GENUINE Costs so Little and Wears so Long?
CHILDREN'S, 25c. to 75c. MISSES, 50c. to $1. LADIES, $1 to $2.

—The F. L. C. Martin Bicycle Company have received their first sample of a Cleveland Swell Special women's wheel, which is one of the handsomest wheels on the market.

A Lame
man is scarcely more than half a man either in comfort or effective work.

Allcock's Porous Plaster

cures all sorts of lameness of the back or limbs resulting from strain or taking cold; also congestion of the chest; everything that an external remedy can reach.

Beware of Imitations. Do not be deceived. Insist upon having "ALLCOCK'S."

Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
remove indigestion, constipation, liver and kidney complaint.

The Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Standard Railway of America

Protected throughout by the Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

On and after Jan 20, 1895, trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

FAST LINE leaves Philadelphia 12 25 p m daily with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars for Pittsburg, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania

6.37 P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, daily except Saturday, for Toledo, Williamsport, Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

8.24 p.m.—SOUTHWESTERN EXPRESS with Pullman vestibule sleeping car, daily, to Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis, and Memphis. Dining car Altoona to Richmond.

8 42 p. m.—PACIFIC EXPRESS with Pullman vestibule sleeping cars, daily, for Pittsburg, Columbus, Chicago, and Toledo, daily, except Saturday for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 00 9.05, 9.36 a. m., 9.39 p. m. Sundays, 1, 9 05, 9 36 a. m., 9 41 p m.

For Baltimore only 1 37 p. m., week-days.

For Newark and New York—3 02, 5 34, 5 46, 6 17, 6 45, 7 01, 7 20, 7 49, 7 57, 8 06, 8 28, 8 33, 8 47, 9 17, 9 41, 9 48, 10 20, 10 33, 10 49, 11 07, 11 43 a. m., 1 13, 1 20, 1 56, 2 24, 2 40, 3 45, 3 27, 3 47, 4 43, 5 15, 5 36, 5 48, 6 06, 6 27, 6 43, 6 53, 7 07, 7 25, 7 59, 8 s. l. 9 10, 9 50, 10 03 11 08 and 11 56 p. m. Sundays 3 02, 5 34, 7 54, 9 45, 9 20, 9 47, 10 12, 10 33, 10 49 a. m., 12 35, 1 44, 2 33, 2 45, 3 45, 4 33, 5 34, 5 48, 7 05, 7 12, 7 25, 7 58, 8 30 9 15, 10 15, 1 48 and 11 56 p. m.

For New York only, 6 10 a. m. daily.

For Philadelphia—1 00, 6 57, 7 59, 9 05, 9 36, 11 43 A. M.; 1 05, 1 37, 3 33, 5 08, 6 36, 7 46, 8 42, 9 39 P. M. Sundays at 1 00, 6 59, 9 05, 9 36, 10 41 A. M.; 5 40, 6 37, 7 47 and 9 41 P. M.

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

(2 25 p.m. with through Buffet parlor car) Sundays 5 59 a. m.

Cape May, Sea Isle City and Ocean City 1 37 p. m. weekdays.

For Rahway—1, 1 43 daily ex. Monday, 4 08, 6 44, 7 10, 7 59, 8 54, 9 46, 9 50, 10 59, 11 43, a. m., 12 46, 1 1, 1 37, 2 48 3 20, 3 39, 3 59, 4 33, 4 53, 5 22, 5 40, 6, 6 06 6 12, 6 17, 6 27, 6 45, 6 52, 6 59, 7 20, 7 46, 8 14, 8 55, 9 54, 11 02 11 45 p. m. and 12 27 night week-days Sundays, 1, 1 43, 6 59, 8 43, 9 49, 10 25 10 41 and 11 47 a. m., 12 50, 1 50, 2 47, 3 28, 4 50, 5 20, 5 40, 7 21, 7 37, 7 47, 8 14, 8 47, 9 16, 10 14, 11 and 11 55 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1 00, 6 57, 7 10, 7 59, 9 05 9 36, 9 50, 11 43 a. m., 12 35, 1 37, 2 48, 3 59, 4 33, 5 08, 5 40, 6 06, 6 45, 7 46, 9 39 and 11 02 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 6 59, 9 05, 9 36 9 49, 10 41 a. m., 12 50, 1 50, 5 40 7 47, 9 16, 9 41 p. m.

For Woodbridge—1 43 a m daily except Monday, 6 44, 9 46, 10 59 a.m., 12 46, 3 20, 4 53, 5 44, 6 12, and 7 20 9 54 p.m., 12 27 night, week-days. Sundays, 1 43, 10 25, and 11 47 a. m., 10 14 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—1 43 a m daily except Monday, 6 44, 9 46, 10 59, 12 46 3 20, 4 53, 5 44, 6 12, 7 20 7 36 9 54 and 12 27. Sundays, 1 43 10 25, 11 47 a m 10 14 p m.

For East Millstone—7 10 a. m., 12 35, 2 48 and 5 40 p. m., week-days.

For Trenton—1 00, 6 57, 7 10, 7 59, 9 05, 9 36, 11 43 A. M.; 1 05, 1 37, 2 48, 5 08, 6 36, 7 46, 8 42, 9 39 P. M. Sundays at 1 00, 6 59, 9 05 9 36, 10 41 A. M.; 5 40, 6 37, 7 47 and 9 41 P. M.

For Lambertville, Philipsburg and Belvidere via Trenton—7 59 A. M., 2.48 and 6.36 p. m., and 5.40 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—7 59 A. M.; 2 48 P. M.

For Freehold—7 59, 11 43 a. m, 4 33, 5 08 p.m., via. Monmouth Junction, week-days.

For Jamesburg, via. Monmouth Junction—7 59 and 11 43 a. m., 4 33 and 5 08 p. m., week days.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove, and points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—9 46 12 46, 4 12 5 44 p.m., 12 27 night week-days. Sundays, 10 25 a. m., and 5 44 p. m.; do not stop at Asbury Park on Sundays.

For Sea Side Park, Island Heights and Toms River—12 46, p. m.

For Boston—3 46 p. m., daily.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats to Brooklyn annex, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—1 00 daily except Monday 6, 6 30, 7 20, 8 10, 8 30, 9, 9 10, 10 10, 11 00 a. m., 12, 12 10, 12 30, 12 40 1 00, 2 10, 2 30, 3 00, 3 20, 4 00, 4 10, 4 30, 4 40, 5 00, 5 10, 5 20, 5 30, 5 40, 5 50, 6 00, 6 10, 6 20, 6 40, 7 00, 7 30, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11.00, 11 50 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays, 1 00 6 15, 8, 9 00, 9 45, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 2 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 30, 10 15, 11 00 p. m., and 12 15 night.

S. M. PREVOST, General Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

—A meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters will be held Thursday, May 9, at 3, in the Y. M. C. A. Building. All interested are urged to be present as the election of officers will take place.

Prof. A. Wehner,

TEACHER OF THE PIANOFORTE.

ALSO VOICE CULTURE.

Graduate of the Conservatory of Leipzic, Germany, desires a few more pupils in Plainfield.
References given and required.
Address letters to the office of this paper.
1 21 tf-c

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively, insuring cleanliness and comfort.)
Station in New York foot of Liberty street.
Time Table in effect, Nov. 18, 1894.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield, 2 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59 7 28, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04 10 27, 11 19, a m ; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51 4 50, 5 54, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 19, 11 28 a. m.; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 28, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty Street at 4 30 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a. m.; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 15, 11 30, p. m., 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 8 30, 9 15 a. m.; 12 00 m.; 1 00, 2 15, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p. m.; 12 15 night 1 00 a. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 28, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a. m.; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 50, 5 54, 6 54, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p.m. Sunday 8 01, 8 53, 10 08, 11 28, a. m.; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark, at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 39, 9 08, 10 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 15, 1 35, 2 20 (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday 7 30, 8 45, 9 35, 11 35, a. m.; 1 10, 2 35, 4 10, 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a.m. 12 46, 2 08, 2 32, 3 45, 4 38, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 23 p. m.; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 34, a. m.; 2 03, 3 28, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m.; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 5 28, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 55 a. m.; 12 08, 1 20, 5 05, 6 45, 8 03, 8 05, 9 40 p.m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54, a. m.; 12 46, 2 08, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28 a. m.; 2 03, 6 35, p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 53 a. m.; 12 32, 4 00, 7 00 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a. m.; 6 40, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m.; 5 06 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5 45 A. M. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk Williamsport and Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m. for stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 A. M. for Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 A. M. for Flemington, High Bridge branch D L & W R R, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Nanticoke, Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m. way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 08 P. M. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury and Williamsport, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton. Buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge branch

5 14 P. M. for Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Mauch Chunk Shamokin and Tamaqua. Buffet parlor car to Scranton.

6 19 P. M. for Flemington.

6 38 P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

8 21 P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 A. M. Sunday for Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 8 28 a.m. Sundays for Easton, 2 03 p. m. Sundays for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading and Harrisburg, 6.35 p. m. Sundays for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c. and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m. 1 18 p. m.

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c

Leave Plainfield 3 37, 8, 10 27, a. m 1.18, 3 51, 5 54, p. m. Sundays—(except Ocean Grove 8 52, a. m., 5 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 10 27 a. m., 1 18, 3 51, 4 50, 5.54, 7 03 p.m. Sunday—8 52, a. m., 5 30 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8, 10 27 a.m., 1 18 3 51, 4 50, m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 48, 10 45, a. m., 2 03*, 5 34* 6 45 8 21, 9 37* p. m., 1 12, night. Sundays—5 45, 9 48, a. m., 2 03*, 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 12, night.

For Trenton 5 45, 8 44, 9.40*, 10 45, a. m., 12 46, 2 08*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 12 night, Sunday—5 45, 8 34, a. m., 2 03*, 5 14* 6 35 p. m., 1 12 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 9 48, a. m., 2 08, 5 34* 6 45 p. m. 1 12, night. Sundays—9 48 a. m., 2 03, 5 14* 6 45 p.m. 1 12, night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points south with through vestibule sleeper, via Shenandoah Valley Route at 5 34 p m. Sundays 5 14 p m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points west, week days at 9 54 a m., 8 23 p. m. Sundays 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked * change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rate may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

H. OLHAUSEN, General Sup't.
H. P. BALDWIN, Gen. Pass. Agt.

THE RELIEF OF GOTHAM

BY PARK BENJAMIN

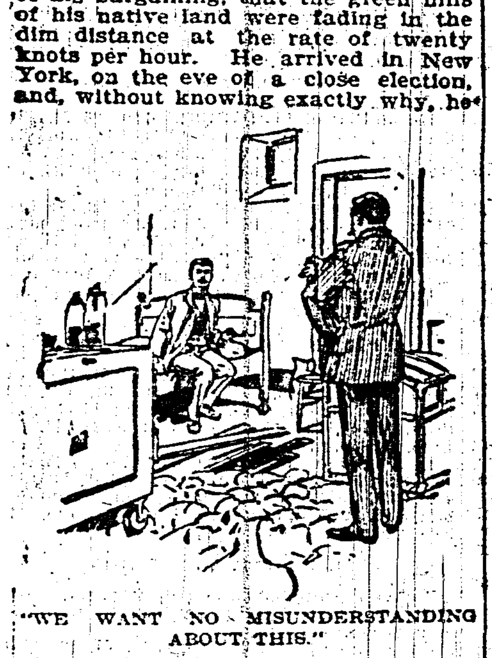
(Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

On a certain hot day in August, 18—, the time ball on the Western Union Telegraph Building, in the city of New York, dropped precisely at noon. Instantly thereafter there was a chorus of steam whistles, and then silence. The whistles attracted no particular attention; the silence did. People gradually became conscious of it. They missed something. They stopped and thought about it, and looked at one another inquiringly, and, presently, the great tide of humanity which is always moving in one way or the other on Broadway ceased its flow; little groups gathered on the street corners and invaded the roadway, just as if some procession were expected to pass.

The great thoroughfare presented an odd appearance. Vehicles there were, as usual, of all sorts—street cars and trucks and carts and coaches—but all were standing still. The drivers were unhitching their horses and leading them away. On the elevated railways, the trains had ceased running. Passengers from those which had stopped between stations were alighting and walking along the structure or clambering down from it on ladders. On the river fronts the ferryboats remained in their slips; the busy tugs were moored to their piers. Only a few sailing craft drifted lazily about the harbor.

The silence continued perhaps for half an hour. Then there came a dull roar; not the muffled din always arising from the streets, but that of escaping steam, great clouds of which could be seen rising over the city. In fact, every boiler was blowing off; for, as if by common consent, every escape valve had been lifted, and every fire had been hauled. At the gas works, the furnace doors stood open, and the retorts empty. In the telegraph offices the instruments clicked away, but no one heeded them. In the Postoffice and at the stations, and in the street boxes the letters accumulated, for the mail wagons had no drivers. The machinery in all the factories of New York stood idle. No conveyances moved, and upon every industry a sudden stroke of paralysis had fallen. And this was the cause of it:

Michael McCarthy, vender of "growing shamrock plants, bog oak ornaments, and shillelahs, in Queenstown Harbor, having engaged in too prolonged chaffering on board the Teutonic, suddenly discovered, at the close of his bargaining, that the green hills of his native land were fading in the dim distance at the rate of twenty knots per hour. He arrived in New York, on the eve of a close election, and, without knowing exactly why, he was conveyed from Ellis Island to a naturalization bureau, and there put in a fair way to aid us in settling our tariff and other questions, before the Emerald soil had left his brogans. In order to retain this valuable assistance work was found for Michael as a cobbler—a trade he had once followed in the old country—in the establishment of Mrs. Heinrich Shoeffel, in Avenue A; and there he was manfully stitching and hammering away when a visitor, entering the shop, announced himself as a "walking delegate." This information, imparted to Mrs. Shoeffel, was not disagreeable, inasmuch as it suggested extensive need of shoe leather; but when she discovered that the visitor said nothing about the purchase of boots, but simply demanded the outcasting of Michael McCarthy for failure to join United Cobblers' Union No. 64, she placidly resumed her interrupted occupation of binding one of those colossal carpet slippers so dear to the east side German heart, and ignored him, until the sharp slam of the shop door brought from the depths of her capacious bosom a long-drawn sigh of "Ach——so!" Thereupon Mrs. Shoeffel was boycotted, and the ban was extended to the merchants who furnished her little supplies. And thus it worked backward to a great leather dealer in the Swamp, who, being contumacious, found himself without truckmen and handlers. And the strike ramified and spread, and finally the result which has already been noted came about, and the industries and the conveyances of the metropolis were brought to a standstill.



"WE WANT NO MISUNDERSTANDING ABOUT THIS."

Now, the most singular thing about this strike was its remarkably orderly character. There were no indignation meetings, no denunciations of "capital," no breaches of the peace, no mobs; but in place of these accompaniments of the old-fashioned struggle there was simple stagnation. Labor, as such, effaced itself. It announced the new doctrine that its natural antithesis was not "capital," but idleness. It would enforce its just demands, not by warfare on capital, but by stopping work. Society might try how it liked being made up entirely of leisure classes.

And society did not like it. Matters were, indeed, bad when the Harlem paterfamilias had to walk to his Wall street office, but when it came to sending the whole household scurrying about after milk, and meat, and ice—nay, when he himself had to play charioteer to the coal cart—things were clearly getting serious.

The city of New York confronted a great public benefactor. But the man to deal with it was at hand. And the evening of the fourth day after the general stoppage began found him calmly smoking a cigarette upon one of the benches in Bryant Square.

"I tell you, Smith," remarked this man of destiny to his companion, who was lazily staring up at the stars, "there is only one way out of this trouble. Something has got to happen in this town which will interest everybody so tremendously—which must just grip everybody's attention so closely—that when it happens this strike business will be suddenly forgotten."

The person addressed yawned carelessly. In fact, he did not seem particularly impressed by the idea suggested to him, for his answer was irrelevant.

"Say, Julius, what are you striking for, anyhow?"

"Me? I'm not."

"Can't you get anything to do?"

"Perhaps so—don't know."

"How did you get out of work?"

"City editor bounced me."

"What for?"

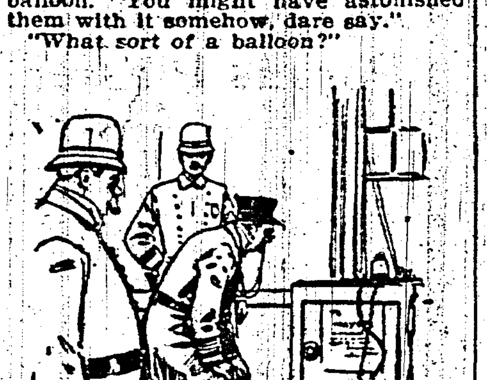
"Sent me to interview the Corean Ambassadors. Couldn't speak Corean, so I got a man to come along, who said he could interpret. Brought back two columns of first-class matter. Next day, the Ambassadors sent a note to the managing editor that they would be along to dinner at 6; and before he had half got it through his head, down they came to the office in two four-horse stages, all rigged up in rainbow clothes. Said I had invited them; and when they found there wasn't any meal, there was a row, and diplomatic representations in Washington, and the deuce to pay I left."

"You might have practised then what you preach now," laughed Smith, "and given them something else to think about, so that the dinner would be forgotten."

"Couldn't think of anything."

"Well—it isn't so easy, of course. Still I might have helped you. There's my balloon. You might have astonished them with it somehow, dare say."

"What sort of a balloon?"



THIS THE SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE READ AT 10 A. M.

"Big one. Kind you go up in."

"What on earth are you doing with it?"

"Sleeping on it—after having loaned a man $10 on it and foreclosed the mortgage. Come along, I'm going home."

Smith stretched himself, got upon his feet and walked on. The man called Julius sat thinking. Finally he rose, and both men strolled leisurely across the inclosure.

"Where did you get it, Smith," said Julius, finally.

"What? Oh, the balloon! That's quite a story. There was an old chap came to board in the house I live in, who was the wildest sort of an inventor. One thing he tried to get up was a telegraph which would send smells, another was an explosive safe, but he couldn't get any one to go into either, though he spent pretty much all his own money in trying experiments. Finally, he braced up for one last great effort, and concocted a balloon which he was going to steer like a boat. Maybe he didn't work over it. Borrowed money from everybody he knew to buy silk and cords and things. But he didn't go up. In fact, he went down. They fished him out somewhere by Hell Gate. I took his traps for what he owed me."

Julius asked no further questions, and the two walked on in silence, until his companion stopped near the corner of 44th street and Third avenue.

"See here," he said, "are you walking in your sleep?"

"No," said Julius, slowly, "I was just thinking. Do you know that I think I've got it?"

"Got what?"

"I think I can end this strike business, and in the way I said, if I can have your balloon."

"If you can tell me where you live, I'll promise to take you there safely," said Smith, banteringly.

"I'm in earnest," replied the other, soberly. "I should like to go with you to where that balloon is, and talk about it."

Smith looked at him, rather keenly this time—perhaps a little suspiciously—and then with a light laugh shrugged his shoulders and led the way to a shabby brick dwelling in East 44th street, the door of which he opened with his latchkey and motioned Julius to enter. The hall had that peculiar combined odor of cabbage and washing soda which characterizes a boarding house of the cheapest class, and was pitch dark. Smith led the way upstairs by the flickering light of a match, until the front attic room was reached. There they lit their pipes and began talking. Daylight was streaming in at the windows, but there was nothing about the two men to show their loss of sleep. They were sitting—Smith on a trunk which he had dragged out of the closet—face to face, with both feet on the floor, as men always do when they talk of important things. The balloon had been hauled off the bed, spread out on the floor and examined. An old safe near the window had been cleared of the mass of clothes and odds and ends which covered it, and its door stood open, revealing some rusty mechanism. A huge roll of cotton-covered wire had evidently been exhumed from under the bed, and inside the safe had been found what Julius first thought were preserve jars, but which turned out to be the cells of a voltaic battery—dry as to contents, but needing only to be filled with water and acid to make them give a strong current of electricity.

A floor board had been lifted in the middle of the room, just over the place where ran the gas pipe which supplied the fixture belonging to the room below.

At length, Julius arose, and said—emphasizing his words by tapping the rickety table with his finger:

"We want no misunderstanding about this, and I think so far there is none. You will surrender this room to-morrow as it is, and I will hire it. At the agreed time you will come back, I will admit you, so that no one will know of your presence here. I will then go out openly. While I am temporarily absent from the house you will do as we have settled. You will then leave the house and disappear. You will not reveal the part you have taken in this, no matter what may happen. And of whatever is gained I agree to give you half."

On the early morning of the eleventh day after the great strike had begun, any one passing through the uptown streets of New York might have seen groups of people at every corner, intently staring at something in the sky. Before noon, these groups had increased to crowds, and the numbers of the gazers were reinforced by people at windows and people on the housetops, all gazing skyward. The object of their attention was a balloon, which floated gracefully at an elevation of perhaps five hundred feet, but was held by a slender wire which led to a point somewhere in the vicinity of the Grand Central Depot. The balloon bore no sign; hence it was not intended as an advertisement. In fact, it was of the dull brownish hue of the well-varnished silk used in making air ships for actual aeronautic use. In the small basket which served as a car there was no one, but beneath it was suspended an object suspiciously like a large crockery water pitcher. Now, a balloon hovering over New York, even if it be only one of the miniature red globes made for children's playthings, is always sure to attract abundant attention; but here was not only a balloon, but a large one, sent aloft apparently for no other purpose than to carry a water pitcher. Nothing better calculated to arouse the always poignant curiosity of the average New Yorker could have been imagined. So the crowds grew larger and larger, until nightfall, rendering the balloon invisible, compelled them to disperse.

But next morning, the big globe being still there, the popular interest perceptibly increased, and people began to move in masses toward East 44th street, to some house in which thoroughfare it was clear that the confining wire of the balloon led; but just which house it was difficult to determine from the roadway. Numerous inquirers rang the door bells of all the houses in consecutive order, but as most of these residences were flats and the parties whose bells were rung were invariably the occupants of the basement floor, answers of an intemperate character only were elicited.

As for the house to which the wire actually led, the abode of Smith—the landlady was too well accustomed to bitter complaints concerning the performances of her former inventive lodger to pay any attention to suggestions or inquiries from her callers; and in fact, the instant she discovered that the hiring of rooms was not in question, a sudden slam of the front door constituted her sole response.

Meanwhile certain reporters, having ferreted out some littl information, kept it to themselves until the following startling headlines appeared in an extra of an afternoon paper:

HORROR!!!!

DESTRUCTION AT HAND!!

New York About to Be Laid in Ashes.

A Terrible Explosive Suspended Over the City, and to be Dropped Automatically if——

There was no evidence given to support this, but supposition and suggestion was so artfully blended throughout a column of double-leaded, big type that the ordinarily careless reader would at once jump to the conclusion that all the details of the impending danger were definitely known. The crowds about East 44th street now became so dense and unruly that collisions with the police were frequent. The detectives meanwhile had followed the balloon wire into the front attic room where the all-night conversation between Julius and Smith had occurred. There the wire appeared to be wound around the outside of a large iron safe but its end, or rather ends, for nearer inspection showed it to be double, entered a hole drilled in the safe door which was locked. On the wall above the safe was tacked the following notice:

To the Mayor:

In this safe is a voltaic battery which sends a current of electricity along these wires to the balloon. The big pitcher is large enough to hold sufficient dynamite to throw down a block of buildings. The pitcher is supported by an electro-magnetic device, so that it will not drop as long as the strength of the electrical current remains the same. But if the current is weakened or stops, or the pitcher fastening is in any wise tampered with, the pitcher will certainly fall. Clockwork in the safe will break the current in just fifty-eight hours. The slightest attempt to open the safe door will blow up a torpedo within.

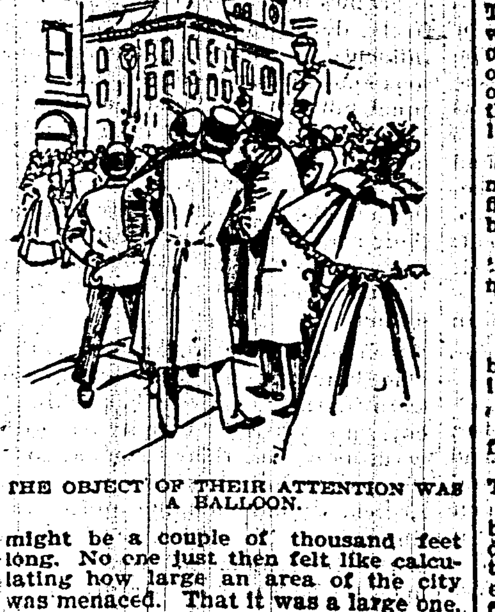
August 23, 3 o'clock p. m.

This the Superintendent of Police read at just 10 a. m. on the 25th.

"Time's up at 1 o'clock to-night," he said quietly. The inmates of the house had already been placed under surveillance. He now gave orders for the arrest of all of them, and for the vacating of all houses endangered by the balloon.

II.

The weather was warm and sultry. Little air was stirring in the streets, but aloft there were light currents constantly varying in direction. The balloon was now to the south and west of its anchorage. The sea breeze, certain to spring up in the afternoon, would waft it probably in the opposite direction. If the wind were strong, the captive globe would tauten its wire and move around a large area; if light airs prevailed, the wire would become more nearly vertical. The safest place was obviously the house in which the wire was secured, because only in the far remote possibility of absolute calm could the balloon remain directly above the fastening point of its cable. The wire might be a couple of thousand feet long. No one just then felt like calculating how large an area of the city was menaced. That it was a large one, that it included both a densely populated section and rows of the most palatial residences in New York, was only too plain.



THE OBJECT OF THEIR ATTENTION WAS A BALLOON.

The authorities at once put the Superintendent's order into effect. The balloon being now directly over the Union League Clubhouse, squads of police invaded every residence for blocks around the menaced edifice, and forced the dwellers, not only into the streets, but out of all streets which might possibly be endangered by falling walls. The sick were carried out on their beds. All available vehicles were pressed into service to transport the children, the women and the aged. Before half of the section supposed to be immediately menaced was thus cleared, the wind shifted, and the balloon swung over the Windsor Hotel. While the police were emptying this hostelry the people previously ejected returned to their dwellings.

The news had been telegraphed downtown, and the desertion of the whole business quarter of the city followed. There was a simultaneous rush for the region of the residences—a rush of men frantic with fear and apprehension for their imperiled families. Great throngs choked the streets and avenues. The populace saw the uselessness of trying to avoid a danger which constantly shifted its probable point of attack. The opposition became violent, riotous—and finally, the police, literally overwhelmed by numbers, ceased their efforts. The hotels and boarding houses remained empty; the occupants of dwelling houses returned, and began less hurried preparations for removal from the menaced district.

The arrested lodgers had meanwhile been closely interrogated by the Superintendent, but none of them could shed the smallest light on the mystery of how or by whom that balloon had been sent aloft. The landlady told of her former inventive boarder, and thus accounted for the existence of the balloon and the safe. The fate of their owner the police already knew. Since his death, the room had been let to one Smith, who had departed several days ago, and since then it had been occupied by one Julius R. Crawford.

"Then the question is," said the Superintendent, "where is Julius R. Crawford?"

There was a slight commotion outside the room, and the young man called Julius, somewhat out of breath, made his way through the crowd of policemen and reporters.

"That is my name," he said quietly. "I heard of this inquiry and returned here as quickly as possible. I had some difficulty in getting in."

The murmur of surprise which ran around the apartment was hushed by the sharp order of the Superintendent that the room be cleared.

"You are under arrest," he said to Julius when they were alone, saving the official stenographer.

"I suppose so."

"You are not obliged to answer questions which incriminate yourself, but anything you say may be used against you."

"The usual formula?"

"Ah, you have heard it before?"

"Well, see. You occupy this room?"

"Yes."

"Any one else room with you?"

"No."

"Any business?"

"Not now."

"The landlady says that that balloon and that safe have been here some time."

"Does she?"

The superintendent looked at the man sternly. Julius returned his gaze with entire calmness.

"You're not disposed to be communicative, I see," said the officer, finally. "Unlike the others."

"What others?"

"Oh, come now. This game is up. Your friends have told everything, and"——

Julius laughed contemptuously.

"I have nothing to conceal, no one has told anything, nor has any one anything to tell," he said, finally. "I did not send up the balloon."

"Who did?"

"I saw no one do it."

"It certainly was sent up from this house; it is anchored in this room."

"Quite so—during the night of Aug. 21, I understand."

"Where were you at the time?"

"Coney Island."

"Was that balloon here when you left?"

"Certainly. He was sewing up the holes in it."

"Who?"

"I decline to say."

"Did he tell you what he was going to do with the balloon?"

"No."

"Did you ask?"

"No—purposely."

"Why?"

"I thought I should be questioned by the police and didn't want to know."

"When did you return to the room?"

"Just now."

"That is rather a poor story, my man."

Julius shrugged his shoulders.

"I suppose," continued the superintendent "that you know nothing about that notice tacked up there."

Julius read it over quietly and smiled.

"You'll find that there isn't much to laugh about before you get through. This is a matter of murder."

"Why?" demanded Julius.

"Why! Do you suppose that a lot of dynamite can be dropped into this crowded city without terrible destruction of life?" returned the superintendent.

"No; but what is going to drop the dynamite?"

"Can't you read that notice?"

"Certainly; where does it say so?"

"It intimates as much."

"Not to my mind."

"Do you mean to say that that balloon carries an explosive or not?"

"I thought you just said that it did."

"Never mind what I said—does it?"

"I don't know."

"That will do," said the superintendent, stepping to the door. "We shall find other means of dealing with you."

The officer, who entered, snapped a pair of handcuffs on Julius' wrists.

"One moment," said Julius; "what am I arrested for?"

"As an accessory to sending up that balloon laden with a dangerous explosive."

"Which you do not know is there."

"Take him"——

"One moment, Mr. Superintendent!" There was a ring in the man's voice which made the officer relax his hold on his arm. "You have omitted to ask one question—and the most important of all. You believe that a great peril threatens. In dealing with it, you merely follow your instinct as a detective to find the perpetrator. There is a more pressing need than that. Will finding him avert the danger—if not, how is it to be met?"

The superintendent saw the force of the remark, and motioned the policeman to wait.

"Can you prevent it?" he demanded.

"Yes."

"Nevertheless you didn't send up the balloon, and don't know anything about it."

"Then why arrest me?"

"Very well. Prevent it, and you go free."

Julius turned away contemptuously. Then he said:

"Do you really suppose that that balloon, charged, as you say, with a deadly torpedo, was sent up simply that I might tell you how to avoid its effects in order to get clear of arrest for not having anything to do with it?"

"What do you mean?"

"Simply this. I can prevent this, and so save, as you believe, immense destruction of life and property. I will do so for $100,000."

"A blackmailing scheme, then?"

"How so?"

"To send up this balloon and threaten to murder with it, unless you are paid not to do so."

"I did not send up the balloon. Even the apprehension of its danger is all yours—not mine."

"Your game won't work."

"Very well; lock me up. But remember, you are arresting me as the perpetrator of this supposed outrage—me, the very person, on your own showing, best able to apply the remedy—who is not only able, but willing. Have you read that notice? The hours are flying and it will soon be too late. And then whose is the responsibility for the dreadful result—yours or mine? Blackmail? Is it blackmail for the physicians who fight the epidemic to ask their pay? Does the sum I ask equal in value the good I may do? When the time comes for public execration, Mr. Superintendent, the people will judge between the man who offers himself as their savior, and you, their servant, who condemned them to this calamity rather than give the just reward for their protection."

And here the conversation ended. Julius was locked up in the nearest police station. Shortly afterward the Mayor, having arrived on the scene, entered into earnest consultation with the Superintendent. The result was the posting of hand-bills all over the city, and the publication in all the newspapers of a call for suggestions of ways and means to prevent the balloon dropping its load. For any successful plan a reward of $5,000 was offered.

And meanwhile, as Julius had predicted, the great strike was forgotten.

III.

Throughout the city there was a feeling of helplessness, not unmixed with exasperation. To see that balloon up there, placidly swaying to and fro, to know that within a few hours it might release its frightful burden, to feel the uncertainty of where the inevitable explosion would occur; beyond all, to realize that every instant brought the catastrophe nearer, was maddening. Where were all the electricians and the engineers and the chemists and the inventors generally? Was it possible that the much-boasted national ingenuity had recoiled, conquered and humiliated before such a problem as this? So talked the angry people in the streets.

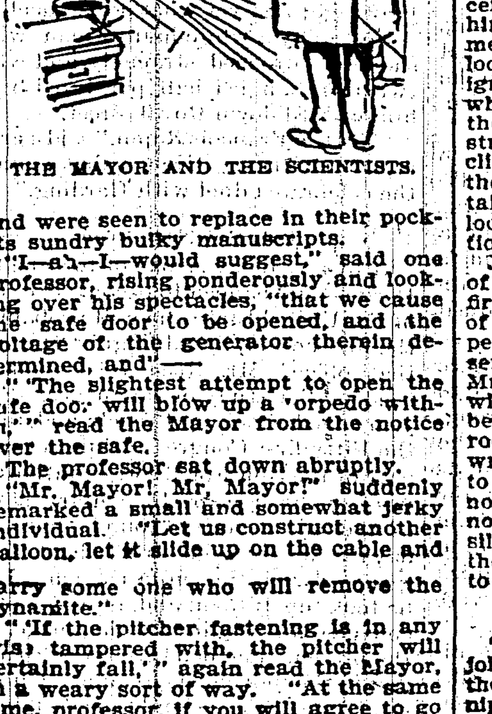
Meanwhile the news of the peril of the metropolis had spread over the country, and, singular to say, its principal effect upon the suburban population was a burning desire to witness the big explosion, as it could do them no harm. Consequently, the Philadelphians, and the New Havenites, and the Albanians, besides the dwellers in other nearby towns, flocked in great cohorts into New York. They came in on the morning trains with their children and their lunch baskets, and bivouacked in hordes in the uptown streets, just outside the police cordon which now inclosed the circle swept by the balloon. They pre-empted the stoops of private residences, ate their meals thereon, and rang the door bells at intervals to demand ice water or the loan of a cup of milk. One man from New Jersey brought some carpenters and tried to erect a "grand stand" in the neighborhood of Central Park, but he was mobbed by the neighborhood before he had sold enough seats to make the enterprise remunerative. Another person drove a thriving business in selling pieces of smoked glass wherewith to look at the balloon; which the farmers bought instinctively. The peripatetic telescope men fairly coined money.

This had not gone on long, when heavy rain clouds began to gather in the west, and then a new fear arose. Would the storm hasten the falling of the dynamite? Suppose the balloon should be struck by lightning!

Meanwhile the urgent appeals which had been sent out by the Mayor to all the scientific people had resulted in an imposing gathering of professors in the 44th street boarding house. Each having answered the call under the implicit conviction that all the others had been summoned for the express purpose of hearing his particular views on the matter in hand, an air of reserved dignity and gratified condescension pervaded the company as it followed His Honor up the creaky stairs, and into the attic room, where the safe was located.

"I need not say to you, gentlemen," said the Mayor, tersely, "why you are here. You perceive the danger. Can it be averted? Suggestions are in order—prompt and sharp, please."

No answer was returned, although several scientists looked disconcerted and were seen to replace in their pockets sundry bulky manuscripts.



THE MAYOR AND THE SCIENTISTS.

"I—ah—I—would suggest," said one professor, rising ponderously and looking over his spectacles, "that we cause the safe door to be opened, and the voltage of the generator therein determined, and"——

"'The slightest attempt to open the safe door will blow up a torpedo within,'" read the Mayor from the notice over the safe.

The professor sat down abruptly.

"Mr. Mayor! Mr. Mayor!" suddenly remarked a small and somewhat jerky individual. "Let us construct another balloon, let it slide up on the cable and carry some one who will remove the dynamite."

"'If the pitcher fastening is in any wise tampered with, the pitcher will certainly fall,'" again read the Mayor, in a weary sort of way. "At the same time, professor, if you will agree to go up and try"——

"No, sir; no, sir; quite impossible; life too valuable to the cause of science. No, sir."

The chorus of coughs and poohs! which greeted this last remark ceased when a third person rose and proposed to cut the cable, the advantages of which plan he was about to argue when it was pointed out that nothing would more certainly break the current and thus cause the dropping of the torpedo.

Then the electricians got at it in earnest. One wanted to hitch on a second battery and reverse the current, a proceeding certain to disorganize the electromagnetic mechanism in the balloon and release the pitcher. Another wanted to splice on a great length of cable, and let the balloon float over some other place to do its mischief; but this, leaving out the ethical question involved, would, of course, put in more resistance in the path of the current, and perhaps render it too weak to hold up the load. Another wanted to fire bullets at the pitcher, and cause the explosion in mid-air; but it was pointed out that they would be much more likely to hit the balloon and let the gas out.

"I did not ask your attendance, gentlemen," said the Mayor somewhat sarcastically, "to devise means for dropping that torpedo. The balloon will do that of itself (he started as he glanced at his watch)—in about five hours. Experiment is out of the question. We cannot risk failure. Can no one suggest any certain means of relief?"

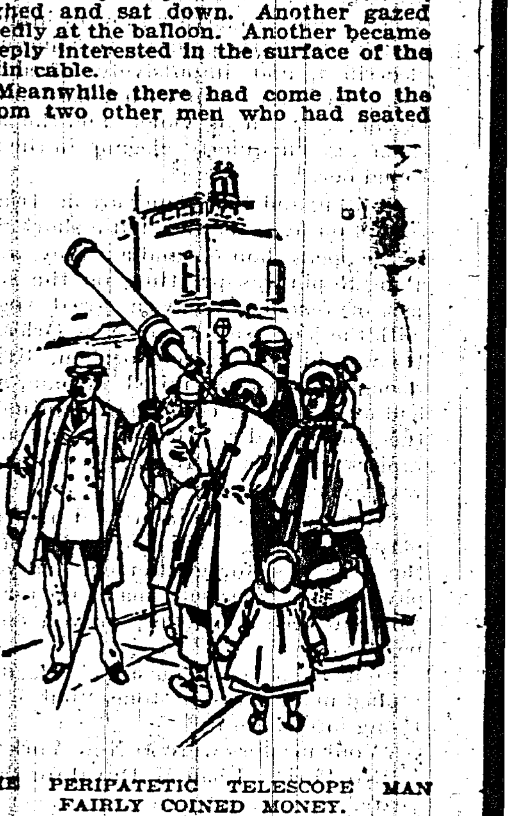
The scientists breathed heavily but said nothing. They could see the balloon—now ruddy with the reflected rays of the setting sun—poised over the great cathedral. The threatened storm had passed over, leaving, however, the breeze steady. The chances were then that the torpedo would do its fearful work in the fairest portion of the metropolis. From this locality the police, now reinforced by the militia, had driven the people toward the rivers. The danger lines had been drawn at 59th street and at Madison square. It was a strange sight to see Fifth avenue, above 23d street, deserted as far as the eye could reach; the gently swaying globe being the only moving object in the long perspective. Outside the danger lines the people clustered on the housetops like bees.

The scientists, still silent, looked at the Mayor with dismayed faces. The Mayor grimly looked back at the scientists.

"And this is all?" said the Mayor.

Several of the younger scientists present moved uneasily in their seats. One of them went to the safe, passed his hands helplessly over the exterior, sighed and sat down. Another gazed fixedly at the balloon. Another became deeply interested in the surface of the twin cable.

Meanwhile there had come into the room two other men who had seated themselves beside the Mayor. The official turned to them and whispered something. They nodded promptly.



THE PERIPATETIC TELESCOPE MAN FAIRLY COINED MONEY.

"I will not detain you further, gentlemen," said the Mayor to the scientists. "I thank you for your assistance. I can only regret that the circumstances make it unavailing."

The philosophers solemnly walked out of the room, and maintained stillness until the street was reached. There they would have at once embarked in a heated discussion had not the police on guard insisted on their immediate repair beyond the danger lines.

One of the two men beside the Mayor appended his name to a check for one hundred thousand dollars. His signature would have been honored for five hundred times that sum. The torpedo would fall directly on his roof. The other impressed a stamp on the face of the check and dashed a quick scrawl over it. The Chemical Bank of New York had now guaranteed its payment. The Mayor put it in his pocketbook with a sigh of disappointment, and his visitors withdrew.

The man called Julius sat in the captain's room in the Thirtieth Street police station calmly smoking and reading the latest extra evening newspaper. If the populace had known where he was, he would probably have also listened—though with equal imperturbability—to the howls of a raging mob in the street outside. But that information had been carefully withheld even from the reporters, and consequently the street, being within the danger district, so far from being the scene of an incipient riot, was entirely deserted save by the policemen on guard. Since his interview with the superintendent, the police had burned with a mediaeval desire to extract from Julius the knowledge which he claimed to possess, by the prompt infliction of any reasonable variety of torture. Carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment, the police captain in whose care he was placed conceived the brilliant notion of sending him, in charge of two stalwart patrolmen, to be kept directly under the balloon as it moved around. But the designated guardians promptly rebeled when Julius pointed out to them that they would be just as liable to destruction as himself; and as he declined of his own volition to repair to the threatened localities alone, the captain reconsidered the project and locked him up until some less objectionable plan could be matured.

Julius was deep in a lurid biography of himself (where he learned, for the first time, that he was a Russian exile of Anarchistic antecedents, and that his personal appearance was truly represented by a worn-out woodcut of Mr. Chauncey Depew, duly decorated with bushy hair and a straggling beard), when the captain entered the room, snapped the nippers around his wrist, gave him his hat and told him to "come along!" The captain was not communicative, and Julius asked no questions, so the pair proceeded in silence through the deserted streets to the 44th street boarding house, and up to the attic room.

IV.

There they found the Mayor, now joined by other city officials, awaiting them. The police captain removed the nippers, and Julius stood alone in the centre of the room facing the concentrated glare of its occupants.

"I have sent for you," said the Mayor, breaking the silence somewhat abruptly, "to ask whether you have reconsidered your determination."

Before he could speak, the Mayor went on:

"You must see that your position is a most perilous one. Even if you are willing to inflict the frightful consequences which this barbarous act must entail upon hundreds of innocent people who have never harmed you, certainly you must have some regard for your own safety."

"Have you found proof that I sent up that balloon?" asked Julius.

"The circumstantial proof is strong enough," answered the Mayor.

"Ah, then, you have not found direct proof?"

"But you have said that you know who did send it up."

"Pardon me. I have not. Nor have you got enough evidence against me to warrant a police justice in holding me for one moment; and even if you had, how would it help you to meet the emergency? Do you fully realize that the limit of time stated on that placard will be reached now in about twenty minutes?"

Whether his hearers had appreciated the fact before or not, there was not one of them who did not feel a distinct shock when these last words were coolly uttered.

"Therefore," continued Julius, "let me come to a plain and simple business proposition and answer your question by another. Are you ready to accept my terms, or are you not?"

"How long will it take to accomplish what you say you can do?" asked the Mayor.

"About six minutes."

"Can you do it alone?"

"No, I want help—three men."

"But if you fail?"

"I cannot fail."

The Mayor drew his pocketbook from his pocket, opened it, took out the check, signed and certified as before described, and held it for a moment irresolutely.

"Does this man demand that we pay over this money to him before he performs his undertaking?" said the Comptroller sharply, advancing to the Mayor's elbow.

Julius laughed.

"Oh, no," he said. "I have perfect faith in the Mayor. Have I Your Honor's word that this shall be paid me, and a safe conduct on board a steamer for the foreign port I may name, be afforded, immediately after I have done my part?"

The Mayor looked at the set faces around him. None of those tightly compressed lips opened to suggest any means of escape. The Comptroller nodded half voluntarily.

"You have it," said the Chief Magistrate quietly, replacing the draft in his pocket.

Julius drew a long breath. Then, pointing to three policemen, he asked that they be directed to assist him. This granted, he took from his pocket a little instrument like a compass, in which a needle shivered and shook, and then, stepping to the double cable which led into the room, he placed his hand between the two strands so as to separate them slightly, and held his compass over one of them. The needle turned rapidly. Then, as if satisfied, he beckoned his assitants to follow, and led the way to the roof. The sound impressions thence received by the Mayor and his companions, who remained in the attic room, and their interjectory remarks were as below reported.

THE NEEDLE TURNED RAPIDLY.

From the roof.

A promiscuous scuffling of four pairs of feet. The tin sheets of the roof creak and groan and make sharp, metallic, crackling noises. The walking ceases.

One minute gone!

A single voice can be heard evidently explaining something, but the words cannot be followed.

The pairs of feet scatter, the scuffling and creaking noises come from different directions.

Two or three gruff voices talk simultaneously.

* * * * * * * *

In the Room.

"What are they arguing about?" asks some one petulantly.

Two minutes gone!

* * * * * * * *

From the Roof.—The feet draw together again. Inarticulate noises, which might be regarded as laughter, if that were conceivable in the circumstances. Various hard stamps on the tin.

Then, with startling distinctness, the words:

"Well, begorra, if iver I"——

And then the sentence is clipped off as if it were a suddenly curtailed telephone message.

Four minutes gone!

* * * * * * * *

In the Room.—The listeners look at one another in surprise.

"Don't you think, Mr. Mayor," remarks the Superintendent of Police, uneasily, moving toward the door, "that we had better proceed to the"——

* * * * * * * *

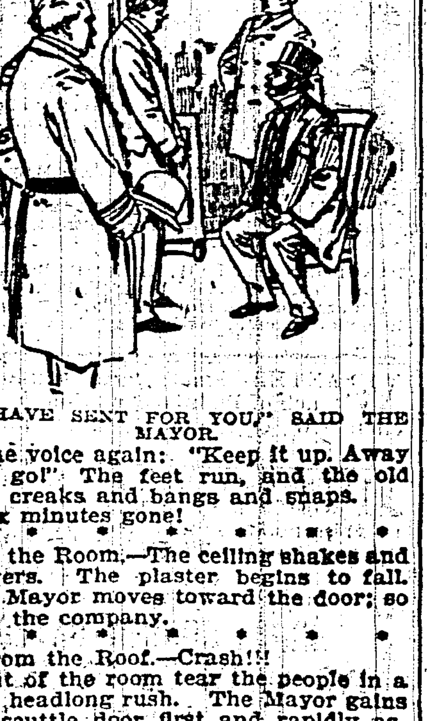
From the Roof.

"Now, then, all together"—unquestionably the voice of Julius.

The tramp of feet walking in regular cadence, and growing fainter as it becomes more distant.

More scuffling of feet, as if running back.

Then, tramp—tramp—tramp.



"I HAVE SENT FOR YOU," SAID THE MAYOR.

The voice again: "Keep it up. Away you go!" The feet run, and the old roof creaks and bangs and snaps.

Six minutes gone!

* * * * * * * *

In the Room.—The ceiling shakes and quivers. The plaster begins to fall. The Mayor moves toward the door; so does the company.

* * * * * * * *

From the Roof.—Crash!!!

Out of the room tear the people in a wild headlong rush. The Mayor gains the scuttle door first and rapidly ascends the ladder.

Crash!!! like the falling of a chimney, the bricks thundering down on the tin roof.

His Honor's head rises above the hatchway, but only to be buried in a huge, light, silky mass, which settles down over him and fills the opening with its voluminous folds.

Downward he steps, involuntarily, upon the fingers of the man next below, who, in an agonized effort to release himself, sits on the head of the individual immediately beneath. The Mayor slides down the ladder. Stifled howls of anguish and wild objurgations come therefrom in tones half smothered by the fumes of gas reeking from the silk.

A moment later the people on the roof drag the great fabric clear of the opening. Again the Mayor leads the way.

The moon emerges from an obscuring cloud, as if to greet him, as he steps out upon the tin.

And there he perceives:

Lights flashing from the adjacent buildings and people running along the roofs and waving their hats. From the street a confused hum, then a mighty roar of deafening cheers, resounding the avenues of the great city, until it seemed as if all New York were chanting the paean of its deliverance.

But nearer at hand?

There was the confused shape of the balloon, flat and motionless, a tangle of cordage. The shattered remains of a huge water pitcher. Three policemen hopelessly out of breath in paroxyms of laughter.

And as the central figure, Julius, triumphant.

The peril was averted, and in a way which no one had thought of.

For the three policemen had seized the wire and by it had hauled down the balloon!

ELIZABETH SAYS DON'T.

She Fought the Elm-Tree Pest, and Has Given up in Despair.

The Elizabeth Daily Journal, always an attentive reader of The Daily Press, has gravely considered the crusade advocated by ex-Mayor Randolph in the columns of this paper against the elm-tree pest, and editorially remarks as follows:

"Several of the leading citizens of Plainfield have combined in a crusade against the elm-tree beetle. It will do little good. For a time it may save a few trees, but it is about as useless to try to exterminate the elm-tree beetle as it is to try to exterminate the sparrow. They fly in all directions, at all stages of their existence, and unless everybody, all over the country, should unite to kill the beetles, they propagate in one place and fly to the others. Elizabeth citizens tried all known remedies, but to no avail. Thousands of beautiful trees were killed and the streets despoiled of their foliage and beauty. It is a great pity that there is really no permanent protection against these beetles, but there is none. The elm trees are doomed unless the beetles themselves are annihilated by some natural causes."

Because Elizabeth has failed, is no reason why Plainfield should be faint-hearted in the project. Plainfield often succeeds where Elizabeth does not. And besides, it is popularly supposed at this favored end of the county that the Elizabeth elms were bored to death by the peculiarly virulent mosquitoes that infest the city of the marshes. Thank goodness, Plainfield has nothing of that sort to fight. Elizabeth's advice is not to be regarded without suspicion. She is entirely too eager to have Plainfield's floral beauty ravaged.

HOME FROM THE HOLY LAND.

Plainfielders Greet Their Former Pastor and His Wife.

A charming informal reception was given by Mrs. P. M. French of Somerset street to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Mitchell Thursday evening in honor of their return from a four-months trip through the Holy Land.

A large number of friends of the clergyman and his wife were present to greet them.

Dr. Mitchell, much to the delight of all, gave an intensely interesting talk of his trip, describing in a realistic manner many of the wonderful scenes enjoyed. For one month he and his wife were in the saddle, having adopted that method of travel through a portion of their journey.

During the entire trip nothing happened to mar its pleasure, and they returned to America in excellent health and spirits, glad to meet their friends once more. They will remain in town a very short time, when they will return to their home in Kansas City.

Prof. Whitney of Hackettstown Institute, and Mrs. Whitney, who is the daughter of P. M. French, were among the guests last evening.

Death of S. T. Hillman.

Samuel T. Hillman, formerly a well-known resident of this city, died at Deland, Florida, Tuesday. While a resident of Plainfield he lived with his daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue. He was early identified with the church history of the town, though a member of no one of them.

His services as a lay preacher are remembered by many of the older residents, and especially by Dr. Yerkes, who was his intimate friend. He was 72 years of age. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 in the First Baptist Church, West 79th street and Boulevard, New York.

Reduced Rates to Philadelphia via Pennsylvania Railroad.

On the occasion of the dedication of the Odd Fellows' Temple at Philadelphia, May 21, 1895, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell, May 20 and 21, excursion tickets to Philadelphia and return from all points on its system east of Pittsburg and Erie, north of Quantico and south of Canandaigua, inclusive, at a single fare for the round trip, with minimum rate of fifty cents. Tickets will be good for return passage until May 23 inclusive. This rate is open to the public, and offers an excellent opportunity for a visit to Philadelphia at a very small cost.

Fast and frequent express trains run from Philadelphia to all principal New Jersey seashore resorts.

IN OLD DUTCH STYLE.

Much Pleasure Afforded by the Holland Tea of the Trinity Church Endeavorers.

Those who visited the Sunday-school rooms of Trinity Reformed Church Thursday night were greeted with a pleasing and amusing sight. Encircling the room and around the pillars was a liberal display of red, white and blue, giving a bright and cheerful appearance. At the door everyone was obliged to meet the genial collector, George Saums, who gracefully accepted the 25-cents admission fee. By the style of his dress, he oeing clad in clothes and wooden pumps such as worn by genuine Hollanders, one could guess what he was about to say as he politely informed all that they were attending a Dutch tea, and gave them a most hearty welcome. Will Crawford, his assistant, was dressed in like manner. The enormous size of their pumps caused much mirth.

In the tea room, to the right of the main room, a pleasant picture was presented. A table was quaintly set in old-fashioned Holland style, with china plates, cups and saucers and tea pot. A clever arrangement of candles and the original Holland flower in bouquets, gave additional beauty to the scene. A sugar bowl used on the table was 115 years old, and had been used for many years in Holland.

Presiding at the table was F. E. Smith, who poured tea with the grace and dignity of an old-time Hollander, and his waitresses, Mrs. Harry W. Marshall and Mrs. Will F. Williams, served all so well that much regret at leaving was expressed by each departing guest.

The waitresses wore frocks of blue and yellow, with caps and low corsage, and one unacquainted with their features would surely have thought them originals of the type they intended to represent.

Those enjoying the tea were served with ham and cheese sandwiches, delicious coffee and a choice of several kinds of cake; nothing elaborate, but all good, and everyone was well pleased with the excellence.

In opening, E. E. Anthony, whose good humor is proverbial, introduced the Messrs. Higham, who favored the audience with choice violin and piano music, which was well received. H. S. Thatcher also pleased those present with several recitations.

A fact worthy of note was that the candle-stick standing on the table in the large room was brought from Holland in 1710 by the late Jacob Newell's grandfather.

The whole affair was eminently successful, and no one went away dissatisfied. The committee who arranged and planned the novel event consisted of H. W. Marshall, George Saums, Will Crawford, E. E. Anthony and F. E. Smith, assisted by Mrs. H. W. Marshall, and Mrs. Will F. Williams. These represented faithfully the Christian Endeavor society of the church, which planned and conducted the affair.

The proceeds will be used in paying the Christian Endeavor society's share of expense for the new hymn-books now in use.

The smallness of the attendance was regretable, and is attributed to the home cares of the housecleaning period and the number of other attractions of the evening.

THE GERMAN.

Graceful Social Event in the Bicycle Clubhouse.

The subscription german given in the Plainfield Bicycle clubhouse last night was attended by about fifty, who made a pretty and brilliant scene in going through the various evolutions and figures of which the affair consisted.

The decorations of the ball room were arranged especially for the occasion, and were very handsome, consisting of flags, bunting and Japanese lanterns. The newspaper, flag and ribbon figures were unique, and executed with a gracefulness that was charming to the onlooker.

The favor table was presided over in an accomplished manner by Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, the articles of which were novel, varied and pretty. The figures were led by L. G. Timpson.

The music was furnished by Elliott of New York, and the refreshments served by Max Wiertz.

Among those present were: Mr and Mrs J F Raymond, Mr and Mrs M S Ackerman, Mr and Mrs Clifton Wharton, Mr and Mrs Lemuel Serrell, Jr., Misses VanBoskerck, Rhinehart, Walz, Crane, Whiton, Waring, and Cooley, Messrs VanBoskerck, West, Van Buren, Syk[illegible], Cooley, Murray, and Waring.

Spring, Beautiful Spring.

The year rolls round and Springtime is here. Spring, beautiful Spring, yes; yet there is a but in it. The Spring cleaning brings a world of work and worry. Carpets to be cleaned and changed, and the painter and paper-hanger adds to the discomfort.

It is a great relief to be able to go to a nice store and see a beautiful selection of suitable papers at a price within one's means. They can be found at Love's, corner of North and Watchung avenues. There you can select from 30,000 pieces of well-chosen wall-papers. Love, the wall-paper designer, knows who makes the best goods and what are the prevailing styles. Love is making a great reduction sale for May and has put some fine goods on the bargain counter at 5, 6 and 8 cents a roll, with some fine embossed styles at 10 cents.

TWO YEARS OF HAPPINESS.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutter Observe Their Second Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Cutter of Richmond street celebrated the second anniversary of their marriage on Friday by a progressive whist party given to the members and friends of the Entra Nous Whist Club of which they are members.

After congratulations and best wishes had been extended to the host and hostess four tables of players started to win the very pretty presents which had been secured to promote greater interest.

At 11 when the playing ceased it was learned that the first prizes had been captured by Mrs. W. A. Coddington and Will F. Williams, while Mrs. Scribner and Armstrong Mulford consoled each other on their bad run of cards.

In honor of the occasion Mr. and Mrs. Cutter were presented with a handsome cut-glass water set and a set of individual salt cellers to match by the members of the club. After a collation had been served the party broke up with many regrets at having to leave such a delightful entertainment. Among those present were Mrs. Scribner of Oil City, Pa., L. Cutter of New York, Judge and Mrs. W. A. Coddington, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong Mulford, Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ryder, Miss Mulford, John Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cutter.

JACOB T. ADAMS DEAD.

Stricken With Appplexy at 6:30, He Died at 9:30 This Morning.

Jacob T. Adams, a well-known and respected citizen of North Plainfield, died very suddenly Saturday morning at 9:30 from a stroke of appoplexy which he suffered three hours previous just after arising from bed.

Mr. Adams returned from his work—that of a mason—last night apparently in the best of health. After suffering the stroke he was assisted back to the bed where he remained in an unconscious condition until death ensued, though Drs. Jenkins and Keeney were called.

He was 78 years of age, and had lived where he died, corner of Duer street and Linden avenue, for ten years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church. He leaves a wife and three children, Charles R., Alexander N., and Mrs. Wilbur Randolph.

If he had lived until next Fall Mr. and Mrs. Adams would have celebrated their golden wedding.

The funeral will be held from his late residence Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. The interment will be in the Methodist Cemetery.

To Save Local Vegetation.

"Nicotiana Tobacum", a preparation which is sure death to caterpillars, currant worms, and all insects that injure or destroy vegetation, is now in season. It will prevent or destroy any and all kinds of pests on plants, peach or fruit trees; and is also excellent for moths in carpets, and for packing Winter clothing, etc. Now is the time to use it. It will not injure the most delicate plant, and is guaranteed to do as represented or money is refunded. Its price is low, and it can be procured at Mosher's cigar store, North avenue, or of T. H. Timbo, agent.

"Was It An Accident?"

It was a very happy thought of the women of the Home Missionary Society, to take advantage of Dr. Mitchell's temporary sojourn in Plainfield, to secure him for a lecture to aid them in their work, which he will deliver Monday evening at 8, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are returning to their western home after a trip of four months abroad, during which they have visited Egypt, Syria and Palestine; and their numerous friends in Plainfield will be glad of the opportunity to hear his lecture.

Spare Your Child.

All things are not necessary that seem so: a child may be cross-eyed and yet not need an operation to cure the defect. This result will often be attained by a pair of properly adjusted glasses, which adjustment can only be made by a skilled optician. Such an expert is always to be seen at Collier's, 103 Park avence, who will make free examination of your child's eyes, and probably save them from the suffering of an operation.

Should Be Sent to the County Jail.

Those detestable scalawags, flower thieves, are again at their miserable business robbing flower beds of blooming plants.

Thursday night the yard of O. W. Dunham, 325 East Fifth street, was robbed of all the pansies that day set out.

If they are apprehended it is sincerely hoped City Judge Coddington will give them all the law allows for their offence.

To Improve the Church.

The Ladies Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church have contracted with Edward Love for the painting and papering of the lecture room of the church.

The work will be done during the month of August, when the church is closed for cleaning and repairs.

—Frank Fulton of Leggett's drug store, Boonfield Hullck of Barker's drug store, and Nathan Brownell, have passed the examinations making them registered pharmacists.

OWNED HIS PRISON.

MINERS KEPT J. M. RICKET IN A TUNNEL FOR SEVEN MONTHS.

Wanted to Steal His Property. They Gave Him the Alternative of Assigning His Claims. He Caught a Sentinel Asleep, Stunned Him and Fled.

It isn't every day that one meets a man who owns a gold mine that he dares not visit. Denver has such an individual and the story which he tells would seem incredible were it not for proofs that cannot be explained away.

He holds patents issued by the United States for two mining claims in the Black Hills. He has not seen the property for two and a half years.

"I may be over sensitive as to the danger of going back to that region," said he a short while ago in relating his thrilling experience, "but seven months' imprisonment in a gloomy tunnel in the mountains with the prospects of starvation would make anybody cautious, wouldn't it?"

Ricker is by choice a miner. Years ago he reached the Black Hills in his journey through the West and was employed as a miner in the celebrated Homestake mine. Keeping his eye open for an auspicious opportunity to invest in a promising claim he, one day, bought two patented properties of a busted prospector.

While waiting for the railroad, Ricker drifted back to his old home in New Haven, Ct., where he was employed on one of the street car lines, when a letter arrived from Deadwood telling him that several miners desired to purchase his claims, and inviting him to go at once to Deadwood to close the deal. A brief correspondence ensued, in the course of which Ricker received an offer for the two claims. He at once proceeded to Deadwood, where he met one of the prospective purchasers and journeyed to the mine for a final conference.

"I had no suspicions that anything could be wrong," said Mr. Ricker, in telling his story, "and I really thought the men meant business until they began to urge me to sign a deed before any money had been paid. They were thoroughly armed with guns and revolvers. We were in the heart of the mountains, far from human help, and the alternative was presented to me of signing a deed trasferring the property to designing villians or to be thrust into the very tunnel which I had assisted in constructing. I refused to be terrorized into an act which I knew to be wrong, and I was made a prisoner and placed in close confinement."

Ricker says that he was conducted into the tunnel in January and it was not until the following August that he felt the genial heat or the sun. When his gloomy experience began he weighed 204 pounds. After escaping and arriving at Denver he tipped the beam at 137 pounds. Two armed miners sat at the mouth of the tunnel each night as guards, and he was bound hand and foot each night so that he could not escape while his captors slept.

No violence was offered his person, but it was evident that the captors had decided upon a campaign of slow starvation.

One day when the prisoner was feigning sickness one of the guards disappeared, and Ricker found himself in charge of a careless sentinel, who had fallen asleep.

"I lost no time," said Ricker, "in removing my shoes and creeping past the sentinel. Seizing a stone, I turned and knocked him senseless. I then took possession of his brace of 45's and his Winchester, and relieved him of his heavy boots, as I expected a hard tramp before me. Luckily I had $80 in money in one of my shoes, and I succeeded in getting out of the country without begging bread. Had I coolly considered the situation I would have made a bee line for the nearest United States Marshal and called upon him for protection. My only thought was to get away, and I allowed no grass to grow under my feet until I arrived at the union station in Denver."

His long confinement had cut off all communication between himself and his friends in the East. Among the latter was a sweetheart who remained faithful through the trying odeal, believing that he would some day reappear. Her hopes was realized.

A letter from Denver gave the details of his long imprisonment. A few months later a handsome woman stepped from one of the trains and the Rev. Charles Marshall of Trinity Memorial Church, performed the happy ceremony which united two congenial spirits, and to day it is doubtful if there is a happier couple in Denver than Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ricker.

Mr. Ricker does not attempt to say whether he killed the guard or not in escaping from the tunnel. He remembers that the man gave no signs of life when his boots were pulled off.

A CAT AND DOG TEASER.

The Scheme of an Orange County Man with a Pail of Milk and an Electric Battery.

"I've got a great scheme," said an ingenious Orange county man. "There's no patent on it either. It is just a cat and dog teaser, and it beats anything I ever saw for the purpose. I got an old stove zinc and laid it on the ground near the back door. Then I put a wooden bucket of milk on the zinc. In the kitchen I've got a battery of two gallon cells and a four inch coil with a vibrating circuit breaker. One wire is connected to the zinc plate and the other terminates in a piece of metal in the milk. You just ought to see the effect. A cat comes along, smells the milk and goes for it. She just touches the milk with her whiskers and looks puzzled when the slight, tingling shock is felt. Then she returns to the attack and touches her tongue to the surface of the milk. Her hair rises then and she emits a yowl of rage or pain as she springs away from the pail and then turns to look back at it. I have seen the same cat take two shocks within as many minutes and then act as if she wanted to try it again, but didn't dare to.

"With dogs it is different. The dog steps upon the zinc, lops his long tongue into the milk and then throws a back somersault. He wants no more after that, but tucking his tail between his legs, streaks out of the yard as quickly as possible. If you want to try it you needn't use a whole pail of milk. Just take a crockery dish and it will answer just as well. Milk is cheap up our way, you know, and I took the first thing that came handy."

In seasons of scarcity of food the coyote and other wild animals subsist upon the leaves of the cactus plant.

LOVE FOR THE BEAST.

Parental Interference Drove the Daughter to the Mountains.

"We had gone about two miles from camp when Tige and Fan struck a scent and bounded off through the dense thicket. I quickened my pace in the direction the dogs had taken and soon came upon the tracks of what I knew must be those of a huge grizzly bear. Presently, as I anticipated, the hounds brought the bear to bay a few hundred yards ahead. This was clearly evident from the altered tone of their cries. When I came up with the dogs there sure enough was a big grizzly sitting on his haunches and complacently taking in the situation.

"I poised my rifle and was about to fire, when to my utter surprise I saw a stout leather strap about the bear's chubby neck, while from the brass ring under his throat dangled a rosette and tassel made of red, white and blue ribbons. Beside, the animal's coat was as sleek and clean as if he had just come from a tub of soap and water. So long as I allowed the dogs to bark at a safe distance he sat bolt upright, perfectly still, neither sniffing nor growling, and with an air of stolid indifference.

"Was the brute an escape from some menagerie? Was he a household pet, or was I dreaming? None of these surely. We were in the heart of a mountain wilderness, more than thirty miles from the nearest border settlement, and 200 miles from the nearest town ever visited by circus or menagerie. Beside, family pets are not made of grizzly bears weighing half a ton. Moreover, I was wide awake, and I had not tasted any brandy since leaving camp.

"I called off the dogs and put them in leashes. Strangely enough the huge beast plunged instanter into the thicket and shambled off up the creek, while I followed as fast as I could lead the hounds. At a point about a half a mile further up the bear forded the stream, scaled the opposite bank and was soon lost in the brush. I followed, still leading the dogs, now furiously barking and madly trying to get loose. I could hear the crackling of dry twigs under the bear's feet, and quieting the dogs in order to catch his course, I heard a human voice, the shrill, treble cry of a woman.

"'Ho, Dio! Dio! Dio-o!' it came.

"Once more I was dazed. All the fairy stories of bears and wolves I had ever heard or read came back to me, and I was beginning to mistrust the reliability of my senses when the cry came again, a good deal nearer and louder:

"'Dio! Dio! Ho, Di-o-o-o!'

"Chaining the hounds to a sapling, I plunged forward. I soon overtook the bear, which had paid no attention to me whatever, but lazily walked along as if his business were his own and nobody else's, halting now and then to munch a few berries from the bushes. As Bruin and I emerged from the thicket into a partially open space what was my amazement to suddenly meet face to face a woman—a real, live woman! The apparition was clad in buckskin frock and leggings, with high brogans buckled over her feet and her head covered with a brown slouch hat, from beneath which streamed her long hair. She was a blonde of the most perfect type. She snapped her thumb and finger and the bear walked to her side, reared up on his hind feet and licked her cheek while she stroked his shaggy coat.

"'Now, sir,' said the woman, 'will you walk home with me and see where I live with Dio and his family?'

"A twenty minutes' walk on a well beaten trail brought us to a limestone cliff a few yards from the stream. This cliff was nearly perpendicular, forty or fifty feet high, and in its face on a level with the bank of the creek there was a broad opening or cave, perhaps ten feet high and thirty or forty deep. Just within was a snugly built log cabin, its front gable end extending outside far enough to catch the sunlight and permit the escape of the smoke from a stick and clay chimney. This retreat was the home of the woman, while a family of bears occupied the further end of the cave.

"Upon our arrival Mrs. Grizzly Bruin and two half grown cubs made their appearance, all exhibiting the same docile characteristics as the great Dio. A big Newfoundland dog also bounded forth to greet us. The cabin contained three airy and well lighted rooms, a studio or parlor, a bedroom or kitchen.

"Retiring to her bedroom a few minutes, the lady reappeared attired in her 'reception suit,' as she laughingly called it. While we sat at luncheon she told me her history, and I assure you it was only the old story, with romantic variations and practical illustrations. The gist of the whole matter was a love sorrow caused by the interference of unwise parents and resulting in the abandonment of a comfortable home for the precarious life of a recluse. Only two or three trusted friends know the secret of her whereabouts and mode of living.

"Backwoodsmen built her the cabin five years ago, and about that time she bought a pair of grizzly cubs from the Indians and reared them on condensed milk. To this simple diet and the kindest treatment the philosophical lady attributes the wonderful docility of her grizzly pets. Frontiersman hired for the purpose make monthly visits to the cabin, bringing upon pack animals every comfort and many luxuries.

"The hermitess maintained that mercy between man and man and kindness to the lower animals must constitute the great panacea which is to redeem animated nature, bring back the golden age and hasten the millennium. Growing enthusiastic she cited many interesting facts in her own experience. It was a common thing every summer for humming birds to come through the open window, build their nests and rear their young in the evergreen foliage that decorated her little parlor. The parent birds would come at her call and eat honey from the palm of her hand. Large birds built their nests under the eaves of her humble cabin, while grouse nested in the neighboring trees and brought their chicks to pick up the crumbs that she threw to them from her kitchen window. A couple of well bred tabby cats share the house with their mistress and keep the storeroom free from mice. Volumes might be written upon what she has already done with the larger animals. While she does not believe in a charmed life, she declares that there is not a creature in the mountain forests round about that would harm her."

Controllable Affection.

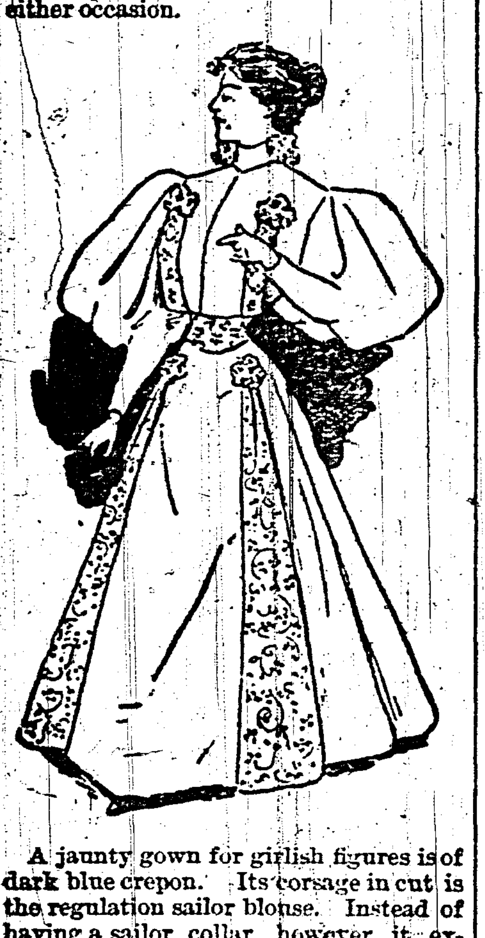
"I cannot say that I love him wildly," admitted the Chicago young lady, "but still I think he will make a good enough husband for a year or so."—Indianapolis Journal.

FASHIONS JUST NOW.

COARSE STRAWS ARE THE PROPER THINGS FOR HATS.

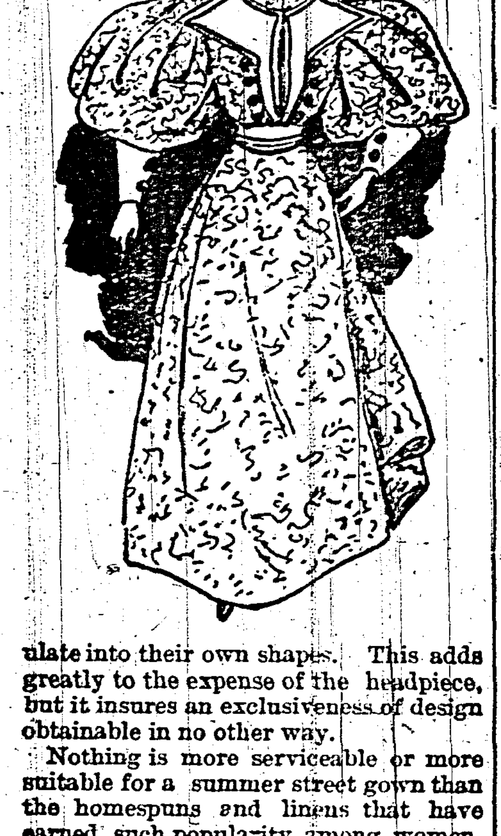
They Should Be Sun-Mounted By a Thoroughly Inartistic Combination of Colors. Tailor Made Linen Suits are Popular and Serviceable.

A graceful costume consists of light, fawn colored wool combined with black lace over straw colored satin. The latter appears in two lengthly V-shaped insertions starting just below the belt, and headed by rosettes of black satin. Two suspender like bands reaching two thirds of the way up the bodice front and likewise headed by rosettes, are also of the illuminated lace, while the broad curving belt is of the same. The corsage fits closely in the back but has a blouse front. Its collar is high and plain; its sleeves are bouffant to the elbow, but smooth fitting below. The skirt's front breadth is slightly draped between the lace panels, and at the sides and back it falls in broad box plaits. The costume is especially commendable as combining the severity demanded for street wear with the grace and finish proper to the house gown, and it is thus suitable for either occasion.



A jaunty gown for girlish figures is of dark blue crepon. Its corsage in cut is the regulation sailor blouse. Instead of having a sailor collar, however, it expands in the front into broad lapels of white cloth which, joined to the loose bodice, droops over the belt. These lapels are edged with a double row of narrow blue braid. Large pearl buttons ornament each side of the lapels. The belt is of the white also, as are the cuffs. Upon the latter the big buttons again appear. The sleeve puffs and the plain choker collar are of the blue. The skirt is unplaited but flares widely about the feet.

Smoth straws for millinery have almost disappeared. All the stylish hats are of rough straw, the most elegant being of a coarse plaited material known as palmetto, which the milliners manipulate into their own shapes. This adds greatly to the expense of the headpiece, but it insures an exclusiveness of design obtainable in no other way.



Nothing is more serviceable or more suitable for a summer street gown than the homespuns and linens that have earned such popularity among women. These gowns are in strictly tailor style, and in general effect are the same as made of serge, covert cloth or cheviot. Their comfort to the wearer during warm weather is, however, inmeasurable.

Some striking and novel colors are introduced in this year's linens, their names being particular picturesque. Among these are: "Nankin jar," "plum blue celeste," sunset glow" and "Eolus." Another superlative attribute of these fabrics is their endurance. They are simply everlasting.

In the Period of Transition.

She—Er—George!

He—W-well, Laura?

She—I—I think we understand each other, George, but—but is it my place or yours to put the question, and ought I to speak to your mamma about it or ought you to go and ask papa?—Chicago Daily Tribune.

Man is made in God's own image, so we are told. When we look about us it is rather hard to believe this, but when we come to ourselves it is easy to see that it must be so.

The lies told during courtship are the stars which stud the matrimonial sky; but the lies that are told after marriage—if any are told—are the clouds which shut out those stars.

A NEW ROADSTER.

FOUR MILES FOR A CENT IS THE COST OF LOCOMOTION.

A New Horseless Vehicle With Gasoline as Its Motive Power, Ball Bearings and Rubber Tires Reduce the Friction, and to Go Ahead You Touch a Button.

The latest and apparently most practical self propelling vehicle yet produced in this country has just been perfected at Springfield, Mass., after three years of experimentation. This improved motor carriage is daily traversing the roadways of Western Massachusetts. The total weight is 600 pounds. The wheels are rubber tired and run on ball bearings.

The front wheels turn on their own pivot located in the hub, the axle being firmly held by the side bars. The lever in front wholly controls the carriage. The lateral movement turns the wheels, the vertical motion starts and stops the vehicle, changes its rate of speed and also reverses its movement, driving it backward when desired. The lever connections all have ball joints, which can never become loose and cause lost motion. A brake drum of peculiar construction is placed under the seat and connected with a thumb button located at the front corner of the seat. By pressing the thumb upon this button the carriage, if running twelve miles an hour, can be stopped within a distance of four feet.

The variable speed ranges from three to sixteen miles an hour, the normal rates being three, six and ten miles. To obtain these different rates the motor does not change its speed. The increase is made in the gearing, which is alternately rawhide and iron and runs quite still. To obtain a greater speed than ten miles an hour the pressing of the button at the front of the seat will increase the speed of the motor. The mechanism runs upon ball bearings wherever possible, and otherwise metaline bearings are used, rendering oiling unnecessary.

The motor has a driving capacity of four horse power and is what is usually termed a gasoline motor. It is compactly located in the box of the body, weighs 120 pounds and is of an improved type, double cylinder and self regulating as to work required. Peculiar and ingenious devices are employed in the mixture of gasoline with air to produce the proper quality of gas, only a small drop of gasoline being used at one time. The gas so produced comes in contact with an electric spark, thereby producing an expansion of the air in the cylinder, which is already very much compressed by the action of the piston.

The cost of running this carriage is one-fourth of a cent a mile. A supply can be carried sufficient for 150 miles and can readily be replenished at any town en route.

The motor has proved entirely reliable, having been run several weeks on a test, and shows no variation in power or speed. It is simple, will cost but little to run and is applicable to business as well as pleasure purposes.

CULTIVATING SPONGES.

Profitable Sea Gardens of This Product Along the Florida Coast.

Ever since the sponge fisheries of the Bahamas and the Gulf coast of Florida showed signs of becoming exhausted efforts have been made to cultivate sponges on farms or artificial beds, and more recently science has tried to imitate the genuine article by converting the soft fibre of the cocoanut leaves and shells into sponges of commercial value. Sponge farming is now a successful industry, and hundreds of acres in the Gulf of Mexico along the Florida coast are planted with "sponge cuttings" and seeds. The work is not dissimilar in many respects to oyster culture. The young sponges are planted in water along the coast varying from one to five fathoms in depth.

A few years ago the fish commissioners had their attention called to the sponge fisheries off the Florida coast, and after finding that the beds were being rapidly depleted of the best stock, an examination of the fisheries was made to ascertain some way of preserving them. The specimens of sponge taken to Washington in the autumn of the year were found to be reproductive if the proper conditions were supplied. The sponges in the autumn were found to develop masses of protoplasm or spores, which in the spring of the year were liberated. These spores contained the small reproductive particles from which the sponges developed. Some of the sponges experimented with did not reproduce their kind at all, and it was found that in order to cultivate the sponges it was necessary to plant sponges that produced certain cells that contained the ova or egg, and others that represented spermatozoa.—Philadelphia Times.

Cerfew Too Expensive.

A resolution has been introduced in the Salem, Mass., Board of Aldermen to discontinue the ringing of the curfew bell on the ground that this is a meaningless custom entailing unnecessary expense.

Queer Idea of a Holiday.

Lord Randolph Churchill's idea of a holiday was to go to bed in a quiet room—stay there all day reading and dozing, dine in slippers and dressing gown in the evening, and as soon as convenient thereafter go to bed.

A Case of Ability.

"Jennie has married a man who plays poker. Isn't it dreadful?" said a Harlem woman to her husband.

"It isn't half as bad as marrying a man who thinks he can play poker, but cannot," was the reply.—Texas Siftings.

Evidence Enough.

Magistrate—The evidence shows that you threw a rock at a man.

Mrs. McDuff—An' it shows more than that, yer Honor. It shows that I hit him.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

Disastrous Effects of the Battle of the Nile.

ON SYRIA'S FERTILE PLAINS.

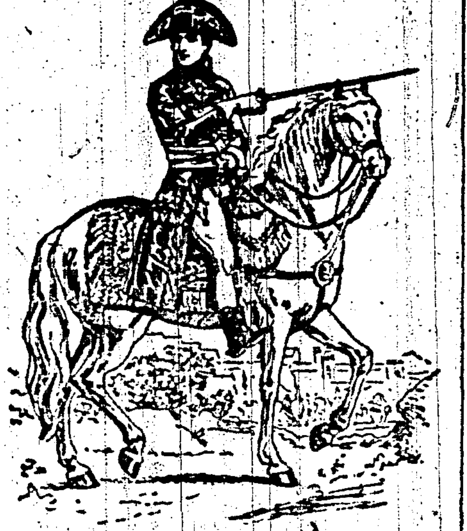
Siege of Jaffa and Massacre of the Garrison—Horrors of the Plague—French Envoy Beheaded—Victory at Aboukir—Received In France With Wild Acclaim.

[Copyright, 1895, by John Clark Ridpath.]

XII.—SYRIAN CAMPAIGN.

A great disaster now suddenly clouded the fortunes of Napoleon. Lord Nelson, beating out with his fleet for a month toward Syria—discovering that the French had landed in Egypt—sailed for Alexandria. The fleet of Brueys was at anchor in the bay of Aboukir. Nelson quickly sighted his antagonist, blockaded him, and on the 1st of August, 1798, began that famous Battle of the Nile, the memory of which is still fresh in history and tradition. The French fleet was virtually destroyed. The Admiral's ship Orient was burned. On the bloody deck, the son of Captain Louis Casabianca stood at his post, giving to the poetry of Hemans a flame-vision and voice to posterity. Only four or five of the French vessels escaped destruction. The rest, with nearly four thousand seamen, went into oblivion.

Napoleon had little genius for the sea. His ability to estimate the contingencies of naval warfare was small. Before his career was half expired, he conceded the dominion of the ocean to his great enemy. Ever after the Egyptian campaign, his endeavor looked more and more to the creation of a Continental power which should countervail British supremacy on the deep. The result to him of the battle of the Nile was in every way disastrous. The effect of it was calculated to inspire distrust in France, encourage the Coalition, and in particular to rekindle the smouldering hatred of the Mamelukes.



NAPOLEON BY CHATAIGNIER.

Complaints broke out in the French army. Though victory came, deprivation came also. The soldiers were scorched on the blistering plains, and had little to eat but watermelons. Nevertheless, Napoleon went steadily on with his scheme. On the 21st of August, he founded in Cairo an institute of arts and sciences. The savants who had come with the expedition laid the foundations of modern Egyptology. Bonaparte had the dyke opened, by which the canal of Cairo receives its supply from the Nile. Then he participated in the annual festival of Mohammed. He made common cause with the Islamite priests; put himself—at least for a day—into Turkish dress; visited the mosques, and attempted in every way to confirm his influence with the people. Volumes could not contain the story of what was said and planned by this extraordinary personage on the sands of Egypt.

On the 22nd of October, at a preconcerted signal, Cairo broke into insurrection. For a while the French occupancy was endangered; but the revolt was suppressed, and a terrible vengeance was wreaked on its authors. Meanwhile, Napoleon conceived the project of making a campaign into Syria, and attacking the English stronghold of Jaffa and St. Jean d'Acre. The situation was this: France and Turkey were nominally at peace. Napoleon had overthrown the Sultan's rebellious beys in Egypt. Therefore he was a friend of the Sultan; and he of him. But the thick brain of the Porte at length cleared sufficiently to see that Murad and Ibrahim Beys were not half so dangerous as the foreign lion that now sat on his haunches at Cairo, licking his mouth for more. The Sultan perceived that the French must be expelled. Napoleon had seen that this conclusion would be reached, and that a Turkish army might be expected to come against him out of Syria. Therefore he would better preoccupy Syria. Moreover, the hated English had got the coast of the Eastern Mediterranean. The Turkish army might not be expected during the winter; but the English were there already. Hence the Syrian expedition.

Napoleon divided his forces. He left about twelve thousand men to occupy Egypt, and with a like number set out, on the 11th of February, 1799, in the direction of Suez and Palestine. The march was accompanied with great hardships. At the wells of Messoudiah the French found water; and soon afterwards the green and fertile plains of Syria arose to view. El-Arish was taken on the 17th of February. On the 1st of March, Napoleon slept at the convent of Ramleh. He passed within a few miles of Jerusalem, and then made his way to Jaffa. A siege was immediately begun, and on the 6th of March the place was taken, with pillage and massacre. About four thousand of the prisoners were, after three days of deliberation, set in lines on the seashore and shot. This was done under the terrible necessity of the French to preserve themselves in the enemy's country.

Next came the horror of the plague. With the fall of Jaffa, the march was begun against St. Jean d'Acre. The Arabs now made common cause with the Turks. Lannes, pursuing the wild men into the passes of Nablous, was ambushed, and lost a considerable number of men. On the 18th of March the French arrived at Acre, and found that the Pasha Djezzar had cut off the head of Napoleon's envoy, and thrown his body into the sea. The English under Sir Sidney Smith, as well as the Turks, held the fortress and town. The civilized enemies had some fruitless negotiations, ending in a challenge of Bonaparte by Sir Sidney to fight a duel, a la Plantagenet! To this Napoleon answered that he had too many affairs on his hands to trouble himself with so small a matter!

Acre was besieged until the 4th of May, when the French ammunition began to fail. General Caffarelli, one of Napoleon's favorite officers, already one-legged from heroism, died from the amputation of an arm. On the 10th of the month the French made an assault, and gained the trenches. During the sixty days of the siege eight storming parties were sent against the defenses, and on one occasion the town was partly occupied; but General Duroc, who led the assault, was wounded, and the two hundred men who had gained an entrance were driven out through the breach.

Twelve sorties were made by the besieged, only to meet repulse. About the middle of May news came that one of the many Mahdis, who have so frequently arisen in Egypt, had appeared in the Nile valley. Intelligence came also that the Porte and the English government were now at one against the French. Napoleon's guns were not heavy enough, and his forces not sufficiently strong, to capture Acre; and on the 20th of May the siege was raised. The losses of the French in the Syrian campaign had reached nearly three thousand men; those of the Turks and the allies, perhaps five times that number.

Napoleon was weak in the matter of retreat. He could not retreat well. His fallings back were likely to degenerate into panic. This fact was exemplified in his withdrawal from Palestine. The march began on the 20th of May. The 22nd found the French at Cæsarea. Two days afterwards they reached Jaffa. There a pest-house had been established for those who had the plague. Napoleon ordered the fortifications of the town to be blown up; but what should be done with the hospital?

Man was never in a sadder dilemma. Bonaparte well knew that those of his sick soldiers who should be left behind would be horribly butchered as soon as the Turks should re-enter Jaffa. To take the infected with him was only to spread the disease. He went with his surgeons and aides into the plague-house, and passed among the dead and dying. He struck his boot-tops with his whip as he went along, saying, "In a few hours the Turks will be here. Let all those who have strength enough rise and come with us." None could arise. Then it was that, in a hurried consultation with his physician Desgenettes, Bonaparte proposed to anticipate with a portion of laudanum and a painless exit the cruel death which he saw to be inevitable. For this proposition he has been condemned by a sentimental world—against all reason and humanity. His project was just such as a humane man would propose for his own brother under the cruel alternative then presented.

The returning expedition reached Cairo on the 14th of June. Affairs in Egypt were already in a distracted condition. El-Mahdi was crying out like a prophet in Bohahireh. The fellahs and Arabs were rallying to his standard. Murad Bey was returning with his forces from Upper Egypt, to form a junction with the Mahdi's rout at the Natron lakes. Meanwhile, a force of about fifteen thousand, commanded by Mustapha Pasha and under conduct of English ships, arrived at Aboukir. A division of French, under General Marmont, held Alexandria; but that officer would be unable to keep the city against the gathering forces of the enemy.

Napoleon hastily marched against the Turks and English at Aboukir. Here, on the 25th of July, 1799, with only five thousand men, he attacked the enemy, three times as strong in numbers, and gained a victory so signal as almost to counterbalance the disaster of the year before, when Brueys's fleet at the same place was annihilated. In the negotiation that followed between Bonaparte and the English Admiral, the former obtained a copy of the French Gazette, of Frankfort, informing him of the condition of affairs in Europe. For ten months he had received virtually no news at all from his own country. The French army had to all intents been blockaded in Egypt and Palestine. "Heavens!" the General cried out; "my presentiment has been verified. The fools have lost Italy! All the fruits of our victories are gone. I must leave Egypt!"

It was necessary that Napoleon should be secret as well as expeditious. He informed the divan of Cairo that he should be absent briefly in the Delta. Afterwards he published a bulletin to the army, saying that he was going to France, but would soon be back again. The command should remain with General Kleber, who was truly said to have the confidence of the General-in-chief. Berthier and Lannes were to accompany the commander to France. Two frigates, the Muiron and the Carrere, were quickly prepared, and, on the 23rd of August, a company of about five hundred men went on board with Napoleon.

By keeping close to the African shore the vessels were enabled to escape detection. After twenty-one days the site of Carthage was passed, and the danger was over. On the 1st of October the ships were driven in at Ajaccio. Bourrienne narrates the comical circumstance that the fretful and impatient Bonaparte was obliged for about a week to stand godfather for one-fourth of the recently born children in Ajaccio; the hero was now popular at the place of his birth!

While detained in his native island Napoleon learned of the disastrous battle of Novi, the death of Joubert, and all the recent misfortunes of France. On leaving Ajaccio, his ship was followed by two English vessels, and well nigh taken; but on the 8th of October, he reached the roadway of Frejus and was safe. The enthusiasm of the people broke out spontaneously. They of Frejus, when warned to keep off on account of the possible infection of the French, said, "All right; we prefer the plague to the Austrians!" Bonaparte left immediately for Paris, by the Bourbonnais road. At Aix and Lyons he was received with wild acclaim. Nobody stopped to inquire whether the Egyptian campaign had been wholly successful or not. The French simply claimed everything, and shouted.

On the 16th of October Napoleon entered Paris. Josephine came to greet him, and the suspicions against her, with which his mind had been poisoned by some recitals of Junot in Egypt, were soon dispelled. An interview with the Directory followed on the next day, and it became evident that the relations between Napoleon and that body were already strained. The General informed himself of everything; and it was not long till he conceived the project of getting himself chosen a Director, with the ulterior design of overthrowing the existing order.

JOHN CLARK RIDPATH.

The Woman Question.

"What do you think of the woman question, major?" asked the judge.

"I think it is asked much more often than is necessary, judge."

"What do you mean?"

"I am speaking of the woman question. I understand that to be the subject of your inquiry."

"But what do you understand to be the woman question?"

"Is my hat on straight?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

BAMBERGER'S
"THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE"
147 and 149 Market Street,
NEWARK, N. J.

BOYS' CLOTHING.

That boy of yours needs clothing that will stand the romping and jumping and running around that boys always do It's here, made in the right way—wear—resisting, perfect-fitting and sewed strongly.

Four Special lots for this week!

Boys' Knee Pants

Cheviots, worsteds and cassamere's well made with strong waist bands, sizes 3 to 15, usually 89 to 98c, at 49c.

Boys' Fauntleroy Blouses

Extra quality, white lawn, trimmed with colored insertion, sizes 2 to 8, usually 79c, at 49c.

Boys' Fauntleroy Suits

All-wool, fancy trimmed, pants embroidered with bows and buckle, sizes 3 to 7, regular $2.69, at $1.73.

Boys' Fauntleroy Suits

Finished in best manner, sizes 4 to 15, with long cut coats, and pants with taped seams, regular $2.89, at $1.98.

L. BAMBERGER & CO.,
147 and 149 Market st., Newark.
Free delivery everywhere. Prompt attention given to mail orders.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY.

PLAINFIELD LISTENS TO THE FOREIGN MISSIONS CALL.

Earnest Workers from the World's Broad Field Reiterate the Final Command of the Saviour.

The missionary rally of the Christian Alliance held in the Crescent Avenue Church last night was fairly well attended! The first address was by Rev. Mr. Simpson, who confined his talk to foreign missions, and the second by Rev. Stephen Merritt. Both seemed to be filled with enthusiasm, and gave interesting and profitable talks.

Mr. Simpson said in substance: The sectarian lines are practically broken down in missions. We forget the little differences, and unite under the blood-stained banner of Christ to give the Gospel to all nations. We should all believe in foreign missions. We should be missionaries either abroad or at home. All can live lives that will do mission work, and it is our duty to do this. If you read the last words of Christ, you will see that he commissions all Christians to spread the Gospel to the whole world. None can hide from this personal responsibility. We are the last people who should refuse the work of foreign missions, for it is the stream from which we have drunk. It is not doing good which God always demands, but it is doing the particular good in the right place. I believe in foreign missions; it is truest humanity, and it is the only thing that can remedy that feeling coming from a knowledge that our brethren in foreign lands are dying without ever hearing of the Saviour. Another reason I believe in foreign missions is that it is the true impulse of a true heart. It is the greatest blessing that one can have, to be interested in the salvation of humanity. A fourth reason for my belief in foreign missions is that it inspires a mighty hope of the Lord's coming—a time when sin and sorrow will be obliterated. The last point is that Jesus is intensely busy, making the way for all nations, and he is beckoning us to follow on.

At the conclusion of Mr. Simpson's talk Miss Louise Sheppard of New York sang a solo, which was rendered in a beautiful soprano voice of great range and clearness of tone.

Rev. Mr. Merritt spoke particularly of the influence of the Holy Ghost on one's character, and reiterated many points which he made in his lecture delivered in the Y. M. C. A. Hall some time ago. He considered that the work of foreign missions broadened the character of all who came in contact with it.

Boycotting Plainfield Garbage.

No more refuse of any kind will be permitted to be dumped by ashmen and scavengers from this city within the borough limits. They must find dumping grounds on this side of the brook. The marshals have been notified by the Council to put a stop to it, saying that they have enough tin cans and other rubbish, and to spare, already over there, of their own.

—Thomas M. Kane, of Middletown, N. Y., was in Plainfield today making arrangements for a sale of the Bacon property on Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, by public auction Saturday, May 18. Full particulars of the sale of this very desirable property, to close the estate, will be made by posters and advertisement in the Plainfield papers next week.

CAPT. ROBT. COOK, Camden, N. J., says:

"I had been seriously troubled for some time with indigestion, constipation, and a weak stomach, my system becoming all run down, and losing fifty pounds in weight. I had about given up hopes of again being a well man, when I came across which soon restored me to health, I gaining twenty-five pounds in three weeks. Give them a trial and see what they will do for you."

Dr. Deane's
Dyspepsia Pills,

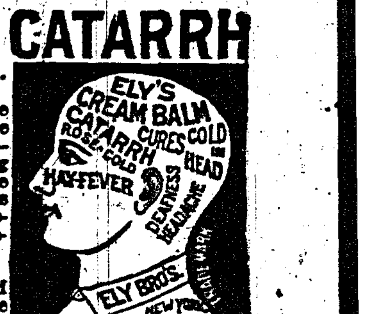
At all druggists', 25 cents. Send to us for a free sample if you have indigestion.

DR. J. A. DEANE CO.,
Kingston, New York.



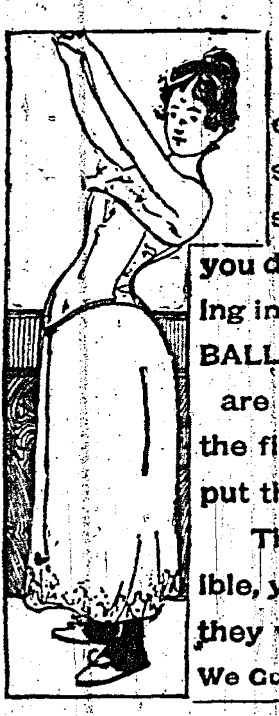
CATARRH

DIRECTIONS for using CREAM BALM.

Apply a particle of the Balm well up into the nostrils. After a moment draw a strong breath through the nose. Use three times a day, after meals preferred, and before retiring.

ELY'S CREAM BALM opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from colds, restores the senses of taste and smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once. Price 50c at druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren street, New York.

COLD IN HEAD



No need of wearing a shabby Corset, because you dislike breaking in a new one. BALL'S CORSETS are comfortable the first time you put them on. They are flexible, yet rigid, and they won't break.

We Guarantee them.

There is one DRESS STAY that
Won't melt apart,
Can't cut through the dress,
Don't stay bent.
It is
BALL'S PEERLESS.
All lengths; all colors.

DEATHS.

TITSWORTH—At Dunellen, May 6, 1895, Mrs. Hannah Sheppard Titsworth, wife of Mr. Isaac D. Titsworth.

Relatives and friends are very respectfully invited to attend the funeral service at her late residence, on Thursday, May 9, at 3 p. m. 2

TERRY—In this city, Monday May 6, 1895, Mrs. Phebe C. Terry in her 85th year.

Funeral services from the residence of her son-in-law Eugene W. Brokaw, 240 East Fourth street. Thursday, May 9, at 2 p. m.

Interment in Westfield, N. J.

FOX—Suddenly at Chicago, May 6, 1895 Sheridan F., son of Emma F. and the late Charles J. Fox, of Plainfield, N. J., in the 32nd year of his age. Funeral private.

HILLMAN—At DeLand, Florida, April 30, Samuel T. Hillman.

Funeral at First Baptist Church, West Seventy-ninth street and Boulevard, New York, Sunday, May 5, at 8 p. m.

ADAMS—Suddenly in North Plainfield, May 4, 1895, of apoplexy, Jacob T. Adams.

Funeral services from his late residence, 115 Duer street, corner of Linden avenue, Tuesday, May 7, at 2:30 p. m. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited.

DUNHAM—In this city, Thursday, May 2, 1895, Mrs. Effie Dunam.

Funeral services from Emanuel Baptist Church, colored, on Fillmore street, Sunday, May 5, at 2:30 p. m.

PANGBORN—Suddenly, in North Plainfield, Saturday, May 4, 1895, Isaac W. Pangborn.

Funeral services from his late residence, 31 Rockview avenue, Wednesday, May 8, at 2:30 p. m. 5 6 2

WANTED—Small farm within easy reach of Plainfield station or Dunellen. W. O. Stoddard, Madison, N. J. 4 23 2-c

HOUSE and building lots for sale in Westfield, N. J., high ground, good neighborhood, convenient to depot. Address box 104 Westfield N. J. 3 24 6-3 28 4 c

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED MANURES
ALBERT'S MANURES.
Horticultural,
Garden,
Special Garden,
Vineyard,
Fruit-tree.

No Sand. No Dirt. No Organic Matter. Nothing but Pure, Soluble, and Immediately Available Plant-foods COMBINED with each other.

Garden Manures: Nitrogen, 13 per cent; Available Phos. Acid, 14 per cent; Potash, 20 per cent.

The others are equally concentrated. Prices and Booklet on request.

ROBT. L. MERWIN & CO., Gen'l Agts., United States
88 Wall Street, New York.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1895. NO. 20

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

HE PLAYED DETECTIVE.

Smart Princeton Student Foiled Again in Plainfield.

WAS AFTER WILD-WEST GAMBLERS.

Disguised in Ed Martin's Old Clothes, and Armed with Two Warrants and a Revolver, He Arrests His Man, and Then Has the Law Laid Down by Counselor Marsh.

From The Press of May 14.

In Princeton last week, one of the janitors attached to the college was fleeced out of a sum of money by the shell game at the Wild West Show which appeared in Plainfield yesterday. The students took it on themselves to ferret out the guilty man and bring him to justice. A fund was raised for the purpose, and a student, by name James McGuire, was delegated to do the detective work. A Princeton justice issued a warrant for the arrest of a "man unknown" on the charge of keeping a gambling house, and deputized the student as an officer to serve the warrant.

The detective-student started out on his mission, and followed the show into several towns. But he had no accurate description of the man who worked the college janitor, and his efforts were proving something like a wildgoose chase. However, he kept diligently at work, and finally made the acquaintance of two of the tent men who had just quit the show. By degrees he took them into his confidence, and finally approached them to tell him who the sharpers were that had worked the man in Princeton. This they said they would do, claiming to possess the required information. To that end he made arrangements to meet them, and came to this city yesterday.

At 6:30 yesterday morning Edward Martin, the usher of the North avenue station, noticed two tough-looking tramps in the waiting room. He ordered them out of the station. A short time after that, one of the party came back to the station and told Martin that they were looking for a Princeton College student, and why.

He thought nothing more of it until 4:15 in the afternoon, when a well dressed young man entered the station and asked if he had seen two men around during the day, describing the tramps. Martin said that he had, and asked him if he was n't the man looking for the sharpers. He admitted that he was, and then took Martin into his confidence. He asked Martin if he did n't have an old suit of clothes that he could lend him so that he could hide his identity. Martin agreed to the loan, and McGuire left, saying that he was going up to the the circus grounds and that he would be back later and put on his disguise.

About 7:30 McGuire and Martin took the old clothes, which consisted of a black cheviot suit, striped shirt, and a slouch hat, armed himself with Martin's revolver, and went to Reynolds's drug store, where permission was secured to make the change. When McGuire was made up he resembled a workingman, whose face was covered with smut.

Previous to this, however, he had been before Justice Newcorn, who endorsed the warrants which he possessed, one being from Princeton, and another from Perth Amboy.

As soon as he completed his disguise he started for the circus grounds, and on arriving there sought out Sergeant Kiely, explaining his mission and identity to him. He asked the Sergeant to take the warrants and arrest the man whom he should identify. This Kiely agreed to do, the warrants appearing to be legal. The two then went over to the main entrance where a cluster of men were standing and McGuire selected a thick set man as the guilty one and he was placed under arrest.

The man set up a great claim of innocence, and his friends were interposing for him that it must be a case of mistaken identity and various other arguments, when Chief Grant came along and told the Sergeant to take him to the station house.

The two officers, McGuire and the arrested man, who gave his name as Morris W. Martin, came on down to the police station, where Justice Newcorn was sent for and the man arraigned on the warrant charging him with keeping a disorderly house.

Before this could be accomplished Martin's friends called on Craig A. Marsh at his home and employed him to defend the man.

Before the Justice, Lawyer Marsh made the claim that the warrant under which he was arrested was defective in the fact that no name was specified and no description whatsoever was given of the guilty one. On these grounds Justice Newcorn released Martin, who immediately left town.

McGuire also quickly changed from his disguise back to his own garb, and left town on the 9:55 train, much crestfallen that all his efforts should have been fruitless after such hard work—much of which would have been a credit to the metropolitan detectives.

As soon as Martin was placed in the police station, Sergeant Kiely hurried back to the circus grounds. He had been there but a few moments when Eugene Sullivan, of Hampton Junction, reported to Special Officer Carney that he had been buncoed out of $40 in the sideshow by the shell game, and he wanted the sharper arrested.

The two officers hurried through the side of the tent. Here they learned that the sharper had slid out of the tent as soon as he had procured the money. Bystanders all said that a colored man assisted the sharper, and a search was made for him. He was found and arrested. When arraigned before Justice Newcorn nothing could be proved against him, and he also was discharged. He gave his name as Walter Johnson.

SEWER BEDS AND THE POOR

Suggestion that the City Establish Both Its Farms in the Same Locality.

Finances is what concerns the Citizens Organized Aid just now, and a good portion of the monthly meeting of the council in the Crescent Avenue Church Tuesday was devoted to that problem.

The committee on employment reported that they had been quite successful in providing employment in domestic service for those who showed a disposition to work.

The special committee appointed to confer with the alms committee of the Common Council with reference to the establishment of an almshouse reported that matters had progressed so far that the Common Council had set aside enough money to purchase the necessary property. Chairman Mason Tyler added, however, that the proposition was being held in abeyance by the Councilmen, awaiting a decision in reference to the location and purchase of a sewer farm by the city.

It had been suggested that when such a property had been acquired, it would make a good and practical place for the erection of a poorhouse, for then those that were able could be employed by the city on the farm, and thus to a certain extent pay for their keeping.

The committee of co-operation recommended that the description of habitual beggars, who were frauds in their pretensions, be published in the newspapers. After much discussion, pro and con, it was adopted.

WHY NOT IN PLAINFIELD, TOO?

Elizabeth Coal Dealers Are Selling at Lower Rates Than in 16 Years.

Many of the coal dealers in Elizabeth have lowered the price per ton of the best grades of coal to $4.15, a drop of 35 cents. In quoting this rate the dealers are giving the public the advantage of the reduction on the wholesale prices, and also cutting off some of their own margin. A reduction is customary in the Spring, but coal has not been so cheap in 16 years before.

Flying the Borough Kyte.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

After a long courtship, with its proverbial vicissitudes, the village of Fanwood will decide May 18 whether she will remain with her sister village of Scotch Plains in the family of the township, or become the "common-law wife" of the Central New Jersey Land and Improvement Company and the morganatic wife of the Philadelphia and New York Traction Company; and in exchange for her independence and property, receive the empty title of "Borough Commission".

"Then Earth the signal gives, with laboring cries
Great Juno speeds the nuptial mysteries,
The blushing lightning tells the conscious sky,
And wood nymphs shriek from craggy
summits high.
O sad event of unavailing woe!
Oh deed! thou dark abode of mischief, oh!"

A FANWOODER.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brockton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely. For sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy.

LOST THROUGH GREED.

Plainfield Pension Case Fully Investigated.

LUDL[illegible] HIMSELF WAS TO BLAME.

The United States Government Fully Repudiates the Attack Made on Its Pension Department, and Shows the Complainant to Be Unworthy of Government Assistance.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

In an article published in another paper of May 8 a great injustice was alleged to an old soldier, W. H. Ludlow. This article has been submitted to the Commissioner of Pensions, and herewith you have his report on the case. Please be good enough to publish it.

Nemo.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.
BUREAU OF PENSIONS,
DESK OF THE FIRST DEPUTY COMMISSIONER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4, 1895.

E. T. Matthews, Esq., 1743 F street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR:—Referring to the claim of William H. Ludlow, Co. I. 35th N. J., Ctf. No. 494,312, I have to state that I have made a careful examination of all the papers. I find that Mr. Ludlow filed an application Feb. 5, 1889, in which he alleged pneumonia and resulting disease of lungs. This claim was allowed and certificate issued at the rate of $17 from Feb. 5, 1889. The claimant filed an application for increase Dec. 8, 1890, and under that application he was examined June 10, 1891, the Board of Surgeons reporting that he was not disabled by disease of lungs, but on the contrary was sound and healthy in all his organs. Not being satisfied with this report, he was ordered again for examination and was examined Jan. 14, 1894, with the same result.

Accordingly, notice was sent him January 9, 1895, that he would be given thirty days in which to show cause why his name should not be dropped from the rolls, agreeably to the Act of Dec. 21, 1893. In response to this notice he filed his own affidavit and the affidavits of two laymen, neither of whom described a disability from disease of lungs. Notwithstanding this fact, and in order that no injustice be done, he was again ordered for examination, the result of which was the same as the two previous ones. It will be noticed that since the allowance of the claim he has been examined by NINE surgeons of this Bureau, none of whom could find a disability from the pensioned cause. On the 24th of April last the Pension Agent was notified to drop his name from the rolls. There was nothing left for this Bureau to do but to take such action, in face of the showing of the medical boards.

Mr. Ludlow himself admits that the surgeon who made the record in his case in the hospital made a mistake, and that the disability he was suffering from was not "pneumonia", as recorded by the surgeon, but "rheumatism", FOR WHICH HE HAS NEVER FILED AN APPLICATION.

I will state further that the rate (seventeen dollars per month) allowed in this case was far in excess of that justified by the finding of the board of examining surgeons, (on which the claim was originally allowed)—that examination showing but a very slight disability, if any, from the alleged disease of lungs.

I wish to call your attention to the fact that Mr. Ludlow, in his article submitted, FAILS TO STATE THE NATURE OF THE DISABILITY FOR WHICH HE WAS PENSIONED.

I am, sir,
Yours truly,
D. I. MURPHY.
First Deputy Commissioner.

WANTED FOR FORGERY.

Joseph Milligan Alleged to Have Signed the Name of D. C. Ivins & Co., to a Release Without Authority.

Justice Nash Wednesday issued a warrant for the arrest of Joseph Milligan, a mason contractor living on North avenue, on the charge of forging the firm name of D. C. Ivins & Co., to two releases of liens on a house which was recently built for John G. Bicknell on South avenue. The contractors were Pope Brothers, who sublei the mason work to Milligan. Ivins & Co. has furnished a portion of the material amounting to about $70, and it was for the release of this claim that he committted the forgery. Milligan has left town.

A Good Horse Gone.

"Orcutt", the horse valued at $2,500 and owned by Banker Arkell of Westfield, which was taken sick in Quinn's blacksmith shop on East Fourth street two weeks ago, died this morning. Mr. Arkell gave up all hopes of the recovery of the animal, and a few days ago told Dr. Pocock that if he would pull him through to good health he could have the horse. Dr. Pocock accepted the gift, and a day or two after was offered $500 for the horse just as he lay, but refused the proposition, as the steed appeared to be gaining. However, he had a sinking spell last night, and this morning expired.

Mr. D. Wiley, ex-postmaster, Black Breek, N. C., was so badly afflicted with rheumatism that he was only able to hobble around with canes, and even then it caused him great pain. After using Chamberlain's Pain Balm he was so much improved that he threw away his canes. He says this liniment did him more good than all other medicine and treatment put together. For sale at 50 cents per bottle at Reynolds's Pharmacy.

CLOSE OF THE CHORAL.

Final Concert of the Season a Great Success.

TWO MASTERPIECES RENDERED.

Superb Production of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and Rossini's "Stabat Mater"—It Was Pronounced the Best Concert Ever Given by the Society.

From The Press of May 15.

In its production of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" the Plainfield Choral Society Tuesday reached the highest pinnacle of success ever attained by a local association of vocalists. Of the "Hymn of Praise" that said, which was nothing but encouraging approbation, marks the seal of approval set by the audience. Its rendition was a process of introduction to the masterpiece which followed. The songs of praise were sung by voices whose intonations amplified the sentiment of Mendelssohn's choicest harmony. But the grandeur of the "Stabat Mater" as it was sung last night seemed to remove from immediate consideration the less inspiring yet wholly beautiful music which opened the programme of the last concert for the present season of the Plainfield Choral Society.

Seldom except in the grand opera are Plainfielders accorded an opportunity of hearing such a magnificent voice as that which carried the bass solos last evening. Eric F. Bushnell captured the audience by storm, for it is but fair to say that his full rich tones received instant recognition. As much to him alone as to any other may the splendid success of the Stabat Mater production be assigned. Without his support the quartette would have been enjoyable, not perfect. The quality of Mr. Bushnell's voice could be accurately guaged, because his score ranged widely; and yet he never faltered in tone nor failed in expression. His solos were rare bits of harmony that swept intact to the farthermost corners of the opera house; and in the four-part pieces his excellent support enhanced the effect of the other voices materially.

Mr. Bushnell was not alone in making the better impression in the latter half of the programme. The other soloists also seemed to be retaining their vocal power for the crowning work of the society. Miss Eleanor Meredith, soprano, was particularly acceptable in Rossini's wonderful work, and Mrs. Carl Alves appeared to much better advantage in that than she did in the less familiar "Hymn of Praise".

Probably H. Evans Williams, tenor, was more annoyed at his treacherous throat than were his hearers. It was as easy to see that Mr. Williams was tortured with a cold as it was to recognize the fact that he ordinarily must be possessed of a beautifully clear and sweet voice of no mean range. It was very disappointing to everyone, who realized that Mr. Williams was straining every nerve to acquit himself creditably, when he failed to reach the one note in his score that always marks the successful culmination of the tenor's solo part.

The Society's portion of the evening's programme was carried through with marked zest. It is to be expected that the closing concert in the Choral's course is always the best. Under Mr. Fitzhugh's leadership any other circumstance would be impossible. Careful training by him, and receptive study on the part of the society members, combined last night in making possible the most excellent concert produced in this city since Mr. Fitzhugh began his labors. The most marked improvement was noticeable in the volume and quality of the bass voices. That balance was needed in the bass support was urged in The Press criticism of the last concert, and the admonition was heeded, another remedy applied in a most satisfactory manner. It is doubtful if a better male chorus ever sang under Mr. Fitzhugh, than that which last night formed the groundwork of a beautiful production. To the bass voices belong the credit of making the greatest advance in the local society's work this season.

The orchestral introduction to the "Hymn of Praise", of a full half hour's duration, was seemingly perfect. The New York Philharmonic Society members may be depended upon always to give a finished performance, there being no exception, so far as their appearances in this city are concerned, to prove the rule. Their work last evening was unusually exacting, but in no way disappointing, and it is to be anticipated that next season they will be retained for support in every concert instead of the first and last, as has been the custom heretofore.

VETERANS AND SONS.

Plainfield and Somerville Unite in an Enjoyable Campfire.

A large audience, consisting of members of General Wadsworth Post, G. A. R., and Sons of Veterans, of Somerville, and John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., of this city, together with friends, gathered in Arcanum Hall, Somerville, on Tuesday, to enjoy a campfire.

The affair was arranged by Judge Advocate J. R. Dungan and Sergeant of Guard Walter Vanderhoff of Camp 40, and First Sergeant H. J. Martin and Camp Council Frank Clarkson of Camp 28, and was eminently successful in every respect. After the singing of the opening ode, J. R. Dungan took charge, and announced a recitation by Miss Murith Houston, which was admirably rendered.

The next number was a vocal solo by William Reiusswig, accompanied by Mrs. William Quick. His singing was enjoyed exceedingly, and as an encore he gave "Out on the Deep".

Hon. J. D. Bartine was then introduced, and gave one of the best and most patriotic addresses ever listened to. It inspired the hearts of all who heard him to fully realize the privileges of American citizenship. Among other things he said that the people of the old world had been living under restraint so long that they had learned to love it, while we on the other hand had enjoyed our liberty and freedom in a like measure, and likewise had learned to love it. He traced in a most interesting way the history of liberty and freedom and told what it cost to possess it. Frequently during his remarks the enthusiasm of the audience broke forth in hearty applause.

Miss Minnie Carkhuff followed with an impressive recitation "Lady Maude's Oath", and Horace J. Martin rendered two vocal solos that were heartily received.

One of the best numbers was the recitation, "Caleb's Courtship", by Miss Ollie Klotz, which was received with loud applause.

A finely rendered instrumental solo by Mrs. Wm. Quick was followed by a soul-stirring recitation by Alvah Noll, entitled "Stars and Stripes".

H S. Thatcher was introduced, and gave a touching recitation, "My Old Canteen", that brought fond memories to the veterans present. As an encore, "Barbara Fretchie" was given, by request.

Two excellent cornet solos by Benjamin J. LaVere, accompanied by George Rogers on the piano, were thoroughly appreciated.

Recitations by Miss Lucy Smith and Miss Jessie Gardner, were given hearty applause, for their meritorious rendition.

George Jenkins and Arthur Demaray rendered two very fine banjo duets that were enjoyed.

Col. James E Pierson, Commander of the New Jersey Division, was introduced, and made a few remarks that were excellent and very appropriate. He related an interesting incident of how he mustered a Ladies Aid Society at Riverside. It started in with 40 members and the first night the Judge Advocate informed him that there were ninety-seven opinions rendered in regard to the society.

John H. Carney was the last on the programme, but not the least by any means, for Jack struck the humorous side of all the leading topics of the day, and the audience was kept in a state of laughter continually. His German sayings were original and pointed, and one had only to look at him to be convinced of his ability to produce all that was funny in the German. His representation of a soldier on parade was amusing in the extreme. Of course, Jack was given an encore, and he still continued to cause merriment, and even after the affair was over and the people were going home they were siill laughing.

After the singing of the closing ode, the G. A. R. women served excellent refreshments in abundance, and thus was brought to a close the first joint campfire, which was genuinely successful.

—The Boys Club will be entertained Friday evening by L. B. C. Josephs of Newark, who will give a series of readings that will be interesting to the youngsters.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith, of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy.

MUST HAVE FIRESCAPES

Counselor Marsh Tells the Board the Law.

BRYANT SCHOOL'S NEED EMPHASIZED

No Hall Yet Secured for Commencement, Because the June Controller of Music Hall Has Not Been Found—Committees on Prizes Appointed—Truant Law to Be Enforced.

A special meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education was held Monday evening, all the members except Dr. Jenkins being present, and also the clerk, Mr. Clark, who has been ill a long time.

Mr. Finch stated the meeting to be for the appointment of teachers, and to make arrangements for the Commencement exercises in June.

The Committee on Teachers were not ready to report, and the matter was laid over until another meeting.

Mr. Lovell then offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That in the future the teachers in the employ of this Board be paid their annual salary in ten equal payments, on the first of each month, beginning with October of each year. In case of absence on days when the schools are in session, one two-hundredth part of the annual salary shall be deducted for each day's absence in making up the pay roll for ensuing month, but no reduction shall be made for legal holidays or days in which the schools are closed by order of the Board."

President Probasco appointed Rev. C. E. Herring, Eugene Hatch and F. W. Runyon a committee to award the prizes for English composition; and for penmanship, W. F. Arnold, Fred. MacDonald and O. B. Leonard were appointed.

The Committee on Music stated that the Seventh Regiment orchestra had been secured for Commencement, at the same price as last year.

Dr. Probasco, as chairman of the Committee on Hall, reported that he had been to see William Stillman about Music Hall and was told that he had nothing to do with the hall till Sept. 1. He then went to see Joseph Sohl, and he informed him that on June 1 his contract expired. The doctor thought there would be no trouble in securing the hall, though as yet he had been unable to find the owner.

The matter of securing police for Commencement was left with Dr. Jenkins.

Dr. Probasco read a letter from Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh giving his opinion in regard to placing firescapes on the Bryant School, which he claimed the Board would have to do as required by law. The matter was referred to the Building Committee.

Superintendent Maxson stated that a pupil named Willie Kiss had been more or less truant, and had been expelled twice during the year. His mother had promised that he would behave, and he thought he would give him another trial, but it proved to be futile. He thought the boy was incorrigible, and an inveterate truant. He recommended that the truant officer enforce the truant law in regard to him. Mr. Lounsbury moved that Mr. Maxson's recommendation be concurred in, and Mr. Finch seconded it. The motion was adopted.

The Board adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

The County Fair.

Blue-and-white polka dot are the colors that Tim, the tanner, will wear when riding Abby's colt, Cold Molasses, in "The County Fair" sweepstakes in Music Hall Friday night, and much interest is expected over this exciting episode.

"The County Fair", as the majority of theatre-goers are aware, has been the perennial attraction at the Union Square Theatre, New York, for three years. Charles Barnard, who wrote the comedy, struck a soft, responsive chord in the public's bosom when he played upon their equine affections.

—"Demonstration and Intensification" will be the subject of a lecture which will be delivered by Harold Serrell before the Camera Club next Tuesday evening in their rooms in the Babcock Building.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is, in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucous, and if the mucous discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

THE STROKE OF RUIN.

"But haven't you yet seen her?"

"Seen her—how should I know? Monsieur Harding forgets the conditions." He laughed in his atrociously frivolous French way.

"I beg pardon," said Harding, quickly; I had, indeed, forgotten that I did not know her name, her place of residence, nor yet even the color of her eyes. Yes, I will go to the opera with you. Everybody goes, eh?"

"Not everybody; but everybody of the best. It is the distinction; we draw the line in front of the boxes."

Boyle Harding made no answer. He had come South a fortnight past with letters of introduction to influential people, but he was not seeking society; a quiet sojourn in New Orleans with his eyes and ears open suited him better. He was young, however, brimful of blood and surcharged with a poet's imagination.

What was, perhaps, just the thing he would have most desired, came to him unexpectedly one day. It was the twinkle of romance in the gloom of Royal street.

He suddenly met a beautiful young woman face to face at the door of Garcin's old book store, a dingy hole where you find the contents of French libraries that have been sold at successive sales or picked up at auction. Warm eyes exchanged an involuntary look which seemed to have a glow of inquiry struck out of iris points. Harding was electrified, and impulsively lifted his hat. She passed him with a half smile, leaving a breath of violets and the rustle of a gown quietly elegant in the air round her.

Harding and his young creole friend set out on foot, it was but a short step to the opera house, and as they went along Rapin was prattling on the subject of fencing, always a great vogue with the jeunesse doree of New Orleans. He was himself a rich orphan, living upon an almost unlimited income, and had long been a confirmed habitue of the fencing halls. Having seen some rapiers and foils in Harding's rooms he was saying:

"But you must be interested in sword play—in fencing. It is the noblest of all the exercises for gentlemen, and your physique is precisely made up for it. You must be a master, or you could be."

"I have had good masters," Harding replied in an invasive tone, "but I am losing interest in it."

"Your masters were in New York?"

"No; Paris. I had M. Duval for three years."

"M. Duval! You had M. Charles Duval for three years?"

"Yes."

"Ah, what fortune! He, and he only, teaches the 'stroke of ruin,' the pass which pierces across from shoulder to shoulder, disabling the victim for life, yet never killing him!" Rapin spoke enthusiastically, and after a moment's pause added almost breathlessly:

"And you learned his stroke! Oh, but I am overjoyed; and you will teach me to do it? Ah, Monsieur, I shall be your life long debtor. I have dreamed of that incomparable thrust; I have made two journeys to Paris to learn it; but, you must know, M. Duval is an ancient enemy of my father's. I could not go to him, and his pupils are so few and so, so distinguished and exclusive that I could not reach one of them."

Harding laughed at the youth's frankness and told him pleasantly that he should be glad to give him the secret instruction. Thereupon Rapin almost hugged him, and they were just entering the opera house.

Harding and Rapin were the only persons in their box, which was well to one side of the great curve. On the stage a celebrated ballet favorite was kicking featly through one of her captivating passages.

"We will begin the lessons to-morrow," murmured Rapin; "I shall be an apt scholar, Monsieur."

"Yes," said Harding, absently. He was gazing along the great sweep of beauty and light.

"But excuse me a moment or two," the creole added after a while when the curtain was down. "I am going to call at the box of a friend."

He went and Harding continued his survey, which, now that his eyes had somewhat accustomed themselves to the glamour, became more real and absorbingly interesting.

Presently he saw Rapin in a box, a magnificent one, near the center, talking with a tall young woman—and it was she. There could be no doubt for a moment; the thrill through Harding's heart told as much as the girl's resplendent, yet, in a way, subdued beauty.

Harding's eyes were fixed; the trance of that old time love which men used to acknowledge was upon him. His strong, healthy, boyish nature plunged into the thick of a passion romance as fervid as it was pure and sincere. And at the very central moment she turned from Rapin and looked straight at him. Moreover, he could see a light of quick interest come into her face. They were speaking of him.

The prosy fact was that Rapin, in his enthusiastic way, had been telling Mlle. Marie de Montmartin—that was her name—about his good fortune in finding a master to teach him the "stroke of ruin," and he had directed her attention to the young man in his box. But, for Mlle. Marie de Montmartin, we may as well say that she glanced mechanically, then looked again. Harding was a superbly handsome young athlete, a flower of perfect manhood, with a face never to be forgotten by any woman.

Rapin presently returned to the box, bringing with him, or at least Harding fancied it, a breath of that exquisite violet perfume which had been haunting Harding's memory for days and nights together.

"Who is she—the young lady in the box where you've been?"

The abrupt inquiry and a certain timbre of Harding's voice betrayed his emotion to the quick creole.

"Oh, she—that is Mlle. Marie de Montmartin. Lovely, isn't she? You might envy me, M. Harding. She is my betrothed."

"Ah——," Harding hesitated and a palish change passed over his face, like a fleece cloud over some glorified space of sky. Then he added, "I do envy you. Yes, she is the most beautiful girl that I have ever seen. She is the one I met in the old book store. You are quick to find."

Rapin colored.

"Thank you," he said as the curtain went up and the prima donna strode forth with a superb swing.

The next day Rapin came to Harding's rooms for his initial lesson; but the young man begged a postponement; he was not feeling in good form, he said, and was averse to exercise.

And now Harding's powerful letters of introduction came into play. The only son of Gen. Stanhope Harding had the key to open even the exclusive gate of the mansion wherein the ancient family traditions of Montmartin were kept in an atmosphere of their own. Here the young man found Mlle. Marie even more fascinating than his imagination had pictured her.

We must acquit him; he did not deliberately seek to gain her affections; indeed, there was no need to seek; she claimed him at sight, and the way was love's sweetest path. Rapin was forgotten as a merely conventional lover must always be when the true one comes rushing in all aglow and all powerful.

Marie's parents were delighted. There was no obstacle, religious or other, and an alliance with the Harding family was something to be proud of. So, in due course of time, the engagement was announced and the wedding day approached.

Harding had been sent to New York; he returned late in November, radiant with happy aspirations, and took rooms as before, but now in the St. Charles. He brought some friends with him, and his parents would be coming a little later.

I have said that a lover is a fool. His vanity, moreover, cannot be overestimated, and the selfishness of his passion plays him small yet irresistible tricks. Harding had a desire to go again to the old book store of Garcia, on Royal street, and have his first meeting with Marie over once more in his imagination. He slipped away from the hotel furtively and with a foolish stir in his blood.

When we go to seek an illusion we are pretty sure to find a reality. It is not the scheme of nature to humor us in luxuries. At Garcia's door Harding came abruptly face to face with Francois Rapin, whom he had not seen since the announcement of the coming nuptials. Somehow it was a surprise, but Rapin's face showed a quick smile.

Harding stopped short in his tracks, and would have probably put forth his hand in a friendly offer of salutation; but just then his hat was lightly tapped from his head by Rapin, who immediately picked it up and handed it to him, saying:

"Monsieur Harding will now remember his promise to teach me the mysterious stroke of M. Duval."

He bowed low and was gone, while a card fluttered down at Harding's feet; it bore Rapin's address.

At first Harding's heat of temper was great, but reflection led him to consult his friends, who ridiculed the thought of a duel. He was glad to escape, for, although a born fighter, this was no time to be risking his life or to be killing a man.

He had, however, consulted but one side of that advisory board which always exists in such cases. His Northern friends were unanimously opposed to the duels, but now he must be frank and lay the matter before his fiance's family.

"You must fight him, sir," said Montmartin.

"Of course there is but one way open to a gentleman," sighed Marie, "you must challenge him."

They met at sunrise under the "oaks" so well known to dueling history. Merrily clinked their rapiers for honor's sake, and Marie's. That was but about forty years ago; and yet what a distance!

Yesterday a white haired man whose shoulders drooped strangely and whose two arms dangled half paralyzed beside him walked down Royal street.

"That is Francois Rapin," said a creole to some friends. "He got that wound in the celebrated duel with Harding."

Polyglot Tom Reed.

If by any lucky stroke of fortune Tom Reed should happen to become President of the United States he will probably be the first accomplished linguist to occupy that office. Mr. Reed is passionately fond of the study of languages. Some years ago he took up French, and during the Fifty-first Congress, while acting as czar of the House of Representatives and passing through parliamentary storms of cyclonic severity, found time three days a week to go to a school of languages for his lesson in French. Later he took up Italian, and is now able to converse fluently in that language. At the present time he is studying Spanish, and if the movement to annex Cuba to the United States should succeed during Mr. Reed's hoped for regime he will have in his command of this tongue a convenient accomplishment.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Dyrenforth Outdone.

During the Moody meetings at Fort Worth, Tex., a violent wind and rain storm arose, and suddenly a large section of the east side of the Auditorium roof was blown off, creating a panic. Just prior to the storm Mr. Moody offered a prayer for rain.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Necessarily a Bad Risk.

Insurance Officer—Of what complaint did your father die?

Applicant—The jury found him guilty.—Tid-Bits.

CITY NURSE CONTINUED

Practical Charity of Local King's Daughters.

CITY UNION'S ANNUAL SESSION.

Silver Cross Followers Renew Their Work of Administering to the Sick, and Elect Officers for Another Busy Year.

The City Union of King's Daughters held their annual meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Building Thursday afternoon, and besides hearing reports of the work accomplished during the year just closed, elected new officers for the ensuing twelve months. The meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mrs. A. Walter Haviland.

The treasurer's report showed that $1,215.39 had been raised during the year, of which $443.85 was for the nurse fund. Of this fund there was left a balance of $251.60 on hand. The amount expended in charity outside of the nurse fund was $771.54. After the reports had been made, plans for the ensuing year were discussed but nothing definite decided on, except to employ a city nurse again for the coming year. It was suggested that arrangements be made to employ one of the class of trained nurses of Muhlenberg Hospital, but this was left for a later meeting to decide.

Thanks were extended to the Y. M. C. A. for the use of their rooms, and also to the Nurse Committee for their effective work.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Walter Glenney; vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Howland; recording secretary, Miss Louise Green; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Walter McGee; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Harder.

Reflecting today on the beginning of its ninth year of continuous prosperity, The Daily Press has no promises to make other than to reaffirm its determination to attend strictly to its business of getting out a newspaper. The future will develop itself. The past is a record, and is clearly and concisely stated by Ralph Moreton Hooker in his fine new work "Plainfield, N. J., Illustrated", as follows:

> The printing house of W. L. Force & Bro. was founded in 1867, and has ever since flourished on its original site at the corner of North and Park avenues. The establishment is completely equipped for all classes of the work, and from it two newspapers are issued, The Weekly Constitutionalist and The Daily Press. The weekly has been published continuously from January 2, 1868; and the daily from May 10, 1887. The Constitutionalist, always conducted as a stanch Democratic journal, has a large local and rural constituency; and The Press is the popular leader in town and society. Independent in politics, and devoted to Plainfield's progress, The Press has acquired prominence throughout the State. It is enterprising, cleanly edited, and proud of its distinction of being "a newspaper, not an organ". Besides covering fully the local and general news, it has departments in literature and art which add to its popularity as Plainfield's favorite home journal. In July, 1893, occurred the death of W. L. Force, senior member of the publishing firm; and in the succeeding month Albert L. Force, the junior brother and partner, acquired sole ownership, and is today the sole proprietor of both papers. The early success of the daily was due largely to the ability and energy of James A. Demarest, managing editor from its start to August, 1893, when he left to become American Consul in Brockville, Ont. He was succeeded as managing editor by Walter Irving Clarke, for two years previous his assistant. In the Fall of 1894 The Press was changed from a four-page to an eight-page paper, and the New York Journalist remarked: "The success of the Plainfield, N. J., Daily Press, under the managing editorship of Walter Irving Clarke, has led to its enlargement from a four to an eight-page form, and it has been otherwise improved. The Daily Press is now regarded as the handsomest daily in Union County, and is a lively leader in local affairs. Its venerable parent, The Weekly Constitutionalist, has followed its example in changing from blanket sheet to modern form."

So He Can Wire Trains.

Sheriff Kyte is having a private telephone line put in between his residence and the Fanwood station. The work is being done by the theatrical electrical expert, Joseph Sohl, assisted by Walter Gibson.

—Policeman McCue now does the North avenue station duty from 4 to 7 p. m.

Insomnia

is often the result of some wearing pain, slight in itself, yet sufficient to prevent sleep. Instead of using an opiate apply an

Allcock's Porous Plaster

to the aching spot; relief will come, and with relief, sweet, refreshing sleep.

Beware of Nostrums. See that you get "ALLCOCK'S." Do not accept any other.

Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,

Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills

first purify, then invigorate the system, facilitating healthy growth.

THE CRAIG WILL CASE.

Three Lines Hastily Written on a Half-Sheet, Declared to Be a Legal Testament—The Most Peculiar Will Case Since That of Job Male.

The Orphans Court Thursday decided the famous Craig will case, by sustaining the will and dismissing the appeal. The peculiar features of the case that have drawn to it so much attention, were that in the three lines hastily written on a half-sheet of note paper, the testatrix did not call it her will; did not in any way declare that it was to take effect after her death, or as a testamentary disposition of her property; there was no attestation clause; the paper was signed when Mrs. Craig was dying.

For days and weeks before the paper was executed, Mrs. Craig suffered so intensely from sciatica that she was kept almost constantly under the influence of morphine, by order of her physician; and she had already made her will giving all her property to her favorite nephew, John Young, who was cut off entirely by the paper in question. Besides this, Mr. Young claimed that he and Mrs. Craighead agreed to make mutual wills, each willing everything to the other, and this contract could not be broken by either. He also produced both wills which he swore had been executed in accordance with the agreement. The day after the paper was executed, and while Mrs. Craighead was still living, it was submitted by Mr. Turton to a lawyer who advised that he apply to Craig A. Marsh for his legal opinion as to whether it would stand law and could be proved as a will. Upon being informed as to what took place when Mrs. Craig signed the paper and that she was not then under the influence of the morphine to such an extent as to cloud her intellect, Mr. Marsh gave a written opinion that it was a good will and could be proved as such. R. V. Lindabury, Esq., was retained by Mr. Young; and Mr. Marsh was retained by Mr. and Mrs. Turton. Then ensued just such a legal battle as is always to be expected when these two lawyers are pitted against each other.

Mr. Lindabury personally conducted for his client all the hearings at which testimony was taken, and Mr. Brunson of his office read a brief and made oral arguments. The Court held the paper to be a valid will and to have been properly proved. This gives all the property to Mr. Marsh's clients, Morgan Turton and wife of this city.

JUST LIKE OLD TIMES.

Mt. Ararat Again Defeated at Baseball by the Valiant Plaindelders.

The Y. M. C. A. members from Westfield are a nice lot of young men—they are all so down that way—but they are not in it, for a minute, with the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. athletes when it comes to playing the greatest of all games—baseball. The Westfielders came up Saturday afternoon with the intention of carrying away the honor of winning the first victory from the Plainfield boys, but at the end of the game—an eight-inning one—they needed to have just ten of their men touch the home plate to tie their opponents, the score being 16 to 6 in favor of Plainfield.

However, the playing was not brilliant on either side. This was the first game which the local team has played, and of course they did not do as well as they will be able to after a few more such contests. The members in the various positions, nevertheless, gave evidence that they are of the right kind of material to put up some stiff playing before the close of the season.

The players and their positions were as follows:

Plainfield.	Position.	Westfield.
Eagan	Catcher	Randolph
Bogert	Pitcher	Smith
McLaughlin	First base	Whitney
Miller	Second base	Bussing
Steiner	Third base	Clothority
Schoonmaker	Shortstop	O. Richerson
Schuyler	Centre field	Randolph
Sprowl	Right field	C. Richerson
Davis	Left field	Grenwold

Next Saturday a game will be played on the Crescent Oval grounds with the South Amboy team.

Baby's Narrow Escape.

The colored servant girl of Mrs. J. H. Leggett of West Front street was wheeling Mrs Leggett's infant boy, Howard Raymond, on the veranda Saturday afternoon. She left the baby carriage alone for a moment, and the wind caused it to roll off the veranda sidewise, throwing the little one out on the stone pavement, with the baby carriage on top of it. The baby's forehead and nose were cut, and its head and body bruised, but no bones were broken. When it is considered that the little one fell the height of five steps, it is miraculous that it escaped serious injury. Drs Davis and Probasco responded to telephone calls, and did all they could for the little fellow, who screamed and cried for nearly three hours. This experience should be a warning to other nurses.

—Chas. K. Moore has resigned from Col. Waring's staff, to take effect June 1.

OUR BIRTHDAY GIFT.

The Constitutionalist Appears in a New Dress.

HANDSOME AND UP TO DATE.

The Suit that Has Done Honorable Service Eight Years, Laid Aside for the Clean-Cut and Elegant Costume Which Now Adorns Its Pages.

A newspaper is like a woman—it gets to a point where it has "nothing to wear", and must have a new dress.

For eight years this paper has been appearing every week on the streets and in the homes of Plainfield, and all that time has worn the same suit. It has been a serviceable and comfortable suit; but May 10 on its birthday anniversary The Press was proud to present its parent weekly with a brand-new dress.

Again like a woman, the paper may be pardoned for pausing to admire its own attractiveness.

It is a nice dress: isn't it? Clean-cut, handsome, stylish, and up to date. Every bit of the old metal has been cast aside, and every individual piece of type and rule and border that today prints Plainfield's favorite newspaper is spick-and span from the foundry.

Twenty-eight years ago, when the office of Force Bros. was first stocked with printing material, the old established and reliable house of James Connor, type founder, supplied the goods; and ever since The Constitutionalist and The Press have dealt with that establishment. James Conner has passed to his reward, but his sons and their partners have succeeded him, and today Conner, Fendler & Co. of 16-20 Chambers street, New York, are leaders among the trade. So great confidence had we ss in this house, that it intrusted them entirely with the important work of supplying the immense amount of type and other material selected by The Press for its new dress. The orders have been quickly and faithfully executed, and today we are enabled to appear in a new birthday suit that makes it easily the handsomest paper in New Jersey.

The suit cost a pretty penny, and The Press extends its gratitude to the public for the patronage accorded its worth. Today The Press is better equipped than ever before to present the news of society, town and market, in the most attractive shape.

Great and especial care was exercised in the choice of a type for the local news columns. The body of this type (such as this article is set in) is brevier, the same as before, but the face is larger and clearer. It is the best to be had, suitable for all eyes, easy to read, and bound to wear well. The advertising type also has been chosen at much pains and expense, with a view to enable the progressive and successful merchants of the town, to present their advertisements in the most showy, substantial and effective way.

SQUIER DEFEATS ROSS AGAIN.

Though the Winner Met With an Accident, He Finished One Point Ahead.

The return match shoot between George W. Squier of North Plainfield and William Ross of Elizabeth, which took place on the Climax Gun Club grounds at Fanwood Saturday, resulted in a victory for the Plainfield shooter by one point, the score being 36 to 35. The wind was strong and the birds very lively. On the thirty-first bird both barrels of Squier's gun were accidentally discharged, the shock of which unnerved him to some extent, and came near losing the match for him. The match was 50 birds at $50 a side. The score by halve was:

First Half.

Squier..2 2 2 0 1 0 0 1 1 1 1 2 0 2 2 2 1 2 2 2 2 0 1 2 2—20
Ross....1 0 0 1 2 1 0 2 2 2 0 0 0 1 2 1 1 2 2 0 2 1 1 0 1—17

Second Half.

Squier..1 1 1 1 2 1 0 0 1 0 1 1 1 0 2 0 0 1 0 2 1 0 2 1 0—16
Ross....0 2 2 1 1 1 1 2 0 0 1 1 1 2 2 1 1 2 2 0 0 1 0 2 0—18

Totals.

Squier..36
Ross..35

Referee—Al Heritage, Jersey City; scorer—William M. Parker, Elizabeth; puller—N. H. Asphalt, Elizabeth.

At the close of the match arrangements were made between the winner and Jack Benner to shoot 50 birds at $50 a side on the same grounds, Memorial Day.

Wants a Job.

A Westfield man who must have a case of sour grapes writes as follows to the New York Evening World:

Would any of your kind readers tell me why Col. Waring is so fond of Jerseymen for the Street Cleaning Department? There is Corsa, from Plainfield; Moore, from Fanwood; Hawkins, from Westfield; and heaven only knows how many more. Being a Jerseyman I am thinking about applying myself.

—Fanwood Township has appropriated $10 towards the observance of Memorial Day, and the school children will gather flowers to be used in decorating the graves.

BRIAR PIPE GIVEN AWAY

Dukes Mixture

WITH EVERY ONE POUND bale OF DUKES MIXTURE for 35 cents

Every pipe stamped DUKES MIXTURE or ATCo

[illegible]

Estey

Pianos Organs

FULLY WARRANTED.

Moderate Prices.

Cash or Installments.

See Them Before You Buy.

ESTEY & SAXE,
5 East 14th Street, - New York.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

Cleanse the Bowels and Purify the Blood! Cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Dyspepsia, and give healthy action to the entire system.

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED MANURES

ALBERT'S MANURES

Horticultural,
Garden,
Special Garden,
Vineyard,
Fruit-tree.

No Sand. No Dirt. No Organic Matter. Nothing but Pure, Soluble, and Immediately Available Plant-foods COMBINED with each other.

Garden Manures: Nitrogen, 12 per cent; Available Phos. Acid, 14 per cent; Potash, 20 per cent.

The others are equally concentrated. Prices and Booklet on request.

ROBT. L. MERWIN & CO., Gen'l Agts., United States
88 Wall Street, New York.

Prof. A. Wehner,

TEACHER OF

The Pianoforte.

Also Voice Culture.

Graduate of the Conservatory of Leipzic, Germany, desires a few more pupils in Plainfield. References required and given. Address letters to the office of this paper.

Mizzen Peak Cottage,

Watchung Mountains,
Bound Brook, N. J.

Superior French board at moderate prices. Dinner to order. Table d' Hote 75c with ½ bottle of Mizzen Peak claret.

BOWLING ALLEY.

JEUX DE TONNEAU.

Beautiful view, fine shady grounds, sheds, stables, etc.

The Finderne

FINDERNE,
Somerset County, N. J.

Open all the year as a resort of the highest order. Driving parties will receive every attention.

High-Class Sunday Dinners.

(Table d'Hote from 1 to 3:30); steam heat; inclosed piazzas; everything immaculate. When out driving let us entertain you.

A. E. WHITE, Manager,
Finderne, N. J.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address,
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

EPWORTH LEAGUE DAY.

Methodists Rejoice Over Their Great Society.

PLAINFIELD HAS CHAPTER NO. 1.

The Home Church and Its Two Grown Children Churches Appropriately Celebrate the Anniversary of Dr. Hurlbut's Organization—Addresses and Special Exercises.

The service in the First Methodist Church Sunday was given over to the celebration of the anniversary of the Epworth League. The meeting was presided over by James R. Joy, president of the League. Rev. Dr. R. R. Doherty of New York, made the address. Though he has a slow and deliberate manner of speech, there is a degree of sympathy about it that carries the interest of the audience. "Where there is no vision the people perish", was a proverb which he thought was appropriate and applicable to the occasion, and expressed the thought of God. He considered the League one of the most masterly organizations in the religious field, and which could accomplish great results, because there was something deeper about it than mere method.

The anniversary of the Epworth League was commemorated in the Monroe Avenue M. E. Chapel, Sunday evening by special exercises. After the gloria by the congregation, and invocation, the pastor, Rev. M. C. O'Donnell, read several verses of Scripture, which were repeated by the congregation. Prayer, led by James A. McGee, followed, after which John J. Praed gave a short historical sketch of the Epworth League of the chapel, of which he is the efficient president, and concluded by speaking of its present flourishing condition, no debts, and a balance of over $10 in the treasury, 72 members, with an average attendance of about 50 at the regular meetings. A hymn followed, and Miss Lottie Beekman read an editorial from the Epworth Herald referring to the growth of the society. "In the Secret of His Presence" was sung by Walter McGee, and the pastor made his address. He took for the basis of his talk, "Whence came we, what are we here for, and where are we going."

He traced the spirit of the Epworth League through the Cleveland convention, the Young People's Lyceum in Philadelphia, back to John Wesley, and finally back to Christ and then God, and said Christ and his disciples were, in the truest and best sense, an Epworth League. He gave as the work of the Epworth League, the holding of the young people in the church, the inspiring of a feeling of reverence among the young people, and the inspiring and developing of activity among the Christian young people. He next spoke of the future of the society and said: "We have the power to say, in part at least, what our future is going to be and what the Epworth League will be."

After the singing of another hymn, James A. McGee closed the services with the benediction.

The local anniversary of the Epworth League was very appropriately observed in Grace M. E. Church yesterday morning, when the pastor, Rev. Herbert Randolph, preached a sermon before the League, on "Devotion". His text was "Whose I am, and whom I serve". He spoke in part as follows: My central thought is the demand of the hour for devotion on the part of Christ's followers. Such devotion as was symbolized in the vow of the chivalrous knight of medieval times. The sacrifice of Christ for human sin was no mere matter of sentiment, but an awful reality. Such a sacrifice has placed us under eternal obligation to Him. Personal obligation due to His having paid the penalty for personal sin. Also we owe Him personal service; not service by proxy.

The service is not according to joy rendered, but inspired by an undying devotion. Such is the service needed in our nation today and in our churches. Loyalty to God's great church, let that be your watchword. Such devotion as inspired Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot; Garabaldi, in Italy and the great Count Cavaho. We want whole armies of such helmeted knights to go forth "conquering and to conquer". Such devotion means self forgetfulness. It means absolution in a great object loyalty to a great leader, devotion to a lofty ideal. Such devotion is sacrificial. Great devotees have always had to make great sacrifices, as did Paul and our Lord. We are all bowing before some altar, but what altar? We are all devotees of something; but what is it? Devote yourself and all your best energies to the cause of truth and the advancement of the Redeemer's cause.

—Five newly elected members will be initiated in Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., Thursday evening.

—The census enumerators are requested to report at Assessor Hubbard's office, 109 Park avenue, Tuesday, May 14, at 5 p. m., to receive their instructions.

A MIXED-UP ROW.

James Lynch of Brooklyn Falls into the Hands of North Plainfield Philistines.

James Lynch of Brooklyn came to Plainfield Saturday night to visit his brother, but as it was very late he thought he would not go to his brother's house till Sunday morning. He walked down Somerset street and was stopped by Jas. Burke, Frank Doran of Bound Brook, and Theo. Wilson, who inquired if he was a stranger, and learning that he was, asked him to accompany them. They told him that they were going to "crack" a jewelry store, and would like his assistance. Lynch refused to help or to have anything to do with the matter.

They then walked to the orchard near Tier's pond and while there Doran and Wilson attacked Lynch, who was kicked in the face and received several bruises. The two assailants then made their escape, leaving Lynch in the orchard.

About 7 Sunday morning Lynch came over to Plainfield and sought Sergeant Kiely. To him he told his story, and how he had been robbed of $4, all he had. He described the men; and the sergeant, together with Chief Grant, made a search.

Burke was found in a restaurant on Somerset street. Wilson was out of town, and when he returned he was arrested by Policeman Frederickson, and Doran was found in the borough.

They were all turned over to the borough authorities. Lynch was held as a witness. His brother, hearing of the affair, went over to the lockup and secured his release, giving his word that his brother would appear this morning for a hearing.

Last night as Lynch and his brother were going to the brother's home, the Brooklynite made his escape, and left town.

No hearing was held this morning, but it is thought there will be one before the day is over.

In connection with the affair Special Marshal Goodwin met Joseph Green and James Burke yesterday afternoon in front of Haberle's cigar store on Somerset street. The marshal told Green that he had a warrant for his arrest. Green said he was willing to go if the warrant was all right.

During this conversation Burke, who stood near by, and who was wanted by the authorities, walked away and made his escape. Green then asked to see the warrant, when Goodwin replied he had no warrant, but that he was going to arrest him on suspicion.

The two then had a lively time of it, and the marshal was given a bad nose. Green was locked for three hours, and was then released without a hearing. The borough authorities will probably call Green for a hearing also, for his resisting arrest; though it is claimed that he was on this side of the brook at the time, and that the marshal had no right to molest him.

REDEEMER GUILD TEA.

Charming Affair at the Home of Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr.

The parlors of the handsome home of Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., on Myrtle avenue in North Plainfield were the scene Saturday afternoon and evening of a cheerful and pretty scene, the occasion being the reception and tea given by the Ladies Guild of the Church of the Redeemer.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with apple blossoms, lilacs, lilies of the valley and potted plants, whose varied hues and sweet fragance, combined with the fashionable gowns, radiant faces and charming manners of the fair attendants, made the event one of sociability and pleasure.

Those who assisted Mrs. Hegeman in receiving the guests were: Mrs. Frank Brown, Miss Kate Embury, Mrs. Charles Matthews, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. Emil Woltmann, and Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone. Tea was poured by Miss Della Storm and Miss Grace Barlow. The cake and candy table was presided over by Miss Woltmann and Miss Grace Brown, the flower table by Miss Hasbrouck, and the lemonade table by Miss Emily Thompson.

During the course of the reception a great many called, a number of them being from denominations other than of the church for whose benefit it was given.

The profits, which were a handsome sum, will be contributed to the building fund which has recently been established by the society to acquire a church of their own.

A Good Meeting.

The afternoon meeting in Reform Hall Sunday was most interesting, every moment being taken up with prayers, testimonies and singing. The meeting was led by Mr. Cronce of the Salvation Army.

Whose Bicycle Is This?

Policeman Hartpence found a Century Columbia bicycle in front of the rink building on Watchung avenue early Saturday morning and took it to the police station, where the owner can have the wheel by identifying it.

WALKED TO HIS DEATH.

Aaron Clark Took the Track for Home and Was Killed.

JOHN BARLEYCORN WAS TO BLAME.

The Young Man Came to See Plainfield By Gas Light, the Result of Which Was That His Own Life Light Was Snuffed Out By a Jersey Central Locomotive.

The lifeless body of Aaron Clark, a mason employed by Charles Burnett, and living on Terrill road, was found between two beams on the Richmond street bridge of the Jersey Central at 4:30 Sunday morning. The discovery was made by one of the train hands employed with the Wyoming Wild West Show, which had just pulled into the freight yard. Policeman Mattox was but a short distance away when the ghastly discovery was made, and hurrying to the scene had the body removed to the side of the track.

Station Agent J. A. Haynes of the Central Railroad was notified at the North avenue station and a telephone message was sent to Chief of Police Grant. Mr. Haynes was first to arrive to where the body was, and he immediately summoned P. Casey, who removed it to his morgue on West Third street, after which the young man's parents were notified of his death.

Clark, who was 26 years of age, received his week's pay Saturday, and after supper came to the city to indulge in a little sport. He found amiable companions in James Fitzgerald of Somerset place, John Scudder of Cottage place and William Somerset, the two latter colored, who took it upon themselves to show the man Plainfield by gas light. Up to 11 they spent their time in drinking in the various saloons about town, during which Clark accumulated a good sized jag.

At about 12 the party dispersed and Clark walked with Scudder to Cottage place, intent on calling on some dusky hued damsels. The damsels, however, he did not find, and at 12:15, so Scudder says, Clark remarked that he was going home. Scudder saw him started and then went into his own house. As far as can be learned this is the last seen of him by any one until found dead on the Richmond street bridge, lying on track three. It is thought that in his maudlin condition he walked along the track and was struck and killed by a passing train on or very near the bridge, where he was found. At what time the fatality occurred no one knows.

The body was not mangled to any great extent, the principal gashes being on the head, and from which the blood had flowed in a little pool into the roadway beneath the bridge.

Clark had been boarding at Boyce's Hotel on Somerset street for four days previous to the accident.

By some it is thought that Clark had boarded a coal train and had fallen off instead of being struck by a locomotive. One of his shoes was missing when found, and when Policeman Mattox was going home he found it this side of Netherwood, alongside of the track. The only way this can be accounted for is under the supposition that he was riding on a car and had taken his shoe off to remove a pebble or something that made walking uncomfortable, and a sudden jar of the car had thrown him off and carried the shoe on to where it was found.

County Physician O'Rielly was summoned from Elizabeth and, after acquainting himself with the circumstances of the accident, issued a burial permit.

An Afternoon Accident.

A horse attached to the carriage of Alven Beveridge, residing at the corner of West Seventh street and Spooner avenue, was frightened by the United States mail cart in front of Ulrich & Blatz's meat market on West Front street at 2:30 this afternoon, and lurching to one side ran the buggy into a water hydrant and dished one of the front wheels. The coachman and Mrs. Beveridge were in the wagon but were not injured. The horse was caught before doing further damage.

Baseball.

Leal's third nine and the Stars of North Plainfield played a game of baseball Saturday on Willow avenue, which resulted in favor of Leal's by the score of 20 to 8. Battery for Leal's: Pitchers—W. Wadsworth, A. Murphy; catcher—R. Tilney. Star's battery: Pitcher—R. Brewster; catcher—H. Roome.

The score:

Leals	3	0	3	0	3	4	2	4	1	—20
Stars	4	0	1	2	1	0	0	0	0	—8

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. A. Craighead of 820 Third place have gone for a week in Washington, D. C. Mr. Craighead will be engaged on matters pertaining to his father's estate.

City Clerk MacMurray returned Saturday evening from Troy, where he has been several days in the interest of the Pond Machine Tool Company, on a business trip.

SO WAGS THE WORLD.

Those who knew him best would never have suspected it. He, Charley Brown, actually in the meshes of love, frightfully, sentimentally, desperately in love. And with whom? A girl he confessed who did not care a snap for him—Mary Chisholm, rich, cultured, traveled, cynical and proud. Isn't that the way the world wags? He could have had the best girl in his set. He could have married wealth, family, beauty, talent, anything. But no, he must fall in love with Miss Chisholm. Why? Doubtless, because she did not care for him.

"Look here, Brown," said Van Tweet, one day, in Brown's room, throwing one leg over the other and looking his friend straight in the eye; "something very serious is the matter. Don't try to flim-flam me, for you know you can't. I have quietly studied you for some time, and diagnosed your case very carefully. You are in love. Come now, who is she? Out with it?

It was that same old hypnotic power which he exercised over all men and all women, too, that made Charlie Brown relinquish all resistance to Van Tweet's appeal.

"All right," said Brown, after a moment's reflection, "I'll trust you with my secret on your promise of silence."

Leaning his elbows on the side of the chair and folding his hands loosely before him, he began:

"I have been like Tantalus, the possessor of a ravished heart, ever since I met Miss Chisholm at the beach last season."

"Oh, it's Chisholm, is it?" said Van Tweet, interrupting him.

"I don't know what possessed me to fall in love with her," continued Brown, "but she provoked me."

"That's right, the woman is always to blame," put in Van Tweet.

"She provoked me by her infernal indifference. There she was, the conscious center of a lot of fellows, all trying to make themselves agreeable, offering to do all sorts of nonsensical things, and chattering the veriest buncombe: and she only laughing at them, laughing at them like a queen might at a roomfull of gibbering parrots. Ye gods, I could see it! She thought she was too good for the lot."

"And most likely she was right in her conclusion," said Van Tweet. "What did that concern you? Did you try to make a parrot of yourself as well?"

"Try?" echoed Brown, "try? Great Scott, I was the worst of them all."

"And so things went on, until one day we were all in the surf together, and it fell to my happy lot to rescue Miss Chisholm from drowning. I don't know why I didn't let her drown: but it seemed a pity to be a good swimmer and see a fellow creature carried off her feet by a big wave, turned upside down in the most ungraceful pose imaginable, and not stretch out a hand. Before I could give way to my first sinister impulse I was swimming out and diving after her. It was a more serious matter than I had reasoned. Expert swimmer as she is, she completely lost her senses and folded her arms around my neck as impulsively as if we had been old acquaintances. All this occurred under water, or I shouldn't have minded it half as much. Anyhow, I rescued her, together with about a ton of salt water, which made me sick for a week, and after that we were worse enemies than ever.

"I say we," continued Brown, "but that is a little too sweeping. By what process I know not; but from the moment I held her in my arms and dragged her limp and dripping to where her mother and brother could lay hands on her, I felt—I felt—"

"Your heart giving way—unconditional surrender," said Van Tweet in his matter-of-fact tone.

"By Jove, I must be crazy!" exclaimed Brown, "to care a whiff for a girl that hates me."

"You're sure she hates you?"

"Oh, I have no doubt of it," said Brown. "The first time we met after that little incident she blushed—that was a tribute to the remembrance of her discomfiture; she thanked me very formally; she almost dropped her eyes so as to avoid mine. I told her it was a happiness I should never forget to have been of some slight service to her, and then we parted in our usual formal way; but somebody told me that she was crying with vexation after we separated. Her mother had the decency to invite me to call at the house, and her brother assured me that his sister would take it as a personal pleasure if I would do so. I promised, but mentally resolved never to keep my word. A few days afterward the season closed and the bathers left the resort and went back to the city."

Van Tweet found that he was dealing with a case of mental perversity that nothing less than an ax, or, as Brown himself had said, trepanning, could be expected to remedy. And so, half in anger, half in jest, they parted.

The next morning Miss Chisholm received the following letter by mail:

"MY DEAR MISS CHISHOLM—Will you pardon me if I avail myself so late of a long standing invitation to call, and may I hope to find you at home this evening? Cordially yours,

"P. R. VAN TWEET."

And this was Miss Chisholm's answer:

"MY DEAR MR. VAN TWEET—I shall be very happy to see you. Very cordially, MARY L. CHISHOLM."

Van Tweet found Miss Chisholm both cordial and radiant. They talked about the latest book of short stories, and finally fell into one of those delightful processes of analyzing people they both knew, which passes under the charitable designation of the "small talk of society." And then Van Tweet brought Brown on the tapis.

"You know Charlie Brown, of course?" he began. Miss Chisholm smiled in a way that did not commit her to any sentiment on the subject of Charlie Brown. "Oh, very well. He favors me occasionally with a formal call," she said.

"Well, you ought to know him better," said Van Tweet in his peculiar, matter of fact way; "he is really a remarkable character. Of course you read in today's Beagle how he acquitted himself in that row last night?"

"A row—Mr. Brown?" asked Miss Chisholm with a manifestation of mild surprise; "is Mr. Brown in the habit of engaging in rows?"

"Oh, you haven't read it then?"

Miss Chisholm admitted that the general news of the day had no attraction for her, and that she was not a careful reader of the Beagle, much to her regret, since Mr. Van Tweet happened to be one of its shining lights. Van Tweet produced a copy of the Beagle and read:

"Shortly past 11 o'clock last night, as Mr. Charles W. Brown, the well-known club man, was going home, he heard a woman's voice calling for help near the corner of Waldon street and Verona avenue, which is rather dark at that hour. Running in the direction of the cries he saw three ruffians bending over the prostrate body of an old man, and a young lady a short distance away screaming for assistance.

"Pausing only long enough to take in the situation, Mr. Brown, under cover of the deep shadows cast by the houses, ran to the assistance of the prostrate man, dealing the first ruffian a blow that sent him sprawling into the gutter, and giving the second a love tap on the angle of the jaw that made him forget the day of the week. The third man clinched, but in a trice Mr. Brown had thrown the fellow over his head and was complete master of the situation. As soon as the assailants could gather themselves together they fled, leaving Mr. Brown in undisputed possession of the field.

"It seems that Mr. Brown, in the struggle with the last of the three men, was wounded by a knife thrust. He was able to walk home, but bled profusely, and is under the care of a surgeon. At the time of going to press no interview could be obtained with Mr. Brown, and the physician declines to state whether his injuries are serious."

Miss Chisholm had listened to the account with a pale face and trembling lips, and when Van Tweet folded up the paper and tossed it carelessly on the table he saw her eyes filled with tears and her hands clasped.

"Oh, the poor fellow!" she exclaimed in a burst of sudden sympathy. "I hope he will not die!"

After all, thought Van Tweet, she feels only a broad sympathy that would be extended to any other man no matter how obscure. She doesn't love him. But Miss Chisholm's face wore a deathly pallor as she bade him good night, that left Van Tweet in a quandary after all.

That night Brown was much improved, and Van Tweet was admitted to his room. Mingling with the odor of iodoform and carbolic acid, Van Tweet's olfactories were able to distinguish the scent of roses that came from an enormous bouquet on a small table near the invalid's bedside. Brown himself was in bright spirits. He held out his hand with a happy smile.

"Are you sufficiently alive to talk?" asked Van Tweet.

"Talk away, old fellow, and I'll answer you. After all, it didn't amount to much, though the doctor says it came mighty near penetrating my pericardium."

"Phlebotomy seems to have done you some good. I haven't seen you in such a lively state of mind since you fell in love with Miss Chisholm," said Van Tweet, slyly.

"Yes," said Brown with a smile; "the operation on my heart has done me much good in that connection."

He pointed to the flowers. "Aren't they refreshing?" he asked.

"Very beautiful," said Van Tweet, hardly noticing them. "From your landlady, I suppose?"

"No!" said Brown in a sonorous tone; "from Miss Chisholm."

Van Tweet tipped his chair back so far that he nearly lost his balance.

"Get out!" he exclaimed. "The age of miracles is over."

Brown sat up in bed using his two hands as a prop to support himself, and writhing with pain. "Van," said he, after a pause, "if this infernal wound doesn't put me hors de combat I'll marry Miss Chisholm in six months."

Brown smiled as he had not smiled in months. "I had left her house but a few moments before that scrimmage occurred in Waldon street," he began. "I called to be very formal. I was going to continue in the rigid course of deportment I had laid out for myself. Somehow your words kept ding-donging through my head. I felt that after all a woman like that had rights which we common mortals are bound to respect, and I said to myself to be a moral coward and tremble because a woman may turn you down is almost as bad as to run when your manhood is assaulted. It was a hard fight, but I made it. And—"

"She accepted you?" asked Van Tweet.

"No; she was not to be had so cheaply; but after we had been talking fifteen minutes I saw that I had been mistaken and was not altogether indifferent to her, as you put it. In fifteen minutes more her pride had melted like wax, and I left her with a strong impression that I had won a victory. How long the case would have remained in statu quo is a matter of conjecture, had it not been for that lucky misfortune of my encounter in Waldon street, which the Beagle so beautifully elaborated into heroic proportions. I left her with her decision in abeyance. This morning my physician received a visit from her brother, who made inquiries about me. That was the first good news.

"Evidently the information she received gave her some assurance of my recovery. This morning she drove up in a coupe and left these flowers and a letter. Van Tweet, it's like a mediæval romance."

Van Tweet congratulated Brown, but there was a cloud on his brow as he took his departure. "I thought I knew something about human nature," he muttered, "but when it comes to telling what a woman means, I'm still in my swaddling clothes."

Isn't that the way the world wags?—Washington Post.

DOES CRIME PAY?

OLIVER CURTIS PERRY SENTENCED FOR 50 YEARS SAYS "NO."

There is No Glamor or Romance in It. Perry is the Most Notorious Criminal of the Day, and if There Is Satisfaction in Vice He Should Know it.

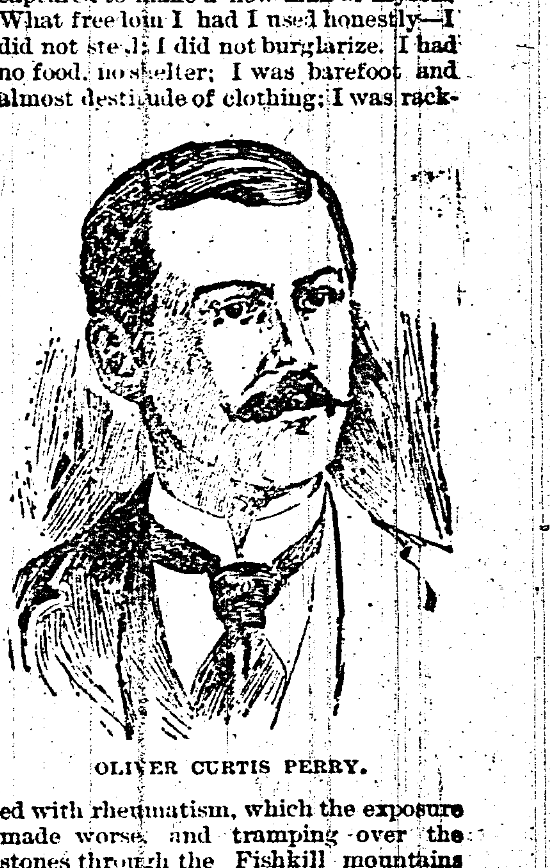
The story of the recapture of the desperate jail breaker, Oliver Curtis Perry, is an intensely moral narrative. That is to say, it presents in most vivid colors the awful risks and the crushing penalties that attend men who set out to defy society. We have so many imaginative stories in which vice wears the glamour of heroism that this plain but harrowing statement of a hunted man may well be put before the youth of the country as the most effective bit of realism, to teach the one important lesson so often left out of tales of romantic crime—namely, that crime does not pay.

Perry is worthy of close observation, for there is no more remarkable criminal in the jails of this wide land. In February, 1894, he captured single handed, an express train on the New York Central Railroad, defended by armed men. He began the attack while suspended from the roof of a car moving at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

For this and a series of other crimes he received sentences of imprisonment amounting to nearly fifty years. He was eventually sent to the Matteawan Lunatic Asylum from which he escaped. After his last capture, he said:

"I have learned that in the present state of society train robbing is not a paying business. I have speculated in crime and found out that it does not pay.

"If I had a new chance at life I would do very different. I meant if I was not captured to make a new man of myself. What freedom I had I used honestly—I did not steal; I did not burglarize. I had no food, no shelter; I was barefoot and almost destitude of clothing; I was racked with rheumatism, which the exposure made worse, and tramping over the stones through the Fishkill mountains my feet were cut and sore, and when I stumbled and fell my body was bruised and my hands scratched.



OLIVER CURTIS PERRY.

"The only thing I tried to steal was a ride on a freight train. But when I tried to reach up to catch on my arm was so cramped with rheumatism I could not lift it high enough. I fell backward and my foot was caught in the truck of the car and pinched. I was so hungry that I ate some raw potatoes I found on my way, and then a few handfuls of corn such as they feed to the chickens. I ate even the potato peelings, and the corn I chewed fine and ate with much relish."

Perry had all the elements of a dime novel hero. He was daring in conceptions, fertile in expedients, patient in execution, desperate in extremity. He used his brains as well as his muscles to escape. But once outside the Matteawan State Asylum the whole world took to hunting him, and there was not a spot where he could lie safely down and get the assured rest that came to him in his cell. He fled hither and thither, footsore and empty, suspicious of all human beings and was run down at last crushed in spirit and broken in body.

Crime and jail breaking, when told as this narrative tells them, are not apt to stimulate the young imagination to a point of imitation.

The nervy Perry rounds up his career as a hunted dog, almost glad to get back to his cell where he can throw himself down with the safe assurance that he can rest from pursuit.

PRINCE OF WALES CLOTHES.

Cost of the Various Items of His Wearing Apparel.

Some curious details have been published here regarding the wardrobe of the Prince of Wales. It appears that he possesses seventy uniforms, at an average cost of £150 ($750). It is added that he pays 12 guineas ($62.50) for a frock coat; 15 guineas (about $78) for a dress suit; for trousers he pays 4 guineas ($21); his ordinary trousers and coat and vest 8 to 10 guineas, ($42 to $52.50). During the London season the Prince wears two new frock coats a month, and he uses about a dozen dress suits annually. He has an immense number of ordinary suits of clothes, and never wears one more than two or three times. In addition his shooting suits cost 300 guineas ($1,575) a year. The Prince has three silk hats every fortnight, and never wears a pair of gloves twice. In shoes he is the best dressed man in the United Kingdom.

Spring's True Herald.

It isn't the leaf that has burst on the tree
Which tells us of spring and its glory;
It isn't the zephyr which speeds o'er the lea
Which convincingly whispers the story.

Nor yet the new bonnet, nor the sonnet upon it,
Nor song birds whose fresh notes are straying,
But the frolicsome hoot of the merry galoot
Who roots where the ball game is playing.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
PUBLISHED AT
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Publisher and Proprietor.
Walter Irving Clarke, City Editor.

The fact that the Orange Mountain Cable Company has gone to smash, is losing money, and will discontinue operating its road, will deter capitalists from attempting a similar enterprise to convey passengers up the face of the mountain to Washington Rock. The true way to reach the Rock is by electric railway through the Notch and over the Washington Valley road. The time is about ripe for the consummation of such a project.

Circuses are in disfavor with Plainfield authorities. The Mayor is always averse to granting license for traveling tent shows, and since the experience of Monday, when the tough Wild West, with its attendant gang of swindlers, gave so much trouble, it is not likely that even the "best" circuses can secure a license in Plainfield this season. Circuses are n't much good to a town like Plainfield. They take away a good deal of money that might better be spent locally.

$745 IN PRIZES.

Crescent Wheelmen Announce Their List for Memorial Day.

At the joint meeting last night of the Board of Governors and special committee having charge of the Memorial Day meet of the Crescent Wheelmen, the final arrangements for the event were made. The price of admission was fixed at 25 cents, with 25 cents extra for grand stand and 50 cents extra for reserved seats. A stage will be sent to the Irvington-Milburn road race to convey the L. A. W. officials to the meet in the afternoon. The prizes for the different races were decided on as follows:

1—One mile novice, Class A—Gold medal, $30; silver medal, $10; bronze medal, $5; total, $45.
2—½-mile scratch, Class A—Diamond stud, (Courier-News prize), $40; diamond stud, $15; scarf pin, $5; total, $60.
3—½-mile scratch, Class B—Diamond stud, $100; diamond stud, $35; diamond stud, $15; total, $125.
4—One-mile handicap, Class A—Gold watch, (Daily Press prize), $40; silver watch, $20; scarf pin, $10; total, $70.
5—One-mile scratch, Class B—Diamond stud, $125; diamond stud, $10; diamond stud, $20; total, $160.
6—2 mile handicap, Class A—Diamond ring, $50; diamond ring, $25; gold ring, $10; total, $85.
7—1 mile handicap, Class B—Diamond ring, $150; diamond stud, $50; diamond stud, $50; total, $250; total value, $745.

Increased the Amount.

In the Circuit Court in Elizabeth this morning the jury in the case of Ross, administrator of Henry Papenberg, against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, brought in a verdict of $12,720 for the plaintiff. Papenberg was killed at Rahway in 1892 by a mail bag thrown from a Pennsylvania train. The case was tried last year and the railroad company mulcted for $7,100. The company secured a new trial and the amount is increased $5,000. R. V. Lindabury of Elizabeth represented the plaintiff and Attorney Strong of New York the defendant.

Not His Fowls.

The suit of Henry Clay Randolph against Thomas Hyland was dismissed by Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. The action was brought by Randolph to recover damages for the destruction of crops by Hyland's chickens, which the plaintiff alleged trespassed upon his property, the two contestants being adjoining farmers on the Rahway road. However, from the evidence presented it was learned that the poultry belonged to Quinn's son, and on these grounds the case was dismissed.

Successful Operation.

A difficult operation was performed on Mary Manning of East Third street in the Muhlenberg Hospital, by a New York specialist, assisted by the hospital staff, yesterday afternoon.

Scott's Emulsion

is Cod-liver Oil emulsified, or made easy of digestion and assimilation. To this is added the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, which aid in the digestion of the Oil and increase materially the potency of both. It is a remarkable flesh-producer. Emaciated, anæmic and consumptive persons gain flesh upon it very rapidly. The combination is a most happy one.

Physicians recognize its superior merit in all conditions of wasting. It has had the endorsement of the medical profession for 20 years.

Don't be persuaded to take a substitute!
Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c and $1.

EVERYBODY LIKES IT.

Warm Admiration for The Press New Dress.

STYLISH AND A THING OF BEAUTY.

Praise from All Over the State for Model Plainfield and Its Model Newspaper—New Jersey's Leading Journals Call It Handsome, Up to Date, and Possessing a Big American Heart.

The Daily Press has been overwhelmed with praises on its recent improvements, and compliments have poured in so profusely that it has not room to print them all. Here are a few representative opinions:

James E. Martine, representative now of agriculture, and representative some day yet in Congress, said: "It's very handsome; and the clear, generous face of the type is a great relief to overstrained eyes."

Counselor W. K. McClure, representative of the Bar, says: "I am well pleased with the new Press. It is very neat and substantial."

Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, representative of the clergy, said: "I want to congratulate you on the improved appearance of The Press. It is highly creditable."

Edward White: "Your new paper looks very nice indeed."

Curtis M. Thorpe: "Your paper looks wonderfully better."

Counselor W. W. Pearson:—"Items published in The Daily Press travel very fast, and its new birthday gift is a 'Corkiolo', as Howard says, and doncherfergit it; and is handsome and up to date."

New Brunswick Fredonian:—The Plainfield Daily Press is a wideawake newspaper, and well deserves the handsome new dress it donned last week.

Westfield Standard:—The Plainfield Press comes out in a brand-new suit that fits like a glove. But the best we can say for The Press is that it has a big, warm American heart.

Newark Sunday Times-Standard:—The Plainfield Press appeared in a new dress last Friday, the occasion being its eighth birthday anniversary. The Press is a bright daily of eight years.

Bergen County Daily Herald:—The Plainfield Press is out in a new dress, and is very much improved in looks and otherwise. We wish we could put on our new bonnet, but we are too ambitious. We are not a year old yet.

Passaic Daily News:—We extend hearty congratulations to the Plainfield Daily Press. Its new dress and its well-filled columns suggest fertility of intellect and financial soundness. Plain field is one of the best governed and prettiest cities in the State, and The Press reflects its character admirably.

Der Somerset Bote, Bound Brook [Translation]: The Plainfield Press on Friday commenced its ninth year. Under the management of the capable journalist, Walter Irving Clarke, The Plainfield Press has become an indispensable daily journal for Plainfield's citizens. Here is to its further success!

Bound Brook Town Talk:—The Plainfield Daily Press—now entering upon the ninth year of its career—came out yesterday in a brand-new dress of brevier type in honor of its eighth birthday. Under the managing editorship of Walter Irving Clarke it may now well be regarded as the handsomest daily in Union County. May it be as successful in the future as it has been in the past.

Elizabeth Daily Journal:—The Plainfield Daily Press celebrates its eighth anniversary by coming out in a full new dress, stylish, handsome, with 'puff' sleeves and all the newest features. This is evidence of successful enterprise, and proves that The Press is taking a new lease of action and vigorous life with each succeeding year. Plainfield seems to be an excellent field for newspapers.

Paterson Daily Press:—The Plainfield Daily Press yesterday celebrated the eighth anniversary of its birth by appearing in a beautiful new dress. Our Plainfield namesake is one of the best papers on our exchange list and is distinctly up to date. The Press tenders it congratulations and the hope that the prosperity which manifestly attends it may increase with every year that passes over its head.

Cranford Chronicle:—To The Daily Press of Plainfield The Chronicle desires to extend and give the warmest kind of a typographical shake. Our congratulations are based on the improved appearance of our neighbor, which has discarded the dress it had worn continually for eight years, and come out decked in all that brand-new printing material, judiciously selected, can give a daily newspaper. The Press has more than mere appearance to recommend it. It confers a positive benefit upon Plainfield and its citizens every day. It benefits the city by upholding constantly the advantages of Plainfield as a town in which business men find business profitable and residents find life enjoyable. It benefits the citizens by keeping them fully informed of local, State and national news. Again, we say to our neighbor, "shake!"

MORRIS COUNTY CHRONICLE.
MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 11, 1895.
Walter Irving Clarke, Plainfield, N. J.

DEAR SIR:—A copy of The Daily Press in its new dress has been received; it looks very handsome and shows artistic mechanical work. We congratulate you upon the success of The Press.

J. W. CLIFT, Publisher.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Benefits Three Generations.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my family ten years with the best of results.

"Before taking it I had falling of the womb; such bearing-down pains, backache, and kidney trouble. I had had eight children, and was apptoaching the change of life.

"I took the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills; was cured of all my troubles, and passed through the change all right, and now am fifty-four years old and well. My daughter had catarrh of the bladder, and it cured her. I send you my picture with my grandson, whose mother was cured by your remedies. I will recommend your Compound to every body."—MRS. L. KELLY, Patchogue, L.I.

N. G. S. N. J. IN CAMP.

New Arrangements for the Annual Outing at Seagirt.

A change will be made this Summer in the arrangements for the encampment of the First Brigade, N.G.S.N.J. at Seagirt. The entire brigade will not go into camp at the same time, as has been the custom heretofore. This is a change that has been advocated by Brig.-Gen. Wanser, and it was approved yesterday by Gov. Werts. It is said that the State will save $10,000 by the new arrangement.

There are three regiments in the brigade, the First of Newark, the Second of Paterson, and the Fourth of Jersey City. The New York plan of having only one regiment at a time in camp has been adopted. The Fourth regiment will go into camp July 20 and remain a week. It will be followed in turn by the First and the Second, each of which will remain a week. Each regiment will have target practice during its week of the encampment.

Heretofore the practice has been for the brigade to continue the target practice from the time of the encampment to October, and the State had to pay all the extra transportation.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Alva Wheelmen of New York will run to Plainfield next Sunday.

Albert Woltmann of West Seventh street is now riding a new Cleveland Swell Special wheel.

The tickets for the Memorial Day meet of the Crescent Wheelmen have been placed on sale, and are finding many advance purchasers.

The Eldridge Bicycle Company report the following sales: Columbia to Mrs. D. W. Pond; Crawford to V. Christhofferson, and a Hartford No. 1 to Ed Schenck.

The Y. M. C. A. Bicycle Club will have a run to the Millburn road race Memorial Day morning. The following Saturday they will run to New Brunswick.

Many people are complaining of the careless manner in which the surplus dirt from the sewer trenches are loaded upon wagons so that a great deal of it slides into the streets over which they pass, and especially the small stones which form a part of the excavations. These, left in the road, constantly endanger the safety of bicyclists.

Saltzman Again Honored.

The following Plainfielders are in Elizabeth today attending the annual convention of the State Exempt Firemen's Association: D. W. Littell, William A. Woodruff, E. M. Laing, J. E. Flannery, Samuel J. Robinson, A. Saltzman, G. Thorn and T. O. Doane.

Charles W. Bowles of Trenton was elected president, and A. Saltzman of Plainfield vice-president. The next convention will be held in Hackensack.

Thirteen Years Experience.

Miller's Fall, Mass.—"At different time during the past thirteen years," said Mr. W. A. Johnson of this place, "my wife has been sick from kidney and liver complaint and ulceration of the stomach. At each time she has taken Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and it cured her. It is a family remedy with us and many of our neighbors.

THE PRINCE'S VISIT.

HIS LAST AND ONLY TRIP TO AMERICA WAS IN 1860.

He Was Then 19 Years Old. If He Comes to the Yacht Races President Cleveland Will Adopt Buchanan's Precedent and Entertain Him at the White House.

The Prince of Wales is to visit America to witness the yacht races in the fall, and if Mr. Cleveland follows precedent he will have to invite the Prince to be his guest at the White House. That is what President Buchanan did when the Prince, then a youth of 19, visited America in 1860.

The Prince's first visit was intended particularly as a tour of investigation of the British possessions in Canada. President Buchanan did not wait for an official confirmation of the report that the Prince was to come to this country. He acted on the publications in the newspapers, and on the 4th of June, 1860, he addressed a personal letter to the Queen of England, which was presented by Mr. Dallas, then our Minister at the Court of St. James.

The reply of the Queen is one of the official documents on file in the State Department, where there are many specimens of the correspondence of many kings, queens and emperors.

Before coming to Washington the Prince had visited Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Altoona and Harrisburg, and had been entertained in each of these cities. He had had a shooting excursion and a ride down the Allegheny Mountains on a Pennsylvania Railroad locomotive. Everywhere the representative of royalty had been received with the greatest enthusiasm.

The Secretary of State, Mr. Cass, accompanied by two nephews of the President, met the Prince at the railroad station, and he was escorted immediately to the Executive Mansion. The members of his suite accompanied him.

The President would have liked to entertain the whole of the Prince's party, but there is no Windsor Castle or Buckingham Palace in Washington. And surely it was enough that the President of the United States should have given up his own bedroom to a stranger. There are only five bedrooms in the White House.

The Prince of Wales occupied the room on the south side of the mansion next the library. This was President Harrison's bedroom during the last administration, but it is now the playroom of the Cleveland children. The Duke of Newcastle occupied the bedroom adjoining—the room in which President Garfield lay sick and in which Mrs. Harrison died. The other official guest, Major General Bruce, was lodged in the apartment opposite the library. The President had a bedroom improvised for himself in the executive offices.

On Thursday, October 4, the Prince and his suite visited the Capitol, where there was very little to see beyond the architectural features of the building, because Congress was not in session.

On the next day the Prince went to Mount Vernon. The excursion was then a rather serious business. It was not merely a day's pleasure down the Potomac; nor was the sightseeing at the historic home of Washington reduced to the order which now prevails. The mansion was there and the tomb, but the place had not been restored to the condition in which Washington left it. Only four years before the Mount Vernon Association had been chartered by the State of Virginia, and two years after that Edward Everett had raised the first $10,000 toward paying for the restoration of the mansion.

The Prince accompanied the President and the members of his Cabinet down the river on a government boat—the Harriet Lane. The Marine band had preceded the party. From the wharf the President and the Prince went to the mansion and thence to the tomb. When the Prince stood at the tomb with uncovered head the Marine band, concealed in the shrubbery close at hand, played a dirge composed for the occasion. The Prince was much moved by the solemnity of the occasion, and he directed on his return to England that the annual medal for the encouragement of English poetry should be awarded to the poet who would treat most successfully the subject, "The Prince of Wales at the Tomb of Washington."

Before leaving Mount Vernon the Prince planted a tree to add to the historic group already started there.

The visit to Mount Vernon closed the incidents of the Prince's official reception in Washington. When he left there he went to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, West Point, Boston and Portland. He sailed from Portland to England.

The Black Man and White Trash.

"There's nothing in the world that surpasses the contempt of a negro for a poor white man," said Col. McLennon. "I suppose it is inherited. A white man who didn't own slaves in the old times was considered beneath the notice of a respectable negro, and the feeling has grown more pronounced since emancipation. Then, again, the plantation overseers were usually poor whites. The negroes all hated them, and they may have taken some satisfaction in a contempt for the whole class they represented.

"The other day I was walking along the street when a colored man came by driving before a wagon the most forlorn specimen of a cow I have ever seen. She was an animated skeleton, and half her hide was bare where she had rubbed off the hair. One horn was gone and the other drooped as if it were falling out. She was just able to creep and drag the wagon along after her, but the old darky who was driving beat the poor beast with a stick and cried:

"'G'long, dar, now, you poor white trash!'"—Chicago Record.

Gov. Greenhalge signed the bill relative to the construction of State highways. It appropriates $400,000 for work upon the roads of Massachusetts.

SO WAGS THE WORLD.

Those who knew him best would never have suspected it. He, Charley Brown, actually in the meshes of love, frightfully, sentimentally, desperately in love. And with whom? A girl he confessed who did not care a snap for him—Mary Chisholm, rich, cultured, traveled, cynical and proud. Isn't that the way the world wags? He could have had the best girl in his set. He could have married wealth, family, beauty, talent, anything. But no, he must fall in love with Miss Chisholm. Why? Doubtless, because she did not care for him.

"Look here, Brown," said Van Tweet, one day, in Brown's room, throwing one leg over the other and looking his friend straight in the eye; "something very serious is the matter. Don't try to flim-flam me, for you know you can't. I have quietly studied you for some time, and diagnosed your case very carefully. You are in love. Come now, who is she? Out with it?

It was that same old hypnotic power which he exercised over all men and all women, too, that made Charlie Brown relinquish all resistance to Van Tweet's appeal.

"All right," said Brown, after a moment's reflection, "I'll trust you with my secret on your promise of silence."

Leaning his elbows on the side of the chair and folding his hands loosely before him, he began:

"I have been like Tantalus, the possessor of a ravished heart, ever since I met Miss Chisholm at the beach last season."

"Oh, it's Chisholm, is it?" said Van Tweet, interrupting him.

"I don't know what possessed me to fall in love with her," continued Brown, "but she provoked me."

"That's right, the woman is always to blame," put in Van Tweet.

"She provoked me by her infernal indifference. There she was, the conscious center of a lot of fellows, all trying to make themselves agreeable, offering to do all sorts of nonsensical things, and chattering the veriest buncombe; and she only laughing at them, laughing at them like a queen might at a roomfull of gibbering parrots. Ye gods, I could see it! She thought she was too good for the lot."

"And most likely she was right in her conclusion," said Van Tweet. "What did that concern you? Did you try to make a parrot of yourself as well?"

"Try?" echoed Brown. "try? Great Scott, I was the worst of them all."

"And so things went on, until one day we were all in the surf together, and it fell to my happy lot to rescue Miss Chisholm from drowning. I don't know why I didn't let her drown; but it seemed a pity to be a good swimmer and see a fellow creature carried off her feet by a big wave, turned upside down in the most ungraceful pose imaginable, and not stretch out a hand. Before I could give way to my first sinister impulse I was swimming out and diving after her. It was a more serious matter than I had reasoned. Expert swimmer as she is, she completely lost her senses and folded her arms around my neck as impulsively as if we had been old acquaintances. All this occurred under water, or I shouldn't have minded it half as much. Anyhow, I rescued her, together with about a ton of salt water, which made me sick for a week, and after that we were worse enemies than ever.

"I say we," continued Brown, "but that is a little too sweeping. By what process I know not; but from the moment I held her in my arms and dragged her limp and dripping to where her mother and brother could lay hands on her, I felt—I felt—"

"Your heart giving way—unconditional surrender," said Van Tweet in his matter-of-fact tone.

"By Jove, I must be crazy!" exclaimed Brown, "to care a whiff for a girl that hates me."

"You're sure she hates you?"

"Oh, I have no doubt of it," said Brown. "The first time we met after that little incident she blushed—that was a tribute to the remembrance of her discomfiture; she thanked me very formally; she almost dropped her eyes so as to avoid mine. I told her it was a happiness I should never forget to have been of some slight service to her, and then we parted in our usual formal way; but somebody told me that she was crying with vexation after we separated. Her mother had the decency to invite me to call at the house, and her brother assured me that his sister would take it as a personal pleasure if I would do so. I promised, but mentally resolved never to keep my word. A few days afterward the season closed and the bathers left the resort and went back to the city."

Van Tweet found that he was dealing with a case of mental perversity that nothing less than an ax, or, as Brown himself had said, trepanning, could be expected to remedy. And so, half in anger, half in jest, they parted.

The next morning Miss Chisholm received the following letter by mail:

"MY DEAR MISS CHISHOLM—Will you pardon me if I avail myself so late of a long standing invitation to call, and may I hope to find you at home this evening? Cordially yours,

"P. R. VAN TWEET."

And this was Miss Chisholm's answer:

"MY DEAR MR. VAN TWEET—I shall be very happy to see you. Very cordially, MARY L. CHISHOLM."

Van Tweet found Miss Chisholm both cordial and radiant. They talked about the latest book of short stories, and finally fell into one of those delightful processes of analyzing people they both knew, which passes under the charitable designation of the "small talk of society." And then Van Tweet brought Brown on the tapis.

"You know Charlie Brown, of course?" he began. Miss Chisholm smiled in a way that did not commit her to any sentiment on the subject of Charlie Brown. "Oh, very well. He favors me occasionally with a formal call," she said.

"Well, you ought to know him better," said Van Tweet in his peculiar, matter of fact way; "he is really a remarkable character. Of course you read in today's Beagle how he acquitted himself in that row last night?"

"A row—Mr. Brown?" asked Miss Chisholm with a manifestation of mild surprise; "is Mr. Brown in the habit of engaging in rows?"

"Oh, you haven't read it then?"

Miss Chisholm admitted that the general news of the day had no attraction for her, and that she was not a careful reader of the Beagle, much to her regret, since Mr. Van Tweet happened to be one of its shining lights. Van Tweet produced a copy of the Beagle and read:

"Shortly past 11 o'clock last night, as Mr. Charles W. Brown, the well-known club man, was going home, he heard a woman's voice calling for help near the corner of Waldon street and Verona avenue, which is rather dark at that hour. Running in the direction of the cries he saw three ruffians bending over the prostrate body of an old man, and a young lady a short distance away screaming for assistance.

"Pausing only long enough to take in the situation, Mr. Brown, under cover of the deep shadows cast by the houses, ran to the assistance of the prostrate man, dealing the first ruffian a blow that sent him sprawling into the gutter, and giving the second a love tap on the angle of the jaw that made him forget the day of the week. The third man clinched, but in a trice Mr. Brown had thrown the fellow over his head and was complete master of the situation. As soon as the assailants could gather themselves together they fled, leaving Mr. Brown in undisputed possession of the field.

"It seems that Mr. Brown, in the struggle with the last of the three men, was wounded by a knife thrust. He was able to walk home, but bled profusely, and is under the care of a surgeon. At the time of going to press no interview could be obtained with Mr. Brown, and the physician declines to state whether his injuries are serious."

Miss Chisholm had listened to the account with a pale face and trembling lips, and when Van Tweet folded up the paper and tossed it carelessly on the table he saw her eyes filled with tears and her hands clasped.

"Oh, the poor fellow!" she exclaimed in a burst of sudden sympathy. "I hope he will not die!"

After all, thought Van Tweet, she feels only a broad sympathy that would be extended to any other man no matter how obscure. She doesn't love him. But Miss Chisholm's face wore a deathly pallor as she bade him good night, that left Van Tweet in a quandary after all.

That night Brown was much improved, and Van Tweet was admitted to his room. Mingling with the odor of iodoform and carbolic acid, Van Tweet's olfactories were able to distinguish the scent of roses that came from an enormous bouquet on a small table near the invalid's bedside. Brown himself was in bright spirits. He held out his hand with a happy smile.

"Are you sufficiently alive to talk?" asked Van Tweet.

"Talk away, old fellow, and I'll answer you. After all, it didn't amount to much, though the doctor says it came mighty near penetrating my pericardium."

"Phlebotomy seems to have done you some good. I haven't seen you in such a lively state of mind since you fell in love with Miss Chisholm," said Van Tweet, slyly.

"Yes," said Brown with a smile; "the operation on my heart has done me much good in that connection."

He pointed to the flowers. "Aren't they refreshing?" he asked.

"Very beautiful," said Van Tweet, hardly noticing them. "From your landlady, I suppose?"

"No!" said Brown in a sonorous tone; "from Miss Chisholm."

Van Tweet tipped his chair back so far that he nearly lost his balance.

"Get out!" he exclaimed. "The age of miracles is over."

Brown sat up in bed using his two hands as a prop to support himself, and writhing with pain. "Van," said he, after a pause, "if this infernal wound doesn't put me hors de combat I'll marry Miss Chisholm in six months."

Brown smiled as he had not smiled in months. "I had left her house but a few moments before that scrimmage occurred in Waldon street," he began. "I called to be very formal. I was going to continue in the rigid course of deportment I had laid out for myself. Somehow your words kept ding-donging through my head. I felt that after all a woman like that had rights which we common mortals are bound to respect, and I said to myself to be a moral coward and tremble because a woman may turn you down is almost as bad as to run when your manhood is assailed. It was a hard fight, but I made it. And—"

"She accepted you?" asked Van Tweet.

"No; she was not to be had so cheaply; but after we had been talking fifteen minutes I saw that I had been mistaken and was not altogether indifferent to her, as you put it. In fifteen minutes more her pride had melted like wax, and I left her with a strong impression that I had won a victory. How long the case would have remained in statu quo is a matter of conjecture, had it not been for that lucky misfortune of my encounter in Waldon street, which the Beagle so beautifully elaborated into heroic proportions. I left her with her decision in abeyance. This morning my physician received a visit from her brother, who made inquiries about me. That was the first good news.

"Evidently the information she received gave her some assurance of my recovery. This morning she drove up in a coupe and left these flowers and a letter. Van Tweet, it's like a mediæval romance."

Van Tweet congratulated Brown, but there was a cloud on his brow as he took his departure. "I thought I knew something about human nature," he muttered, "but when it comes to telling what a woman means, I'm still in my swaddling clothes."

Isn't that the way the world wags?—Washington Post.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

BY AUTHORITY.

CHAPTER CCLXVIII.

(Concluded.)

small causes: the recorder shall also have power to cause any person or persons who shall be found guilty of a violation of the ordinances of the city, and who may refuse or neglect to pay any penalty imposed to be committed to the county jail for a period not exceeding thirty days; and the recorder shall be present at the station house or other place provided for him by the city council, at such hours every day as the council shall designate; and the recorder shall have the same powers in criminal matters within the territorial limits of the city as are possessed and exercised by justices of the peace of this state.

33. And be it enacted, That the mayor and any member of the council during his term of office and any policeman of said city, shall have the power, on witnessing any breach of the peace or violation of a city ordinance to forthwith arrest and take into custody, without warrant, the offender or offenders, and to take said offender or offenders before the recorder of the city for a hearing.

34. And be it enacted, That every conviction for violating a city ordinance had before the recorder, either with or without a jury trial, may be reviewed by appeal to the court of common pleas of the county in the same manner and upon the same terms as appeals are now or may be taken from courts for the trial of small causes, and in case the judgment appealed from shall be imprisonment the said recorder or any judge of the court of common pleas may admit to bail the party appealing during the pendency of his appeal; but no judgment for the violation of any ordinance shall be reversed for any imperfection, omission, defect in or lack of form nor for any error except such as shall or may have prejudiced the defendant in maintaining his defense upon the merits.

35. And be it enacted, That the officers empowered to serve process issued by the recorder shall be, besides the constables elected or appointed within the city, the policemen of the city, and that said process shall be returned in the same manner, so far as circumstances may permit, as warrants in courts for the trial of small causes are returned, and the defendant or defendants named therein shall, if the recorder sees fit to adjourn the hearing of the charge made and so orders, enter into recognizance, as near as may be, in the manner directed in the courts for the trial of small causes, in the amount of the penalty named in the process or in any proceedings brought for the recovery of the same, with such surety as may be approved by the recorder, unto the city, by its corporate name, for his or their appearance on the day to which said hearing may be adjourned, and in default of such appearance the said recognizance may be prosecuted and collected in the same manner as the same might have been if the said recognizance had been taken in a proceeding in courts for the trial of small causes.

36. And be it enacted, That the assessor, overseer of the poor and health inspector shall each hold office for the term of two years, and the said assessor, overseer and health inspector shall perform all the duties required of such officers by law in the several townships of this state and the ordinances of the city.

37. And be it enacted, That the city attorney shall be appointed by the council; he shall hold his office for the term of one year and shall perform such duties as the council shall by ordinance prescribe.

38. And be it enacted, That the city surveyors shall be designated from time to time by the council, and they shall give bonds in such penalty and upon such condition, and shall receive such compensation for the service they may render, as the council shall by ordinance prescribe.

39. And be it enacted, That the poundkeepers shall be appointed by the council, and shall hold their office for such term, and shall perform such duties in addition to the duties imposed upon them by any law of this state, as the council may by ordinance prescribe.

40. And be it enacted, That the members of the board of commissioners of appeals shall be elected and shall hold office for three years; they shall perform such duties as are now or hereafter may be by law enjoined upon commissioners of appeals in cases of taxation.

41. And be it enacted, That the chief of the fire department shall be elected annually on the first Monday in May in each year, and shall hold his office for one year from the first day of June next ensuing his election, the active firemen of the department shall alone be qualified to vote at such election, the election shall be held and conducted under such such rules and regulations as the council shall by ordinance prescribe; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to any city having a population of ten thousand inhabitants.

42. And be it enacted, That the chief of police shall hold office for the term of three years, and shall be subject to removal for cause by a two-thirds vote of the city council; he shall be the executive head of the police department, and shall be responsible for its efficiency; all regular police officers shall first be nominated by him, and the city council shall then have power to appoint them; he shall have power to remove any officer so appointed for neglect of duty or conduct unbecoming an officer of the peace, and the cause for removal shall be stated in writing to the city council; he shall have power, with the written assent of the mayor, to appoint special officers to serve, at not more than three dollars a day each, upon special occasions when the regular force may be deemed inadequate to insure safety to public health and good order.

43. And be it enacted, That the board of excise commissioners shall consist of five members, three of whom shall be elected at the first city election held under this act; one member of the board shall be elected for one year, one member for two years and one member for three years; but no more than one member shall come from the same ward; and the voters at such election shall designate on their ballots the terms for which the several candidates for said offices shall be elected; thereafter annually one member of the board shall be chosen for three years; the three members thus chosen, together with mayor, who shall be the presiding officer of said board, and the chief of police shall constitute the board; they shall have full power to regulate, license, or prohibit the sale or transfer of spirituous, vinous, malt or other strong or intoxicating liquors; provided, however, that no such license shall be granted to any person who is not a citizen of the United States; they shall have power to prescribe the terms and conditions upon which licenses for such purposes shall be granted, and to provide for the revoking and annulling of licenses for violations of such conditions; provided, however, that all such conditions shall be printed on the license; and provided, further, that no license shall be granted unless the applicant shall first pay to the city clerk such license fee as may be required by any general law of this state, and if there be no general law such fee, not less than fifty dollars, as may be fixed by the board; and if the application is rejected the deposit shall be returned; the mayor shall sign all licenses directed to be issued by the board; the board shall, upon the request of the council, render a statement of all licensed and unlicensed saloons, inns, taverns or restaurants existing within the city, together with a record of all the proceedings of the board.

44. And be it enacted, That the city council shall have power to authorize by ordinance that there shall be appointed by the city council, with the mayor's approval, a street commissioner, who shall hold office for the term of three years, and shall be subject to removal for cause upon a two-thirds vote of the council, have supervision over all the streets, avenues, roads, sidewalks, public lanes and alleys, bridges, culverts and all public highways of the municipality and the repairs thereto, and perform such duties as may be required of him by the city ordinances relating thereto.

45. And be it enacted, That there shall be appointed by the city council, with the mayor's approval in the month of May in each year, a suitable and competent physician, resident of the city, to be city physician, who, when he shall have taken and subscribed the oath of office before the mayor, recorder or other officer entitled to administer such, shall be the medical adviser of the board of health and city council, and shall perform such duties as may be required of him by ordinances of the city council or the board of health.

46. And be it enacted, That the council shall, on the first day of April in each year, cause to be printed a full statement of all receipts and expenditures of every description for the year preceding, with all such further information as may be necessary for a full understanding of the financial concerns of the city, and that it shall be the duty of the city clerk to distribute such printed statements among the people of the city or to furnish a copy of such statement to every citizen applying for the same.

47. And be it enacted, That all contracts in which any councilman shall be interested, either directly or indirectly, or in which any councilman may be surety for the faithful performance thereof, shall be null and void, and no member of the council shall become security for any public officer elected or appointed under this act.

48. And be it enacted, That no ordinance or by-law shall be passed by the city council unless the same shall have been introduced at a previous special or stated meeting, and shall be agreed to by a majority of the members of the council; and no ordinance shall take effect until five days after it shall have been published in one or more newspapers of the city, and if there be none, in at least one newspaper published in the county and circulating in the city; provided, however, that no ordinance for opening, paving or macadamizing any street, avenue or public place, or for the construction of any sewer shall be passed or adopted unless it shall receive the votes of two-thirds of the members of the council.

49. And be it enacted, That the council may by the title, "the mayor and city council of ———, in the county of ———," pass, adopt, alter, modify and repeal ordinances to take effect within the city for the following purposes: to manage, regulate, protect and control the finances and property of the city; to make and adopt an assessment map or maps whereby to describe lands assessed for taxes or improvements; to ascertain and establish the boundaries of all streets, highways, public lanes and alleys in the city; to regulate, clean and keep in repair the streets, highways, lanes and alleys, and to prevent and remove all encroachments, obstructions and incumbrances in and upon all streets, highways, lanes and alleys, sewers, drains and water courses; to prescribe the manner in which corporations or individuals shall exercise any privilege granted to them in the use of any street, highway or alley or in digging up any street, highway or alley for any purpose whatsoever; to direct and regulate the planting, rearing, trimming and preserving of ornamental shade trees in the streets, parks and public places, and to authorize or prohibit the removal or destruction of such shade trees; to name and number the streets, houses and lots in the city; to provide for and enforce the removal of snow and ice from the sidewalks and gutters of streets, by the owners of land fronting thereon, and to provide that in case of neglect or refusal of or by the owner of any lot of land fronting on a public street or highway to remove snow or ice from the sidewalks and gutters in front of his lands, that the council may cause the same to be done at the expense of such owner, and that the cost and expense thereof, with interest thereon, shall be added to and shall form part of the taxes next to be levied and assessed upon such lands and shall be and remain a lien upon such lands until paid; to regulate the use of streets, highways and public places by individuals, vehicles of every kind; to prevent and punish horse racing and immoderate driving or riding in any street; to regulate and control the passage through the streets and public places of buildings and other large structures; to prevent animals of all kinds from running at large in the streets or public places, and for the impounding, sale or destruction of the same, and to regulate and prevent the driving of cattle or other animals in droves in or through any of the streets of the city; to prevent and prohibit any practice having a tendency to frighten animals or persons passing in the streets; to regulate or prohibit all public performances and exhibitions for money; to prevent and suppress vice and immorality; to restrain or punish tramps or vagrants, mendicants and street beggars; to preserve the public peace; to prevent and quell riots, disturbances and disorderly assemblages; to restrain and suppress disorderly and gaming houses and houses of ill-fame; to establish and regulate one or more public pounds, and to provide for the sale of animals impounded, and to fix the fees to be paid persons impounding animals, and the redemption fees to be paid; to regulate and prevent and to provide for the destruction of dogs running at large; to regulate or prohibit swimming or bathing in the waters of or bounding the city; to remove or destroy buildings that are dangerous to life; to regulate or prohibit the carrying on of manufactures dangerous in causing or promoting fire; to regulate or prohibit the manufacture, sale, keeping, storage or use of fireworks, gunpowder, camphene, kerosene, burning fluid, nitro-glycerine, dynamite or other inflammable or explosive materials; to raze and demolish any building or erection when necessary to prevent the extension of a conflagration, and to provide for the ascertainment and payment of just damages and compensation to owners of property destroyed in such cases; to regulate or prohibit the use of firearms and the carrying of weapons of any kind; to provide fire engines and such buildings for the use thereof as may be necessary; to establish a board of health, define its powers and duties, and provide for the protection and maintenance of the health of the city; to regulate the burial of the dead; prohibit interments within such limits as it may prescribe; to purchase land for public burial purposes; direct the keeping and return of bills of mortality, and to establish such regulations for carrying the dead through the streets as the health and good order of the city may require; to license and regulate cartmen, porters, hack, cab, omnibus, stage and truck owners and drivers, carriages and vehicles used for the transportation of passengers and merchandise, goods or articles of any kind, and to require the owners to mark vehicles in such manner as the council shall designate; and to license and regulate auctioneers, common criers, pawnbrokers, junk-shop keepers, sweeps and scavengers, and to prohibit unlicensed persons from acting in such capacities; to license and regulate peddlers, hawkers and hucksters, and to require the payment of a license fee of not exceeding ten dollars in all cases, except as herein otherwise provided; and no license granted for any of the aforesaid purposes by any other authority shall be valid, except license granted by the governor to hawkers and peddlers; to fix the penalty where the same is not fixed or provided for by this act for the violation of any ordinance by this act authorized to be passed, which penalty shall be a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and in case of non-payment thereof, imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days; to provide for, establish, regulate and control a fire department and to establish rules for the government thereof (whose members shall be exempt from military duty in time of peace, and from serving as jurors in courts for the trial of small causes), and to provide engines and other fire apparatus, and to designate the manner of appointing and removing officers and members of the fire department and to regulate their compensation; to provide for the government of the fire department and the care and repair of the engines and other fire apparatus, and for the purchasing of necessary supplies by the city council or a committee thereof or by a board of fire commissioners consisting of five members, to be appointed by the council, who shall hold office for one year, and who shall receive no salary; and to further provide for the payment of the lawful debts contracted or incurred by such commissioners.

50. And be it enacted, That the city council may by ordinance submit to the voters of the city at an annual or special election, a proposal or proposals to purchase land and to erect thereon a city hall, jail, hospital, public lighting or other municipal building or buildings; or to purchase land for public park purposes; or for the purchase of any sewer, water or gas, or lighting system existing, or that may hereafter exist within the city limits; and if at such election a majority of the voters shall vote in favor thereof, the city council shall be empowered to make such purchase, and if need be issue bonds of the city in payment thereof, as may be provided by ordinance.

51. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power by ordinance to regulate the use of the streets of the city by electric or other street railway companies; to require such companies to lay and confine their track according to such grades of the street as may from time to time be established by the council; to keep that portion of the street lying between the rails paved and in good repair, also to keep the street to the extent of eighteen inches beyond the rails in good repair and on a level with the rails; to keep their tracks free from snow and ice and compel the removal of the same from the streets; and to provide a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars for every violation of such ordinance.

52. And be it enacted, That, in case the boundary line between any city formed under this act and any other municipality shall be one of the extreme lines of a street or road, such street or road being wholly within such city, it shall be lawful for the council of such city to pass ordinances regulating the use of such street or road by the owners or occupants of property in such other municipality adjoining such street or road, and to provide penalties for the violation of such ordinance not exceeding ten dollars fine; and it shall be lawful for any constable or policeman of such city to execute any process issued by the recorder for the violation of any such ordinance within the territorial limits of such other adjoining municipality.

53. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power by ordinance to provide for, establish, regulate and control a day and night police and to regulate and define the manner of their appointment and removal, their duties and compensation; provided, that such police force (excluding officers) shall not exceed more than one policeman to every five hundred inhabitants; and provided, further, that no policeman or police officer shall be removed except for neglect of duty, misbehavior, incompetency or inability to serve.

54. And be it enacted, That the council shall have full power to enact and pass such and so many other ordinances or by-laws for the peace, good government, order, welfare and convenience of the city as they may deem necessary, proper and expedient, not repugnant to this act or to the constitution of this state or the United States, and to fix a penalty for the violation thereof not exceeding a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment in the city or county jail not exceeding ten days.

55. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to pass ordinances appropriating and providing for raising by taxation moneys for the following purposes:

I. For lighting the streets of the city;

II. For the support of the police department;

III. For the maintenance of the fire department;

IV. For regulating, cleaning and keeping in repair streets, highways and sidewalks;

V. For additions or repairs to public buildings;

VI. For the relief of the poor and sick;

VII. For water for the extinguishment of fires;

VIII. For the payment of interest upon the debt of the city and such part of the principal as shall from time to time become due and payable;

IX. For any sinking fund required or deemed advisable to be raised;

X. For the general and incidental expenses of the city, including the printing and publication of minutes of council, ordinances and such other matters required by law to be published;

XI. For the support of public schools;

XII. For the protection and maintenance of the health of the city;

XIII. For the support of an emergency hospital for contagious diseases;

XIV. For drainage and the repair of public drainage systems, also for sewerage purposes in cities owning and operating public sewerage systems;

XV. To provide funds to meet any note, bond or other obligation of the city maturing in any year and not otherwise provided for by law or the ordinances of the city;

XVI. For regulating, maintaining or protecting public grounds and parks; and no appropriation shall be made or ordered for any other purpose, except by a majority of the voters of the city voting at an annual city election.

56. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to provide by contract for the lighting of the streets, avenues and public places of the city, in such places as they in their judgment may deem necessary.

57. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to provide for a supply of pure and wholesome water to the inhabitants; and for extinguishing fires, by contract either with private corporations or with adjoining municipalities owning or controlling water works; and the council shall have power to fix and determine the terms and conditions upon which private companies may lay their mains or pipes in the streets of the city.

58. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to borrow money temporarily in the name of the city in anticipation of appropriated revenues not exceeding in amount one-half of such anticipated revenues.

59. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power at any time to direct a special election to fill any vacancy that may occur in their own body.

60. And be it enacted, That the city council shall appoint three discreet persons, residents and freeholders of the city, to be commissioners of assessment, and who shall hold their offices for three years; the said commissioners shall make all assessments for improvements of every kind under this act; provided, that if any of the said commissioners shall be interested in the matter of any such assessments, the council shall appoint some discreet and impartial freeholder or freeholders, resident in said city to act in regard to such assessment in lieu of the commissioner or commissioners interested therein as aforesaid; and every report of assessments made by commissioners of assessment shall be accompanied by the oath or affirmation of each commissioner making the same that he is not interested, directly or indirectly, in the matter of the assessment, and that he has performed his duties in relation thereto honestly, faithfully and impartially, to the best of his ability, skill and understanding, which oath or affirmation the clerk of said city is hereby authorized to administer; and the first commissioners appointed under this act shall determine among themselves by lot which of them shall serve for one, two and three years respectively, and thereafter annually one commissioner shall be appointed to serve for the full term of three years.

61. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power and they are hereby authorized by ordinance—

To lay out, open, straighten, widen and extend any street, avenue or highway, or any part or section thereof, and to take and appropriate for such purpose any necessary lands and real estate upon making compensation to the owners thereof as hereinafter provided;

To provide for grading and altering the grade of streets and avenues in the city, and filling, macadamizing, guttering, curbing, bridging, planking, graveling, paving and repairing the same;

To make and adopt a general plan of sewerage and drainage for the city or any section thereof, conformably to which all public and private sewers, drains, receiving basins and all other appurtenances of sewerage and drainage shall be made;

To provide for the construction, maintenance and extension of a proper sewerage system for the city, by contract, either with private corporations or with adjoining municipalities owning and operating a sewerage system; and the council shall have power to fix and determine the terms and conditions upon which private sewerage companies may lay their mains and pipes in the streets of the city.

62. And be it enacted, That in any city incorporated under this act having a sewerage system which is owned and operated by the city in its corporate capacity, the city council shall have power by ordinance to levy annually a special tax for sewerage purposes and to appropriate the money derived therefrom for the construction, extension and repair of the public sewerage system; to provide for taking land and real estate for building the same and for acquiring an outlet for sewers over and through lands adjoining municipalities; provided, that the consent of such adjoining municipality and of such other municipality (if any) as may in any manner be affected by such outlet shall be to that end first obtained; provided, however, that no ordinance for any such purposes shall be passed except in the manner herein stated and unless it shall receive the votes of two-thirds of the members of the city council.

63. And be it enacted, That streets or sections of streets shall be laid out, opened, straightened, extended, widened or otherwise changed as to their boundaries, in the following manner and not otherwise; a petition, in writing, signed by the owners of one-sixth of the property fronting on the improvement desired, shall be presented to the council, setting forth accurately the improvement desired; if the council shall favor the petition the same shall be referred to the commissioners of assessment and a city surveyor not interested in such improvement, who shall thereupon make a map of such improvement showing the real estate to be taken therefor, and all property which in the judgment of said commissioners will be specially benefited thereby, designating each lot and parcel on said map by a letter or number; said commissioners shall also ascertain, so far as practicable, the name of the owners of said real estate to be taken and property to be benefited, and the interest of each of the owners of real estate to be taken, and when such names or estates are not known they shall so report; they shall also appraise the value of the interest of each known owner of real estate to be taken, and the damage to be done to such owner by taking the same; and where the estates in any plot of land are unknown, they shall appraise the value of or the damage done to the fee simple; said commissioners shall also estimate all other expenses likely, in their judgment to attend the completion of the improvement; said commissioners shall also estimate the amount likely to be realized from the sale of any buildings, or parts of buildings, required to be taken on account of said improvement; and shall so determine the probable net cost of making the improvement; this probable net cost they shall then assess upon the lands to be specially benefited, in proportion to the benefits to be received; thereupon they shall, under their hands, make a report of the facts ascertained and of the appraisements, estimates, determinations and assessments made by them concerning said improvement, and shall file such report and their map with the clerk of the city; thereupon the said clerk shall cause a notice of the filing of said map and report to be printed in one or more newspapers of the city, or, if there be none, in a newspaper published in the county and circulating in the city, for a period of two weeks, which notice shall contain a general description of the improvement intended, of the land to be taken and of the land to be assessed therefor, and shall state the time and place when and where the council will meet to hear and consider any objections to said report or to the improvement, which may be presented in writing; said clerk shall also, within said period, cause notices to the same effect to be posted at points not over three hundred feet apart along the whole line of said improvement; the time appointed for hearing such objections being not less than ten days after the expiration of said period of two weeks, and shall also, within the said period, serve a copy of such notice upon resident owners of real estate affected thereby; but the omission of the clerk to serve such notice shall not invalidate any of said proceedings; and all objections at such time and place, presented in writing, the council shall consider and adjudicate upon, and the awards or assessments made in said report may be corrected accordingly; a copy of which correction, signed by the chairman of the council, shall be filed with the said clerk within twenty days after the expiration of said period of two weeks; if the said council shall then determine to make said improvement, notwithstanding any objections to the same, the said council shall confirm said awards, with the corrections, if any, and pass an ordinance ordering said improvement to be made and completed in such manner as said council may direct, under the supervision of said commissioners of assessments; provided, the said council shall not proceed to make any such improvement if the owners of the property subject to more than one-half of the assessment for the improvement shall remonstrate against the same being made; the said council shall also pass a resolution directing the several sums awarded to be paid to the persons to whom the awards are made for real estate taken and damages sustained in making said improvement, and upon the passage of such resolution the fee simple of said real estate to be taken shall be vested in the city; provided, that where the commissioners shall have reported the name or estates of the owners of any plot as unknown, the said resolution shall direct the sum of the award on account of such plot to be paid to the owners thereof, when and as their interest may appear, and any such owner or person interested, in said land may, by bill in chancery, according to the practice of that court, have the said sum distributed or in whole or in part paid over to him as law and justice may require; after the completion of said improvement the said commissioners shall ascertain and determine the actual net cost thereof, and shall assess, as hereinafter provided, such actual net cost upon the lands specially benefited in proportion to the benefit received.

64. And be it enacted, That whenever, by the report and map of the said commissioners corrected as aforesaid, it shall appear that an award has been made to any person for property taken or damages sustained, and that such person is also assessed for benefits received on account of the same improvement, then if the assessment equal or exceed the award, no payment shall be made on account of such award; and if the award exceed the assessment, only so much of the award as is in excess shall be paid, and the resolution of the council ordering the awards to be paid shall be framed accordingly; and when the amount to be assessed shall be finally determined, such amount shall be set off against the amount of the award unpaid; and if the amount of the award unpaid be in excess, the assessment shall be cancelled, and such excess only shall be paid to the person to whom the award is made; and if the amount of the assessment be in excess, the award unpaid shall be cancelled, and such excess only shall be a lien upon the property assessed; the rest of the award or assessment, as the case may be, being also cancelled.

65. And be it enacted, That whenever any person who shall have presented objections as aforesaid, to an award, shall be dissatisfied with the determination of the council, thereupon such person may commence an action on contract against the said city in the circuit court of the county or in the supreme court of this state (provided that the trial shall be had in the county in which such city is located), which action shall proceed in all things as if such city had, upon taking the real estate required for the said improvement, agreed in writing to pay therefor the value thereof and the damage done by taking the same; and if in said action the plaintiff shall recover more than the amount awarded as aforesaid, he shall recover his taxable costs according to law; and if he shall not recover more than the amount awarded, then the defendant shall recover his taxable costs against the plaintiff and shall be entitled to have them deducted from the amount recovered by the plaintiff, and execution shall issue only for the balance, the assessment (if any) against the plaintiff being also deducted from the amount of the judgment; provided, always, that no such action shall be brought by any person who may have received payment of the amount awarded, nor unless notice that such action will be brought be filed with the clerk of said council within sixty days after the confirmation of the award, nor unless such action be commenced within six months after such confirmation; provided, further, that the judge of the said circuit court may, upon petition, for good cause shown, and upon such terms as he may direct, dispense with either or all of the provisions in the last proviso contained.

66. And be it enacted, That any street or section of a street may be graded, flagged, macadamized, paved, curbed, guttered or otherwise improved, as hereinbefore provided, in the following manner, namely, on the petition in writing to the council by the owners of one-sixth of the lands fronting on the street proposed to be improved, the council shall, by resolution, direct the city clerk to advertise such application or petition and the notice hereinafter provided for, for at least two weeks, one in each week successively, in one or more newspapers of the city, or, if there be none, in one or more newspapers published in the county and circulating in the city, and to post copies of the said petition and notice in five public places in the city, designated by the council, at least ten days prior to time fixed for the hearing of objections to such improvement; the clerk shall also publish and post as aforesaid, with the petition, a notice signed by him stating that objections in writing to said proposed improvement shall be filed with him and designating the time and place when and where the city council will meet to consider such objections, which time shall not be less than ten days after the date of the first publication of such petition and notice as aforesaid; and the said clerk shall also serve like notice on the owners of property residing along the street so proposed to be improved, at least five days before the time designated in said notice; provided, however that no assessment shall be set aside or affected by reason of the failure of said clerk to serve such notice; and at or before the time named in such notice the said clerk shall file in his office affidavits showing that such petition and notice have been published and posted as herein required; at the time named in such notice the council shall proceed to consider such objections as shall have been presented, and if it appear that the owners of a majority of the land fronting on such proposed improvement have objected thereto, such improvement shall not be made, and all costs and expenses incurred in such proceedings shall be paid by the petitioners, to secure which the council shall in all cases require a deposit of twenty dollars beofre receiving any petition; and in case the owners of a majority of the lands fronting on the proposed improvements have not objected thereto, the council may, in its discretion, determine not to make such improvement, in which case the deposit made by the petitioner or petitioners shall be returned to him or them; and the defeat of any ordinance for such improvements, introduced before the council, shall be conclusive as to the determination of the council not to make such improvement; at any time after the time named in said notice of objections, the council may proceed to pass an ordinance for such improvement, and such ordinance shall be valid if it describes in general language the improvement required to be made and done, and it shall not be necessary to state therein any other matter or thing connected with such improvement; the city clerk shall publish and post such ordinance in the same manner and for the same time he is required to publish and post the petition for the improvement described therein; and he shall file in his office an affidavit showing that such ordinance has been duly published and posted; at any time after the passage of such ordidance the council may require the clerk to advertise for proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials necessary for such improvement, in one or more newspapers of the city and in such other newspapers as shall be designated by the council, which proposals shall be presented in such form and manner and under such regulations as the council shall prescribe; upon the coming in of such proposals the council may enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidders on the terms of their proposals; provided, however, that the council may reject all bids if they deem it for the interest of the city so to do, in which case they shall again advertise for proposals and shall proceed in all things as if no proposals had been offered; and the council shall require the person or persons so entering into contract with the city to give bonds with ample freehold security for the due performance thereof.

67. And be it enacted, That all proceedings for the opening, widening, extending, grading, regulating and otherwise improving streets and avenues which may be pending and remain unfinished and incomplete at the time of the incorporation under or adoption of this act by any town, borough, township or part thereof, shall be proceeded with and completed under the laws in force at the time such proceedings were commenced, and as if such town, borough, township, or part thereof had not become incorporated under this act.

68. And be it enacted, That in cities having a sewerage system which is owned and operated by the city in its corporate capacity, sewers may be built and constructed in any of the streets of the city under the control of the city authorities on the petition of owners of one-sixth of the land adjoining the proposed route of the sewer; and the proceedings, after receiving such petition, shall be in all respects the same as are hereinbefore set forth for flagging and grading of streets, and all the provisions of this act relating to flagging and grading of streets shall be applicable to proceedings for the construction of sewers, except as modified in and by this section.

69. And be it enacted, That the council may appoint one or more inspectors over the work and materials of any street or sewer or sidewalk improvement, and may fix the compensation; the amount of such compensation shall be included in and form part of the cost of the improvement.

70. And be it enacted, That before the council accept any work on any sewer or street improvement, or any final payment be made to the contractor, the council shall publish as aforesaid a notice stating when the council shall meet to receive and consider objections in writing, the work and materials done and used in such improvement, and if any such objections shall appear to be well founded, the council shall take such action thereon as in their judgment the interests of the city shall require.

71. And be it enacted, That where it shall be necessary in the construction of any public sewer to take or use private property for that purpose, the council shall have power to provide, in the ordinance for the building or constructing of any such sewer, for the taking of such private property as is necessary; for made for lands so taken shall be determined and made by the commissioners of assessment, who shall report the same to the council, and thereafter the proceedings shall be the same in all respects as are hereinbefore provided for opening of streets.

72. And be it enacted, That where any city shall be so situated that it shall have no immediate outlet for sewerage, except through adjoining municipalities or by connection with sewers existing or contemplated to be built in adjoining municipalities, it shall be lawful for the city council of the city and the governing body of such adjoining municipality to enter into contract for the payment of a sum in gross by such city for the right to connect with any sewer or sewers in such adjoining municipality, and the amount of such contract price shall be included in the costs of making the sewer in and through such city which it is proposed so to connect with the sewer, in the adjoining municipality, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter directed as if such contract price were portion of the cost of wholly constructing the sewer within the territorial limits of the city.

73. And be it enacted, That the council shall have power to issue improvement certificates, payable within one year or less with interest to the amount of eighty per centum of the work done on any street, sewer or other improvement when certified as correct by the engineer in charge of the work; and when the contract is fully completed and the work is accepted, the city council may issue a certificate for an additional fifteen per centum of said work done, and in not less than three nor more than six months after the date of the acceptance of the work may issue a final certificate for the balance due, unless some error or defects in the work shall have appeared, in which case the certificate shall be withheld until the defect or errors are rectified to the satisfaction of the council.

74. And be it enacted, That the cost and expense of widening, opening extending, grading curbing, flagging or macadamizing any street or constructing or extending any sewer, and after the completion thereof the whole cost of any such street or sewer or other improvement shall be ascertained and determined by the commissioners of assessment, and such cost and expense shall be assessed upon the lands and real estate specially benefited by the improvement in proportion to the benefit received; the commissioners shall file their report with the city clerk, which shall be accompanied by a map showing what lots and parcels of land are benefitted by the improvement, the amount assessed as benefits upon each lot or parcel of land, and the names of the owners of the several lots and parcels of land assessed, so far as the commissioners can ascertain the same; but no assessment shall be deemed defective by reason of any mistake in the names of the owners of lands assessed, or omitting the said names of any of them; the clerk shall publish and post notices in the same way and manner hereinbefore prescribed for publishing and posting the petition for the improvement and its accompanying notice, stating that the map and report of the commissioners have been filed in his office and that the council will consider any objections to such report, map and assessment presented in writing on or before a day named in such notice to be fixed by the city council, which day shall be at least ten days after the first publication of such notices; after considering such report, map and assessment, and such objections as may have been presented against the same, the said council may confirm the said report, map and assessment, or if deemed necessary may return the same to the commissioners for revision and correction, who shall return the same corrected and revised without unnecessary delay; and thereafter the council may, without further notice, confirm the said report, assessment and map.

75. And be it enacted, That no certiorari, injunction or other writ of process shall be allowed or granted to set aside any ordinance for any improvement after the contract thereof shall have been awarded by the council of, the city, and no certiorari, injunction or other writ of process shall be allowed or granted to set aside any assessment made for any sewer or street improvement of any kind after thirty days shall have elapsed from the date of the confirmation of such assessment by the council of such city.

76. And be it enacted, That the city shall not issue any bond or bonds for any purpose whatever unless the proposal for the same shall first be recommended by the mayor to the city council, then be approved by a majority vote of the said council, and then submitted to the voters of the city at an annual or special election, and a majority of the votes cast at such election shall have voted in favor thereof; and provided, further, that it shall not be lawful for the city to issue its corporate bond or bonds for any sum in the aggregate exceeding six per centum of the taxable value of the property rated for assessment; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any city incorporated under this act having a population exceeding twelve thousand inhabitants, and all cities to which this act shall apply, now or hereafter having twelve thousand or more inhabitants, shall have the like power and authority as to the issuance of bonds for any purposes, as that conferred upon cities of the second class in this state by any general law, now or hereafter applicable to such cities, the same to be issued in like manner as the same may be issued by such cities or in the manner and form provided for the issuance of bonds or other obligations, or authorizing the issuance of the same, under the provisions of this act.

77. And be it enacted, That whenever the mayor and city council of any city incorporated under this act are authorized by the vote of the people to issue any bonds of the city, said bond or bonds shall bear the name of the improvement or purpose for which issued; said bond or bonds may be either registered or coupon, or both, as may be determined by the city council; they shall be signed by the mayor and city clerk, with the corporate seal affixed and countersigned by the treasurer; they shall be made payable in not less than five years or more than thirty years from the date thereof respectively, and shall be of such denominations and bear such interest at not more than five per centum as may be determined by the city council; the interest shall be payable semi-annually, and the bonds may be disposed of at public or private sale under such terms and conditions as the council may direct, at not less than par; and all moneys derived from the sale of the same shall be used solely for the purposes for which the same were issued; further that the interest on said bond or bonds shall be raised each year by taxation, together with not less than three and one half per centum of the principal, as may be determined by the city council; said portion of the principal to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal.

78. And be it enacted, That the city council shall prescribe by resolution or ordinance the manner of payment of all interest that may fall due on any city indebtedness, whether the same be interest on bonds, registered or coupon, or upon any other class or character of indebtedness.

79. And be it enacted, That all moneys received for licenses, and all other moneys received and not specifically appropriated, shall be paid into the incidental fund.

80. And be it enacted, That all taxes and assessments in such city shall bear interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum from the time the same became due and payable.

81. And be it enacted, That all taxes and all assessments heretofore or hereafter levied, assessed or made upon any lands, tenements or real estate, situate in such city, shall be and remain a lien thereon until paid, notwithstanding any devise, descent, alienation, mortgage or other incumbrance thereof; and if the full amount of any such tax or assessment shall not be paid and satisfied within such time as shall be limited and appointed for the council for the payment thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the council to cause such lands, tenements or real estate to be sold at public auction for the shortest term for which any person will agree to take the same and pay such tax or assessment, or the balance due thereof remaining unpaid, with the interest thereon, and all costs, charges and expenses, and to execute under the common seal of said city a declaration of such sale to be signed by the chairman of the council and the city clerk, and to deliver the same to the purchaser, and such purchaser, his executors, administrators or assigns, shall by virtue thereof, lawfully hold and enjoy the said lands, tenements or real estate for his and their own proper use against the owner or owners thereof, and all persons claiming under him or them, until said term shall be completed and ended; provided, the said council shall first have caused said sale to be advertised for at least two months in one or more newspapers published in the city, or, if none, then at least in one newspaper published in the county and circulating in such city, and also by advertisements put up in at least five public places in such city, which advertisement shall prescribe the said lands, tenements or real estate and specify the amount of assessment or tax; and the recitals in such declaration of sale shall be evidence of the assessment, advertising and sale; and provided, also, that the purchaser shall not be entitled to possession of lands so purchased until the period herein limited for redemption shall have expired; and provided, also, that the lands, tenements or real estate so sold may be redeemed by the owner, mortgagee, occupant or person interested therein, or by any other persons, or in behalf of the owner, mortgagee or claimant of such lands, tenements, or real estate, at any time within two years after the sale for either taxes or assessments, or for both, by paying to the treasurer of the city for the use of said purchaser, the purchase money together with any other sum paid for tax or assessment, which the said purchaser may have paid, chargeable on such lands, tenements or real estate and which he is hereby authorized to do, with interest thereon at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum, in addition thereto; and the certificate of the treasurer of the city, stating the payments, and showing what lands, tenements or real estate such payment is intended to redeem, shall be evidence of such redemption; any mortgagee shall have power to redeem at any time until the expiration of the six months' notice therein specified; no mortgagee whose mortgage shall have been duly recorded before sale for any tax or assessment shall be affected by such sale until six months' notice, in writing, shall have been given to him, either personally or if not to be found in said city, then such notice shall be deposited in the post office in said city, directed to him at his last known place of residence (or at the post office nearest thereto), but nothing therein contained shall be so construed as to impair the lien created by such tax, assessment or sale; and provided, the same term of time for which any lands, tenements or real estate so sold as aforesaid shall not commence, nor shall said purchaser or those claiming under him have a right of possession to said lands, tenements or real estate until the two years limited for the redemption of the same shall have expired, and the said purchaser or those claiming under him shall, at the expiration of the time limited in such declaration of sale, quit and surrender the said lands, tenements or real estate in as good state and condition as when he entered thereon, natural wear and accidents excepted; provided, also that the said sale may be adjourned or postponed from time to time, or suspended, as the council or their committee, appointed to attend to said sale, may direct; and provided, that if at any sale of lands, tenements or real estate, for assessment or taxes, the whole or any part thereof shall remain unsold for want of purchasers, then it shall be lawful for the said council or said committee to adjourn sale not less than thirty days nor more than sixty days; twenty days' notice at least, by publication for two weeks and posting, shall be given as aforesaid of the said adjourned sale; and if, at such adjourned sale, there shall be no purchasers for said lands, tenements or real estate, or for any part thereof, then it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the said city to purchase the said lands, tenements or real estate for any term not exceeding one hundred years for the benefit of the city, subject to the same redemption as hereinbefore provided for; provided, also, that all moneys paid for the redemption of said lands, tenements or real estate as aforesaid, together with all taxes and assessments paid by any mortgagee or judgment creditor, shall be a lien upon said lands, tenements or real estate for the amount so paid, with interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum and such lien shall have precedence over all other liens on said lands, tenements or real estate; provided, further, that a complete record of all taxes and assessments shall be kept in the city clerk's office, which record shall contain the time when such assessment and taxes were laid, the time when they were paid (and if the property has been sold therefor), the time of said sale and to whom sold, and if redeemed, when and by whom; it shall be the duty of the city clerk to enter in a book to be called "record of sales," a minute of all declarations of all sales, and to give certificates of search in relation to liens to any person or persons applying for the same, and to cancel such declarations when the property for which they were given shall be redeemed, on the certificate of the city treasurer of such redemption, and to file such certificate in the said clerk's office; it shall be the duty of the treasurer to make out two certificates of all property redeemed, one for the person redeeming and one to be filed in said clerk's office; it shall be lawful for the council of said city to sell, assign and transfer any declaration of sale or any term in lands purchased for the benefit of said city as aforesaid, or any portion of a term for such price as said council may think proper.

82. And be it enacted, That the assessor shall levy a tax upon every person who owns or has the care of any dog, male or female, as follows: one dollar for each male dog, and three dollars for every female dog, in lieu of the state law, which tax shall be appropriated to the support of the school.

83. And be it enacted, That the assessor shall complete his assessment and present his books to the council for examination by the third Monday in September, annually; and the council shall complete their examination of the same by the first Monday in October; immediately thereafter the collector shall give notice as required by section ten of the tax act, and within thirty days thereafter the collector shall make the demand and give the notice as required by section eleven of the tax act, and the day fixed by him for the payment thereof shall not be later than December twentieth.

84. And be it enacted, That all the property, real and personal, of the several school districts existing within the limits of any city, borough, township or part thereof before its incorporation under the provisions of this act, shall, upon such incorporation, become and be the property of such incorporated city, and shall be held in its corporate name, and the several obligations, contracts and debts of said previously existing school district shall be assumed by and shall become and be the obligations, contracts and debts of said incorporated city, and that the board of education shall possess and exercise all the powers and perform all the duties by law vested in or imposed upon the trustees of school districts; they shall also organize annually by choosing a chairman and a clerk, and may establish schools and provide for their government and shall keep all school property in good repair; they shall define and fix the duties and compensation of their clerk, who shall also perform all duties enjoined by law on district clerks; provided, that no property shall be bought or building erected by the said board unless a majority of the voters of the city voting at an annual or special city election shall have voted an appropriation for that purpose; in case any appropriation for the purchase of land and the erection of a school building shall be voted by the electors of the city at any city election, the council shall issue bonds in the corporate name of the city for the amount of such appropriation in such denominations as they shall deem proper; such bonds shall be designated "school bonds," and be issued as herein provided; the proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be held by the city treasurer, and shall be paid out by him on the warrants of the board of education; at any time after an appropriation is voted as aforesaid, the board of education may purchase the necessary land and enter into contract for the erection of a school building thereon, the title to which property shall be vested in the city by its corporate name.

85. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the city council to provide by ordinance that where any street in such city shall be improved by being guttered, curbed, macadamized or paved, in pursuance of the authority conferred by this act, for the board of assessment to ascertain as in this act provided, the entire cost of making the improvement, and for them to apportion such entire cost upon the lands and among the owners along the lines of the street or section improved, pro rata according to the number of lineal feet upon the lines of such street or section in the tracts or lot of the several owners respectively, having concern as to the actual benefit which such improvement will confer upon the several owners assessed, and providing for notice to be given to the owners of such assessment, and of the time and place for hearing objections thereto; at which time the whole sum appropriated to any owner may be paid into the hands of the receiver of taxes; after said meeting it shall be lawful to provide in said ordinance to issue bonds of the said city made and executed as shall be provided in said ordinance, to an amount sufficient to pay the balance of the costs of such improvement; said bonds shall be payable in not exceeding ten years from their date, shall bear interest at not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and shall not be sold for less than par; after such meeting it shall be the duty of such of the board of assessment to apportion the entire amount of the bonds so issued among the owners and upon the lands along the lines of the street or section improved, upon the same basis as the original apportionment of cost, excepting the land of the owner or owners who shall have paid as aforesaid; said apportionment shall be delivered to the city clerk or other officer provided in such ordinance, and shall be by him recorded and shall be competent evi-

Continued on page 12.

CHAPTER CCCXXVI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to enable the owners of the tide swamps and marshes to improve the same, and the owners of meadows already banked in and held by different persons, to keep the same in good repair," passed November twenty-ninth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the meadow lands lying within the bounds of two or more adjoining meadow banking companies whether organized under special acts or general laws, are so situated that a breach in the bank of one of said companies would permit the overflow of the tide upon the meadow lands lying within the bounds of all of such adjoining companies, it shall and may be lawful for said meadow companies to consolidate in the manner hereinafter provided and thereafter to have, hold, erect, make and maintain the banks, ditches, dams, sluices floodgates and other works of said companies which shall so consolidate, by assessments upon all the lands lying within the banks of said consolidated companies, to be made, enforced and collected in the manner provided by the act to which this act is a supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That when the owners of a majority of the number of acres of lands lying within the bounds of each of such adjoining meadow banking companies shall sign and acknowledge in the manner required for the acknowledgment of deeds of lands an assent to a certificate setting forth: first, the names of each of said companies which propose to consolidate, and the township and county in which its meadow lands are located; second, the number of taxable acres of lands lying within the bounds of each of said companies, the names of each of the owners of said lands, and the number of taxable acres which each owner may hold; third, a map of the said lands lying within the bounds of each of said companies, showing their relation to each other and also the location of the banks, dams, ditches, sluices and flood-gates of the said companies, when consolidated; fourth, that the said owners of a majority of taxable acres lying within the bounds of each of said companies desire that said companies shall be consolidated, so that their banks, sluices, ditches and other water works shall be erected and maintained by assessments upon all the lands lying within the bounds of said consolidated company; fifth, the name of said consolidated company; and having so signed and acknowledged said assenting certificate, shall file the same in the office of the clerk of the county in which said lands lie, the said several adjoining meadow banking companies shall then and from thenceforth become and be consolidated under the name set forth in said certificate.

3. And be it enacted, That from and after the said consolidation, the said consolidated company, and the owners of lands lying within the bounds thereof and the officers of said company whenever thereafter elected, shall and may have and possess, exercise and enforce all the rights, powers and authorities which may be possessed, exercised or enforced by meadow companies organized under the act to which this act is a supplement, and in the same way and manner as prescribed in said act or in the several supplements thereto, and shall also be subject to the performance of the same duties and be liable to the same penalties as are therein prescribed.

4. And be it enacted, That all debts and obligations, assessments and charges existent or outstanding against any of said meadow companies or against any lands lying within the bounds of any of said companies at the time of such consolidation shall not be in any way or manner affected by this act or by any proceedings had or done hereunder, but shall be and remain of full force and effect, and may be sued for or assessed, enforced and collected, as if this act had not been passed.

5. And be it enacted, That any two or more of the owners of lands lying within the bounds of said consolidated meadow banking company may call a meeting of the owners of the lands lying within the said bounds, their legal agents or representatives, for the electing of officers of said consolidated company by giving public notice of the time and place of such meeting, and of the object thereof, at least ten days before the time fixed for holding of said meeting, by setting up at least five of such notices in five of the most public places in the township where said lands lie and by publishing such notice in one public newspaper printed and published at the county seat of the county where said lands lie at least seven days before the time fixed for the holding of said meeting; and when said meeting shall convene at the time and place so appointed, the said owners, their legal agents or representatives may between the hours of one and five in the afternoon, choose by ballot or otherwise, and by plurality of votes of those met, such person or persons as they may think proper for manager or managers, and a treasurer and clerk for the ensuing year, or until the next annual meeting and may also fix a time and place for the annual meetings of said consolidated company to be thereafter held and may also choose three or more impartial men acquainted with banking to value all the marsh and meadow lands, secured by the bank of said consolidated company from the overflow of the tide, as provided in section four of the act to which this act is a supplement, and thereafter such further proceedings shall be had and done touching the valuation of said meadow lands, the assessment of taxes thereon, for the erection and maintenance of the banks, sluices and water works, the collection of such assessments, and other acts concerning the business of said company, as are in like cases prescribed by the said act and the several supplements thereto.

6. And be it enacted, That from and after such consolidation the several companies which shall so as aforesaid join in said consolidation, shall be deemed to have been merged into said consolidated company, and the meadow lands lying within the bounds of said several companies which have been so merged, shall be no further liable to any assessment or charge or other exercise of power by any of said several companies or the officers thereof, save only for the collection of debts, obligations, assessments or charges existent and outstanding at the time of said consolidation, as hereinbefore provided.

7. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXVII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act relating to sales of land under a public statute or by virtue of any judicial proceeding" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and the supplements thereto.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no sale of lands made by any officer or other person since the approval of the said act and supplements shall be held to be invalid by reason of failure to comply with the provisions of said acts relating to the publishing of advertisements in newspapers; provided, that said sale or sales shall have been advertised four weeks successively in at least one newspaper, printed and published in the county, where the land is situate, whether such newspaper be published at the county seat or not; and provided, further, that all the other provisions of said last-mentioned act in relation to the publication of advertisements of sales of lands shall have been complied with, and said sale shall have been or shall hereafter be confirmed by the orphans' court; and provided, further, that this act shall not be construed to extend to any sales of land to be made after this act goes into effect.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXVIII.

An Act respecting cities of the first class and providing for filling certain vacancies in office therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in case a vacancy exists or shall hereafter exist in any city of the first class in this state in any office the sole power of appointment to which is by law vested in the mayor of such city, such mayor shall in like manner have power to fill such office for the unexpired term.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXIX.

An Act to provide for the enlargement and improvement of the state prison.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the principal keeper and supervisor of the state prison, together with the state comptroller and Edward H. Holcombe, secretary of the board of inspectors of the state prison, and Henry Dickson, be and are hereby constituted a building commission for the purpose of making such necessary enlargement and improvements in the state prison as are hereinafter provided for.

2. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners shall have power to construct an additional wing to the prison and to make such alterations in the existing buildings as may in their judgment be necessary to supply such cell room as will admit of a compliance with the laws of the state requiring separate confinement of the prisoners; they shall provide hospital accommodations for the proper care of the prisoners in illness, having in view the isolation of patients in the case of epidemic or infectious diseases; they shall provide suitable and comfortable rooms in which divine service may be held in the prison; they may, in their discretion, establish an electric light plant or make other efficient provision for lighting the prison; they shall provide store rooms for the economical care and safe keeping of provisions and other supplies, and they may make such alterations in the present buildings and walls as may be necessary and proper for the business and purposes of the prison; provided, that the plans for the erection and alterations herein authorized shall be approved by the joint committee of the legislature on the state prison and the governor of the state, or a majority of them; the commissioners shall have power to employ necessary architects, superintendents and other assistants and to fix and pay their compensations; they shall cause the erections and alterations herein authorized to be done by contract, and they shall have power to advertise for plans and contracts for the said work and the execution thereof, either as a whole or for separate parts thereof, reserving the right to reject any or all bids not deemed advantageous to the state.

3. And be it enacted, That to enable the commissioners to carry out the purposes of this act the sum of two hundred and twenty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to be paid by the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller, to the said commissioners from time to time, upon their requisitions, in such sums as may be necessary to enable them to meet the expenditures herein authorized.

4. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners shall respectively give bonds to the state of New Jersey in the sum of five thousand dollars, with two sufficient sureties to be approved by the governor, for the faithful performance of the duties imposed upon them by this act; they shall make a detailed report of their operations to the next legislature, and they shall each receive from the above-mentioned appropriation such compensation as shall be determined by the governor, comptroller and treasurer of the state.

5. And be it enacted, That an act entitled "An act to provide for the enlargement of the New Jersey state prison and to construct a hospital," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be and the same is hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any city in this state which has heretofore received the state aid for its school libraries and has consolidated the libraries into one library for the use of all the schools in said city, it shall be the duty of the state superintendent of instruction to draw his order in favor of each school in said city for the sum of ten dollars for each year that said school has failed to receive the amount due from the state for its school library since the date when said library was established, which orders shall be drawn in the same manner as other library orders are now authorized by law.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXI.

An Act to regulate the practice of law before any law or president judge of the inferior court of common pleas or county judge.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful for any practicing attorney of this state, who shall be in the employ of or who shall occupy an office with any judge aforesaid, to practice before or transact any business whatever pertaining to said practice before said judge in any court where where said judge shall preside alone or in conjunction with any other judge or judges.

2. And be it enacted, That any person violating the provisions of the first section of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall for each offense be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect on the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to prevent deception in the sale of oleomargarine, butterine or any imitation of dairy products and to preserve the public health," approved March twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person, by himself or his agents or servants, nor as an agent or servant, shall render or manufacture, sell, offer for sale, expose for sale or have in his possession with intent to sell, any article, product or compound made wholly or partly out of any fat, oil or oleaginous substance or compound thereof, not produced from unadulterated milk or cream from the same, which shall be artificially colored in imitation or semblance of yellow butter produced from pure unadulterated milk or cream of the same; provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the manufacture or sale of oleomargarine in the manner regulated by the act to which this is a supplement, and in such manner as will advise the consumer of its real character, free from artificial color that causes it to look like butter.

2. And be it enacted, That any person or persons who shall sell any article mentioned in the preceding section of this act, representing the same as butter, made from unadulterated milk or cream or any product other than it really is except in the manner provided in existing laws shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof be punished by imprisonment not exceeding six months or a penalty of two hundred dollars, in the discretion of the committing magistrate or court.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXIII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate elections," approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be in each of the counties of this state a county board of elections to consist of four persons, to be appointed by the governor yearly and every year, and who shall be legal voters within the counties for which they are respectively appointed; no more than two members of any such board shall belong to the same political party; the members of the said board shall be appointed in the month of July in each year; the chairman of the state committee of each of the two political parties which at the last preceding election for members of the general assembly cast the largest and next largest number of votes in the state, may, in June of each year, in writing, nominate two members of his own party in each county qualified as aforesaid, for members of the county board of elections in and for such county; and if such nominations be made in said month of June the governor shall appoint such nominees; the members of said county boards of elections shall continue in office for one year from the first day of August next after their appointment; in case of death or disability of any member of any of said boards the governor shall be forthwith notified thereof by the chairman or secretary of said board; the governor shall cause notice of such death or disability to be given the chairman of the state committee of the political party for which such member was appointed, and such chairman shall, within six days thereafter, nominate a successor, who shall thereupon be appointed by the governor; all appointments to fill any vacancies occurring in said boards shall be for the unexpired term only; if, in any case, either of said chairmen shall fail to make nominations to the governor within the time aforesaid the governor shall make such appointment of his own selection from the same political party; that said county boards of elections shall be provided by the board of freeholders of the respective counties with a suitable office and furniture, in the court house of the county for which they are respectively appointed, or in a building as near as possible adjacent thereto located at the county seat.

2. And be it enacted, That said county boards of election shall, at ten o'clock in the forenoon on the first Tuesday in August, or on such other day as they may agree on within the first ten days of August in each year, meet at the court house in their respective counties and organize by electing one of their number to be chairman and one to be secretary, but the chairman and secretary shall not both belong to the same political party; in case of failure to elect such chairman for three ballots or viva voce votes, then the oldest (in years) of such board shall be the chairman thereof; and on failure to elect such secretary for three ballots or viva voce votes, the member of the board next oldest (in years) to the chairman of such board, and not of the same political party, shall be secretary.

3. And be it enacted, That the county board of elections in each county shall cause to be made a complete registry of all the legal voters in their respective counties, and for that purpose shall appoint for each election district or voting precinct in the county four persons, legal voters and residents within the city, town or township in which is situated the district or voting precinct for which they are appointed, to be the board of registry and election for such election district or voting precinct; not more than two of such appointees, in each election district or voting precinct, shall belong to the same political party; the said boards of registry and election shall be appointed during the first ten days of September in each year, upon nominations made in writing by the chairman of the county committee of each of the two political parties which at the last preceding general election cast the largest and next largest number of votes in said county for members of the general assembly; said nominations shall be made after the tenth and no later than the twentieth day of August in each year; and in event that either chairmen so designated shall neglect to file such nominations in the manner and within the time herein prescribed, the county board of elections shall immediately cause notice to be given to said chairman, and he may supply the deficiency in the list of nominations on or before September first next following, and the county board of elections shall appoint said nominees; if the chairman of either of the county committees herein designated, shall fail to present in the manner and within the time herein specified a list of nominees for appointment as members of the district boards of registry and election, the county board of elections shall supply any deficiency in the list of nominees from members of the political party of which the delinquent chairman is a member; provided, however, that all nominees shall answer in writing, over their own signatures and to the satisfaction of the county board of elections, all reasonable questions submitted to them or prepared for that purpose by the county board of elections, which refer to the efficiency, eligibility and character of the nominees, and bearing upon their fitness to serve as members of the board of registry and election; and provided, also, that the county board of elections may remove from office any member or members of any board of registry and election for neglecting or refusing to properly discharge the duties of his office, for failing to perform at the time required by law the duties of his office, for intoxication, for incapacity or for deceit or falsehood exercised in securing his own appointment; and all police officers, constables, sheriffs and peace officers are hereby required to remove summarily, by force if necessary, any member of the board of registry and election in said county whose removal has been ordered in writing by the county board of elections, attested by the signatures of the chairman and secretary of such board; the vacancy so made shall be filed immediately by the county board of elections, but for the unexpired term only.

4. And be it enacted, That the terms of office of the members of the district boards of registry and election, appointed under this act, shall begin on September eleventh of each year, and expire on September tenth of the following year, or when their successors are appointed and qualified; all vacancies in the district boards of registry and election shall be filled by the county boards of elections in the same manner as hereinbefore provided for the filling of vacancies, but for the unexpired term only; provided, however, that in case of a vacancy occurring in said board on the day of election by reason of the absence or disability of a member, except in case of removal by order of the county board of elections, such vacancy shall be immediately filled by the member of the district board of the same political party as the member whose place has become vacant; such appointment shall be immediately reported to the county board of elections; the district boards of election shall meet within ten days after their appointment, within the municipality for which they are appointed, at a place to be agreed upon by at least three members of the board; each of such boards shall elect one of their members as judge and another one of their members as inspector; such judge and inspector shall be members of opposite political parties, and the other two members of the board shall be the clerks of election, and shall perform all the duties required by law of the clerks of registry and election; in case of failure to elect a judge as herein provided, after balloting or voting three times, the member of the board oldest in years shall become judge, and in case of failure to elect an inspector, after balloting or voting three times, the oldest member of the board in years of the opposite political party shall become the inspector; the inspector shall deliver to the voters the ballots and official envelopes, and the judge shall receive from the voters and deposit in the ballot box the ballots, enclosed in the official envelopes as presented to him by the voters on the day of election; one of the clerks, to be designated by the judge, shall keep the registry on the day of election, checking off the names written thereon when the voters deposit their ballots, and the other clerk shall keep the poll book, writing therein and numbering seriatim the name of those whose votes are received in the order in which the voters deposit their ballots; in the counting of the votes, after the polls are closed, the judge shall take the ballots from the box singly, and reading the names thereon and the offices designated in connection therewith, shall hand the ballot, open, with the official envelope, to the inspector, who shall replace the ballot in the envelope, number the envelope and string it as is now provided by law; the two clerks shall each keep a tally of the votes as they are called off by the judge.

5. And be it enacted, That the district boards of registry and election in all districts and cities having by the next preceding census a population exceeding forty thousand shall meet annually on the Tuesday five weeks next preceding the annual election for members of the general assembly, at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the places in their respective election districts or precincts where the next election will be held, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters, residents of the election district or precinct for which they are appointed; they shall make two lists or registries, arranged by streets in the alphabetical order of such streets, and by street numbers, if any there be and if not, by the order of the houses as they occur upon any avenue, street or road in such district or precinct; they shall register the names of all persons in their respective election districts or precincts entitled to the right of suffrage therein at the next election, who shall personally appear before them for that purpose, and such other persons, as shall be shown by the written affidavit of a voter residing in the same election district to be lawfully entitled to vote at the ensuing election; provided, that no person shall be registered if his right is challenged unless he shall, by affidavit or otherwise, prove to the satisfaction of the majority of the board that he is entitled to vote in that election district or precinct at the next election therein; and provided, that no person so applying shall be registered unless a majority of the board of registry and election shall be satisfied that he will be justly entitled to vote in that election district or precinct at the ensuing election; on the day succeeding such meeting a copy of the registry as made up and arranged under the provisions of this section shall be posted by each of the clerks, in hand-bill form, in some conspicuous place in such election district.

6. And be it enacted, That the said district boards of registry and election in cities having by the next preceding census a population exceeding forty thousand shall also meet in the same place on the Tuesday four weeks next preceding the general election and finally, on the Tuesday three weeks next preceding the general election, for the purpose of revising and correcting the registries, of adding thereto the names of all persons entitled to the right of suffrage in that election district or precinct at the next election, who shall appear in person before them and establish to the satisfaction of a majority of the board that they are entitled to vote in that election district or precinct at the next election therein, or who shall be shown by the written affidavit of a voter residing in the same election district or precinct to be so entitled to vote; a separate affidavit shall be required for each person so registered, which shall contain the address of the affiant and be signed by him; such affidavit or affidavits shall be preserved in the custody of the member of the board of registry and election acting as judge until the completion of the registry; upon the completion of such registry all such affidavits shall be delivered by such judge to the county board of elections, who shall give a receipt for the same, stating the number received, and the said county board of election shall preserve such affidavits for three months after election or until required to produce the same by any court or judicial tribunal authorized to require their production as evidence in such court or judicial tribunal; and it shall be the further duty of the district board of election to erase from such registry the name of any person or persons who, after a fair opportunity to be heard, shall be shown by due proof not to be entitled to vote in such election district, by reason of non-residence or otherwise; three copies of the revised registry shall be made by the board of registry and election, which shall be so written as to show opposite each name in such copies of the registry the manner in which each voter registered, whether he appeared in person before such board or was registered by affidavit; if by affidavit, the name of the person making such affidavit shall follow the name of the person so registered in a space or column provided for that purpose; and such revised registries shall be arranged by streets and by street numbers in the same manner as is required with respect to the lists to be made on the first registry day; the registry of names in each election district or precinct shall be made up for the general election annually as herein provided, and shall not be copied from the registry of the previous year or of any previous election, either in whole or in part; on the day succeeding the final completion of the registry, one copy thereof shall be delivered by the judge to be filed with the county board of elections; one copy shall be posted at the place of registry and election in said district for public inspection and one copy shall be retained by the judge for use by the district board on the day of election.

7. And be it enacted, That the authority heretofore vested in and the duties heretofore devolving upon the respective clerks of municipalities for the appointment and issuing of permits to agents or challengers (so called) is hereby transferred to, vested in and devolved upon the county board of elections; and the nominations or appointments heretofore made by the chairmen of county committees or candidates affect the appointment or selection of such agents shall hereafter be addressed and delivered to the county board of elections; and the certificate of appointment by the county board shall first be filed with the several boards before the persons so appointed shall be authorized to act, and such permits may be issued, and revoked and others appointed in their stead at any time up to and including the day of election; provided, however, that when a permit shall be revoked, the new permit in the place thereof shall be issued upon the nomination of the same person or officer upon whose nomination the original permit was issued.

8. And be it enacted, That no member of any district board of registry and election shall sign any returns of election until after the completion of the counting of votes and his personal examination of the tally sheets to determine the results; the counting of the votes shall commence immediately upon the closing of the polls on the day of election; the board shall proceed in an open and public manner to read and count the votes received and shall complete the same without delay and without adjournment, and after completing the same shall audibly and publicly announce the result thereof, particularly specifying the whole number of the voters in the poll book, the name of each person for whom any vote shall have been given for any office to be filled by such election and the number of votes given for each person for the office designated for him by said votes

9. And be it enacted, That for all general elections in this state the county boards of elections in each county shall hereafter be and act as the board of county canvassers, and all the powers and duties heretofore vested in and imposed upon the board of county canvassers as heretofore constituted shall be and are hereby vested in and imposed upon the board of county canvassers as constituted by this act; the clerk of the county shall hereafter be the clerk of said county board of canvassers, without extra compensation.

10. And be it enacted, That the services rendered and expense incurred by any officer or officers duly authorized in carrying out the provisions of this act, and not herein provided for, shall be regarded as election expenses, and shall be paid and defrayed by the respective counties and municipalities in the same manner as other election expenses and services are now paid for and discharged and the board of freeholders in each county shall include in their annual tax levy a sum sufficient to pay the compensation of the district boards of registry and election and all other election expenses.

11. And be it enacted, That the compensation of each member of the boards of registry and election in cities having by the next preceding census a population exceeding forty thousand for all services performed by them under the provisions of this act and the act to which this act is a supplement, shall be for each registry day five dollars, and for the election day, including the counting of the votes and the delivery of the returns, and ballot box with contents to the municipal clerk, ten dollars, to be paid by the county collector for each general election within thirty days after the date of said election.

12. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of any general election in this state, should any judge or inspector of election fail to deliver the proper returns to the person or place and within the time herein required, any member of the county board of elections may apply to any justice of the supreme court for an order to compel the immediate delivery of said returns, and the said justice upon presentation of the facts which satisfy him that the said judge or inspector, or both of them, have failed to deliver the said returns as herein required, may make an order requiring the immediate delivery by said officers of the said returns, and in case of failure on the part of said officers to produce the said returns within twenty-four hours after being served with such order, the said officers shall be deemed and considered in contempt of court, and shall be punished accordingly.

13. And be it enacted, That if any candidate for any office within ten days after any election shall pray a recount of the whole or any part of the vote, by his petition in writing to one of the justices of the supreme court, and shall deposit such sum as such justice shall order as security for the payment of the expenses of such recount, it shall be the duty of such justice to order such recount to be taken, the same to be made by the county board of elections, under such supervision and upon such terms as he may order, and such justice shall have power to fix the compensation for all persons and officers necessarily performing duties under such order, and on the conclusion of such recount the said justice shall certify the result thereof, which certificate shall take the place of the certificate originally issued by the canvassing board; said justice shall also make order concerning the payment of the expense of such recount, which shall be paid by the party applying therefor, if the result is unchanged by such recount, but shall be paid by the county in case the result shall be changed by the recount, and he shall order such writs or proceedings as may be necessary to carry said recount into effect or collect said costs.

14. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the several county boards of election to sit at the offices so provided for them on the Saturday next preceding, and also on the day of election from eight o'clock in the forenoon till five o'clock in the afternoon of each of said days, and in case the name of any legal voter in any election precinct or district has been improperly or inadvertently left off the registry list he may, on said days, apply to the county board of elections for the purpose of having his name placed upon the registry list, and the county board of elections, upon application to them for that purpose and upon proper evidence satisfying them that such person is a legal voter entitled to vote at any such election, may give their certificate to that effect, that such voter may present said certificate to the board of registry and election of the district or precinct in which he is entitled to vote, and said board shall receive and file said certificate and add his name to the registry list and he shall thereupon be allowed to vote at said election, and no name shall be added to the said registry list after the last registry day preceding the day of election, except in the manner provided for in this section; provided, however, that certificates of transfer may be issued and shall be accepted as heretofore, in the case of any voter, who, after being registered in one election precinct, shall move into another election precinct in the same county, before the day of election.

15. And be it enacted, That if any person shall on election day obstruct the entrance to any polling place, or shall obstruct or interfere with any voter, or do any electioneering within one hundred feet of any polling place, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars.

16. And be it enacted, That any person not authorized by the proper officers who shall print or make any envelope of a like character and with the names and words contained on the official envelope provided for in this act, or any person who shall on election day have in his possession an official envelope or an envelope made in imitation thereof, without being such person as is authorized by this act to have charge or possession thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding one year.

17. And be it enacted, That if proof be made before any justice of the peace or police justice of facts constituting probable cause for believing that this act has been violated, and that any person or persons have knowledge of the circumstances connected therewith, it shall be the duty of said justice to issue process of subpœna for the appearance of such person or persons other than the accused before him, to be examined touching the same; provided, that the lawful expenses of such subpœna and examination shall be paid in the first instance by the applicant therefor, and such evidence shall be filed with the clerk of the county to be used before the grand jury; and provided, further, that no such process of subpœna shall be issued or served, nor any such examination held on the day of election.

18. And be it enacted, That when any legal voter shall apply to the board of registry and election in the district in which he resides and shall find that his name upon the registry list is already checked as voting it shall be lawful for the board of registry and election to receive his vote upon due proof to them that he is a lawful voter in such district and has not voted in said election.

19. And be it enacted, That upon any question or challenge of a vote duly registered it shall be the duty of the board of registry and election and the privilege of all its members to put all such questions as are proper to determine the right of such voter to vote, and the question as to the admission of such vote shall be put in the following form: "Shall this voter's ballot be received by this board?"

20. And be it enacted, That any person who shall remove, destroy or mutilate any registry list or copy thereof, or who shall before such election close, remove, destroy or mutilate any list of voters posted in accordance with this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished on conviction thereof by a fine not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment with or without hard labor for not more than two years.

21. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXIV.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of boroughs," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any body of citizens have heretofore organized themselves as a borough, by virtue of any law of this state, and have thus become an ostensible or de facto government, and as such have entered into contracts or incurred debts, and it has appeared that said borough, by reason of some provision or defect in the laws under which such borough shall have been organized had not been a corporation de jure, and that said citizens have since become legally incorporated as a borough, then in such case such corporation de jure shall be liable for the payment of such debts, and shall be subject to the obligations of such contracts to the same extent as if the same had been contracted or entered into by said corporation de jure itself in the first instance, and shall be entitled to, and be possessed of, all the property, right, privileges and powers that shall have been acquired or possessed by the said body corporate de facto.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning taxes and assessments in villages and other municipal corporations governed by a board of trustees, and making same a first lien on real estate, and authorizing sale for the payment of the same," approved February twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of the above-mentioned act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That in case any taxes or assessments referred to in the last section, whether heretofore levied, imposed or assessed, or hereafter to be levied, imposed or assessed, together with interest thereon, costs, fees, charges and expenses aforesaid, shall remain or shall have remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of one hundred and twenty days after the time when payable according to law, then and in that case the said board of trustees shall have full power and authority to issue their warrant or warrants, under the common seal of said village or municipality, signed by the chairman of said board of trustees or president of said village and attested by the clerk thereof, directed to the collector of taxes of said village or municipality by whatever title such collector may be legally designated and known, commanding him to make such taxes or assessments, with the interest costs, fees, charges and expenses aforesaid, out of the lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate on account of which the same were assessed, levied, imposed or incurred, by selling the same for the purpose as hereinafter provided; the amount of taxes, assessments, or liens, for which certificates of sale have been given to and are held by such village or municipality, shall be deemed to be in arrears, within the meaning of this section, and to have been so in arrears, from the date when such taxes, assessments or liens were assessed, levied or confirmed, or attempted to be assessed, levied or confirmed, whether such sales were invalid or not; provided that in case of invalid sales, if any, the property sold was liable, at the time such tax, assessment or lien was fixed and imposed, to the imposition of a tax, assessment or lien in respect of the purposes for which such tax or assessment was fixed and imposed, and that it does not appear that any substantial injury was done to the owner of the property by reason of the irregular or illegal manner or method of fixing, imposing or collecting said tax, assessment or lien.

2. And be it enacted, That said collector, after giving notice by advertisement as hereafter required, shall sell said lands, tenements, hereditaments or real estate in lots or plots as the said taxes or assessments were or are levied, assessed, imposed or incurred, at public auction, to the highest bidder, but not for less than the amount of taxes or assessments, or both, due upon the same, with interest and costs; said advertisement shall include a designation of the time and place of sale and a description of the premises as contained in the tax duplicate or assessment report, and shall state that further particulars of the property to be sold may be obtained at the office of said collector; and it shall not be necessary in said advertisement to include any further particulars of the property to be sold; said advertisement shall be published once in each week, for four weeks prior to said sale, in the newspapers in which the official notices of such village or municipality are usually published; it shall be the duty of said collector, from and after the first publication of said advertisement, to deliver to any person applying to him a written or printed list of all the property intended to be included in said sale, but it shall not in anywise be an objection to the validity of any sale that any person has failed for any reason to receive such list; the sale may be adjourned by said collector from time to time, but it shall not be necessary to publish any notice of such adjournment or of the continuation of the sale; affidavits of the publication of the notice of sale in the manner above provided, and of all other notices required by the provisions of this act to be published, made by one of the respective publishers of said newspapers, or by some person in the employ of said publisher having cognizance of the publication, shall be prima facie evidence in all courts and places of the matters stated therein.

3. And be it enacted, That said collector shall, on the receipt of the purchase money on any sale execute and deliver to the purchaser a certificate of such sale, which shall contain a covenant on the part of said village or municipality to refund the amount paid for the lands without interest in case the title conveyed shall prove invalid; upon surrender of the said certificate of sale and proof of service of the notice thereof as hereinafter provided upon the owners and mortgagees of the said land and premises, the said collector shall, after the expiration of six months from the date of such service, execute and deliver to the purchaser at such sale, his heirs, devisees and assigns, a deed for the said lands and premises, which shall be sealed and attested by the clerk of said village or municipality and proved in the usual manner; and said purchaser, his heirs, legal representatives and assigns, shall take a good and sufficient title to the property sold in fee simple absolute, free of all incumbrances (except taxes, assessments and water rates levied after the taxes or assessments for which said property shall be sold), of which the said deed shall be presumptive evidence in all courts and places and in any proceedings or actions to be by such purchaser, his heirs, legal representatives and assigns, taken, prosecuted or defended for the recovery of the possession of the property so sold as aforesaid, or in the establishment or defense of his or their title shown as aforesaid by the possession of said deed; the title shall not fail or be defeated by reason of any irregularity or formal defect in the procedure taken under this act upon which the sale shall have been made or the title conveyed as aforesaid, or by reason of any illegality in fixing and imposing tax, assessment and lien to enforce which the sale was made, or in the proceeding for collecting the same; provided, the property sold was liable at the time such tax, assessment or lien was fixed and imposed to the imposition of a tax, assessment or lien, in respect of the purposes for which such tax, assessment and lien was fixed and imposed, and it does not appear that any substantial injury was done to the owner of the property by reason of the irregular or illegal manner or method of fixing, imposing or collecting said tax, assessment and lien; the village or municipality may be the purchaser at any sale of lands under the provisions of this act with the same right, title and effect as any other purchaser, and the certificate of sale to the village or municipality shall be delivered to the president or other head officer thereof, who shall, on behalf of the village or municipality, cause notice of the sale to be served on the owners and mortgagees of the lands so purchased, as provided in this act; upon proof of service of the notice and expiration of the period for redemption, the village or municipality shall be entitled to a deed for the property the same as any other purchaser; in all cases where any lands be bought by the village or municipality as aforesaid under this act, it shall be lawful for the governing body of such village or municipality to sell and assign the certificate of sale, or to sell and convey such lands, or any part thereof, by a good and sufficient deed, to any person or persons on such terms as may be agreed upon without warranty; provided, that if sold at private sale, the price for the land shall not be less than the amount due the village or other municipality thereon when purchased.

4. And be it enacted, That any person or persons having an estate in or mortgage upon any lands and premises sold in pursuance of the second section of this act, whose estate or lien appears of record in the county, may at any time before the expiration of six months after notice shall have been given to him of such sale by the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, in the manner hereinafter provided, or before a deed of such premises shall have been delivered as provided in this act, redeem said lands and premises by paying to the collector of said village or municipality, for the use of the purchaser, his heirs and assigns, the sum paid by him at such sale with interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the date of the sale, and one dollar for each notice served as hereinafter provided; and upon such redemption the village or municipality shall pay to such purchaser, his heirs or assigns, the amount received from the person redeeming; such notice shall be in writing and shall be served by the purchaser of the property or his agent on said owner or mortgagee, either personally or by leaving the same at his place of abode with a member of his family above the age of fourteen years; in case such owner or mortgagee is a non-resident, or his residence cannot on due inquiry be ascertained, then the notice may be served by publishing the same in a newspaper printed or published or circulating in the municipality for the period of six weeks, at least once in each week, and depositing a copy of such notice within twenty days after its first publication in the postoffice of the village or municipality, inclosed in a wrapper, postpaid, directed to such owner or mortgagee at his or her last known post office address, if the same can be ascertained; inquiry for the residence or post office address of such owner or mortgagee shall be made by the purchaser or his agent upon the land purchased at the sale, if they are occupied, and wherever else in the village or municipality the same may be likely to be ascertained, and also by an examination of the record of the deed or mortgage on account of which notice is given; an affidavit shall be made by the purchaser or his agent setting forth the manner and particulars of the service, and in case the same is made by publication, setting forth what inquiry was made to ascertain the residence and post office address of such owner or mortgagee, and in such case an affidavit of the publication shall also be made by the person publishing such newspaper, or by some one in his employ having cognizance of the publication, stating the particulars thereof; and the affidavit or affidavits shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the village or municipality within one month after the date of service and shall be prima facie evidence in all courts and places of the facts therein stated; the purchaser shall be entitled to the possession of said lands immediately upon giving such notice to the owner thereof in case the same are unoccupied, or if they are occupied, then within thirty days thereafter; and he shall have the same remedy by writ of assistance or otherwise in the circuit court of the county in which the village or municipality is situate, or in the court of chancery for the recovery of the possession of said lands as the purchaser of mortgaged premises at a foreclosure sale is now or may hereafter be entitled to by any law or practice of this state; provided, however, that if any estate in any of said lands shall be held by an heir or devisee of a decedent whose estate appears of record in the county, or if any mortgage or lease shall be held by the executor or administrator of any decedent whose mortgage or lease appears of record in the county, such heir, devisee, executor or administrator shall be entitled to redeem and to have notice as aforesaid before the purchaser shall be entitled to the possession of the lands; and provided, also, that the records and schedules of all sales made under this act shall be filed and kept in the same offices of the several villages and municipalities wherein records of tax sales are now by law required to be kept.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall not be necessary to set out the proceedings under this act at length in the deed for lands sold, but a general statement therein that such deed was made and executed upon proceedings taken under the authority of this act shall be sufficient.

6. And be it enacted, That in case any owner, mortgagee or other person appearing to have an interest in the lands which shall be sold for arrears of taxes or assessments under the provisions of this act, is unknown to or cannot be ascertained by the purchaser or his legal representatives or assigns after due inquiry, application shall be made to the circuit court of the county wherein said lands are situate for an order for a deed, by petition duly verified, which shall describe the said lands so sold not only as described in such notice of sale, but also by metes and bounds, and shall also set out the manner in which the purchaser or his legal representatives or assigns have made inquiry for such unknown owner, morgagee or other interested person; and the court upon being satisfied by the said petition or otherwise that such owner, mortgagee or other interested person are unknown to said purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns, and that due inquiry to ascertain their names, places of residence and post office address has been made and cannot be ascertained, may make an order requiring such unknown owner, mortgagee or other person interested in said lands to show cause before said court at a day therein specified, not less than six months from the date of said order, why a deed should not be made and delivered for the said lands to the purchaser or his legal representatives or assigns, and that in case such unknown owner, mortgagee or other interested person shall not appear and show cause or redeem the said lands within the time limited by said order, then the court shall on the return day thereof, or afterwards, make an order directing the said collector of the village or municipality wherein such lands are situate to make a deed of conveyance of said lands to said purchaser or to his legal representatives or assigns, which shall convey the said lands free of all interest or estate in or lien upon claim thereto of any such unknown owner, mortgagee or person so proceeded against; provided, that within ten days after the date of such order the said purchaser shall cause to be published in one of the newspapers printed or published or circulating in said village or municipality in which said lands are situate, a notice directed to such unknown owner, mortgagee or other person appearing to have an interest in said lands, describing the lands as in said petition, and requiring them to redeem said lands, or to show cause why a deed therefor should not be delivered to the purchaser thereof or his legal representative or assigns within the time specified in said order, which notice shall be published in said newspaper at least once a week thereafter for at least six weeks, and proof of such publication shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the said circuit court; and in case such owner, mortgagee or other person interested shall appear and answer the said petition, the court may hear the same in a summary manner, and make such order thereon as shall be equitable and just.

7. And be it enacted, That in case any owner, mortgagee or other person appearing to have an interest in said lands so sold, shall be known to be an infant under the age of twenty-one years, no deed shall be delivered to the purchaser, or to his legal representatives or assigns, by the said collector, except upon the order of the circuit court of the county wherein said lands are situate, to be made upon a duly verified petition of the purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns, and upon such notice to said infants or their guardians as the court may deem proper; and the court in such case may appoint a guardian ad litem and inquire into the ability of the said infants or their estate to redeem said land, and may postpone the hearing thereon from time to time, in its discretion, to give opportunity for such redemption, and may make such order in relation to such deed as may be equitable and just.

8. And be it enacted, That where any lands which have been devised to any person for life, and to the child or children of such devisee after his or her death, shall be sold under this act, and the purchaser at such sale shall be unable, after due inquiry, to ascertain the name or names of such child or children, or whether such devisee had or left issue or not, the purchaser, or his legal representatives or assigns, shall make application to the circuit court of the county wherein such lands are situate by petition, duly verified, for a deed; such petition shall contain a description of the land, both as described in said notice of sale, and by metes and bounds, and shall also state the manner in which inquiry has been made for such child or children; and the said court, upon being satisfied of the truth of the statements contained in said petition, shall make an order directing the child or children, or heir or heirs, or such devisee (naming him), and the heir or heirs of the testator (naming him), to show cause before said court, at a day therein to be specified, not less than six months from the date of said order, why a deed should not be made and delivered for the said lands to such purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns; and in case such heirs or children, or any of them, shall not appear and show cause, or shall not redeem the said lands within the time limited in the said order, then the court shall, on the return day thereof or afterwards, make an order directing the said collector to make and deliver a deed of conveyance of said lands to the purchaser or his legal representatives or assigns, which shall convey the same free of all claim or lien against or estate therein of such heirs or children; provided, however, that such purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns, shall within ten days after the making of such order, cause to be published in one of the newspapers printed and published and circulating in the said village or municipality in which said lands are situate, a notice directed "to the children and heirs" of such devisee and testator (naming them), describing the lands as in such petition and requiring them to redeem the same, or show cause why a deed therefor should not be made and delivered to such purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns, within the time specified in said order, which notice shall be published for the time, and the publication thereof proved in the manner directed in the sixth section of this act; and in case any such children or heirs shall appear and answer the said petition, the said court may hear the same in a summary way and make such order thereon as shall seem to be just.

9. And be it enacted, That all persons claiming an interest in or mortgage upon any lands sold as provided in this act by or through any deed, conveyance, mortgage, assignment, or any instrument which by law could be recorded, registered, entered or filed in any public office in this state, and which shall not be so recorded, entered or filed at the time of the execution and delivery of the deed as provided in this act, shall be bound by the proceedings had and notices given under the provisions of this act, so far as said property is concerned, in the same manner as if such persons had been duly served with the notice mentioned in the fourth section of this act.

10. And be it enacted, That when notice has been served upon any person having, or appearing to have of record, an estate in or mortgage upon any lands sold as provided in this act, and proof of such service, has been made and filed as provided in this act, any person or persons claiming by descent, devise, deed, mortgage, assignment or otherwise, through or under the person or persons so served, shall be bound by the notice so served on such person or persons by, through or under whom such estate, interest or lien has been acquired.

11. And be it enacted, That when any lands sold under this act shall be redeemed by any person having a mortgage or other lien or incumbrance thereon, the person so redeeming shall hold and retain a first lien on said lands, subject only to taxes and assessments thereafter levied and assessed, to the amount of the sum paid by him to effect such redemption, together with lawful interest thereon from the time of such payment; and the certificate of the said collector stating the payment and showing what property such payment is intended to redeem shall be evidence of such redemption and payment; any person redeeming lands sold under the provisions of this act shall pay to the said collector, for the use of the purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns, not only the sum paid at the sale with interest, as provided in section four of this act, but also any other tax or assessment chargeable thereon, and which the said purchaser or his legal representatives or assigns may have paid since sale, together with lawful interest on such payment from the time of filing such notice; provided, a notice of such payment shall have been filed in the office of the said collector.

12. And be it enacted, That where, in any case, upon the sale of any lands by virtue of this act, a greater sum is bid and paid therefor than is sufficient to pay and satisfy the taxes and assessments thereon, with interest and costs, the said court shall, upon petition by any person interested in the surplus, have jurisdiction to order and direct the distribution, payment and investment of the same, according to the facts and circumstances of each case and as appears to be just, and may award to any person holding possession under a valid term of years the value thereof, together with the value of permanent improvements made by such owner upon the lands so sold.

13. And be it enacted, That all moneys received upon sales in pursuance of any of the provisions of this act shall be deposited with the said collector, and the surplus, if any, remaining in any case after deducting the amount of the tax, assessment and lien and interest and expenses of sale and disbursements, shall be held for the use of and paid over to the person legally entitled thereto upon his establishing his right to the same; provided, however, that interest thereon shall not be recoverable from said village or municipality; provided, further, that if in any case a lot or parcel of land is sold upon which there is a mortgage or lien other than the lien of the said village or municipality, and the sum bid and paid therefor is in excess of the sum due to the said village or municipality, then, if the mortgagee or holder of such lien shall notify the said village or municipality of the nature and amount of his or her mortgage or lien within sixty days after the receipt of such excess by the said village or municipality, the said village or municipality shall thereupon pay such excess into the circuit court of the county, and the judge of said court, on the application of any party interested, may make such order in relation to the distribution and disposition of the same as shall be just and equitable.

14. And be it enacted, That no writ of certiorari shall be allowed to contest any proceeding under this act unless the party applying for such writ shall give a bond to such village or municipality, with approved security, conditioned for the payment of so much of said tax, assessment and lien as shall be ascertained to be justly payable, with interest and costs, not unless application therefor be made within six months from the date of such sale.

15. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall not be operative and in force in any village or municipality of the state until the provisions of this act have been accepted by the governing body of such village or municipality by a formal resolution, approved by the president or chairman of the governing body of such village or municipality, and passed by a vote of not less than two-thirds of such governing body.

16. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXL.

An Act to repeal an act entitled "An act concerning registrar of vital statistics in cities of the second class in this state," approved March eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act concerning registrar of vital statistics in cities of the second class in this state," approved March eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXVI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to organize the board of chosen freeholders in each of the counties of this state having within its territorial limits a population of not less than seventy-five thousand inhabitants or more than two hundred thousand inhabitants," passed May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the third section of an act entitled "An act to organize the board of chosen freeholders in each of the counties of this state having within its territorial limits a population of not less than seventy-five thousand inhabitants or more than two hundred thousand inhabitants," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That each of the members of every board of chosen freeholders elected under and by virtue of the provisions of this act shall receive as a salary and compensation for his services the sum of three hundred dollars per annum, and the director of said board shall receive the sum of five hundred dollars per annum, to be paid out of the county treasury by the county collector, in equal quarterly payments, and that no other compensation shall be allowed, given or paid to any of said members for any services whatsoever.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXVIII

An Act to permit and allow firms and individuals not less than twenty in number under each organization, known as fire Lloyds, to insure others against loss or damage by fire and lightning, and to underwrite policies of insurance issued therefor under the Liodys form.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for any number of individuals or firms, as separate underwriters, to associate themselves together under what are known as Lloyds associations to be composed of not less than twenty members each, who shall all be legal residents of New Jersey, possessing in their individual right in value twenty thousand dollars of personal property and real estate, situate within this state, above all incumbrances, for the purpose of underwriting and contracting and issuing policies of insurance insuring property against direct loss or damage by fire or lightning upon what is known as the Lloyds plan and to adopt names for each of said Lloyds associations and such rules and regulations for the governance of the same as may be necessary for the carrying out the purposes of the said Lloyds association.

2. And be it enacted, That upon filing with the commissioner of banking and insurance of this state a certificate of each association thus defined, duly signed by at least twenty members thereof or each Lloyds association, the said commissioner of banking and insurance shall immediately issue to these signers, hereby termed subscribers, or to their attorney or attorneys in fact, who shall be named therein, and shall therein be empowered to represent all of the said subscribers thereto or additional subscribers thereafter and their successors as such, a certificate of authority, authorizing these subscribers, through their attorney or attorneys in fact as aforesaid, to issue and underwrite policies of insurance bearing all of the said subscribers' names as herein set forth; provided, that said association shall file in the office of said commissioner a statement in writing of the name and residence in this state of some person or persons on whom legal notices and process may served, and renew such statement whenever required; provided, that said associations shall pay to the commissioner of banking and insurance, for the use of the state, for the filing of certificate and statements and copies thereof, the same fees as are now required of corporations organized and doing business under the general insurance laws of this state.

3. And be it enacted, That such Lloyds association shall, immediately after the first of January in each and every year, file with the said commissioner of banking and insurance a true statement of assets and liabilities, with total resources for the protection of policy holders, upon blanks to be furnished by said commissioner, and that on and after the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, two per centum of the premiums received by the subscribers of such Lloyds association upon policies issued by them, covering property situated within the state of New Jersey, shall be paid to the firemen's relief association in the same manner as is now required of all foreign insurance companies doing business in this state; and that whenever the commissioner of banking and insurance finds, as the result of examination or by any statement filed as aforesaid, that any Lloyds association of New Jersey have a less sum than forty thousand dollars on hand over all claims and liabilities, which has been doing business one year, it shall be his duty to serve a thirty days' notice upon the attorney or attorneys that if the amount is not increased to the said sum of forty thousand dollars required by this act, the charter of such Lloyds shall be forfeited to the state; and it is further required that such subscribers shall deposit with their attorney or attorneys, before the issuing of any policies by any such association known as Lloyds, the sum of forty thousand dollars in cash or securities invested in the same manner as now or hereafter required by the general insurance laws of this state.

4. And be it enacted, That no fire Lloyds organized in this state prior to this act shall be permitted to do business in this state.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXIX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning the power of boards of education to borrow money, issue bonds, or incur indebtedness for the purchase of land or the erection of school buildings," passed May twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act concerning the power of boards of education to borrow money, issue bonds, or incur indebtedness for the purchase of land for the erection of school buildings," passed May twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is heaeby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful for any board of education in any city of this state to borrow money, issue bonds or incur indebtedness in excess of five thousand dollars for the purpose of purchasing lands or erecting any school building, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city: provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any school district wherein moneys for school purposes are raised at an annual or special meeting of the voters thereof; and provided, further, that this act shall not apply to or affect any board of education the boundary lines of whose school district extend beyond the boundary lines of the town or city in which the school houses are located into any adjoining township outside of the limits of such town or city.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLI.

A Supplement to the act entitled "An act to provide for the amicable adjustment of grievances and disputes that may arise between employers and employes, and to authorize the creation of a state board of arbitration," approved March twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, and to end the term of office of any person or persons appointed under this act.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That Samuel S. Sherwood, William M. Doughty, James Martin, Charles A. Houston, Joseph L. Moore be and they are hereby constituted a board of arbitration, each to serve for the term of three years from the approval of this supplement, and that each arbitrator herein named shall receive an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars per annum, in lieu of all fees, per diem compensation and mileage, and one of said arbitrators shall be chosen by said arbitrators as the secretary of said board and he shall receive an additional compensation of two hundred dollars per annum, the salaries herein stated to be payable out of moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

2. And be it enacted, That in case of death, resignation or incapacity of any member of the board, the governor shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, an arbitrator to fill the unexpired term of such arbitrator or arbitrators so dying, resigning or becoming incapacitated.

3. And be it enacted, That the term of office of the arbitrators now acting as a board of arbitrators shall, upon the passage of this supplement, cease and terminate, and the persons named in this supplement as the board of arbitrators shall immediately succeed to and become vested with all the powers and duties of the board of arbitrators now acting under the provisions of the act of which this act is a supplement.

4. And be it enacted, That after the expiration of the terms of office of the persons named in this supplement the governor shall appoint, by and with the consent of the senate, their successors for the length of term and at the salary named in the first section of this supplement.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLII.

An Act in relation to the election of commissioners of appeal in certain townships and boroughs.

Whereas, In numerous townships and boroughs in this state, at the annual township and borough elections lately held, all of the voters or a majority of them failed to specify on their ballots the length of the term for which each commissioner of appeal was to be elected; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the state of New Jersey, That in all such townships and boroughs the three persons receiving the highest number of votes for the offices of commissioners of appeal shall and are hereby declared to be legally elected commissioners of appeal for their respective townships and boroughs, although the length of the term for which it was intended to elect them may not have been designated on said ballots.

2. And be it enacted, That said three commissioners hereinbefore declared to be the legally elected commissioners of appeal shall in cases mentioned in the preamble to this act, at their first meeting held after the passage or approval of this act, determine by lot which one of said commissioners of appeal shall serve for one year, which for two years and which for three years, and each of said commissioners shall hold said office of commissioner of appeal and have, possess and enjoy all the powers and emoluments thereof for the term so determined by lot as aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to organize the board of chosen freeholders in each of the counties of this state having within its territorial limits a population of not less than seventy-five thousand inhabitants or more than two hundred thousand inhabitants," passed May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the third section of an act entitled "An act to organize the board of chosen freeholders in each of the counties of this state having within its territorial limits a population not less than seventy-five thousand inhabitants or more than two hundred thousand inhabitants," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That each of the members of every board of chosen freeholders elected under and by virtue of the provisions of this act shall receive as a salary and compensation for his services the sum of three hundred dollars per annum, and the director of said board shall receive the sum of five hundred dollars per annum, to be paid out of the county treasury by the county collector, in equal quarterly payments and that no other compensation shall be allowed, given or paid to any of said members for any services whatsoever; provided, however, that this act shall not apply to the board of chosen freeholders of any county having within its territorial limits a population of less than one hundred thousand inhabitants.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLIV.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate and establish a uniform rate of charges for legal advertising in New Jersey," approved March twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and fifty seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter the price for publishing in the newspaper published in counties of the first class in this state, the legal notices designated in the act to which this is a supplement, shall be at the rate of ten cents per line for the first insertion, and five cents a line for each subsequent insertion, and no more; provided, that in computing any such charge per line for said notices the lines must average at least eight words.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLV

An Act to defray the expenses of the contested election case between Jacob C. Lippincott and William J. Thompson.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the treasurer of this state shall pay upon the warrant of the comptroller of this state to the several persons hereinafter named the amounts set opposite their respective names, for services and expenses in said contested election case, as follows, namely:

Item No. 1. To John W. Griggs, for professional services as counsel to said committee, one thousand dollars	$1,000 00
Item No. 2. To Knight & Gnichtel, for stenographic services in reporting the testimony and proceedings of said committee, eight hundred and thirty-seven dollars and fifteen cents	837 15
Item No. 3. To William J. Thompson, incumbent, for expenses incurred in said contest, fifteen hundred dollars	1,500 00
Item No. 4. To John Graham, sergeant-at-arms of investigating committee, five hundred dollars	500 00
Item No. 5. To William D. Anderson, seventy-five dollars	75 00
Item No. 6. To Daniel F. Lane, twenty-five dollars	25 00

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLVI.

An Act concerning naturalization and regulating the procedure in cases of naturalization in courts of this state, and establishing uniform fees of clerks and judges in naturalization cases.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the supreme court and the courts of common pleas in the several counties of this state shall respectively have jurisdiction of declarations of intention, and of applications of aliens to become citizens of the United States; no other court or courts now established by this state shall entertain a primary or final declaration or application made by or on behalf of an alien to be admitted to become a citizen of the United States, receive a registry of an alien, or have or entertain jurisdiction of the naturalization of an alien; nor shall any clerk of any such court or courts receive any such declaration, application or papers.

2. And be it enacted, That primary declarations of intention of aliens to become citizens of the United States may be recorded and filed in the supreme court and the courts of common pleas in the several counties of this state at any time, and the requisite and prescribed oath administered by the clerk of the court at the time of such recording and filing; a complete record of each and every of the said declarations shall be entered in the proper docket of the court by the clerk thereof, which said record the alien shall subscribe, or cause to be subscribed, and be shall also add, or cause to be added, in writing, the street and number of the house in which he resides, and the name of the city, town, village or other place where such residence is situated; provided, that where the street and number, as required by the provisions of this section of this act, cannot be given, the place of residence shall be described with sufficient accuracy for indentification.

3. And be it enacted, That final applications of aliens to be admitted to become citizens of the United States, made in any of the courts of this state in which, by the provisions of this act, such applications may be made, may be filed in term time or during vacation, but final action thereon shall be had only on stated days or the regular terms of the said courts; every application shall be entered on the docket of the court on the day on which the application shall be made; such application shall be in the form of a petition, subscribed and verified by the oath of the applicant, and shall be filed in the court to which it is presented at least fourteen days before final action thereon shall be had; the petition herein provided for shall state the place and country of the birth of the petitioner, and the exact time and place of his arrival in the United States, and shall set forth his name in full, his age and occupation, the name of the street and number of the house in which he resides, and the name of the city, town, village or other place in which such residence is situated, and the name of the person or the names of the persons whom the said applicant intends to summon as witnesses at the final hearing upon his said application, together with the street and number of the residence or residences of such witnesses simultaneously with the presentation and filing of the petition herein prescribed and provided for, there shall also be filed an affidavit of a person, who must be a citizen of the United States, and who may or may not be a person whom the petitioner intends to summon as a witness at the final hearing upon his application to be admitted to become a citizen of the United States, which said affidavit shall set forth the full name, residence and occupation of the affiant, and that the affiant is a citizen of the United States and is personally well acquainted with the petitioner, and that the said petitioner has resided for five years within the United States and one year at least immediately preceding the presentation of the petition within the State of New Jersey, and that during that time the said petitioner has behaved as a man of good moral character, attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same; and in applications made pursuant to section two thousand one hundred and sixty-seven of the revised statutes of the United States, and any amendments thereof, the affiant shall also declare his belief with the grounds therefor, that for the two years next preceding the presentation of the said petition it has been bona fide the intention of the petitioner to apply to become a citizen of the United States; provided, that in applications where the street number as required by the provisions of this section of this act cannot be given the place or places of residences shall be described with sufficient accuracy for identification; and provided further, that none of the provisions and requirements of this act shall be deemed to dispense with, nor shall they or any of them dispense with, the evidence and proofs or other requirements provided for and required in cases of naturalization under, in accordance with and by virtue of the provisions of the revised statutes of the United States and the laws of congress.

4. And be it enacted, That every person who may or shall hereafter make application in any of the courts of this state, in which by the provisions of this act such application shall be made, to be admitted to become a citizen of the United States, shall give notice of his application to the clerk of the city, town, village or other place where he resides, or, if there be no clerk, then to the officer or person performing similar duties in such place of his residence, at least fourteen days before the final hearing upon the application as aforesaid, which said notice shall contain his full name, age, occupation, residence and the name of the court in which the said petition has been filed and is pending; it shall be the duty of such clerk, or other officer or person, to make and preserve a complete record of all such notices in a form convenient for public inspection, and to give to each applicant who has given such notice a certificate that the provisions of this section of this act have been complied with, and this certificate shall be filed by the said petitioner in the court in which his said petition is filed and pending determination before final action thereon shall be taken by the court.

5. And be it enacted, That the clerk, or other officer or person performing similar duties, of the city, town, village or other place of the applicant's residence, shall, within seven days from the receipt of the notice prescribed in the preceding section, post in at least two public places in such city, town, village or other place, the date of the receipt of the notice, the name of the applicant, his age, occupation, residence and court in which his petition is pending, on lists with blank form containing the following headings:

Date of Receipt of Notice.	Name.	Age.	Occupation.	Residence.	Court in which petition is pending.

6. And be it enacted, That a record of every final application to be admitted to become a citizen of the United States shall be kept by the clerk of the court in which such application shall be made, and shall be open to the inspection of the public at reasonable times and upon proper demand; such record shall contain the names of all applicants, arranged alphabetically according to their surnames, and also the residences of the said applicants; it shall further state the nationality of each applicant and the form and nature of the application, whether based upon a preliminary declaration of intention or upon a petition founded upon and made in accordance with the provisions and requirements of section two thousand one hundred and sixty-seven of the revised statutes of the United States, and any amendments thereof, or otherwise; and it shall further state the name of the witness, or the names of the witnesses, summoned by the said applicant and appearing upon his final application to be admitted to become a citizen of the United States, with the residence or residences of such witness or witnesses; a return shall be made annually by the several clerks, on or before the first day of February of each year, to the secretary of state, of the full name and residence of each and every person so naturalized and admitted to become a citizen of the United States during the year prior to the first day of the preceding January, together with the date of such naturalization and admission to citizenship; and the returns so made shall be filed and kept by the secretary of state in a form convenient for reference.

7. And be it enacted, That the fees of the clerks of all courts which, under the provisions of this act, have jurisdiction in cases of naturalization, and of the several judges of the said courts performing services in such cases, shall be the following and no more: for all services of any clerk upon the primary declaration of intention of an alien to become a citizen of the United States, including the oath or affirmation of such alien, and the record and certificate thereof, delivered to such alien, the sum of fifty cents; for the services of any such clerk upon the final application for the naturalization of any alien, and upon the completion of the proceedings necessary for any alien to become a citizen of the United States, including the filing of the petition and the record thereof, and for the certificate of the admission to citizenship to be delivered to the applicant, or to any person authorized by said applicant to demand the same, the sum of fifty cents; for the services of any such clerk in making out and preparing the petition of any applicant for presentation to the court upon the final application, in accordance with the provisions of section three of this act, the sum of fifty cents; for all the services of any judge of the said courts required to be performed by him in such cases of naturalization, including the examination of the petition and accompanying affidavit, the oath and examination of the applicant and his witnesses, and the order that the applicant be admitted to be a citizen of the United States, the sum of seventy-five cents; no primary or final certificate shall issue in any case of naturalization unless the fees provided for in this act shall first be paid.

8. And be it enacted, That the fees of the clerks or other like officers or persons of cities, towns, villages or other places for the recording and posting of the notice and the issuing of the certificate provided for under the provisions of the fourth and fifth sections of this act, shall be the sum of fifty cents for each application.

9. And be it enacted, That no person shall hereafter be naturalized or admitted to be a citizen of the United States by any court of this state within the thirty days next preceding any national, state, municipal, general, special, local or charter election; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not prevent any applicant who may become eligible to citizenship during said period of thirty days, from receiving, in the manner provided for in this act, a certificate of naturalization and citizenship on the proper day during said period, if application therefor shall have been made and allowed within one week next preceding the commencement of said period of thirty days.

10. And be it enacted, That any clerk or other person who records or files any declaration or application in any case of naturalization, or issues any certificate in any case of naturalization, in violation of the provisions of this act, or any of them, shall be punished by a fine of one hundred dollars.

11. And be it enacted, That no political committee or committee of any political party, and no person who has received or accepted a nomination for any political office, shall make any payment or promise of payment of money to or on behalf of any person for fees for the primary or final declaration or application for naturalization, or for services as attorney or counsel, or as agent or otherwise in assisting or enabling any person or persons to make such declaration or application; whoever violates any of the provisions of this section of this act shall be punished, upon conviction thereof, by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.

12. And be it enacted, That chapter one hundred and eighty-five of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three, entitled "An act to establish uniform fees of clerks and judges in naturalization cases, and to provide for the taxation of the same," be and the same is hereby repealed.

13. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed March 26, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXXVII.

An Act to extend the time for building and putting in operation certain street railways authorized under chapter one hundred and seventy-two of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and ninety three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the time limited for the building and putting in operation of any street railway or any portion thereof authorized to be constructed under the act referred to in the title of this act shall expire during the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, such time shall be and the same is hereby extended for a further period of one year.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLVII.

An Act to defray the incidental expenses of the legislature of New Jersey for the session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the state of New Jersey to pay, upon the warrant of the comptroller, to the several persons hereinafter named, the following amounts, that is to say:

Item No. 1. To each clergyman for opening the session of the senate and house of asembly with prayer during the session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, ten dollars,	$10 00
Item No. 2. To each officer of the senate and house of assembly of the session of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, for services in opening the session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, ten dollars,	10 00
Item No. 3. To George Austin, for services as clerk to the committee on labor and industries, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, two hundred dollars,	200 00
Item No. 4. To John C. Rankin Company, for bill files for house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, seven hundred and sixteen and seventy-five one-hundredths dollars,	716 75
Item No. 5. To Anacletus Kessler, for repairing safes, house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, eight and twenty-five one-hundredths dollars,	8 25
Item No. 6. To Matthias Plum, for stationery, house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, six hundred and forty-nine dollars,	649 00
Item No. 7. To Lysander E. Watson, for traveling expenses of assistants securing the presence of absent members, house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, ten dollars,	10 00
Item No. 8. To Lysander E. Watson, for telephone and telegraph tolls, house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, one and sixty-four one-hundredths dollars,	1 64
Item No. 9. To Lysander E. Watson, for expressage, house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, seven and ninety-five one-hundredths dollars,	7 95
Item No. 10. To Lysander E. Watson, for printing, telegrams, carriage hire and decorations for the funeral of Assemblyman Charles L. Walters, of Monmouth county, fifteen and sixty-two one-hundredths dollars,	15 62
Item No. 11. To John J. Matthews, for furnishing one hundred and fifty copies of members' pocket calendars for the senate and house of assembly, one hundred and fifty dollars,	150 00
Item No. 12. To Mrs. Elizabeth Kucker, for washing towels for senate and house of assembly, sixty-five dollars,	65 00
Item No. 13 To John D. Allward, for extra services as assistant to the clerk of the house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, fifty dollars,	50 00
Item No. 14. To George W. Peak, for extra services to the committee on municipal corporations of the house of assembly, one hundred dollars,	100 00
Item No. 15. To Ira S. Smith, doorkeeper of the session of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, for services at organization of house of assembly eighteen hundred and ninety-five, ten dollars,	10 00
Item No. 16. To William H. Rea, for furnishing parchments and engrossing oaths of senators, members of assembly and officers of the legislature, session eighteen hundred, and ninety-five, fifty dollars,	50 00
Item No. 17. To William H. Corbin, for services as counsel for house of assembly managers in the Connelly impeachment trial, two hundred and fifty dollars,	250 00
Item No. 18. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for stationery and supplies furnished the speaker of the house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, fifty-one and sixty-five one-hundredths dollars,	51 99
Item No. 19. To The New Jersey Freie Zeitung, for furnishing five thousand copies of the governor's message in the German language, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, two hundred and seventy-one and seventy one-hundredths dollars,	271 70
Item No. 20. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for furnishing stationery and supplies to L. E. Watson, sergeant-at-arms of the assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, seven hundred and twenty-five and twenty-five one-hundredths dollars,	725 25
Item No. 21. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for furnishing stationery and supplies to Edgar Williams, engrossing clerk of the assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and twenty-one and ten one-hundredths dollars,	121 10
Item No. 22. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for furnishing stationery and supplies to James Parker, clerk of the house of assembly, session of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, two hundred and ten and ninety one-hundredths dollars,	210 90
Item No. 23. To W. S. Snyder, for services as clerk to the incidental committee, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, seventy-five dollars,	75 00
Item No. 24. To E. B. Sterling, for services to the engrossing clerk, house of assembly, as per resolution of the house February twenty-eight, eighteen hundred and ninety-five, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, fifty dollars,	50 00
Item No. 25. To Alphonso M. Pycraft, for services to the engrossing clerk, house of assembly, as per resolution of the house February twenty-eight, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, fifty dollars	50 00
Item No. 26. To Advocate Publishing Company, for stationery furnished the senate and express charges, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, fifty-five dollars,	55 00
Item No. 27. To Robert H. Ingersoll, for services as assistant journal clerk of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred dollars,	100 00
Item No. 28. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for bill calender, altering stamp, and printing slips for the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, twenty-two dollars,	22 00
Item No. 29. To J. L. Landis, for stationery furnished sergeant-at-arms of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, thirty-six dollars,	36 00
Item No. 30. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for stationery and supplies furnished to engrossing clerk of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and thirty-eight and eighty one-hundredths dollars,	138 80
Item No. 31. To The Stoll Blank Book and Stationery Company, for stationery and supplies for the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, two hundred and eighty-four and ninety one-hundredths dollars,	284 90
Item No. 32. To The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for stationery and supplies furnished the secretary of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and seventy-one and twenty-five one-hundredths dollars,	171 25
Item No. 33. To Charles V. Hance, for services as postmaster of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and twenty-five dollars,	125 00
Item No. 34. To John C. Rankin, for bill files furnished the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and ninety-three one-hundredths dollars,	193 25
Item No. 35. To Frank Thompson, for services as keeper of the cloak room of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and fifty dollars,	150 00
Item No. 36 To M. S. Veatch, for extra services in engrossing, clerk's department of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, one hundred and thirty-five dollars,	135 00
Item No. 37. To James H. Mulheron, for supplies for house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, two hundred and twenty-five and seventy-seven one-hundredths dollars,	225 77

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLVIII.

An Act to authorize townships of this state either separately or jointly, either with other townships or any municipal corporation except cities, to acquire and own lands for hospital purposes and to erect and maintain thereon hospitals and to pay for the same, and to convey such lands or any portion thereof when not needed for hospital purposes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the township committee of any township of this state shall deem it advisable to provide a hospital for persons having contagious diseases, and for other hospital purposes, it shall be lawful for any such township committee to acquire and own lands in the corporate name of such township, whether such lands are situate in said township or out of it, for hospital purposes, and to erect and maintain thereon a hospital, and to pay for the same from any money or funds of such township not otherwise appropriated or which may be available for the purpose, or to obtain temporary loans for the purpose and to provide for payment of such loans in the succeeding tax levy by taxes to be assessed and collected in the same manner as other taxes are assessed and collected for such township, and to convey such lands so acquired, or any portion thereof, when not needed for hospital purposes; but when such lands are situate out of the limits of any township as acquires title to the lands, then before using such lands for hospital purposes for persons having contagious diseases, there shall be obtained the consent of either the board of health or township committee of the township within the limits of which such lands lie, and such hospital is erected; that the same may be used for the purposes aforesaid; but the total expenditure for land and buildings for hospital purposes shall not exceed one-tenth of one per centum of the total sum of assessments for one year for the purpose of taxation in such township, as shown by the duplicate or other records of assessments for the previous year.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for any two or more townships either with each other, or one or more townships with one or more other municipal corporations, excepting cities, to jointly exercise all the power and authority given to separate townships in the first section of this act, and such townships are hereby authorized to make all necessary agreements for the purpose of so doing, and for doing all that any township is authorized to do separately by said first section of this act, including the power and authority to acquire and convey, as aforesaid, land inside or outside of the limits of any township.

3. And be it enacted, That any hospital or hospitals which may be provided under the provisions of this act, shall be in charge and under the control of the township committee of the township which acquires land and provides hospital buildings, as aforesaid; but when two or more townships, or one or more townships with one or more other municipal corporations, jointly provide a hospital, as any township or townships are authorized to do in section two of this act, then such hospital shall be in charge and under the control of the township committees of the two or more townships, or of the township committee of one or more townships exercised jointly with the municipal authorities of such municipal corporation or municipal corporations, as the case may be.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXLIX.

An Act to provide for the furnishing of stationery and other necessary supplies for the use of the senate and general assembly.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the state comptroller to furnish all the stationery, books and all other supplies for the use of the senate and general assembly in the conduct of legislative business.

2. And be it enacted, That the state comptroller shall compile a list of all articles needed by the senate and general assembly, and obtain, by public advertisement, in two or more newspapers published within this state, bids for the necessary supplies as aforementioned, and such supplies shall be furnished by the lowest responsible bidder, who shall deliver all such goods on or before the twentieth day of December of each year; provided, that the cost shall not exceed the sum of fifteen dollars for each member of the senate and general assembly.

3. And be it enacted, That all supplies, as before mentioned, shall be furnished to each senator and member of the general assembly upon his written requisition, and not otherwise.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCL.

An Act authorizing and validating the sales of certain church and parsonage property of the Methodist Episcopal church and other churches or religious societies.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the present trustees of any Methodist Episcopal, or any other church or religious society and their successors in office, or a majority of them, are authorized and empowered to sell at public or private sale, and convey, in fee simple or otherwise, all such church and parsonage property, together with all the estate, right, title and interest which the said trustees or stewards or other officers now have or may have in the same by virtue of any deeds of conveyance or otherwise, whenever any such church or religious society may authorize and direct such sale thereof, by a majority of its members present at any meeting called by said trustees at its usual place of public worship, after at least ten days' notice of the time and place and object of such meeting, by an advertisement set up in open view at or near such place of meeting, signed by the president and secretary of said board of trustees or by a majority of said trustees.

2. And be it enacted, That all such sales and conveyances heretofore made by such trustees are hereby validated and confirmed; provided, they have been or shall be authorized and approved by a majority of the members of such church or religious society present at a duly called meeting thereof.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLI.

An Act to provide for the appointment of commissioners to revise the laws of this state relative to corporations, and to prepare a bill for that purpose.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That William H. Corbin, Henry E. Howell and Henry M. Snyder be and they are hereby appointed commissioners, whose duty it shall be to revise and codify the "Act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and the several subsequent acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof, and to incorporate such amendments as they may deem wise and necessary to perfect the system of general corporation laws of this state.

2. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall organize by the election of one of their number as president and the appointment of a secretary; they shall have power to adopt their own rules of procedure and to employ such clerical assistance as may be necessary for the transaction of their business and to fix the compensation therefor, which compensation, as also all expenses incurred for printing and clerical assistance, shall be paid by the state treasurer on the certificate of the president and the warrant of the state comptroller.

3. And be it enacted, That said commission shall convene and conclude their labors as speedily as may be and submit the bills prepared, together with such suggestions as they may deem expedient, to the legislature on the first day of its next session.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLII.

An Act to amend "An act concerning roads" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section twenty-six of "An act concerning roads," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

26. And be it enacted, That if any such owners, applicant or applicants shall be dissatisfied with the assessment of the surveyors, such owner or applicant or applicants, within two years after return made as aforesaid, having given ten days' notice in writing to the other party of the object, time and place of such intended application, may apply to the justice of the supreme court or a judge of the court of common pleas of the county wherein such land is situated, which justice or judge shall forthwith appoint three competent and disinterested freeholders of such county, who, or a majority of them, shall have power to review such assessments, and may diminish or increase the same as they under the circumstances shall deem equitable and just; and make report thereof in writing under their hands forthwith, to be filed in the office of the clerk of said county, and the same shall be and remain final and conclusive; provided, that such freeholders meet upon like notice as aforesaid, and be duly sworn or affirmed to execute the duties aforesaid before they enter upon the discharge thereof.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLIII

An Act to authorize the board of health in cities of the first class in this state to condemn and prohibit the sale or use of impure ice and ice cut from polluted streams.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of health of each of the cities of the first class in this state shall have authority to provide by ordinance for the prohibition of the use or sale of impure ice or ice cut from polluted ponds or streams, and in order to properly carry out and enforce the provisions of such ordinance to provide that all dealers in ice for domestic or public use shall obtain from the health authorities of such cities a permit, and to fix in such ordinance a penalty for the violation of the same, which shall not exceed a fine of fifty dollars for each offense.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act concerning roads' (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four," which said supplement was approved March twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no appropriation heretofore made for road purposes in any township shall be held to be invalid by reason of the fact that any such appropriation exceeded the amount estimated and published by the township committee to be raised for road purposes, and notwithstanding the fact that no estimate shall have been made by the township committee and published as directed in the fifth section of said supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'A supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice in courts of law," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four,' which said supplement was approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three," and which act to amend was approved April twenty fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where any action or suit has heretofore been commenced, or shall hereafter be commenced in any court of law of this state, under or by virtue of any statute or at common law, and said action or suit has been or shall hereafter be dismissed, abated, non-suited, or a judgment shall have been or shall be entered against the defendant or defendants therein, by reason of the failure of the attorney or attorneys in such action or suit to file any pleading within the time limited by law, or by reason of the filing by such attorney or attorneys of an insufficient or improper pleading, it shall be the duty of said court or of any judge thereof, to revive and reinstate said action or suit or to open said judgment and permit a proper and sufficient pleading to be filed upon such terms as may seem to said court or judge to be equitable and just, if in the opinion of said court or judge the failure to file said pleading, or the filing of said insufficient or improper pleading, was due to the neglect, fault, error or mistake of said attorney or attorneys, and injury or wrong has or may result to the defendant or defendants by reason of such neglect, fault, error or mistake; provided, however, that no action or suit which has been or shall be dismissed, abated, non-suited, or in which a judgment shall have been or shall be entered against defendant or defendants therein for the reasons above stated, shall be revived, reinstated or opened unless application for that purpose be made within one year from the date of such dismissal, abatement, non-suit or judgment.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLVI.

An Act to provide for the paid-up or cash surrender values of life insurance policies.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any policy of life insurance hereafter issued by any domestic life insurance corporation of this state, after being in force three full years, shall, by its terms, lapse or become forfeited for the non-payment of any premium or any note given for a premium or loan made in cash on such policy as security, or of any interest on such note or loan, the net reserve on such policy, including existing dividend additions, computed according to the American experience table of mortality at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, shall, on demand, made in writing, with the surrender of the policy within three months after such lapse or forfeiture, be taken as a single premium of life insurance at the published rates of the corporation at the time the policy was issued, and shall be applied, as shall have been agreed in the application or policy, either to continue the insurance of the policy in force at its full amount, including dividend additions, so long as such single premium will purchase temporary insurance for that amount at the age of the insured at the time of the lapse or forfeiture, or to purchase upon the same life, at the same age, paid-up insurance, payable at the same time and under the same conditions, except as to payments of premiums, as the original policy; if no such agreement be expressed in the application or policy, such single premium may be applied in either of the modes above specified at the option of the owner of the policy, notice of such option to be contained in the demand hereinbefore required to be made to prevent the forfeiture of the policy.

2. And be it enacted, That if there be any indebtedness on the policy which has been acknowledged by the insured in writing, such indebtedness shall be paid off in cash before the provisions of this act shall be applicable to the policy.

3. And be it enacted, That the net value of the insurance given for such single premium under this act, computed according to the American experience table of mortality, with interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, shall in no case be less than two-thirds of the entire reserve, computed according to the rule prescribed in this act; but such insurance shall not participate in the profits of the corporation.

4. And be it enacted, That if the reserve upon any endowment policy applied according to the provisions of this act, as a single premium of temporary insurance, be more than sufficient to continue the insurance to the end of the endowment term named in the policy, and if the insured survive that term, the excess shall be paid in cash at the end of such term, on the conditions on which the original policy was issued.

5. And be it enacted, That any policy issued by any insurance company of this state shall be incontestable after two years from its date of issue, provided all due premiums have been paid, except that such policy may be adjusted for misstatement of age in the application for original policy.

6. And be it enacted, That on policies of prudential or industrial insurance the paid-up value of which, in accordance herewith, shall be less than fifty dollars, it shall be optional with the company issuing such policy to pay to the legal holder or holders thereof the cash equivalent; and upon such payment the company shall be absolutely released from all further claims or demands whatsoever, under or by reason of said policy, which shall thereupon be canceled.

7. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to policies issued on the lives of persons under twelve years of age until three years after such persons shall attain that age.

8. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the transfer and revocation of licenses granted by the excise board of any city in this state, and to authorize such boards to appoint a license inspector, and to fix the compensation of such officer," approved May sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in order to effectually prevent the violations of the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, and to prevent the unlawful sale, without license, of spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors in cities of the first class in this state, the excise boards of such cities are respectfully fully authorized and empowered to appoint not more than two license inspectors in any such city; and the person or persons so appointed license inspector or license inspectors shall possess the sole power and authority and perform the duties pertaining to the inspection of licenses granted by such excise board, and such board shall be solely authorized and empowered to prescribe the duties of such license inspector or inspectors, and fix and determine the annual compensation to be paid such license inspector or inspectors, not exceeding one thousand dollars per annum for each of such inspectors, which annual compensation or salary, so fixed and determined by such excise board, shall be paid monthly by such city to the person or persons appointed license inspector or inspectors by such excise board as aforesaid; and such excise board is also fully authorized and empowered to employ, in addition to that provided by law, such clerical help in performing the duties of the said board as from time to time they may deem necessary, and the said city is authorized and empowered upon the recommendation of said board to pay therefor fit and proper compensation not exceeding in any one year the sum of five hundred dollars, and any such city is hereby fully empowered and required to assess, levy, raise and pay to such license inspector or inspectors, appointed as aforesaid, and for such clerical assistance secured as aforesaid, in the same manner as the salaries of the commissioners of the excise board of any such city are assessed, levied, raised and paid.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general, special, public or private, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXII.

An Act authorizing cities of the first class to purchase land and erect buildings thereon for fire department purposes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in cities of the first class in this state, when the municipal board or other authority having the control of the erection of buildings for fire department purposes, shall certify to the municipal board of such city having the management and control of the finances of such city, that the necessity exists for the purchase of ground and the erection thereon of a new building or buildings for fire department purposes, that it shall be lawful for such municipal financial board or authority in such city, and they are hereby authorized and empowered, to issue bonds, either registered or coupon, to an amount not exceeding twelve thousand dollars, to raise money to pay for the purchase of such plot and the erection and construction of said building or buildings; that said bonds shall be payable in twelve years from the date thereof, and shall bear interest not exceeding four and one-half per centum per annum, to be sold not less than par, and that there shall be a sufficient sum appropriated and put in the tax levy of such city each year to pay the interest on such bonds, and also there shall in each year be appropriated and put in the tax levy of such city the further sum of one thousand dollars towards the payment of said bonds, to be properly invested and deposited in the sinking fund of such city to meet the payment of said bonds when they shall become due and payable.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever in any city of the first class in this state the board having charge and control of the finances of any such city has heretofore set aside or appriated to the board having charge of the erection of buildings for fire department purpose an amount not in excess of the sum of twelve thousand dollars for the erection of an engine or truck house, or engine or truck houses, and said amount so appropriated has not been expended nor any part thereof by said board at the time of the passage of this act, said board having charge and control of the finances of any such city shall have the power and authority to increase said amount so heretofore appropriated to an amount not exceeding twelve thousand dollars, as provided in this act.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXV.

An Act directing the collectors of taxes of townships and boroughs to surrender all official books and papers to the proper authorities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter the several collectors of taxes of the townships and boroughs of this state and their successors, shall, upon the expirations of their terms of office and within sixty days after a settlement has been made with the township committee or governing bodies of the various boroughs, surrender to said township committee or governing bodies of boroughs, all tax duplicate books and papers of their respective offices pertaining to the collection of said taxes.

2. And be it enacted, That any collector of taxes failing to surrender said tax duplicate books and other papers, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars per day for each day's failure beyond said sixty days, to be sued for, and recovered in any court of law by any taxpayer residing in any such township or borough, for the use of said township or borough.

3. And be it enacted, That the township or borough clerk, after the surrender of said books, shall be authorized to give all certificates in cases of taxation that the several collectors of taxes are now authorized by law to give.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

Continued from Page 9.

dence of such apportionment; it shall be the duty of such officer, and shall be stated in said ordinance, in each year, in the month of May to ascertain the amount of interest which will fall due on said bonds on or before the time fixed by law for the payment of taxes in the next succeeding year; and to certify the same together with one-tenth of the entire principal of the bonds issued to the assessors of the city, whose duty it shall be to assess the same upon the basis of the apportionment of bonds, and upon the property embraced in said apportionment, in name of the then owner thereof; the said assessment shall have the same force and effect, and be collected at the same time and in the same manner, as the other taxes collectible by law within said city for county and city purposes; but until the actual levy of such assessment, neither the liability to assessment in this section created or created under and by virtue of any other provision of this act, nor the apportionment nor record thereof shall be held or construed to create a subsisting incumbrance upon the title to the lands embraced in said apportionment; and all moneys collected under an ordinance adopted as herein provided, or under the authority conferred by this section, are hereby pledged to the payment of the principal and interest of the said bond and shall be used for no other purpose.

86. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXIX.

An Act providing for the incorporation of cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the inhabitants of any district lying wholly in one county, having a population exceeding five thousand, not including any territory already within the limits of any incorporated city or town, may become a body corporate by the name and title of the city of (specifying the name to be borne by such city), whenever a majority of the legal voters resident in such district, voting at an election to be held as hereinafter provided, shall so decide.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever a petition in writing, setting forth the boundaries of a district which it is proposed to incorporate as aforesaid, and the name proposed therefor, signed by at least fifty freeholders resident in such district, shall be presented to the chairman of the township committee of the township in which such district, or a greater part thereof, is located; such chairman shall call a meeting of the township committee of such township, or a joint meeting of the township committee of the townships in which such district lies, if it lies in more than one township, at some convenient place within such district; notice of the time and place of such meeting shall be twice published in a newspaper circulating in such district; if at such meeting, or any meeting to which the application may be adjourned, complaint is made by any land owner, in or near such district, that in laying out such district, territory has been unreasonably included, or excluded, and such committee or committees are satisfied, after hearing such complaint, that the same is just, and that the boundaries ought to be changed, such committee or committees may make such changes in the boundaries as will, in their opinion, secure the best results from such incorporation to persons and property to be affected thereby; and shall thereupon order an election to be held within such district (as changed by them, if changed); to decide whether such district shall become incorporated as a city under the provisions of this act; such order shall prescribe the day and place or places of holding such election, the hours of such day, not less than ten, during which the polls shall be open, and any other regulations respecting such election as they may deem proper; if more than one voting place is designated, then such committee or committees shall divide such district as equally as may be into convenient voting districts for such election, and the election officers last appointed for the election district in which any voting place is, shall hold and conduct the election so ordered.

3. And be it enacted, That notice of such election shall be given by advertisement published in one or more newspapers published in or near such district, and circulating therein, at least once in each week for two weeks successively, and by printed notices posted in at least one hundred conspicuous places therein, at least fifteen days next preceding the time appointed for such election, which advertisements and notices, shall specify the time, place or places, and the object and purpose of holding such election.

4. And be it enacted, That any election held under the provisions of this act shall be by ballot, and shall be held and conducted, and the votes canvassed and counted in the manner provided by law for conducting elections and canvassing and counting votes at town or local elections held in such township or townships; the ballots shall contain the words "for incorporation as a city under the act entitled 'An act providing for the incorporation of cities'" or "against incorporation as a city under the act entitled 'An act providing for the incorporation of cities;'" if such election be at the same time and place or places as a general, township or municipal election, then a separate box shall be provided to receive the votes on the question of incorporation; if a majority of the votes cast at such election be in favor of incorporation as a city under this act, then within five days thereafter a certificate of the result of such election, signed by the chairman of the township committee who first called a meeting in pursuance of the petition and attested by the clerk of the same township, together with certified copies of the petition order for election and statement of the board of canvassers or election officers who canvassed the vote, and proof by affidavits that due notice of such election was given, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and from and after filing the same the inhabitants of the district aforesaid, in which such election was held, shall be a body politic and corporate under the name of the city of (specifying the name designated in the petition) and by such name and title shall have perpetual succession, sue and be sued, prosecute and defend in all courts in this state, have a common seal and alter the same at pleasure, and purchase, hold and convey real and personal property for the use and benefit of the city.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the chairman of the township committee to whom the petition for an election on the question of incorporation was presented, as provided by section two of this act, within ten days after filing the certificate or the result of such election with the secretary of state, to call another meeting of the township committee or committees which ordered such election, at some convenient time and place within the district which has voted as aforesaid to incorporate under this act, and such committee or committees shall, at such meeting or a subsequent meeting to which the matter may be adjourned, divide such city into three or more wards and fix a time not less than thirty days after such division into wards, for the first city election under this act; each ward shall consist of contiguous territory and contain as nearly as possible an equal number of inhabitants; such division into wards shall continue until changed by the city council after a United States or state census; during the year following a United States or state census (but at no other time) the city council may by an ordinance passed by a two-thirds vote of all the members thereof, change the division into wards; but such ordinance shall not be passed except at a meeting held at least a week after such ordinance shall have been introduced and read.

6. And be it enacted, That any city incorporated under this act shall be entirely separate from and independent of the township or townships from whose territory it was taken, all lands and real estate belonging to any of such townships located within said city shall thereafter be the property of the city; and all other lands and real estate belonging to said townships shall be and remain the property of the township in which it was located; all property, debts and obligations of such township or townships at the time of such incorporation shall be equitably divided between the city and such townships, regard being had in making such division to the value of the lands and real estate which shall have fallen to each respectively; if the city council and township committee or committees shall agree on such division, then, on application of either to the court of common pleas, of the county, such court shall appoint three commissioners, not inhabitants or property owners in such city or township or townships, to make such division, and shall make such rules and orders with respect to the proceedings of such commissioners as may be just and proper; the report of the commissioners, or a majority of them, under their hands shall be final and conclusive unless an appeal be taken within thirty days after such report shall be filed in the county clerk's office; should such appeal be taken the court of common pleas shall review the decision of the commissioners, and reverse, modify or affirm the same as shall appear to be just.

7. And be it enacted, That there shall be elected at the annual city election in each city incorporated under this act a mayor and a city council, consisting of one councilman from each ward, chosen by the electors thereof, and such other officers as may be provided by law, and all cities incorporated under this act shall be governed by the laws of this state relating to and regulating the government of cities.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXX.

An Act authorizing cities of the first and second class to make necessary repairs to curbs and sidewalks and assess the cost thereof upon the property benefited.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in cities of the first and second class in this state, it shall be lawful for that municipal board or authority having control of the repairing of the streets of such city by resolution to require, in their discretion, any property owner or property owners to lay, alter, repair, relay, set or reset with curbstone or flagstone, and to supply and lay or set new curb or sidewalk, or to level the same in accordance with the established grade, in front of the property of any such owner or owners in accordance with specifications to be furnished by said board or authority, and when such repairs shall be made by the said owner they shall be made under the direction and control of the general superintendent of works of the board of street and water commissioners of such city or of such other officer or committee as shall have charge and control of the streets of such city, and shall be subject in all things to his or their approval; and if any such property owner or owners shall neglect or refuse to make the repairs required by such board or authority, as herein authorized, for four weeks after notice shall have been served upon such owner or owners or mailed to the last known post office address of such owner or owners, or of his or their known agents, then such board or authorities shall cause to be published in their minutes a declaration of their intention to proceed, which declaration, so published, shall be deemed a complete and final notice and a bar to any claim of insufficient service, and such board or authority may then proceed to make such repairs; and the amount so expended by any city in making such repairs in front of any lot or parcel of land shall be a first and paramount lien of the taxes imposed in any such city on said premises, and shall be collected by the comptroller or other proper officer of such city now or hereafter having charge of the collection of assessments levied for the benefits received from opening, grading and paving streets in the same manner as such assessments are now or may hereafter be collected, or such comptroller or other officer may, in his discretion, report the amount due from each property owner on account of such sidewalk improvement and then remaining unpaid, to that board or authority having control of the levying of taxes in such city, which said board or authority shall cause such sum or sums to be included in the annual taxes to be levied against such lot or lots so reported, and such sum or sums so included shall be collected by the collector in any such city in the same manner as general taxes are now collected in such city, and shall be subject to the same penalty for non-payment, including interest at such rate as may now or hereafter be fixed by law for arrears of taxes and including also the right on the part of the city to sell the property for non-payment.

2. And be it enacted, That in order to carry out the provisions of this act the board or authority herein vested with power to make such repairs shall have power to expend a portion of the whole of any fund heretofore set aside in any such city for said purpose, and if such fund shall become exhausted by reason of the making of such repairs, said board or authority shall be privileged to expend out of any license moneys set aside in any such city for the repairing of paved streets such further sum or sums as may be necessary for said purpose.

3. And be it enacted, That when the assessments herein authorized to be levied for the making of such repairs shall be collected the treasurer or other proper officer of such city, shall credit the amount so paid, first to the account for the repairing of paved streets, until the full amount taken therefrom for the purposes of this act shall be restored, and the balance to such account as may exist in such city for the making of repairs to sidewalks, et cetera.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXI.

An Act to enable cities of the third class to purchase lands and erect school buildings thereon.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter in any incorporated town or city of the third class of this state when any public school house shall be in a dilapidated, unsanitary, unsafe or unsatisfactory condition for school purposes, or when the increase in population demands more school accommodations, it shall be lawful for the common council, board of aldermen or other body having control of the finances of such city, to borrow money to an amount not exceeding the sum of fifty thousand dollars for the purpose of purchasing lands and erecting school houses thereon.

2. And be it enacted, That the said common council, board of aldermen or other body having the control of the finances of such city, to secure the payment of the sum or sums so borrowed, may issue bonds in the corporate name of such city to be denominated "school bonds of the city of ——," not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of fifty thousand dollars, payable in not more than twenty years, bearing interest not to exceed the rate of five per centum per annum, pledging the faith and credit of such city for the payment thereof, which bonds shall be sold to the highest bidder at not less than par value; provided, however, that the purchase of lands for such purposes and the erection of school houses thereon with the money so borrowed shall be under the direction and control of the board of education of such city.

3. And be it enacted, That if the charter of any such city of the third class in this state shall limit the amount of indebtedness that may be incurred, or by its terms permit the carrying out of the provisions of this act, the same shall not hereafter be held to apply to the raising of money under the provisions of this act, any other law to the contrary notwithstanding.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXII.

An Act to empower boards of aldermen, councilmen or other governing bodies of cities, towns or boroughs of this state to give notice of intention to pass ordinances for any public improvement by publication.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever by the charter, special public law or general public law under the provisions of which any city, town or borough of this state shall intend to cause any public improvement to be made no specific direction is given of the manner in which notice shall be given of the intention of the board or aldermen, councilmen or other governing body of such city, town or borough to pass and adopt an ordinance or ordinances to cause such public improvement to be made, it shall be lawful for the said board of aldermen, councilmen or other governing body of any city, town or borough of this state to cause notice of its intention to pass such ordinance or ordinances to be given by publication for two weeks before the introduction or first reading of such ordinance or ordinances in one or more newspapers published and circulating in such city, town or borough; or if no newspaper be published in said city, town or borough, then in a newspaper published in the county wherein such city, town or borough is situate and circulating in said city, town or borough; provided, that if such public improvement contemplates the taking and appropriating of any land and real estate owned by a person or persons not residents in said city, town or borough, a copy of said notice shall be served on said non-resident owner personally or mailed to his or her post office address, if known, at least ten days before the introduction of said ordinance.

2. And be it enacted, That any such notice of intention so published as aforesaid shall be a good and sufficient notice of the intention of said board of aldermen, councilmen or other governing body to cause said public improvement to be made.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXIII.

Amendment to an act entitled "An act to protect the planting and cultivating of oysters in the tide waters of this state," which act was approved May seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of said act be amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That upon the grounds now or hereafter held, used or occupied as aforesaid, the person or persons holding, using or occupying the same may plant, cultivate and gather oysters; they may shell said grounds and gather oysters that may grow thereon, and all oysters on said grounds shall be deemed and taken to be their personal property; and every person or persons who shall gather, catch or take oysters, clams or shells from any lot of ground property planted with oysters held, used or occupied as aforesaid, or use thereon any tongs, rake or dredge without permission of the person or persons holding, using or occupying the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not greater than one hundred dollars or be confined in the county jail for a period not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXIV.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the mayor and council to establish by ordinance a police department for the borough, with such officers and patrolmen as they shall deem necessary, and by said ordinance determine and from time to time as public safety may demand to in like manner increase such police force, and the cost and expense of said department and the maintenance thereof shall be defrayed out of the taxes received for general borough purposes.

2. And be it enacted, That said mayor and council may cause to be erected and maintained such police stations as may be necessary for the efficiency of the department referred to in the preceding section of this act and to cause to be constructed or erected electric or other police signals to and with such stations, and in case there be no funds applicable for this purpose to issue certificates of indebtedness therefor payable in five years or such less time as they may determine.

3. And be it enacted, That in case a borough owns a stone crusher it shall be lawful for the mayor and council to sell for cash surplus crushed stone.

4. And be it enacted, That the inhabitants of and the territory within any incorporated or semi-incorporated village may in manner provided for the incorporation of boroughs under the act to which this is a supplement be and become incorporated as a borough under last aforesaid act, and that upon the consummation of such borough incorporation in manner provided by said act, the village government shall cease and determine, and all moneys, assets, rights, interests and credits of every name and nature shall be and become the property of and vested in the mayor and council of such borough, and the liabilities of such village shall be and become the liability of such borough, and shall be paid as other borough indebtedness; provided, however, that any and all boroughs heretofore incorporated under said act from and out of the territorial area of any such village be and the same is hereby ratified and confirmed in all things, and such incorporation and all things thereto appertaining shall have the same force and effect in fact and in law as though such borough had been incorporated after the passage of this act.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the mayor and council to annually by ordinance fix and determine the salary and compensation of the borough assessor and collector of taxes.

6. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXV.

An Act to provide for the appointment, term of office and salary of assessors in certain cities in this state, to fix the time for making assessments and for the meeting of the board of assessors in such cities, and to vacate the office of all assessors now holding office in such cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any city of this state now or hereafter having within its territorial limits a population of more than fifteen thousand and less than thirty-five thousand inhabitants, it shall be lawful for the mayor of such city to appoint in and for such city three assessors-at-large, who, when so appointed, shall perform and discharge the same duties as are now required by law of assessors heretofore elected or appointed in such city, and they shall hold office for the term of three years from the date of their appointment and until their successors are appointed and qualify; and in case of vacancy in the office of any such assessors during such term, either by death, resignation or other cause, such vacancy shall be filled by the mayor of such city by appointment for the unexpired term only; the said assessors appointed under the provisions of this act shall each receive as compensation for the performance of their duties as such assessors an annual salary, which shall be fixed by the common council or other governing body of such city, but which shall not be less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, which said salary shall be in lieu of all other compensation or fees heretofore allowed to assessors in any such city for the performance of their duties, and shall not be increased or decreased during their said term of office.

2. And be it enacted, That within fifteen days after the first and every subsequent appointment of assessors in any such city under the provisions of this act, the common council or other governing body of such city shall by resolution, divide such city into three assessment districts of substantially equal area, and shall, by the same resolution, assign one of the assessors so appointed to each of said districts for the term of his office.

3. And be it enacted, That the said assessors shall make, in their respective assessment districts, the assessment required by law, between the twentieth day of May and the last Tuesday in July in each year, and that they shall meet as a board of assessors on and after the last Tuesday in July in each year.

4. And be it enacted, That the said assessors may be appointed by the mayor of such city at any time after the passage of this act, and upon their appointment shall immediately enter upon the discharge of their duties, and the offices and terms of office of all assessors existing in any city wherein the provisions of this act may be adopted and assessors-at-large be appointed as aforesaid, shall cease and be abolished and vacated upon the appointment of the said assessors under this act who shall be taken to be and are hereby declared to be the successors of the assessors whose offices are vacated by this act; provided, that in any such city having more than three wards there shall not be more than one of the said assessors-at-large appointed from the same ward; and provided, further, that such city shall have as many votes in the board of county assessors in the county in which such city is located as there shall be wards in any such city.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general, special, public or local, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXVI.

An Act relating to the supply of water for public uses in townships of counties of the first class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the township committee of any township of a county of the first class of this state owning its own pipes and mains and hydrants shall have power, in the name of the inhabitants of the said township, to enter into and make a contract or agreement with the municipal authorities of any adjoining city or with any water company, for a term of five years or less, for the obtaining and furnishing of a supply of water to be used by the said township for public purposes and use, at such rates and upon such terms as can be mutually agreed upon.

2. And be it enacted, That the said township committee may supply the water so obtained to the inhabitants of the said township upon such terms, rents, rates, prices and regulations as may be determined upon by the said township committee; and that the money so received from the sale of water shall be applied towards the payment of the water in accordance with the terms of the contract or agreement entered into as provided by section one hereof, and that the balance thereof shall be applied by the township committee to defray the necessary expenses, repairs, maintenance and the extension of such pipes and hydrants; provided, however, that the money so received from the sale of water upon any portion of the main or any extension of pipes and hydrants now made or which may hereafter be made and for which bonds of the inhabitants of said township are now issued, whether the same be issued by virtue of any general or special act, or for which bonds shall be hereafter issued under the terms of this act, after the deduction of its proportion of the money to be applied to the payment of water in accordance with the contract or agreement entered into as provided by section one hereof, shall be applied towards the creation of a fund for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds.

3. And be it enacted, That the owner and occupier of any house, tenement, building or lot shall each be liable for the payment of the rent of water as fixed by the said township committee, for the use of the water by such owner or such occupier, and such rent so fixed shall be a lien upon said house, tenement, building or lot until the same shall be paid and satisfied; that the said township committee shall have authority to require payment in advance for the use or rent of water furnished by the said township in or upon any building, place or premises, and in case prompt payment of any water rent or water rents shall not be made when the same shall become due, the water shall be shut off from said building, place or premises and shall not be again supplied until such arrears with interest thereon shall be fully paid; and it shall and may be lawful for the said township committee to give notice once a week for four weeks, by advertisement in a newspaper published in said township, requiring the owner or occupants of such houses, tenements, or buildings or lots, to pay such water rents remaining due or unpaid thereon, and if the same are not paid, such houses, tenements or buildings or lots will be sold at public auction by the tax collector in the manner now provided for the sale of real property for unpaid taxes for the amount of the rent with the interest thereon, and the expenses of such advertisement and all other incidental expenses, and if, notwithstanding such notice, the owner or occupants refuse or neglect to pay such rents, interests and expenses, then it shall be lawful for the said township committee to direct the said tax collector to sell such houses, tenements, buildings or lots in the manner provided by law for the sale of real property for unpaid taxes in said township.

4. And be it enacted, That when applications from any of the inhabitants of the said township for water have been made to the township committee from any part of the township not then supplied with water, which, when taken at the rate established by the township committee as provided by section two hereof, shall amount in value to at least one-tenth of the estimated cost of extending the main from the most available section of the former main to the place for which water has been applied, it shall be lawful for the township committee to cause the said main to be extended and all necessary hydrants to be constructed thereon and the said township committee is hereby authorized and empowered, if there are not sufficient funds at its disposal to make said extension, to borrow upon the credit of the township by the issuance of promissory notes or bonds of the inhabitants of such township, signed by the chairman of such committee and attested by the clerk of the township under the seal of the township, which bonds shall pledge the whole property of the township for the payment thereof, and especially pledge the rents derived from the sale of water on such extension according to section two of this act, which bonds or note shall bear interest at a rate not greater than five per centum per annum, and the interest may be made payable semi-annually and the bonds to be either registered or coupon as the township committee shall direct; said notes or bonds may be made payable at such time as said township committee may direct, but no bonds shall be issued for a longer period than ten years from the date thereof, nor shall the same be negotiated at less than par; provided, however, that no bonds shall be issued under this act whereby the bonded indebtedness of said township shall thereby be caused to exceed twenty per centum of the average assessed valuation of the real property in said township for the three years immediately preceding the said proposed issue.

5. And be it enacted, That any contract for the supply of water or any issue of notes or bonds heretofore made and which, except for the date of the same, would otherwise fall within the terms and conditions of this act, are hereby declared good and valid and are hereby given the same effect as it made after the passage of this act.

6. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall remain inoperative in any such township until assented to by a majority of the legal votes cast for or against such measure at any regular township election to be hereafter held in such township, of which election on such proposed measure the clerk of the township shall cause notice to be published in the manner now required by him for notices of regular township elections, and the ballots provided at such election for such purpose shall contain the words "for water bill of 1895" or "against water bill of 1895," and, if a majority of the votes cast thereat shall be in favor of this act, then it shall go into effect immediately.

7. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXVII.

An Act to repeal an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships,' approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four," which supplement was approved March seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships,' approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four," which supplement was approved March seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXIX.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the issue of bonds to provide moneys for the erection of county lunatic asylum buildings in counties of this state," approved June tenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where in any county of this state, a county lunatic asylum building has been erected or is being erected, pursuant to or in accordance with the provisions of the act to which this act is a supplement and the acts supplementary thereto, and such building is nearing or approaching completion, but the entire completion or finishing of the same shall be impracticable or impossible by reason of the fact that sufficient moneys or funds are not appropriated, set apart or available to meet and pay the expense necessary to enable the making of suitable and proper provision for the heating and lighting of such building so that the same can be used and occupied for the purpose for which it was designed or intended, therefor, in order to make suitable and proper provision for the heating and lighting before referred to, and to enable the said building to be entirely completed and finished, including such heating and lighting and other things necessary in the premises, with all reasonable speed, the board of chosen freeholders of such county may and hereby are authorized and empowered to issue or cause to be issued bonds (except as may be herein otherwise directed) of the character, denomination, tenor and effect of those heretofore authorized to be issued in and by the original act to which this is a supplement as amended by the act amendatory thereof, approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, to an amount or sum not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars, such bonds to be made, issued, sold or disposed of as directed in such amended act; and provision for the payment of the bonds herein authorized shall be made each year as provided in the aforesaid original act save as may be herein otherwise directed; and excepting that the first provision for the payment of the same shall commence with and be made in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, and like provision shall be made each year thereafter until the whole principal sum of the bonds in this act authorized shall have been provided for; there shall be inserted in the tax levy of the county each year, to meet and pay the principal of said bonds after the issue thereof, a sum not less than two thousand dollars, and in making provision for the issue of such bonds regard may be had to this last-mentioned provision and the issue thereby regulated; proper provision for the payment of interest accruing on such bonds shall be made each year in like manner; none of the moneys herein authorized to be raised shall be applied to any purpose than those above mentioned, nor shall any of the sums be used to defray any compensation to the architect heretofore provided for.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXX.

An Act to promote the efficiency of fire departments in cities of the first class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no appointment to the fire department of any city of the first class of this state, of any person not already employed in said department, shall be made to any position therein of a higher grade than that of hoseman or a grade equivalent thereto in point of compensation.

2. And be it enacted, That appointments to any position or positions of a higher grade than hoseman or its equivalent as aforesaid in any such department shall not be made, except by promotion from among the men already employed in such department either permanently or as men at call.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the appointment of police justices in cities of the first class," passed May eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if the common council, board of finance, or other board or body having charge and control of the finances of any city in which courts are established by the act to which this act is a supplement, shall by resolution so provide the annual salary of the judges of said courts shall be three thousand five hundred dollars, and the annual salary of the clerks shall be eighteen hundred dollars, to be paid monthly in the same manner that other officers of such city are paid; and upon the adoption of such resolution, all fees now by law payable to such judges and clerks shall be paid into the city treasury for the use of the city, and thereafter the judges and clerks of such courts shall not be paid any fees or compensation other than the salaries herein provided for.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and they are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXII.

An Act concerning townships wherein boroughs have been or shall hereafter be incorporated.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the township committee or committees and the mayor and council of any one or more boroughs formed within any township or townships, shall within twenty days after the first annual election for borough officers hold a joint meeting at some convenient place within the township, and shall ascertain and determine thereat or at an adjourned meeting what amount of the unexpended balances of township moneys, against which there are no outstanding demands, is due to the borough or boroughs aforesaid; that such amount shall be ascertained and calculated upon the proportion that the assessed valuation of real and personal property within the territorial limits of the borough, as appears by the township duplicates for the preceding year, bears to the likewise assessed valuation within the whole township, and thereupon said township committee shall by resolution direct the collector of taxes or township treasurer, or both, as the case may be, to pay such sum or sums so found to be due to the collector of taxes for the borough or boroughs, as the case may be, for the use of the borough.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall apply to and be enforced within the townships wherein boroughs have been incorporated since the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately, and that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXIII.

An Act concurring in an act passed by the general assembly of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved March fourteenth, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, entitled "An act to authorize the owners of certain mills on the Delaware river at Morrisville to extend their wing-dams."

Whereas, The general assembly of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania passed a certain act, approved March fourteenth, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven; the title and the act being as follows:

"An act to authorize the owners of certain mills on the Delaware river at Morrisville to extend their wing-dam.

"Whereas, Adam Hoops erected certain mills upon an arm of the Delaware river, between an island and the main shore at Morrisville, in Bucks county, and for the purpose of supplying the same with water constructed a wing-dam extending up the river from head of said island, the right to the continuance of which and of taking water from the river for the use of said mills was recognized and confirmed by the general assembly of Pennsylvania, in one thousand seven hundred and seventy-one; and

"Whereas, By the construction of canals and water works tapping the river above said dam, the flow of water into said dam has been much obstructed and diminished and the value of said mills impaired; therefore,

"Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that David W. Kelly, Andrew K. Rowan, William C. Vansant and Joakim R. Moon, the present owners of said mills, their heirs and assigns, are hereby authorized to extend the said wing-dam up the stream to the distance of seven hundred and thirty-five feet from the head of the present dam; provided, that the head of said wing-dam does not extend into said river beyond the distance of five hundred and fifty feet from the Pennsylvania shore, and that nothing herein contained shall authorize any construction that will interfere with the channel of said river;" therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the above act be and the same is hereby concurred in.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXIV.

Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships," approved May ninth, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the provisions of an act entitled "An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and the several supplements thereto and act amendatory thereof, shall apply to either the construction, curbing or paving of sidewalks in townships, and also to the construction and curbing, construction and paving or curbing and paving.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXV.

An Act to enable counties of the second class in this state to furnish suitable accommodations for the transaction of public business.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any county of the second class in this state in which there are not public buildings the property of the county suitable and sufficient to accommodate the courts, the different officers and departments of the county government, the board of chosen freeholders of any such county is hereby authorized to erect such buildings upon property now owned by such county as hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, That for the purposes of this act, whenever the board of chosen freeholders of such county shall decide by a resolution of two-thirds of all its members that such a building or buildings shall be necessary, it shall be the duty of the circuit court, upon the presentation of such resolution thereto by said board, to appoint three disinterested freeholders and residents of said county, no more than a majority of whom shall be members of the same political party, and who shall give a bond for the proper performance of their duty in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars; and shall serve during the pleasure of the appointing power and until others are appointed in their places, unless removed for cause by the said court, who shall have power to erect on the property now owned by said county such buildings as they shall deem suitable for the purposes of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall organize by the selection of one of their members as chairman, and all payments made for the purposes of this act for the labor and materials furnished shall be upon orders of certificates of said commissioners, signed by the chairman, and the acts of a majority of said commissioners shall be the acts of the commissioners as herein authorized; and such commissioners shall receive a full compensation for their services one hundred dollars per month each for the time they serve, and the chairman shall receive twenty-five dollars per month in addition thereto; and the clerk and counsel respectively of the board of chosen freeholders of such county shall act as clerk and counsel respectively of such commissioners, and shall receive such compensation for their services as such commissioners shall decide.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the board of chosen freeholders of any such county, by resolution adopted by a vote of not less than two-thirds of all the members of such board, to order, direct and authorize the issue, for the purposes aforesaid, of bonds in the corporate name and under the corporate seal of such county, the total amount of which shall not exceed the sum of two hundred thousand dollars.

5. And be it enacted, That such bonds so as aforesaid directed and authorized to be issued, and shall be signed by the director or directors-at-large of the board of chosen freeholders of such county and the county collector thereof, and the corporate seal shall be attached thereto; they shall state upon their face for what purpose the same are issued; they shall be of the denomination of not less than one thousand dollars each; such bonds may be either registered or coupon bonds, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding four per centum per annum, payable half-yearly, which bonds may be sold at either public or private sale for the best price which can be obtained therefor, but the same shall not be sold for less than their par value; and registered bonds may be exchanged for coupon bonds, and vice versa, at the option of the holder, if the board of chosen freeholders shall by resolution consent thereto; all real and personal property within such county shall be liable for the payment of the principal and interest of such bonds.

6. And be it enacted, That the board of chosen freeholders of such county shall provide for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds by taxation as follows: every year after the issue thereof, said board shall, by tax, in the manner hereinafter directed for the payment of the principal, raise and provide moneys sufficient to pay the interest thereon as the same shall accrue; yearly and every year, commencing with and including the year one thousand nine hundred and one, until said bonds shall be redeemed and paid off, such boards shall order and cause to be assessed and collected by tax at the same time and in the same manner that other county taxes in such county are assessed and collected, a sum in addition to the amount required for interest, of not less than ten thousand dollars, to pay the principal of said bonds; and provision for the redemption and payment thereof, in accordance with this section, shall be made at the time of the direction for the issue of the bonds as aforesaid; provided, that the whole expenditure for the erection of said building or buildings, and all purposes of this act shall not exceed the sum of two hundred thousand dollars.

7. And be it enacted, That the work done and the materials required to be furnished by virtue of this act, shall be done and furnished only under a contract or contracts in writing, which shall be awarded upon bids duly advertised for in three newspapers printed and published in said county, at least ten days previously, and the lowest bidder only shall be entitled to the contract; and such bidder shall be required to enter into bond, with such sureties as such commissioners shall determine by resolution at the time the bids are ordered or invited, for the faithful performance of the contract, which sureties shall not be less than two in any case, and they shall be residents and freeholders in the county, seized of real property therein over and above all their debts and above all liens and incumbrances on the property of not less than sixty per centum of the contract to be secured by their bond; in case of the rejection of any bid for any reason, as well as in a case where the lowest bidder may for an unforseen reason fail to enter into contract as above specified, new bids shall be advertised for, and the contract to be made shall be made with the lowest bidder; all bids must be accompanied by offer of sureties qualified as aforesaid, who shall make oath to the same, and who shall specify therein that each of them is ready and willing to enter into bond for the faithful performance of the contract as above provided.

8. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXVI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the preservation of sheep" (Revision), approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six,' which further supplement was approved April fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the second section of the act of which this is amendatory be amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of each township, village, borough or city in this state to provide a book for the purpose of registering the owner's name of every dog or bitch and the number, numbering them in the order of the owner's applying for said registration, and giving to each person information of the registered number thereof; the person applying for registration shall pay the sum of one dollar for each dog or bitch thus registered, of which the clerk shall receive twelve cents for each registration, the balance to be applied to paying damage done by dogs to domestic animals or poultry, after the same shall have been appraised by two freeholders, as authorized and directed by the act to which this is a supplement and the supplements to said act, and in case there is no damage such balance to become a part of the general fund of such township, village, borough or city, as the case may be.

2. And be it enacted, That the third section of said act of which this is amendatory be amended so as to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That in case the clerk of any township, village, borough or city shall neglect or refuse to so register any dog or bitch when application shall be made to him for that purpose, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for each refusal, which shall be paid to the treasurer of the township, village, city or borough, and be applied to the general fund of such township, village, city or borough, as the case may be.

3. And be it enacted, That the fourth section of the said act of which this is amendatory be amended so as to read as follows:

4. And be it enacted, That the common council or governing board of any incorporated city, village, borough or town or the township committee of any township in this state are hereby authorized and empowered and whose duties it shall be to appoint one or more persons in their respective cities, villages, boroughs, towns or townships with full power and authority to kill any dog, male or female, found straying off the owner's premises without such collar as above provided for upon its neck.

4. And be it enacted, That the fifth section of the said act to which this is amendatory be amended so as to read as follows:

5. And be it enacted, That the common council or governing board of any incorporated city, village, borough or town and the township committee of any township are hereby authorized to fix the compensation to be paid to any person or persons appointed as above provided for and to pay the same out of any moneys in the treasury of said city, village, borough, town or township.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXVII.

An Act to authorize the purchase of land and the erection of fire engine houses thereon in cities of the second class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the mayor and common council, or other governing body of any city of the second class in this state, are hereby authorized and empowered to purchase the necessary land for the erection of a fire engine house, and to erect thereon a suitable fire engine house for use in said city; provided, the aggregate cost of such land and engine house shall not exceed the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That to provide money necessary to carry this act into effect the mayor and common council, or other governing body of such city, shall have power to issue bonds of such city to an amount not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars, having not more than twenty years to run, and bearing interest at a rate not to exceed five per centum per annum, pledging the faith, credit and property of said city for the payment of the same, which bonds, after proper advertisement for the sale of the same, shall be sold to the highest bidder.

3. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds and meeting the interest thereon the said city shall provide a sinking fund, and shall annually include in the tax levy or appropriation of such city a sufficient proportion of said bond issue to meet the principal sum of said bonds at maturity and retire the same from the proceeds of said sinking fund.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXVIII.

An Act to authorize cities to issue bonds for the construction of public schools.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of aldermen, common council or board having charge of the finances or other legislative body of any city in this state may issue bonds to the amount of fifty thousand dollars each year for the purpose of purchasing lands and the erection thereon of public school buildings and the furnishing of the same; said bonds shall be payable in not less than ten years and within twenty years from the date of their issue, and shall bear and pay interest at not more than five per centum per annum; shall be signed by the mayor, countersigned by the comptroller and attested by the city clerk and have the corporate seal affixed, and shall be sold for not less than par.

2. And be it enacted, That the buildings to be erected pursuant to this act shall be erected and furnished by the body in any such city having charge of and control of the public schools, and the money arising from the sale of said bonds shall be placed to the credit of said last-named body to be expended for the purposes aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCLXXXIX.

An Act respecting the opening, widening, extending or otherwise improving of streets, avenues and public highways in cities of the first class in this state, and providing for the payment of the same; and further providing that the assessments upon property for special benefits shall be payable in full or in installments at the option of the property owner.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in addition to any power now vested in any board or body having control of the streets and highways of any city of the first class of this state, said board or body shall have further power either upon the application of any owner or owners of property liable to assessment for any contemplated improvement, or in their discretion to cause to be opened, widened, extended or changed as to its boundary any street, avenue or public highway in such city under the provisions of this act, and all proceedings taken hereunder shall refer to this act by its chapter number, and this act shall not be construed to affect the proceedings now provided by law regulating the subject matters herein named, nor shall the proceedings which may be taken under the provisions of this act be abridged by the provisions of any previous act.

2. And be it enacted, That when in the opening, widening or extension of any street, avenue or public highway under the provisions of this act it becomes necessary to lay out and establish grades, and grade, curb and flag any portion or the whole of same, and to erect any viaduct, cause any filling to be made, retaining walls, bridges, abutments and approaches to be built, in order that a continuous and suitable public highway may be provided, such board or body may cause the same to be done; provided, however, that the power vested hereunder shall not be construed to embrace general paving or sewering.

3. And be it enacted, That when in the judgment of said board or body it is desirable that any street shall be opened, widened or extended and a grade established therefor, and any improvement contemplated by this act should be made, then said board or body may, by a resolution setting forth the nature of the opening, widening, extension, grade and the character of the improvement desired, direct their proper officers to prepare either a map or specifications, or both, describing therein the location and character of such opening, widening, extension, grade and improvement, together with a preliminary estimate of the amount of the materials and work necessary to carry out the desired improvement, which when so prepared, presented to and adopted by said board or body shall be filed, and upon the filing thereof, the officer or officers now performing a similar duty in such city, shall cause to be placed in the daily official newspapers in said city for five consecutive insertions and in any weekly official newspaper in said city for one insertion, an advertisement soliciting proposals for the doing of the work and for the furnishing of the materials necessary to complete the improvement, and when such proposal shall be presented, said board or body may at the time of such presentation or at any time thereafter, not exceeding six months, at some public meeting of said board or body, either reject any or all of said proposals or proceed to award a contract therefor in such manner as now prescribed by law in any said city for the making of improvements when the cost thereof, either in whole or in part, is payable by assessments for special benefits on property benefited thereby, which award of contract shall be provisional only and shall impose no duty or liability upon such city unless it shall be finally made by such board or body as hereinafter provided.

4. And be it enacted, That when a contract shall be awarded as aforesaid such board or body shall cause to be prepared by such officer or officers now performing a similar duty in such city, a preliminary map and report of such improvement based upon such award of such contract and the amount of materials, estimated as aforesaid, which said map shall show in detail the real estate or easements required to be taken for such improvement, and as far as practicable the names of the owners of such real estate as is required to be taken or any interest therein required and the damage to be done to any owner or owners, and shall also show the total cost of such contemplated improvement and the probable amount to be assessed upon the property specially benefited thereby, and the officer or officers so preparing said map and report shall in the matter of real estate to be taken and of easements to be acquired and damages to be sustained, proceed in all things in the same manner as is now prescribed by law in any such city for the opening of streets when an assessment for special benefits is to be levied therefor; and upon the filing of such preliminary map and report the officer or officers now performing a similar duty in such city shall thereupon cause to be published in the official newspaper of such city a notice to parties interested in said proposed opening, widening, extension and establishing of grade of any street and any improvement, of the time and place for hearing objections thereto, which said notice shall describe the location and character of the opening, widening, extension and establishing of grade of any street and the proposed improvement, real estate to be taken or damaged and the easements to be acquired and the property to be assessed therefor, and such hearing shall not be held sooner than two weeks from the date of first publication of said notice; said notice shall be inserted in the official daily newspapers of such city for a period of five days, and in any weekly official newspapers of such city for one insertion, and at the time and place so fixed said board or body shall proceed to hear and adjudicate upon any objections which may be presented, and no opening, widening, extension, establishing of grade or any improvement shall be proceeded with under the provisions of this act if objections thereto in writing are presented to said board or body representing properties liable therefor to more than one-half of the probable assessments on the basis of preliminary map; in case objections shall not be so presented, or if in the opinion of said board or body a sufficient reason has not been presented for stopping said improvement, an award of contract shall then be finally made and payment ordered for the real estate and easements to be taken and acquired and damages sustained; provided, that no payment shall be made for real estate taken, or easements acquired, or damages sustained, except in such manner as is now prescribed by law in any such city for the acquiring of lands for the opening of streets; and provided further, that if there is now required in any such city the concurrence of any other board or body in the final award of contract for assessable improvements and in the payments of awards for real estate taken, or easements acquired and damages sustained, such concurring power shall not be dispensed with.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of such city to pay for such real estate as may be taken or easements acquired, and for such damages as may be sustained in carrying out the provisions of this act, in the same manner as payment is now made in any such city for like purposes, when an assessment is to be levied for special benefits, and to pay for such work and materials as may be required by temporary bonds or improvement certificates, which bonds or certificates shall upon their face indicate the improvement for the payment of which and the date of the contract in pursuance of which they are so issued, by virtue of the provisions of this act; and it shall be the duty of the proper officer or officers of such city to keep a record of all bonds or certificates issued, which said bonds or certificates shall be payable at the option of the city and within six years from the date thereof, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, from the first day of January or July next succeeding the date of issue; that the said bonds or certificates shall, as far as practicable, be issued in sums and for amounts of one hundred dollars and multiples thereof, and shall be negotiable; and shall not be subject to defense by the city causing the same to be issued, except such defense as might be interposed to the payment of bonds issued in such city for like improvements, and such bonds or certificates shall not be subject to taxation in the hands of the holder; and in case the amount assessed for special benefits on the property specially benefited does not equal the whole cost of the improvement, and any portion of the cost of such improvement is required to be borne by the city at large, said city shall provide for the payment thereof in such manner as is now provided by law in such city for payments where any part of the cost of an improvement, proposed to be paid by assessments upon property specially benefited, is placed upon the city at large.

6. And be it enacted, That upon the completion of the work done by contract as herein provided, the said board or body having control of streets and highways in such city shall cause to be filed with the commissioners of assessment, of the officer or officers now levying assessments upon property specially benefited by an improvement, a statement showing the entire cost of said improvement, and such commissioners of assessment, officer or officers shall proceed to make the assessment and prepare a report and map showing the benefit to each lot or parcel of land which is specially benefited by reason of the opening, widening, extension and the establishing a grade of any street and the making of any improvement; and said assessment when so made shall be filed with the clerk of the board or body making the opening, widening, extension and the establishing a grade of any street and the improvement, whereupon notices by publication shall be given to the owners of the property liable to assessment therefor, which said notice shall name the time and place for the hearing of objections, and shall be published in such manner and for such length of time, as heretofore provided in this act for the notice of hearing the preliminary map and report, and at the time and place so fixed in said notice said board or body shall then proceed to hear and adjudicate upon all objections which may be presented in writing against the confirmation of final assessment, and said board or body shall have the authority to confirm the same as a whole, or refer the same back to the said commissioners of assessment, officer or officers making the same for further consideration, and the proceedings thereon shall be conducted in the same manner as the making of the original assessment, and the final action thereon shall be shown in the resolution of confirmation; and a copy of said final assessment map, on which shall be stated the date of confirmation, shall then be filed with the officer or officers upon whom devolves the duty of collection of assessments in any such city.

7. And be it enacted, That after the confirmation of said assessment as herein provided the property owner or owners shall have five years from the date when the annual tax is payable, next after the making of aforesaid assessment, in which to pay for the same; the amount assessed against each piece of property shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of confirmation; and such payment may be made immediately after confirmation or in five equal annual installments as follows: the first installment is to be due and payable when the annual tax is payable, next after the making of the aforesaid assessment and confirmation, and each installment thereafter shall be due and payable on and after the date of payment of annual taxes of each year in said city, together with interest computed at the rate aforesaid upon the unpaid balance of such assessment, and the property owner or owners shall, at any time after the aforesaid confirmation, have the right to pay the said assessment or any amount remaining unpaid thereon, with interest as aforesaid, from the date of confirmation to the date of payment; all payments herein provided for shall be paid to the official or officials authorized to receive the payment of assessments in such city.

8. And be it enacted, That all property against which said assessment is made shall be subject, as to each annual installment, to the laws now in force for the collection of taxes and assessments, and all such assessments and installments shall be enforced and collected in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for the collection of taxes and assessments; and it shall be lawful for such city, through its proper board to provide by ordinance or resolution for such enforcement and collection in accordance with the provisions of this act and the laws of this state.

9. And be it enacted, That in order to take advantage of the provisions of this act and put and keep the same in operation in such city, such board or body ordering the opening, widening, extension or establishing of grade of any street and the contract work herein authorized shall pass a resolution including therein an itemized statement of the cost of advertising done as herein directed, and any and all costs not herein mentioned and which may have been necessarily incurred to carry out the provisions of this act, which statement shall not include any amount of said costs as before referred to which represents any amount placed upon the city at large by reason of the assessments on property specially benefited by the improvement not equaling the cost of the improvement, and shall forward such resolution and statement to the board or body in such city having the control of the finances thereof; and such last-named board or body shall borrow such sum or sums of money so included in such resolution and statement in anticipation of the collection of taxes to be thereafter levied and to issue evidences of indebtedness therefor at a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum per annum; provided, that any money borrowed as aforesaid shall be met and paid by an appropriation to that board having borrowed the money as aforesaid, the same to be placed in the tax levy next thereafter to be levied in any such city.

10. And be it enacted, That the board or body in any such city having control of the finances thereof, shall provide such sum or sums as may be necessary to acquire any real estate or easements therein for the purposes of this act to provide for any payment and for damages to such real estate as hereinbefore provided, and are empowered to issue evidences of indebtedness therefor at a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum per annum, and such certificates of indebtedness shall subsequently be redeemed when the assessments levied for special benefits hereunder are collected or in such other manner as said board or body may direct.

11. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXC.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments," approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

Whereas, An act passed at this session of the legislature entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the formation of borough governments,' approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight," which first-named act was approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, went into effect only five days before the usual spring general elections in this state, whereby it was impracticable to fully put into effect all its provisions, especially those relating to the election of members of the township committee, overseers of the roads or township officers, as provided for in section six of said act; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all townships of this state within the limits of which are boroughs incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement, and in which townships at the time of the last general election the legally qualified voters thereof failed to elect any member or members of the township committee, overseers of the roads or township officers in the place of such officers who were residing within the limits of such boroughs, under the provisions of section six of the act above mentioned approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, the members of the township committee, overseers of the roads or township officers residing within the limits of such boroughs shall continue to act as such officers until the expiration of their several terms of office, anything in said supplement approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCI.

An Act to authorize incorporated towns in this state governed by boards of commissioners either separately or jointly, either with other boards of commissioners of incorporated towns or with townships in this state, to acquire and own lands for hospital purposes and to erect and maintain thereon hospitals and to pay for the same, and to convey such lands or any portion thereof when not needed for hospital purposes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the board of commissioners of any incorporated town in this state shall deem it advisable to provide a hospital for persons having contagious diseases, and for other hospital purposes, it shall be lawful for any such board of commissioners of such incorporated town to acquire and own lands in the corporate name of such incorporated town, whether such lands are situate in said incorporated town or out of it, for hospital purposes and to erect and maintain thereon a hospital and to pay for the same from any money or funds of such incorporated town not otherwise appropriated, or to obtain temporary loans for the purpose and provide for payment of such loans in the succeeding tax levy by taxes to be assessed and collected in the same manner as other taxes are assessed and collected for such incorporated town, and to convey such land as is acquired, or any portion thereof, when not needed for hospital purposes; but when such lands are situate out of the limits of any such incorporated town as acquire title to the lands, then before using such lands for hospital purposes for persons having contagious diseases, there should be obtained the consent of the township committee or other governing body of the township or other municipality within the limits of which such lands lie and such hospital is erected, that the same may be used for the purposes aforesaid; but the total expenditure for lands and buildings for hospital purposes shall not exceed one-tenth of one per centum of the total sum of assessment for one year, for the purposes of taxation in such corporated town, as shown by the duplicate or other records of assessments for the previous year.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the board of commissioners of any two or more incorporated towns, either with each other or the boards of commissioners of one or more incorporated towns with one or more townships, to jointly exercise all the powers and authority given to separate boards of commissioners of incorporated towns in the first section of this act, and such boards of commissioners of incorporated towns are hereby authorized to make all necessary agreements for the purpose of so doing, and for doing all that any board of commissioners of any incorporated town is authorized to do separately by said first section of this act, including the power and authority to acquire and convey as aforesaid land inside or outside of the limits of any incorporated town.

3. And be it enacted, That any hospital or hospitals which may be provided under the provisions of this act shall be in charge and under the control of the board of commissioners of the incorporated town which acquires land and provides hospital buildings, as aforesaid, but when the boards of commissioners of two or more incorporated towns or the boards of commissioners of one or more incorporated towns, with one or more townships, jointly provide a hospital as any board of commissioners of any incorporated town, or incorporated towns are authorized to do in section two of this act, then such hospital shall be in charge and under control of the boards of commissioners of the two or more incorporated towns or the boards of commissioners of one or more incorporated towns, exercise jointly with the township committees of such township or townships, as the case may be.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCII.

An Act to extend the time for building and putting in operation certain street railways incorporated under an act entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation of street railway companies and to regulate the same," approved April sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the time limited for the building and putting in operation of any street railway or any portion thereof authorized to be constructed under the act referred to in the title of this act shall expire during the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, such time shall be and the same is hereby extended for a further period of one year.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 25, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the punishment of crimes" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any person who shall knowingly be engaged as a messenger, clerk or copyist or in any other capacity in or about any office or room in any building where lottery slips or copies of numbers of lists of drawings of any lottery drawn or alleged to be drawn anywhere within or without this state shall be printed, kept or used in connection with the business of lottery or lottery policy, so-called, or any person who shall knowingly have in his or her possession any paper, document, slip or memorandum that shall pertain in any way to the business of lottery policy, so-called, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars or imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act providing for the establishment of schools for industrial education," approved March twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section four of the act to which this act is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so that said section shall read as follows:

4. And be it enacted, That there shall be a board of trustees of each of such schools, which shall consist of the governor and the mayor or other chief executive officer of the city, town or township in which such school is located, as ex-officio members, and eight other persons to be chosen and appointed by the governor as follows: within thirty days after the passage of this act the governor shall choose and appoint eight persons, resident in the city, town or township in which such school is located, as members of such board of trustees for the following terms, two for the term of one year, two for the term of two years, two for the term of three years and two for the term of four years; and thereafter two trustees shall be appointed in like manner each year for a full term of five years; and the official terms of all trustees in office at the time of the passage of this act shall terminate and expire upon the making of the appointments aforesaid, and the trustees appointed hereunder shall take office immediately upon their appointment, and shall continue in office until their successors are appointed, and any vacancy that may occur in the said board of trustees shall be filled by appointment in like manner for the unexpired term only; the said board of trustees shall have control of the buildings and grounds owned and used by such schools the application of the funds for the support thereof, the regulation of the tuition fees, the appointment and removal of teachers, the power to prescribe the studies and exercises of the school and rules for its management, to grant certificates of graduation, to appoint some suitable person treasurer of the board, to frame and modify at pleasure such by-laws as they may deem necessary for their own government; they shall report annually to the state and local boards of education their own doings and the progress and condition of the schools.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed, and that this act shall go into effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCV.

An Act to amend the act entitled "An act for the relief of creditors against absconding and absent debtors" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section sixty-five of the act entitled "An act for the relief of creditors against absconding and absent debtors" be amended so as to read as follows:

65. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the defendant in any attachment issued by a justice of the peace, on or before the day appointed for the hearing of the said cause, to file with the said justice a bond to the plaintiff, executed by one or more sufficient sureties, being freeholders and residents in the county in which such attachment shall issue, in double the amount of the claim of the plaintiff, as set forth in the affidavit filed with said justice, conditioned for the due and safe return of the goods and chattels, rights and credits, moneys and effects seized and taken by virtue of such writ of attachment, in case judgment shall be rendered for the plaintiff; which said bond shall be approved by the said justice, and filed by him for the use and benefit of the plaintiff; and thereupon the property attached shall be restored to the defendant and released from the lien of the said attachment.

2. And be it enacted, That section sixty-six of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

66. And be it enacted, That after filing the said bond the said defendant shall file his plea, copy of account or set-off, if any he have; and the said cause shall and may be adjourned and conducted in all things in like manner as if the same had been commenced by summons under the act entitled "An act constituting courts for the trial of small causes;" and either party may appeal from the said judgment in like manner, in every respect, as if the said suit had been commenced by summons under the said last-mentioned act; and in case the defendant shall fail to file his bond on or before the day appointed for the hearing of the cause, he nevertheless may appeal from the said judgment, upon giving bond as aforesaid; and thereupon the property attached shall be restored to the defendant and released from the lien of the said attachment.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCVI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act respecting executions" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the household goods and furniture of every kind, not exceeding in value the sum of two hundred dollars, of any absconding debtor having a family residing in this state, shall be reserved for the use of his family, and shall not be liable to be seized or taken by virtue of any writ of attachment or civil process whatever issued out of any court of this state, except the said writ of attachment shall have been issued on a debt or demand for which said household goods shall have been sold and delivered; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to apply to process issued for the collection of taxes.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCVII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide additional accommodations for the insane of this state," approved March thirty-first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That "the board of managers of the state hospitals," be and they are hereby authorized to erect on the land owned by the state at Morris Plains an additional building or buildings of sufficient size to accommodate six hundred patients, and to procure such furniture and apparatus for the same as may in their opinion be requisite and necessary; and also to make such sanitary improvements in the present buildings of the New Jersey state hospital at Morris Plains as they shall deem advisable.

2. And be it enacted, That the said board of managers may appoint and employ architects, superintendents and such other persons as may be necessary for the successful prosecution of said work; may erect said buildings and make such improvements and purchase such furniture and apparatus by contract or otherwise, as they may deem for the best interests of the state, and may advertise for proposals for doing the whole or any part of the work hereby authorized, if they consider it best to have the same done by contract, and may incur all expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of this act; and they are hereby authorized to spend the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary in the prosecution of said work and for the purposes hereinafter specified.

3. And be it enacted, That the said board of managers be and they are hereby authorized to construct, maintain and operate upon the lands now owned by the state at Morris Plains, or upon any other lands in the county of Morris which may be acquired by them, for the purpose by purchase or condemnation, a system of water works, including such works as may be necessary for gathering and storing water and protecting sources of supply from contamination and such other works as in the opinion of said board of managers shall be necessary, proper and sufficient to furnish an adequate supply of pure and wholesome water for the buildings now standing upon the land of the state at Morris Plains, and for such buildings as may hereafter be constructed upon said lands, either under the authority of this act or of any other act, and for the use of the patients and occupants of said buildings and the persons employed therein.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said board of managers to purchase such lands as may be required to carry out the provisions of this act and necessary for the construction, maintenance and operation of said water works, and also the right to take and divert, either in whole or in part, the water of any spring or springs, stream or streams in said county of Morris, and the right to build and maintain any pipes, conduits, feeders, ditches, surface drains and other works upon any lands in said county, taking title to the same in the name of the state of New Jersey, or to take and acquire such lands, rights and privileges by condemnation proceedings in the manner hereinafter set forth.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said board of managers, and their agents and servants, before such purchase or condemnation, to enter upon any and all lands in the neighborhood of the New Jersey state hospital at Morris Plains, and to make such preliminary examinations, explorations and surveys as may be necessary in their opinion for the purposes of this act and for laying out a system of water works for the purpose aforesaid, doing thereby as little damage as possible to the owner or owners of said lands.

6. And be it enacted, That in case the said board of managers cannot agree with the owner or owners of any lands which are necessary to be taken to carry into effect the provisions of this act, or from which it is necessary to take or divert either in whole or in part any spring or springs, stream or streams of waters, or upon, which it is necessary to construct or maintain any pipe, conduit, feeder, ditch, drain or other works, as to amount of compensation of damages to be paid to such owner or owners for such taking, use, occupation or diversion, or if by reason of the absence of legal incapacity of such owner or owners or any of them, or by reason of said owner or owners of any of them being unknown, no such agreement can be made, the said board of managers may apply by petition in writing to any justice of the supreme court of this state, which petition shall contain a description of the lands, rights and privileges so required to be taken with the name or names of the owners, occupants and other parties interested, so far as known, and of their place or places of residence, if the same can be ascertained, and thereupon the said justice shall cause notice to be given to said owners, occupants and persons interested, if known and in this state, for at least two weeks, or if said owners, occupants or persons interested or any of them are unknown or out of this state, or cannot be found therein, such notice shall be published in one of the newspapers of said county of Morris for not less than ten days in such manner as said justice shall direct, and said justice shall assign a particular time, and place for the hearing of said application, which time and place shall be specified in said notice, at which time and place, or at some other time and place to which the matter may be adjourned by said justice, and upon satisfactory evidence to him of the service or publication of said notice as by him directed, the said justice shall appoint, by writing under his hand, three impartial and judicious freeholders, residents of said county of Morris, as commissioners to examine the lands, springs and streams in question, and to appraise and assess the compensation and damages to be paid for the taking of such lands or of said rights and privileges, as the case may be, upon such notice to be given by said commissioners to the owners, occupants and persons interested as shall be directed by said justice, which notice shall be given for not less ten days, and shall be served or published in such manner as said justice shall direct; and in case of the neglect or refusal of any one or more of the commissioners so appointed to attend and perform his or their duties under said appointment, the said justice shall have power, upon such notice to the said board of managers and to the owners, occupants and persons interested in said land, as he may prescribe, to appoint one or more other impartial and judicious freeholders, residents of said county of Morris, to act in the place of the commissioner or commissioners so neglecting or refusing; and the said commissioners shall meet at the time and place by them appointed, and having first taken and subscribed an oath or affirmation before some person duly authorized to administer the same faithfully and impartially to examine the matter in question, and to make a true appraisement and assessment therein, according to the best of their skill and understanding, they shall proceed to view and examine the said lands and premises, springs and streams in question, and hear the parties interested, and take evidence if any be offered, and for that purpose may administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses, and may adjourn from day to day and from time to time; and the said commissioners shall proceed to make a just and equitable appraisement and assessment of the compensation and damages to be paid to the said owners, occupants and persons interested for the lands, rights and privileges required as aforesaid, which appraisement and assessment, together with a description of said lands, rights and privileges and the names of the owners, occupants and persons interested, shall be set forth in an award to be made in writing under the hands and seals of the said commissioners, or any two of them, which award shall be filed within fifteen days thereafter, together with the petition to said justice, the order of appointment and the oaths or affirmations of said commissioners, in the clerk's office of said county of Morris, to remain of record therein; and thereupon and on payment or tender of payment of the amount of said appraisement and assessment to the party or parties entitled thereto, the said board of managers shall be empowered to enter upon and take possession of the lands and to use, exercise and enjoy the rights and privileges so required, and all title thereto for the purposes for which the same are taken, shall, upon payment or tender, pass from the owners, occupants and parties interested to the state of New Jersey; and the said award shall be recorded by the clerk of said county in the records of deeds, and the same or the record thereof or a copy thereof certified by the clerk of said county, together with proof of the payment or tender of the amount of said appraisement or assessment, shall at all times be considered plenary evidence of the right of the state of New Jersey to have, hold, use, occupy, possess and enjoy the said lands, rights and privileges; of the said board of managers may, at the time of filing the said award, or at any time thereafter, pay the amount of said appraisement and assessment into the circuit court of said county of Morris, for the benefit of the owners, occupants and persons interested, to be paid out and distributed to and among the parties entitled thereto by the order of said circuit court, on the application of any one or more of said persons, on due notice to the others; and in case of such payment into court the title to said lands, rights and privileges shall pass to the state of New Jersey at the time of such payment; and the certificate of the clerk of said county that said amount has been so paid into court, together with said award or the record thereof, or a certified copy thereof, shall be considered as plenary evidence of the right of the state of New Jersey to have, hold, use, occupy, possess and enjoy the said lands, rights and privileges; and any justice of said supreme court upon the application of any party interested, and a reasonable notice to the other party or parties, shall tax and allow such costs, fees and expenses to the said commissioners and to any other persons who may have performed any duty in the premises, as the said justice shall think equitable and right, and the same shall be paid by the said board of managers.

7. And be it enacted, That if the said board of managers or any owner, occupant or person interested in said lands shall feel aggrieved by the award of said commissioners, such party may appeal therefrom in respect to his, her or their interest therein to the next or second term of the circuit court of said county of Morris to be held thereafter, by petition in writing to said court, of which notice shall be given at least two weeks prior to such term, either by service upon the opposite party or by publication in one of the newspapers of said county of Morris, in such manner as said circuit court shall direct, which petition and notice so served or published shall vest in said circuit court full authority, power and jurisdiction to hear and determine the said appeal, and thereupon the said circuit court shall direct a proper issue to be framed between the parties, and the same shall be tried by a jury, and said court may order a jury to be struck for the trial of the same and a view of the premises to be had, and the said issue shall be tried upon the like notice and in like manner as other issues of fact are tried in said court, and it shall be the duty of said jury to appraise and assess the compensation and damages to be paid for the taking of the lands, rights and privileges in question, or such part, share or interest therein as may be affected by said appeal; and the right of said board of managers to appeal from the appraisement and assessment of said commissioners shall not be waived or lost by paying or tendering to the parties entitled thereto or paying into court the amount of the award and taking possession of the land or exercising the rights and privileges described in said award and the right of any owner, occupant or person interested to appeal in like manner shall not be waived or lost by the acceptance of the amount so awarded; nor shall any appeal either by said board of managers or by the owners, occupants or persons interested, or any of them, prevent the said board of managers from taking possession of the land and exercising the rights and privileges covered by the award of said commissioners upon filing the said award and paying or tendering to the parties entitled thereto the amount thereof or paying the same into court, as hereinbefore provided; and if any error in law or in fact be committed upon the hearing or determination of said appeal or in the giving of judgment thereon, the party aggrieved thereby may have a remedy in the same manner and upon the same terms as in the case of other trials and judgments in said court; and upon the final determination of any such appeal, the court shall render judgment in favor of the one party and against the other as the verdict of the jury and the right and justice of the case shall require, and shall order any moneys remaining in court to be disposed of in accordance therewith, and shall award to the party substantially succeeding and prevailing in said appeal, his, her or their costs of said appeal, and order the same to be paid by the opposite party, and shall have power to enforce such judgment and order by execution in the same manner as other judgments of said court are enforced, or may take such summary proceedings, either by attachment for contempt of said court or otherwise, as shall be necessary to enforce the judgments and orders of said court in the premises.

8. And be it enacted, That the several sums of money hereby appropriated shall be paid by the state treasurer out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, upon warrants drawn by the comptroller from time to time as payments shall become due; said payments to be made on proper vouchers, approved and certified by said board of managers, or by such officer as they may designate for that purpose.

9. And be it enacted, That said board of managers shall make to the legislature at its next session, and at each successive session thereafter until the said work and improvements are completed, a full and detailed report of their proceedings and expenditures under this act.

10. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act constituting courts for the trial of small causes" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases of appeal from the judgment of any justice of the peace it shall and may be lawful for either party to the appeal, upon giving notice in writing to the clerk of the court of common pleas of the county, on or before the first day of the term to which the appeal shall have been sent up, if the trial be had at that term, or if not, then on or before the first day of the term at which such appeal shall be tried, to demand a trial of said appeal by jury, and upon receiving such notice said clerk shall file the same in his office, and the said appeal shall be tried by a jury, and the sheriff shall return a jury either immediately or at such future time as the said court shall direct, and that by order of the court and without writ.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCXCIX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act to define and suppress tramps,' approved April nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six," which supplemental act was approved March twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the said supplemental act be and the same is hereby amended so that henceforth said act shall be read as follows, to wit:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if any person shall be found offending in any county, city, township, borough or district in this state against this act it shall and may be lawful for any constable or police officer of such place, and he is hereby enjoined and required, on notice thereof given him by any of the inhabitants thereof, to apprehend and convey such person to a justice of the peace or other magistrate of such place, who shall examine such person, and may convict either him or her, being thereof legally convicted before him by the oath or affirmation of one or more creditable witnesses, other than the officer making the arrest, to labor upon any county farm or upon the streets, roads and highways of any city, township or borough, or in any house of correction, poor-house, work house or common jail, for a term not less than thirty days, nor exceeding six months; and shall forthwith commit him or her to the custody of the steward, keeper or superintendent of such farm, house of correction, poor-house, work house or common jail, or to the supervisor or overseer of highways, street commissioners or any other officer or officers having in charge the repairs of any street, road or highway, or overseers of the poor of the respective county, city, borough or township wherein such person shall be found, as in their judgment shall be deemed most expedient.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCC.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to complete the geological survey of this state," approved March thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the annual appropriation of eight thousand dollars per annum for the completion of the geological survey of this state, made in the supplement to this act, which was approved May twelfth, one thousand eight hundred eight hundred and ninety, be further continued for five years.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCI.

An Act to repeal a supplement entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act concerning cities,' approved March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven," which supplement was approved April nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act concerning cities,' approved March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven," which said supplement was approved April nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning corporations," approved April third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act concerning corporations," approved April third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any corporation organized or which may hereafter be organized under any law of this state, excepting always railroad and canal corporations, to increase its capital stock to such an amount as may be determined by its board of directors; provided, that such corporation shall, previous to the issuing of any share of stock representing the increase of its capital stock by this section authorized, file in the department of state a certificate, signed by its president, under its corporate seal, attested by its secretary, setting forth the amount of the proposed increase of capital and the number of shares into which the same is to be divided and the assent in writing to said proposed increase of stockholders owning at least two-thirds in value of the existing capital stock.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the board of directors or trustees or managers of any such corporation having outstanding preferred or guaranteed stock to issue common stock to an amount equaling the total of said preferred and guaranteed stock; provided, that such issue of common stock shall in nowise prejudice or impair the rights of owners of such preferred or guaranteed stock; and provided, further, that before the issue of any stock by this section authorized a certificate, under the seal of the corporation, setting forth the amount and date of such increase, shall be filed in the department of state.

3. And be it enacted, That the issues of capital stock hereby authorized shall be made from time to time in such sums, in such manner and on such terms and conditions as the board of directors, trustees or managers of the corporation may determine.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately, and that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'A further supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five,' which said supplement was approved February twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two," which act was approved April twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'A further supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five,' which said supplement was approved February twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two," which act was approved April twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and hereby is amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of said act be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That upon the dissolution of any corporation organized under the act to which this a further supplement, or any amendment or supplement thereto, the president and directors, acting as trustees to settle the affairs of said corporation, shall, in cases not already provided for by law, have power to meet and act under regulations to be fixed and determined upon by a majority of said trustees, and shall have power to determine when, how and where the property, real or personal, of said corporation shall be sold, whether in parcels or as a whole, and shall sell all or any part for cash, or partly on credit, or take mortgages not exceeding fifty per centum of the purchase price secured by bonds, for part of the purchase price for all or any of said property, and to fix the terms and conditions of the sale of all or any part of said property; and when the distribution of the property in whole or in part shall be by allotment between the respective shareholders deeds and suitable instruments of transfer of the lands, shares of stock and other property, so allotted or set off to each shareholder, shall be made and delivered by the trustees to each shareholder upon payment of the amount of his share of the expenses and indebtedness of said corporation as determined by said trustees; and upon the failure or refusal of any shareholder to pay the same, the said trustees shall have power to sell, at public sale, the lands, shares of stock and other property so allotted or set off to him, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy and pay said amount and the expenses of such public sale.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same hereby are repealed.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCIV.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation and government of boroughs," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when any borough shall heretofore have been organized or attempted to be organized under and by virtue of the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, and the territorial limits and boundaries of any such borough shall have been duly fixed and determined in accordance with the provisions of said act in the petition for such incorporation, without any action or decision with reference to such boundaries upon the part of the judge to whom such petition for incorporation shall have been presented, then and in such case the said territorial limits and boundaries of any such borough so organized or attempted to be organized shall be taken, and the same are hereby declared to be the lawful territorial limits and boundaries of such borough; provided, that no act has heretofore been passed by the legislature affecting said territorial limits and boundaries by the creation of municipalities or otherwise.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCV.

An Act concerning the tenure of office of city marshals in cities of the third class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the term of office of the city marshal hereafter elected in any city of the third class shall be three years.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, either general or special, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCVI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act respecting bridges' (Revision), approved April tenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six," which supplement was approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, and which further supplement was approved one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the supplement to the act approved April twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act respecting bridges' (Revision), approved April tenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six," shall be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where any stream, creek or river shall be the dividing line between any two or more counties of this state, the board of chosen freeholders of said counties shall erect, rebuild, maintain and keep in repair suitable bridge or bridges across the waters, water-way or water-ways of such streams, creeks or rivers, at the joint expense of such counties, whether the waters of such stream, creek or river shall flow in one or more separate channels or water-ways; provided, however, that in case it shall be necessary to erect a bridge or bridges at a point on such stream, creek or river where the same shall flow in two or more channels or water-ways, the place where said stream, creek or river shall not be more than five hundred yards from the place where said channels or water-ways shall again join and flow as one channel or water-way; and provided, further, that this act shall not apply to any bridges over any stream, creek, river, water-way or channel that has been caused by the erection of any mill or mills for waste waters or race-ways from and to the same; provided, however, that said mill or mills and such stream, creek, river, water-way or channel caused by the erection of said mill or mills for waste waters or race-ways to and from the same, shall be in the same county.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCVII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish and regulate pilots for the ports of Jersey City, Newark and Perth Amboy, by the way of Sandy Hook," approved April seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the sum of twelve hundred dollars shall be the annual appropriation of the state board of commissioners of pilotage, to be expended by them in defraying the expenses of the enforcement of the laws in relation to obstructing in the channels and harbors, and to prevent the dumping of mud and other refuse matter in obstructing navigation, and for such other purposes as they may deem advisable and as they may direct.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of this state is hereby authorized, upon the warrant of the comptroller, to pay to the president of the board of pilot commissioners from any money not otherwise appropriated, the sum provided for in the first section of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning cities of the first class in this state and constituting municipal boards of street and water commissioners therein and defining the powers and duties of such municipal boards, and relating to the municipal affairs and departments of such cities placed under the control and management of such boards and providing for the maintenance of the same," approved March twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of street and water commissioners in cities of the first class in this state shall have full power to construct and build in such cities at one time and as one improvement sewers or drains in two or more streets or highways, avenues or other public places, provided such sewers or drains so constructed have a common outlet or empty either directly or through each other into the same sewer.

2. And be it enacted, That in advertising for bids or sealed proposals for the building and constructing of such sewers or drains, the board of street and water commissioners may in its discretion ask for bids or receive proposals either for the work as a whole or for the work in such sections or parts as to it may seem proper and for the best interests of the city.

3. And be it enacted, That in all the proceedings for the levying or making of assessments for special benefits upon lands benefited by said sewers or systems of sewers, and in all matters relating to the payment of said assessments, and in all matters relating to the payment of contractors therefor, the same procedure shall be observed as is now required by law in case of the building or constructing of a sewer or drain in a street or highway of such city.

4. And be it enacted, That in case a protest against the construction or building of such sewer or system of sewers, signed by owners of property representing a majority of the lineal feet of frontage along said sewer or system of sewers is presented to said board of street and water commissioners, then and in that case the ordinance or other proceeding for the building of such sewer or system of sewers shall require the affirmative vote on its final passage of at least four-fifths of the members of said board.

5. And be it enacted, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to dispense with the concurrence of any board now required by law to concur in any proceeding relative to the creating of liens of assessments for special benefits on lands benefited thereby.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCIX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to secure to creditors an equal and just division of the estate of debtors who convey to assignees for the benefit of creditors" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the orphans' court of any county in this state in which the debtor who has made a conveyance to assignee or assignees under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement resides, upon the application of such assignee or assignees to make an order fixing a time not less than four weeks from the date of said order, requiring creditors to present their claims against the said debtor under oath or affirmation to the said assignee or assignees, or else to be forever barred from coming in for a dividend of said estate, unless by special order of the said court on an application made to it for that purpose; provided, however, notice of said order shall be published in some newspapers designated in and by said order of the court for such time as may be therein designated, which shall not be less than three weeks before the expiration of the time limited in and by said order.

2. And be it enacted, That within thirty days after the time limited for the presentation of claims as aforesaid, the said assignee or assignees shall file in the office of the surrogate of the county a true list of all the claims which had been presented to him or them as provided in the foregoing section, which said list of claims shall be verified under oath or affirmation.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for the said orphans' court, upon application being made to said court by said assignee or assignees, to order a sale and conveyance of any of the property of said debtor, either public or private, as may seem in the judgment of said court best for the interest of said estate, and the giving of good and sufficient conveyance in the law therefor, and authorizing and empowering the said assignee or assignees to take such steps as to the care, management and disposition of said assigned estate as a court of equity might do if the same had been in the custody and management of a receiver appointed by said court.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be repealed, and this act take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCX.

An Act concerning assessments for benefits for street improvements in boroughs in this state, and providing for a new assessment or new assessments.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where any assessments for benefits conferred by the improvement of any street or streets, or any part of any street in any borough in this state, has or have been or shall be reversed or set aside on removal by certiorari or other process, and such improvement shall have been actually made in the manner provided by the act under which such borough is or shall be incorporated, it shall be the duty of such board, body, commissioners or committee as is or shall be vested with power to make an original assessment for benefits for like improvements by the act under which such borough is or shall be incorporated, to make new assessment or assessments of the several amounts which each property adjoining the said street, streets or portion of street upon which such improvement has been made, has been benefited by such street improvement, and file such assessment or assessments with the clerk of such borough, whereupon the same shall become a lien upon the property or properties so assessed in the same manner and with like effect and enforcable in the same manner as is provided by the act under which such borough is or shall be incorporated, or any act appropriate thereto, in case of an original assessment for like improvements.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLIX.

An Act concerning taxes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all real property in this state not now by statute exempt from taxation, shall be assessed for taxation at its true value, and the full tax thereon shall be paid to the collector of taxes or other proper officer authorized by law to collect the same, and no deductions shall be made from the taxable value of such real estate to any owner thereof on account of the indebtedness of such owner to any national or state bank; provided, that nothing in this contained shall be construed in any way to alter or amend the method of taxing bonds and mortgages or real property which is subject to mortgage, or the method of taxing the property of railroad, canal and banking companies, or the method of taxing the surplus of insurance companies in this state.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLVII.

An Act relating to the state reformatory.

Whereas, It is deemed advisable that there shall be a state reformatory in this state for the custody and confinement of criminals between the ages of sixteen and thirty, who have not been previously sentenced to a state prison in this or any other state or country, and of persons convicted for the first time of a crime not involving moral turpitude therefore:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be appointed by the governor of this state six competent persons as commissioners to build an intermediate prison for the criminal classes, which said commissioners shall not receive any compensation for the services hereby imposed upon them, but they shall be entitled to receive their traveling and other official expenses, which shall be paid upon the approval of the governor by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller, and the said commissioners shall be in no way concerned in any contract for the erection of the said building or furnishing of supplies of any kind for the same.

2. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to set apart for the use of the reformatory, and take possession of, the property known as the Edgar farm, belonging to the sinking fund of this state, located in the county of Union, and also such other portion of said farm, if any, as may be located in the county of Middlesex, or so much of said property as in their judgment may be necessary, and may add thereto by purchase any adjoining property which may be necessary to the completeness of the site, at a cost not exceeding ten thousand dollars.

3. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall have power to select and appoint such architects, superintendents and other persons necessary, with such compensation as may be fixed upon, who, together with themselves, shall prepare and mature a plan for the construction of suitable buildings for the state reformatory and superintend its erection, which, when completed, shall have a capacity of not less than one thousand prisoners, and to be so constructed as to admit of the classification of prisoners; the said plan drawn out in detail shall be approved by the governor, or such experts as he may select for deciding upon the propriety of the same; and no change shall be made in the said plan to materially affect its general character without the consent of the governor or said experts in writing; and said architects, superintendents or experts shall be paid for their services by the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller, upon the approval of the governor.

4. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall, within thirty days after they have been duly qualified, commence the erection of the buildings provided for under the provisions of this act, either by contract or otherwise, as they may deem best for the interests of the state; if by contract, they shall invite, by public notice, proposals for building the same according to the plans and specifications adopted, stating the time and place where the said proposals will be received, reserving to themselves the privilege of accepting or rejecting such proposals as they may deem for the best interests of the state.

5. And be it enacted, That to enable said commissioners to purchase the land necessary, erect main building, walls, a hospital and to furnish complete two wings of the building under the plans adopted by said commissioners, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated, to be paid by the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller, from time to time upon requisition of the commissioners.

6. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners shall keep a full record of their proceedings, and render a report of the same in detail to the governor and legislature upon completion of the main building, hospital and one wing of the reformatory, and at such other times as may be required by the governor or legislature, which report shall embrace an account of the money expended and for what purposes, and also the progress made in the erection of the said reformatory, and they shall hold their meetings at the state capitol, at Trenton, in such office or rooms as shall be designated by the governor for their uses for the purpose of such meeting.

7. And be it enacted, That the commissioners shall severally give bonds to the state in the sum of ten thousand dollars each, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the state treasurer, conditioned to the faithful performance of the duties imposed upon them by this act.

8. And be it enacted, That in case of a vacancy in the commissioners, by death, resignation or otherwise, the governor shall appoint a suitable person or persons to fill the vacancy, but any such appointment to fill a vacancy shall not extend beyond the next succeeding session of the legislature.

9. And be it enacted, That the intermediate prison to be built in conformity with the provisions of this act shall be known by the name, style and title of the "New Jersey state reformatory," and that for the purpose of organizing the details connected with the opening of said reformatory and for the purpose of opening the same for the admission of convicts as soon as practicable after the main building, hospital and one of the wings of the reformatory shall have been completed, the aforesaid commissioners are hereby constituted a board of managers for said reformatory for the term of three years and until their successors have been confirmed by the senate and duly qualified, said term of present board of managers to commence and take effect from the date of their appointment, under the provisions of section one, as commissioners; they shall severally gives bonds to the state in the sum of ten thousand dollars each, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the state treasurer, conditioned to the faithful performance of the duties imposed upon them by this act as managers of the New Jersey state reformatory; upon their qualifying as a board of managers as hereinbefore provided, then their duties and emoluments as commissioners shall terminate and cease, and they shall thereupon report to the governor and legislature a full and complete statement of their operations as commissioners, but the restrictions against their compensation and their being interested or concerned in contracts for buildings or furnishing supplies, as provided for under section one of this act for them as commissioners, shall remain in full force and be equally applicable to and binding upon them as a board of managers as if the title of their commissions had not been changed under this section; and if at the expiration of their terms as commissioners, as hereinbefore provided, there remains unexpended any of the sum appropriated to them as commissioners, it shall be paid to them by the treasurer of the state for the purposes provided for under section five of this act, from time to time, on the warrant of the comptroller upon the requisition of the board of managers, instead of as hereinbefore provided upon requisition of the commissioners; in case of a vacancy in the board of managers, by death, resignation or otherwise, the governor shall appoint a suitable person or persons to fill the vacancy, but any such appointment shall not extend beyond the next succeeding session of the legislature.

10. And be it enacted, That the said managers shall hold stated meetings once a month at the said reformatory, and special meetings whenever they may deem necessary; they shall, at their first meeting after the passage of this act, elect out of their number a president and secretary and two acting managers, who shall continue such for so long a term as a majority of said managers shall direct; and they shall also at said meeting appoint as warden a person who from practical experience, possesses the ability and qualifications necessary to successfully carry on the industries of the reformatory, and who possesses the executive ability essential to the proper management of the officers and other employes under his jurisdiction, and to enforce and maintain proper discipline in every department; said warden shall hold office for five years, unless sooner removed for cause.

11. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the warden, by and with the advice and consent of the board of managers, to appoint the following-named officers, whose compensation shall be as follows:

Deputy warden, not to exceed twelve hundred dollars per year;

The clerk, not to exceed fifteen hundred dollars per year.

The assistant clerk, at the discretion of the managers, not exceeding ten hundred dollars per year.

The steward, not to exceed twelve hundred dollars per year.

The superintendents of the yard, kitchen, state shops and hospitals, and officers in charge of the guard room, not to exceed seventy-five dollars each a calendar month;

The physician, not to exceed fifteen hundred dollars per year;

All other guards, at the rate of sixty-five dollars each a calendar month; provided, each guard shall be allowed not to exceed fourteen days' vacation each year without reduction of pay;

Superintendents of the different industrial departments may be appointed, when necessary to do so, at a salary not to exceed twelve hundred dollars each year; and the warden may also appoint, as hereinbefore provided, such other officers and employes as may be necessary to carry on the educational, moral and religious features of the institution, each whom shall receive not to exceed seven hundred and eighty dollars a year; the appointees herein provided for shall be selected for their fitness and qualifications for the positions to which they may be appointed or employed; they shall be paid for their services by the treasurer monthly, upon the warrant of the comptroller, and upon orders drawn by any two of said managers; but no officer hereinbefore provided for shall perform any duty to receive any compensation until his appointment shall have been approved by the managers, or a majority of them, and provided the number appointed shall be as nearly as possible divided between the two representative political parties; and the said warden with the consent of the board of managers, or a majority of them, may dismiss any or all of said officers, and shall dismiss any of them when required so to do by the unanimous action of said managers; and before said warden shall exercise any part of his office he shall give bonds to this state, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the treasurer of this state, in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, with the condition that he and the officers appointed by him shall well and faithfully perform the duties imposed on them by law; and said warden, with his sureties, shall acknowledge the execution of said bond, or cause the same to be proved before the governor or one of the justices of the supreme court of this state, and shall then deliver the same to the secretary of this state, who shall cause the same to be recorded and filed in his office; and copies of said record, legally exemplified by said secretary, shall be legal evidence in all courts of this state in any suit against said warden and his sureties, or any of them.

12. And be it enacted, That the warden shall receive an annual salary not to exceed twenty-five hundred dollars, payable by the treasurer of the state upon the warrant of the comptroller and upon orders drawn by any two of the board of managers; together with his necessary fuel and light; and said warden shall reside at said reformatory during the term of his office; he shall not absent himself from the reformatory except on business of the reformatory, without permission in writing from two of the managers, but the board of managers may, by rule, make such modification or alteration as they may find necessary from time to time.

13. And be it enacted, That the clerk and physician shall be appointed for a term of three years and until their successors shall have been appointed and confirmed, as hereinbefore provided, unless (sooner) removed for cause by the board of managers.

14. And be it enacted, That the board of managers shall have power to make such rules and regulations for the general government and regulation of the reformatory and matters relating thereto, as they may deem necessary and proper, consistent with the laws of this state; they shall have power to prescribe, define and regulate the duties of all officers provided for in the tenth and eleventh sections of this act; and they shall cause the same to be written or printed, and copies thereof to be furnished to the warden and his deputies and assistants; the physician and clerk of the reformatory and all other officers and persons connected with the reformatory shall conform to and obey the same.

15. And be it enacted, That the board of managers shall have power to make general regulations to govern the warden in the purchase of materials and supplies and articles necessary for the reformatory, the hiring out the labor of the prisoners and the sale of articles manufactured or prepared therein; and they may, if they think proper at any time and by special resolution, require that all or any of such purchases, hiring or sale shall be made by contract awarded after advertisement to the best bidders; they shall, from time to time, as often as they think proper, carefully inspect the account of the warden and examine into his dealings, contracts and transactions in relation to the reformatory and the business thereof.

16. And be it enacted, That the said board of managers shall have the charge and general superintendence of the grounds and the grading and improvement thereof, and the construction of the shops and of the inclosure, and they are hereby authorized to purchase the necessary building materials for the same, and are authorized to supply such mechanical and other assistance as shall make effective the labor of the inmates of said reformatory; all purchases of material and supplies to an amount exceeding five hundred dollars shall be made by contract, awarded to the lowest responsible bidder after notice for two weeks published in one daily paper having the largest circulation in the cities of Jersey City, Newark and Trenton, of the day and hour when sealed proposals will be received for the supply of the materials and the supplies required, and expenses of such materials or supplies shall be audited by the comptroller, and on his warrant paid by the treasurer of the state.

17. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the board of managers, on the thirty-first day of October in each year, to make a report of the reformatory to the governor, to be by him submitted to the legislature, of the condition of said reformatory and their proceedings in regard to the inmates, and the progress of the work of construction and the amount of money received and expended, with a detailed statement thereof, with such recommendations as the board of managers shall deem proper.

18. And be it enacted, That the warden shall have the sole power, subject to the power of restriction and regulations above given to the board of managers, to contract for and purchase all clothing, provisions, supplies and other articles required under the laws of this state for the proper support, comfort and maintenance of the prisoners, and the bills for such purchases shall be approved by the board of managers, audited by the comptroller, and upon his warrant paid by the treasurer of the state; and he shall sell and dispose of all articles manufactured or prepared by the prisoners whose labor is not hired out, and shall receive all moneys for articles sold and work done, and all moneys on the contracts for the labor of the prisoners, as the same shall become due, and shall make monthly statements thereof to the comptroller and the board of managers, and shall pay over the same, monthly, to the treasurer of the state; and he may, subject as aforesaid, if he thinks proper, advertise for proposals or bids for contracts for the labor of the prisoners, or any part of them, or the purchase of any articles manufactured or prepared in the prison or for the furnishing of any clothing, provisions, materials, or other articles of any kind required for the use of the prison or the maintenance or support of the prisoners, and such advertisement shall be made for at least thirty days in at least three newspapers published in this state, such advertisement to be inserted in one paper in each of the cities of Jersey City, Newark and Trenton having the largest circulation, and the contracts made thereon shall be made with the best bidders, subject to approval of the board of managers; provided, that nothing in the section shall be deemed or taken or construed to authorize said warden or board of managers to contract with any person or corporations to hire or contract for the labor of the prisoners or any part of them in or about the business of the making or manufacturing of felt or silk hats or any part or parts thereof; provided, further, that nothing in this section shall be deemed, taken or construed to authorize said warden or board of managers to employ, contract or hire out the labor of the prisoners or any part of them exceeding one hundred persons in number at any time in the prosecution or conduct of any special branch of industry, trade or business, or making or manufacturing goods, wares or merchandise of any kind whatsoever; and provided also, that all goods or wares manufactured in the reformatory and offered or exposed for sale shall be marked, stamped or tagged with the words "manufactured in the New Jersey state reformatory," in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the government and regulation of the state prison,' approved April twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six," which supplement was approved April thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

19. And be it enacted, That said warden shall cause full and regular accounts of the stock, materials, tools and implements, provisions, clothing, supplies and other articles by him purchased and supplied to the prison, and of all the articles manufactured or prepared therein, and sold or disposed of, and the sums for which they were sold and to whom, to be entered and kept by the clerk of the prison, under his supervision, in books provided for the purpose, and he shall close his accounts for each year on the thirty-first day of October in each year, and shall have them ready for examination and settlement on the second Tuesday of November following, and shall lay the same before the board of managers, the committee appointed by the legislature to settle the accounts of the reformatory and the legislature itself, at such times as it shall direct.

20. And be it enacted, That said warden shall receive and take into said reformatory all male criminals between the ages of sixteen and thirty years, and not known to have been previously sentenced to a state prison or penitentiary on conviction for a felony in this state or any other state or country, who shall be legally sentenced to said reformatory on conviction of any criminal offense in any court having jurisdiction thereof; and any such court may, in its discretion, sentence to said reformatory any such male person convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in a state prison, between the ages of sixteen and thirty years as aforesaid; the discipline to be used in said prison shall be reformatory, and the said managers shall have power to use such means of reformation consistent with the improvement of the inmates as they may deem expedient; criminals may be employed in agricultural or mechanical labor, as a means of their support and reformation; the system of labor shall be that known as the "piece-price plan" or "public account system," as provided for in the act approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, entitled "An act to provide for the employment of the inmates of any prison, penitentiary, jail or public reformatory institution located within the state," or partly by one system and partly by the other, as shall be in the discretion of the board of managers deemed best.

21. And be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, and as soon as such portion of the reformatory shall be completed as will permit of the reception of and safe custody of prisoners, the board of managers shall file notice of such fact with the county clerks of all the counties of this state, and then it shall be lawful, and the courts of this state are hereby authorized, to sentence the class of offenders mentioned in the twentieth section of this act, convicted of any criminal offense, to the said reformatory instead of the state prison, when such criminals are between the ages of sixteen and thirty years.

22. And be it enacted, That each convict, upon being received at the reformatory, be examined by the warden, clerk, and as many of the deputy keepers as can conveniently attend, in order to their becoming acquainted with the person and countenance of such convict, his name, height, apparent and alleged age, place of nativity, trade, complexion, color of hair and eyes and length of feet, together with such natural and other marks and such peculiarities of features or appearance as may serve to identify such convict, all of which be entered in a book provided for that purpose; and if the convict can write he shall sign his name under such description of his person, and in such description shall be stated the clothes and other articles brought to the prison by such convict, all of which shall be taken from him and carefully preserved, to be restored to him at the time of his discharge, unless they shall be otherwise disposed of by order of the managers.

23. And be it enacted, That after the completion of the main building and one wing of the reformatory, the labor necessary for the construction of shops and the inclosures of the grounds upon which the reformatory is located, and for the completion of the unfinished portions of the reformatory, shall be performed by the inmates, as far as may be practicable, and it shall be the duty of the principal keeper of the state prison to select such number of inmates from the state prison as shall, as nearly as may be, come within the twentieth section of this act, as to age and crime, and transfer the same to the reformatory, as shall be requested by the board of managers of the reformatory, to labor on the unfinished inclosuse or the buildings or the shops, as may be best adapted for the kind of mechanical labor required; and the actual expense for such shall be audited by the comptroller and paid by the treasurer of the state when the same shall be approved by the governor.

24. And be it enacted, That when any prisoner shall be transferred from the state prison to said state reformatory under the provisions of the act, it shall be the duty of the principal keeper of the state prison from which he is removed to deliver to the warden of the reformatory to which he is removed a certified copy of the official documents and papers under the authority of which the said prisoner was received and under which he is detained; and the said certified documents and papers shall be as full and ample authority for detaining such prisoner in the reformatory to which he is removed until discharged by due process of law as if such prisoner had not been so removed.

25. And be it enacted, That all sheriffs shall be allowed for transportations of prisoners sentenced to the state reformatory the same rate per mileage, to be paid in the same manner as now allowed and paid under the laws of the state for transportation of prisoners sentenced to the state prison, and it shall be the duty of all sheriffs to convey all prisoners sentenced to the state reformatory in the same space of time and in the same manner as now prescribed by law for the conveyance of prisoners sentenced to state prison, and it shall be the duty of the county clerks to deliver to the sheriffs certified copies of commitments and bills of costs of all prisoners sentenced to said reformatory in the same manner and time as now prescribed by law under conviction and sentence of prisoners sentenced to the state prison.

26. And be it enacted, That if any person confined in said reformatory under sentence of imprisonment shall appear to be insane, the judge of the circuit court of the county in which the reformatory is situated shall, upon information of the fact from the physician of the reformatory, institute a careful investigation, call two respectable physicians and other credible witnesses if necessary, invite the attorney-general to aid in the examination, and, if he shall think it necessary, call a jury, and for that purpose he is hereby fully empowered to compel the attendance of witnesses and jurymen; and if it be satisfactorily proved that said prisoner is insane, said judge shall, in case the conviction of such prisoner was or shall be had in either of the counties of Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland, Salem, Gloucester, Camden, Burlington, Mercer, Ocean, Monmouth, Hunterdon, Somerset or Middlesex, order his custody and removal to the state hospital at Trenton; and in case the conviction of such prisoner was or shall be had in any other county of this state, then said judge shall order the custody and removal of such prisoner to the state hospital at Morris Plains; and such prisoner shall remain at the expense of the state in the hospital to which he shall be removed as aforesaid until restored to his right mind; if his term of imprisonment shall not have expired, the superintendent of such hospital shall inform the said judge and the attorney-general of his recovery, whereupon he shall be remanded to the reformatory to serve out the unexpired portion of his term of imprisonment.

27. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the warden of the state reformatory to assign to the clerk or some other officer thereof the keeping of a correct, impartial daily record of the conduct of each prisoner and of his labor, whether satisfactory or otherwise; and it shall be the duty of the warden to see that the said record is regularly made and preserved under his care, and to lay the same before the managers as often as they may require.

28. And be it enacted, That when the managers shall be satisfied that the said record is properly kept they shall direct the warden for every month of faithful performance of assigned labor by any convict in the state reformatory to remit to him two days of the term for which he was sentenced; for every month of continuously orderly deportment, two days, and for every month of manifest effort at intellectual improvement and self-control, to be certified by the moral instructor, one day; provided, nevertheless, that in any month in which a convict shall have merited and received punishment, no such remission of sentence shall be made; and in case of any flagrant misconduct by any prisoner it shall be lawful for the managers to declare a forfeiture of the time previously remitted to him, either in whole or in part, as to them shall seem just.

29. And be it enacted, That on the recommendation of the warden and moral instructor it shall be lawful for the managers to remit an additional day per month to every convict who for twelve months preceding shall have merited the same by his continuous good conduct in the particulars above mentioned, and for each succeeding year of uninterrupted good conduct progressively to increase the remission one day per month for that year.

30. And be it enacted, That if any person who has partaken of the clemency of this act shall be again convicted and sentenced to the state reformatory he shall, in addition to his said sentence, be required to serve out the number of days remitted to him on the previous term.

31. And be it enacted, That all sentences of imprisonment in the state reformatory made by any court of this state for a term of months or years, shall be construed and understood to be made under and subject to the provisions of this act.

32. And be it enacted, That upon the discharge of each prisoner who has not money to the amount of five dollars, the warden shall pay him any sum not exceeding that amount out of the moneys of the state, to the end that all temptation to commit offenses against society before employment or the means of living can be procured, may be removed; to enable the warden to pay to the convicts such such sums as they are by law to receive on their discharge, the sum of two thousand dollars shall be paid to him each year by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller; and if said sum shall be exhausted at any time during the year, the treasurer may, on the warrant of the comptroller, make an additional payment of such sum as the warden may think requisite for such purposes, and any portion of this deposit not expended shall be paid over to the treasurer by the warden each year on or before the thirty-first day of October, at which time the warden shall furnish to the comptroller a detailed statement of the moneys expended for this purpose during the fiscal year.

33. And be it enacted, That every officer who shall be appointed in pursuance of the provisions of this act shall take and file in the office of the secretary of state, within fifteen days after his appointment, the constitutional oath of office, and the several officers appointed shall respectively give bonds to the warden in such penalty and with such sureties as the board of managers shall approve, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties as required by law.

34. And be it enacted, That at the expiration of the term of the present board of managers and each succeeding period of three years thereafter, there shall be appointed by the governor of this state, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, six competent persons as a board of managers for the "New Jersey state reformatory," who shall hold office for a term of three years, and until their successors shall have been confirmed by the senate and duly qualified; that no more than three of such managers shall belong to the same political party.

35. And be it enacted, That the managers appointed under the provisions of this act shall be subject to removal for sufficient reasons presented in the same manner as is now provided for in the law regulating the removal of the managing authorities of the New Jersey state prison.

36. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed and construed a public act and shall take effect immediately, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLX.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning contagious and infectious diseases among animals, and to repeal certain acts relating thereto," approved May fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the second section of the act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act concerning contagious and infectious diseases among animals, and to repeal certain acts relating thereto,'" approved May fourth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, which supplement was approved May twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the state tuberculosis commission to employ one of their number as secretary of the commission, and to fix by resolution such compensation for his services as they, in their judgment, may deem reasonable, which compensation shall be paid in monthly installments, out of the appropriation to said commission, by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the state comptroller.

2. And be it enacted, That when any animal or animals shall be slaughtered by direction of said commission, the value of the same shall be ascertained and appraised by three disinterested freeholders, resident in this state, who shall make and sign certificates thereof in the presence of a witness, who shall attest the same; such appraisement shall be made on the basis of the market value of the animal or animals slaughtered, and shall be limited to the sum of one hundred dollars for registered animals and to forty dollars for all others; three-fourths of the valuation so ascertained shall be paid by the state on the presentation of such certificate, with the approval of the said commission indorsed thereon, to the owner or owners; provided, no compensation shall be made for animals considered by the commission to be of no value.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever the state tuberculosis commission shall have made, or caused to be made, any examination of any animal or herd of animals within this state, and shall have ascertained such animal or herd of animals to be sound and in good health, they shall upon request from the owner thereof, give to him a certificate in writing, signed by the president and secretary of said commission, certifying to the fact of such examination and of the good health and condition of such animal or herd of animals.

4. And be it enacted, That the said state tuberculosis commission shall have the power to co-operate with the bureau of animal industry of the United States in any general national system which may be adopted by such bureau for the prevention of the spread of bovine tuberculosis and its eradication in the United States and its territories.

5. And be it enacted, That there shall be appropriated to the said state tuberculosis commission the sum of five thousand dollars for defraying its expenses and for payment of the proportion of the appraised value of slaughtered animals required to be paid out of the treasury of this state, all which payments and expenses shall be made by the treasurer of this state upon the warrants of the state comptroller; that in cases of emergency the said commission may, with consent of the governor, comptroller and treasurer, in addition to the sum of money hereby appropriated, expend such further sums of money for the purposes of this act, not to exceed in the whole the sum of five thousand dollars in any one year.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXI.

An Act to authorize the sale of land belonging to religious corporations or societies, in which burials have been made.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any religious corporation or society owning real estate in which burials have been made to remove the bodies buried therein and sell the said land, or any part thereof, provided that such corporation or society shall obtain the consent in writing of the living lineal descendants, and widow or widower, if any, of the said person or persons buried in said land or the part thereof to be sold; and in case such descendants, widow or widower cannot be found by diligent inquiry, such corporation or society may publish a notice in a newspaper printed or circulating in the municipality where said land is located, for three weeks successively, stating its intention to sell such land, or part thereof, and the names of the persons buried therein, or in the part intended to be sold, and if no objection in writing is made thereto and filed with the person signing such notice, within three weeks of the date of the first publication of such notice, by any such lineal descendant, widow or widower, if any, it shall be lawful for such corporation or society to remove and re-inter said bodies and sell said land.

2. And be it enacted, That if such religious corporation or society shall sell any land in which any person has heretofore acquired a right of burial, the said corporation or society shall refund to the party having such right, his heirs, executors or assigns, the amount paid for such right, with interest from the date of payment, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the organization of the national guard of the state of New Jersey," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section nine of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That all general, field, staff and line officers who shall have been duly elected or appointed may be commissioned by the commander-in-chief, and their commissions shall be sent by the adjutant-general, by whom the said commissions shall be countersigned, to the officer who held the election or made the appointment; no commission shall be delivered to the person elected or appointed until he shall be uniformed and equipped according to the regulations of the military service of this state; should any person, so elected or appointed, neglect or refuse so to uniform and equip for one month from the time of his election or appointment the commission shall be returned to the adjutant-general, with the reason for its return indorsed thereon, and the election or appointment shall thereupon be void; all non-commissioned officers shall receive warrants from their respective commandants; these are to be on parchment paper blanks and to be furnished by the adjutant-general.

2. And be it enacted, That section twelve of the act to which this is a supplement, which supplement was approved April twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

12. And be it enacted, That every officer of the national guard who shall have served therein for the term of five years, upon the tender and acceptance of his resignation, and every non-commissioned officer, musician and private now enlisted in or who shall hereafter enlist in the national guard, who shall serve faithfully therein for the term of his enlistment, shall receive a discharge from the commander-in-chief entitling him to exemption thereafter from jury duty and from all military duty except in time of war and insurrection; to entitle any such officer, non-commissioned officer, musician or private to said privileges and exemptions he shall be free of all indebtedness to the state and to the command to which he is attached for military supplies, and from all preferred charges for a violation of the laws governing the national guard.

3. And be it enacted, That section seven of the act to which this a supplement, which supplement was approved May twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, be and the same is hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the quartermaster general to report to the comptroller of the treasury, on or before the first Monday in April of each year, the amount of any bill or account for any deficiency standing on the books of the quartermaster-general's department against any company officer or commandant, or regimental quartermaster or other regimental or brigade officer to whom transportation or public stores have been issued without security of bond, or for rental paid for any drill room for drills, rifle practice, encampments, parades or other temporary service, and the amount of such bill or deficiency shall be deducted by the comptroller of the treasury from any appropriation due the company, regiment or brigade against which such bill or deficiency is so reported.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXIV.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section eleven of the act entitled "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, which was amended by an act approved March sixteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, so as to read:

"11. And be it enacted, That the township collector within sixty days after the receipt of the transcript or duplicate of the said assessment, shall demand payment of the tax or sum assessed on each individual in his township, in person or by notice left at his or her place of residence, or where the residence and post office address is precisely known to said collector, by mailing such notice to the post office address of such person or persons with the postage prepaid thereon, and also give notice of the time and place of the meeting of the said commissioners of appeal; and the said collector shall pay the taxes by him collected, and the fines and forfeitures by him received by virtue of any law of this state, to the collector of the county, by the twenty-second day of December in every year," be and the same is hereby further amended, so as to read as follows:

11. And be it enacted, That the township, town or borough collector, within sixty days after the receipt of the transcript or duplicate of the said assessment shall demand payment of the tax or sum assessed on each individual in his township, town or borough, in person or by notice left at his or her place of residence, or where the residence and post office address is precisely known to said collector, or where any real estate or any mortgage or personal property is assessed in any township, town or borough to any person not resident in said township, town or borough, but resident in this state, and the residence and post office address of such person whose property is so assessed is known to said collector, by mailing such notice to the postoffice address of such person or persons, with the postage prepaid thereon, and also give notice of the time and place of the meeting of the said commissioners of appeal; and the said collector shall pay the taxes by him collected and the fines and forfeitures by him received by virtue of any law of this state, to the collector of the county, by the twenty-second day of December in every year.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXVI.

A Supplement to "An act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That on the neglect or refusal of a corporation incorporated under the laws of this state or doing business therein, to furnish the information prescribed by law to any state official required to publish a report on the standing and condition of such corporation, the expenses of the investigation authorized to be made because of such neglect or refusal shall be borne by said delinquent corporation and may be recovered therefrom in an action of debt in any court of competent jurisdiction in this state by the person authorized to make such investigation.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXVII.

An Act concerning fire departments in cities of the first class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the municipal board having charge of the fire department in any city of the first class to retire from service any employee of such department whose duty requires active service in the extinguishment of fires, and who shall have become or shall hereafter become incapacitated for the performance of such duty whenever such incapacity is or shall be the result of injury received or sickness contracted in the discharge of such duty; the person retired shall, during the continuance of such incapacity, receive an annual pension of an amount equal to one-half of the salary received by him at the time of such retirement (except in the cases of volunteer firemen, whose annual pension shall not exceed one hundred dollars.)

2. And be it enacted, That if any employee of any fire department in any such city shall be fatally injured while in the performance of his duty to extinguish fires, such municipal board shall allow to the widow of such employee an annual pension equal to one-half of the salary received by such employee at the time of his death, to be paid to her during her life if she shall so long remain a widow; if such employee shall not leave a widow but shall leave a child or children, such pension shall be applied, under the direction of the mayor of such city, to the support of such child or children until they shall have attained the age of sixteen years.

3. And be it enacted, That if any employee of any such fire department who shall have served in such department not less than twenty years shall become incapacitated while in the active discharge of his duties, he shall be retired by such board and shall thereafter receive, annually, such pension as he would have been entitled to if retired because of the incapacity mentioned in the first section of this act.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXVIII.

An Act in relation to individual or private bankers, and subjecting them to the supervision and control of the department of banking and insurance.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, shall engage in the business of banking, except under and in accordance with the provisions of this act, and that any such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, and the individual members thereof, who shall violate the provisions of this act and carry on the business of banking without authority, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment at hard labor for a term not exceeding seven years, or both.

2. And be it enacted, That every individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association now engaged in carrying on the business of banking within this state, and every such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association which shall hereafter engage in the business of banking within this state, shall be subject to the same control, supervision, inspection and examination to which incorporated banks are by law now subject; provided, however, that nothing contained in this act shall authorize any such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association to issue his or their notes, bills, currency or other circulating medium of exchange.

3. And be it enacted, That every such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association now engaged in the business of banking, or who hereafter may become engaged in the business of banking, shall make to the department of banking and insurance the same reports as near as may be as are now or shall hereafter be required by law of incorporated banks, and that such reports shall be verified by the affidavit of such individual, and in all cases in which more than one individual shall be engaged in such business by at least two of the individuals who are concerned in the conduct of the said business, and that such reports shall be published at the same time and in the same manner as is required in the case of reports of incorporated banks.

4. And be it enacted, That no individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association shall engage in the business of banking within this state unless one or more of the persons so engaged shall be residents in and inhabitants of this state, and that for every violation of the provisions of this section, the person or persons so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, and that in all reports that shall be made by such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, the full names and places of residence of each of the persons so interested shall be truly set out.

5. And be it enacted, That in case it shall appear by any report made by any such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, or upon any examination made of the affairs thereof by the commissioner of banking and insurance, or by anyone under his direction, that the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, is insolvent, or is unable to pay his or their obligations as they severally mature, or is unable to pay his or their depositors the moneys held by him or them on deposit whenever called upon so to do, or shall suspend his or their ordinary business for want of funds to carry on the same, the said commissioner of banking and insurance, or any creditor of the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association may apply by petition or bill of complaint to the chancellor, setting forth the facts and circumstances of the case for a writ of injunction and the appointment of a receiver or receivers of the property and assets of such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, and the chancellor, upon being satisfied of the sufficiency of the said application and of the truth of the allegations contained in the said petition or bill of complaint, by affidavit or otherwise, and upon giving when so ordered such reasonable notice to be served or published as the chancellor may direct, the chancellor may proceed in a summary way to hear the affidavits and proofs and allegations which may offered by or on behalf of the parties, and if upon such inquiry into the matters or causes of complaint it shall be made to appear to the chancellor that the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, has become insolvent or shall not be about to resume his or their said business in a short time thereafter with safety to the public and advantage to the creditors, it shall and may lawful for the chancellor to issue an injunction to restrain such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association from further carrying on his or their said business of banking, and from collecting or receiving any debts, or from paying out, selling, assigning or transferring any of the assets, moneys, funds, lands, tenements or effects belonging to him or them until the court shall otherwise order.

6. And be it enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for the court of chancery if the circumstances of the case and the ends of justice require it at the time, of ordering the said injunction, or at any other time afterwards during the continuance of the said injunction, to appoint a receiver or receivers of the property and assets of the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, who shall have all the powers now conferred by law upon receivers of insolvent banking corporations, and with full power and authority to demand, sue for, receive and take into his or their possession all the property and assets of the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, whether the same was embarked in the said business of banking or not; and that such further proceedings shall be had under said petition or bill of complaint as might be had in case the said proceeding was against an insolvent banking corporation.

7. And be it enacted, That in such cases the court of chancery shall be and hereby is invested with full power and authority to settle and adjust all claims of every nature made or to be made against the estate in the hands of the said receiver or receivers and to make distribution of the assets among the creditors of the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, and that in making such distribution preferred creditors shall be paid in the same manner as if the proceedings were against an insolvent banking corporation, and that all the laws now or hereafter in force in relation to insolvent banking corporations shall apply to the said proceedings in all cases where the same can be made to apply.

8. And be it enacted, That no individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association shall engage in the business of banking in this state unless authorized thereunto by the commissioner of banking and insurance by his certificate to that effect, and that such certificate shall not be made or issued by the said commissioner until after the said individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, shall have made to him the report or reports required by this act, and not until after the said commissioner of banking and insurance shall have made an examination of the assets and property of such individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association, and determined that he or they are then solvent and able to pay his or their debts at maturity, and that no such unauthorized individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association shall make use of any office sign at the place where said banking business is transacted having thereon any artificial or corporate name or other word or words indicating that such place or office is the place or office of a bank; nor shall such unauthorized individual, association of individuals, partnership or joint stock association make use of or circulate any letter heads, bill heads, blank notes, blank receipts, certificates, circulars or any written or printed or partly written and partly printed paper whatever, having thereon any artificial or corporate name or any other word or words indicating that such business is the business of a bank.

9. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXIX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the organization of the national guard of the state of New Jersey," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, and the various amendments thereto.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in the discretion of the governor and commander-in-chief under such regulations as he may prescribe, there shall be attached to each brigade of the national guard of this state a signal and telegraph corps, and such corps shall be attached to each of the brigade headquarters; the said corps shall consist of one signal officer with the rank of captain and one assistant signal officer with the rank of first lieutenant; and likewise such non-commissioned officers and privates not to exceed forty, who may be specially enlisted in such corps or transferred thereto from the several organizations of the brigade; the number of non-commissioned officers for said corps shall be at the discretion of the brigade commander, but shall not exceed ten in number, one of whom shall be warranted as first sergeant, one as paymaster sergeant, one as quartermaster sergeant, and two as signal sergeants, and the others as signal corporals by the commandant of the brigade to which they are attached.

2. And be it enacted, That an appropriation amounting to the sum of three hundred dollars shall be paid on the first Monday of April of each year to the paymaster of the brigade, to be expended by the said brigade paymaster on the approval of the commandant of the brigade, for military expenses incident to the signal and telegraph corps attached to the headquarters of the said brigade; and the said appropriation shall be collected and paid in the same manner as other military expenses incident to brigade organization are now collected and paid.

3. And be it enacted, That the uniform and equipments of the signal corps shall be the same as prescribed for the signal corps of the United States army; and the drill regulations for signal corps of the United States army shall be the drill regulations governing the signal corps of this state.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXX.

A General Act concerning taxes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter all real estate, except such real estate as is subject to assessment under the provisions of an act of the legislature of New Jersey, entitled "An act for the taxation of railroad and canal property," approved April tenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and the supplements and amendments thereto, shall be assessed in the township, borough or taxing district in which the same may be situate; when the line between taxing districts divides a farm, each part thereof shall be assessed to the owner thereof in the taxing district in which the same may be located, and this whether such division line be a township, borough or county line.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, whether general, special or local, inconsistent with this act, shall be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXI.

An Act respecting the maintenance of roads or highways under the charge or control of county boards of chosen freeholders in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the boards of chosen freeholders in counties of this state having charge and control of any county road or highway which has heretofore been macadamized or paved with telford pavement or which shall hereafter be so macadamized or paved at the expense of the county, to maintain and keep in repair the macadam or pavement upon such roadway, notwithstanding that the same may have been moved from its original position or new pavement substituted therefor in a portion of the road different from that in which the pavement was originally placed, in order to provide for the construction of a street railway in the location of the road or highway in which said pavement was originally placed; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall be held to relieve any street railway company from any contract or agreement to maintain such pavement.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXII.

A Supplement to the act entitled "An act to regulate the sale of spirituous, vinous, malt and brewed liquors and to repeal an act entitled 'An act to regulate the sale of intoxicating and brewed liquors,' approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight," passed March thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter in cities of the first class a license fee of not less than seventy-five dollars, and in cities of the second class a license fee of not less than fifty dollars shall be paid by every person carrying on within said cities the business of buying beer in quantities and bottling and selling the same when bottled, not to be drunk on the premises where bottled, commonly known as beer bottling.

2. And be it enacted, That the application for such license shall be made in the same manner as applications are directed to be made in section three of the said act to which this is a supplement and upon the same conditions as to the granting and refusing thereof, and the duration of said license in said section three contained.

3. And be it enacted, That from and after the expiration of thirty days next succeeding the passage of this act, every person carrying on the business specified in section one hereof, without a license for that purpose first had and obtained as above directed, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars for each offense, together with the costs of prosecution.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act declaring when the death of persons absenting themselves shall be presumed," passed March seventh, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act to which this is amendatory be and the same is hereby amended, so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any person, whether a resident of this state or not, who shall remain beyond sea or absent himself or herself from this state, or from the place of his or her last known residence, or conceal himself or herself in this state, or in the place of his or her last known residence, for seven years successively, shall be presumed to be dead, in any case wherein his or her death shall come in question, unless proof be made that he or she were alive within that time; but an estate recovered in any such case, if in a subsequent action or suit, the person so presumed to be dead shall be proved to be living, shall be restored to him or her who shall have been evicted; and he or she may also demand and recover the rents and profits of the estate during such time as he or she shall have been deprived thereof with costs of suit; provided, however, that any executor or administrator who may pay over any legacy or distributive share to which such person, if living, would be entitled, shall be fully discharged from any and all liability to such person upon filing with the surrogate of the proper county the releases of the persons who would be entitled to such legacy or distributive share if the person so presumed to be dead were actually dead.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXIV

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish in this state boards of health and a bureau of vital statistics, and to define their respective powers and duties," approved March thirty-first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when the state board of health, or any officer thereof, duly authorized in writing by such board to act for or on behalf of said board, shall have reason to believe that any milk has been contaminated by the emanations, exhalations or discharges of any person sick with communicable disease, it shall be lawful for the said board of health, or the officer so authorized to act in the premises, to prohibit the transportation or sale of any milk suspected to be contaminated as aforesaid, and also to prohibit the transportation or sale of any milk which may be produced, stored, kept or found upon any premises infected by such disease; such prohibition shall continue until the state board of health, or the officer authorized to act in the premises as aforesaid, shall in writing remove such prohibition.

2. And be it enacted, That any person or persons who shall transport or sell any milk the sale and transportation of which has been prohibited, pursuant to the provisions of the first section of this act, shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the state board of health in an action upon contract for the uses of the state of New Jersey in any court of record within said state.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXV.

An Act to provide a commission to inquire into and report upon the advisability of accepting one hundred and sixty acres of land located in the borough of Englishtown, Monmouth county, state of New Jersey, as a gift to the people of New Jersey, on condition that there be located thereon under the authority of the state, an asylum for the blind or incurables, or both.

Whereas, Mr. Frederick R. Wilson, of Chicago, late resident of Englishtown, county of Monmouth, in this state, has conveyed by deed from himself and wife, the tract of one hundred and sixty acres, located in the borough of Englishtown, as a gift to the people of New Jersey, on condition that there be erected thereon an asylum for the blind or for incurables, or for both, as might be deemed best; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That a commission of three persons, residents of this state, be appointed by the governor to make careful investigation of this subject, and report at the next session of the legislature in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, the results of their deliberations.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller, shall pay the aforesaid commission the expenses assumed within the above-named limits of one hundred dollars, the commission first specifying in writing the items of expense.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXVI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to promote the propagation and growth of seed oysters and to protect the natural oyster beds of this state," approved April fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, and a further supplement approved April twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to rake, tong, dredge or in any manner disturb or work upon any grounds occupied by the state of New Jersey for the purpose of planting shells until the second season after the spat have adhered to the shells so planted.

2. And be it enacted, That the taking of oysters from any natural oyster seed grounds during the close season, or the violation of any provision of the culling act, shall be considered a misdemeanor and punishable, after conviction, by a fine of fifty dollars for each and every offense, or imprisonment in any county jail for the period of three months or both, in the discretion of the court.

3. And be it enacted, That the said oyster commissioners shall have authority to arrest any person or persons caught violating any of the provisions of this act or of the acts to which this is a supplement; that they shall be empowered to wear a badge designating their office which shall distinguish their authority and which shall be recognized and respected as officers empowered to enforce and protect the provision of this act and no other.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the said oyster commissioners to strictly enforce all existing laws relating to the natural oyster grounds of this state.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXVII.

An Act relating to certain savings banks in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any savings bank of this state now being conducted by virtue of a special charter may pay to any committee of its managers such compensation for their services as its board of managers, by a three-quarters vote of its entire number, may at any time decide, or may have decided.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXVIII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act relative to the writ of certiorari," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section nine of "An act relative to the writ of certiorari," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That in all cases of writs of certiorari now pending or hereafter brought, to remove any tax or assessments or other order or proceeding touching any local or public improvement, or to review the proceedings of any special statutory tribunal, it shall be the duty of the court to determine disputed questions of fact, as well as of law, and to inquire into the facts by depositions taken on notice, or in such other manner as is according to the practice of the court; provided, however, that it shall and may be lawful for either party to use the testimony taken on its, his or her side, before the tribunal whose action is being reviewed, which said testimony shall be considered by the court the same as if it had been taken by deposition on notice, and either party may take such additional testimony on notice as they may deem necessary to properly present the questions involved to the court; and the court shall thereupon, reverse or affirm, in whole or in part, such tax assessment or other order or proceeding according to the justice of the case.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1893.

CHAPTER CCCLXXIX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the incorporation of rural cemetery associations and regulate cemeteries," of the revised laws of April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and authorizing such associations to acquire lands for burial purposes by purchase, gift or condemnation proceedings.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That associations incorporated under the said act or that may hereafter be incorporated thereunder shall have the power to acquire lands, additional to those already used for the purpose of sepulture, or lands required for such purpose in case none have hitherto been acquired for the purpose of enlarging the burial ground or cemetery belonging to such association, to an extent not exceeding ten acres, and that such lands may be acquired either by purchase or gift or by condemnation.

2. And be it enacted, That in case the trustees of such association cannot agree with the owner or owners, or other person or persons interested in any lands which the said trustees may desire to take, as to the amount of the compensation to be paid for the said lands, or in case any of said owners or other persons interested shall be under any incapacity or disability to contract for the same, then, and in every such case, it shall be lawful for any justice of the supreme court of this state, upon application by said trustees, and upon twenty days notice to the owners and other persons interested in said lands, to appoint three disinterested commissioners, residents of the county in which the lands are situated, to assess and ascertain the value of the lands proposed to be taken, and the damages which said owners and persons interested may sustain by such taking; if any of the said commissioners neglect or refuse to perform their duties the said justice may appoint others in their stead; the said commissioners shall appoint a time and place at which they shall meet to execute the duties of their appointment, and shall give twenty days' notice thereof to be given to the parties interested therein, at which time the said commissioners shall meet and view the premises and hear the parties interested and take evidence (if any be offered), for which purpose they shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations, and they may adjourn from day to day; the said trustees shall exhibit to the said commissioners, at their said meeting, a statement and description, in writing or by maps, of the lands sought to be taken, and the said commissioners, upon being satisfied that it is necessary for the said cemetery association to acquire the said lands for burial purposes as aforesaid, shall ascertain and assess the value and damages aforesaid, and shall execute, under their hands and seals, or the hands and seals of the majority of them, an award to said association of the lands sought to be taken, which award shall contain a description of the said lands, and shall state the amount of damages and compensation therefor by them assessed in favor of such owner or owners, which award shall by them be acknowledged before an officer authorized to take the acknowledgment and proof of deeds for said county, and shall be recorded in the clerk's office of the said county by the clerk of said county; the notices required to be served by this section shall be in writing, and may be served either personally or by leaving at the dwelling house or usual place of abode of the person required to be served therewith, with a member of his or her family above the age of fourteen years; in case it shall be impossible to make such service, then a publication of the said notice in a newspaper, circulating nearest said lands for the full period of twenty days shall be sufficient; in case any of the owners are minors, the notice shall be served upon the parent or guardian of such minors; in case of other disability, publication in a newspaper as aforesaid shall be sufficient.

3. And be it enacted, That before taking possession of said lands, the said association shall pay or tender to the owner or owners the amount of such compensation so awarded by the commissioners; or in case the said owner or owners cannot be found, or shall refuse to accept the same, or shall be under any legal disability, then the said money shall be deposited with the clerk of the circuit court of said county; and the award of said commissioners and the payment or tender or deposit as aforesaid of the same shall vest in the said association the lands described in the said award, in all respects the same as if the said lands had been conveyed to said corporation by said owner or owners under their hands and seals

4. And be it enacted, That if either party feels aggrieved by said assessment and award such party may appeal to the next or second term of the circuit court of said county, by petition and notice thereof served upon the opposite party in the same manner as hereinbefore directed, which petition and notice shall vest in said courts full power to hear and determine said appeal; and if required, they shall award a venire for a jury to come before them, who shall hear and finally determine the issue under the direction of the court as in other trials by jury; and it shall be the duty of the said jury to assess the value of the lands absolutely taken and the damages; and the said court shall have power to order a struck jury, or a jury of view, or both, to try any such appeal, and also to order any jury that may be empaneled and sworn to try any such appeal, to view the premises in question during such trial; but the right of the corporation to appeal from and dispute the correctness of any award shall not be waived or taken away by the paying or tendering the amount of the award and taking possession of the lands or exercising the rights covered by such award; and the right of any owner of any such lands in like manner shall not be waived or lost by the acceptance of the amount so awarded when tendered; upon the final determination of such appeal, the said court shall render judgment in favor of the one party and against the other, as the right and justice of the case shall require, and shall award to the party substantially succeeding and prevailing in said appeal, his, her or their costs of said appeal against the opposite party, and shall have power to enforce the judgment so rendered by execution as other judgments are enforced, and also by summary proceedings and attachment for non-payment thereof.

5. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners, in making their award, shall award such sum as in their judgment will be a reasonable compensation to the owners of any estate in the lands sought to be taken, designating the compensation awarded to each person owning an estate in said land; and the award and payment or tender or deposit shall vest in the said association all estates in said lands, whether present or future, vested or contingent.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act, and take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A general act concerning taxes," approved March nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the second section of the act of which this is amendatory be amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That where complaint shall be made to said board in writing, verified by the oath of the complainant, by any person or corporation aggrieved at the assessment of his or its property, said board shall have power to review and correct the action of the local assessors or other taxing officers, and of all boards of tax review, by reducing such assessment; such review and reduction may be made of any assessment hereafter to be made, or any assessment which shall have been made within one year before the filing of the complaint for the review and reduction of the same; and all assessments so reviewed shall bear interest from the time fixed by the law under which said assessments were originally made and levied until paid, upon the amounts so fixed and determined by said board.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act concerning cities of the first class in this state, and constituting municipal boards of street and water commissioners therein, and defining the powers and duties of such municipal boards, and relating to the municipal affairs and departments of such cities under the control and management of such boards and providing for the maintenance of the same,' approved March twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one," which said amendatory act was approved March twenty-fourth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, and to validate and confirm assessments made for improvements made under the last mentioned act.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act of which this is amendatory be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section three of the act to which this amendatory be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That the board of street and water commissioners herein authorized shall have full power, in their discretion, to repave and improve, according to specifications adopted by said board for material for any such repaving, and for the work in each case, any street, avenue, lane, alley, highway or public place already paved in any such city, or any part thereof, the expense to be assessed in the same manner as now provided by law, on the property benefited in proportion to the benefit received.

2. And be it enacted, That any and all assessment or assessments heretofore made under the provisions of the act to which this is amendatory, being chapter one hundred and thirty-five of the laws of New Jersey for the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, be and the same hereby are ratified and confirmed, notwithstanding the fact that such assessment or assessments are for more than one-third of the cost of such improvement or improvements, and that the said board proceeded and did such repaving and improvement without the petition of the owners or other legal representatives owning or representing a majority of the lineal feet frontage of any such street, avenue, lane, alley, highway or public place or part thereof, within the same so repaved and improved, and that such board has proceeded to do such repaving or improving by a less vote than the unanimous votes of the commissioners of such board; provided, that at least four-fifths of the commissioners of such board voted for the passage of the ordinance under which such improvement was made.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXII

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act for the organization of the national guard of the state of New Jersey," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the uniform or insignia of rank prescribed for the officers of the national guard of New Jersey shall be worn only by persons entitled thereto by commission under the laws of this state or of the United States, or of another state of the United States; provided, any honorably-discharged officer may wear upon public occasions the uniform and insignia of rank to which his commission entitled him while in service; any person violating this section shall be liable to a fine of five hundred dollars on complaint of any officer of the national guard.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXIII.

An Act respecting expenditures in cities of the first class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the first class in this state where appropriations for municipal purposes are by law made during the fiscal year for which such appropriations are made it shall be lawful for the boards, bodies and officers thereof during the portion of the year intervening between the beginning of the fiscal year and the making of the tax levy to expend in anticipation of appropriations sums of money proportioned for such period to the sums appropriated for like purposes and expended by such boards, bodies and officers during the year immediately preceding.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXIV.

An Act concerning proceedings to review judgments or other judicial proceedings of any city judge, police court or other inferior court had for or on account of alleged violation of city ordinances or ordinances of city boards of health.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in order to establish uniformity in the premises in all the cities of this state, all judgments or other judicial proceedings of any city judge, police court or other inferior court had for or on account of alleged violation of city ordinances or ordinances of city boards of health, and whether had with or without a trial by jury, shall be reviewable by writ of certiorari, in accordance with the rules and practice of the supreme court and not otherwise.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXV

An Act authorizing the governing bodies of towns, townships, boroughs and villages, in counties of the first class, to pass, alter and repeal ordinances for the protection of railroad grade crossings by the companies operating said railroads.

Whereas, Towns, townships, boroughs and villages, in counties of the first class, have become and are thickly settled, and railroad crossings of public streets and highways at grade have become dangerous and a danger to public safety, and have been the scene of accidents, resulting in the loss of many human lives; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the governing body of said towns, townships, boroughs and villages, by whatever name said body shall be known, shall have and they are hereby given power to pass, alter or repeal ordinances requiring railroad companies whose lines pass through said municipalities to protect any and all railroad grade crossings or places where the tracks of said company or companies cross a public street or highway at grade, which street is in daily use by vehicles, by the erection and maintenance of arms or gates or the placing and maintaining of a flagman or flagmen at such crossings or of both, for such times or hours as the said governing body may deem reasonable.

2. And be it enacted, That upon the passage of any such ordinance, it shall be the duty of the clerk of said municipality to notify each and every railroad company whose lines pass through said municipality, and is affected by such ordinance, of the passage thereof, by mailing a copy of the same, certified under his hand, to the main office of the said company; and it shall be the duty of such railroad company or companies to comply with the terms of said ordinance within thirty days after the receipt of said notice, under such penalties for the failure to do so, as may be imposed by said governing body; provided, always, that it shall be lawful for such company or companies to file with the clerk of said municipality, and with the clerk of the circuit court of the county wherein such grade crossings mentioned in such ordinance lie, within twenty days from such service of notice, a notice of appeal from such ordinance to the said circuit court, which court shall thereupon proceed to consider whether arms, gates or flagmen at such crossings, or either of them, as and in the manner directed in said ordinance are necessary, having regard to the amount of railroad and other travel across the same and the location thereof, and whether, if so, the directions of said ordinance are reasonable; said appeal shall be heard by said court on due notice to both parties and upon examination of witnesses and view of the said crossings and adjoining premises, if the court shall deem it advisable; should said court after such hearing approve the said ordinance as reasonably necessary such ordinance shall be and remain valid; should the same not be approved, it shall be void.

3. And be it enacted, That the said governing body of said municipality shall have power in and by said ordinance to impose penalties for the violation thereof, not exceeding one hundred dollars for each and every day on or during which said railroad company or companies shall fail to comply with the provisions of said ordinance after notice thereof as above provided.

4. And be it enacted, That the determination of said township committee and any ordinance passed in the exercise of the power conferred by this act shall be reviewable by writ of certiorari out of the supreme court of this state

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 1, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXVI.

An Act making it unlawful for justices of the peace to entertain complaints in certain cases, specifying when complaints shall be made before recorders in certain cities and giving them power to act thereon.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state having a population of less than thirty-five thousand having a recorder who is paid a definite salary for his services by such city, it shall be unlawful for any justice of the peace to entertain any complaint for any crime or misdemeanor alleged to have been committed within such city, but all complaints for crimes or misdemeanors alleged to have committed within any such city not made directly before the grand jury or before the court of oyer and terminer or court of general quarter sessions of the peace of the county wherein such city is situate, shall be made before the said recorder, who is hereby authorized to receive the same and to take all necessary and lawful proceedings thereon and who in relation to the same shall have and possess all the power now held and possessed by any justice of the peace; provided, however, that said recorder shall not be entitled to receive any extra compensation for his services under this act, and any fees paid or allowed to him for such services shall be paid by him to the treasurer of such city.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 1, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXVII.

An Act to enable cities of the first class of this state to issue bonds in order to provide and maintain a supply of pure and wholesome water.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the cities of the first class of this state, for the purpose of procuring and maintaining an adequate supply of pure and wholesome water, are hereby authorized to issue and provide for the payment of their bonds to the extent that may be necessary for that purpose, as provided in the second section of this act, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable within twenty-five years from their issue, to be sold at a price not below par, and to provide a sinking fund or funds for the redemption thereof.

2. And be it enacted, That no issue of bonds shall be made, or the proceeds thereof used, to pay for the works, reservoirs, pipe lines, lands, water and water rights for a permanent supply of water, according to the terms of any option expressed in any contract for a supply of pure and wholesome water, until such purchase according to the terms of the option expressed in said contract has been submitted to popular vote in such city and been approved; provided, that the issue of bonds hereunder, other than that authorized to pay for the purchase according to said option expressed in the contract aforesaid referred to, if exceeding five hundred thousand dollars, shall not be made until such issue shall be submitted to popular vote in such city and be approved.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 1, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXVIII

An Act to empower cities to acquire land and other property for public use by condemnation.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when the proper board or other municipal authority of any city of this state shall deem it proper to acquire land, water, water rights or other property within or without said city for the purpose of supplying said city with water, and the said city or its agents cannot agree with the owner or owners of such land, water, water rights or other property as to the price and terms of the purchase thereof, or when by the legal incapacity or absence of such owner or owners no agreement can be made for the purchase thereof, a description in writing of the land, water, water rights or other property so desired, with the name or names of the occupants, if any there be, and of the owner or owners or other parties interested, if known, and their residences, if the same can be ascertained by the said city or its agents, shall be presented to one of the justices of the supreme court of this state, who thereupon shall cause such city to give notice thereof to the persons interested, if known and in this state, or if unknown or cannot be found, or if out of this state, to make publication thereof as he shall direct for any period not less than ten days, and to assign a particular time and place for the appointment of commissioners as hereinafter provided; at which time, upon satisfactory evidence to him of the service or publication of such notice he shall appoint under his hand three impartial and judicious freeholders, residents in the county in which such lands, water, water rights or other property are situated, to examine and appraise the said lands, water, water rights or other property and assess the damages, upon such notice to be given to the persons interested as shall be directed by the justice making such appointment, not less than ten days; and it shall be the duty of the said commissioners (having first taken and subscribed an oath or affirmation before some person duly authorized to administer the same, faithfully and impartially to examine the matter in question, and to make a true report and appraisement as aforesaid in writing according to the best of their skill and understanding) to meet at the time and place appointed and to proceed to view and examine the said lands, water, water rights and other property and to make a just and equitable appraisement and assessment as aforesaid, to be paid by the said city, which report shall be made under the hands of the said commissioners, or any two of them, and within fifteen days thereafter, together with the description of the lands, water, water rights or other property and the appointment and oaths or affirmations aforesaid shall be filed in the clerk's office of the county within which such lands, water, water rights or other property are situated, to remain of record therein; and thereupon and on payment or tender of payment of the amount so awarded to the party or parties entitled thereto, the said city is hereby empowered to enter upon and take possession of and appropriate to its own use the said lands, water water rights and other property, and all title thereto for the purpose for which the same is taken shall, upon such payment or tender, pass from the said owners and parties interested to the said city; and in case of a dispute between any owners or other parties interested as to their respective rights or shares in and to the sum so assessed or ascertained under this act, then the said city is hereby authorized to pay the sum assessed upon said lands, water, water rights and other property to the clerk of the county in which said lands, water, water rights or other property are situated, to be paid out and distributed between or among the parties entitled to the same by the order of the circuit court of said county upon the application of any one or more of them, on due notice to the others; and the said justice shall, upon the application of either party, or on reasonable notice to the others, tax and and allow such costs, fees and expenses to the commissioners and other performing any legal duty in the premises as he shall think equitable and right, which shall be paid by the said city; and if any or all of the said owners or other parties interested shall be absent from this state, or under any legal incapacity that disqualifies them from receiving legal payment of the money awarded him, her, it or them, then it shall be the duty of the city to pay the amount awarded to such person or persons to the clerk of the county in which said report is above directed to be filed; and it shall be the duty of the said clerk to receive the same to be paid to the parties entitled thereto by the order of the judge of the circuit court of the said county upon his, her or their application for the same; and every and all such payments to the clerk shall, as to the said city, be equivalent to payment to the parties entitled thereto, and it shall operate to transfer the title and ownership of said lands, water, water rights and other property to said city as if made directly to the said parties; provided, always, that should the city or the owner or owners feel aggrieved by the report and award of the said commissioners, he, she, it or they may appeal from the said appraisement and award in respect to his, her, its or their interests therein to the next circuit court in the said county; provided, however, that no lands, water, water rights or other property purchased, condemned or held by any municipality in this state for the purposes of a water supply, and used or intended to be used for such purpose, shall be condemned or taken under the authority of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That every appeal from the appraisement and award of the commissioners shall be made in the form of a petition to the said court and notice thereof shall be given to the other parties within fifteen days after the filing of the commissioners' report and award; which proceedings shall vest in the circuit court full authority, power and jurisdiction to hear and determine the question of the value of the land, water, water rights and other property and the damages sustained, if any, and thereupon the said court shall direct a proper issue to be framed between the parties for the trial of the said question, and order a jury of twelve men to be struck for the trial of the same and a view of the premises to be had by them; and the said issue shall be tried upon the like notice and in the like manner as other issues of fact in said court are tried; and it shall be the duty of the said jury to assess the value of the lands, water, water rights and other property in question, and the damages sustained, if any; and the party or parties appealing shall recover costs, if he, she, it or they shall succeed at the trial on appeal in changing the valuation or assessment thereof, and the damages in his, her, its or their favor and shall pay costs if he, she, it or they shall fail so to do; but no appeal shall prevent the city from taking the lands, water, water rights and other property upon filing the commissioners' report and award and payment or tender to the parties of the amount thereof, as hereinbefore provided; and a party accepting from the city the amount of the award of said commissioners shall not thereby waive the right of appeal; and upon the verdict of the jury fixing the value in damages, the court shall enter judgment for the amount thereof, with or without interest and costs, according to the provisions of this act and the principles of law applicable to the trial of similar issues in other cases, and the judgment so entered shall be the sum which the owner or owners and other parties interested are entitled to have from the city, for the said lands, water, water rights and other property and damages, and may be enforced in manner and form similar to other cases in which judgment is pronounced in said court; and when the commissioners' award is paid by the city into court, as hereinbefore provided, and an appeal is taken and judgment afterwards pronounced on the verdict, it shall be the duty of the court to order the money so paid into court applied to the payment of the said judgment and the surplus, if any, to be paid the city.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 1, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCLXXXIX.

An Act respecting cities of the first class and respecting the publication of ordinances, notices and other matters required by law to be published in newspapers therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be necessary in any city of the first class in this state to publish any ordinance, notice or other matter of any kind now required by law to be published in newspapers or in official newspapers to hereafter publish such ordinance, notice or other matter for a longer space than five days, nor for more than five insertions in the daily official newspapers of such city, nor more than for one day or for one insertion in the official weekly newspapers of such city; but such boards making the designation of such official newspapers may by resolution provide that any ordinance, notice or other matter required by law to be published shall be published in the official newspapers for a longer time than is herein provided.

2. And be it enacted, That all ordinances of cities of the first class in this state to open, grade, gutter, curb, pave, repave, sewer, resewer or otherwise improve any street now required by law to be published either between the first and second readings, or between the second and third readings, or after the final passage thereof, shall hereafter be noticed or published between such first and second reading, or between such second and third reading, or after final passage, by title only, and the title of all such ordinances shall state the street, avenue or public highway, or other public place or section thereof to be improved, and the general character of the improvement; all such ordinances after final passage shall be entered in full in the ordinance book or books of the said board, and the said ordinance book and all ordinances which have been duly passed by said board but not yet entered in said ordinance book or books shall be at all times during business hours open to public inspection.

3. And be it enacted, That no ordinance, notice or other matter required by law to be published in official daily newspapers shall be held invalid because of the failure to print such ordinance, notice or other matter required by law to be printed in all the official newspapers of such body or board; provided, such ordinance, notice or other matter so required to be printed and published, shall have been duly printed and published in at least two official newspapers.

4. And be it enacted, That all ordinances granting to any person or corporation consent to the location of the tracks of a street railway, or consent to the location of pole lines or subways, or consent to the stringing of telegraph, telephone or other wires, or to the laying of pipes in any street, avenue or public highway in said city, or granting to any person or persons or to any corporation or corporations rights or privileges in the streets, avenues or public highways of such city, shall provide therein that all costs and expenses connected with the publication of such ordinance, and all costs of the publication of resolutions or notices connected therewith, shall be paid by the person, or persons, corporation or corporations applying for such consent, right or privilege.

5. And be it enacted, That in the selection of official newspapers in such cities regard shall be had to the age and average circulation of the said newspaper in such city.

6. And be it enacted, That in any city of the first class it shall and may be lawful for the common council or other governing board having charge and control of the selection of official newspapers therein to appoint as an official newspaper for such city a weekly newspaper printed and circulating in said city.

7. And be it enacted, That until the designation provided for by this act is made the official newspaper heretofore designated in any such city shall continue to be the official newspaper of such city.

8. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 1, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXC.

An Act to submit to popular vote the purchase of a supply of pure and wholesome water in cities of the first class in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when any contract hereafter made by any city of the first class in this state for a supply of pure and wholesome water contains an option for the acquiring by such municipal corporations of the works, reservoirs, pipe line, land, water and water rights for such supply on terms fixed in said contract, the question of purchase according to such option shall be submitted, at either any general or charter election, or election specially called, to the voters of such city, before acquiring by purchase of the works reservoirs, pipe lines, lands, water and water rights for such supply according to the terms of the option in said contract shall be effective.

2. And be it enacted, That the elections herein authorized shall be held upon the proclamation of the mayor of such city, whereof ten days' notice shall be given by public advertisement in two daily newspapers circulating in such city.

3. And be it enacted, That in case the elections herein authorized fall on the day of any general or charter election of such city, no separate ballots shall be required for the purpose of the vote on the adoption or rejection of the question to purchase according to said option; each voter in favor of said purchase shall deposit a ballot containing the words "purchase of new water supply accepted" written or printed thereon, and those who are opposed shall each deposit a ballot with the words "purchase of new water supply rejected" written or printed thereon; in case the elections as herein authorized should be special elections, then those voters who are in favor of the acceptance of said purchase shall each deposit a ballot containing the the words "city of —— (naming it), purchase of new water supply accepted" written or printed thereon, and those who are opposed shall each deposit a ballot with the words "city of —— (naming it), purchase of new water supply rejected" written or printed thereon; and it shall be the duty of the city clerk to furnish official ballots to all persons entitled thereto, properly printed, to enable the voters to cast their ballots for or against such purchase, as they may desire.

4. And be it enacted, That there shall be a canvass on the return of votes upon the question of such acceptance or rejection, by the election officers, in the same way and manner as for officers voted for at an election; and if a majority of the ballots cast for or against said purchase contain the words "purchase of new water supply accepted," then the acquiring by purchase of the works, reservoirs, pipe lines, land, water and water rights for such supply, according to the terms of the option in said contract, shall be of effect and binding upon the city and the same shall be forthwith consummated.

5. And be it enacted, That all extra cost and expenses of such election shall be provided by the board having control of the finances in such city by temporary loan bonds in anticipation of taxes, the same to be placed to the credit of the board of aldermen or common council of such city having charge of such election.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 1, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXCI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to enable cities in this state to furnish suitable accommodations for the transaction of public business," title as amended, approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any city of the first class in this state the term of office of every commissioner appointed under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to enable cities to furnish suitable accommodations for the transaction of public business," title as amended, approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and of the several supplements thereto and amendments thereof, and of any clerk or other employees of any such commissioners, shall cease and determine on the date set out in the contract or contracts and mentioned as the day of the completion of work to be performed, by virtue of the contract or contracts heretofore entered into by said commissioners for the erection and completion of a city hall.

2. And be it enacted, That in case the completion of any city hall in course of erection in any city of the first class under the provisions of said act and the supplements and amendments thereto, shall not be completed in the time set out as the date of completion in said contract or contracts, the completion of said city hall shall be committed to a board of city hall commissioners, to be composed of the treasurer and comptroller of such city and one citizen of said city, to be appointed by the mayor thereof; the person so appointed shall be designated as the president of the city hall commissioners; he shall hold his office during the pleasure of the mayor and shall receive an annual salary not exceeding two thousand dollars per annum, to be fixed at the time of his appointment by the board which has control of the finances of such city; the city treasurer and city comptroller shall receive no salary as members of the board of city hall commissioners.

3. And be it enacted, That the board of city hall commissioners incorporated under section two of this act shall cause any city hall in course of erection in the city for which they shall be appointed, which is not completed at the time of their appointment to be completed and duly furnished and equipped for the transaction of public business in such city; such board shall also, after such building shall have been completed and accepted by the city, cause the same to be properly lighted, cleaned, heated and maintained, and shall also have charge of the grounds adjacent thereto, and shall cause the same to be improved, lighted, guarded and maintained.

4. And be it enacted, That the board of city hall commissioners incorporated under section two of this act shall become possessed of and invested with all the powers and shall perform all the duties, including the disbursement of money now or hereafter placed to its credit, as is now provided by law, by any commissioners appointed under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to enable cities to furnish suitable accommodations for the transaction of public business," title as amended, approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and of the several supplements thereto and amendments thereof.

5. And be it enacted, That the board having control of the finances of any city which shall have constructed or started the construction of or may hereafter construct a city hall under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, shall have power to borrow so much money as may be necessary for the completion of such city hall, and the furnishing and equipment thereof, and the laying out and improving of the grounds adjacent thereto, and issue the obligations of the city therefor, bearing interest at the rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, in an amount not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars beyond the amount heretofore issued or authorized for that purpose, and make the same payable at such time and times as said board shall determine; and said board shall establish a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds.

6. And be it enacted, That the expense of lighting, heating, cleaning and maintaining such city hall after the completion thereof and of maintaining the grounds adjacent thereto, including the compensation of the president, if appointed, and the compensation of all necessary employees and any other lawful expenses of the said board of city hall commissioners, including the interest on bonds issued by virtue of the provisions of this act, the requirements of said sinking fund, and the principal of said bonds as they accrue, shall be included in the annual tax levy of such city in each year.

7. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 5, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXCII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act in relation to days of recreation and holidays and fixing the days and parts of days so to be set apart and observed, and regulating the maturity of commercial paper with respect thereto."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the following days and half days, namely, the first day of January, commonly called New Year's Day; the twelfth day of February, called Lincoln's Birthday; the twenty-second day of February, known as Washington's Birthday; the thirtieth day of May, known as Decoration Day; the fourth day of July, called Independence Day; the first day of September, known as Labor Day; the twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas Day; any general election day in this state; every Saturday from twelve o'clock at noon until twelve o'clock at midnight, which is hereby designated a half holiday; and any day appointed or recommended by the governor of this state, or the president of the United States, as a day of thanksgiving, or fasting and prayer, or other religious observance, shall, for all purposes whatever as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance, and of the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, bank checks and promissory notes made after the passage of this act, be treated and considered as the first day of week, commonly called Sunday, and as public holidays or half half holidays: and all such bills, checks and notes otherwise presentable for acceptance or payment on any of said days shall be deemed to be payable and presentable for acceptance or payment on the secular or business day next succeeding such holiday, but in the case of a half holiday shall be presentable for acceptance or payment at or before twelve o'clock noon of that day; provided, however, that for the purpose of protesting or otherwise holding liable any party to any bill of exchange, check or promissory note, and which shall not have been paid before twelve o'clock at noon on any Saturday, a demand of acceptance or payment thereof may be made and notice of protest or dishonor thereof may be given on the next succeeding secular or business day; and, provided, further, that when any person shall receive for collection any check, bill of exchange or promissory note, due and presentable for acceptance or payment on any Saturday, such person shall not be deemed guilty of any neglect or omission of duty, nor incur any liability in not presenting for payment or acceptance, or collect such check, bill of exchange or promissory note on that day; and provided, further, that in construing this section, every Saturday, unless a whole holiday as aforesaid shall, until twelve o'clock noon, be deemed a secular or business day; and the days and half days aforesaid shall be considered as the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, and as public holidays or half holidays, for all purposes whatsoever as regards the transaction of business in the public offices of this state, or counties of this state; on all other days or half days, excepting Sundays, such offices shall be kept open for the transaction of business.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever the first day of January, the twelfth day of February, the twenty-second day of February, the thirtieth day of May, the fourth day of July or the twenty-fifth day of December shall fall upon Sunday, the Monday next following shall be deemed a public holiday for all or any of the purposes aforesaid; provided, however, that in such cases all bills of exchange, checks and promissory notes, made after the passage of this act, which would otherwise be presentable for acceptance or payment on the said Monday, shall be deemed to be presentable for acceptance or payment on the secular or business day next succeeding such holiday.

3. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall not be construed as interfering with any person or corporation transacting business in this state, either private or public, but every such person or corporation shall be permitted to conduct business on any holiday or half holiday herein designated in the same manner as if the law had not been passed.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall be deemed a public act to take effect immediately.

Approved April 15, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXCIII.

A Supplement to "An act respecting the townships in this state, which have been or may hereafter be divided into wards," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act to which this is a supplement shall not be held or construed to apply to such part of the territory of any township in this state divided into wards, as is defined by the description and boundaries contained in an application and proceedings for the formation of a borough government made and taken before the approval of the said act; but such defined and described territory may be formed into a borough by due course of law in all respects as if the act to which this act is a supplement had not been passed.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 15, 1895.

JOINT RESOLUTION NUMBER I.

Joint Resolution relating to epileptic persons and the care and treatment of the same.

Whereas, It appears that there are hundreds of epileptic persons in this state, many of whom are in our insane asylums and institutions for the feeble-minded, without those proper environments and that special care and treatment suited to their mental and physical condition; therefore:

1. Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That a commission of five persons, residents of this state, three of whom shall be physicians and two laymen, be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make careful investigation of this subject, and report at the session of the legislature in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six the results of their deliberations.

2. And be it resolved, That a sum not exceeding six hundred dollars be and is hereby appropriated to meet the necessary expenses of the said commission in visiting the two state institutions for epileptics in New York and Ohio, and in making such other investigations as the commission may deem proper, and that the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comptroller, shall pay the aforesaid commission the expenses assumed within the above-named limits of six hundred dollars, the commission first specifying in writing the items of expense.

7. And be it resolved, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 19, 1895.

JOINT RESOLUTION NUMBER II.

Joint Resolution relating to a home for disabled soldiers.

Whereas, It appears that there are within this state a number of needy and deserving veterans of the late war who would like to take advantage of the comforts offered by the "home for disabled soldiers," maintained by the people of this state, but who cannot do so without exposing their wives to want and suffering; and whereas, in many such instances, these wives have been the faithful helpmates and companions of their soldier-husbands during and since the close of the war, and are now too feeble to care for themselves apart from their husbands; therefore,

1. Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the governor be and is hereby authorized to nominate and appoint, with the advice and consent of the senate, five discreet commissioners, at least two of whom shall be members of the grand army of the republic, whose duty it shall be to prepare a plan for the erection and maintenance of a suitable home or homes for such cases as are referred to in the preamble to these resolutions.

2. And be it resolved, That said commissioners shall report to the governor the result of their labors not later than the first day of December, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, and that the said commissioners shall serve without compensation.

Approved March 14, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXI.

Supplement to "An act respecting the orphans' court, and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and the orphans' court and surrogates," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be necessary for any executor or administrator, under any last will and testament heretofore made, or which may hereafter be made, who is entitled to all the personal estate of the testator after payment of debts and specific bequests, legacies or trusts, to file an inventory or settle his accounts in the surrogate's office, unless required so to do as hereinafter set forth; provided, such executor or administrator shall, within one year after probate of said will, or such further time as the orphans' court of the county in which said will was proved, shall for good cause shown allow record in the surrogate's office of the county in which his letters testamentary or of administration with the will annexed shall have been granted, full receipts, releases and discharges from the persons entitled to such specific bequests, legacies or trusts, or satisfactory proof by affidavit that such specific bequest or legacy has been paid or transferred and delivered to said legatee, or his or her attorney or agent; and provided, further, that any person interested in the estate may apply to the orphans' court of the county wherein said will may have been or may be proved; and upon such application such court, on notice given to said executor or administrator in the manner directed by the court, and on consideration of the circumstances of the case, may make order requiring said executor or administrator to file an inventory and to settle his accounts, and thereupon said executor or administrator shall proceed and file an inventory and settle his accounts in the same manner as other executors or administrators are or may be required by law to do; and provided, further, that all the powers and authority granted by this act to the orphans' court may be exercised by the ordinary in cases where the will shall be admitted to probate or letters of administration with the will annexed granted by him.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXII.

An Act concerning cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the city council of any city in this state whose charter and no general law applicable thereto does not provide for the alteration or widening of streets, upon the written request of the majority of the properties fronting on any street or any square proposed to be altered or widened, by ordinance to alter or widen any street o alley already laid out and opened within said city and to take and appropriate for such purposes any lands and real estate upon making compensation to the owner or owners thereof, as is hereinafter mentioned and provided; and they may, at their discretion, by ordinance, accept such lands as may be dedicated by the owner thereof as public streets or alleys, and thereupon shall be bound to keep up, repair and maintain the same to the same extent that they may be bound to keep up, repair and maintain streets or alleys laid out by other legal proceedings.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever the city council shall determine, by ordinance, as aforesaid, to alter or widen any street or alley, or any part of a street or alley, and to take and appropriate for such purpose any lands or real estate, they are hereby authorized to treat with the owner or owners thereof, and make such compensation therefor as they shall judge reasonable, and thereupon shall receive from such owner or owners a conveyance of such lands and real estate to the city, and such compensation shall constitute a part of the whole amount of costs, damages and expenses to be assessed under and in pursuance of the provisions contained in this act.

3. And be it enacted, That when the said city council cannot agree with the owner or owners of such required lands or other real estate for the same, or when by reason of the legal incapacity or absence of any such owner or owners no such agreement can be made, it shall be lawful for the board of city assessors, and they are hereby required, upon application in writing of the said city council, signed by the presiding officer, which application shall specify the improvement and the land or other real estate, with the appurtenances intended to be taken for such purpose, to make an estimate and assessment of the damage that any such owner or owners will sustain thereby, and in estimating and assessing such damages the said board of assessors shall have due regard as well to the value of the land or other real estate with the appurtenances, as to the injury or benefit of the owner or owners by the making thereof, and it shall be the duty of the said board of assessors, after estimating said damages, to assess the amount thereof, including the sums which may have been agreed upon as the price of any of the lands or other real estate to be taken for such purpose; where agreement has been made with the owner or owners, and also the costs and expenses incurred, upon all the owners of land and real estate in such city peculiarly benefited thereby in proportion as nearly as may be to the advantage each shall be deemed to acquire, specifying in such assessment such lots or subdivisions of lots, designating the lots and subdivisions of land so benefited by the letters and numbers by which they are distinguished on the city atlas, together with the name of the respective owner or owners thereof and the amount assessed on each lot, which said assessment shall be embraced in the report of the said board of assessors hereinafter directed to be made; and in case where the city council shall agree with the owner or owners of such lands as to the compensation therefor the board of city assessors shall make their estimate for damages in accordance therewith.

4. And be enacted, That in making every assessment required to be made by the provisions of this act when any land or real estate is taken or condemned, the said board of assessors shall first estimate and assess in the manner herein required, the damages sustained by the owner or owners of the lands and real estate taken therefor; and after having ascertained the amount of such damages they shall declare in their report thereof the cost and expense incurred, which shall include the damages awarded, and they shall thereupon at once proceed to make an estimate and assessment of the benefits conferred by the said improvement, as required herein, and they are hereby authorized to declare the damages awarded and benefits assessed in one report, or they may make their report of the damages and benefits separately, as they may deem best.

5. And be it enacted, That after the filing of any such report, the same shall be at the next meeting of the city council presented by the city clerk, and the same being ratified by the city council shall be binding and conclusive upon the owner or owners of any such lands and real estate; and the lands condemned for any such improvement shall thereupon be and become the property of the city for the purposes for which the same are condemned; provided, however, that any person or persons conceiving himself, herself or themselves aggrieved by the proceedings of the said city council or of the said board of assessors in making an estimate and assessment of damages may appeal therefrom to the supreme court of this state within thirty days after the time of the making of the final order of the city council confirming the said report; and the supreme court shall order a trial by jury to assess the damages sustained by the aggrieved party, the trial whereof shall be conducted as in other cases of trial by jury; and the said court shall have power to order an issue framed and proper proceedings to be had for this purpose.

6. And be it enacted, That in case of non payment on demand of any damages estimated and assessed as aforesaid, with interest, from the date of the confirmation of such assessment, in case of no appeal to the supreme court as aforesaid, the person or persons entitled thereto may sue for and recover the same from the said city in an action of debt, with costs, in any court having cognizance thereof; and the said proceedings of the said commissioners and the city council or the award of the said jury, as the case may be, shall be conclusive evidence against the defendant; provided, however, that where benefits for any such improvement have been assessed against any person or persons entitled to any award of damages no recovery shall be had of the damages awarded until such benefits have been paid, and it shall be lawful for the said city to offset the benefits so ascertained against the damages so awarded, and if in any case the damages awarded exceed the benefits assessed the balance only shall be recovered; if the benefits assessed exceed the damages awarded, then the excess may be collected in the manner hereinafter provided.

7. And be it enacted, That the city treasurer shall, under the direction of the city council, tender and pay the owner or owners of such land and real estate, if resident in the said city, the amount of such estimate and assessment of damages due him or them, and if any such owner is not resident in said city, or on due inquiry cannot be found therein, or is a lunatic or idiot or under age, or if for any other lawful cause incapacitated to receive the same or if such owner will not receive the same, and sign a proper voucher therefor when rendered, then the said treasurer shall make affidavit of such fact and file the same with the city clerk; and the city council shall thereupon direct the amount of such assessment so due as aforesaid to be placed in the city treasury for the use of the person or persons to whom it may be due; and the said money so placed in the city treasury shall be paid by such city to the person or persons entitled thereto on demand, but without interest, except from the time demand is made and payment after demand refused.

8. And be it enacted, That before making any assessment for benefits against any owner or owners of lands and real estate benefited, the said board of assessors shall give notice in the manner hereinbefore directed of the time and place where and when they will meet for the purpose of considering the same, at which time and place all persons interested therein may be heard, and the said board may adjourn such hearing from time to time until they have completed the consideration thereof and made report thereon as herein directed; and any person who may deem himself aggrieved thereby may present his objections to any such report to the city council of said city at its next stated meeting after the filing of such report; and if the said city council shall refuse to ratify the same it shall be returned by the said city council to the said board of assessors for further consideration, and so from time to time until such report shall be duly ratified and confirmed.

9. And be it enacted, That upon the ratification of any such assessment of benefits the report thereof shall be transmitted immediately to the officer charged by law with the collection of taxes, and it shall be the duty of such officer thereupon to give notice, in two of the newspapers published in said city, that such assessments have been duly returned to him for collection; all such assessments shall draw interest from the date of confirmation at the rate of seven per centum per annum, and with the costs of collection, shall be and become, from the date of confirmation, a first and paramount lien upon the lands and real estate so assessed, which lien shall remain until such assessment is paid.

10. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the collector of taxes to whom any such assessment shall have been returned, in addition to the publication of the return, thereof to him for collection as herein provided, as far as practicable, to cause a notice to be given to every person assessed of the amount of assessment so made against him or her, with the costs which have been incurred in the collection of the same and the interest which has accrued thereon; but if, for any reason, such notice is not given to or received by the person or persons assessed, it shall in no way impair the right of the city to collect the assessment so made; in all cases in which assessments so made and returned shall remain unpaid for the space of six months from the date of confirmation, it shall be lawful to collect the same by a sale of the property assessed, and it shall be the duty of the said collector within one year after any such assessment shall have been returned to him, to make sale thereof as herein directed; he shall, before making such sale, make advertisement thereof in two of the newspapers published in said city for the space of four weeks, at least once each week, giving notice of the time and place of sale, together with a description of the lot or tract of land assessed by the letter or number by which it is designated on the city atlas, and specifying the amount of money assessed, laid out and expended on the same; and he shall at the time and place so designated sell the said land and real estate, at public sale, for the lowest term of years at which any person will agree to take the same, not exceeding fifty years, and pay the assessment, with interest thereon, and all other expenses incurred subsequent to the confirmation thereof; and thereupon the mayor of the said city, at the request of the city council, and under its corporate seal shall make, execute and deliver a declaration of sale to the purchaser thereof, and such purchaser, his executors, administrators or assigns, by virtue thereof and under the authority of this act, shall lawfully hold and enjoy the said lands and real estate, for his and their own proper use, until said term shall be fully completed and ended; and they shall be at liberty to remove therefrom all buildings and improvements they shall place or erect thereon during the said term, and every such purchaser, his heirs and assigns, shall pay all taxes which shall be lawfully assessed against the said lands and real estate during the said term; provided, however, that if the owner of any such lands and real estate, or any person having an estate therein, or any mortgagee thereof, shall, within six months after such sale, pay to the purchaser, his executors, administrators or assigns, the amount of money so paid by him to said city with the amount paid for any improvements made thereon, and all taxes paid by such purchaser with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum, such owner, or person having an estate therein, or mortgage, as the case may be, shall be entitled to re-enter and re-possess the said lands and real estate and hold the same and have such rights therein as if the said sale had not been made.

11. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the city council in every case to cause so much of the cost, damage and expense of any public improvement authorized by and made under the authority of this act, as represents the special and peculiar benefit conferred upon the owner of land and real estate benefited thereby, to be assessed thereon in the manner herein provided, in proportion to the benefit each shall be deemed to receive, the balance of such cost, damage and expense to be imposed upon and borne by the city and provided for by general taxation; or the said city council may, at its option, provide that the entire expense of any such improvement shall be borne by the city at large and shall have power, within the limitations herein imposed, to provide therefor by taxation.

12. And be it enacted, That all assessments upon lot owners in said city, which may be made for any purpose authorized by this act, or to be authorized by law, shall be made upon the lots or subdivisions of lots as they stand and recorded on the city atlas; and in advertising the same for such assessment or for taxes, or in entering liens thereon, it shall be sufficient to describe said lot or subdivisions of lots by the letters and numbers and streets by which they are distinguished on the city atlas, together with the name or names of the owner or owners thereof, as the same appears in the register by the city surveyor; if in any case the name of the owner or owners is unknown, and cannot be ascertained, such assessments may be made against the lots as so designated, with the declaration that the owner's name is unknown.

13. And be it enacted, That whenever, by the judgment of any court wherein any certiorari has been, is or may be brought, or any assessment made under the provisions of this act has been or is set aside or reversed for irregularity or informality in such assessment, it shall be lawful for the city council to cause a new assessment to be made of so much of the amount of the original assessment as may be set aside, or of the amount thereof still remaining unpaid, to become a lien as of the date of the confirmation of the original assessment and to be proceeded with in all respects in conformity with the provisions of this act and the laws relating thereto.

14. And be it enacted, That whenever, by reason of any informality or illegality in any proceedings of the said city council or of the board of city assessors, surveyor or other agent of the city council or official of the city, in altering or widening a street or alley, any assessment shall be set aside by judicial authority, it shall be lawful for the city counsel to reinstitute the proceedings set aside, upon the same basis upon which the original proceedings were based, or otherwise if they see fit so to do, and lawfully proceed therein the same as though the former proceedings had not been had, or the said city counsel may reinstitute said proceedings from the point where such informality or illegality may have been so decreed, and whenever the city council shall discover that any such proceedings are liable to be set aside by judicial authority, they may reinstitute said proceedings from the point where such informality or illegality commences, and no assessment shall be deemed invalid in consequence thereof, but no writ of certiorari shall be allowed or issue to remove any assessment made upon the owner or owners of lands or real estate for any work or improvement made or to be made, unless the same be applied for within sixty days after the confirmation of such assessment by the city council of such city.

15. And be it enacted, That whenever any public improvement shall be made or ordered to be made, under the provisions of this act, and the expense thereof ordered to be assessed by the board of city assessors, and any member of the board of city assessors shall be interested in said improvement, either as an owner of property to be taken or to be assessed, or in any other way, except merely as a taxpayer in said city, such assessor shall not be deemed competent to assist in making the assessment connected with such improvement, but the city council shall, by a majority vote of all its members, elect some disinterested resident in said city to act with the remaining members of the board of assessors in making said assessment; such person, before entering upon his said duties, shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before the city clerk, to be filed by him, faithfully and honestly to perform said duties; no report of assessment shall be considered illegal in consequence of the incompetency of any of the persons making such report, if a majority of the persons making such assessments were competent and disinterested; and it shall be lawful for the city council to make such reasonable compensation for the services of any person so appointed to fill such vacancy as it may determine.

16. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXIII.

An Act to validate and confirm proceedings for the formation of borough commissions had and taken under the provisions of an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough commissions," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no proceedings had or taken for the formation of a borough commission under the provisions of an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough commissions," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, and the acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, shall be taken or held to be invalid or inoperative because the clerk and two inspectors appointed by the freeholder of any township to conduct an election for the purpose of ascertaining whether a majority of the legal voters of said proposed borough commission are for or against the formation of a borough commission, shall have failed or neglected to file with the clerk of the county wherein said borough commission is situated a certificate setting forth the result of said election, and the number of votes cast for or against the formation of said borough commission, as in section three of said act is directed; provided, however, that this act shall only apply to borough commissions which have been in existence, exercising all the functions as such for a period of over nine years from the time the election was held wherein a majority of the voters of said proposed borough commission voted in favor thereof.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the president of said board of borough commissioners to file with the clerk of the county in which said borough commission is situated a certificate embracing the results of said election under which said borough commission was formed, and all other matters which said original certificate should have contained, which said certificate shall be sworn to by the president of said borough commission and attested by the secretary thereof, and when so filed shall for all the intents and purposes of said act be treated as and take the place of the certificate which should have been filed immediately after the election authorizing the formation of said borough commissions.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the preservation of clams and oysters" (Revision), approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to take from the natural beds beneath the waters of this state, by means of boats, tongs, dredges, rakes or otherwise, any clams, the shell of which will measure less than one and one half inches in length; and every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, at the discretion of the justice before whom the case is brought.

2. And be it enacted, That any person or persons buying, selling, or offering to buy or sell, any clams, the shell of which will measure less than one and one-half inches in length, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, at the discretion of the justice before whom the action is brought; and that the oyster commissioners of their respective districts are hereby empowered to make all necessary arrests for violations of the provisions of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXV.

An Act concerning the care and custody of infants.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when the parents of any minor child or children, or the parent or any other person or persons having the actual care and custody of any minor child or children, are grossly immoral or unfit to be entrusted with the care and education of such child or children, or shall neglect to provide such child or children with proper protection, maintenance and education, or are of such vicious, careless or dissolute habits as to make such child or children chargeable or likely to become chargeable to any township, borough, city or other municipality in this state, it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons interested in the welfare of said child or children, to present to the chancellor, the supreme court of this state, or any justice of said supreme court, a petition setting forth the facts of the case, duly verified by affidavit, and praying that the said child or children may be brought before said chancellor, supreme court or supreme court justice, as the case may be, and for further relief under this act.

2. And be it enacted, That upon presentation of such petition, an order shall issue addressed to the parents or parent or other person or persons in whose care or custody said infant, child or children may be, and also to the said child or children, requiring their appearance at such time and place as shall be designated in the order, to answer said petition and to abide the order of the court; said order shall be served in such manner, whether by personal service, mailing, publication or otherwise, as in said order shall be directed, and said order may further direct that a copy or copies thereof be served upon any other person or persons named therein; at the time and place so appointed, or to which the hearing may be adjourned, and upon proof of due and legal service of said order in the manner therein directed, which proof may be by affidavit of the person or persons serving the same, a summary examination shall take place before the said chancellor, supreme court or supreme court justice, and thereupon, upon proof of the material facts set forth in said petition to the satisfaction of said chancellor, court or justice, an order shall be made committing the said child or children to the care and custody of such person or persons who will accept the same, as the chancellor, supreme court or supreme court justice shall for that purpose designate and appoint, until such child or children, respectively, shall attain the age of eighteen years or the further order of the court; said order shall briefly set forth the grounds of granting the same and need not set forth the evidence nor the substance thereof; and said order may, in the discretion of the chancellor, court or justice granting the same, require the giving of a bond by the person or persons to whose care or custody said child or children may be committed, with such security and on such condition or conditions as to the said chancellor, court or justice shall seem proper.

3. And be it enacted, That the chancellor, court or justice before whom proceedings shall or may be conducted under this act, may in lieu of committing such child or children, as in the last preceding section specified, commit such child or children to the care and custody of any society for the prevention of cruelty to children duly incorporated under the act entitled "An act for the incorporation of societies for the aid of children and the prevention of cruelty to children," passed March fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXVI.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act regarding proceedings on forfeited recognizances and appropriating the moneys arising from the same and from fines and amercements' (Revision), approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six," which supplement was approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any person hath been or shall be bound by recognizance to the state of New Jersey, with condition for his or her appearance at the court of general quarter sessions of the peace held or to be held in and for any county within this state, and such person hath not appeared and shall not appear for any cause, agreeably to the condition of such recognizance and said recognizance hath been or shall be forfeited and the amount thereof paid in the county treasury of said county and in accordance with law, and said person as bound by said recognizance has appeared or shall appear before said court to answer unto the charge of indictment pending against him, after such recognizance shall have been declared forfeited, it shall and may be lawful for the court of general quarter sessions of the peace in and for said county in its discretion to direct and order the return of the moneys so paid or to be paid upon said forfeited recognizance, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the county collector or treasurer of such county to repay the amount of such recognizance less the taxed cost on the proceedings to forfeit said recognizance, to recognizor or recognizors who shall have paid the same into the county treasury, provided application shall be made to said court within two years after such recognizance shall have been declared forfeited.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXVII.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "An act respecting the orphans' court and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and the orphans' court and surrogates," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where any contest has arisen or shall arise, in any court of this state, touching the probate of any paper purporting to be the last will and testament of any person, it shall and may be lawful for the ordinary, upon petition made for that purpose by the widow of such deceased person, or by any child or children of the deceased (and if any such child or children be within the age of twenty one years, then by the next friend of such child or children), to make an order upon the person or persons having custody of such estate, for the payment of such allowance for the support and maintenance of such widow or of such child or children, out of the income of the estate of such deceased person, as the ordinary may deem just, pending such contest, and such further allowance out of the income, or if need be, out of the corpus of such estate as may be necessary to meet the expenses incurred or to be incurred in conducting such contest concerning the probate of such will; provided, that the person hereinabove described as a widow shall have been ceremonially married to the deceased person, and shall have been living with him as his wife at the time of his death; and the ordinary shall prescribe such rules to secure a summary hearing and relief upon such petition as he may deem necessary.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXVIII.

An Act to repeal the joint resolution entitled "Joint resolution authorizing the governor to provide for the thorough ventilation of the senate chamber and committee rooms, and to appropriate money to defray the cost and expense thereof," approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the joint resolution entitled "Joint resolution authorizing the governor to provide for the thorough ventilation of the senate chamber and committee rooms, and to appropriate money to defray the cost and expenses thereof," approved March twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety two, be and the same is hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXIX.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning corporations," passed March second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act entitled "An act concerning corporations," passed March second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where the bonds of any corporation created by or organized under any act of the legislature of this state have been issued and which bonds are due or about to become due or may be paid by such corporation at its option, it shall be lawful for the board of directors of such corporation to increase its capital stock in order to provide means for the payment of such bonds, and for that purpose to issue and sell the shares of such increase of capital stock for cash only, and in such manner as they deem best, at a price not below the par value of such shares; but no greater number of shares shall be issued or sold than shall be sufficient to raise an amount sufficient for the payment of the principal sums secured by the said bonds and the interest accrued thereon; and certificates of stock shall be issued to the purchaser of such additional shares, upon payment in cash of the purchase price thereof, and the holders of the said shares of the increased capital stock hereby authorized shall possess and exercise the same rights and privileges in all respects as are possessed and exercised by the holders of the other shares of the capital stock of said corporation, and the proceeds of the sale of the shares representing such increase of capital stock shall be applied to the payment of such outstanding bonds as aforesaid, and to no other purpose whatever.

2. And be it enacted, That section two of said act shall be amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That if like capital stock of any corporation shall be increased as is authorized by the preceding section of this act; it shall be the duty of its president and secretary, within thirty days thereafter, to make a certificate under their respective oaths or affirmations, setting forth what bonds of such corporation have been paid by the proceeds of increased capital stock, and the number of shares of the increased capital stock thereof that have been issued for that purpose, and to cause such certificate to be filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state of this state.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXX.

An Act to amend the supplement to an act entitled "An act for the organization of the national guard of the state of New Jersey," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, which supplement was approved March seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the supplement to the act for the organization of the national guard, approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, which supplement was approved March seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, be amended so that the second section shall read as follows:

That the second section shall read that all surgeons, assistant surgeons and hospital stewards, commissioned or warranted, as officers of the national guard and all the persons who may hereafter be commissioned or warranted as surgeons, assistant surgeons and hospital stewards, with specified rank, shall constitute a part of the medical department of the national guard, and shall be under the medical control and direction of the surgeon-general, and that the hospital and ambulance corps now attached to the headquarters of each brigade of the national guard shall be consolidated into one corps, which corps, including such persons as may hereafter become members of it, shall be known as the hospital and ambulance corps, and shall be under the direction and control of the surgeon-general, but they may be detailed or assigned to duty in connection with any organization or organizations of the national guard by the commander-in-chief, or major-general when the said corps or any part of it so detailed shall be under the military direction of the commanding officer of the organization or organizations to which the said corps or part thereof is assigned, and that all persons connected with this corps shall be regular members of the national guard and entitled to all the rights and privileges commonly accorded by law to members of the national guard.

2. And be it enacted, That the third section of the said supplement shall be amended to read as follows:

That the commander-in-chief, on the recommendation of the surgeon-general, shall appoint one assistant surgeon-general, with the rank of colonel; one medical inspector, with the rank of lieutenant colonel; two hospital and ambulance corps officers, to have the immediate command of the hospital and ambulance corps, one with the rank of captain of cavalry, and one with the rank of first lieutenant of cavalry, all of whom shall be officers of the department medical staff and under the direction and control of the surgeon-general.

3. And be it enacted, That the fourth section of the said supplement shall be amended to read as follows:

That the surgeon-general or such other officer or officers of the national guard as may be authorized by him to act, may enlist a hospital and ambulance corps not to exceed sixty men; provided, that all persons who are now members of the hospital and ambulance corps shall continue to be members of that corps until discharged from the national guard services and that shall be included as a part of the sixty men authorized to be enlisted, no re-enlistment on their part shall be necessary; but as vacancies in the said corps may occur enlistments may be made to the full quota authorized, and that the surgeon-general may recommend to the commander-in-chief, to be warranted as a non-commissioned officer, one enlisted man for each six men enlisted in the [illegible] corps; these non-commissioned officers shall rank as sergeants, and any regular graduate of medicine or pharmacy, or student of medicine or pharmacy, enlisted in the said corps, may be warranted as a sergeant and designated as a medical cadet; provided that the number of authorized non-commissioned officers is not increased thereby, and that the state military board, on the recommendation of the surgeon-general, and with the approval of the commander-in-chief, shall have power to make such regulations as may be considered necessary for the military government, discipline and equipment of said corps.

4. And be it enacted, That there shall be a hospital and ambulance corps court martial appointed by the surgeon-general, consisting of one commissioned officer attached to the corps, and two sergeants or medical cadets; they shall hold sittings as may be directed by the surgeon-general; the commissioned officer shall be president of the court, and one of the members shall be appointed by the president as recorder; they shall have jurisdiction over the enlisted men of the corps, and shall have power to impose such fines and penalties as may be provided by order of the surgeon general; an affirmative vote of the majority of the members of the court shall be necessary for conviction, of whom the commissioned officer must be one, but no member of the corps shall be expelled without the approval of the surgeon-general is had to the findings of the court.

5. And be it enacted, That the fifth section of the said supplement is hereby repealed.

That the sixth section the said supplement shall be amended to read as follows:

6. And be it enacted, That there shall be paid to the quartermaster-general by the proper state officer from state funds not otherwise appropriated on the first Monday of April of each year, the sum of one thousand dollars for the maintenance and support of the medical department of the national guard including the hospital and ambulance corps; that this sum shall include the cost of purchase of uniforms and equipments for the hospital and ambulance corps, medicines, surgical instruments and dressings, ambulance litters, medical chests and panniers and all other supplies necessary to the administration of said department, but no part of this appropriation shall be expended for commissary supplies, transportation, hire of animals for ambulances or payment for military service; the quartermaster-general shall expend this appropriation only on the approval of the surgeon-general.

7. And be it enacted, That these amendments to the said supplement shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXI.

An Act respecting cities of the first class in this state and providing for the supervision of expenses of such cities by the mayors thereof.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no warrant for the payment of money shall be delivered by any officer of any city of the first class in this state to any person firm or corporation until such warrant and the bill of claim intended to be paid thereby shall have been presented to the mayor for his approval.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the mayor of such city, within five days from the receipt of such warrant, if approved by him, to deliver the same to the auditor, comptroller or other officer entitled thereto, and if disapproved by him, to deliver the same to the officer or officers issuing said warrant, and forward the reasons for disapproval to the board ordering the bill or claim paid, and warrants when so disapproved shall be marked "canceled," and shall be further stamped "disapproval by the mayor," and the bills or claims for the payment of which said warrants were drawn shall thereupon be returned to the body or board ordering the payment of such bills, for further action thereon.

3. And be it enacted, That the said body or board shall have power by a majority vote of all its members to order the said bills so disapproved to be nevertheless paid, and in that case warrants shall be drawn for the same, and such warrants shall then be effective and be signed by the proper officers.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXII.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to regulate elections,' approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six," which supplemental act was approved May twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any town meeting heretofore held or had in any township of this state at which the official envelope provided and furnished by the township clerk of such township have had indorsed on the face thereof the words "official envelope" instead of "official ballot," be and the same is hereby legalized, ratified and confirmed, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That the officers elected at such town meeting shall hold and possess their offices until the end of the respective terms to which they were elected in the same manner as they might have done if said envelopes had had indorsed thereon "official ballot."

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXIII.

An Act concerning cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any city of this state where a railroad company occupies and uses a part of any street for the purpose of local passenger traffic, and a part of the terms of such use by an agreement between said city by its authorities and said railroad company is the keeping of said street in repair by such company, and is desired that such street shall be permanently improved by paving or otherwise, it shall be lawful for the city council of said city and said railroad company to agree upon the proportion of the cost and expense of making such improvement that shall be borne by said railroad company.

2. And be it enacted, That upon the making of such agreement between and by any city council and railroad company as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the city council to pass an ordinance providing for the paving or otherwise permanently improving such street in the manner agreed upon, and for this purpose the council shall have power to make necessary changes in the grade of said street to contract for the making of said improvement, and do all and every act and things necessary for the prompt completion of said improvement.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the city council in every such case to cause so much of the cost, damage and expense of any public improvement made under the authority of this act as represents the special and peculiar benefits conferred upon the owners of land and real estate benefited thereby, to be assessed on such land and real estate in the manner provided in this act in proportion to the benefit each shall be deemed to acquire; but said council may determine in the ordinance authorized by this act to credit against assessments for benefits to the several owners of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by said improvement, such percentage, if any, of the amount to be paid by the railroad company at its proportion of the cost of such improvement as council may deem equitable and just; the balance of cost, damage and expense remaining unprovided for to be imposed upon and borne by the city at large and provided for by general taxation; or such council may, at its option, provide that the entire expense of any such improvement, other than the proportion paid by the railroad company, shall be borne by the city at large and shall have power to provide therefor by taxation.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for said council to negotiate temporary loans for a period not to exceed two years, for so much of the expense of such improvement as shall be assessed for benefits less the amount, if any, accredited as aforesaid against the property peculiarly benefited, which loans shall be paid and retired when the money so assessed is collected.

5. And be it enacted, That the city council may issue bonds of said city for such proportion of the cost, expense and damage of such improvement as it is determined shall be borne by the city at large for any period said council shall determine, not exceeding seven years, to bear interest at a rate not to exceed five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually.

6. And be it enacted, That when said city council shall determine as aforesaid to assess such amount of the cost and expenses of any such improvement upon the owners of property benefited thereby to the extent that the same shall acquire special and peculiar benefit, the said council shall at the completion of said work, or at such time as it shall by resolution determine during the progress thereof, make application in writing signed by the presiding officer of such council, to the board of city assessors, which application shall specify the street or part of street along which such assessment for benefits is to be made, in proportion as nearly as may be to the advantage each owner of such land and real estate shall be deemed to acquire, and directing said board of assessors to specify in their assessment such lots or subdivision of lots, designating the lots and subdivisions of land so benefited by the letters and numbers by which they are distinguished on the city atlas, and in case they are not so distinguished on said atlas to designate them by some other specific and certain method, together with the name of the respective owner or owners thereof, and the amount assessed on each lot, and it shall be the duty of said board of assessors thereupon to make such assessment, which said assessment shall be embraced in the report of the said board of assessors which shall be made to the city council immediately upon the completion of such assessment, and council shall ratify and confirm said assessment or refer back to said board of assessors such as [illegible] to ratify, for further consideration, and so on from time to time until all such assessments shall be ratified and confirmed.

7. And be it enacted, That at least five days before making any assessment for benefits against any owner or owners of land or real estate benefited, the said board of assessors shall give notice in at least three of the newspapers of such city of the time and place when and where they will meet for the purpose of considering the same, at which time and place all persons interested therein may be heard, and the said board may adjourn such hearing from time to time until they have completed the consideration thereof and made report thereon as herein directed; and any person who may deem himself aggrieved thereby may present his objections to any such report to the city council of said city at its next stated meeting after the filing of such report, and if the said city council shall refuse to ratify the same it shall be returned by the said common council to the said board of assessors for further consideration, and so on from time to time until such report shall be duly ratified and confirmed.

8. And be it enacted, That upon the ratification of any such assessment for benefits, the report thereof shall be transmitted immediately to the officer charged by law with the collection of taxes; and it shall be the duty of such officer thereupon to give notice in two of the newspapers published in the said city that such assessment has been duly returned to him for collection; all such assessments shall draw interest from the date of confirmation at the rate of seven per centum per annum, and with the cost of collection shall be and become a first and paramount lien upon the lands and real estate so assessed, which lien shall remain until such assessment is paid.

9. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the collector of taxes to whom any such assessment shall have been returned, in addition to the publication of the return thereof to him for collection as herein provided as far as practicable, to cause a notice to be given to every person assessed, of the amount of the assessment so made against him or her, with the costs which have been incurred in the collection of the same and the interest which has accrued thereon, but if for any reason such notice is not given or received by the person or persons assessed it shall in no way impair the right of the city to collect the assessment so made; in all cases in which assessments so made and returned, shall remain unpaid for the space of six months from the date of confirmation it shall be lawful to collect the same by a sale of the property assessed, and it shall be the duty of said collector within one year after any such assessment shall have been returned to him to make sale thereof as herein directed; he shall before making such sale make advertisement thereof in two of the newspapers published in said city for the space of four weeks, at least once each week, giving notice of the time and place of sale, together with a description of the lot or tract of land assessed by the letter or the number by which it is designated on the city atlas, or if not so designated, by some other definite and certain description and specifying the amount of money so assessed against and laid out and expended on the same; and he shall at the time and place so designated sell the said lands and real estate at public sale for the shortest term of years, at which any person will agree to take the same, not exceeding fifty years, and pay the assessment with interest thereon and all expenses incurred subsequent to the confirmation thereof, and thereupon the mayor of said city, at the request of the city council and under the corporate seal of the city, shall make, execute and deliver a declaration of sale to the purchaser thereof, and such purchaser, his executors, administrators or assigns, by virtue thereof and under the authority of this act, shall lawfully hold and enjoy the said lands and real estate for his and their own proper use until said term shall be fully completed and ended; and they shall be at liberty to remove therefrom all buildings and improvements they shall erect or place thereon during the said term, and every such purchaser, his heirs and assigns, shall pay all taxes which shall be lawfully assessed against the said lands and real estate during the said term; provided, however, that if the owner of any such lands and real estate, or any person having an estate therein, or any mortgagee thereof, shall within six months after such sale pay to the purchaser, his executors, administrators or assigns, the amount of money so paid by him to said city, with the amount paid for any improvement thereon, and all taxes paid by such purchaser with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum, such owner or person having an estate therein or mortgage thereon, as the case may be, shall be entitled to re-enter and re-possess the said lands and real estate and hold the same and have such rights therein as if the said sale had not been made; no proceeding under this act shall be held invalid for any informality in proceedings thereunder.

10. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXIV.

An Act concerning cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state it shall and may be lawful for the president of the city council, board of aldermen or other governing body, to call special meetings of city council, board of aldermen or other governing body, when the public good shall, in his opinion, render it necessary; and on the request of one-fourth of the total membership of the city council, board of aldermen or other governing body, in writing, addressed to the president, it shall be his duty, or in his absence it shall be the duty of the city clerk, to call a special meeting.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

CHAPTER CCCXXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to abolish the inferior courts of common pleas, courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery and courts of general quarter sessions of the peace, and to establish in their place a county court in each of the counties of this state, and to provide for and define the jurisdiction, powers and duties of such county courts," passed March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That the legal voters of each of the counties in this state shall, at the next election for members of the general assembly, elect one judge to hold the county courts hereby established therein.

2. And be it enacted, That section three of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows;

3. And be it enacted, That said judges shall be elected from among the qualified voters of the counties in and for which they are elected respectively; they shall be members of the bar of this state, and shall be commissioned by the governor, and hold office for the term of five years from and after the first day of December next; their successors shall be elected for terms of five years at the election for members of the general assembly held next before the expiration of each term, and in case any vacancy shall occur more than thirty days preceding any such election, the governor shall appoint and commission a judge qualified as aforesaid, to hold office until the first day of December following such appointment, and if any vacancy shall occur within such period of thirty days, such appointment and commission shall expire on the first day of December in the year next following, and the successors of the judges so appointed shall be elected at the election for members of the general assembly next preceding the expiration of the term for which they shall have been appointed, each judge before entering upon the duties of his office shall take and subscribe an oath to support the constitution of the state of New Jersey and of the United States and to faithfully and impartially perform all his official duties as such judge according to the best of his ability and understanding; which oath shall be administered by a justice of the supreme court and filed in the office of the secretary of state; and no judge elected or appointed under this act in any county having more than twenty thousand inhabitants, according to the then preceding state or national census, shall be allowed to practice in any of the courts of the county in which he is elected or for which he may be appointed.

3. And be it enacted, That section four of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

4. And be it enacted, That the annual salary of the judges elected in counties containing more than two hundred thousand inhabitants, according to the then next preceding state or national census, shall be seven thousand and five hundred dollars; the annual salary of each of the other judges of said county courts shall be as follows, namely: judges elected in counties having between one hundred thousand and two hundred thousand inhabitants, according to such census, shall receive the sum of five thousand and five hundred dollars; in counties having between eighty thousand and one hundred thousand inhabitants, according to such census, five thousand dollars; in counties having between seventy thousand and eighty thousand inhabitants, according to such census, four thousand and five hundred dollars; and in counties having between forty-seven thousand and seventy thousand inhabitants, according to such census, four thousand dollars; in counties having between twenty-eight thousand and forty-seven thousand inhabitants, according to such census, three thousand dollars; and in counties having between twenty thousand and twenty-eight thousand inhabitants, according to such census, two thousand and four hundred dollars; and in counties having less than twenty thousand inhabitants, according to such, fifteen hundred dollars; such salaries shall be paid by the collector or treasurer of the respective counties in equal monthly payments, and shall be in lieu of all fees and other compensation whatsoever, and shall not be changed during the term for which any judge shall have been elected or appointed; and all fees which are now by law divided among or paid to the judges or to any judge of any of the courts hereby abolished shall not hereafter be taxed or collected.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1895.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report. Royal Baking Powder Co., 106 Wall st., New York.

MOORE TOOK HIS TIME.

Waring Demanded His Resignation Two Days Before It Was Given.

Commissioner Waring made public Tuesday some of the correspondence between himself and his deputy, Charles K. Moore, relating to the latter's resignation. He did so, he said, because "an effort had been made to find ground for sensation in the matter, in which an absurd interest had been expressed". This is Col. Waring's letter:

Charles K. Moore, Esq., Deputy Commissioner.

Dear Sir:—You will please send me your resignation by the first mail tomorrow morning. I want it by 9 o'clock. This time there must be no delay. Respectfully,

George E. Waring, Commissioner.

New York, May 10.

Mr. Moore's letter of the next day in reply to this, in which he said unpleasant things about the Commissioner and about the authority assumed by Mrs. Carre, the Colonel's private secretary, was not given out. Mr. Moore's letter of two days later was as follows:

Col. George E. Waring, Jr., Commissioner of Street Cleaning, New York city.

My Dear Sir:—In pursuance of our conversation of Jan. 4, 1895, supplemented by your communication of May 10, instant, I hereby tender you my resignation as Deputy Commissioner, to take effect, in accordance with your expressed wish, June 1, 1895.

New York, May 13. Chas. K. Moore.

Mr. Moore said Tuesday that he was not at liberty to make public the other letter, but that he was perfectly willing that Col. Waring should do so. "There was an agreement between us"—he said—"that none of the correspondence should be given out. Col. Waring has broken faith with me in giving out as much as he has. I shall keep to my word and not make anything public as long as I am a subordinate in the department. I shall remain till June 1."

Held to Keep the Peace.

The case of Cramer against Aleck was tried before Justice Crosley this morning. The complaint made was that Mrs. Aleck had used abusive language and ill treated Mrs. Cramer on several occasions, and that not being able to stand the abuse had brought the matter in court. Mrs. Cramer told her story in a most pathetic manner. She and Mrs. Aleck live in a double house at 2 Steiner place, owned by Mr. Gavin, and apparently without any cause Mrs. Aleck threw water on the complainant and had chased her with a knife, threatening to kill her.

Mrs. Joseph Haurand, who lives at 11 Steiner place, was placed on the stand, and stated that she had seen Mrs. Aleck throw the water.

When Mrs. Aleck was sworn she admitted throwing water, but said that she did not commence using abusive language.

Mrs. Aleck repeated in a graphic style the language which she claimed was used.

Justice Crosley held the defendant under $50 bond for six months to keep the peace.

Sewer Work.

Honan & Son have thus far completed 2,319 feet of sewers on their 17-mile contract. They are now employing about seventy-five men, divided into two gangs. Their progess is delayed, however, by the slow arrival of pipe, much of which is rejected on account of the inferior quality.

Work on the Front street sewers will progress much more rapidly now that Madison avenue has besn passed, owing to the fact that the trenches will be three feet less in depth than those between Madison and Central avenues. Between Madison and Park avenues there is a grade of three feet By steady work the contractors will be able to escape their $10-a-day forfeiture, which will be enforced after the first of June.

STARVING won't cure Dyspepsia. You need nourishment, and to get it you must make the stomach and bowels digest your food; that is what are for. One after each meal, and the most stubborn case of Dyspepsia (and that is everything) will disappear. White wrappers if constipated, yellow if not. 25 cents at druggists'. Send to us for a free sample.

Dr. Deane's

Dyspepsia Pills.

DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, New York.

THE STROKE OF RUIN.

"But haven't you yet seen her?"

"Seen her—how should I know? Monsieur Harding forgets the conditions." He laughed in his atrociously frivolous French way.

"I beg pardon," said Harding, quickly; I had indeed forgotten that I did not know her name, her place of residence, nor yet even the color of her eyes. Yes, I will go to the opera with you. Everybody goes, eh?"

"Not everybody; but everybody of the best. It is the distinction; we draw the line in front of the boxes."

Boyle Harding made no answer. He had come South a fortnight past with letters of introduction to influential people, but he was not seeking society; a quiet sojourn in New Orleans with his eyes and ears open suited him better. He was young, however, brimful of blood and surcharged with a poet's imagination.

What was, perhaps, just the thing he would have most desired, came to him unexpectedly one day. It was the twinkle of romance in the gloom of Royal street.

He suddenly met a beautiful young woman face to face at the door of Garcin's old book store, a dingy hole where you find the contents of French libraries that have been sold at successive sales or picked up at auction. Warm eyes exchanged an involuntary look which seemed to have a glow of inquiry struck out of iris points. Harding was electrified, and impulsively lifted his hat. She passed him with a half smile, leaving a breath of violets and the rustle of a gown quietly elegant in the air round her.

Harding and his young creole friend set out on foot, it was but a short step to the opera house, and as they went along Rapin was prattling on the subject of fencing, always a great vogue with the jeunesse doree of New Orleans. He was himself a rich orphan, living upon an almost unlimited income, and had long been a confirmed habitue of the fencing halls. Having seen some rapiers and foils in Harding's rooms he was saying:

"But you must be interested in sword play—in fencing. It is the noblest of all the exercises for gentlemen, and your physique is precisely made up for it. You must be a master, or you could be."

"I have had good masters," Harding replied in an evasive tone, "but I am losing interest in it."

"Your masters were in New York?"

"No; Paris. I had M. Duval for three years."

"M. Duval! You had M. Charles Duval for three years?"

"Yes."

"Ah, what fortune! He, and he only, teaches the 'stroke of ruin,' the pass which pierces across from shoulder to shoulder, disabling the victim for life, yet never killing him!" Rapin spoke enthusiastically, and after a moment's pause added almost breathlessly:

"And you learned his stroke! Oh, but I am overjoyed: and you will teach me to do it? Ah, Monsieur, I shall be your life long debtor. I have dreamed of that incomparable thrust; I have made two journeys to Paris to learn it; but, you must know, M. Duval is an ancient enemy of my father's. I could not go to him, and his pupils are so few and so, so distinguished and exclusive that I could not reach one of them."

Harding laughed at the youth's frankness and told him pleasantly that he should be glad to give him the secret instruction. Thereupon Rapin almost hugged him, and they were just entering the opera house.

Harding and Rapin were the only persons in their box, which was well to one side of the great curve. On the stage a celebrated ballet favorite was kicking neatly through one of her captivating passages.

"We will begin the lessons to-morrow," murmured Rapin; "I shall be an apt scholar, Monsieur."

"Yes," said Harding, absently. He was gazing along the great sweep of beauty and light.

"But excuse me a moment or two," the creole added after a while when the curtain was down. "I am going to call at the box of a friend."

He went and Harding continued his survey, which, now that his eyes had somewhat accustomed themselves to the glamour, became more real and absorbingly interesting.

Presently he saw Rapin in a box, a magnificent one, near the center, talking with a tall young woman—and it was she. There could be no doubt for a moment; the thrill through Harding's heart told as much as the girl's resplendent, yet, in a way, subdued beauty.

Harding's eyes were fixed; the trance of that old time love which men used to [illegible] was upon him. His strong, healthy, boyish nature plunged into the thick of a passion romance as fervid as it was pure and sincere. And at the very central moment she turned from Rapin and looked straight at him. Moreover, he could see a light of quick interest come into her face. They were speaking of him.

The prosy fact was that Rapin, in his enthusiastic way, had been telling Mlle. Marie de Montmartin—that was her name—about his good fortune in finding a master to teach him the "stroke of ruin," and he had directed her attention to the young man in his box. But, for Mlle. Marie de Montmartin, we may as well say that she glanced mechanically, then looked again. Harding was a superbly handsome young athlete, a flower of perfect manhood, with a face never to be forgotten by any woman.

Rapin presently returned to the box, bringing with him, or at least Harding fancied it, a breath of that exquisite violet perfume which had been haunting Harding's memory for days and nights together.

"Who is she—the young lady in the box where you've been?"

The abrupt inquiry and a certain timbre of Harding's voice betrayed his emotion to the quick creole.

"Oh, she—that is Mlle. Marie de Montmartin. Lovely, isn't she? You might envy me, M. Harding. She is my betrothed."

"Ah——," Harding hesitated and a palish change passed over his face, like a fleece cloud over some glorified space of sky. Then he added, "I do envy you. Yes, she is the most beautiful girl that I have ever seen. She is the one I met in the old book store. You are quick to find."

Rapin colored.

"Thank you," he said as the curtain went up and the prima donna strode forth with a superb swing.

The next day Rapin came to Harding's rooms for his initial lesson; but the young man begged a postponement; he was not feeling in good form, he said, and was averse to exercise.

And now Harding's powerful letters of introduction came into play. The only son of Gen. Stanhope Harding had the key to open even the exclusive gate of the mansion wherein the ancient family traditions of Montmartin were kept in an atmosphere of their own. Here the young man found Mlle. Marie even more fascinating than his imagination had pictured her.

We must acquit him; he did not deliberately seek to gain her affections; indeed, there was no need to seek; she claimed him at sight, and the way was love's sweetest path. Rapin was forgotten as a merely conventional lover must always be when the true one comes rushing in all aglow and all powerful.

Marie's parents were delighted. There was no obstacle, religious or other, and an alliance with the Harding family was something to be proud of. So, in due course of time, the engagement was announced and the wedding day approached.

Harding had been sent to New York; he returned late in November, radiant with happy aspirations, and took rooms as before, but now in the St. Charles. He brought some friends with him, and his parents would be coming a little later.

I have said that a lover is a fool. His vanity, moreover, cannot be overestimated, and the selfishness of his passion plays him small yet irresistible tricks. Harding had a desire to go again to the old book store of Garcia, on Royal street, and have his first meeting with Marie over once more in his imagination. He slipped away from the hotel furtively and with a foolish stir in his blood.

When we go to seek an illusion we are pretty sure to find a reality. It is not the scheme of nature to humor us in luxuries. At Garcia's door Harding came abruptly face to face with Francois Rapin, whom he had not seen since the announcement of the coming nuptials. Somehow it was a surprise, but Rapin's face showed a quick smile.

Harding stopped short in his tracks, and would have probably put forth his hand in a friendly offer of salutation; but just then his hat was lightly tapped from his head by Rapin, who immediately picked it up and handed it to him, saying:

"Monsieur Harding will now remember his promise to teach me the mysterious stroke of M. Duval."

He bowed low and was gone, while a card fluttered down at Harding's feet; it bore Rapin's address.

At first Harding's heat of temper was great, but reflection led him to consult his friends, who ridiculed the thought of a duel. He was glad to escape, for, although a born fighter, this was no time to be risking his life or to be killing a man.

He had, however, consulted but one side of that advisory board which always exists in such cases. His Northern friends were unanimously opposed to the duels, but now he must be frank and lay the matter before his fiance's family.

"You must fight him, sir," said Montmartin.

"Of course there is but one way open to a gentleman," sighed Marie, "you must challenge him."

They met at sunrise under the "oaks" so well known to dueling history. Merrily clinked their rapiers for honor's sake, and Marie's. That was but about forty years ago: and yet what a distance!

Yesterday a white haired man whose shoulders drooped strangely and whose two arms dangled half paralyzed beside him walked down Royal street.

"That is Francois Rapin," said a creole to some friends. "He got that wound in the celebrated duel with Harding."

Polyglot Tom Reed.

If by any lucky stroke of fortune Tom Reed should happen to become President of the United States he will probably be the first accomplished linguist to occupy that office. Mr. Reed is passionately fond of the study of languages. Some years ago he took up French, and during the Fifty-first Congress, while acting as czar of the House of Representatives and passing through parliamentary storms of cyclonic severity, found time three days a week to go to a school of languages for his lesson in French. Later he took up Italian, and is now able to converse fluently in that language. At the present time he is studying Spanish, and if the movement to annex Cuba to the United States should succeed during Mr. Reed's hoped for regime he will have in his command of this tongue a convenient accomplishment.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Dyrenforth Outdone.

During the Moody meetings at Fort Worth, Tex., a violent wind and rain storm arose, and suddenly a large section of the east side of the Auditorium roof was blown off, creating a panic. Just prior to the storm Mr. Moody offered a prayer for rain.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Necessarily a Bad Risk.

Insurance Officer—Of what complaint did your father die?

Applicant—The jury found him guilty. —Tid-Bits.

FERRIS' GOOD SENSE Corset Waists

Quality, Workmanship, and Shapes, unequaled.

Over A MILLION Mothers, Misses, and Children, wear them.

Modern ideas of healthful dress are perfected in this Corset Waist. For sale by all leading retailers. Children's, 25c. to 75c. Misses', 50c. to $1.00. Ladies', $1.00 to $2.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A. Q. Fine has moved from Watchung avenue to South Second street.

The engagement is announced of Miss Reinhart and E. M. Van Buren.

The wedding of Miss Katheryn Yates to Harry Borden is set for June 5.

Wm. D. Thickstun of North avenue is in Asbury Park for a few days, on business.

A. A. Marsh of Marsh, Ayers & Co., has been detained at home by illness since Friday.

Little Edith Van Winkle is considerably improved, and her father has returned to work.

Miss Clara Appoldt of Union Hill has been visiting Mrs. M. Gottheil on Arlington avenue.

Andrew Wilson and family moved Saturday from Arlington avenue to West Fourth street.

Russell Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Miller of Orchard place, is a sufferer from croup.

Miss Palmer and daughter of Brooklyn are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haynes on North avenue.

Miss Margaret Kirch returned home Saturday after spending two weeks with friends in New Brunswick.

Mr. Fenner of Washington Valley spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. Charles L. Force of Pearl street.

Mrs. William G. Wright of West Eighth street has issued "at home" cards for Friday, May 17, from 4 to 7.

